SAUCY LITTLE JAPAN

Tells Uncle Sam to Get Off the Earth

SO FAR AS CONCERNS HAWAII

But Uncle Sam Will Give the Mega-Locephalous Little Empire Time for Reflection—Diplomacy Seems Necessary to Keep the Lilliputians Away from the Buzz Saw.

Washington, June 23.—The Hawaiian annexation treaty formed the principal topic on foreign relations at its brief session today. The treaty and accompanying papers were read and referred to a sub-committee consisting of Senators Foraker, Davis and Morgan, with instructions to investigate the entire question and report to the full committee on the 27th inst. The protest made by Japan against the annexation.

Diplomacy Required. Japan's protest against the Hawaiian treaty is in such definite terms and so directed so squarely at the transaction as to cause the committee to feel that the entire matter should be handled with the utmost circumspection and in the way in which complications of a serious nature can be avoided. While there is no disposition on the part of the majority of the committee to weaken its support of the treaty, there is a general feeling that the friendly relations which have always existed between Japan and the United States call for proceeding in the matter. Hence the appointment of the sub-committee to consider all the details of the treaty, and to permit the decision to be made in a public and open manner, and to provide for the possibility that the committee may not be able to report during the present session of congress.

Need of Delay. With reference to this latter point, it may be stated as extremely probable that the matter will be held in abeyance until the regular session next December for the double purpose of permitting the committee to make its investigation as thorough as possible and to permit the Hawaiian government to have the benefit of the wisdom of her course. It is understood in this connection that the delay is in accordance with the wishes of the administration as intimated to members of the senate.

The opinion was expressed in the committee that a document of the character of that filed by Japan would if presented by a nation more nearly the equal of the United States lead to a general desire to extend unusual consideration towards the Asiatic state not only because of the uniformly friendly relations which exist between that country and this, but also because it is felt that Japan's success in her war with China may have had the effect of arousing a spirit of combative aggressiveness which is not warranted in the opinion of the members of the committee by her relative size and importance as compared with the United States.

MORGAN'S BILL

The Senator Explains Its Purpose and His Intentions.

Washington, June 23.—Senator Morgan today introduced a bill for the annexation of the Hawaiian islands. The bill provides that the islands shall become the territory of the United States in accordance with the terms of the recently negotiated treaty, and that the extension of the laws of this country over the islands is the fourth of March, 1888, but it is specifically provided that they may be put in force at an earlier day if congress so directs. It is also directed that the five commissioners provided for by the treaty to make recommendations to congress in matters pertaining to Hawaii shall be confirmed by the senate. The bill appropriates a million dollars for the execution of its provisions. It also provides for the payment of the principal of this debt is deferred.

A FINGER IN THE PIE.

Commoner Beckett Will Ask Questions About Hawaii.

London, June 23.—The house commons tomorrow Ernest William Beckett, conservative member for the Whitley division of the North Riding of Yorkshire, will question the government as to whether it is aware that "Queen Liluokalani" has been deposed by a small body of Americans, without right or title, has assumed sovereignty over the Hawaiian islands, and how she has defended herself.

REPLY TO JAPAN.

Washington, June 23.—The state department has practically completed its reply to the Japanese protest against the Hawaiian annexation treaty, but has not yet delivered it. The reply is understood to be drafted in tone, a strong defense of our position, and to contain no intimation in any sense abating our claims, does not disclaim to support them by much citation of precedent and international law.

England and Hawaii.

New York, June 23.—Sir Julian Pauley called for London today. When questioned as to Hawaii, he said to a reporter: "My hands and my tongue are off Hawaii as well as off Cuba. I can handle neither question and certainly would not discuss either topic. One thing about Hawaii may be said, though England and America are not likely to quarrel over the matter and it is my profound hope they will never quarrel on any other."

CONFEDERATE VETERANS.

Will Meet in Atlanta Next Year.

Nashville, Tenn., June 23.—At the business meeting of Confederate veterans this afternoon it was voted to meet in Atlanta next year. A resolution commendatory of the reign of Queen Victoria was voted down and the resolution of praise for the queen's jubilee was defeated.

Tomorrow the 15,000 ex-confederates and their friends will devote themselves to social recreations. The great parade occurs tomorrow. Ten thousand will be in line. Governor Taylor and staff, Governor O'Ferrall of Virginia, the staff of Governor Culberson of Texas, members of the Texas legislature, Generalis Buckner, Stuart, Wheaton, Evans, Michajala Wood and others will be in line. All the states forming the Southern Confederacy will be represented in the order in which they voted to secede. At the central exposition grounds a jubilee meeting will be held in the auditorium.

Pittsburgh report made to the business meeting today was by the committee on history. The committee in substance reported in favor of the plan now pursued of inviting many writers into the field of history rather than selecting one or more to write a history.

Cleveland-Louisville. Cleveland, June 23.—Powell pitched his first game for Cleveland and held the Louisville down to three hits. The Louisville only was forced in on a questionable decision that Clark had been hit on the fingers by a pitched ball, at which he struck. The Indians found McGee an easy victim and he was hit hard. TALKED ABOUT BRYAN

His Tariff Record Discussed in the Senate.

HE VOTED FOR FREE WOOL

And Mr. Hoar Claimed that Had He Silver Candidate Been Elected He Would Have Voted Any Tariff Bill—Seventeen Paragraphs of the Bill Disposed of.

Washington, June 23.—After a contest lasting throughout the day, the senate completed the paragraph of the wool schedule relating to raw wool and advanced into the features relating to manufactured wools. The wool schedule was largely to discussion of the effect of tariff rates on the price of wool, and the speeches were on technical lines in the main.

A Lively Diversion. At one point Mr. Hoar diverted the discussion by a reference to Wm. J. Bryan's opposition to the tariff. This brought Senators Mantle and Allen and Stewart into the discussion.

Mr. Hoar was drawn into the controversy, and in a few remarks warned his former Republican associates that their hopes of prosperity from this bill would be blasted.

Mr. Quay made a strong effort to have the house ad valorem rates on third class wool adopted, but he was defeated, 19-41.

Ratees Agreed To. The committee rates were then agreed to, viz: Four cents per pound on third class wool valued at 10 cents or less per pound extra six cents per pound on third class wool valued at 11 cents or more per pound. The schedule was completed up to paragraph 364, relating to cloths, knit fabrics, etc.

Details of Debate. Mr. Vest pointed out conflicts between the views of Messrs. Lawrence and Justice, two wool experts, and said if those recognized authorities were so far apart, how could the laymen be expected to get at the truth.

Mr. Mantle criticized some of the statements of Mr. Justice, particularly that to the effect that more than 1 per cent. of wool grown in this country was carpet wool.

Mr. Justice asserted that one-eighth of the wool of the common sheep was classed as carpet wool, and that he would regard it most equitable to levy a specific duty on all carpet wools without any distinction as to ad valorem laid to under valuation. The wool schedule was completed up to paragraph 364, relating to cloths, knit fabrics, etc.

Mr. Mills' Argument. Mr. Mills of Texas said it was incomprehensible to him how wool, an undervalued article, should be increased by a duty. He said that the price of wool could be raised by the tariff any more than the price of cotton could be increased by a duty.

When Mr. Mills quoted certain low rates in Montana wools under the McKinley law, Mr. Carter responded that these were quoted at a time when the passage of the Wilson bill was anticipated, serving to send down the price.

Mr. Gray (re) of a revolt against the demands of the wool growers association. "If those who oppose these high duties upon wool are not considered enemies," said Mr. Gray, "they must take their position as enemies, and they will not be lacking in resources to make their opposition felt."

Mr. Hoar said that the McKinley law was designed to veto a tariff bill. "Mr. Hoar said Mr. Bryan's record in the house of representatives would throw some light on the subject."

He was supported by nearly all the free traders in the country," added Mr. Hoar, "and if the party did not pledge him, he pledged the party."

In Defense of Bryan. Mr. Allen said the statement of Mr. Hoar as to the silver candidate for the presidency was pledged to veto a tariff bill. There was nothing in what Mr. Bryan had said justifying an assertion that he would have vetoed a tariff bill. If it had been a bill of confiscation, doubtless he would have vetoed it.

Mr. Hoar brought forward copies of the record, showing Mr. Bryan's course on the tariff. He had voted in the house on the wool on the free list; he had voted in triumph Mr. Wilson, who had denounced protection as robbery; he had denounced protection as a robbery.

"I have a good deal of respect for Mr. Bryan," continued Mr. Hoar. "His character has impressed me very favorably, and I have never joined in criticisms upon him, but if he would not veto a tariff bill after such utterances, I would not have much respect for him."

Mr. Stewart of Nevada, thought those criticisms of Mr. Bryan were most unfair, for said the senator, an examination of Mr. Bryan's record would show him to have voted for free and unlimited commerce of silver.

Mr. Stewart stated that during the consideration of the Bland-Allison act, Mr. McKinley had voted at every stage "with the most radical silver men." Even as late as 1884, in the McKinley speech at Toledo denouncing Mr. Cleveland for discriminating between the two metals.

Mr. Stewart raised a laugh as he closed by saying, very earnestly, that "it was no use criticizing Mr. Bryan, as he's going to be the next president."

HANNA'S SPEECH AT TOLEDO

The Feature of the Convention—Outward Harmony Restored—Silverites at Des Moines Started Up the Old Familiar Tune that Candidate Bryan Died on.

Toledo, June 23.—The Republican state convention completed its work today in a session of less than four hours. While Senator Hanna was in the hall for two days for the control of the state central committee, there was every appearance of harmony and enthusiasm today. Two contested districts were decided in favor of the Dick candidates, and this showed that the state committee stood 17 for Dick and 4 for Kurtz.

Senator Hanna was not only congratulated on the result, but all the delegates were seeking admittance to his apartments for conferences.

Bushnell Complacent. Governor Bushnell not only accepted the situation of the convention, but the convention assembled by having friendly congratulations with Senator Hanna, but he also made a strong speech of acceptance in the convention. Governor Bushnell declared: "In spite of the statements of the Democratic press, I accept" that was a long speech before the convention.

ALL TO SMITHEREENS

Freshmen Records Smashed on the Hudson.

THE CRIMSON LED THE BLUE

Cornell in Third Place—All Three Crews Beat the Best Previous Freshman Record—The Result is Considered an Indication for the Varsity Race on Friday.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 23.—Three crews of freshmen on the Hudson this evening smashed to smithereens all previous records for freshmen on a two-mile course and put up one of the hottest inter-collegiate races ever witnessed in this country.

A crew of sturdy men of Yale rowed the course in nine minutes 19 1/2 seconds; a crew from Cornell, the last crew in the regatta, followed in 10 minutes 11 1/2 seconds; and a crew from Harvard finished them every inch of the way and finished a trifle over two lengths behind Cornell in 10 minutes 11 1/2 seconds.

The best of the regatta was the 2000-meter race, in which the Cornell crew finished a length behind Harvard in 9:25. The Cornell crew, the last crew in the regatta, was 9:41, made by the Columbia men crew of '94 at New London in 1891.

While the conditions here are better for fast time than upon the Thames, and while all the crews had allowed themselves to be made for the much better exhibition today, the day's race was a very remarkable one, all three of the crews having lower times than the last crew in the regatta—doing so by 1 1/2 seconds. All three of the crews used every pound of power in their boats at every stage of the race, and the Cornell crew, who were in the lead, were in the lead for most of the race was in the lead.

Believed Prophetic. The victory of today is looked upon by the crews here tonight as being in some measure indicative of the result of Friday's big varsity race. It is not considered that the order of finish will be the same for Mr. Lehman of Harvard, who has all along said that his freshmen had been badly neglected, and he is not looked upon as a representative freshman crew. On the contrary, the Yale crew of youngsters had been the best in the regatta, and the Cornell crew, who were in the lead, were in the lead for most of the race was in the lead.

The start which was originally scheduled for 8:30 was postponed because of poor conditions until 7 o'clock. Then the crews were gotten in line and at 7:10 the pistol sounded.

Harvard got the best clip on the water and the Cornell crew drew to the front closely followed by the Cornell crew, with Yale almost a quarter of a length to the rear.

Harvard and Cornell started at 25 strokes to the minute and Yale at 24. At the eighth mile, Yale, finding that she was trailing behind, increased her stroke to 28 and began to draw up, while Harvard and Cornell dropped down to 24 each.

At the quarter Yale was still behind, but seemed to be rowing easily, while Harvard and Cornell were working hard, Cornell drawing up on Harvard's lead. Yale was easing her stroke, and within the hour the Cornell crew drew to the front and Cornell dropped down to 24 each.

DAY OF RECEPTIONS

The Queen Received Parliament and Deputations.

A GALA NIGHT AT THE OPERA

Maurice Grau Delighted a Brilliant Assemblage by a Notable Programme at Covent Garden—Scenes of Unrivalled Splendor—Immense Crowds Blockaded the Streets.

London, June 23.—This day was one of the most fatiguing of the week for the queen, the official programme demanding the reception of several bodies of officials, an inspection of the body guard and yeomen of the guard, a garden party, and the reception of addresses at Slough, Eaton and Windsor.

An Unusual Event.

Nearly half a century has passed since the house of commons visited the sovereign in a body, the last occasion being the presentation of an address acknowledging the receipt of the queen's message announcing the declaration of war against Russia, and not since the early forties, when addresses were made congratulating the queen on the failure of two attempts at assassination, has she received the two houses together.

The Queen's Entrance.

The queen was wheeled into the ball room by an Indian attendant. She wore a black beaded dress, a black and white striped skirt, and a widow's cap and carried a white fan and a locket. Her majesty also wore the ribbon of the order of the garter. The scene was magnificent.

The Commemoration.

The lord chamberlain, immediately left the room, and returning, ushered into her majesty's presence the members of the house of commons. The latter advanced between two lines of gentlemen at arms, brilliantly uniformed.

Triumphal Return.

In the afternoon the queen returned to Windsor, and her progress was a triumphal procession. On the route the royal party made stops at Slough, Eaton, college and Windsor, where they were received by the local authorities with impressive formalities and most enthusiastically welcomed by the populace.

AT COVENT GARDEN.

Gala Night at the Opera which Rivalled in Gorgeousness the Preceding Events of the Week.

London, June 23.—Tonight was a gala night at Covent Garden opera house, where the whole programme and performance reflected the greatest credit on Maurice Grau.

A Most Gorgeous Scene.

The event fairly rivaled the procession as an attraction to Londoners. For miles around Covent Garden the streets were crowded and the crush of carriages was so dense that many men wearing gorgeous uniforms and covered with jewels had to walk long distances amid the varying comments of the crowd.

San Francisco Ticket Brokers.

Chicago, June 23.—It is reported that the Rio Grande Western has taken the same action with regard to the San Francisco market as the Union Pacific has recently done. It has cleared the market of all tickets of its issue that were in the hands of brokers and has notified all concerned that it will pay no more commissions or commissions of any sort except to authorized agents of connecting lines.

the second act of "Tannhauser," third act of Gounod's "Romeo and Juliet," and the fourth act of "The Huguenots."

Incomparable Loveliness.

The scene was one of incomparable loveliness. The whole interior of the structure was hidden by freshly cut flowers, principally roses. The upper tier of boxes was a mass of Marechal Niel roses. The next tier a mass of pink roses, and the bottom tier of rich dark red roses.

Beautiful Jewels.

The royal group seemed a collection of glittering orders and beautiful jewels. The Princess of Naples wore some wonderful diamonds and the Grand Duchess Sergius displayed the largest emerald in the world.

Lord Rothschild's Supper.

London, June 23.—After the performance in Covent Garden the Prince and Princess of Wales and the royal party were entertained at a supper by Lord Rothschild at his home in Piccadilly. A dance followed. There were 800 guests.

CROWDED STREETS.

London Thoroughfares Last Night Packed to Suffocation.

London, June 23.—Great crowds are visible in the thoroughfares this evening, crowds much greater than those of Tuesday night. The processional route and the wide streets were packed with every conceivable sort of vehicle, from cabs to carriages.

Newspaper Appreciation.

London, June 23.—All the London newspapers from the Times down, express the greatest gratification at the kindly comments of the American newspapers on the Queen's jubilee, and at the vivid accounts of the celebration contained in the newspapers of the United States.

SELLING OUT.

It has now been decided to reduce it to $700,000 by the payment to the stockholders of a cash dividend of $250,000.

Spanish Disturbances.

Madrid, June 23.—Disturbances have taken place at Ourense, capital of the Spanish province of that name. The gendarmes who were detailed to suppress the disorder fired upon the rioters, killing two workmen and wounding five others. A renewal of the disturbance is feared.

COLORADO SPRINGS AS A SUMMER RESORT.

Colorado Springs owes its existence principally to the fact that it is a health resort, but we see no reason why it should not become equally famous as a summer resort.

Those who understand the real facts of the case know that the invalids who go east in the summer do so for the sake of a change from this high altitude, and because the winters in most other localities are too severe for them.

The very fact of so many leaving Colorado Springs at this time of year should be an additional inducement for strangers to come here. This exodus leaves a number of completely furnished houses for rent at very reasonable prices.

We know of no climate which is more delightful in summer than that of Colorado Springs, while the thermometer registers a temperature almost as high as it does in some of the eastern cities.

For those who do not care to rent furnished houses we have exceptional hotels and boarding accommodations. Our markets afford all the necessities and luxuries of the seasons and living expenses are no greater than in the east.

The suburban resorts and places of amusement are far above the average, and no one could wish for more beautiful and diversified drives and bicycle paths than those surrounding this city.

For mountain climbers we offer small mountains galore, those of about 5500 feet, and with Pike's Peak and its 14,000 feet as a crowning inducement.

While we are supposed to have almost daily showers during the rainy season, they rarely last for more than an hour, and long days of the necessary incarceration are unknown in this locality.

Those who care for fishing, hunting and camping could not select a better place for headquarters than Colorado Springs. The only possible drawback as a summer resort is the lack of the "summer girl."

We cannot offer picturesque cowboys or Indians as attractions because "Little London" is decidedly an eastern settlement. Still other resorts do not mention these inducements, and when they do we may possibly attempt to compete with them.

Some of those who may object to going to a health resort for summer recreation. For the benefit of these we will state that illness here is not what it is in the east.

It is unfortunate that the people of the east know so little about us; they know of our existence in a vague way and imagine Colorado Springs a large sanitarium, instead of truly picturing us as one of the most cosmopolitan and ideal pleasure resorts in the world.

Possibly if we had a chamber of commerce some of these facts might become known. Advertisement is necessary in these days, even for an article of real worth.

ENFORCE THE LAW WITH VIGOR. The city authorities have been making desperate efforts to improve all the streets of this city, and they have reached a point where they need the aid of some property and real estate owners.

The destruction of the bodies of the weeds, which covered and in many places still cover the streets, is only temporary and the city will have to look after the subsequent growth.

However, while all this work of necessary improvement has been going on, interested in the cause where owners of vacant lots of their agents, have manifested any interest in freeing the sidewalks facing their possessions of grass and weeds, or making any attempt to show their "corner lots" off to advantage.

But we do not pretend to suggest to owners of vacant lots a means whereby higher values may be secured.

A correction of this evil is still another matter for the city authorities to look after.

If the owners or agents have no interest in the fenced portion of their property they should be made to respect municipal laws, or stand the full limit of municipal punishment.

It seems to be a somewhat difficult task to ascertain correctly whether equal suffrage leads to the demoralizing results claimed by so many.

Colorado is held up as a choice mark for the arrows of the enemies of political equal suffrage.

The articles written by Miss Priscilla Leonard and Miss Charlotte M. Vaile are said to have had an effect upon the movement which is in the highest degree damaging.

One lance, however, is lifted in defense of the Colorado cause by the Nickel Magazine. In its current number it comments as follows on "The Colorado Legislature":

"We note with interest that the women composing the Colorado Equal Suffrage Association and Civic Federation of Denver have been refused to issue a statement intended to draw the poison from calumny's fangs.

Though we are not of the opinion that the women of Colorado are grossly misrepresented in the east, the stories by malicious detractors of conventions where hair pulling and hat pins were the order of the day, have been, we are assured, "absurd and unfounded."

The signers of the statement also apply the canard-brand to the widely circulated report that the women of Colorado are required to do military duty.

They see nothing funny in the alleged jokes that have been built around this lie, and they declare that "the women of the Centennial state are as surely exempt from military duty as are those of states which still deny to them the gentle but effective weapon of the ballot."

The writer then reviews the work of "the first legislature under the new order," and calls attention to the creditable showing of the women's part in the work.

He speaks of the bills being passed which give the wife equal rights with her husband in the possession of her children, and in the matter of legal protection for girls to eighteen years,—both having originated with the women members.

Also bills touching "local option," "intoxicating liquors," and "improved election laws."

"Mrs. Corliss, we note, as chairwoman of the committee on printing, saved some of the bills from being exercised by the legislature for several years past; but, instead of accomplishing the good results anticipated, the experiment, it seems, has proved a demoralizing one. Hundreds of women who voted at the first election have not cared to visit the polls since; while others in adopting the crafty arts of the politician have shirked their duty as no better after all than men."

Is there no possible chance of some body getting at the true state of affairs and in giving to the public information secured from a happy medium of facts?

Crop prospects in the United States are excellent. From Nebraska, Kansas, our own state, and the northwest the reports are unusually favorable.

The shades of the late Samuel J. Randall are now being invoked by the Democracy of that section which fought him most bitterly during the closing period of his useful career.

Noteworthy Opinions of Journals of the World. Pan-Islam. The Sultan is rapidly unconvincing those who thought that the advantages of civilized government would be so far approximated by Mussulmans who have come under Christian rule by conquest.

On this map, the names and inscriptions on which are marked in Arabic, the territory of Greece is shown as being bounded on the side of Thessaly by the Othrys mountains, and on the west a wide strip of territory down to the Gulf of Corinth is marked off as claimed by Turkey for territorial compensation.

The same thing is reported from Egypt, and no doubt something similar has been going on in other directions, and there is nothing surprising in it. It is known that the Sultan, from the day he came to the throne, has had but one object and aim, the restoration of the power of Islam; but he tried to hide it from the foreign diplomatists with whom he had relations by aims of studied moderation and willingness to examine into any and every proposition tending, as they endeavored to persuade him, to strengthen and reform his administration.

It is credited to Sir Henry Elliot, the British ambassador at Constantinople when Abdul Hamid came to the throne, that he always and consistently distrusted the assurances of the Sultan; but his representations to his government were unheeded by the men in power at the time.

The Sultan played England against Russia and Russia against England, and the Turkish party and press in England, it is not easy to say whether consciously or unconsciously, helped on a policy which effects of which are now seriously embarrassing Lord Salisbury's government.

With all his efforts at concealment, the Sultan was unable to prevent the able to hide his perplexities, for in Downing street they came to know instinctively when the Russian ambassador was pushed into the Sultan's conversations with the British ambassador reported to the foreign office.

During the tenure of the post of ambassador at Constantinople by Sir William White the relations between the Sultan and the British ambassador were hard at Constantinople, and the Sultan having lost his English prop when pushed by Russia came by habit to fall back upon the German ambassador.

The results, however, are there and have to be faced. With his throne resting on an empire bankrupt in resources, the Sultan has been a victim of intrigue and disregard on his own part and by the European powers of every consideration of right and justice.

He has been a victim of the slandering fanaticism of his own people and their co-religionists all over the world, which give him hopes, vain though they must prove in the end, that he can restore the ancient glories of Islam.

The victories won by his army in Greece, magnified a hundred fold, are now the talk of the Moslem world in remotest Asia and Africa, and while Germany, without a Mussulman subject to embarrass its policy, has been dictating to the Sultan the course he should pursue, those countries most interested in the spread of the Islamic fire are hampered by the possession of millions of Mussulmans among their populations.

For England and France, which are now in power, whose policy is responsible for the Moslem revival throughout Asia and Africa, it is a case of curses, like "chickens, coming home to roost."

Change of Control. Wall Street News. It seems to be now generally admitted that the holdings of standard oil stocks in the American Refinery company are as large, if not larger, than those of the Havermeysers.

The street operators who have been buying this specialty on the wrong side are willing to concede that the stock has a way of acting never before known, and rules for trading in it which heretofore have been considered safe to follow are now of little or no use.

The Standard Oil people have a method of tenaciously clinging to a property the corner of which they wish to hold, and the Havermeysers always have been strangers. This was the basis for our oft-repeated prediction that the standard oil trust will come very near getting what it wants from congress, and sugar will this year sell at the highest price in its history.

Comments and Clippings. When a dog barks at night in Japan the owner is arrested and sentenced to work a year for the neighbors who were disturbed. The dog is killed.

Perhaps this is the only advantage that when a dog howls at night a death will shortly occur.

Balaiz is yet without his statue, but Maupassant already has his. It is the work of the sculptor Raoul Verlet, and is to be placed, after exhibition in the Champ Elysee salon, in the Monouy park. M. Chincolle describes the sculpture in the Figaro as representing a young woman seated on a circular bench and leaning against a pillar.

In her hand she holds a half-closed book—"Notre Coeur." "Captivated by the story, the reader abandons himself to a long dream. She dreams and she makes other dreams. As for the bust, the resemblance is astonishing. It is Maupassant alive again."

The promoters of a proposed trolley road in Japan are meeting with considerable opposition from the population, and particularly the coolies, jirikisha men and kago bearers, who object to the abandonment of their primitive methods of transportation.

The Philadelphia Ledger says: Through the energy of a young New Yorker who spent most of the winter abroad working up the idea, the Pennsylvania Northwestern railway of England has finally consented to adopt the American system of checking baggage.

Other roads have also followed the suggestion, and all baggage passing through this city from any point in the United States may be checked through to almost any point in Europe. The traveler who was formerly annoyed by being compelled to pick his trunks out of a pile of baggage and then fee a porter to rescue them for him may now forget that he has trunks and find them at his hotel.

In Max Muller's Cosmopolitan Reminiscences he tells of the unexpected arrival of Tennyson in Oxford. Dr. Muller invited him to dinner and breakfast, and adds, in perfect good humor, "My wife, a young house-keeper, did her best for our unexpected guest. He was known to be a gourmand, and at dinner he was excitedly put out by and the sauce with the salmon was not the one he preferred. He was pleased, however, with the wing of a chicken, and said it was the only advantage he got from being poet laureate that he generally received the liver wing of a chicken. The next morning at breakfast we had rather plumped ourselves on having been able to get a dish of cutlets, and were not a little surprised when our guest arrived to see him whip off the cover of the hot dish and to hear the exclamation: 'Mutton chops, the staple of every bad inn in England!' However, these were but minor matters, though not without importance in the eyes of a young wife to whom Tennyson had been like one of the immortalists."

There used to be small concert halls and great artists. Now there are great concert halls, but— "What is poetry?" it rhymes, but it is not so. "What is truth?" it does not rhyme, but it is so.

"For many years I wanted to compose a work entitled 'Love, Theme with Variations,' but I gave it up. When I was young I had the theme, but not sufficient experience for the variations. When I was old I could write the variations, but could not find a theme.

It is such errors of judgment—such as humanity is heir to, that is a blot upon the fame of Cripple Creek, but which, like spilled ink upon clean paper, can be removed by the application of a proper remedy. This poor mine management is in some cases, perhaps, the only one in the district which is deeper rooted and one has to look beneath a superficial success to discover it. The two branches in mine management are to succeed or to fail; the profitable working of the property and the miner-like fashion of operating it. For a comparatively brief space, lasting several years, perhaps, the first can be done without the other, but eventually the other of reckoning will come, and then your profits will become as unstable as the summer of a mine, and upon the rippling sea. There are mines located in the Cripple Creek district which are being woefully mismanaged. Some of them would become profitable under more favorable managerial conditions, and others less like death traps. There are mines in the Cripple Creek district which are being mismanaged, but which, under more favorable management would be earning perhaps double the amount, and mines which might be dividend-payers today are being operated only in a sadly crippled condition because of past mismanagement. In every case to which reference is made there has been ore, and plenty of it, but ignorant management has not known how to produce it with economy, and ignorant management has wasted the profits in useless machinery and costly experiments. All these instances are extremely regrettable, but in the cases where profits are being earned and the stockholder lies back contented, ignorant of the fact, the condition is dangerous; it is also the case where the production is pushed to such an extent that the development of the mine is unheeded and possibly left in a dangerous condition. These latter cases appear to be widely separated, but so far as the future of the camp and the stockholders' interests are eventually concerned they are about on a parallel.

MINES, STOCKS AND INVESTMENTS.

Investor Article—No. 2.

The causes for the present decline in the price of mining stocks appear to be many, but the principal one, being the lack of appreciation of the true merits of Cripple Creek, chiefly in the east; poor management in the mines at Cripple Creek, with the tendency to be touched upon later; and unsound company direction in its various stages, mostly in Colorado Springs and Denver, also to be touched upon later. The last two causes are undoubtedly partly responsible for the first, and the impression is held that if they are rectified the rest will come of itself.

Mention has been made of the fact that Cripple Creek is a poor man's camp. It is also a tenderfoot's camp of the first water. The geological conditions existing in the district are entirely different from those found in any other, and in the face of high assays by reliable thesaurists the most experienced experts others who claimed to know turned it down in its swathing-clothes days. This left it in the hands of those who reckoned only by horse sense, who could get away from the gold they saw in the rock, and cared not for the conditions under which it existed. But while it was due to these causes, the Cripple Creek's true worth was brought to light, it eventually led to the management of mines and companies by those who understood the task for the first time. The butcher, the baker and the candle-stick maker all became mine managers, undertook to run a business concerning which they had only the most elementary knowledge and to which an attempt upon the part of a slaughterer to suddenly become a jeweler is but a poor comparison. Mine management is a business of a life-long study. The mine owner of good business instincts appreciates this fact and acts accordingly, and if he be not a thorough mining man himself employs someone who is. This is the exception and not the rule in Cripple Creek. Mine owners, regardless of their ability to do so, have been pardoned. The mines were in worse still, have with the same lacking sense of reason appointed their cousins, uncles, brothers or other relatives to fill that all-important position. In the early days of excitement and knowledge of suddenly acquired prospective wealth, such steps were pardonable. The mines were in the hands of those who know no better, who knew not what to do or which way to turn. As it was, they did their best, and all circumstances excepting the one they did it well. Now, however, conditions have changed; Cripple Creek is no longer the younger camp, and the mine owners have had some time to learn wisdom—that is, to appreciate the fact that they or their relatives were not brought up with mine management as the leading feature of their education, and that this responsibility should rest with others whose lives have been devoted to the subject. Some have appreciated this fact and have not, and even among those whose minds are clear on the matter many have failed to act as their best judgment dictates. Human nature controls the lives of tenderfoot mine owners as well as any other class of people. It is human to try and always be right; it is human to find difficulty in acknowledging one's own wrong, and it is apparently human to favor your ignorant kinsman rather than your learned neighbor, and to bolster up the mistakes of the past with an obstinate adherence to them in the present.

It may not be untimely at this juncture to point out that a wonderful camp Cripple Creek really is to have made such a remarkable record in connection with this epidemic of bad management—to have sprouted away ahead of its competitors, as it were, with a million around its neck. Other camps have had hundreds of thousands, and sometimes millions of dollars spent upon them in development and prospect work; some of them in fact, enough to open up and furnish its own development fund, the first ten feet of work frequently having to supply the capital for the next twenty, and so on, until enough ore was opened up and enough reserve laid aside to equip the property as a full-fledged mine. Such examples are by no means rare, and are furnished in fact, by nearly every big mine now being operated with success. Take it all in all, Cripple Creek is a gem camp to be to, and its stocks may be considered as selling far below their intrinsic value. One reason why this is so is quoted above, as being due directly or indirectly to bad management, which, although it shows up the merits of the camp in an extremely strong light, is none the less regrettable.

It is true, of course, that not all the mines in the district are grossly mismanaged. There are different stages, from the innocent fool and the blind egotist to the demesly ignorant and possibly the knave. Some few mines are blessed with actually splendid management, and there are examples in the camp of Cripple Creek where the best of management have been made into pay mines by the knowledge of true mining and the application of actual economy. Had there been more of this class of people in the camp in its early days it would have been a bigger howling success than it is today—investors would possibly not have become so timid, and at least one possible cause for their being so would have been removed.

RICH ORE.

San Juan is all Right but Cripple Creek is Better.
The story is going the rounds of the state press that the recent shipment of 10 tons of gold ore from the new strike in the San Juan country is the richest carload of ore ever marketed from any mine in the state, says The Mining and Pueblo smelters from a half dozen mines in the Cripple Creek district in the past few years. It is positively known that shipments of 10 or more tons from the following mines went better than $800 per ton: The Doctor, Elkton, Smuggler, Victor, Portland, Independence, Pike's Peak, Clarified, Cross, Eclipse. Some other mines could be added to the list. Last week the returns from an 18-ton shipment from the Orizaba No. 2, owned by the El Paso company, situated on the west slope of Beacon Hill, went over $700 per ton. The lot did not contain any of the high grade streak, as a few days previous 822 pounds of it was sent to Pueblo that brought over $5,000, or close to $8 per pound. Broad gauge cars containing from 19 to 22 tons have been shipped in at least three of the mines mentioned that averaged better than $1 per pound in gold. It is reported that a carload consisting of about 20 tons was shipped to one of the Pueblo smelters from the Doctor mine last year that returned $70,000. Another carload from the Murphy and Judd's lease on the Smuggler, which the Mining and Metallurgical Journal, Mr. McClurg was favorably impressed with the business future of this country, and left more convinced than ever of the present and future prosperity of Mexico on a free silver basis. He found living cheaper in this country than in the United States, and that a dollar Mexican silver goes just as far in purchasing the necessities of life here as a gold dollar does in the States, and as good cigars and tobacco here expressed his opinion that the States were not in it.

Moffat After Mines.

Mr. James A. McClurg, the son-in-law of Dave Moffat, the Colorado mining king, spent several weeks in this city with a view to closing a deal for the purchase of a large group of gold mines in the state of Oaxaca, says The Mining and Metallurgical Journal. Mr. McClurg was favorably impressed with the business future of this country, and left more convinced than ever of the present and future prosperity of Mexico on a free silver basis. He found living cheaper in this country than in the United States, and that a dollar Mexican silver goes just as far in purchasing the necessities of life here as a gold dollar does in the States, and as good cigars and tobacco here expressed his opinion that the States were not in it.

Colorado Springs Mining Stock Association.

Colorado Springs, June 23.—Business was quiet at the Mining Stock association today, and there appeared to be a slight tendency toward lower prices, the decline was not marked however, and was probably due to an anxious few who wanted to sell, as it did not require much pressure to have the prices fall.

One of the most prominent traders of the call was Argenta-Juniata, which had over 5000 sales and which went at from 25 to 35. The stock opened at the higher figure and immediately began to decline, but picked up again towards the close, and the last transaction of 1000 shares being consummated at 25. News from the mine continues to be of a favorable character, and it would appear that the mine and the stock have little in common as far as apparent merit is concerned. Elkton sold at from 25 1/2 to $1, the highest and lowest figures were paid for odd blocks of 5 and 10 shares but blocks from 100 to 5000 went at from 97 to 97 1/2. It opened at the higher figure, but most of the time at the lower price and the stock did not have a particularly strong appearance. Isabella improved a little in price during the call, opening at 25 and closing at 24 1/2. The stock opened at 25 and was consummated at 25 and on 5 days' time, the bulls playing for higher prices in the near future. Fanny Rawlings was credited with a total of 5500 sales, the stock rising sharply to 14 1/2 at the opening and 15 at the close; 5 day trading was again an apparent feature with this stock, and so far as it called went the bulls had the best of it. In the other listed stocks trading was light, and but little could be gathered from the business consummated in them. Union had a couple of thousand sales at from 14 1/2 to 15 1/2 and apparently strengthening. Portland had 400 sales at 28. Amconda went at 47 and Cripple Creek Consolidated at 75. Only a single hundred of Mollie Gibson changed hands and that at 32 1/2. Banner was steady at 1 and Creede and Cripple Creek at 3.

Among the unlisted stocks, the very cheap ones were very much in evidence, but the most prominent among them was Ben Hur, which had 8000 sales at 2 1/2. Ben Hur had 5000 at 3 1/2, Buckhorn 5000 at 1 1/2 and Pappoose with 4000 at 1 and 1 1/2.

Largest in the World.

Of his recent extended study of the gold resources of South Africa, Dr. Becker says that the Transvaal republic contains the largest gold deposits in the world. Within 15 miles of Johannesburg there is an amount of gold, practically in sight, estimated to be worth $3,300,000,000, or nearly as much as the entire volume of gold coin now in the world. The gold is extraordinarily uniform, as uniform as coal in an ordinary deposit, as shown by shafts which have been sunk to a depth of 1000 feet, and diamond drillings, which have gone still further. At present the gold is being taken out at the rate of $100,000,000 a year.

Prices remained about the same as upon the previous day, but most of the trading was in the cheaper stocks. About the most prominent trader among a comparatively poor lot was Kimberly, which sold to the extent of 8000 shares at 2, and which was about the same as upon the previous day. Isabella was credited with a 100 block at 25 1/2 and Fanny Rawlings with 1000 at 15 1/2, while Pappoose had 2000 sales at 1 and 1 1/2. Among the cheaper stocks Cleveland, C. The Independent Order of Good Templars held its regular meeting last Friday evening. The meeting was well attended and much interest manifested in the business transacted. Captain John Henry and Officer Schofield had a very exciting experience early yesterday morning about 3 o'clock in the railroad yards up at saws. The two officers were given a tip the day before Frank Bohannon, wanted in Leadville for the murder of Deputy Sheriff Fahey, were hiding in a box car up near Roswell.

The officers located the car all right, but both doors were found securely fastened. After searching a short while a small door was discovered which had been cut in the side of the car and arranged similar to a sliding panel. The officers soon effected an entrance, and found two men on the inside, but upon being examined closely it was evident that they were not the right parties. Captain Henry and his companion continued their search through the yards, but no men could be found that would answer the description of those wanted in Leadville. At that time the officers had not learned that the two men had been apprehended in Leadville.

Prof. W. S. Card and Miss Myra Blakeley of the Cripple Creek district were united in marriage at the Spaulding house in this city yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Rev. C. L. Blakeley and wife, editor of The Gold Belt, Independence, being the only guests present. Professor Card has been in the Cripple Creek district schools the past three years, and during that time has been principal of the Anaconda and Goldfield schools. He has just been elected principal of the schools at Cripple Creek. He was in the United States military academy at West Point; later he graduated from a normal school in New York and still later he graduated from the law school at Ann Arbor, Michigan. Miss Blakeley has been a very successful teacher in the public schools of Missouri, Texas and Colorado. She has taught the past five years in El Paso county, three at Anaconda, where the board recently elected her for the fourth time. Her work has been highly satisfactory. The happy couple will be in Manitou about a week, when they will go to Salt Lake and remain about six weeks. Returning they will attend the county normal institute.
