Farmers Union speaks

The administration-backed drive to put a 65% of parity wheat price support program into operation is proceeding, with definite recommendations to that effect expected soon from Sec'y Benson.

The idea is to raise the support rate, in case marketing quotas are voted down, from 50 to 65, and to increase the acreage allotment to the 1934 level.

In order to obtain support loans at 65% of parity, farmers would have to comply with the same acreage allotments in effect last year under 90% supports.

Under existing law, if quotas are voted down, farmers would have to comply with acreage allotments in force this year to obtain supports at 50% of parity.

All other farmers who failed to comply with acreage allotments would get only a free market price for their wheat. Since neither 65 nor 50% of parity supports offers much inducement to farmers to stick to their acreage allotments, the free market price established by wheat sold from uncontrolled acreage probably would not be much different either way.

Only those farmers willing to stick to acreage allotments would benefit from the increase in wheat supports without marketing quotas to 65% of the parity. In operation, the 65% support program would be just about as much a no supports program as the present law's support rate without quotas of 50%.

Sen. Young (R-N.D.) has predicted that wheat will skid to $1.25 a bushel if marketing quotas are rejected.

Benson's strategy is described as follows in the Wall Street Journal: "The secretary has a long reputation for wanting to remove as many controls as possible, so it's quite likely he would welcome a 'no' vote on marketing quotas if Congress would soften the blow a bit by authorizing a 65% of parity price floor and perhaps relax the acreage allotments.

"The reasoning behind the 65% figure is this: Supports at that level would bring wheat prices down to the level of corn, which could result in a big rise in the use of the bread grain for poultry and livestock feeds. . . ."

HOUSE VOTE DUE SOON ON PRICE SUPPORTS
With Congress back in harness after the Easter holiday, the House is headed for a showdown vote on H.R. 12 to repeal the sliding scale and to restore 90% of parity supports.

The Farm Bureau, which will master-mind the sliding scale strategy, is expected to try to hamstring the bill with amendments to secure defeat on the vote for final passage.

The Farm Bureau in its publications has been playing up the support given to the bill by organized labor. Apparently FB strategists believe they can make farmers like the sliding scale by emphasizing that labor organizations are in favor of repealing it.

This reasoning is contradicted by results of a recent poll of Iowa farmers, which showed that a majority favor the right of unions to make collective bargaining contracts which require new employees to pay union dues after they are hired. Even fewer farmers than oppose this collective bargaining right could be expected to turn against farm price supports just because labor is for them.

Labor's only concern is to see to it that farmers get adequate protection for their incomes so as to maintain a healthy farm market for industrial products.

In contrast to this stand, the FB is working contrary to the economic interests of farmers by backing legislation aimed at cutting city wages. The effect of such legislation hurts farmers by cutting the purchasing power of the farmers' most important market—the wage-earners and their families.

Coleman Made Captain

The army reserve has announced that Jack C. Coleman of Iowa Park was recently promoted to the rank of captain.

Jack is a veteran of World War II, now a project engineer at Sheppard AFB with the 871st Engineers. He served in the European theater and was held prisoner by the Germans 6 or 7 months before being released.

Jack and his wife Bobbye have planned and built their home in Iowa Park on the Clara road. They even made their own cement blocks for the construction.

The Colemans are parents of four sons: Bill, Charlie, Robert and Dave.

Capt. Coleman finished high school in Wichita Falls, later attending SMU, Texas A & M and received the BA degree from USC in Los Angeles, Calif. He plays the trombone and has assisted the Lions in several minstrels.

Disciples to Emphasize Attendance in Year of Christian Advance

Members of the Christian church here are thinking, talking and planning big things for the local congregation during the next 12 months.

As a result of a questionnaire tabulated last Sunday afternoon, and action of members at the evening service, the church will inaugurate a membership development movement. All departments and committees of the church and church school will be mobilized to work toward the goals.

Looking toward doubling the attendance at morning worship services and increasing evening worship service attendance fivefold, members of the church have pledged to unite in a year's Christian Advance Movement.

At a church family supper Friday evening of this week, further plans will be discussed.

Dr. LeRoy F. Carter, pastor, will kick off the advance movement in his sermon next Sunday titled "The Race." Special music at the morning service will be "That Stranger of Galilee," a vocal solo by Mrs. C. L. Vaughn.

249 Students Get Salk Vaccine Shots

One o'clock Thursday afternoon found Dr. Gordon G. Clark, four volunteer registered nurses, one laboratory technician, nine PTA workers and Miss Ethyle Kidwell, principal, ready for inoculation of 249 students in the first, second and fourth grades, plus the third graders who did not receive the Salk polio vaccine last year.

Requests for the polio shot numbered 261, but 10 were absent and 2 had decided not to take it.

Ann Parkey, 1st grader, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Parkey, was the first local child to receive the Salk vaccine this year.

The entire project was completed in 43 minutes, and the group of workers praised the children for the way they conducted themselves in receiving the first of two shots.

Assisting Dr. Clark were: Nurses; Mmes. Floyd White, Pat Williams, Rose Stine, and Rachel Smith.

Laboratory technician; Miss Billie Ford.

PTA workers: Mmes. R. E. Waters, W. A. George, Fred Hays, Gene Lowrey, Raymond Gilleland, Rollins Woodall, Gibbons Brubaker, Mosell Black, M. T. Archer.

Wanda Hail Marries Harold W. Phillips, To Continue Studies

The bride is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hail, Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Phillips.

Rev. H. M. Riek read the vows before a large mirror reflecting the large arrangement of white gladiolus flanked by palm trees and 7-branched candelabras holding long white tapers.

Mrs. Gordon McCullough of Wichita Falls furnished traditional wedding music for the ceremony.

When given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a street length white embroidered nylon dress with full skirt and short jacket. She wore white accessories and carried a bouquet of white carnations with satin streamers cascading off a small white Bible.

For something old, blue and borrowed, the bride wore an antique pin belonging to a friend.

The bride's attendant was her sister Mrs. Curtis Price of Wichita Falls. Curtis Price of Wichita Falls was best man.

The young couple knelt on a white satin prelude for the benediction.

A reception honoring the newlyweds was held at the Hail home immediately following the wedding.

The refreshment table was covered with a white lace cloth centered with a miniature bride and groom standing under an arch.

Spring flowers were used in all the party rooms.

Mrs. Nelson Johnson presided at the crystal punch service and Mrs. Kate Cottrell of Wichita Falls served the wedding cake.

The bride is a member of the junior class of Iowa Park High School and plans to continue her studies.

The Fred Parkey Family

Next week is Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up Week in Iowa Park. The city beautification committee of the Chamber of Commerce is working with the City officials and the County Commissioner, and much interest is being shown.

Circulars have been distributed to homes and have been placed in windows of the downtown section, in service stations and other conspicuous spots, and it is hoped that every man, woman and child is alerted for the big event next week.

Trucks will work in the northeast section of town next Tuesday; southeast on Wednesday; northwest Thursday; and southwest on Friday.

Everyone is urged to pick up every can, bottle and any kind of trash and place it in sacks or boxes, and place the containers on the alley where men on the trucks can reach them. In case there isn't an alley, then the trash should be put in front of the premises.

Remember, this is a FREE haul and it is expected everyone will take advantage of this clean-up campaign and get his trash hauled away free.

In regard to the Plant Exchange—please phone Mrs. Livingston at 2431 and tell her what you would like to have or what you have to give.

It is now time to cut back all the dead wood left by the recent freeze, which will help the shrubs or trees take on new life.

Most plants will be safe to transplant now. The grass is growing and is being mowed, and the flower beds need to be filled. If they are not yet prepared to do it as soon as possible and get a start on the summer heat which will follow shortly.

EVERYTHING CHANGES WITH TIME

Everything changes with time. Take music for example: it changes in accent, tempo, rhythm and in many other ways. It also changes in purpose.

There was a time when music could be classified for a few main purposes. There was toe-tickling music to dance by—the kind that was respectfully stopped at 12:00 o'clock on Saturday night in the "nicer" homes.

There was martial music by the band on the Fourth of July and on other special occasions.

There were romantic ballads and soft melodies to court by.

There was classical music for the more cultured soul.

There was sacred music for the worship hour.

Each class of music had its place and purpose. It was all "live" music, created on the spot. You could identify the taste, mood, character and social standing of a person by the music he created or requested.

To illustrate, if a fellow were riding down the road horseback alone on a dark night, whistling a snappy march, it would indicate he was either a patriotic citizen or he was a little bit sensitive to the darkness and needed a lift in spirit.

If he were singing a mournful love ballad, chances are things were not going too well with the girl friend. If he were softly humming a popular melody, one could surmise that he may have detected a slight tremble as he kissed her hand at the garden gate.

If he were whistling a joyful hymn of praise, it signified a grateful Christian spirit. If he were singing a sad hymn, it is very likely he was feeling the need of a closer walk with the Master.

IT'S DIFFERENT NOW

This has all been changed. For one thing, music today is mostly "canned." It comes from a radio, television or record player. Seldom is it created on the spot and for a specific purpose. The under-the-window serenade is a lost art. No longer is the male suitor charmed by melodic strains from the parlor organ.

Simple soul-strung hymns of praise, once the mood fixer for the worship service, have been discarded in favor of unintelligible anthems by robed choirs.

Music isn't something special any more. It has become so commonplace—the canned stuff, I mean—that it has lost its role as a soul stimulant.

Instead of seeking music as a refining influence, you now have to endure it, or run away from it. There are too many dials to turn by too many people who are all mixed up and are not considerate of the ear comfort of the other fellow.

There is music while you work, music while you eat, music while you try to relax, music while you travel, music while you transact business. . . .

Music in the morning, music at noon, music in the afternoon, music in the evening, music in the midnight. . . .

Any kind of music, any time, anywhere—all kinds, all the time, everywhere. . . .

It may be hillbilly for breakfast, jazz to work by, Stamps for lunch, classical at siesta time, symphonic in the evening, and rag at midnight. It may be any conceivable order of these, depending on the mental quirk of the glib manipulator. No system, no purpose—just noise.

It may be martial when you prefer sacred; symphonic when you would much rather hear popular; Stamps when classical would be more acceptable; hillbilly when quiet is so much desired.

Yes, I enjoy a wide variety of music; but on occasion and for a purpose.

IT'S THE LAW . . . in Texas

INDIVIDUALS RESPONSIBLE FOR ACTS OF AGENTS

Suppose you have hired Johnnie to cut your grass, and he runs your new mower into your neighbor's hedge, thereby ruining the hedge. Are you responsible for the damages? Quite likely you are.

Or let us suppose that you find you need some supplies for the evening meal. You ask Johnnie, your neighbor's teen-age son, to take your car and run to the store for them. On the way, Johnnie hits a pedestrian, seriously injuring him. Can you be held responsible? It is possible that you can.

In both instances, Johnnie was acting for you. His acts while performing those duties are, in the eyes of the law, your acts.

You may be liable despite the fact that you may have cautioned him to drive carefully and he did not.

The average individual expects to answer for his own actions. He does not usually consider that he may be held responsible for the actions of others. That, however, is frequently the case.

You may ask another person to do something for you, that is, to act as your agent. You may pay him, or he may be doing it without compensation.

You may ask him to buy or sell property for you. The action may be to negotiate an agreement for you with a third person.

If representations are made by your agent in performing the task which you assigned to him, you are responsible.

In a like manner, you are responsible for the contract made by him while he was acting for you.

You may be held responsible for the acts of a person who customarily represents you even though he entered into a contract for you without your consent or approval.

For example, you may have a partner in a business, and you and he have agreed that certain contracts shall be made only upon the signature of both of you. Unknown to you and without your consent, your partner signs such a contract with a third person involving partnership business. If the person with whom this contract is made has no knowledge of the terms of your partnership agreement, you are responsible for the contract which your partner has made.

You may have agreed between you that neither of you would buy, without the other's consent, any items of merchandise costing more than $50. You did not give this information to salesmen who called on you. In your absence on a Thursday afternoon, your partner ordered merchandise for your store costing more than the $50 limit.

When the merchandise is delivered, you cannot refuse to accept it because you can be bound by the contract of your partner. This is true in many situations, and the salesman is not bound by your partnership agreement because you did not advise him of the $50 limitation.

As the actions of your agent are considered to be your actions, you assume the responsibility of his doing them correctly.

The reason so few reach the top is because no successful method has yet been devised by which a person can sit down and slide up hill.—Tony Wons Scrapbook.

Poisonous Plants Endanger Livestock

Livestock raisers are warned to be on the alert for poisonous range plants, especially after the late spring freezes in March.

Buds, leaves and tender shoots of all trees in the oak family possess a toxic substance which may cause severe illness in cattle, sheep, goats and horses. These were made even more toxic by the cold weather in March, B. T. Haws, Wichita county agent, says.

The poisonous condition of oak exists from the time the buds begin to swell until the new leaves turn dark green in color. Low growing oaks—low enough to be reached by livestock—cause most of the trouble. Cattle are most commonly affected.

Haws says livestock should be moved from any area where poisonous vegetation is found until the danger period passes.

Severe and prolonged drouth have many ranges ripe for invasion by bitterweeds, a plant especially toxic to sheep. Deferred and rotation grazing are recommended for this plant.

Lop and peavine are other plants poisonous to livestock. Haws says animals should not be allowed to graze pastures containing these plants until sufficient growth of other plants can satisfy the storage needs.

Common cocklebur in the seedling stage is poisonous to hogs and to cattle.

METHODISTS MOVE EVENING SERVICE BACK TO 7:45

Evening services at the Methodist church will be held at 7:45 through the summer season, according to Rev. Roy Anderson, pastor.

"What People Ask Me about the UN," by Margaret Briggs Lefever, was the topic of the program at the regular meeting of Methodist women April 26.

Mrs. C. J. Thurber led the group in discussing the questions asked by Americans, who make up 88% of the total visitors to the United Nations. The discussion closed with silent prayer for the UN.

To honor Georgie Kay Trammell for outstanding work in the church, Mrs. W. M. Owens presented her an honorary junior membership in the Woman's Society of Christian Service.

The group voted to forego the regular May 3 meeting and attend the May Fellowship program presented by the United Church Women on May 6 at the Presbyterian church.

Rev. Roy Anderson conducted the installation of officers for 1955-56. He was assisted by Mrs. Thurber.

Others present were Meses. Scott Morris, Roy Anderson, E. B. Taylor, Travis H. Smith, T. R. Horine, Ray Low, Herman Mahler, Gordon G. Clark, S. L. Denny, Richey Abernathy Wanda Vaughan, Fred Widmoyer, W. C. Albright, C. J. Simpson, Gene Lowrey, W. E. Stockton, Miles Thimpson Jay Laible, Gene Owens, G. E. Trammell, John Mixon, John Sibley, John Hauser and Mrs. J. E. Snell of Stigler, Okla.

The society will meet in circles on May 10.

Two Parties Honor Miss Wanda Scott, Next Sunday Bride

Miss Wanda Scott was honored with a pre-nuptial party last Saturday evening in the home of Mrs. R. A. Tanner. Meses. Charlie Coppock, Carl Hoffman and Herman Mitchell of Wichita Falls were co-hostesses.

Twenty young guests of Iowa Park and Wichita Falls enjoyed an informal evening painting cup-towels for the honoree.

Mrs. Neal McNabb of Wichita Falls secured names of guests for the bridesbook.

Miss Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Scott of Iowa Park, and Charles Bolding, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Bolding of Hobart, Ok., will be married in the Methodist church here next Sunday at 6:00.

Miss Wanda Ann Scott, bride-elect of Charles Franklin Bolding of Sheppard AFB, was honored Monday evening with a bridal shower in the Methodist church parlor.

The honoree's colors, pink and white, were used in decorations. The refreshment table was centered with a pink glad arrangement and laid with white lace over pink. Pink candles in crystal holders flanked the flowers. China birds were nestled in front of the arrangement.

Hostesses were Meses. C. J. Simpson, Walter Spruiell, Fenton Dale, Bill Harris, Herman Mahler, M. J. McDonald, Taylor George, C. C. Robinson, S. E. Watson, George Pybus, F. E. Hill, J. H. Background music for the party hours from 7:30 until 9:00 was provided by Meses. Gay and Thornberry and Miss Cecelia Crawford.

JUNIOR NEWS ..

Last Thursday night the Jrs had a picnic at Waggoner ark, and all the kids had lots of fun. The boys pitched horseshoes while the girls watched. The swings and see-saws are about worn out because we acted like little kids. We want to thank all the room mothers for such a nice party.

The Jrs are planning the Crater-ville trip each day and how much fun they are going to have. We all hope the creek is up high.

Some of the Jr girls are showing off new jewelry at school. It seems the Sr boys found some interesting stuff on the jewelry counter and spent lots of their time buying earrings for their girlfriends.

The Ag boys have been making a sidewalk in front of the elementary school and one of our Jr girls was accused of stepping in the wet cement. Of course this girl didn't do it, did you, Barbra? Someone also scratched "Jrs, '55" on the sidewalk, but something happened. I think the Ag boys who weren't Jrs didn't appreciate this.

See you next week.—Sandy.

Entrances to Cemetery Finished by Sorority

Improvements to Highland cemetery have recently been completed as a special project of Epsilon Eta chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha at a cost of $275. The two entrances were widened from 12 to 18 feet, with complete new archways and signs.

Money for this project was made last fall when citizens of Iowa Park were given an opportunity to make donations for chances on a pair of men's and women's shoes. The shoes were won by Mrs. Lowell Short and Mr. Freddie Glover.

Without the co-operation of the Cemetery association headed by Rollins Woodall, president, and Dallas Ralston, caretaker, this improvement could not have been achieved.

Mrs. Malcolm Mills, president of Epsilon Eta, and the project committee: Mrs. Jesse McCullough and Miss Raydean Brown, as representatives of the sorority, wish to thank the town for their interest and assistance in this project.

Mrs. Roy E. Childress and children Janice Kay and Roy Jr. will leave Saturday for Seattle, Wash., where they will embark for Japan around May 6. They will join T-Sgt. Childress in Gokota, Japan, where he is serving in the US air force.

Mrs. W. A. Litchfield returned home recently after undergoing surgery in a Longview hospital. She has been recuperating in the homes of her two daughters Mrs. Jess E. Haggard in Longview and Mrs. Roy L. Shelby in Dallas.

Mrs. Jess Haggard and son Allen have been visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Litchfield. Mr. Haggard came last weekend and the family left for a week's vacation in Missouri visiting relatives and sight-seeing.

Mrs. Emma Phillips has returned home after spending a few days in Dallas with her brother Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Edwards and daughter and other relatives.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Red Finds a "Sweet Solution"

Red Jackson found a slick way to get his cows to eat what's good for them. Seems they were passing up the tall green grass—full of minerals and vitamins—and eating the short grass, which is naturally sweeter.

Red solved the problem by spraying a solution of corn syrup over the grass that was going begging. The cows sure went at it. Red says it's lucky for him—and the cows—that every one of them has a "sweet tooth."

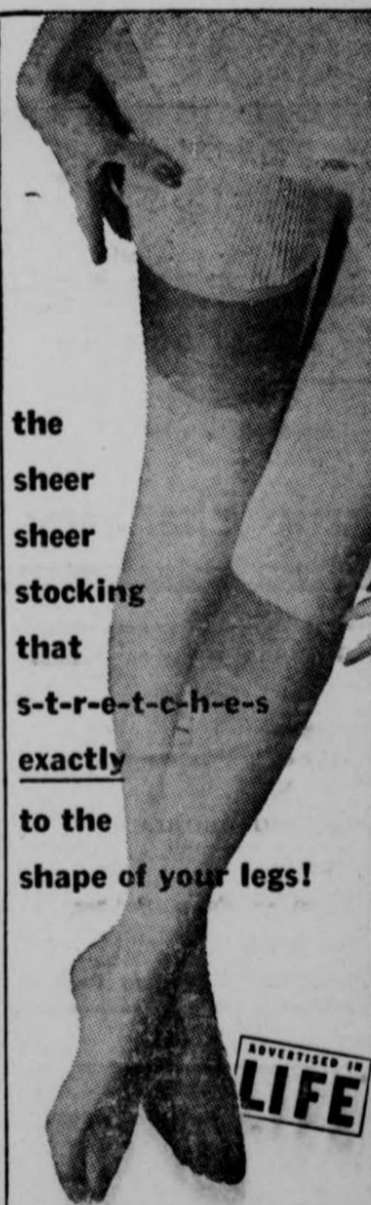

Next week, according to Red, he's going to have his cows clean up all the weedy grass along his fences—after he sprays them with more corn syrup, of course.

From where I sit, some folks, like Red, are always trying out new tricks—and others stick with the old tried and true methods. Just a question of preference, I guess. Like the way you may enjoy coffee with meals, while I prefer a cold glass of beer. So let's not allow any bad feelings to "crop up" by thinking ours is the only choice.

Moffett Discusses Need for Increases in State Revenue

by Senator George Moffett
Among the hundreds of letters which come to my office each week in Austin there are many which ask, "Why do we have to raise more taxes?" This is a good question. I will discuss it as fully as space permits.
Need for additional revenue (taxes) arises from three sources. More money is needed for our public school system; more money is needed to pay pensions to old people; more money is needed for our highway system.
These are the principal needs. In addition, our state hospitals and special schools now have 25,000 inmates. A short time ago they only had 16,000. These people must be taken care of, and it takes money to do it.
In fact, all state expenses go up as our population goes up. Within the past few years our public school enrollment shows an increase of more than a quarter of a million students. The state contributes 80 per cent of the cost of maintaining the public school system, including textbooks, teachers' salaries, bus transportation, etc.
It will take $18,000,000 more from the state treasury during the next two years than it has heretofore to provide the state's part of supporting the public schools.
It will take $14,000,000 more in the next biennium from the state treasury to comply with the increase in old age assistance which the people voted last November and for which the legislature is duty bound to raise the money.
Texas has the best highway system in the United States. Automobiles can be operated more cheaply over a paved road than any other kind. If we are to continue to build and maintain a good highway system that we all use, it will require more money.
The foregoing are only the high spots in the needs of our state, which now contains more than eight million people. It has been a relatively short time since Texas had only 5 1/2 million population. More people call for more government services and more tax revenue to pay for them.
The legislature does not relish levying taxes. It is always a disagreeable job. Under present circumstances there is no other course we can take. Many of the members have reluctantly made up their minds to swallow hard and vote for the minimum taxation necessary to pay the bill for essential state services.
I would be glad to receive comment on what should be done, what taxes to levy, or where to cut expenditures.
Mrs. Abbie Warner of Clarendon has been visiting her Mother Mrs. Rowena Parker.

Excessive Claims Increase Costs of Liability Insurance

Automobile liability insurance would cost the public five times as much as they are presently paying if casualty insurance companies satisfied all personal injury claims in the amounts demanded.
For every $100 a year the automobile owner now pays for liability insurance, he would have to pay $525 if the casualty insurance companies satisfied all claims in the amounts presented.
Obviously the insurance buyer could not afford this expense, and it is necessary that every effort be made to hold down the cost of casualty insurance. In this effort there are two factors to be considered. First, the number and seriousness of accidents. Second, the number and amount of claims deriving from those accidents.
Toward the goal of reducing accidents the insurance industry has done much and it will continue these efforts. But all attempts to improve highway safety seem pitifully inadequate in the face of the increasing number of injuries and fatalities.
Traffic fatalities in Texas last year increased three per cent.
The public should realize then that some sound and adequate attempt has to be made to discover the legitimate value of a claim for damages. But all too often we hear the statement that "insurance companies are hard to deal with," especially when they start asking questions. There is, above all other items, one element which makes a consideration of claims both depressing and discouraging. That is pain, tremendous suffering, lifelong injury or disfigurement, and death and bereavement.
Who is to know what a fair payment is? Sometimes no amount of money is enough.
Then there is pain and injury less severe or even just imagined and fabricated, or sore necks and stiff backs that are asserted to be worth $50,000 or even $100,000.
Recently Boston newspapers told of a streetcar-truck accident which resulted in claims being filed by 240 persons who swore they had been passengers on the streetcar. The fallacy of so many claims was brought to light when all 240 of the claimants were hailed into the court at once, and the fact that the streetcar's capacity was a mere 68, including standees.
Some 172 of these so-called injured people left the courtroom with mighty red faces.
Faked cases are part of a national personal injury racket which costs millions of dollars in higher insurance premiums. The insurance buying public should realize the insurance companies must demand real evidence of actual injury, and evidence as to the extent of the injury before it has a right to consider paying out money.
Eighty-five per cent of the personal injury claims are legitimate. It is the other 15 per cent that gives trouble.
Courts are crowded with cases, and juries often return verdicts in favor of plaintiffs when the facts are clear that the plaintiff was guilty of violation of motor vehicle code sections, and because of that were contributing to the cause of the injury.
On the one hand our legislature passes laws for the protection of the public and for the guarantee of safe drivers upon the highways, if laws are properly observed. When these laws are violated, juries out of sympathy for the injured, reward them with money judgment.
The attitude some jurors take is that the money doesn't come from the car owner, but is paid by an insurance company. Thus the jury penalizes all owners of automobile insurance.

There must be a change of attitude on the part of jurors if we ever expect to curb the reckless driver. Jurors must stop rewarding careless drivers.

Holliday Speller Ranks High in District

Wayne Roberts, the fifth grader who represented Archer county in the district spelling bee at Midwestern university Saturday, did a good job, reports his coach Mrs. W. E. Stegall.
In the group of 15 spellers he was the sixth to go down. He misspelled "chandelier," but at that time his opponents were eighth graders. He and Mrs. Stegall were guests of the Wichita Daily Times at a luncheon with 75 other contestants, their parents or coaches.
For winning the county championship Wayne received a $25 gift certificate from the Hub in Wichita Falls and a genuine leather bill-fold from the Stegall Pharmacy.
The same contest will be conducted again next year with the same word list plus 50 new words. Any pupil from the eighth grade down, and under 16 years of age, will be eligible to enter.
Mrs. Stegall suggests that all who are interested, buy the books, 15c each, at the Times office—and begin studying now. "Every child who enters can win one thing—a good and practical background in spelling and word meaning," she says.
"I personally think it would be a grand thing to teach these spelling words in all upper grades in the elementary school during the first semester—if schedules can be arranged for such a project," Mrs. Stegall concludes.

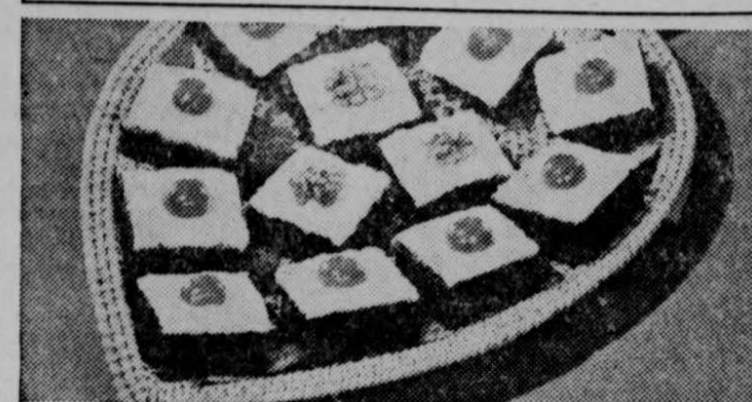

BI-COUNTY PTA EXECUTIVES TO MEET

Mrs. Leslie B. Finnell, president of the Wichita-Archer Bi-County Council of Parents and Teachers, has called for a session of the elected officers of both counties for a combined Executive Session of the Council for the purpose of selecting council chairmen.
This meeting will be held next Thursday in the auditorium of the Archer City high school. Elected officers of PTA units in the two counties, please take note and be present.

Presbyterians

"What Does the Presbyterian Church Believe" was the general topic of study directed by Mrs. J. E. Ridenour Tuesday morning at 9:00 o'clock when the Women of the Church met in the ladies parlor.
The meeting was called to order by Mrs. C. E. Birk, president, who led the opening prayer.
Mrs. Ridenour discussed the belief about God. Mrs. John Clapp sr. discussed the church members' belief about man; and Mrs. Locke Lowrance's part was the belief about salvation.
Mmes. L. Lovelace and Florence Sherwood gave a skit from the book "Released Power for Today."
The third and fourth chapters of "Love in the New Testament" were discussed by Miss Clara Lowrance.
Others present were Mmes. L. F. Miller, F. L. Emanuel, a visitor Mrs. Fred Williams of Ardmore, Okla.; and Miss Mina Troutman.
