Railroad Commission hearing set tomorrow

Iowa Park municipal representatives will be back in the state's capitol tomorrow for a full hearing before the Texas Railroad Commission concerning a rate dispute with Lone Star Gas Company.

To begin at 10 a.m., the hearing will be held in Room 812 of the Thompson Building. Expected to be there representing the city are Mike Hubbard, attorney, Gene Britton, city administrator, and Johnny Crawford, mayor.

The city was hopeful that the hearing would not be necessary, but Tuesday, Hubbard was informed that his application in federal court for a declaratory judgement on the jurisdiction of the RRC over the rates set for Iowa Park was not approved.

The dispute began when Lone Star applied for a rate increase, and the city approved an increase, but wrote its own rates which the utility company could charge.

This was done because the city argues the gas sold in Iowa Park is interstate, and therefore does not fall under the jurisdiction of the RRC, but rather under the Federal Power Commission.

The federal board has established lower rates on interstate gas than the RRC has set for intrastate sales.

Iowa Park's argument stems from the fact that Lone Star terms the transmission line serving the city as interstate; that according to the company's statements all or most of the gas comes from Oklahoma; and the customers in Iowa Park are subject to curtailments of services as are all customers on interstate lines, but not intrastate lines.

A preliminary hearing was held May 20 in Austin before RRC Examiner Austin Bray.

One source indicates the RRC will not challenge Iowa Park on the question of its powers to establish rates for the city, that the state group had been doing so in the past because of the wording of legislation instructing the RRC of its duties.

In an interview following the preliminary hearing, Hubbard told the Leader "To my knowledge, no one has ever questioned that authority in terms of interstate, as it relates to city gate rates charged by a utility."

"I feel they (the RRC) would be obligated to continue their stand as to jurisdiction until the legislature or courts change it," he said.

Tractor pull this weekend

With competition to range from tractors straight off the farm to custom built hot rods, the Wichita County Young Farmers will stage their second annual tractor pull and farm show Friday and Saturday.

The action will take place at the Wichita County Mounted Patrol Arena, located southeast of Iowa Park on FM 369.

Competition will be held in three divisions.

The superstock division will be for stock out of the field farm tractors.

The modified division will host pullers using super stock farm tractors that have been "souped up."

Actual factory pieces are said to be a rarity among modified non-factory built "hot rods" which will compete in the open division.

A contest for four-wheel drive pickups also is scheduled.

Competition for the $5,000 purse and trophies will begin Friday and Saturday at 7:30 p.m. Admission for adults is $3.50, and for those under 12 cost will be $2.

A new addition to this year's event will be a farm show with more than 25 dealers from the North Texas area showing the latest in farming implements.

The farm show is free and will be open to the public from noon until 6 p.m. Friday and from 10 a.m.-6 p.m. Saturday.

FIREMEN BATTLE MINI BUFFET BLAZE

ARSON
Business set fire to cover burglary

Local authorities and a Wichita Falls arson expert are investigating the suspected burglary-arson of an Iowa Park restaurant which was gutted by fire during the early morning hours Wednesday.

Although authorities had no suspects by late Wednesday afternoon, three officials looking into the case said there was no doubt the damage was caused by the work of an arsonist.

Iowa Park Volunteer Fire Department was dispatched to the Mini Buffet at 322 W. Highway shortly after 2 a.m. Wednesday. Iowa Park firemen battled the blaze for more than two hours.

Glen Bray, owner of the restaurant, estimated damages to his equipment and food supply at $15,000. Owner of the building is Vincent Murphy of Wichita Falls.

Bray said almost $300 in cash and coins also had been taken.

"It's definitely arson. I even had that opinion before I found out he (Bray) lost the money and didn't have insurance," Doyle Koonce, Iowa Park fire marshal, said while probing through the charred debris Wednesday morning.

Bray solicited the assistance of Wichita County Sheriff's Department, and Deputy A1 Kelly recruited

Mike Chaney, a fire and arson investigator for the City of Wichita Falls, to aid in the investigation.

Asked if he agreed with Koonce's theory on arson, Chaney said, "I'd have to agree with him at this time."

"Mike Chaney and myself are positive it was arson," Kelly added. Chaney and Kelly spent about 40 minutes at the scene Wednesday morning. However, they were unable to determine if a combustible agent had been used to set the blaze.

Evidence showed the fire started on top of the restaurant's large walk-in refrigerator located in the kitchen. There had been a large quantity of paper stored on top of the cooling unit, Kelly said.

Koonce also said the fire probably began on top of the walk-in refrigerator. The inch-thick wooden top to the unit had been burned through, Koonce explained.

Electrical wiring was in good condition. Koonce said a short in the metal conduit housing wiring would have exploded, but it was not damaged.

Evidence indicated the fire had been smoldering several hours before firefighters were dispatched to the scene.

Bray said he left his business about

City tables rate increase; finances are improved

Besides tabling for a 120-day period a request from Texas Electric Service Co. for a rate hike Monday night, city aldermen heard a report on the proposed new site for a sanitary landfill, and another report that the city's finances are vastly improved over a year ago.

Reading a prepared statement, TESCO Manager Wayne House explained the rate increase was primarily to help finance construction of generation plants from natural gas and oil to lignite coal.

"We need an additional $79 million in revenue to pay the cost of the hundreds of millions of dollars we must raise in order to build these plants," he said.

"This represents an overall increase of 23.6 per cent. Residential bills averaged $22.31 a month for the year ending March 31, 1977. This increase would raise that bill average by $5.40, but we'll still have lower electric rates than most of the rest of the country and state," House told aldermen.

Council members approved a recommendation by Mayor Johnny Crawford to withhold any action 120 days to "give the council time to digest information provided by Texas Electric and also give the Utility Commission time to act" on the proposal made before that group.

City Administrator Gene Britton informed the council the city's application for state approval of a new landfill site had been mailed directly to the regional office in Abilene.

The site is a tract of land southeast of the Buffalo Lake dam, and much of the required information on land and area was already available from engineering reports made when the dam was constructed, Britton said.

A pit has already been dug in anticipation of approval. The site, which offers space for numerous pits, would satisfy the needs of the city from five to eight years, aldermen are told.

The present landfill site, southeast of town, must be closed and ready for inspection in 30 to 45 days, according to unofficial word, he said.

FINANCES IMPROVE

Though it was not on the agenda, Britton gave a brief report on the improved financial condition of the city.

He told aldermen that it appears the city will have in excess of $60,000 in carryover at the end of this fiscal year. This amount was gained by some additional income which was unexpected, as well as not spending all the money that was budgeted.

Britton admitted the carryover was in spite of his mistake of budgeting 100 per cent of tax collections, and that was three to five percent above normal.

Besides having the cash carryover, the city has gained a year on its payments on bonds, as well as started building back a cash holding to support the bonded indebtedness, which is required by contract but was spent in past years. Also the city repaid a $60,000 loan it needed to operate last fall until taxes were paid.

Though there was no indication of any tax decrease, indications were that the city now has no "cash flow" problems, it could operate without borrowed money until tax time, and future obligations were in good shape.

In other business, aldermen approved a new electrical code ordinance; approved a resolution establishing electrical permit charges; discussed the pending annual audit with Walt Fowler and Wilburn Laird; and disapproved a request to pickup trash at Country Sides Mobile Home Park.

Fowler and Laird gave encourage-

Schroeder-Patterson vows are recited Friday

The solemn recitation of the marriage pledge by Miss Carol Jean Schroeder and Doyle Brent Patterson Friday evening was witnessed by a large host of relatives and friends of the popular couple.

The couple exchanged vows at First Baptist Church where they met, fell in love and worked side by side in Christian service during their courtship. The officiating minister for the double-ring ceremony was the Rev. Kenneth Flowers.

Members of the wedding party entered the sanctuary to walk the aisle to an altar decorated to stress the reverence of the hour. A large cross suspended above the baptistry behind the choir loft was prominent in the background and a prayer bench ornamented with lemon leaf and white silk bows highlighted decorations in the center of the altar area.

Immediately behind the bench was a brass arch entwined with lemon leaf and gypsophila. On either side cathedral candles burned in arch-shaped candelabra, and additional decorative interest was provided by large arrangements of white gladioli, yellow carnations and baby's breath supported by brass flower stands.

The trinity candelabrum was placed in the lower altar. To complete the ceremony, the bride and groom proceeded to the candlestick with three tapers, two of which had burned during the ceremony, took the burning candles and lighted the one in the center. Then they extinguished their candles and left the one burning in the center as a symbol of their having been united as one.

Norman Flowers, vocalist, and Mrs. Bill Bates, organist, provided the wedding music, the latter accompanying the vocalist for his pre-nuptial selections, "One Hand, One Heart" and "A Common Love" and for his solo sung during the ceremony, "The Wedding Prayer."

Mrs. Bates gave a pre-nuptial concert. Her selections included "Romance" and "Liebestraum," both by Liszt, "To a Wild Rose" by MacDowell, "O Promise Me" by Scott, "O Perfect Love" by Barnby, "I Love Thee" composed by Grieg, "Agnus Dei" by Bizet, "Arioso," a composition by Handel and "Traumerei" from the works of Schumann.

For the mothers to be ushered and seated, Mrs. Bates played "Arioso" by Bach. For the processional she presented Gordon Young's "Prelude in Classic Style" and played "Recessional" by Cyrus Mallard for the wedding party to exit from the sanctuary.

A sentimental part of the wedding expressed in the language of flowers was the presentation of red roses by the bride to mothers of the couple at appropriate times, before and after they were introduced as Mr. and Mrs. Brent Patterson.

To enhance the beauty of her wedding gown, the bride carried a Golden Maid bouquet consisting of yellow sweetheart roses, white miniature carnations, gypsophila graced with white lace and satin streamers and wore a fingertip veil of bridal illusion which cascaded from a cap covered with lace and pearls.

Presented in marriage for both parents by her father, the bride wore a formal white Chantilly lace gown designed with a waistline bodice featuring a scoop neckline. The Victorian-style sleeves were of sheer lace. Conforming to attractive fashion the A-line skirt was enhanced with rows of sheer organza trimmed in Chantilly lace which swept into a chapel train.

The bride further complemented her costume by carrying for "something old" a linen handkerchief that belonged to her late paternal great-grandmother, and wore her mother's diamond earrings for "something borrowed". The young lady completed tradition with "something new and something blue."

The four bridal attendants wore identical Americana-style princess gowns of yellow flocked crepe featuring closely fitted bodices ornamented at the low necklines with wide self-ruffles which extended thence in drop-shoulder effect, narrow set-in sashes that tied in soft bows and streamers in the back. Smart hemline flounces were special skirt details.

Each young lady wore a white picture hat accented with narrow yellow ribbon bands and streamers.

Miss Karen Andersen participated in the wedding as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Dawn Ella Roddy of Clovis, N.M., cousin of the bride, Miss Penny McKay and Miss Susan Miller. The maid of honor carried two long stemmed yellow roses complemented with baby's breath and streamers and the bridesmaids carried a single long stemmed yellow rose with the same accents.

Miss Alicia Smith of Holliday, the flower girl, wore a long yellow frock trimmed in white lace and carried yellow carnations in a white basket.

Bobby Scott of Binger, Okla., cousin of the bride, was ring bearer.

Attendants of the groom wore dark brown tuxedos trimmed in black with yellow shirts and the groom was attired in a yellow tuxedo with black trim.

Wendell Patterson served his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Dan Burnett of San Marcos, the groom's brother-in-law, Kyle Williams of Jacksboro and Mike Dean of Wichita Falls. Ushers were Steve Greenwood of Waco, cousin of the groom, and Ray Wallander of Denton. The groom wore a yellow carnation centered with a yellow rose for his boutonniere.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Schroeder chose a long gown styled with a long-sleeved off-white horizontally-striped bodice and an apricot print skirt headed with a belt that tied in a soft bow in the front. Mrs. Patterson was attired in an off-white polyester crepe gown with stylish short pleated sleeves and colorful embroidered trim at the square neckline and empire waistline. Yellow orchids worn on their shoulders added the finishing touches to the dresses.

The bride and groom were graduated from Iowa Park High School. She belonged to A Cappella Choir three years and pep squad two years. She was section leader and received Who's Who in choir when she was a senior. She has been working for Boley-Featherston Insurance Co.

The groom was an honor graduate, a member of National Honor Society two years, serving as an officer when he was a senior. He has attended Midwestern State University for two years and will enter Texas A&M University this fall as a biology major.

The church lawn was transformed into a veritable summer garden for the reception following the wedding which was given by the bride's parents. White wrought-iron lawn furniture, marble-topped tables and stands holding abundant bouquets of yellow and white summer flowers and potted plants were placed at vantage spots on the lawn.

Guests were greeted by the bride's mother. Others in the receiving line were the bride's father, the groom's parents, the bride and groom and bridal attendants.

Guests, who did not sign the bride's book in the foyer of the church preceding the ceremony, registered at a table laid with white cutwork embroidery over yellow. Table appointments were dominated by a white frosted anniversary candle made especially for the wedding by the groom's grandmother, Mrs. Odus Mason.

The luminous creation surrounded by puffs of white net was decorated with silver wedding bells, white silk flowers and a rim of gold. Miss Carrie Andersen directed signatures of the guests.

In the foyer the same table was placed in front of a long oak table which held two white baskets filled with yellow silk rosebud rice bags. These were taken to the lawn for distribution during the reception.

The bride's table was attractively draped with a cloth featuring a yellow and white sheer polyester top and a ruffled white satin skirt. A white milk glass votive candelabrum was bedecked with white carnations, roses, gladioli, yellow candytuft and gypsophila and was used as a background for the bride's bouquet for the centerpiece.

Towering in the decorative pattern was the three-tiered bride's cake with one set of filigree dividers and yellow and white confection roses and an appropriate top ornament that lent itself to the garden theme. A filigree white gazebo on a base of organza and net held two white china kissing cherubs silhouetted against yellow silk roses, ribbons and bows and lilies of the valley. Crystal punch services were used on the bride's table and a separate round table covered with yellow and white checked polyester.

The groom's table was laid with a brown and white checked tailored cloth. The table appointments included a three-point white candelabrum holding amber votive candles, white doves and garden flowers in shades of yellow, and an antique flowered-filled vase flanked by amber candles. The names of the bride and groom and their wedding date were spelled out in yellow icing on top of the chocolate cake which was served with coffee from a silver service.

Serving at the bride's table were Miss Becky Murphy, Miss Rhonda Adams and Mrs. Clifton Cummings. At the groom's table were Mrs. Dan Burnett, sister of the groom, and Mrs. Wendell Patterson, his sister-in-law, and Miss Cherry Phillips of Tucson, Ariz.

Houseparty members were Mmes. Glen Miller, Joe Singer, Pete Hughes, Wayne Williams and Jack Railsback.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Patterson were hosts for a dinner Thursday evening in connection with rehearsal for the wedding.

Following the reception, the newlyweds changed to traveling clothes to depart for their wedding trip to Eagle's Nest, N.M., the bride wearing an apricot tangerine crinkle cloth sundress. Before entering their car, they paused to ring the church bell which the groom has rung each Sunday morning for several years to remind people to assemble themselves to-

Bride elect is showered

The decorative setting for a prenuptial shower Saturday afternoon feted Miss Susan Teel, bride-elect of Randy Lind, emphasized her chosen color of blue in an effective combination with an assortment of pastel spring hues.

In the beautiful appointments for the function which took place in the home of Mrs. Rip Smith, the refreshment table covered with white lace over blue was featured. An artistic bouquet of multi-colored silk flowers consisting of white shasta daisies and tea roses, pink geraniums, ice blue baby's breath, white apple blossoms, large soft green majestic daisies and yellow daisy mums formed the floral centerpiece. A gold and crystal epergne with dangling prisms was the container for the arrangement.

The white cake scored in squares centered with blue rosebuds and other refreshments blending with colors in the centerpiece completed the table decor. Co-hostesses were Mes. L.S. Whisnand, Frank Harlin, C.O. Dodd, John Brown and Michael Ehler.

The registry table in the entry hall held a decoupage poem composed especially for the betrothed couple by Mrs. Clark Gresham, former Texas poet laureate, a blue candle bedecked with wedding flowers and symbols, the bride's book and feathered pen.

Two special friends of Miss Teel, Miss Pam Pierce of Maud, Okla. and Miss Nancy Farrand of Hobart, Okla. who will share honors as maids of honor in her wedding, were among out of town guests. Mrs. Norma Teel of Burkburnett, the honoree's paternal grandmother, and Mrs. Charles Good of Petrolia, an aunt, attended the party.

Hostesses presented the bride-elect and her mother, Mrs. L.W. Teel Jr., with corsages fashioned of multi-colored carnations.

The marriage ceremony for the couple will be solemnized July 30 at Faith Baptist Church.

Friendly Door to offer new service programs

A new program which will provide opportunities for community service needs to organize in Iowa Park, according to Myrna Robinson, site manager of Friendly Door. The program will be dependent on volunteers.

Opportunities for service will be afforded through delivering meals to shut-ins, providing two cakes each month for birthday parties, taking people to the doctor, grocery store and taking them to the center.

The telephone program will be of great importance, Mrs. Robinson said. A volunteer calls one person per day, five days a week. The primary purpose is to check on the well-being of a person living alone. The need to locate isolated persons who would like to have this service is very necessary, Mrs. Robinson stressed.

In conjunction with the above services, volunteers will help people with their Food Stamps and Social Security. The number to call for the services is 592-9311 between the hours of 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. or go by the Friendly Door at 201 E. Bank.

Jeanette Brown spoke to the Friendly Door group Monday on "The Importance of Blood Pressure Check-Ups". A birthday and bingo party were also held.

Seventeen members of Friendly Door will join groups from Archer City and Electra next Tuesday for a trip to Canyon to see the play "Texas". They will leave after lunch and return Wednesday.

Retired Persons to meet Friday

The Iowa Park Chapter of American Association of Retired Persons will conduct its first monthly meeting Friday at 10 a.m. in the Reddy Room of Texas Electric Service Co.

Cook of the Week

Many housewives cook over 1,000 meals a year and that necessitates much planning for a variety of attractive family meals that will avoid repetition and stimulate interest.

One primary concern of homemakers is the nutritive value of foods which often makes them feel that nutrition is "Greek", and in reality that is true because many of our nutritional elements trace their origin back years and years. For instance, protein is said to come from the Greek language meaning first, according to one food booklet.

The recipes that Mrs. Donald French shares with Leader readers this week attest to her ability to plan nutritional dishes that afford variety. With a husband and four children to cook for, she must be one of the cooks who realize that it is not easy to keep meals from getting into a rut.

The former Sandra Kephart, she was graduated from high school at Minneapolis, Minn. She and her husband, Donald, who is manager of Sawyer Transport in Wichita Falls, and their four children, Donald Jr., a ninth grader, Dean an eighth grader, Darrin in the fifth grade and Stacy in the second grade, moved to Iowa Park from Wisconsin two and a half years ago. They attend the Catholic Church in Wichita Falls.

Mrs. French was an assistant Blue Bird leader and a room mother last year. Her hobbies include sewing and canning.

Mrs. C.E. Birk was moderator for the Bible study using for a subject "Be Filled with the Spirit". "I added extra insulation at my house. Because my electric bills are up, just like yours."

"The people who work for Texas Electric—like me—get electric bills, too.

I work in billing and I can tell from people's comments that they're concerned about their bills.

Even though I know why they're higher, mainly because of higher fuel and construction costs, I'm concerned about mine, too.

That's why the last couple of years we've been trying to wrap our house in insulation. We've put six inches in the attic and three in the walls. It's really helped.

A friend of ours used to kid us and say we'd just been brain-washed by the electric company. But now he's insulated his attic, too."

School administrators searching

Administrators for the Iowa Park school system are searching high and low for five coaches, as the 1977-78 school year nears.

Besides looking for two head basketball coaches, for boys and girls teams vacated by Mike Billingsley and David Williams recently, they are also seeking replacements for Mrs. Lorna Klinkerman, Marvin Brixey and Mrs. Mike Billingsley.

All have tendered their resignations except Mrs. Billingsley, who has requested a year's leave of absence.

Four trustees met with administrators in a called meeting Tuesday evening to discuss a salary range which could be offered in hiring replacements.

Supt. Faris Nowell and Athletic Director Pat Tone told board members of their problems, which mainly stem around the short period of time the hirings are needed, and salaries which must be available in order to hire quality personnel.

With all public schools, and colleges, enlarging their athletic programs for females, competition has become fierce for qualified personnel, of which there appears to be a shortage, according to Nowell.

Not only were there few coaches qualified to instruct girls' athletics before Title IX, but many boys' coaches have accepted jobs teaching girls, and that has created a void in boys coaches as well, he explained.

Additionally, trustees and administrators of the local school insist on quality classroom teachers of their coaches, and those qualifications make hiring even more difficult, according to discussion Tuesday.

Nowell and Tone told trustees of contacts with numerous well-qualified coaches, but said the salaries for the vacant posts which were approved earlier by the board were not competitive, and they needed a wider range in order to recruit the needed personnel. A salary schedule was approved by trustees.

Williams, who coached girls varsity basketball and track last year, resigned to accept the girls basketball job at Wichita Falls High. Billingsley took the head boys basketball post at Wichita Falls Rider.

Mrs. Klinkerman, who coached volleyball, will neither coach nor teach this year.

Brixey, who coached freshman football and basketball and has been elevated to junior varsity coach this year, will enter business with his father-in-law in Wichita Falls.

The successful junior high girls' basketball coach, Mrs. Billingsley, has asked for a leave of absence. Her eighth grade team went undefeated last year.

Tone pointed out that his football coaches needed to be available by Aug. 1, at which time the staff will start its preparation for the season. Girls' basketball workouts start soon after school opens, and girls' volleyball season is in the fall now, rather than the spring as two years ago.

Prior to adjourning the meeting, trustees held an executive meeting on personnel, closed to the public. When it reconvened eight minutes later there was no motion or mention of what transacted, however.

Arson

9:20 p.m. Tuesday. He said he always left a light on for protection against burglars.

However, a clock in the restaurant's dining room had stopped at 10:20 p.m., indicating electrical service had been interrupted about an hour after Bray closed.

"Somebody either cut the electricity or the breaker went off," Koonce added.

There was evidence the arsonist could have gained entry by ripping the wire off a small vent window, then reaching through to unlatch the rear door from the inside.

In addition to the fire, Bray said almost $300 in cash and coins was taken. He said the money had been left in a drawer he removed from the cash register and hid behind a counter.

Coins also were missing which dismissed any theory that the money burned in the blaze.

"They just took the money out of the drawer, pennies and all ... $284 is the best I can figure," Bray said Wednesday morning, weary of being on his feet since arriving at the scene about 3 a.m. Wednesday.

Mini Buffet had been in business here about a month, and was located in the building which previously housed JRC Corral.

As I See It...

by BOB HAMILTON

Some government officials need a crash course in economics.

A strong case in point is the Postal Service's actions to raise rates, announced this week in Washington.

The Postal Service recommended raising all first class mail from 13 cents to 16. But President Carter, apparently worried about re-election already, sold Service's board on keeping private mail at 13, but raising all other.

How many people are going to be fooled by this move?

Everybody is going to pay higher prices caused by the increased rates, whether directly to the post office or to business. If the rate hike is approved, and I'm not so sure it will be, the private mail would be subsidized by business postage. It's the same old story, soak the businessman.

Does Carter not know that business must raise its prices to pay for the increased postal rates? I think he does, but he's passing the buck, making it look like business is causing higher costs to the public.

The way the program is worded, private letters of certain size requirements, must have all hand writing on the envelope. Postal workers are to sort these separately from business mail, and then handle officials say it will cost no more and not present a delaying problem.

You can believe it if you want. With all the other postage rates going up also, the cost of living will be spiraling over the next couple of years.

But postage won't be the only cause. Seems the president and union leaders have agreed that minimum wage needs to go up some more, to slightly over $3. Do you know who is going to come out on this? No one, except maybe government.

It works this way, business prices must be raised to absorb the increased cost of labor. That eats away at the purchasing power of increased wages. And government, taking its set percentages of social security, income, sales and other types of taxes, will increase its income. But not the public.

If postage rates and minimum rates are allowed to be increased, as proposed, you will see the cost of living increase by at least another 25 per cent by 1980.

ment that their audit cost would not run as high as the $7,500 last year, due to improved bookkeeping procedures of the city office.

While on the trash pickup request, aldermen approved a recommendation by Britton that any business in the extraterritorial jurisdiction of the city could purchase a trash dump permit for between $50 and $200 annually, depending on the amount of use.

It was pointed out that residents could purchase an annual permit for $50, if they lived outside the city.

Miss House is showered

Decorations depicting the bride-elect's chosen colors of yellow and green were noted in the setting for a miscellaneous shower given Thursday evening in honor of Miss Ann House, bride-elect of James McLemore.

The Fellowship Hall of First United Methodist Church was the scene of the reception where the refreshment table was featured in the decorative scheme. Laid with ecru lace over green, the centerpiece consisted of yellow daisies and dahlias with their foliage providing the green color. The refreshments further emphasized the chosen shades.

A lovely collection of gifts was presented to the honoree and displayed for guests to view.

Hostesses for the affair included Mmes. Floyd Adams, Don Beals, T.C. Berry, Otis Gay, Raymond Cope, Willie Fred Hastings, H.M.

Mahler, Billy Mashburn, Rollin Roberts, Bill Robinson, John Sibley, James Stewart and Gene Owens.

Yellow chrysanthemums tied with green ribbons were fashioned into corsages presented to the future bride, her mother, Mrs. Wayne House, and to her fiance's mother, Mrs. J.W. McLemore.

Miss Elizabeth Ward and Miss Shannon Hail, cousins of Miss House, presided at the register during the reception. Miss Anita Mashburn and Miss Betsy House, sister of the bride-to-be, assisted her with unwrapping the gifts.

Grandmothers of the engaged couple attending were Mrs. W.G. Edwards of Wichita Falls and Mrs. O.S. McLemore of Iowa Park.

Auction drawing near

To benefit handicapped children, adults

A giant roundup is under way and in less than three weeks, assorted livestock and miscellaneous merchandise will be auctioned for the benefit of handicapped children and adults.

July 30 is the date of the ninth annual Crippled Children's Livestock Auction for the North Texas Easter Seal Rehabilitation Center in Wichita Falls where Wichita County residents receive needed therapy.

The sale will be held at 1 p.m. at the Wichita Livestock Auction on Sheppard Access Road, with the owners, Neal and Doc Collier donating their services and facilities.

Auctioneer will be Hollis Dickey of Ringling, Okla., who also contributes his efforts to help raise funds needed for operation of the rehabilitation center.

Joe Parker of Byers, rancher who is general chairman of the auction, said that in the past, residents of Wichita County have been "generous" in supporting the sale.

He said he is confident that contributors of cattle, horses and other livestock or those who donate cash will "come on strong" this year. So far eight head of livestock have been pledged and $7,477.11 has been contributed.

"Our goal is to raise $120,000 at the July 30 Auction," Parker said. "And we can do this if everyone will continue to give generously."

Growth stimulate, grub control demonstration established here

By DON D. DECKER
County Agent

A growth stimulate and a cattle grub control demonstration has been established with the Thompson Ranch of Iowa Park, under the supervision of Darryl Blackwell, farm and ranch demonstrator. A growth stimulate is being tried on Thompson's calves while systemic grub control is being used on the cow herd. Ralgrow was implanted into the ears of 19 calves with four calves left as checks or controls. The pellets were placed just under the skin about one inch from the base of the ear. Care was taken not to place the pellets into the ear cartilage or blood vessel. The needle was backed off about one-fourth inch before pressing the plunger in order to prevent crushing of the pellets. Weights were taken on each calf and animals were identified with ear tags. These animals will be weighed again in 100 days for the purpose of measuring response to the growth implants. Ralgrow is active for approximately 100 days. Animals can be reimplanted for additional growth stimulation. Thompsons' plan to sell the calves at the end of the test period. Implants are expected to give about 18 to 22 pounds growth response. This figures about $6.60 increase per calf. Cost of the material is approximately 60c which gives a net return per calf of $6 from this practice. Three materials were applied in the cattle grub control test. Five Angus cows were treated with GX 118 at the rate of eight ounces diluted mixture per cow. Another six Hereford cows were treated with 16 cc of Spoton while five black baldfaced cows received five ounces of Anchor pour-on. All materials were applied to the backs of the cattle. Four crossbred cows were left for control or checks. The cow herd will be inspected in November or December to measure the results of the various materials. Grub counts will be used to determine the effectiveness of the treatments. The demonstration was directed by Dr. Whitney Rounds, Extension livestock specialist. Handling the cattle was done on short order with Alvin Thompson on the chute headgate, Blackwell catching the weights on the portable scales, Mark Thompson injecting the Ralgrow implants and applying the backline pour-on chemicals, Dr. Rounds ear tagging and ear ticking, and Larry Thompson hazing the cattle through the chute. Both of these practices can be applied when the herd is being normally handled for working calves or spraying for fly control.

Thompson's have a good set of cows with Brangus bred calves.

It's pickle-making time

DEE E. JAMES
Wichita County
Pickle Making

Pickles add spice to meals and snacks. The skillful blending of spice, sugar and vinegar with fruits and vegetables gives crisp firm texture and pungent, sweet-sour flavor. Pickles and relishes contribute some minerals and vitamins, contain little or no fat and, except for the sweet type, are low in calories. Some are high in sodium content, however.

Pickles are generally made from fruits and vegetables, including cucumbers, green tomatoes, okra, green beans, zucchini squash, onion, cauliflower and beets.

Pickles are classified on the basis of ingredients and preparation method.

FRESH-PACK are quick-process pickles, such as cross-cut cucumber slices and whole cucumber dills, gherkins and dilled green beans. These are short-brined for several hours or overnight, then drained and combined with boiling hot vinegar, spices and other seasonings. These are quick and easy to prepare, and they have a tart pungent flavor.

BRINED - OR - GERMENTED - PICKLES go through a curing process of about three weeks. Dilled cucumbers and sauerkraut belong to this group, while other vegetables, such as green tomatoes, also may be cured the same way.

FRUIT PICKLES feature whole fruits simmered in a spicy, sweet-sour syrup. Pears, peaches and watermelon rind are prepared this way.

RELISHES are fruits and vegetables which are chopped and seasoned, and then cooked to the desired consistency. Some are piccalilli, pepper-onion, tomato-apple chutney, tomato-pear chutney, horseradish and corn relish.

To obtain satisfactory pickle products, use good quality ingredients and proper procedures -- correct proportions of salt, vinegar and spices are essential. Select tender vegetables and firm fruit. Pears and peaches may be slightly underripe for pickling. Use unwaxed cucumbers for pickling whole, as the brine cannot penetrate wax.

Use fruits and vegetables as soon as possible after harvesting or after purchasing from a market. If they cannot be used immediately, refrigerate them or spread them where they will be well ventilated and cold.

Do not use fruits and vegetables that show even slight evidence of mold. Proper processing kills potential spoilage organisms but does not destroy the off-flavor that may be produced by mold growth in the tissue.

In preparing cucumbers be sure to remove all blossoms, as they may be the source of the enzyme responsible for softening the cucumbers during fermentation.

Use pure granulated salt if available. Regular table salt has fillers to prevent lumping and may cause cloudy brine. Use a high-grade cider or white distilled vinegar of 4 to 6 per cent acidity (40 to 60 grain). Vinegars of unknown acidity should not be used. Do not dilute the vinegar unless the recipe so specifies. If a less sour product is preferred, add sugar rather than decrease vinegar.

Use either white granulated or brown sugar. White sugar gives a product a lighter color. Use soft water if possible to assure proper acidity. If not available, boil the water and remove the scum before using.

For heating pickle liquids use utensils of unchipped enamelware, stainless steel, aluminum or glass. Metal utensils, such as copper, brass, galvanized metal and iron react with acids and salts and cause undesirable color changes and make the pickles unsafe to use.

For fermenting or brining pickles, use crock, stoneware, glass or unchipped enamel bowls or casseroles. All pickles are recommended to be processed in a boiling water bath.

City council rejects TESCO rate request

Holliday City Council Tuesday night rejected Texas Electric Service Company's (TESCO) request for a 25 per cent rate increase.

Mayor Jim Darr was forced to cast the tie breaker. "I think we can all accept the fact that we have an energy problem," Don Ruth, TESCO's Holliday manager, told the council.

Ruth said the additional revenues generated by the rate increase would be used to develop alternatives to depleting gas and oil energy reserves.

He said TESCO produces 30 per cent of its electricity with lignite, and that the additional revenues would be used to further explore the uses of lignite and nuclear energy.

"That's what our request is all about," Ruth said. "That looks like an awful big jump to me," said Darr.

The council began its search for a new policeman at Tuesday night's meeting. By Tuesday night the city had received two applications from persons wanting to fill the vacancy left by Lomax Campbell, who reportedly has taken a position with the police department at Olney.

One of the applicants, a Wichita Falls man, was interviewed by the council Tuesday night. The council voted itself into executive session and interviewed the applicant for about 30 minutes behind closed doors.

FIREMENS SALE SATURDAY - Holliday Volunteer Fire Department will hold its second annual auction at 9:30 a.m. Saturday in a section of Main south of the Seymour Highway. To benefit the purchase of a new fire truck, all types of merchandise will be up for sale to the highest bidder including kitchen ranges, washers, dryers, furniture, air conditioners, tools and antiques. It's not too late to make donations of items to be sold. Just call 586-1225 and a fireman will be happy to pickup any donated items. Johnny Choate will be auctioneer Saturday.

However, Alderman Ben Ezzell said he was opposed to the idea of a state agency setting Holliday's rate. Alderman Fred Maier made little comment, but indicated an interest in the city's bargaining power with TESCO if the city decided to postpone action for 120 days.

Councilman Red Denney was absent from Tuesday night's regular session.

Parker made the motion to reject TESCO's proposal, and it was seconded by Bills. They voted to reject, while Ezzell and Maier turned down the motion.

The tie vote was broken when the mayor voted in favor of rejecting the rate hike request.

While most other cities in the area have voted to suspend action on the TESCO request, Holliday now joins Archer City among cities which have flatly rejected the proposal.

No action was taken concerning the police department here, but there were indications the council would meet in special session Monday night to screen any additional applicants.

DUMP ATTENDANT

Keith Kitchell appeared before the council with a complaint that he had been unable to get into the city's dump ground during hours the facility was supposed to be open. He said he couldn't get into the dump around 3 p.m. on a Saturday.

The mayor said he had received several bad reports on the persons hired to oversee the dump, Tex and Maggie Pendergrass. Following a lengthy discussion the council voted to release the Pendergrass' as dump ground attendants and hire Tom Hall to run the facility.

Hall, who also serves as municipal judge, will assume the duty July 15 at the same salary received by the Pendergrasses, $200 a month.

The council also was informed new, strict regulations may be forced on the city and residents outlawing the burning of trash by individuals and at the municipal dump.

A final decision should be reached at the council's July 26 meeting after it has received additional information from the Texas Air Quality Control Board.

PLAT ACTION DELAYED

The council tabled for two weeks action on a plat submitted by G.R. "Biggon" Killian.

Killian submitted a plat for the Los Brisas Addition, an area near Siesta Lane east of the city. Killian has proposed to purchase a sewage lift station and sewer lines for the addition if the city would install the facilities.

Holiday Happenings

With the gridiron season just around the corner, it's not too early to begin thinking about adult leadership for next year's Top Of Texas Football League.

Coaches are needed Holliday's two teams. One team is ages 8-9, and the other group is ages 10-11.

Anyone interested in coaching one of the Holliday teams may obtain more information by calling 586-1271 or 586-1148.

In addition, all players must have their physicals complete by Sept. 1.

Artists interested in entering their work in the Holliday Art Festival may do so by calling Erma Barton at 586-1463 or Ruby Robertson at 586-1248.

Jon Hodge of Holliday received a Division I rating in trumpet during state UIL competition in Austin, according to Dwade Reinsch, Holliday band director.

Reinsch said about a dozen of his students had attended band camps this summer including the one hosted by Midwestern State University. Holliday's preschool band camp will begin Aug. 8, Reinsch added.

School hires coach

Holliday's coaching staff will be increased in the fall when veteran teacher and coach Jerald "Cotton" Davis steps in as new girls varsity basketball coach.

Davis was introduced to trustees by Don Lucy, head football coach and athletic director. The board visited with Davis and Lucy for several minutes before voting itself into executive session.

The meeting was re-opened to the public after the 10-minute executive meeting.

Trustee Joe Wells motioned to hire Davis at $2,000 above state schedule. The motion was unanimously approved.

Trustees Terry Parnell and Jack Ayres were absent.

Davis will be coaching girls varsity basketball, junior high football and girls track, Lucy explained. He will teach social studies.

Davis has been involved in the teaching and coaching profession 13 years, starting at Prairie Valley, Okla. He also worked at Ada, Walters and Maude, Okla.

The new coach attended Midwestern State University and graduated from East Central State at Ada.

He and his wife have two children and they live just across the Red River north of Burkburnett. They are in the process of finding residence in Holliday.

Lucy and the school board still have a vacancy to fill in the coaching department as the result of the resignation of Walter Lemons, who was head boys varsity basketball coach and assistant football coach.

The problem of state school financing also surfaced at Monday night's meeting.

Supt. Ray Coe was just back from Austin where he attended public hearings on school finance which preceded the special legislative session begun Monday.

Holliday schools must have its proposed budget on file with the Texas Education Agency by Aug. 31. Depending on when the legislature takes action on school finance, the school may have to meet in called session to approve the new budget in order to meet the filing deadline.

In other action Monday night the board discussed surfacing the new school parking areas and accepted the monthly tax assessor-collector's report.

The board renewed its school student accident and athletic insurance policy, and approved another year's contract with Pritchard-Abbott tax consultants.

Trustees approved the Plan B school lunch program and voted to pay the monthly bills.

Monday night's meeting lasted 1½ hours. Other visitors included Don Talley.

Paperless business office

Southwestern Bell is trying to take the "paper" out of its work-literally. The company has implemented a new business office record keeping process in Iowa Park which will slash customer waiting time in locating service information. "The new record keeping system is similar to a microfilm process," says Gary Cook, local manager for Southwestern Bell. "Customer billing and equipment records are condensed and photographically reproduced on razor-thin pieces of microfiche, small sheets of microfilm containing hundreds of images."

Using this process, she explains, billing records for 250 customers can be placed on one postcard-sized microfiche. To the customer, this reduced volume of records means telephone company employees can locate documents easier and quicker and records are seldom, if ever, lost or misplaced, Cook says. Instead of handling limited number of accounts, which was the routine under the old system, each company service representative handles all accounts within the scope of the business office's exchange unit.

"Compact microfiche trays about the size of a loaf of bread have replaced service representatives files that once bulged with paper," he says. "We're not only saving time with microfiche, we've also won a battle with spiraling paper prices."

The microfiche process is currently in use throughout Texas and will eventually go into operation company-wide, which includes the states of Oklahoma, Missouri, Arkansas, and Kansas. The "fiche" part of this process is pronounced "fish," he says, and when service reps fish for customers' records, they find the needed information within seconds. That adds up to better service.

$1,998.34 check from bike ride

Mrs. Tom Venhaus, treasurer of Epsilon Eta chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha, reported this week that she had sent a check for $1,998.34 to the Multi-Million Dollar Bike Ride headquarters at Loveland, Colo. The money was collected from the bike ride sponsored by the sorority the first of June.
