TOM P. VARNELL ON THE ROAD

DR. PITTS, OF MT. CALM, MEETS HIM.

The Notorious Fugitive and Two Comrades Cool in Conduct and Glib of Tongue. Varnell Finally Surrenders.

Special to The News.

Mr. Calm, Nov. 19.—About 11 o'clock last night, five miles south of this place, as Dr. F. M. Pitts, Jr., was returning home from a visit to a patient, on coming up out of a creek he saw standing in the road directly ahead of him three horsemen, two of whom dropped out on either side of the road, but the third remained standing in the road. The doctor thought it had about come his time "to stand and deliver." On nearing the man the doctor recognized in him the somewhat famous Tom P. Varnell, who broke jail at Hillsboro a few days ago, and who has been chased by a large posse and bloodhounds for several days. As the doctor came near him he remarked to his companions that "it was all right, it was only a doctor following his calling." After asking Dr. Pitts what he was doing there at that time of night and a few other questions he wanted to know if certain parties who had been on the scout after him had come nome yet, and being answered in the affirmative, he wanted to know if they were still in town. After giving him the desired information Pitts asked him what he should tell these parties when he reached home. His reply was to tell them where he was seen, and tell them that he would be fifty miles from there by daylight, as he had the stock that would take him that far. The actions of the men when met showed that they are ever on the lookout, and if called on to surrender it is thought they will fight to the bitter end, unless some one gets the drop on them, as Sheriff Bell did when he arrested Tom in New Mexico. This party also made their appearance at another place about two miles from here yesterday. They called at a farmhouse, and, finding no one at home, proceeded to the kitchen and supplied themselves with a meal of cold provisions, and eft 50 cents in a glass to pay for it, with the compliments of Tom P. Varnell. They took a picture from the house and put it on the gate post and shot a few holes through it. and rode away without doing any more mischief. This was supposed to be a practical joke played by some boys in the neighborhood until Dr. Pitts saw Varnell last night The Sheriff was notified this morning, but doubtless Varnell and his comrades were many miles from here before he knew of their whereabouts.

VARNELL SURRENDERS. HILLSBORO, Nov. 19. - One of the prisoners who broke jail here lately, Tom P. Varnell, came in this morning and surrendered to the Sheriff and was taken by him to Waco, where it is supposed an application for hearing under writ of habeas corpus will be made. Varnell surrendered upon being advised by his attorney to do so and after a consultation by his friends with Sheriff Bell. That officer informed them that Varnell could surrender if he wished to, but stated that he would rather catch him again. HIS ARRIVAL AT WACO. WACO, Nov. 19 .- As anticipated in these dispatches on Wednesday, the consultation of Tom Varnell's mother with a prominent law firm of this city was to consider the advisability of his surrender to the authorities. It was then stated that while his whereabouts were not positively known, still should Varnell conclude to surrender less than a day's journey would bring him to the county seat of Hill. Acting on the advice obtained by his devoted mother, the redoubtable fugitive voluntarily sought Sheriff Bell, his captor in New Mexico, and surrendered himself at Hillsboro. He came into the town in a covered wagon in order to avoid identification till the courthouse was reached. As he approached the building he saw the Sheriff, hailed him from a distance, jumped from the wagon and delivered himself up. He was brought here on the noon train and registered for quarters at the county jail, where he will remain till his case comes up for trial at the next term of the District Court in Hill County. The fugitive's place of concealment was evidently not far distant from Hillsboro, as Mrs. Varnell left here Tuesday, on Wednesday he notified the Sheriff of his purpose to surrender, and on Thursday he delivered himself up. On reaching here he was taken around the city, under guard, to enable him to make purchases necessary to his comfort in the iron cage, after which he was turned over to Sheriff Harris and incarcerated. He says it was his intention when he broke jail to surrender himself to the authorities as soon as he could attend to pressing interests that into the town in a covered wagon in order render himself to the authorities as soon as he could attend to pressing interests that were suffering because of his inability to attend to them while under guard. The officers of the law say it was well that such was his purpose, for his capture was certain the moment he would have attempted to leave the county, and certain within a very short time had he remained in the county. Every avenue of escape was well guarded.

On his way to the jail, speaking of the jail delivery, he said: "I did not want to escape a trial. I had failed to get a habeas corpus hearing, and knowing that the Hillsboro jail was not safe and that a fatai attack by a mob could be made on me there, had requested to be carried to Waco or Fort Worth. My requests were not granted and I escaped. I had no intention of leaving the State or evading trial, nor did I leave Hill County during the whole time I was at large. I am willing to stand my trial in Hillsboro or anywhere else."

His attorneys are not prepared to say when they will apply for a habeas corpus hearing, but intimate in a general way that an application for the writ will not be long deferred. The accused can make bond for almost any amount. VARNELL TALKS.

Special to The News.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19 .- The fourth game of great world's championship billiard tournament brought out the largest audience yet assembled in Central Music Hall. Mme. Vignaux and George F. Slosson and wife occupied adjoining boxes and eagerly watched the play.

Vignaux was the first to arrive, and as he stepped on the stage with the sombre-looking case in which he carried his jointed cue, he was given a hearty reception.

A GROAN OF DISGUST. Vignaux watched the "leave" for a full minute before approaching the table. He commenced the play with a rush and did commenced the play with a rush and did not allow the balls to break until 58 was added to his count. CARING FOR UNFORTUNATES.

THE RELIEF COMMITTEE'S NOBLE WORK.

Aided by the Generosity of the Outside World. A Plan to Aid in Rebuilding the Burned District.

Special to The News. GALVESTON, Nov. 19 .- The fire theme, so far as any new developments go, is about exhausted and is now nartematic work of the different committees in collecting data as to the actual loss and rowed down to the earnest and sysproviding temporarily for the relief of the Col. W. H. Sinclair, the chairman of the through the disbursements made, including to-day's work of $36,317. The re-relief committee, thinks that probably about half of the total number of absolute sufferers have been temporarily aided lief afforded, however, is but of a temporary character, to bridge over the necessities, immediately incident to the losses. Among other suggestions for affording more permanent relief is the organization of a corporation building movement, the same as that inaugurated by Chicago, after its great fire, through which it is intended to solicit the loan of a sufficient amount of money, say a million dollars, on long time and small interest, to be distributed among the sufferers and used by them in rebuilding, the loans to be made a lien on the property. The interest suggested in this proposed transaction is 5 per cent, a rate, which secured would place the money within the reach of many, and if not perverted into a speculation, would be a plan of affording to many the means of rebuilding and equipping their homesteads, a thing beyond the scope of possibility in the present relief movement. Rebuilding upon the burnt district is progressing rapidly, but the houses being hastily thrown up are of a character designed merely to afford temporary shelter, and will be subsequently used for outhouses when more permanent structures can be erected. A number of persons are also fencing in their property preparatory to building. The sufferers' committee, or what is known as the block committee, met again tonight, but these committees, two to block, have not yet gotten fairly to work, either from the vast extent of labor before them, or for the want of a very thorough understanding of what they are to do. The methods that were originally outlined by the committe are better calculated to produce speedy results than any other feature of the general movement yet undertaken. These sub-committees of two to each block were appointed for the purpose of making a canvass of each block burned and reporting those in need, together with the amount of insurance, if any, and actual losses. While this subserves the purpose of systematizing the work of affording relief, the committees with very little very thorough understanding of what they purpose of systematizing the work of affording relief, the committees with very little additional trouble might go a step further and make a work of valuable record by not confining themselves solely to those who need aid, but make a complete record of all actual losses on each block, thus settling the present vexed question of the total loss by the great fire. None of these committees were prepared to submit reports of their work to-night, and for this reason the meeting was adjourned till Saturday evening. The committees to each block are instructed to report the result of their work to their chairman of the general relief committee, thus materially aiding the general relief movement. Contributions are still coming in, those received to-day being as follows, and increasing the total amount to nearly $100,000:

CALDWELL.

Arrested on Suspicion of Stealing a Horse. Other Matters.

Special to The News. CALDWELL, Nov. 19.—A negro of slender build, six feet high and weighing about 150 pounds, was arrested here to-day. He was riding a dark brown horse, fifteen hands high brands are indistinct. The animal is about 2 years old and has a scan about 2 years old and has a soar on the back of the left hind foot. The negro says his name is Jim McCathy, said that he was sentenced to the penitentiary from Fayette County for 8 years, but has served out his time, and was discharged last spring from a convict camp in Robinson County. He was arrested on suspicion of having stolen the horse, and he and the horse are now in charge of the Sheriff.

An Old Time Pantomimist.

Chicago News, Tony Denier, who for many years was the best and most popular clown in American pantomime, has been living very quietly in Chicago for some time past, his professional career having put him in possession of a large fortune. It seems, however, that Mr. Denier has not forgotten any of his oldtime humor, and we find him employing in his private life those amusing devices which served him so profitably on the stage. He has a handsome residence in one of the suburbs, and back of this residence stands as pretty a barn as ever was seen outside of New England. Many people who have paused to admire this barn have wondered what the curious little doors and apertures all around its four sides were for. They are false doors, and not more than ten inches square—in fact, just large enough to admit a good-sized hen. Mr. Denier does not keep hens, but his neighbors do; and thereby hangs a tale. In Mr. Denier barn there is stored a large quantity of grain, of which twice per diem Mr. Denier is in the habit of doling out a reasonable amount to his valuable charger and the onehorned family cow. By some means or other the hens of the neighborhood discovered that in the Denier barn was stored natural consequence, these hens have mad a practice of visiting the Denier barn a least once a day. This visit is made earl in the morning, as soon as the hens emerg from their respective abodes, and when the false doors, which open one way and close securely when once the hen is on the inside. After the hen has filled her cavernous inside. After the hen has filled her cavernou crop with grain she concludes it it time for her to make her escape but her only means of egres is across the haymow through the large door over the scaffold where the straw is stored. Now, Mr. Denier is a far seeing man; he has studied the nature of hens carefully and to some purpose. Hi hay-mow abounds in seductive little hand made nests, in each of which reposes china egg so large and shiny as to loo utterly irresistable to the average hen. So when a neighbor's hen is en route across the hay-mow for the big open door over the which a heighful she is entire and the actives the hay-mow for the big open door over the straw scaffold, she is bound to happen upo one of these cozy, inviting, hand-madnests. Now, a hen's mind is easily diverted. nests. Now, a hen's mind is easily diverte from one purpose to another, for, true to the instinct of her sex, the he is nothing if not emotional. The china egg looks lonesome an chilly; the hen's maternal instinct is sorely affected by the spectacle, and, forgettin all about the open door over the straw scaffold, the kindly old feathered dame step, daintily into the cozy nest, lets fall he motherly wings and with contented purrings and soothing lullables cherishes an warms the lonesome china egg until the in animate and deceifful object has been prowarms the lonesome china egg until the in-animate and deceitful object has been pro-vided with a bright and beautiful new mate. In this way Mr. Denier is provided with material for omelets, custards, pud-dings, nogs and other viands which de-delight the human palate and so sweetly serve to make life worth living.

In this case the Comptroller holds that there was no authority for such a trip at Government expense; that the service was not military, and that an order leaving the amount of travel and places to be visited to the discretion of an officer is void.

THE HOUSE SLATE.

The Star, this evening, says that a Democratic member of the next House, who had sent circulars to all the Democratic members asking if they were committed to the organization of the House, has received replies from 134 members. These replies are all to the effect that they do not intend to commit themselves to any candidate until after they have reached Washington and looked over the field. From this it is inferred that the Democrats are going to be very careful in the selection of new officials, and that considerations of locality will enter largely in the selection of a state. For the position of Speaker it is conceded on all sides that Mr. Carlisle will have no opposition in the caucus and, of course, will be elected. For the position of sergeant at arms the outlook is not so peaceful and it begins to look as though Mr. Leedam will not have the walkover his friends have predicted. It is said that the Ohio delegation is not a unit in favor of his election and that at least two of the delegation, Messrs. Lefevre and Geddes, will oppose him. Besides this, which, if true, must be disquieting to the Ohio candidate, two new candidates have suddenly put in an appearance. They are Mr. W. W. Wheaton, of Detroit, who claims to have the solid indorsement of the Michigan delegation, and Mr. Higgins, the appointment clerk of the Treasury Department. For door-keeper Sam Donelson, of Tennessee, and John Trainer, of New York, are the two candidates mentioned most confidently by their respective friends. Mr. Donelson as heen making an active canvass and after they have reached Washington and Congressman MaAdoo, of New Jersey, says the position of door-keeper should be given to the East, and therefore he favors Mr. Trainer. "New York," he says, "also has had the largest Democratic delegation here since the Forty-fourth Congress, but never since that time had any elective office in the House. This year," he says, "the New York delegation is a unit for Mr. Trainer, and New Jersey and Massachusetts have practically agreed to follow New York in this matter. So far no formidable opposition to the re-election of Gen. Clark, of Missouri, as clerk of the House has been announced. as clerk of the House has been announced.

MAN AND THE MASTODON.

Theories of Their Co-Existence—Skeletons Recently Found in Massachusetts.

The finding of the tusks, teeth and parts of the skull of a mastodon as well as a human skull at Northborough, Mass., has already been noted and it was thought that the discovery might prove the co-existence of man and the mastodon. Prof. F. W. Putnam, of Cambridge, was invited to inspect the relics and the place where they the discovery might prove the co-existence of man and the mastodon. Prof. F. W. spect the relics and the place where they vere found and in the current number of Science he makes the following report:

"I was unable to visit the place until Oct. 17, four days after the skull had been found. In this visit I made a careful study of the peat formation and the underlying blue clay, which I take to be the boulder clay, covering the bottom of the basin or old pond which is some four or five acres in area. Over this blue clay, containing both round and split stones, the deposit of peat has taken place.

"The two skulls, mastodon and human, were unquestionably at the bottom of this peat, both resting on the blue clay; but owing to the inclination of the basin toward the northeast from the spot where the human skull was found there were two feet and the peat over the mastodom. human skull was found there were two feeless of peat over it than over the mastodor. The stratification of the peat was marked and the lower portion immediately covering the two skulls is exceedingly fine and evidently a deposit made entirely under water. Above this the peat is slightly coarser, which character increase to the surface. While a few small pieces of wood were found at the bottom of the peat several large logs, and what seems to be the remains of a partly burnt stump, wer found in the layer about two feet above the human skull. To this depth heavy object could have readily sunk through the coars or more open formation above, but I question the possibility of so light an object as human skull sinking through the lower twe feet to the hard pan at any time subsequents. The feet to the hard pan at any time subsequer to the formations of that stratum. The both skulls were tronsported seems to be proved by the fact that re-other bones of the two skeletons were found in the immediate vicinity, and the found in the immediate vicinity, and that they were transported by water before the peat deposit began seems probable. The broken portions of the human skull have the appearance of having been worn by the water's action, and the separation of the jaw and cranium would also indicate that method of removal from the rest of the skeleton. Had it been a settling of a heavy body through the peat we could hardly expect that the skull and jaw alone would have settled to hard pan and the rest of the bones of the skeleton to have been nowhere near them, and the same remark would ap-nave settled to hard pan and the rest of the sheleton to have been nowhere near them, and the same remark would apply to the skull of the mastodon.

"The skull has been placed in my hands for careful study and comparison and I hope soon to give definite information in regard to it. Unfortunately the skull is not a typical one and the averaging and careful balancing of its character will have to be made before its race affinities can be determined. In regard to its color, I may add that it is of as deep if not deeper brown than the bones of the mastodon. Its compared with the mastodon skull is, however, remarkable, but this could be easily accounted for by the longer exposure of the mastodon bones on the surface of a gravel deposit before it was washed into the deposit before it was washed into the basin."

PREHISTORIC REMAINS.

The Bones of an American Mastodon Discovered in the Arkansas River.

FORT SMITH, Ark., Nov. 13 .- A portion of the remains of a monster of the antediluvian period is now on exhibition at this place. The curiosity consists of the head and upper jaw of some huge animal which our local savants classify as having belonged to what is termed the American mastodon, a species of mammals that existed thousands of years ago, and which once roamed at large over the vast territory now known as the United States and ace to the Smithsonian Institution at The jawbone of this animal, found several

Mr. Hayes Asks an Appointment.

It seems that Mr. Hayes, at one time President of the United States, has been stimulated by Mr. James G. Blaine's successful interference in the Augusta (Me.) postmastership, to try his hand at the work of influencing patronage under this administration. Mr. Blaine simply asked that a certain Democrat should not be appointed postmaster, but Mr. Hayes has gone a step further and asks that a friend of his who is further and asks that a friend of his who is now and has always been a Republican, be reappointed postmaster at an office which he has already held for two terms. This protege of Hayes is Postmaster Reed, of Fairmont, W. Va., whose commission expired early in October. Reed was first appointed by Mr. Hayes, of whom he was a personal friend and with whom he had served in the army. President Arthur reappointed him when his first term expired at the personal request of ex-President Hayes, and now President Cleveland is confronted with a similar request to give Reed fronted with a similar request to give Reed

The representative Democrats of Fairmont have named a good Democrat for the place, and Congressman Wilson has earnestly urged his appointment, but Mr. Hayes insists that the Republican shall be reasonabled in the West. Hayes insists that the Republican shall be reappointed just to please him. The West Virginia Senators have joined Mr. Wilson in demanding the appointment of a Democrat, but it is reported that Presideni Cleveland has made one invariable reply to every appeal. His answer has always been: "Well, I have a personal request from Mr. Hayes, an ex-President of the United States, to reappoint Mr. Reed. Indeed, I do not want to be discourteous to Mr. Hayes. I do not know what I shall do. I have not made up my mind." Inquiry at the postoffice today elicited confirmatory information in relation to this story.

"Has the case been given consideration?"
"Yes, a great deal, and the papers have been up to the White House five or six times, only to be sent back again to the Department."

"Is it true," he was then asked, "that expresident Hayes has written a letter requesting the appointment of Mr. Reed?"

"Oh, yes," he promptly replied, "that is so. It was received some time ago."

Tyler.

TYLER, Nov. 19 .- In the County Court today was called the case of the State vs. L. W. Flood, charged with selling whisky on Sunday. This trial is peculiarly interesting, in that there is no controversy over the facts, it being admitted that the defendant did, as charged, sell whisky at 7 o'clock a. m. on a certain Sunday. Counsel for the defense pleaded an ordinance of the city of Tyler permitting the sale of all merchandise Tyler permitting the sale of all merchandise on Sunday before 9 o'clock a. m. and after 4 o'clock p. m. The County Attorney avers that the city has not the power to pass an ordinance in contravention of the State law, which makes it an offense to sell whisky at any time on the Sabbath. HARRISON'S PRELIMINARY EXAMINATION

For the Killing of Jack Goodwin-Several Witnesses Heard-A Batch of Criminals. Other Local Matter.

Special to The News.

SHERMAN, Nov. 19.—The examination of witnesses in the Harrison case was taken up last night at 7 o'clock. Allen Bywaters, the colored porter in the Bank Saloon at the time the killing took place, was the first witness sworn. His testimony was substantially the same as that on the day of the killing. Harrison walked in to the bar like he wanted to get a drink. He did not notice him until he heard a shot and heard Jack Goodwin scuifling around on the floor. After the two first shots Harrison walked around to the end of the bar and continued to shoot at Goodwin. Harrison had two pistols but used only one at a time. Goodwin never got up, but died where he fell. The witness had heard the deceased refuse to give Harrison whisky without he paid for it. The saloon was the property of Billy Harrington, a brother-in-law of the defendant. Goodwin was about three feet from the witness when the shooting took place but did not see any one else in the room. the bar like he wanted to get a drink.

Dr. Steever was the next witness. He testified as to the wounds and the nature, stating that they were necessarily fatal.

Policeman Kelley testified that defendant had tried to borrow a pistol from him, but that he would not let him have it. Harrison had several times tried to borrow a pistol.

Joe Mellon, a policeman, testified that on the night oefore the killing Harrison had come to him and complained that some one had thrown water flown from above and wet his bed, and that he and his wife were compelled to leave the bed for the night. Goodwin occupied the room directly above the one Harrison occupied.

J. C. Burns testified that he saw Harrison the night the water was poured in his bed. He saw Harrison pull out two pistols. He said he had a good mind to go over and make the —— close up the house. The witness understood him to mean the Bank Saloon as the house referred to being made to close, and Goodwin as the man referred to. Harrison also remarked, while he had the pistols in his hands, that he had the tools to do it with.

C. B. The court decided not to admit this testimony, and as the jury were withdrawn before he commenced it did not go before them.

The defense filed a bill of exceptions. Mrs. Amelia Harrison, the wife of the defendant, testified substantially that Goodfendant, testified substantially that Goodwin had made an outrageous assault upon her and that she had told her husband only a few minutes before the killing took place. She testified that she did not remember telling anybody that she had no idea for what cause her husband killed Goodwin.

St. Louis, Nov. 16.—Wm. A. Wilkinson, Presi dent Galveston Typographical Union: Your statement in reply to my request of the differences between your Union and the Knights of Labor, growing out of the recent strike in Gal veston, reached me yesterday. In reply I wish to thank the Galveston Union in behalf of the printers of the country for the unequivocal ex pression of its loyalty to the International opposite course would have been a violotion of our laws, and would have rendered the Union liable to such discipline as the International Typographical Union might have imposed, but by its prompt assertion of its right to control its own business, and by its imperative claim to the undivided allegiance of its members, the union has rendered the craft at large an important service. Important because, in the present intricate relations of bodies of organized workingmen, many of whom are in no sense trades unionists, and some of whom have no just conception of the proper relations of employer and employe, there is danger that the rights of individual trade bodies may be overlooked or disregarded by the hast or arbitrary act of inexperienced or unscrupulous persons exercising temporary authority. These rights I assert to be, on behalf of the Typographical Union, the unquestioned allegiance of its members, and the undisputed control of its own affairs. Such an as sertion of rights is not inconsistent with hearty co-operation with other trade bodies, for the accomplishment of any proper object. The typographical fraternity has no reason to be ashamed of its record in the councils of or ganized labor. I have the honor to be, respectfully and fraternally, M. R. H. Wittreet.

LIFE EVERLASTING.

By the roadside it grows, Lifts its white crown, Where the blushing wild rose Was trampled down.

To-day, I met my love
Of long ago.
Her hair was silvery white, and yet, the low
Sweet voice that charmed me
In th' olden days
Still spoke in softly modulated ways
Of books, and art, albeit wrinkles lay
Where once I watched the smiles
And dimples play.

My love—and yet 'twas not.

How was it time
Had spared to eye and voice their gracious prime?

How laid his touch on cheek,

On lip, and brow,
On lip, and brow,
Saying, Thy friend is vanished, buried now—
Yet never reached that inner, sacred shrine
Save to enrich, adorn,
And make divine?
Go learn the secret. Changed we all must be;
Life from within is immortality.

A Bankrupt Law. "I am in favor of the early passage of a national bankrupt law, the Lowell or any other good bill," said a Western representative in response to a question as to the probabilities of the passage of a genuine bankrupt law during the coming session of Congress; "but no such bill can be passed unless the people who had charge of it last session are suppressed. There is a commercial organization or committee of some kind that has this bankrupt bill in charge. A Chapter of Accidents—Festive Shooters on the Rampage kind that has this bankrupt bill in charge. It has its headquarters in New York. It is all right that proper means should be taken to urge the passage of any measure that the great banking and commercial classes think should be passed, but there is a limit to all things. The people who had the making of sentiment in favor of a bankrupt bill overdied it and scievened members with their monsensucal and numerous circulars. For weeks at a time members of Congress received in their morning mail circulars from this committee time members of Congress received in their morning mail circulars from this committee in New York. After awhile they told the postmaster of the House to destroy everything that came to them by mail that had any bearing at all on the bankrupt bill. Thousands of pamphlets, circulars, marked newspapers, etc., went on their way into the waste basket. The opponents of the bill, the representatives of the people who borrow money, used the argument that the millionaires of Wall street, the money-lending class, were lobbying in favor of the bill, and this argument prevented some from voting for the bill who otherwise would have done so."

Military Project.

Washington Special. It is reported that the propriety of reviving the grade of general of the army on the active list has been discussed among members of Congress of both parties. But three military chief tains of the United States-Wash ington, Grant and Sherman-have borne this title. Sherman is now on the retired list with the rank of general, and the additional position of general on the retired list, which was passed for the benefit of Grant in the closing minutes of the last session of Congress, died with him. The object of the revival of the grade of general on the active list is said by those who advocate it to be for the purpose of promoting Sheridan and appointing Hancock, Lieutenant General in his place. Hancock, under the law, will be retired in a little more than two years, and it is claimed that in view of his services, and the fact of his having been a candidate for President of the United States, this world have greatly law appropriate with the ould be a graceful and appropriate tribute

The proposition, if brought forward, will of course find advocates, but it would also certainly encounter strong and not im brobably successful opposition.

GOING TO THE ROOT OF A POLITI-

The talk of Mr. John Sherman finds a much modified echo in the New York Times, which says that if it shall appear that the systematic disfranchisement of voters in any of the States works to gross inequality of representation in Congress, the Times will not be deterred from insisting that the evil shall be remedied. This can be understood readily enough, as looking to reduction of representation. The Republican party has always professed to per linear so the Democratic masses of the Democratic masses of the State. Only the office-seckers, strictly specification. The party has the new and unpleading fact, before it, that the neggo is not shall proposed to civil a specification. The party has the new and unpleading fact, before it, that the neggo is not five state. Only the office-seckers, strictly specification in the proposed to civil a specification of the state. Southern States. The whole electoral system is rotten with fraud. Partisan spirit and personal ambitions cover every variety of iniquity and trickery, and this condition is general throughout the country. Why go to the question of suppression and undue control of votes to prove unequal representation? . It is proved by the most shameful gerrymandering in all the States. There is no honor displayed between parties; no confidence in a common agreement for the general good as a consideration superior to the antagonisms of party. The whole spirit, if not the very letter, of the law is violated on all hands, by both parties in all States, by making the most absurd, tortuous, Chinese puzzle sort of congressional districts, for the purpose of cheating the people out of anything like equal representation. If so-called independent or mugwump papers wanted to go to the root of an unfair, cynical, corroding influence of greedy ambitions leaguing together to capture offices and use them as stuffing for the machines, that press would not confine itself to the reform of clerkships and weigherships into a colorless decency, like trimming the twigs of the upas tree, but would attack the remorseless gerrymandering which advertises the fact that current politics is a struggle to deprive the majority of choice after distorting the facts upon which the public should judge and suppressing the questions in which the public is interested or needs to be informed. The whole theory of Republican government implies a dominant, active interest in the public welfare, a pure desire to find out and defer to that welfare, to counsel with other citizens and to do a citizen's duty. To make it a success requires that a great majority of citizens be pervaded with this spirit, and that they have intelligence and integrity and independence enough to prevent any false differences from severing their mutual good understanding and common purpose. If people consider this condition of Republican government, and compare the ideal with the actual, what must they think of the republic's prospect? Gerrymandering is a more decisive index than private exertion of undue influence, because the former is official legislative action under party spirit. But even that is only one of the numerous indications that the majority consultation has lapsed from the theoretic principle that is endured in the abstract, but the majority is despised and trickery is a fine art.

PERHAPS THE MUGWUMPS ARE STILL THERE.

The Albany Argus, the Democratic newsaper published at the capital of New ork State, and controlled by Secretary Manning, does not join in the general abuse of the mugwumps that has characterized Democratic organs since the commencement of the late New York campaign. The rgus was a very vigorous supporter of Gov. Hill throughout the late canvass, and cook occasion several times to denounce the mugwump organs, but not the mugwumps themselves. The Argus believes that the great body of the mugwumps are still true to the Democratic party, and that the New York Times, Evening Post, Harper's Weekly and Carl Schurz have no right to speak for the large number of Republican voters who seceded from Blaine and oined the Democracy last year. The Argus article to which we refer is a long one, carefully written and seemingly inspired. In fact it has quite a number of Mr. Daniel Manning's ear marks about it, and, it is not improbable, denotes the attitude of the administration. For instance, in refuting the claim of the New York Times that the mugwumps all supported Davenport, the Argus makes this suggestive statement:

This is significant. Perhaps, after all, the organs misrepresented the mugwumps, and perhaps the recalcitrants of 1884 are still loval to the administration and supporters of the administration's friends. At any rate the Argus argues that the mugwumps should be given a fair assurance in the matter of civil service reform, and, seemingly to court mugwump support, puts forth the following bill of particulars in behalf of the administration:

half of the administration:

Civil service reform has come to stay. There will be no halt, no backward step under the present administration. The offices have grown to such an extent and the desire to hold office has become so general that some barrier has become necessary to protect the appointing power. The present system may have its imperfections. Time and experience will correct them. The proper course for all Democratic newspapers to pursue is to encourage bright young Democrats to attend the examinations. If they do this and pass they are sure to receive appointments. The purification of the public service can only be accomplished by the presence of capable proved officials, not mere political workers, who regard the offices of the government as theirs on account of partisan services.

This is very clear and specific. If the

This is very clear and specific. If the Argus article was inspired by Secretary Manning, it shows that the administration is firmly set in favor of civil service reform. This will not be encouraging to the spoilsmen who have interpreted Hill's victory in New York to be a rebuke to the administration's policy. The fact, however, seems to be that the people of New York are very poorly represented in the utterances of the press. It is likely that the New York Times, Evening Post and Harper's Weekly are not representatives of the Independents of last year, and it is almost certain that the World and Sun do not speak the true

His reputation is almost as unsavory as that of 'Landaulet'' Williams, who was his chief competitor, but it would seem that he entered into some sort of combination with the Democratic members of the Legislature by which his election was secured. It will be remembered that the Legislature at its last session failed to elect a Senator, and this special session was called to complete the work which the regular session omitted. Ex-Congressman George attitudenized in the back ground in the hope of being brought in as a dark horse, when the two chief contestants had killed each other off; but the sharp deal with Democrats made by Mitchell rendered the call on Mr. George unnecessary.

The Terrell Star refers to the lax way in which public officers discharge their duty in regard to the suppression of vice and crime. and remarks:

effectually close saloons on Sunday, they are at once marked and the next election is sure to see them opposed by all this class of violators of the law. But, on the other hand, if these men are allowed to continue the pursuit of forbidden avocations, the profits of which are large, they can well aftered to pay a fine once a month, by which the law is apparently complied with and the officials appeased. Then all goes on smoothly and the officers permitting this are sure of the influential support of those whom they thus assist. Likewise, when the trains of the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe Railway were in the hands of a mob and its property dismantled and injured, its transportation stopped and all perishable freight allowed to spoil, or when but a day or two since a band of men took possession of the Navigation Company's property at Houston and attempted to drown the party in charge, no official dared interfere, and why? Because to have done so would have turned an influential set against him at the next election. That a remedy for this condition must be found is apparent to every one, and it may be that the time will soon arrive when sheriffs and minor officials will either be appointed or their terms of office lengthened and they made ineligible for re-election.

The Houston Age makes an apology: The Houston Age makes an apology:

The Age said, pending the recent strike in falveston, that "the strike was a serious injury to the business men of Galveston;" and for saying that the Age has been "boyotted" by the labor organizations in the city of Houston. Well, we are sorry for it. Not sorry for having said what is simply a patent fact, but sorry for being boycotted. We dislike very much that an organization said to embrace a membership of thousands should declare war against the Age for expressing an opinion in a mild way about a movement that was exciting great public in-

The Terrell Star says: Land grabbers and land sharks have, by some means or another, got hold of the entire public lands of the State. It would seem that our State legislators have been peculiarly fortunate, or rather unfortunate, in inventing new schemes for squandering the public domain. Already one hundred and fifty millions of lands belonging to the State have been wasted and the State not profited by it in the least. If it had gone to the hands of actual settlers and become omes for our people there would be less oom to find fault. But instead of that it as been disposed of under one pretext or nother to corporations or foreign and companies, in large bodies, and thus placed beyond the reach of ctual settlers. The school lands are all last is now left, and there is a persistent fort on the part of these land companies to get nossession of that. They claim was overwhelmingly defeated by the popular vote. The next scheme was to get the Legislature to pass an act to sell the watered sections, and but for the Governor's veto the whole of the school lands would have been lost to the State. For if the lakes and springs were all sold the residue would be valueless, and it would virtually belong to those who owned the water. The plains are peculiarly a stock country, at least for the present, and only here and there a spring or a pond is found, and unless these are reserved for the present for common use the stock raising business will pass into the hands of a few wealthy companies. This, we apprehend, will be a prominent issue in the next election. This paper has always mall stock raisers, and will not favor the lection of any one for Governor who is not bund on that question.

The Star, though not well supported by the statistics of men who have made the subject a study in Europe, believes in the greater morality of the rural districts compared with cities, though it may speak truly s regards this country:

Mr. Edgerton is a very ready talker and is not slow in expressing his opinions. He is a very extreme Bourbon and has never yet voted anything but the Democratic ticket. He is one of the few Democrats who protested against Horace Greeley's nomination in 1872. He came very near being nominated as vice president with Charles O'Conor at the Louisville Convention in that year. He is an old and experienced business man, and for a number of years has been the president of the Board of Education at Fort Wayne, Ind. He says that the civil service law, so far as he is concerned, will be executed in its very spirit and letter. They are like fire, steam and powerful machinery, capable of great good, but equally capable of doing harm when not kept within proper bounds. So long as the Knights confine themselves to peaceable and lawful measures and respect the rights of others they are free to do as they please. Several vessels arrived last week with freight from Galveston for this place and Matagorda; also three lumber schooners. It is a painful fact to remark that many of our young men enter the law departments of our schools with no nobler ambition than to qualify for a political caucus. Politics with us has always been a secondary matter and will remain so until we are taught to place more reliance in our so-called political leaders. And bythe-by, if some of the leaders were better versed in moral jurisprudence and knew less, if it was possible, of parliamentary rulings, our people all over the country would be in a better position to fight their own battles.

He is also one of the stockholders of the Charleston News and Courier. Both Mr. Edgerton and Mr. Trenholm have independent means, and can therefore afford to serve upon the commission for the moderate salaries of their places. Mr. Trenholm's selection is another emphatic indication of the President's financial policy.

Mr. Dorman B. Eaton is temporarily retained upon the commission. He is a smooth shaven, angular mannered visionary. He has been a professional educator for some years and has managed to extract out of the government on account of this reputation a very good living. He was at the head of the Bureau of Education for some time. This bureau has prepared a number of useless reports and has made it a business to gather statistics which no one has read or cared anything about. Mr. Eaton helped about Congress to secure the passage of the civil service bill. At least, that he was assured a place when the bill passed. He is a courtier in every sense of the word, He will undoubtedly act as much in the interests of the Democratic majority on the commission as he has in the past in the interests of the Republitans. It is possible that he may hold on through this very subserviency and the mugwump influence which he has gotten back of him through paying court to their leaders.]

Six Months for a Divorce.

Boston, Nov. 15 .- Under the laws of Massachusetts the court has no authority to grant a divorce immediately upon the conclusion of the trial of any case. The statute provides that six months must be her hands, and in less than the time it takes to tell it her sharp eyes will have seen all the different pieces, and if there is even a scrap that looks as though it might be valuable it is carefully laid aside for future examination. Experience has convinced the treasury officials that these girls annually save many times their salaries to the government. The sale of the waste paper is one of considerable importance, and the revenue each year is in the course of business turned back into the treasury where it properly belongs. allowed for the correction of any mistakes or errors that may have occurred during the trial before an absolute divorce is decided, and during that time the parties of the suit should not transgress their marriage vows. Should the successful parties do this the decree would at once be annulled.

This is the position in which the principals in Taber vs. Taber find themselves, and Mrs. Taber has six months in which to show cause why an absolute divorce should not be granted. If, through her counsel, she should by argument or additional testimony convince the court that sufficient cause did not exist for the dispurse the decrees might be dismissed.

RAILROAD RUMBLER'S REVIEW

THE FRESH TRAIL OF THE IRON HORSE.

Facts, Figures and Fancies Gleaned, Originated and Wired Specially for this Department of the News

"Do you know," began the big brakeman at the Texas and Pacific depot yesterday, as he jumped off the 6:15 passenger train last evening and showed his red lantern in the Rumbler's eyes. "Do you know some people is mighty powerful careless. Now nere's a big red pocket book found under the seat just awhile ago. I'll turn it over to you and you advertise it and find the owner.'

The words were scarcely out of the big brakeman's mouth before a fat, red-faced man rushed up in a' treble voice and said, man rushed up in a treble voice and said, puffing and gasping:

"Hi, brakeman!" he managed to ejaculate; "see any.—thing—of a pocket-book? Big red one—name on—inside."

"Here it is, sir!" was the answer, and the lost purse was handed out.

The little man clutched it convulsively, opened it, counted the money it contained with feverish haste, and, thrusting his hand into his pocket, brought out a dime which he dropped into the brakeman's palm.

"You're an honest man," he cried; "here's something for your trouble," and, smiling benevolently, he trotted out of the car and was off.

benevoiently, he trotted out of the car and was off.

"That's the way with 'em," soliloquized the brakeman, as the little man rushed up the platform, and he balanced the dime on his forefinger. "Ten cents is a fine reward for honesty, but then, he's more liberal than a good many who leave articles in the cars. We find everything—coats, snawls, cloaks, traveling bags, jewelry, watches, pocketbooks, letters, papers, books, baskets and bundles. The owners always call for 'em, though, and they usually forget to thank us even for returning their goods."

"You get the reward which 'the consciousness of doing good' brings, Mike," said the Rumbler, while the big brakeman jumped back on his train and was borne away destined to find another pocket book on the very next trip and get another dime.

FAST CATTLE CARS.

FAST CATTLE CARS.

"If humane agents would travel a little now and then, and publish an account of their trips in the papers, it would soon compel these monopolies to put on fast stock trains and keep them on. They never do make a move in that direction until a rival road arises, and then for one or two days maintain quick running trains until their competitor is vanquished. Then they dwindle into obscurity, and fast trains and good stock are things of the past. If these good stock are things of the past. If these gentlemen will keep the thing moving, their efforts will eventually bring success, and we shall rejoice in quicker intercourse with our Western friends in the matter of stock trains making as good time as passenger."

Railroad engineers, conductors, firemen and brakemen all endeavor to expedite the quick movement of trains. But they cannot do it. They are handicapped. The engine, maybe, is overloaded. Some people think that an impossibility, but it is a fact nevertheless. Mayhap the engine is in bad condition, as is offtimes the ease, the railroad company being too much absorbed in economical matters to take much notice of machinery; and allowing that everything is favorable, engine loaded just right and in good condition, there are certain rules and regulations that must be adhered to in regard to speed—twenty-five miles per hour being the maximum running time. Then in a majority of cases the train dispatchers are accountable for some of these delays, but they belong to the railroad, and being an indispensable luxury, cannot be questioned dispensable luxury, cannot be questioned regarding the delays that are attributable to them.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

THE TEXAS EXCURSIONISTS.

Dr. E. H. Sabin, the indefatigable traveling commissioner of the Texas and Pacific, arrived in Dallas yesterday morning and was found about 3 p. m. in the office of Major W. H. Abrams immersed in correspondence:

"Oh, she's coming, the big excursion train respondence:

"Oh, she's coming, the big excursion train will be here to-night with people for the Marienfeld sale of town lots, which, as you are aware, comes off on Saturday next."

"What class of people are they, doctor?"

"They are representative farmers and capitalists from Iowa, Indiana and Illinois. They will not only stop at Marienfeld, but also at Pecos, El Paso and such other points as they may choose. Their object is not only to invest in lots at Marienfeld, but also look at the country along the Texas and Pacific, and perhaps buy large tracts of it, Not only is such an excursion as the present one valuable in the immediate results it achieves, but is principally fertile in the advertisement which these men, when they go home, give the country among their friends and neighbors. Western Texas is now on a boom, and will keep on booming from this time forward. What we want now is a one mile rate both ways while the boom is on the rampage, so that people may come among us and go back and tell the people of their home States what they have seen and the advantages offered. If it doesn't pay the roads simply, for the haul of passengers at that rate, the compensation derived from the sale of lands and increase of producers along their lines should have much weight in inducing them to adopt the cent-a-mile rate."

"Can I subscribe for your paper?" suddenly asked Dr. Sabin. "It may not be the best in the State, but I noticed that nine out of every ten men at the hotels were reading it at the hotel breakfast table."

"You may, if you go round to the business office," said the Rumbler, and went out.

THE BIG EXCURSION TRAIN. The great autumnal excursion train which left St. Louis on the 17th, for points along the Texas and Pacific, was three hours and a half behind time last night. The excursionists took supper at Mineola, seventyeight miles from Dallas, at 5 p. m. yester day, and arrived at the Texas and Pacific depot at 10.

The special train consisted of five Pullman pallace sleepers, three excursion sleepers and five baggage cars. There were 175 persons on board, including two sets of excursionists, one for California and others for Texas points.

The Californians will stop over at Marien-

SOUTHERN TRUNK-LINE MEETING CHATTANOOGA. Tenn., Nov. 18.—The meet ing of the general freight agents of all the Southern trunk lines will be held in this city to-morrow. The officials are now arriving. The meeting promises to be the most important held in the South in years.

Crescent, General Manager Hudson and Receiver Fink, of the East Tennessee, Vir Receiver Fink, of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia system. President Thomas, of the Nashville and Chattanooga, and leading officials of the Louisville and Nashville, and all the general freight agents in the South will be here. The meeting is held in the hope of averting a general freight war which now seems imminent. Rival lines have been secretly furnishing rebates to shippers, and have quietly cut rates. Important concessions will be demanded of some of the roads, but these will not be agreed to. The result of the meeting is awaited with great interest throughout the South.

WANT A RECEIVER APPOINTED. LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 18.—Two bills have been filed in the United States Circuit Court at Little Rock to foreclose the first and second mortgages on the Little Rock Mississippi River and Texas Railway, and motions in each have been filed to appoint a receiver to take charge of the road in the interest of the bondholders, which motions are to be heard this term. The attorney from Boston, C. W. Huntington, has ar rived, it is understood, to argue the mo It is known, and so stated in tion. the bills to foreclose, that the com-pany owes a floating debt of over $300,000. pany owes a northing debt of over $500,000. The first mortgage was secured to John H. Reed, of Connecticut, and Ezra H. Winchester, of New Hampshire, as trustees, to secure bonds, to be issued to the amount of $12,500 per mile of the road built, and to be built, and which, it is alleged, have all been issued and sold and the money expended to the amount of, in the aggregate, $2,187,500 par value. This mortgage was executed on the 1st of January, 1876. The second mortgage was executed to Elisha Atpented to the amount of, in the aggregate was executed on the 1st of January, 1876. The second mortgage was executed to Elisha Atkins and F. Gordon Dexter, both of Boston, as trustees, to secure further bonds to be issued to the amount of $7500 to the mile of completed road, and which, it is alleged, have been issued to the amount of $4,312,000 par value and the money expended, The second mortgage is dated May, 1881. The bonds under the first mortgage were made due Jan. 1, 1906, with interest coupons at 7 per cent, and the bonds under the second mortgage are due on the 1st of April, 1911, with coupons bearing the same interest. The amount of principal for which the mortgages are being fore-closed, therefore, is about $3,500,000, besides nearly $1,000,000 of unpaid coupons or interest. A provision was carefully inserted in the mortgages that if six months' interest should remain unpaid the principal of the mortgages should become due and the mortgages might be foreclosed for the whole amount, at the request of bondholders holding $500,000 of bonds. It is alleged that this interest has not been paid, and that therefore the whole amount is due, and this request of the bondholders holding $500,000 of bonds. It is alleged that this interest has not been paid, and that therefore the whole amount of bonds of the Mississippi, Ouachita and Red River Railroad Company were on the market, unpaid and overdue. Those by the latter compony were secured by a mortgage on the road to Benjamin A. Farmer and David B. Sickles, dated April 5, 1870; those by the former company by a mortgage to the same parties as trustees, dated May 3, 1870.

FORT WORTH AND WAXAHACHIE.

FORT WORTH, Nov. 19.—A dispatch from Waxahachie, published in a morning paper, to the effect that the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe Road would build from Midlothian to that place upon the same terms offered by the Fort Worth and New Orleans Road created considerable comment upon the streets here to-day, as some timid ones thought that this action would shut off the road from here. At the headquarters of the Fort Worth and New Orleans the dispatch is treated indifferently, and is regarded as a bluff. President Hurley states that the presence in this city yesterday of Messrs. presence in this city yesterday of Messrs. Gibson, Templeton and Groce, of Waxahachie, was for the purpose of arranging for a guarantee of some subscriptions given by Waxahachie people that Mr. Hurley did not consider good. The result of the conference between Mr. Hurley and these gentlemen was satisfactory to all parties, the agreement made providing for the appointment of two trustees, one to be selected by the company and the other by the people of Waxahachie, whose duty it shall be to pass upon the notes offered by Waxahachie, all doubtful ones to be guaranteed by the citizens' committee of that place. This puts matters in proper shape and leaves no room atters in proper shape and leaves no roor r further doubt. Mrs. Kate Raymond Howe Marching Through Massachusetts With the Old War Cries so Familiar to Texas.

Special to The News.

Boston, Nov. 19.—A woman under the name of Mrs. Kate Raymond Howe is making tour through this State, lecturing upon the 'Prodigal Son," and getting up entertain ments under the auspices of G. A. R. posts The net proceeds of these affairs go into her capacious pockets. She claims to have served three years in the Union army in the late war as "Tom Smith," in Company K, Twenty-seventh Massachusetts Volunteers; that she was wounded several times, promoted to a lieutenantship, and finally discharged; also that she is the person who begged President Lincoln to allow her to carry, and she did carry, a pardon, or reprieve, from him to the soldier who was sentenced to be shot for sleeping on his post; that she arrived at the critical moment, when the guns were being raised to execute the sentence, and only was able to say "Lincoln—pardon," when she fell from her horse in a swoon, etc.

She makes many other claims of heroic conduct, of education, refinement and the nobility of her character. She is believed to be a woman published as a fraud by the National Tribune of Washington in the issues of the 15th and 19th ult., and by the press in California and Texas, and to some extent in Wisconsin, and who was de nounced by Dahlgren Post, Grand Army of the Republic, of Boston, for claiming membership in that post, which she never held. It is reported here that she "played star engagements" at San Antonio, Fort Worth and Dallas, and that she was fully caught up with while in the latter place by the Grand Army of the Republic post of that city and by Gen. Kountz, of Ohio, the head of the Grand Army of the Republic national organization, and was also exposed at Dallas by relatives of Gen. Winfield Scott, whose granddaughter she had represented herself to be; that later she was arrested at the New Orleans Exposition and lodged in jail on charges of fraudulent transactions at Denver, Col. She escaped legal prosecution on this last affair by Gov. McEnery refusing to honor the Colorado requisition papers on account of technical engagements" at San Antonio, Fort Worth requisition papers on account of technical defects, and soon departed from the Cres-cent City, drifting eastward, and inaugu-rated several weeks ago in Massachusetts towns the same kind of entertainments

ONLY A GAMBLER'S DEBT

Is the Substance of an Argument Against Enforcing a Stock Deal.

ERIE, Pa., Nov. 19.-Mr. James R. Wil lard to-day had a hearing in Judge Marvin's court on a charge of embezzlement preferred by Joseph Johnston. Johnston alleged that Mr. Willard, who is a grain and stock broker, sold some two hundred shares of Lake Shore stock and could not account for the money-$2800. The defend ant had said he would pay the amount as soon as he was able, regarding it as a debt f honor, although it was not collectable by aw. The prosecutor did not know any-ning about "margins," etc., and was sure e had been duped into "buying moon-defendant's counsel, Judge Vincent, rgued that it was a gambling debt, and, as nch, could not be collected by any law, bu he magistrate regarded the "deals" a enuine business transactions, and sent the genuine business transactions, and sent the case to the next Quarter Sessions Court. Big Swindle at St. Johns. Montreal, Nov. 19 .- A large and profitaole swindle by means of forged bills of lading has just been unearthed at St Johns.

St. Johns is the center for the export of hay into the United State, and thousands of tons are shipped daily over the Central, Ladies' Kid Button Worked Holes 31 50.

New York, and other large cities. In many instances shippers would draw upon their agents in New York and Boston without any advice notes being sent, and as St. Johns houses were well and respectably connected, their drafts were accepted on bills of lading being attached and money paid over at the agency of Jacques Cartier Bank, or some French bank either in New York or Roston

Boston.

It now appears that within the last few weeks forged bills of lading, purporting to be drawn by Don Lefebre & Co., of St. Johns, representing about $30,000, have been issued, endorsed and accepted by their Boston and New York agents, and advances to a large amount paid on them to parties working the swindle.

ACCIDENT OR DESIGN

Dr. Frotheringham's Singular Death-Was it Suicide? NEW YORK, Nov. 19.-The death of Dr. Wm

Frothingham, of Washington Heights, at first reported to have been a case of suicide, afterward stated to have been accidental, is now thought by many to have been as originally described, intentional. It is true the doctor was cleaning his pistol when the shot was fired, but the fact that several letters addressed to his wife and friends were found in his desk threw some doubts on the theory of accident. On the other hand, the pistol was evidently at arm's length when discharged. The doctor had his spectacles on, and the ball penetrated is eye, passing through one of the glasses of the spectacles. It is considered singular if he aimed at his eye that he should not have removed the glasses and placed the weapon near his head. There was no known cause for suigide.

nis nead. There was no known cause for surcide.

Dr. Frothingham's death causes universal grief at Washington Heights. He was beloved by all. It is said that he would arise from bed at any time of night to go and give his services free of charge to a poor person as readily as he would attend the families of the rich residents. He had amassed a fortune in his large practice, and was noted for his acts of benevolence.

Dr. Frothingham was surgeon in the federal army during the war. He was once a professor at the College of Physicians and Surgeons in this city, and was a member of many American and foreign societies.

Cutting admits pledging securities be-longing to the estate of Frances B. and Hayward Cutting for individual loans. This testi mony was submitted to the court, and after ome objection by the General's counsel it was some objection by the General's counsel it was admitted. It was shown by Gen. Cutting's own testimony that he had borrowed money for his own use from the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, in all $100,000, and had pledged the stock of the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company belonging to the estate as security for the loan. The dividends on this stock, amounting to $15,000 since the money was borrowed on it, were also appropriated by the General. In all he had received about $32,587 80, and paid out $15,795 63, leaving a balance unaccounted for amounting to $16,791 57.

She Sighed for Law.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 19.—Judge Ludlow in the Common Pleas Court to-day refused to allow Mrs. Damon Y. Kilgore to practice. She has been admitted before the Orphans' Court, and it is customary to allow lawyers practicing in any County Court to practice in all. Mrs. Kilgore protested, and there was a little scene, but the Judge would not reconsider his action. The lady's husband vows that she shall yet be admitted to the bar of that court.

A CATTLEMEN'S CONVENTION

WHICH WILL BE AN IMMENSE AFFAIR.

The Delegates will Probably be Invited to Visit New Orleans-Sketches of Three Prominent Figures in the Gathering.

St. Louis Republican, Nov. 18. The offices of Hunter & Evans, in the franite building, corner of Market and Fourth streets, present an exceedingly aninated appearance now. Here is where Mr. A. T. Atwater, secretary of the National Association of Cattle and Horse Growers, has his office, and where all the mail matter relative to the coming annual convention of cattlemen is received or prepared for mailing. Correspondence pours in at a rate that is almost appalling to the secretary and his corps of assistants, and if there was heretofore any doubt in their minds as to the dimensions of the convention, it is entirely dispelled. The letters seem to indicate that every man in the whole country interested in any degree in the growing, breeding or herding of cattle will be here, and that the only thing that troubles him is the manner of getting here. In Mr. Atwater's daily mail there are queries of all sorts, but the majority relate to transportation and hotel accommodations; there are questions upon almost every conceivable topic and all must be answered in order that everybody may come here filled with the conviction that St. Louis is the most hospitable city in the world; that her doors are always open to cattlemen; that her citizens think the prosperity of the nation depends entirely upon the cattle trade, and that this annual convention is the only really important event dispelled. The letters seem to indicate that

It is not strange, therefore, that the secre It is not strange, therefore, that the secretary and his assistants are busy at this time, but they find time, however, at intervals, to throw up their hands and declare that it beats all their calculations, and that this convention, without the shadow of a doubt, will eblipse every other gathering of cattlemen ever heard of. All the arrangements for the reception and entertainment of the delegates are made, and the convention will open Monday next with the preliminaries in good order.

inaries in good order.

The following letter was received yesterday from the president of the New Orleans

Exposition:
North, CENTRAL AND SOUTH AMERICAN Exposition, Office of the President, New Orleans, Nov. 16.—Major Charles C. Rainwater, Chairman of Executive Committee, water, Chairman of Executive Committee, Cattlemen's Convention, St. Louis, Mo.: Dear Sir—We are informed by Commissioner Squires, of your State, that there will be held in St. Louis on the 24th of November a cattlemen's convention, which we would be very glad to have the pleasure of seeing in New Orleans after the convention seeing in New Orieans after the convenient adjourns.

Do you think this at all feasible, provided the railroads would co-operate with us?

The Exposition opened on the 10th inst. under most favorable circumstances, and I think that the gentlemen composing the convention would find it very pleasant to really a trip here.

convention would find it very pleasant to make a trip here.

Kindly wire me, on receipt of this, your views on the subject, and state what steps we should take in the matter.

Thanking you in advance for your attention, I remain yours truly,

S. B. McConnico, President.

In response to the above, Major Rainwater sent the following telegram:

St. Louis, Nov. 16.—S. B. McConnico, President New Orleans Exposition, New Orleans, La.: With liberal co-operation of railroads, we believe a large number of the delegates to the National Cattlemen's Convention would visit the Exposition at New Orleans. You can rely on our active interest and assistance in the matter,

C. C. Rainwater, Chairman.

Following are three of the prominent figures in the coming convention:

MAJOR C. C. RAINWATER.

Major Rainwater is a native Missourian, and was born in Ray County, in 1838. His energy and ambition would not permit him to lead a rural life, and in 1865 he came to St. Louis and went into the wholesale hat and cap business with Jesse Arnot, under the firm name of Jesse Arnot & Co. The firm afterward became Bradford, Rainwater & Co., Mr. Arnot retiring, and the next change was to the present firm of Rainwater, Boogher & Co. During his business career in St. Louis Major Rainwater has, by common consent apparently, been placed among the leaders in matters of public enterprise and liberality. He was the first president of the Gravois Street Railway Company, and from 1872 to 1876 was vice-president of the Board of Police Commissioners. He has held a number of honorary positions, and has been the recipient of many substantial compliments from his fellow business men. When the project of holding a national conventson of cattlemen was suggested to him he at once realized its importance to local business interests of the cattle trade, and entered into it with his accustomed spirit and determination. He we was largely interested in cattle herds in the Indian Territory, which fact, perhaps, was an additional incentive to his efforts. He was chosen as the chairman of the excareer in St. Louis Major Rainwater has, by was an additional incentive to his efforts. He was chosen as the chairman of the executive committee on entertainment, and to his good judgment much of the success of the entertainment of the delegates last year was due. He is still chairman of the committee, which is considered a guarantee that the entertainment of the delegates this fall will be all that could be desired.

GEN. EDWARD F. JONES, the recently elected Democratic Lieutenant Governor of New York, is familiarly known as "Jones of Binghampton," or "Jones he pays the freight." Gen. Jones is the proprietor of the Jones Scales Works, at Binghampton, N. Y., and, although not directly interested at present with the cattle raising industry, his trade with cattlemen in all parts of the country is said to be very extensive. About twenty years ago he was engaged quite extensively in stall feeding cattle in New England, and by the frequent use of scales he was led to embark in their manufacture. He is expected here to take an active partin the convention. "Try to recollect that Jones, he pays the freight." JUSTUS CLARK.

Mr. Clark is vice president for Iowa of the national association and is a resident of Red Oak. He is also president of the Iowa and New Mexico Cattle Company, and has large cattle interests in New Mexico. He has been engaged in breeding cattle in Iowa for many years, and is one of the most prominent and successful breeders in that State. He is about 65 years of age, but still devotes himself actively to his business. He was one of the most deeply interested delegates at the last convention, and will probably take an active part in the coming gathering.

NOTES. All applications for invitations to the cattlemen's ball must be addressed to postoffice box 560. They will be received and passed upon by a special section of the entertainment committee. The ball, it is expected, will be one of the greatest features of the week.

from New York. Hon. Forrest K. Moreland, secretary of the New York State Board of Agriculture and also of the National Dairymen's Association, is on his way to St. Louis, and will attend the convention.

THE LITTLE PEOPLE.

Queer Fancies of Those Who are Just Lifting Life's Curtain. A HEROINE IN THE BUD.

Boston Letter. Last summer a little tot of a girl 7 years old, who has never been to school but has been turned loose all her life on the sandhills of New Jersey, was sent by her grandmother on an errand miles from home, to a place she had never visited and over a lonely mountain road, zigzagging along the face of the Palisades for a short distance down to a Hudson River landing. She inquired her way as she went along, disputed the information given her by one man, and proved herself in the right, and found at last "Gloster Landing," and hailed me as I lay off the dock in my boat to give the message sent by her grandmother. In so doing she bossed her brother, two years older than herself, who accompanied her. I feel justified in saying that one out of four of the grown up people I know would not have found the landing as readily as she did.

MESSAGE TO HEAVEN.

Montreal Gazette.

A 3-year-old "pet of the house" some months ago lost her baby brother, and has missed him very much ever since; he was told when the child died it had gone to heaven. Recently, when death was again hovering over the same household, the following conversation took place: Child—Grandma, you're going to heaven soon, ain't you? Grandma—Yes, dear, I hope so. Child—Well, then, grandma, when you get there you'll send home Georgie, won't you? Montreal Gazette.

Boston Transcript. The Lawrence schoolboy who went home delighted with the idea of the military drill to be introduced into that institution, remarked pityingly to his sister: "I tell you, it pays to be a boy."

About the most difficult statistics to gather are those showing the armed strength of the different nations of Europe. Estimates of the number of troops which each country could put in the field in time of war are necessarily largely conjectural. The following diagram will, however, show approximately the strength on paper in disciplined and armed men which are available

Russia
Italy
Austria-Hungary	a frank
England
Servia
Roumania
Greece

France

Germany heads the list with 2,650,000, France 2,500,000, Russia 2,200,000, Italy 1,980,000, Austria-Hungary 1,026,000, Great Britain 637,000, Turkey 410,000, Spain 400,000, Servia 210,000, Roumania 100,000, Greece 50,000, Bulgaria 50,000.

Some of those figures mean a great deal more than others. The German, French and Austrian armies could be mobilized and at work in one-tenth of the time that Russia or Italy would consume. Russia's 2,200,000 men is the bugbear of Europe; it may mean a great deal and it may mean nothing. The Czar had great difficulty in getting men enough into Turkey during the last war to drive the Sultan into the treaty of San Stefano. Italy and Austria are both unknown factors. Their claims are large, but their power may or may not be there. It is certain the Austrian army is a vastly different force in 1885 from what it was in 1866. England's fighting strength, as every one understands, is not on land, but on sea. Her navy puts her, despite her small army, fully abreast of either of the great powers.

"A circus man was telling me of a joke that was played on him while he was managing a show in Australia," says the Chicago News Rambler. "It was his first season in the country, and he was green regarding the gustoms and helicity." of the week.

The indications are that the delegation from Texas will be twice as large as the one sent from that State last year.

Mr. J. D. Warner, secretary of the Stock Grower's Association of New Mexico, reports that the delegations from all parts of New Mexico will be very large.

Mr. Frank Cross, superintendent of Munter & Evans' Montana ranch, is in the city and will stay until after the convention. He has been spending the greater part of the summer in Dakota, and reports a heavy snow storm in the Territory last week.

A section of the general reception committee has been selected as the ladies' reception committee.

There will be a large delegation here

KEEP A LEVEL HEAD.

Pittsburg Dispatch. Pittsburg Dispatch.
When Providence, so lately shy,
Begins to smile at last,
And avenues reopened lie
To prospects fair and vast;
Or bounding life runs in the veins
Of hope we mourned as dead,
It's hard, if no sad trace remains,
To keep a level head.

When we awake to sudden light
Of knowledge sorely sought,
And dark despair's enshrouding night
To sudden joy is wrought;
Or when our ship comes o'er the sea,
By fortune's breezes sped—
These are the times if ever we Should keep a level head.

When some bright mind, by memory
Long buried and forgot,
Contrives to bear his fantasy
In vehicles of thought,
In the exhilaration, then,
Which follows captives led
To docile servitude again.

To docile servitude again, O, keep a level head. When shreds of promise woven are To fabries tangible,
And gathered in from fields afar
Are harvests plentiful;
Or swells the tide of opulence,
By long accretions fed,
Then profit by experience,
And keep a level head!

SOMETHING ABOUT SERVIA.

The King and the People Who Have Set the East Ablaze. St. Louis Republican

The Sclavonic race which now plays so important a role in the drama of the nineteenth century first appeared on the stage of Europe in the sixth century, when they made their first incursion into the Roman empire, and after besieging Byzantium made a league with the Emperors of the East. The new enemy which thus menaced the empire came from Scythia, and, following the Byzantine policy, the strangers were conciliated rather than fought, and the kingdom of Servia conceded to them. The Sclavs were and are a fighting race. They spread themselves over the south and east of Europe, and they number at the present day fully a hundred million souls. Curiously enough there is but one purely Sclavic reigning family, that of Mecklenburg, for the Romanoffs are German and the family of King Milan may or may not be anything, for he is but three generations from a Danubian swineherd. Ancient Seryia comprised Sclavonia, Cro-Ancient Servia, Bosnia and Dalmatia, Bulgaria and Macedonia. It was erected under Stephen into an empire, the imperial double eagle was blazoned upon its banners and a strong feudal nobility grew up in the land. At the fatal battle of Kassava the Sultan Amurath destroyed the Servian power in 1389, and his successor, Bajazet, overran the country, making it subject to the Porte. In 1804, under the lead of Kara George, or Black George, abandit and marauder, the Servians made a desperate struggle for liberty, only to be crushed finally in 1813. Milosch Oberonovitch took up the fight and in 1829 he was recognized by the Sultan as Prince of Servia. The present King is a grandson of the brother of Milosch. He was born in Jass in 1854. He was educated in Paris an called to the throne upon the assassination of his cousin, Prince Michael, in Belgrade, in 1868. Milan married in 1875 the daughter of a Russian colonel named Kesenko. Milan is by no means firmly planted upon the Servian throne. There is a strong pretender in the person of Karageorgeowitch the grandson of Kara George, who has a strong following in the State.

The Servian Legislature consists of two houses, the Senate, for whom members are named by the King, and the Skoupschina which contains one member for every 200 voters. Its powers are the same as those of the House of Representatives. atia, Servia, Bosnia and Dalmatia, Bulgaria which contains one member for every 200 voters. Its powers are the same as those of the House of Representatives.

The necessities of the case have forced Servia to pay special attention to its army and there is probably not a better armed and disciplined force of its size in Europe The military school at Belgrade has a continental reputation, and the forces of the kingdom are made up of good sclavic stock, ably officered.

Servia has few large towns. Belgrade is the largest and the most famous, not by rea son of its commerce or beauty, but becaus of the tremendous fighting of which it habeen the scene for four centuries past. The best blood of Europe washed the ramparts of "high Belgrade" during the sixteenth, seven teenth and eighteenth centuries. It was for years the high water mark of the Turkish flood. Few cities in the civilized work flood. Few cities in the civilized work have undergone so many sieges or can point to so many heroic defenses. A singular feature of the social state of Servia is seen in the character of their villages, which are always stretched over a large trace and a service of the servi in the character of their villages, which are always stretched over a large trace and never nestled close together as in other countries. Villages consisting of forty houses occupy territory ten miles square. Agriculture in a very primitive condition, and societies based upon the patriarchal idea. The people build their own houses, make their own furniture and weave their own clothes. The great majority of the population are members of the Greek Church, although they acknowledge headship neither in the Patriarch of Constantinople nor in the Russian Church. They follow the ancient rites, and the ceremonies resemble closely those of the Jewish Church. In the cathedral at Belgrade this simularity is noticed more closely than elsewhere. Hebrew music is used, and a scarlet veil covers the holy of holies, while the priests affect the costumes and beards of the Oriental Church.

Tongaline NEURALGIA, RHEUMATISM AND NERVOUS HEADACHE

Songolime is taken internally and produces no unpleasant effects.
It contains no Opium or Morphine

Am convinced, after testing its virtue in some exceedingly severe and obstinate cases, that Tongaline properties in Rheumatic Neuralgia and also in many instances of Muscular Rheumatiem.—Walter Colles, M.D. St. Lonis, Mo. Have tested Tongaline in several cases of Neuralgia. It is very seldom that I give landatory notice or praise of proprietary medicines, but from my experience with Tongaline feel justified in saying it has given me perfect satisfaction.—O.B.OSTRANDER, M.D. Fairbury, Ill. Used Tongaline for a patient who had Neuralgia, and after a few doses she was entirely relieved; have also used it in Neuralgia and acute Inflammatory Rheumatism, with the very best results.

COMMERCIAL.

DALLAS, Nov. 19.-Business was quiet and featureless all day. Protracted high tempera and this condition, while favorable to the future outlook, diminishes actual transactions. Cotton had fewe: friends, owing to weaker cables and dull closings, with lower values on early contracts. Several unimportant changes occur in the quoted list, and brooms, not hitherto quoted, are added. In the latter product Dallas manufacturers complain of slouchy work on the part of broomcorn growers, in that they neglect to properly care for the crop after cutting, so that perfect bleaching is impossible as to much of the Texas crop, and the eficiency must be supplied from the North Nevertheless the local make successfully com-petes with Northern brooms, and quotations efer to both.

Decline is given to-day in California beans, sugar, provisions, and also a diminution, barelý quotable, in spot local cotton. In flour, baking powders, crackers, and in brooms, limitation is reached as to output of Northern goods, preference being given by Texas consumers to Dallas manufacture in the lines specified. This remark applies with less emphasis to other articles.

More corn, oats and hay reaches this market at present than demand justifies, and although prices are not changed, there is considerable flatness in transactions. Very few shipping orders have been booked lately to relieve Dalas of its surplus coarse grain and hay. Wheat is quiet and unchanged, Dallas millers taking about all that is offered, generally at the inside quotation.

Pienty of cheap corn and lood forest pastures bring about that result. reater consumption of Texas bacon, hams id land is noted over any past year. This reark applies as well to esculents and legumen loducts. Good onions and potatoes are sold—last winter's experience—of Texas growth this staying qualities equal to the best Michingrowth. There is no quotable change in fruits except improvement in quality, especially remarkable in oranges. The Florida crop is now quoted. Lemons are chiefly from the Mediterranean ports and apples from New York and Michigan.

At the opening of the stock market this morning there was pressure to sell the Vanderbilts, Union Pacific, Louisville and Nashville, Erie, St. Paul and Canada Pacific, caused by advices from London reporting a decline in these stocks in that market. The result was that in the first fifteen minutes the prices of the stocks named declined fractionally, but before the first call an active buying was commenced, which soon caused the whole list to take an upward turn. The buying continued throughout the morning, and at intervals was very heavy. The whole list went higher and higher as the forenoon wore on, and at midday quotations were up 1603/2 per cent as compared with those of the preceding evening. For the two hours to noon 360,000 shares were sold, of which 139,000 were in Reading, Union Pacific, Omaha preferred, New York Central, Erie and Canada Pacific. After midday there was another period of selling, which caused a reaction of 1601 per cent in the hour from noon until 1 o'clock, but this was more than recovered before the close in a heavy and steady buying, which continued throughout the three hours to 3 o'clock. At the close the best figures of the day were current, the market leaving off with a strong tone. A meeting of officials representing Lake Erie and Western, the Cleveland and Columbus, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Chicago and St. Louis Railroad, for the discussion of their proposed plan of consolidated management and a pooling of their traffic earnings, was held this afternoon, but up to the time of the closing of the market nothing could be learned as to what had been done, but the belief is general that the project will be carried out in some way. The closing prices to-night are 160 km prefers.

WILDLY WHOOPING UP WHEAT

EVERYBODY ENTERING THE ARENA.

The Chicago Market Raided Savagely and a Long Campaign Promised-Balkan War News Acting as a Stimulant.

Special to The News. CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—Speculation has surely got into wheat again, and the market is active and irregular with trade heavy. The general sentiment of the local crowd appears to be bearish, but there is steady and undismayed buying regardless of breaks and rallies. Large houses and small houses, brokers and commission men, with country and city clientages, are in the market on both sides but selling orders seem to predominate. The knowledge that certain heavy traders, who were supposed to be in for a long campaign, took advantage of the recent spurt to unload some 8,000,000 bushels, on which they realized a scalp of 2@3c per bushel, coupled with the unexpected increase of 750,000 bushels in the visible supply, has naturally caused considerable consternation among small holders, besides en-couraging the bears to raid the market savagely. These latter now declare that stocks are going right on increasing until Jan. 1 at least, and that the advanced treight rates incident to the close of navigation will make the movement of grain from the West to the seaboard even lighter than it has been heretofore. Still these believers in cheaper values find it a by no means easy task to force a break, as the fresh war news from the Balkan States, coupled with excited English consols and the threatening political outlook in Europe, are sufficient to keep the "shorts" in a constant flurry. Cables, too, are strong and higher and New York reports some small lots taken for export. The Eastern war is, of course, the most interesting topic, and can it be confined within its present limits? is the important query. Should any of the great powers become involved, values of breadstuffs will doubtless go soaring higher even than warranted by the facts, but, on the other hand, should vigorous action in influential quarters bring present disturbances to a speedy termination, wheat will probably bull hard. Still the trade is likely to become feverish at any moment, and as prices advance more readily than they decline, it is not best to expect too much from "short" sales. "Make quick turns, taking a small loss or a reasonable profit until the excitement wears out," is the advice of a prominent commission firm to its friends to-night.

Corn rules strong. The general opinion seems to be that while there is plenty of corn in the market it is of such poor quality that it will hardly pay the freight and charges incurred in sending it to market. Besides it is not expected that much of any grain from the new crop will grade before January. The visible supply is at the lowest point reached in many years, while receipts are light and the shipping demand good. Hence the gist of many dispatches sent out to-night is: "Sell wheat and buy corn."

Provisions are weakened by large receipts of hors. Packers too are again in the fall of the provisions are weakened by large receipts of hors. sent out to-night to corn."

Provisions are weakened by large receipts of hogs. Packers, too, are again in the field as sellers, although some improvement is noted in the inquiry for the actual property. The unusually large supplies of cured product held over from last season is the weight which drags down the market.

CORSICANA CULLINGS. Criminal Happenings-The Courier Suspended.

Morgan Jones Buys the Street Railway. Special to The News. CORSICANA, Nov. 19 .- Milton B. Skeeters, charged with having stolen a saddle and blanket from Mr. S. D. Coates and burning his residence, near Kerens, last Saturday night, was placed in jail here to-day. The circumstances are as follows: On last Saturday Mr. Coates came to this city, where he had some words with Skeeters, who was ostensibly bound for the West. Mr. Coates stayed in the city Saturday night, and on returning home Sunday found his residence and its contents burned, and a fine saddle and blanket gone from the stable.

He found tracks about the stable that resembled Skeeters' tracks. Coates immediately went in pursuit, finding Skeeters at Hico, in Erath County, where he arrested him. The only thing Skeeters had then was the saddle blanket, having traded the saddle. He maintains absolute silence further than in answer to the question of why he burned the house after stealing the saddle, he said: "I don't know."

In the County Court to-day George Richardson, now a Dallas barber, was acquitted of a charge of assault and battery.

All the other criminal cases having been disposed of the jury was discharged and court adjourned until Monday.

Special Policeman C. N. Smith went on a tear to-day and routed the inhabitants of Torkin's saloon by drawing his pistol and pointing it at the crowd promiscuously. He was subsequently arrested by the Marshal and other police and placed in the calaboose.

The Daily Corsicana Courier suspended to-day until Monday, when it will come out as an enlarged evening paper. The management propose that it shall be the best evening paper in the State.

The Corsicana City Railway Company have transferred their charter to Morgan Jones and his associates, of Fort Worth, who will begin soon to lay their track from the Union Depot up Braton street to Jefferson, and up Jefferson to the western suburbs of the city. This will fill a "long felt want."

WEALTH IN THE WICHITAS. Rich Copper Ore Taken Out Near Red River. Other Notes.

Special to The News. WICHITA FALLS, Nov. 19 .- Mr. McDonald's funeral took place yesterday afternoon. It was very largely attended. Mr. J. Jalonic is preparing to build two new stores on Seventh street. Much activity is going on in building.

Rich copper ore has been struck on the bluffs of Red River. Assays have not been made, but the ore looks very rich in copper, sulphate and black oxide of antimony, and will, it is expected, be found in good paying quantities. Samples of the ore have been forwarded to Prof. Overard, of the State University, and to Colorado for assay, but no returns have yet been made. There will be good paying business for an assayer up here as soon as sufficient attention is called to the mineral deposits of this section. tivity is going on in building.

Prairie Fires in the Indian Territory.

Special to The News. HARROLD, Nov. 19 .- There have been extensive prairie fires burning in the Indian Territory, and the atmosphere for several days past has been clouded with smoke. Last night the fire could be plainly seen. Last night the fire could be plainly seen. Reports from the scene say the destruction of grass is very great. Nearly all the grass on the Stinson & Fox and the Knott & Fox leases has been burned, and the fire is now destroying the range in the Waggener lease. This will entail severe loss on the parties holding cattle there, as it is now too late to seek another range, and if the fires are nearly as extensive as reported there cannot be enough grass left to maintain the stock where they are.

The Courts.

The City Physician some time ago announced that the dengue was most to be feared on account of its effect in developing the weak spots in the physical constitution. This was proven to be the case vesterday in the Mayor's court, where five parties were brought to trial on the charged of "drunk and down." On inquiry it was discovered that all of them had had the dengue. Two cases, being of a mild type, were dismissed and the other three being relapses

The cases of Abe McColough, nuisance; William Metzer, fighting, and John Chase, leaving team, were continued, and several charges, from assault and battery to leaving teams, were dismissed.

An Exciting Runaway.

Last evening a little after 5 o'clock Frank Atwater's spirited team, while hitched to a post in front of a saloon on Main street, took fright at a passing load of furniture, and parted their moorings. After making a rather graceful turn they ran down Main street like 2:40 on the shell road to destruction. The hack collided with a post in front of Mr. Orr's and then struck a letter box, both of which were torn up by the roots like frail trees in a cyclone. The vehicle next collided with one of the city scavenger carts, dislocating a wheel and bringing a shower of garbage. The infuriated animals passed by these collisions with the ease that a schoolboy overlooks punctuation points, and continuing their course, wrecked a buggy near the intersection of Harwood and Main streets. They were finally brought to a halt in East Dallas. The hack sustained severe bruises, which can be easily repaired. The stampede throughout the entire route by men, women and children was general, and one old colored woman said she believed "it was judgment coming." struction. The hack collided with a post in

As will be seen by The News special from New York, Mr. Pires is quite ill in that city and in good hands. His early recovery is looked for.

Where the Funds Came From.

To The News. We notice in your dispatches of yesterday that P. H. Golden, master workman K. of L., had received from Dallas $435 from the order at Dallas, leaving the impression that it was entirely a Knight of Labor fund. This evidently is an error, for such was not the intention of the contributors. The sum transmitted was collected by a committee appointed at a mass meeting of the Knights of Labor and citizens, called by the Knights of Labor. We, the undersigned committee, who collected $302 of the amount so sent, so stated to the citizens at large who responded so liberally to this charitable cause. We subjoin a copy of the telegram written and sent by Mr. Riardon.

It was also signed at the telegraph office by J. Dillon, the treasurer of the fund.

This telegram was sent to P. H. Golden, Master Workman and one of the relief committee. It was the understanding of this committee and the citizens from whom the sums were collected that it was a joint fund for the poor of the city and the Knights of Labor, and did not come out of the general fund of the order. The Knights of Labor feel grateful to the liberal contributors who responded so liberally to a call made by them, and we are assured they do not want to be placed in a false attitude in the transmission or distribution of funds that have been collected and transmitted through their efforts. that have been contact through their efforts.

SALE OF THE TRUNK ROAD.

PURCHASED BY A STRONG SYNDICATE.

To Be Extended at Once to Athens and Thence to the Gulf Direct or Through Connections.

The sale of the Trunk Railroad was finally closed last evening about 8 o'clock. Negotiations to that end had been in progress for some time and were brought to a conclusion by the payment of the money and the transfer of the property to Mr. W. G. Mowry, of New York, the agent of the purchasers. The buyers are Messrs. W. W. Weigley and associates—who these associates are cannot be learned. The price paid was $275,000, and on notification of that amount being in bank in New York subject to the draft of the parties selling, the deeds, bills of sale, etc., were delivered, and Mr. Mowry took formal possession. A reorganization will take place to-day, and some of the Dallas parties who sold yesterday will be included in the new directory, but their names were for the present not given. The Trunk Road was commenced in 1880. Mr. M. Henderson, of Boston, and hts associates saw the value of such a road, and by his indomitable energy and push the road may be said to have been built. There are several Northern capitalists interested, but they sold out or were lawed out and the enterprise finally fell into the hands of the Dallas folks, who had advanced money and built it from Kaufman to Kemp, a distance of sixteen miles, and recently from Kemp to Cedar, a distance of six miles. The courts have been loaded to the muzzle with litigations over the road. There have been executions and sales innumerable, and the "sweat" which it underwent was more than ordinarily falls to the lot of roads. But several months ago the courts issued its last order of sale, and from that a pure, clear, clean title was vested in the Dallas gentlemen, who made the sale to W. G. Weigley and associates

A News reporter called on Mr. Mowry last night at the Grand Windsor Hotel and found him courteous, but comparatively reticent. He said: "The new board will be formed to-morrow and the work of extending the road commenced to Athens after preliminary surveys will have been made to determine the route. I am not authorized to state, but I presume extension will be made to Sabine Pass, or to connections with New Orleans, with only such delays as are incidental to the business of procuring right-of-way. Everything has been turned right-of-way. Everything has been turned over to Mr. W. N. Weigly and his asso-ciates. That is as far as I can go to-night." Reporter—Who are Mr. Weigly's assso-

Dan Sickles and Mr. Kneeland, a well known New York capitalist, are concerned in the purchase.

Cut His Throat.

Another terrible affair, which may result tragically, occurred in the city yesterday, the leading actor in which proved to be Bob Phillips, colored, and the victim Jerry Tolliver. To begin at the beginning it appears that the green-eyed monster, originating, of course, on account of a female, took possession of one or both the men at a dance Wednesday night. The matter was then smoothed over, but it came to the surface again yesterday, when the men were brought together at the oil mills. After a brief altercation Phillips drew from his pocket a small penknife, and with the small blade cut Toliver's throat from ear to ear, at which the unfortunate man's head flew back like the lid of a coffee pot. Providentially neither jugular was severed, but there are grave doubts about his recovery. Officer Hearne arrested Phillips, who made no effort to escape. On his part, he stated that Toliver was in the act of coming at him with an iron bar, and in self-defense he was forced to knife him. The knife, still reeking with gore, was turned over to the Sheriff. The wounded man, who can only articulate with great difficulty, says that Phillips cut him without provocation. It is understood that the colored churches of the city are moving against suburban matter was then smoothed over, but it came understood that the colored churches of the city are moving against suburban dances, which of late have proved the ren-dezvous of the seven deadly sins. A prom-inent colored man condemns them as the veriest saturnalia of disorder, in which the attendants act as though they had the free-dom of the city. dom of the city.

The meeting at the First Baptist Church last night, held for the purpose of organizing a Young Men's Christian Association in Dallas, was largely attended by both sexes. An impressive and very earnest address was delivered by Dr. H. E. Brown, secretary of the International Association, who tary of the International Association, who made a practical talk on the aims and purposes of the organization. The following executive committee was appointed, viz: F. N. Foot, A. C. Reeves, R. Harwood, Prof. George W. Grove, C. H. Edwards, Charles Smith, A. J. Hendricks and Capt. simpkins. The following committee of conference with the Library Association was appointed: Dr. Cheney, Mr. Sale and Mr. Reeves. After the transaction of further preliminary work the meeting adjourned to meet at 8 p. m. Monday next at the Congregational Church, on the corner of Bryan and Harwood streets.

His failure is attributed to the stringency of the times.

PROF. DILLARD IN JAIL. In the Federal Court Prof. H. M. Dillard, of Bosque County, was indicted for using the postoffice establishment for the purpose of swindling. In default of bond he was committed. This indictment grows out of the Meridian Mineral Wells matter. The Dallas Artist.

Among the many business houses in our city there is no place that presents the attractions found at the photograph rooms of W. McClelland's photographic studio, No. 705 Main street. During the four years he has been in Dallas he has established a reputation for fine work and has become known as the leading photograph artist, not only in the city but in the State. His transient custom is a leading feature in his business, and all who patronize him are ever after friends and admirers of his studio. His latest attractions are his large bust pictures, pronounced by critics to be unsurpassed. All who visit his studio may be sure of receiving polite attention.
