Parmer, Bailey Counties Have New District Court Reporter

Dianna L. Coleman has been hired as District Court Reporter for Parmer and Bailey Counties, according to a letter from District Judge Jack Young. The letter was read at the Commissioners Court meeting Monday morning. In the letter Judge Young stated that he had set her salary initially at $24,000.00 per year. "Using the 1980, Census figures, the last official census, which shows Bailey County population at 8,168 and Parmer County population at 11,038, a total population of the 287th Judicial District at 19,206.

Bailey County has 43 percent of the population to Parmer County's 57 percent. Dividing the salary by population, as has been done in the past, assigns Bailey County $10,320.00 and Parmer County $13,680.00.

Rick Hair with Map Resource, Inc., met with the court to present the initial re-districting evaluation. The commissioners voted to re-district for election due to the fact that proportion of voters in each commissioner precinct are out of balance. There is a deviation of 55.95 percent between the largest and smallest precincts.

To comply with one man, one vote, the objectives of the re-districting are: No. 1: Total maximum deviation should be no more than 10 percent. No. 2: Avoid dilution of the hispanic voting strength, specifically the percentage of hispanic voters to Commissioner Precinct No. 4, should be maintained at no less than 65 percent. No. 3: Change the precinct boundaries as little as possible to avoid confusion as to boundary lines.

In other business Bailey County Judge Marilyn Cox was authorized to advertise a Commercial Driver's License School to be held on Aug. 22 and 23, which will be open to the public for the fee charged by TSTI.

The commissioners also voted to pay the fees for the precinct road workers in Bailey County to take the commercial drivers license school.

Judge Cox was also authorized to advertise that a budget hearing will be held on Monday, Sept. 9, on the FY 1992 county budget, at which time the 1991 tax rates will be set and budget approved.

The commissioners canvassed the returns of the special election held on Aug. 10.

Area Crops Need Hot Days And Warm Nights

Rain showers in the Muleshoe area this past week have improved crop conditions as well as the spirits of local farmers. Rain reports that ranged from eight tenths of an inch to three inches tended to be more spotted in the southern part of the county.

"At the present time most of the wells have been turned off, due to rain and in most instances there is ample moisture to finish the crops," said Curtis Preston Bailey County Extension Agent. "Irrigation of corn has usually stopped by August 15. More rain could cause the cotton to start gouting and cause it to stop maturing."

"Some of the crops in the southern part of the county could use a little more moisture," said Preston. "The crops don't need the cool weather that accompanied the rain, they need some 90 degree days and 70 degree nights."

"At the present time cotton heat units are approximately 40 units behind long term averages; however the months of August and September can easily make up the difference," he continued.

Aphids and bollworms are increasing in area cotton fields. Extension entomologists are not recommending treatments for the aphids due to very poor control this year. "Corn and soybeans are progressing well, benefiting from the recent moisture. Most area corn fields are in the full dent stage," Preston added.

"Area grain sorghum benefited greatly from the recent rainfall. Greenbugs continue to increase in sorghum fields as sorghum begins to head. Now is the time to scout for headworms."

Public Encouraged

Watch For Big

Yellow Buses

Buck Johnson, assistant superintendent of the Muleshoe Independent School District, would like to caution everyone relative to safety measures to protect children riding school buses and also children walking to school.

"All drivers of school buses have completed a 20 hour refresher course taught by David Gray, a high school instructor, therefore the drivers are certified by the Texas Education Agency," Johnson said.

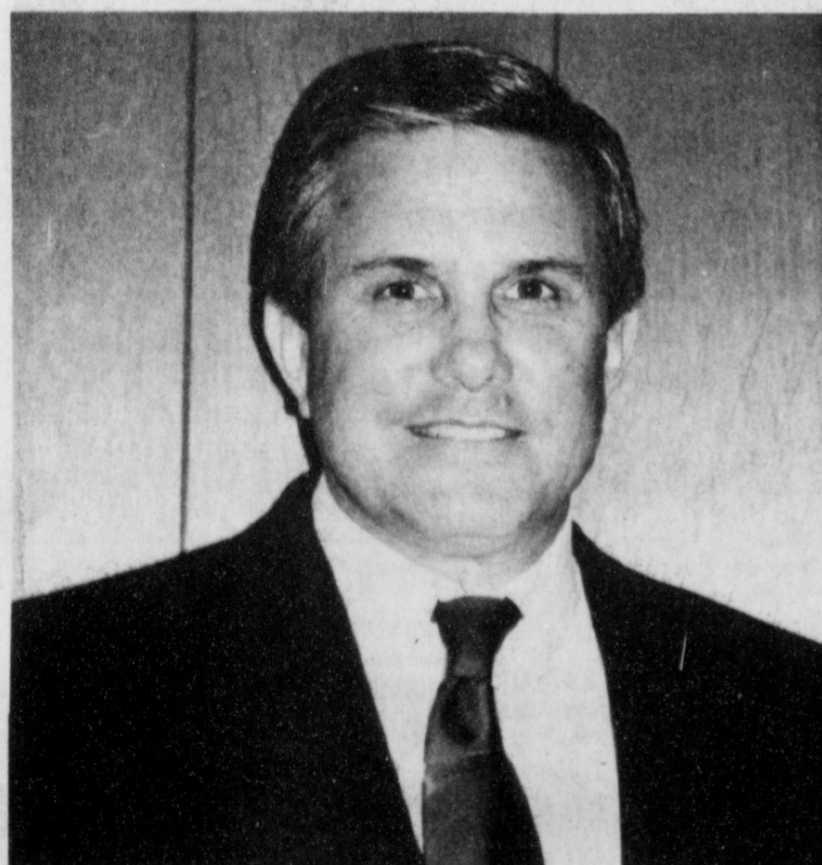

All drivers are urged to obey speed limits, especially in the school zones, the limit is 15 miles per hour" Johnson continued. "Drivers should stop completely for unloading students when red flashing lights on the bus are in operation. Drivers should watch out for small children on their way to and from school.

"Make complete stops, especially where crosswalks are painted. Drive as if your child were a pedestrian or a school bus rider. Parents should have their children at the assigned pick-up points on time or a little ahead of time.

"Parents of Dillman Elementary students need to help supervise your children at loading or unloading zones and at your pick-up or drop-off points. Please don't let these children cross the highway by themselves," Johnson said.

"Please do not park in loading zones at Dillman Elementary, Mary DeShazo Elementary, high school and Watson Junior High Schools. Traffic

Senator Phil Gramm Reports

The Senate has organized a special committee to conduct a congressional investigation into whether American servicemen are still being held captive in Southeast Asia, reports Sen. Phil Gramm.

A measure creating the panel was approved this month on a voice vote. It was authored by Sen. Robert Smith of New Hampshire and co-sponsored by Gramm.

Gramm also noted that the Bush Administration is considering the appointment of a separate commission to, as President Bush said, "run down every lead."

More than 2,200 U.S. service personnel who were classified as missing are still unaccounted for even now, almost 18 years after the war ended for America.

News From American College Of Radiology

The Mobile Breast Detection Unit of Odessa, Texas, which services Muleshoe, Texas today received the certification of the American College of Radiology Mammography Accreditation Program.

Mammography is an x-ray examination of the breast, which the American Cancer Society and other medical experts see as the best means for the early detection of breast cancer.

The program is voluntary and is designed to insure that women receive optimum quality mammographic examinations. The process is done through a peer review evaluation of the facility's staff qualifications, equipment, quality control and quality assurance programs, image quality, and breast dose. The accreditation must be renewed every three years.

The accreditation program was instituted because of the concerns of radiologists, other national medical organizations, and the public that qualified personnel perform and interpret mammograms and that dedicated mammographic equipment be used. The American College of Radiology received an American Cancer Society Control Grant which was used to pilot test the Accreditation Program.

Breast cancer will strike one in 10 American women. The American Cancer Society predicts that about 41,000 women will die of breast cancer this year. As there is no way to prevent the disease, early detection and treatment offer the greatest hope for survival.

The American Cancer Society recommends that women do monthly breast self-exams and have regular physical breast exams by a doctor. It further recommends mammography on the following schedule:

A baseline mammogram (for reference) between age 35 and 39.

A mammogram every one or two years between age 40 and 49.

An annual mammogram from age 50.

The Breast Cancer Detection Unit will be in Muleshoe, Texas on Monday, August 26th. You may call 272-4524 for an appointment.

Mobile Breast Cancer Detection Unit To Be Here August 26th

According to the American Cancer Society, one out of every ten women in the United States will develop breast cancer sometime during her lifetime. Every year over 37,000 women die as a result of breast cancer.

According to a spokesman from the Regional Breast Care Center at Women's & Children's Hospital in Odessa, Texas "The death rate from breast cancer could be drastically reduced if women would have mammograms done before a problem exists." By using modern state of the art x-ray equipment breast cancers can be found when they are about the size of a grain of rice and well before the cancer can be felt.

A woman who is diagnosed with breast cancer at this early state has a 90%-97% survival rate. However, a woman who is not diagnosed until a lump can be felt has approximately a 50% survival rate in five years.

In an effort to find cancers at the earliest possible stage and prevent unnecessary deaths, a Mobile Breast Detection Unit will be made available to local women, on Monday, August 26th.

The Mobile Unit will be parked at Muleshoe Area Medical Center, 708 South 1st, Muleshoe, Tx. Appointments may be made by calling 272-4524.

For more information you may call the Regional Breast Care Center at Women's & Children's Hospital at (915) 334-8888/561-9999.

Dorothy Bowers Named Artist Of The Month

Dorothy Bowers is artist of the month this month. She started painting in 1938 and at that time worked exclusively with pastels.

When asked her advice to other painters who may just be starting to work, Bowers said: "Look for a good teacher."

Bowers began to paint when she was taking instruction from the late Cecil Foster of Sudan. She has also taken lessons from Dr. Caballero.

"I get a great deal of pleasure from painting," says Bowers. She likes to do China painting better than pictures. Bowers has painted several sets of dishes as gifts.

"The only problem I have is that I can't find time to paint often enough," says Bowers. "I

Sudan Band Wins Contest

The tape of the Sudan High School Band's contest performance that was submitted to the Texas Music Educators Association Honor Band Contest placed 5th in the state recently in San Antonio. The band was in competition with other Class A bands from across the state for the opportunity to be named the T.M.E.A. Honor Band. The winner is invited to perform a concert at the T.M.E.A. convention in San Antonio in February.

Bruce and Kay Kenner, S.H.S. band directors, attended the contest in San Antonio on July 28 and heard all the tapes entered. Mr. Kenner commented that although he thought the Sudan tape should have come in higher than it did, he was still thrilled with the accomplishments the band has reached this year. "This band won the state marching championship, sweepstakes, the AA Best in Class award at Six Flags, and now 5th in state in the honor Band contest. We should all be very proud of these kids and the things they have achieved".

Miss Pearson, Neil Kron Repeat Marriage Vows

Miss Angel Dawn Pearson became the bride of Neil L. Kron in a candlelight ceremony Saturday July 6 at 7 p.m. in The First Baptist Church. Pastor James Williams of Snyder read the double ring vows.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. J.C. Pearson, Jr. of Muleshoe and Mr. and Mrs. Ken L. Kron of Clovis, N.M. The bride's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. J.C. Pearson, Sr. and Mrs. Ruby Green, all of Muleshoe. The groom's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kron of Mt. Dora, Florida and Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Jesko of Lubbock.

After the grandparents were seated by the ushers, a very special moment was shared by all when the groom entered and escorted the mothers to their seats. The fathers entered together and escorted the mothers to the unity candle to light the parents' candles.

The bridesmaids entered on an elaborately decorated aisle accented with pew markers consisting of a cascade of leather leaf greenery draped from a delicate crystal votive cup and accented with a burgundy bow, teal hearts and streamers to the musical selection "Unchained Melody". The matron of honor was Tanya Williamson of Fort Drum, New York, cousin of the bride. The bridesmaids were Tonya Ruthardt and Holly Huckaby, both of Muleshoe. The flower girl was Trista Green, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Green of Muleshoe, and cousin of the bride. The attendants were attired in street length, long sleeved dresses of debutante fabric with a long elegant peplum skirt attached.

The matron of honor and flower girl wore burgundy dresses accented with teal lined peplum and the bridesmaids wore teal dresses accented with burgundy lined peplum. All dresses were made by the bride's Grandmother Green. The attendants carried a burgundy satin wrapped heart with a crescent shape of burgundy and teal roses, accented with teal ginger and burgundy, crystal spray. The flower girl dropped petals from a heart shaped wire, tuelle and lace trimmed basket, hand designed by the bride's parents.

The bride descended the elegantly dressed staircase to the groom's song, "Forever is as Far as I'll Go." After the traditional bridal march and being given in marriage by her father, the bride's song "My Only Love" was presented. The bride was adorned in an elegant gown of ivory satin.

The traditionally styled gown featured sheer yoke with a wedding band collar embellished with pearls and sequins. The fitted princess bodice was decorated with schiffli lace adorned with pearls and sequins. The full length sleeves added a definite touch of romance to the gown.

The basque waistline allowed the full ballgown skirt to float gracefully to the floor and sweep into a cathedral train. The double layered finger-tip veil with blusher was accented by the sequin and pearl headpiece. The bride carried satin wrapped double hearts embellished with a crescent shape of burgundy and ivory roses accented with teal ginger. Ivory crystal spray with an array of iridescent pearls gave highlights to the bouquet while a touch of teal, burgundy and a delicate ivory lace and morie ribbon complimented its elegance.

Vows were exchanged before an elaborate grouping of brass candelabras consisting of a large heart-shaped arch and two spirals, all lavishly decorated with maple ivy and accented with large burgundy bows. Palm trees, scallops of wedding garland, with candlelight love doves and burgundy bows completed the grouping. The song "You and I" preceded the exchange of rings.

The bi-unal unity candle (two flames becoming one) was lit to the song "Battle Hymn of Love." The unity candle was displayed on a brass pedestal unity stand, which bore a cascade of greenery, a burgundy bow, with highlights of teal hearts and the parents' candles.

To carry out the wedding tradition of "something old," the bride wore a pin from her Grandmother Pearson. For "something borrowed," she carried an Eastern Star Bible from her Grandmother Green which her mother also carried in her wedding. "Something blue" was the traditional blue garter. She also wore a second garter containing a "lucky sixpence." She wore pennies in her satin slippers minted in the bride and groom's birth years. Her gown was "something new."

Paul Hill of Albuquerque served as best man. Groomsmen were Trent Trollinger and Glenn Reeves, both of Clovis. Ring bearer was Niclas Green, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Green of Muleshoe and cousin of the bride.

The groom wore a black tuxedo with black vest. The groomsmen and ring bearer wore black tuxedos with black ties and cummerbunds.

Ushers were Tommy Green of Muleshoe, uncle of the bride and Wayne Jesko of Clovis, cousin of the groom. They were attired in black tuxedos with burgundy ties and cummerbunds.

Candlelighters were Tammy Jesko and Mark Harvey, both of Clovis, cousins of the groom. She was attired in a teal dress carrying out the bride's chosen colors and he wore a black tuxedo with a teal tie and cummerbund.

Guests were registered by Kourtnee Magby of Muleshoe. The registration table was covered with a white lace cloth. Highlighting the table was a memory candle, made for the couple by Linda Nowell, aunt of the bride. It bore their wedding invitation. The burgundy plume pen base displayed a bride and groom figurine. The foyer displayed an arrangement of votive candles surrounding a picture of the couple.

An arrangement of burgundy magnolias, teal ginger and burgundy crystal spray, a large heart with iridescent accents was displayed on a tall brass stand introducing the heart theme.

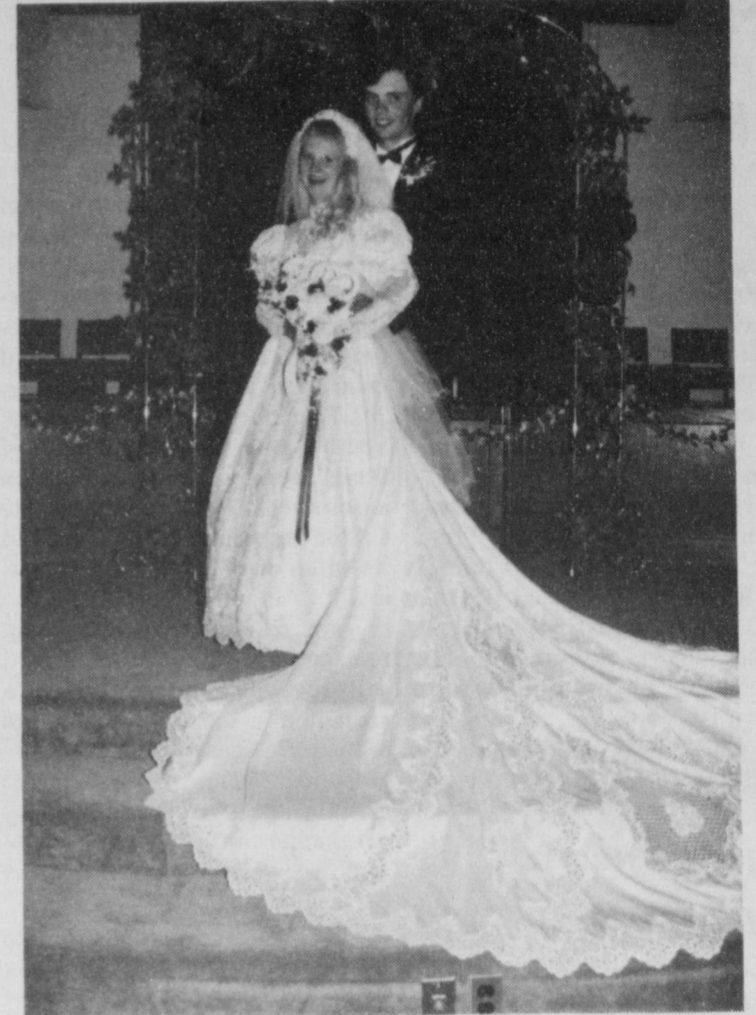

The musical selections were played and sung by Roxanne and Donnye Richardson of Morton, Texas. Libby Black of Muleshoe designed the wedding.

The reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church. Members of the house party were Linda Nowell, aunt of the bride, Judy Moore of Muleshoe and Linda Osteen of Dallas.

The bride's table was covered with a white satin cloth with a white lace overlay. The centerpiece was the cake, which consisted of a fountain surrounded with baby's breath and greenery and a large cake atop corinthian pillars. A second heart shaped cake was attached with a staircase. The cake top was designed by the bride.

The groom's father hand-crafted two interlocking hearts which bore the bride and groom's names in her chosen colors, porcelain figurines stood in front of the hearts. The bride and groom used a glass cake knife that is an heirloom from the groom's mother's family. Burgundy punch was served from crystal appointments. A backdrop of lattice, tuelle and flowers in the bride's colors accented the tables. Servers on the bride's table were Felicia Green, aunt of the bride, Marsha Wilson of Muleshoe and Gayla Rhodes of Plainview.

The groom's table was covered with an antique satin cloth. Coffee was served from a brass coffee service along with a German chocolate cake, cheese balls and crackers. Attending the groom's table were Carol Harvey, aunt of the groom and

MRS. NEIL KRON
(nee Angel Pearson)

Marli Jesko, cousin of the groom.

Following a short wedding trip, the couple will make their home in Clovis. The bride is a 1990 graduate of Muleshoe High School and will continue her education at Clovis Community College. The groom is a 1990 graduate of Clovis High School and is employed in Clovis.

Immediately following the rehearsal on July 5, members of the wedding party traveled to Clovis to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Kron for an elegant buffet dinner.

USDA Announces Passage

Of Cotton Referendum

The United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) today officially announced the passage of the Cotton Research and Promotion Referendum.

Passage of the referendum will amend the Cotton Research and Promotion Program allowing the assessment of imported raw cotton and the cotton content of imported textiles and apparel, and eliminate the current refund provision. Producer refunds will end thirty days following the official USDA notice dated August 2. Collection of import assessments is expected to begin around the end of this calendar year. "The successful outcome of the referendum clearly demonstrates U.S. cotton producers' confidence in the Cotton Research and Promotion Program," says Cotton Board chairman William H. McCoy, Jr., producer from Oswego, South Carolina. "The increased funds derived from a uniform assessment will now enable Cotton Incorporated to expand its vital market building-activities."

As a result of the successful referendum, the Cotton Board will recommend to USDA a reduction in the assessment rate to be effective for the 1992-93 crop year. Due to the amount of time necessary to implement a change in the assessment rate, a lower level will not affect the 1991 crop.

The current assessment rate is one dollar per bale plus six tenths of one percent of the value. The Cotton Board will determine the recommended rate change at its annual meeting in September.

Sixty percent of the U.S. cotton growers and importers voted in favor of the amendments addressed by the referendum.

Researchers Study Carbon Dioxide Use

It may not be as thrilling as those annual summer movies about time travel, but an agricultural research effort to go "back to the future" may help some view atmospheric changes differently.

A team of researchers at the Blackland Research Center/Grassland Soil and Water Research Laboratory has put together a tunnel that simulates variances in atmospheric carbon dioxide levels over the years. The work indicates that rising carbon dioxide levels could benefit man in some ways by helping many crops and other vegetation grow better and use less water.

Moreover, because carbon dioxide levels have gone up and down over the ages, the experiment should contribute much to scientific understanding of how climatic change impacts vegetation, said Dr. Hyrum Johnson, a plant ecologist at the center.

"We'd like to continue to analyze what has already happened in the past," he said. "What the future is going to hold should have already happened."

Johnson and the leader of the carbon dioxide project, Dr. Herman Hayeux, are U.S. Department of Agriculture scientists. The USDA and Texas Agricultural Experiment Station share facilities and cooperate on projects at the Blackland/Grassland center.

Experiment station researchers hope to use information from the studies in their own computer models. Such models help determine possible outcomes of agricultural activities.

At the tunnel's entrance, the carbon dioxide level is about 350 parts per million, the level of carbon dioxide contained in the atmosphere today. At the end of the tunnel, it is approximately 200 parts per million, or roughly the same as the atmosphere at the end of the last ice age, some 10,000 years ago.

Experiments focus, however, on the last 200 years or so, because "that's the period on which we've got some good records on vegetation," Johnson said.

One of the problems the team is looking at is greater proliferation of brush in the Southwest and whether the carbon dioxide increase contributes to that.

The tunnel, formed by a tube of plastic sheeting covering a raised platform, snakes back and forth through an experiment station greenhouse.

A computer-controlled ventilation system keeps air moving through the tube. Sensors monitor the amount of light, air moisture, and air composition in the tunnel. Soil moisture is also monitored manually at specified intervals.

As plants take in available carbon dioxide and expire oxygen, the CO2 level becomes gradually lower from beginning to end of the enclosed environment.

Johnson said researchers have found the tunnel has had several interesting impacts on vegetation since it was built in 1988.

For one, they found that wheat grows better in today's atmosphere than it did in the air of past decades. They planted Yaqui 54 wheat in the tunnel in 1991 and found that is produced more grain in higher levels of carbon dioxide.

Another interesting finding resulted from an "accidental experiment," Johnson said.

When the tunnel was first tested, researchers simply let its soil produce whatever it could. That soil came from savanna near the center, and 44 species of vegetation sprang from it.

At the tunnel's front end, more plants that scientists designate as C3s grew. At the back, more C4s grew. Given what scientists already knew about these plant types, the growth differences weren't surprising, but the researchers were pleased to find that their accidental experiment confirmed some of their hunches, Johnson said.

The C3 and C4 labels refer to the number of carbon atoms the plants use to form acids at a particular state of photosynthesis. C3s photosynthesize most efficiently at higher CO3 levels, while C4s can do so more efficiently than C3s at lower levels.

Researchers are still analyzing two other experiments. Both sought to determine how rangeland vegetation mixes in the Southwest and Midwest might be affected by atmospheric changes, and both involved plants that often compete for soil and water resources.

One experiment involved two C3s--oats and field mustard (a weed common in oat fields). The other centered on mesquite, which is an increasingly prevalent C3 woody shrub, and little bluestem grass, a C4 grass whose presence has diminished.

While C3 plants might grow more efficiently at higher carbon dioxide levels, some C4s also benefit, Johnson said.

For instance, corn probably also grows better, although its photosynthetic process doesn't speed up as much as that of C3s. Other research has shown corn can use water more efficiently at those higher levels, Johnson said.

That's because greater levels of carbon dioxide cause some of corn's stomates to close. Stomates are leaf pores through which carbon dioxide enters and water leaves a plant.

Johnson said it has become clear that the importance of carbon dioxide can only be understood in terms of many other factors, including temperature and precipitation.

He noted that air trapped in polar ice samples has revealed great fluctuations in carbon dioxide levels over the ages--including nearly as high as it is now several times in the past 150,000 years.

With those fluctuations have come environmental changes, such as the development of the American prairies in the last 10,000 years, Johnson said. He said that's why studying vegetation at varying CO2 levels will help scientists understand what could happen in the future.

"The experiment has already been performed, and it's global in nature," he said.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny, the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.
