General Election Scheduled Here Tuesday

Months of campaigning is just about over, as candidates are 'down to the wire' before the general election scheduled for Tuesday, November 4.

Polls will open in Muleshoe in seven locations on Tuesday at 7 a.m. and remain open until 7 p.m. for the convenience of Bailey County voters.

Four of the polling places are located in Muleshoe, with the others at Three Way, Bula and Needmore. (See voting box locations on Page 1)

With more than 3,800 registered voters, at noon on Thursday, the absentee vote was at 89, considered very low by courthouse observers.

Only one local race has created much interest, as it is the only contested office on the ballot on a county level. Incumbent Bailey County Judge Gordon H. Green is opposed by Former Bailey County Commissioner, Republican James Warren.

On a national level, United States Representative, District 19, currently represented by Republican Larry Combest, is being sought by Democrat Gerald McCathern of Hereford.

Statewide, several of the offices are contested, beginning with the governor's office.

Democratic incumbent Mark White will be facing former Republican Governor Bill Clements, along with Theresa Doyle from the Libertairan Party.

For Lieutenant governor, the incumbent, Bill Hobby will be facing Republican David Davidson and Libertairan Bill Howell.

In the Attorney General's race, incumbent Jim Mattox will face Republican Roy R. Barrera Jr. and Libertairan Mike Stephens.

Bob Bullock, Democratic Incumbent for Comptroller of Public Accounts, will only face Libertairan George Meeks.

State Treasurer Ann Richards is opposed by Libertairan Robert F. Reid; Garry Mauro, Democratic incumbent Commissioner of the General Land Office is facing opponents, Republican M.D. Anderson Jr. and Libertairan Honey Sue Lanham.

Democratic Jim Hightower, Commissioner of Agriculture, is opposed by Republican Bill Powers and Rebecca Reed, Libertairan.

Incumbent Railroad Commissioner John Sharp will be facing Republican Milton E. Fox and Libertairan Chloe 'Jack' Daniel.

In the Justice Department, Oscar H. Mauzy, Justice Supreme Court Place one, will be facing Republican Charles Ben Howell; Justice, Supreme Court Place Two, will pit Democrat Robert M. Campbell, Republican Nathan E. White Jr.; Justice, Supreme Court Place Three will see Democrat Jim Wallace facing Libertairan Wiley H. Rawlins; Justice Supreme Court Place Four, will have Raul A. Gonzales, Democrat, facing Republican John L. Bates for the unexpired term.

Unopposed on the ballot are Democrats Rusty Duncan,

Three Way Youth Will Have Hearing And Vision Tests

On Monday, November 3, Three Way Independent School District will be testing for vision and hearing problems, said Principal Bobby Richardson.

He added that any child in the community, who is four to five years old, and not in school is eligible for the testing. Parents are asked to bring their children to school at 9 a.m. There will be no charge for the testing.

If further information is needed you are asked to contact Richardson at 927-5315.

Students at Three Way School will also be tested on the same day, so Richardson says it is very important for the students to be in school on that day.

AROUND MULESHOE

Officers are not treating a Halloween night incident as a 'prank', but as Criminal Mischief.

On Friday night, while the Muleshoe Mules were in Tulia, waging a futile battle on the football field, some individual, or individuals, let the air out of the tires on more than 20 vehicles parked on the Muleshoe High School parking lot.

Investigating officer Jay Livingston found the air had been released from tires on more than 20 vehicles, as well as obscenities written on some of the vehicles.

On Thursday, November 13, the First United Methodist Church will be serving their annual Thanksgiving Dinner from 11:30 a.m.-1:30 p.m.

Adult tickets are $6 and tickets for pre-school children are $2. Take-out orders will be accepted until 11:30 a.m. on the day of the dinner. You may order by calling the church office at 272-5517.

All proceeds will be used to benefit world hunger.

Muleshoe Junior High School 're-takes' of pictures will be on Tuesday, November 4, according to school officials.

Lonnie Adrian will be taking pictures during the school hours.

Kristi Heathington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeri Wiedebush and Kenneth Heathington, is a second year dental hygiene student at Amarillo College, where she is listed as an honor student.

A 1985 graduate of Muleshoe High School, she was recently elected secretary of the dental hygiene school.

Muleshoe Mules Victims Of Hornet Onslaught

If last Friday night's football game was nothing else, it was exciting. Fans saw a series of near miss touchdowns, a couple of new talented players, and some brilliant defense plays.

Friday night saw the Mules traveling to Tulia for a showdown with the Tulia Hornets who were 7-2 for the season. Friday's game left them with an 8-2 record.

The game began with Tulia electing to receive. On the opening play of the game, the Hornet's Stephen Powell ran 81 yards for a touchdown on a "Texas Return". With 11:48 remaining on the clock, Billy Williams kicked the extra point making the score 7-0. This early score did not daunt the Mules though, and they re-doubled their efforts to even the score. The effort was for naught as Tulia regained possession of the ball and came close to making another touchdown with a pass from Tulia quarterback Todd Lacey to Lance Grantham. Their effort was unsuccessful due to excellent defensive coverage by the Mules and by a new face to the varsity team, Jeff Hicks. The first quarter ended with the Hornet's over the Mules 7-0.

The Hornet's began a tradition on Friday night and scored on the first play of the second quarter with a one yard touchdown by Trampus Goodwin leaving the Mules behind by 14 points. The Mules reacted quickly though with an astounding 61 yard run by Lance King after a pass thrown by Mule quarterback Johnny Garcia. This play brought the Mules within scoring range, but the opportunity slipped by and the ball went back to Tulia. Tulia, however, fumbled the

Prized Tax Breaks Will Soon Vanish

The third and final article, in a series of three, on the new tax laws prepared by Randy Field local CPA.

The goal of Congressional tax reformers was to create a revenue code that would be both evenhanded and simple. Evenhanded it may be; simple it is not. In the last two articles, a summary of the provisions most important to individuals and business owners was discussed. For those that missed the first two articles, a summary of the difference in the new laws and old laws is presented in tables on page 7.

Because most of the major changes in the 1986 Tax Reform Act are effective beginning January 1, 1987, there are some strategies that might be employed before the end of 1986 to reduce taxes. Lots of prized tax breaks will soon vanish but here's a check-list of 10 ways taxpayers can take advantage of the old rules and the transition to the new rules.

1. Where possible, postpone income into 1987 to take advantage of lower rates. Cash basis business might defer income by delaying 1986 year end billings and collections to the following year. Also, expenses should be paid before the end of the year.

2. If you are considering the sale of investments which will produce long-term capital gains, Con't Page 7, Col. 3

Shoppers Depending On Newspaper Info

When asked where they get most of their consumer shopping information, approximately two out of three Texans respond, "newspapers," so reports Dr. Frederick Williams, director of the Center for Research on Communication Technology and Society at The University of Texas at Austin.

Direct mail ads run a distant second (20 per cent), followed by television (11 per cent), magazines (six per cent) and radio (four per cent).

"These figures are not unusual," reports Dr. Gary Wilcox, a specialist in advertising in UT Austin's College of Communication, who is conducting the detailed analysis of the study. "Newspapers are particularly important to people for shopping because they not only convey the product message, but give further information on vendor and price," Dr. Wilcox adds.

Similar to other studies of sources of advertising information, the Texas research indicates a relationship of income and education with the use of print media. "This may be a carry-over from a similar correlation found in preferences for sources of news," Dr. Wilcox explains. "The better educated tend to rely upon more sources of information and print in particular," he adds.

The current study, when compared with similar information gathered in 1984 from a statewide sample of Texans, further indicates a visible increase in the report of newspapers as a source of shopping information. In the earlier study, newspapers were reported as a main source of shopping information by 50 per cent of the respondents, followed by mail (22 per cent), television (18 per cent) and radio (10 per cent). Magazines were not included as an option in the study.

Those changes in sources of shopping information may reflect several points, Dr. Wilcox says. For example, in difficult economic times, people may have to seek out more detailed information on competitive pricing or sales in order to stretch their money further. That may account for the greater use of newspapers in 1986 in Texas as compared with 1984. Another and not necessarily competing explanation, Dr. Wilcox adds, is that there are more Texans of higher income and better education in 1986 than 1984, and "we know that this is related to uses of newspapers."

Findings such as these do not mean that advertising in media other than newspapers is a poor investment, Dr. Wilcox explains, pointing out that advertising involves many types of information and persuasion. The broadcast media generally introduce products to create their images, whereas newspapers may place more stress on where to buy and what the cost will be, he notes. Mail is interesting as an advertising medium because it can combine these two functions, he adds.

"In all," Dr. Wilcox says, "we can expect Texans' use of advertising to change as not only our buying habits and use of media change, but we see change in the population itself."

The findings were based on results of a 1,000-household study conducted in August by the Texas Poll, a quarterly survey conducted by the Public Policy Resources Laboratory of Texas A&M University. Questions of uses of advertising and media are part of a year-long study by the UT Austin center of the entrance of Texas into the information age.

inside sandhills philosopher
 Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Sandy Acres claims he has cleaned off his desk.

Dear editor:
 I've read that a clean desk is the sign of a clear, efficient mind, but some of the cleanest desks in Washington are manned by some of the world's worst bureaucratic bunglers.

I partially cleaned mine off yesterday and found the following items:
 When the Federal government had to shut down recently because it was temporarily out of borrowed money, half a million non-essential workers were sent home at noon. If they are non-essential, you wonder what they're doing on the job in the first place.

There's a long-running TV commercial telling how a company makes money the old-fashioned way. An actor growls: "They earn it."

On the other hand, there's something to be said for the new-fangled way: make a million dollars a year as head of a car company. Make a million and a half a year as a quarterback, or a baseball player, or a basketball player. And there's something to be said for that actor who growls about making money the old-fashioned way. He probably makes $100,000 the new-fangled way for saying it.

I've never understood how a movie star making a sales pitch on television could make anybody buy a telephone or a new car or a headache pill.

Some politicians keep saying the country is in the greatest economic expansion in years. With the national debt accumulated in the last five years greater than all the combined indebtedness run up in the prior 195 years in the history of the nation, with an annual deficit of around $200 billion, and with the government borrowing 5 or 6 billion dollars every Monday morning, you reckon it's like the farmer who expanded so much on borrowed money he went broke?

Yours faithfully,
 J.A.

Jessica Lynn (baby), and James Cooper.

Schools Without Drugs Publication Available

Snow. Smack. Crack. Grass. Angel Dust. They are all illegal drugs that are being used by school kids in epidemic proportions, along with another substance which is illegal for kids--booze. But parents and schools can help prevent drug use. It takes effort and will power on the part of the parents, schools, and kids, but it can be done.

The U.S. Department of Education has pulled together some of the most effective ways to prevent drug abuse. A free book, SCHOOLS WITHOUT DRUGS, gives a plan of action for parents, schools, students, and communities. It describes signs of drug use and suggests what parents can do; lists topics and learning activities to be presented in schools; describes the legal ramifications of the schools' taking an active role; lists many of the drugs that are available, how they are used, their street names, and their effects; and provides a variety of sources for additional help and information. For a free copy of SCHOOLS WITHOUT DRUGS, send your name and address to Schools Without Drugs, Pueblo, Colorado 811009, or call toll free 1-800-624-0100 in the Washington, D.C. area, 659-4854.)

The first thing parents can do is start telling their children early about the effects of drugs and what the dangers are. Let them know all the risks they run if they use drugs and that drug use is wrong and can put you in jail. And support them so they have the courage to say "No!" if drugs are offered by their peers.

At the same time, parents have to be able to recognize the symptoms of drug use. Obvious signs are drug-related equipment or actual evidence of drugs. More subtle signs include physical changes such as lack of coordination, memory lapses, or bloodshot eyes and dilated pupils; intellectual changes including a drop in grades, assignments not completed, and difficulty in concentration; and behavior changes such as chronic dishonesty, increased anger and hostility, skipping school, reduced motivation, or a diminished interest in extracurricular activities.

If you see these signs in your children or their classmates, don't delay. If they appear to be linked with drug use, that may be the time to get together with the parents to set some limits and to work with the school to gain their confidence. There are many other ways to prevent and overcome drug use that are spelled out when you send for your free copy of SCHOOLS WITHOUT DRUGS. At the same time, you will also receive a free copy of the CONSUMER INFORMATION CATALOG. Published quarterly by the Consumer Information Center of the U.S. General Services Administration, the CATALOG lists more than 200 other free and moderately priced federal booklets on a wide variety of subjects.

Schools can help students avoid drugs in a variety of ways. They can teach from the earliest grades about the realities of drug use. For older kids, schools may set up drug counseling programs with other students as the counselors. This helps the students to clean up drugs themselves. Schools can also establish clear, firm rules about drug use. The consequences should be just as clear, and they should be applied across the board. And, if drugs are being sold on school premises, school administrators should bring the police in -- preferably the same officers every time so that they get to know the students and

Across The Fence

By Deana Finck

County Extension Agent

A common stereotype about aging in our culture is that the elderly go from being independent straight into a nursing home. That's simply not true. Only 5% of the aging population live in nursing homes and the vast majority of them are over 85.

In selecting care for an elderly parent who needs assistance, you have many options from which to choose.

You can bring some new or additional help into your parents' home. This might take the form of a health aide, adult sitter, or visiting nurse.

You or another family member may invite the parent to live with you. You can convert a room or build on a "granny flat" to accommodate both you and your parents' needs.

Perhaps someone else in the family is elderly and needful. If your parent shares housing and caretaking services with that person, the joint household may relieve several family problems at once.

You can arrange for your parent to live in a boarding home that specializes in caring for frail or elderly people in a homelike setting.

You may find you need to place your parent in a more sheltered environment where nursing and perhaps medical care is available on a reliable basis. This may be a home for the aged or a nursing home. If you are concerned about the attention your parent is receiving, you may hire an adult sitter to relieve you.

These are just some of the options available. The best choice will depend on your parents' needs and preferences as well as your own.

Work may be a great blessing to man, but there are times when we have doubts.

Seal Coating Aids Highways In District

The 17-county Lubbock District of the State Department of Public Transportation has completed what is believed to be its most successful resurfacing period ever - resurfacing 780 miles of highway in the last six months.

The resurfacing, called a seal coat, helps protect the roadway from water and ice damage, and improves skid resistance. Highway officials consider the work vital to protect taxpayers' investment in the highway system.

"All the work was done in about 100 working days," said Mel Pope, Lubbock highway district engineer. "That's an outstanding effort when you consider all the rain we have had."

The 780 miles of resurfacing is in addition to the routine resurfacing work done by the 18 highway maintenance sections in the district.

"It means that with winter weather approaching, we have a new surface on 22.4 percent of the 4,898 centerline miles of highway in this district," said Pope.

The large amount of resurfacing work, which cost $8.7 million, was made possible by improved highway funding as a result of action by the Texas Legislature in 1984, added Pope.

"One of our top priorities with the improved funding is to protect the taxpayers investment in the 72-thousand mile state highway system," he continues. "If we had to rebuild the highway system in Texas at today's prices, it would cost taxpayers at least $100 billion."

The resurfacing involved work in Parmer, Castro, Swisher, Bailey, Lynn, Hale, Floyd, Cochran, Hockley, Lubbock, Crosby, Yoakum, Terry, Lynn, Garza, Gaines, and Dawson Counties.

Jennyslippers Are Continuing Bake-Less Sale

Muleshoe's Jennyslippers are continuing the Bake-Less 'Bake Sale' to benefit the Muleshoe Nursing Home residents, according to a spokeswoman for the group. She said they are inviting all community citizens to help welcome the nursing home residents back to Muleshoe.

"The renewed status of the nursing home means a great peace of mind to families of the aging. We never know when an illness or other unforeseen circumstance could dictate even a temporary caring facility for a member of our family. It is reassuring that such a qualified service is ready and available," she added.

The Bake-Less 'Bake Sale' is another Jennyslippers project to help make Muleshoe a better place to live for everyone.

Also, the Jennyslippers have reduced prices of the Sesqui-centennial items. Some items are sold out. The remaining items are displayed at Poytors, Farm Bureau and Heritage House Inn.

It has been suggested that momentoes of this historic year would make excellent Christmas gifts and would be 'great' to hand to descendants.

Also upcoming is the largest fundraiser of the year for the Jennyslippers, when they will have their Bar-B-Que Buffet on November 14 at the Bailey County Civic Center beginning at 11 a.m.

Jennyslippers will also have a concession stand during the afternoon of November 14 and all day on Saturday, November 15.

1987 Tax Reform Measures Outlined

For farmers as well as other Americans, the tax reform bill currently awaiting President Reagan's signature will have major impacts. Dr. Wayne Havena, economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, summarizes the significant changes that will result from the legislation. --The tax reform bill would provide tax rates of 15 and 28 percent beginning in 1984. In 1987, there would be five tax rates--11, 15, 28, 35, and 38.5 percent.

--Standard deduction for a joint return would be increased to $5,000 in 1988, and the personal exemption would be raised to $1,900 in 1987, $1,950 in 1988 and $2,000 in 1989.

--Income averaging and the deduction for a two-earner married couple would be repealed.

--State and local sales taxes would no longer be deductible as itemized deductions.

--Deductions for IRS contributions would be repealed for joint filers with adjusted gross income in excess of $50,000.

--About 80 percent of all farmers would be in the 15 percent bracket.

--For farm corporations, tax reform retains a graduated tax rate structure with a top rate of 34 percent. The tax rate would be 15 percent on the first $50,000 of taxable income, 25 percent on taxable income between $50,000 and $75,000, and 34 percent for taxable income above $75,000.

--Investment tax credit would be repealed. Only 65 percent (82.5 percent in 1987) of unused investment tax credits could be carried forward. Farmers earning 50 percent or more of their gross income from farming would be allowed a 15-year carryback of existing investment tax credits. The amount available for refund would be limited to the lower of (1) 50 percent carryovers, (2) the taxpayer's net tax liability for the past 15 years, or (3) $750.

--The Accelerated Capital Cost Recovery System depreciation would be retained with modifications. Autos, light trucks and most livestock would be depreciable over a seven-year period. Single-purpose agricultural structures would also be written off over a seven year period. Deductions for most farm assets would be computed using a 200 percent declining balance method. Multi-purpose farm structures would be written off over a 31-1/2-year period at a straight-line rate. The option to expense up to $5,000 would be increased to $10,000 for businesses which invest less than $200,000 per year. Depreciation deductions would not be adjusted for inflation.

--The exclusion for long-term capital gains would be eliminated, and capital gains would be taxed at rates of 15 or 28 percent. Farmers could continue to use the cash method of accounting with some limits. A restriction is that taxpayers could not deduct amounts paid for feed, seed, fertilizer, or other supplies prior to the year consumed if they exceed more than 50 percent of expenses for which economic performance has occurred.

--The bill would require the capitalization of preproductive expenditures for assets with a development period of more than two years. However, farmers could elect to continue deducting preproductive period expenditures, including interest. If such an election were made, however, gains from sales of developed assets would be taxed on ordinary income to the extent of prior deductions. Straight-line depreciation also would be required on all depreciable farm property.

--Expensing for soil and water conservation expenditures would be allowed only for conservation activities in connection with a plan approved by the USDA's Soil Conservation Service or a comparable state authority. The provision for expensing land-clearing expenditures would be repealed.

--Self-employed individuals would be permitted to deduct 50 percent (25 percent for tax years beginning before 1990) of the cost of health insurance.

--Solvent taxpayers could exclude from income the discharge of any qualified farm debt. Basis in farmland is added to the list of tax attributes which may be reduced by the discharge of indebtedness income.

Immigration Reform Law Highlighted

State Comptroller Bob Bullock Monday said the economic impact on Texas of the federal immigration reform law may take years to measure.

"There's going to be little effect on the state's finances or the Texas economy in the short run and there's simply no concrete evidence to predict an impact for the long-term picture," Bullock said.

Bullock said his office has calculated that as many as 600,000 of the one million estimated illegal aliens in Texas might be eligible to apply for American citizenship under the new law.

But, he said that strict enforcement sanctions against employers of illegal aliens called for in the immigration bill might dry up a source of cheap labor for many Texas businesses and industries.

"For the most part, illegal aliens in Texas are paying virtually all the same taxes--sales, gasoline taxes and excise taxes--as you and me," he said, "and if they become permanent citizens we aren't going to see a big jump in state revenue."

Bullock said that the federal government will make $220 million in federal impact payments over the next five years to help the state adjust for aliens use of public services if they become citizens.

"I'm not sure that amount of money is really going to take up the slack, but still there is no evidence to say that the impact is as severe as some officials suggest."
