

Eula Boy Proves Hogs Gain Weight Faser In Clean Quarters

Are pig parlors worthwhile? Clarence Milllorn, told his father, W. E. Milllorn, a Eula farmer they were. His father disagreed, so the youngster set out to prove his point.

Young Clarence became interested in pig parlors when they first came out. He finally talked his father into letting him build one this spring. It is a 22x20 foot affair and will carry a capacity of 35 pigs, according to Charles Sewell, Ralston-Purina representative.

Total cost of the youngster's parlor was $211.90 "The only additional cost from any other pig pen was the concrete," Clarence pointed out. This amounted to around $65.

On April 21, Clarence and his father purchased 16 crossbred pigs from Roy Griffith, who farms east of Abilene. The young man took eight of the pigs and his father took the other half. "We tried to divide them as evenly as possible to obtain best results," Clarence said.

The future farmer divided his parlor into two even sections and placed the eight crossbred pigs on one side. On the other side he placed seven registered Durocs.

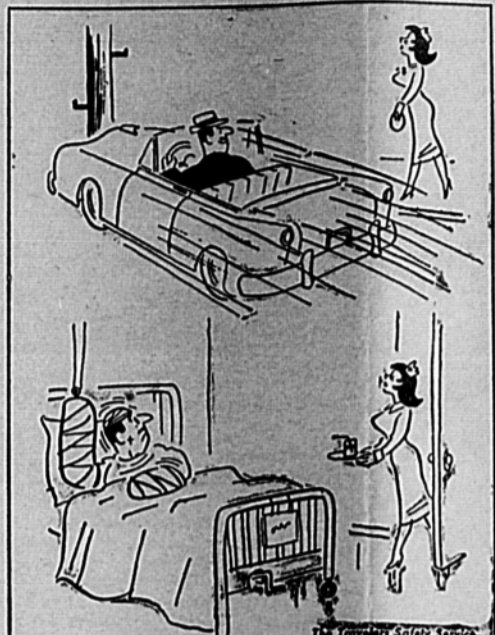

The sixweek old crossbred pigs averaged 25 pounds and the 8 week-old Durocs averaged 55 lbs. when placed in the parlor.

Clarence's father took his cross-bred pigs and also some littermates to the Durocs and put them in a pig pen that he had been using for several years. In these pens the pigs were on the ground while in the parlor they were on concrete.

Both the youngster's and his father's pigs received the same feed, a commercial mixture.

Friday, 59 days after the pigs were put on feed, they were weighed by Clarence and Sewell. The results of this weighing are as follows: The boy's crossbred pigs averaged 99 pounds; his father's crossbred pigs averaged 58 pounds; and Clarence's Durocs weighed 143 pounds on the average as compared to 100 lbs. for his father's Durocs.

Figuring the price of hogs at 22 cents a pound, this would mean a difference of $82.16 on the 8 head of crossbred pigs and $85.22 on the seven head of Durocs.

According to Sewell, probably the pigs would have done just as good on clean ground as they did on the concrete. But after the first two or three batches the concrete begins to pay off, the feed technician added.

"It's purely a matter of sanitation," Sewell explained. With the parlor after one batch has been sold you can come on and wash it off and disinfect it and you have a clean pen, he pointed out. With a ground pen you can not do this, he added.

According to Sewell, a typical pig parlor is 30 feet long and 22 feet wide. This size parlor will accommodate 50 pigs from 60 to 200 pounds, he said. The cost on this size of an operation will run about $390, Sewell estimated.

It is a must to locate parlors in the shade, the Purina representative pointed out. This makes the job of cooling in hot weather easier and more effective, and hog comfort is one of the big advantages, Sewell said.

According to Sewell's figures, the concrete slab should be four inches thick and built with a 1 inch drop per foot from one end to the other for quick drainage. A drainage ditch to carry away wastes should also be provided, he said.

Another farmer in this area making use of pig parlors is Ernest Pitzer, who farms east of Abilene.

Tommy Milllorn, Clarence's brother, is in the process of building a 60-foot parlor, while another Eula farmer, Hilton Tarrant, also plans to build a parlor.

Clarence, supervised by VA teacher Claude Rock, is active in FFA work. Besides his hog projects he also has 13 head of registered Southdown sheep and some crop projects.

He plans to show the sheep at Fredricksburg, Fort Worth, and Abilene next year.

Week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Hinds were Mrs. Hinds' parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Perdue of Cisco, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Strickland and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Black of Fort Worth.

Miss Barbara Snyder spent the week end with Mary Ross at SMU.

Safety Council Warns Of July 4th Dangers

A fifth can be deadly on the Fourth -- and even two cocktails are dangerous if you drive within three hours after drinking them.

Fourth of July celebrants were given that reminder today by the National Safety Council, which points out that the average person needs at least three hours to eliminate the alcohol in two cocktails.

Social drinkers are a greater menace than commonly believed, the Council said. They greatly outnumber the obviously intoxicated driver. And Council studies show the drinking, but not necessarily drunk, driver is a big factor in holiday traffic tolls.

Alcohol, even in small quantities, impairs the critical judgment needed by drivers, these studies show. And two cocktails may reduce vision as much as wearing dark sun glasses at night. What's more, coffee does not offset the effect. Only time can eliminate alcohol from the blood stream.

The throttle and the bottle are the arch villains in the nation's holiday traffic death toll, the Council said.

An analysis of highway fatalities during both summer and winter holidays showed that about half of the drivers involved in fatal accidents had been drinking. And speed was a factor in more than 7 out of 10 fatal holiday traffic accidents.

Forty-five million motor vehicles are expected to be on the nation's roads over the three-day Fourth of July holiday -- so drivers will need to be especially alert and responsive if they are to avoid trouble, the Council said. "If drivers avoid drinking and speeding the highways will be much safer for themselves and others."

IT'S THE LAW In Texas...

"With All My Worldly Goods..." June is traditionally the month for weddings, and many couples will be taking marriage vows within the next few weeks. A certain symbolic transfer of "worldly goods" is often associated with the wedding ceremony, but under Texas law the act of marrying another does not give you the right to take control of his property.

Generally speaking, each spouse has the right to control and dispose of his or her own separate property. The separate property of a husband or wife includes property owned by either before marriage, and that which is acquired by either after marriage by gift or inheritance. Any other property acquired after marriage is presumed by law to be community property until the contrary is clearly proved.

Aside from the ordinary community estate, there is a class of property known as the wife's "special community," which includes all the income from her separate real property, and probably the interest on bonds or notes, and dividends on stocks owned in her separate right. While the husband may have similar assets, the law accords them no particular distinction from ordinary community property.

Although the history of the matter is somewhat confusing, it appears that under present day law the husband has control of ordinary community property; but control of the wife's special community property is reserved to her.

Certain restrictions are imposed upon both husband and wife in exercising such control. For instance, the husband cannot legally dispose of community property in such a way as to defraud the wife, nor can he sell the homestead without her signature and acknowledgment. And the wife's sale or mortgage of her separate real estate, stocks or bonds is not valid unless her husband joins with her in the transaction -- he must sign and execute the necessary legal papers along with her.

There are laws exempting the wife's separate and special community property from liability for debts incurred by the husband. Such liability is restricted to his separate property and the ordinary community property.

On the other hand, debts incurred by the wife in obtaining necessities for herself or their children bind all property belonging to either party, including the husband's separate property. For other debts which she has power to incur, only her separate and special community property are liable.

All of these distinctions emphasize the advisability of keeping proper records. By doing so the various classes of community and separate property owned by a married couple will always be easily distinguishable. Each category will then receive the special protection afforded to it by our laws.

MOMENT OF DECISION—A seemingly endless sea of dream cars, designed and built by boys from all 48 states, await judging in Detroit where professional auto designers and industrial arts instructors are determining winners in the 1958 Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild model car competition. Mrs. G. W. Grantham, Sr., of Premont will be visiting a few weeks with her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Polndexter.

Mrs. Jim Swor and son, Glen, attended the funeral Monday for her brother, Bill Head, who passed away Saturday morning at his home in Abilene.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Floyd attended the bar-b-cue last Sunday honoring their life long friend, Warnie May, who will be celebrating his 78th birthday on Tuesday of this week. The bar-b-cue was hosted by his sons, Alton, Waldon, Slick and Jack; also a daughter, Mintha, of the home. Two sons, Cotton and Mutt were unable to attend on account of business.

Week end visitors with Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Miller were their daughter and children, Mrs. Lois Humphries, Patsy, Judy and Tommie of Abilene, a granddaughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. White and son, Billy, of Midland, and a nephew and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Donald of Abilene.

The best news of the week was to hear that Mr. Ed Kirkendoll of Lawn had been dismissed from the hospital and was back home feeling some better. Oplin friends visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Kirkendoll last Sunday afternoon were Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Turner and Mrs. M. C. Miller.

Donald Mack Polndexter was all eyes and bubbling over with enthusiasm last Sunday when he told me he had a sixth birthday and Mrs. Mollie Johnson baked him the biggest birthday cake! (Now this is just another example of what a sweet, thoughtful person like Mollie will do, and at the same time pays another tribute to Oplin, for Donald Mack's mother, Mrs. Dave Polndexter, has been confined to bed for the past few weeks and was unable to bake the expected cake for the six year old.)

Week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Smith were Mrs. Smith's father, A. D. Purvis, and her sister, Mrs. J. H. King of Ft. Worth. They attended the Clark reunion at Cisco.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Brice Jones took their granddaughter, Mary Jane Jones, home to Ft. Worth last week end. They spent the week end visiting Mr. Jones' brother, Joe E. Jones, and family in Dallas.

"Where Quality Makes The Difference"

OUTDOORS-In Texas

By Vern Sanford

Right now bass fishermen are winding up the top-water season.

This is the type of fishing we dream of. Unfortunately, however, too few of us get out often enough to enjoy it to the fullest. There is a lot of luck to bass fishing. A lot of science too! The secret of success is in using the right plug in the right place. True, there are times when an old bass will hit on anything. But, there are other times when it seems he will hit on nothing. Did you say that usually is the time you go fishing? I feel the same way too -- and far too often.

While many fish are caught for some reason or another, the man who comes in with a good stringer of big fish usually does it because he knew what he was doing.

A good example of that occurred recently when a group of fishing tackle salesmen beat the brush in Lake Whitney. They came up with more five pound bass in one afternoon than any of the old timers who were there, ever remembered seeing in any one day.

Naturally these salesmen were experts in casting. However, they also knew how to study the lay of the land. It couldn't be said that any one plug was better than another, because each rep was using his own particular brand, and all paid off. The two fishermen who came in for the top prizes were Dave Hawk of Corpus Christi and Ray Bellinger of San Antonio. Dave makes Pico lures and Ray sells Silaflex rods and Langley reels.

Both are wonders in the use of rod and reel. So were all the other reps. But the big payoff came for this team because they picked out places that were natural for bass.

They not only worked the points and the pockets. They worked water where it was evident that a fault line lay beneath. For instance, if a rock ledge protrudes into the water, study its range. If there is a known drop-off beneath the surface, fish parallel to this reef, not across it. In that way you will attract the big bass on the deep side, as well as the yearlings that might be playing near the surface.

If there is a little drainage cut entering the lake, where water from the countryside flows in to make a sandbar, that usually is a good place, too. Food particles enter the lakes at such places. Small fish feed on this plankton. Big fish feed on the little ones.

Some people fish with top water lures almost all the time. They get fish. It is known that a bass will dash 20 feet to take a lure if he wants it.

Top-water fishing follows the same general pattern, even though a good top-water fisherman works according to his own experience.

For the beginner, top water fishing is much easier. He can watch his plug work. He is less likely to get hung and lose a plug, and he can have plenty of fun when a bass hits.

Working along the shoreline the man in the back of the boat takes the close-in water; the man in the front of the boat reaches out. The front man, however (always should be careful not to disturb all the waters which will affect the fishing of the man in the back of the boat.

Pick your shots. Lay your plug in where is likely to be a bass. Twitch it, jerk it or chug it, according to the make of lure you are using. Wind in a couple of times, and then do it again.

Sometimes when you are fishing in brush waters, or in moss pockets, it pays to leave your plug where it falls, for 30 seconds or more. Give it a slight twitch occasionally. Some bass finally get curious.

In brush fishing, you'll hang your plug many times. But you'll also get bass. The fellow who never hangs a plug doesn't usually get the most bass.

You can go on and on about the methods of top water fishing. It is good on quiet, still water, in the early morning or late evening. It is a wonderful way to catch bass around lily pads, moss beds, rocky shorelines, in the brush, or among the tree stumps.

CANE POLE FISHING — Long the favorite system of thousands has been cane pole fishing. It may be the lazy way to catch fish, but it also contributes a great deal to the contentment of many thousands of fishermen.

Go anywhere and you'll find pole fishermen. Usually they are wearing flop hats or blue bonnets. But, it also is pretty certain that there'll be a stringer of mixed fish hanging in the water nearby. Now comes South Bend with a new rod for jig and pan fishing. It is called the Lazy Day. It is a 10-foot telescoping glass rod, with a wooden handle. Some of these rods are equipped with line keepers so that the lines can be wound on the keepers when the rod is closed.

The combination costs more than a cane pole ($7.95 to $11.95) but it also has many worthwhile features to recommend it. For instance a 10-foot rod closes to approximately half its length, and can be carried in the back of an automobile without any trouble.

There's a big day coming for these extension type rods.

A WORD OF CAUTION—Here is a piece of advice that might save you a lot of money before the summer is over. Check your trailers. Most of us run our trailers trip after trip without paying too much attention to them. Then when something happens we are, invariably, a long, long way from home.

Trailer manufacturers make the best piece of equipment they know how. If we take good care of them, they will give us many miles of trouble-free use.

Here are some suggestions from Gator Boat Trailer Co., which are good for any boat trailer: (1) Clean and repack wheels and check bearings; (2) Thoroughly lubricate all moving parts; (3) Remove rust spots and repaint them (4) Check cradle and bunker pads for boat protection; (5) Check coupler carefully. If it is out of line you'll bring home undue wear on your tires; (6) Tighten all bolts and (7) Replace winch rope if it shows signs of fraying.

To these suggestions we might add -- be sure and check your tail light and license number plate. Remember also that your tie-downs must be efficient and capable of holding your boat in place.

Take these precautions and you'll have a minimum of trailer trouble.

Trailing boats is getting to be more of a problem every day, because of inadequate launching facilities and storage areas. Some boat owners are very thoughtless, too. They will put their boats in the water and then leave their trailers in the way of others who want to launch their own boats.

Remember, fellows --- after you launch your boat, remove your trailer. Get it out of the way, so that the next fellow will have plenty of room to turn and launch. It could save you money in the long run as some of us are not too good at this trailer backing . . . and you might get rammed.

Farmers to Have Say In Wheat Marketing

Texas wheat farmers will help make an important decision when they vote June 20 in the national wheat marketing quota referendum, Searcy M. Ferguson, chairman, State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said today.

If at least two-thirds of the growers who vote in the referendum approve quotas for the 1959 crop, Ferguson explained, the 1959 wheat program will include acreage allotments, marketing quotas (with penalties on "excess" wheat) and price supports at a minimum national average of $1.81 per bushel, or 75 percent of parity.

If the quotas are not approved by at least two-thirds of those voting, there will be no marketing quotas or penalties, but allotments will remain in effect as a means of determining eligibility for price support. The price-support rate would be about $1.20 per bushel, or 50 percent of parity, as provided by law.

nicest get-well-quick card goes to Cisco this week to Florene Shelmutt under medical treatment in a hospital there — hope this finds her feeling fine, or (better yet) home 'n well.

Baird welcomed home a daughter last week when Sophie Walker Blair returned here from California for a visit with friends and relatives. It was a real treat for us to be included on her busy itinerary and a talk, even a short one, with Mrs. Blair gives our moral a big lift.

Still another visitor in the home town this week was Sally Eastham and it's always nice when that gal comes callin'.

Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Mayfield had mighty nice house guests this week, daughter Frances' youngsters, Ginny and Mary Lynn.

Guess who we saw visiting old Baird? Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bruce and son Bobby. The Bruce family lives in Ajo, Arizona but this is still "home" and friends here surely welcomed them back, even for a short vacation period.

More Baird visitors were the Sam Blacks from Ft. Worth — visiting the Bob Swinsons and others of their family — good to see both of them.

Congratulations to Glenda Beth and Bobby Poe way down in San Marcos — they have a precious baby son and they've named the young man Bobby Roy.

Our gal Friday — Pearlle Blakley made big news this week — a brand new nephew born in an Abilene hospital and she's awfully proud of the little fellow.

One of the prettiest sights in town is the Gilliland yard — the mimosa trees are in glorious bloom and we know Eliska and John love them. We remember too what tender feelings Miss Eliza had for those pink blossomed trees and maybe from some heavenly window she sees them and is glad.

Do you want to know who is a most handsome young man? Coach and Rosemary Jefferies' brown-eyed son is all of that (line forms at the right girls but you'll have to wait about twenty one years.)

And we don't care what Ralph Short's rain gauge said — more 'n any two and a half inches went swirling past our house last week — it was a real gully washer.

Were you watching Dave Garroway's Today program on TV Wednesday morning over NBC? Then you saw Ann Catherine and Janet Ross viewing the show from the huge glass window in the RCA Building. Two more attractive faces we've never seen on television and we wonder if they know just how photogenic they are. The Hugh Ross family is on vacation in the north and eastern part of the United States and will return sometime in July.

All Highway Officers Assigned To Traffic

Major Wilson E. Speir, Regional Commander of Region No. 4, Department of Public Safety announced today that Operation Deathwatch for the three day July 4th Holiday Period will run from 12:01 A. M. July 4th thru 11:59 P. M. July 6th. A total of 25 motorcycles have been predicted for this period.

Major Speir said that all unformed enforcement personnel of the Motor Vehicle Inspection Service, License and Weight Service and Highway Patrol Service of the Department of Public Safety would be assigned traffic duties during this period. All holidays and days off have been cancelled. Patrolmen will operate radar extensively during this holiday period in an effort to reduce the death toll.

Speed and DWI violations will be the primary targets of Patrolmen during this period as these two violations contribute to traffic deaths more than any other violations.

Motorists are urged to cooperate in the reduction effort by observing all traffic laws, drive defensively, don't gamble your life and that of your loved ones on a few seconds you might gain by driving at excessive speeds.

"Let's commemorate the 4th of July in the proper spirit and live for others to come", Speir said.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Stiffler were fishing at Buchanan Dam the first of the week.
