OPINIONS ON THE OUTLOOK.

HOUSE RULES LIKELY TO BE REVISED.

The President to Press the Silver Issue—The Texas Delegation-Mr. Reagan's Views-Chairmanship Gossip.

Special to The News.

Washington, Dec. 3.-Nearly 150 members of Congress have arrived, and discussion is becoming interesting concerning important questions of legislation and the policy to be pursued by the Democratic party in Congress. One of the first contests in the House will be upon the proposition to revise the rules so as to take from the committee on appropriations several of the appropriation bills and distribute them among other committees. This measure is favored by Messrs. Carlisle, Morrison, Mills and other Democratic leaders, and opposed by Mr. Randall and his followers. At present the indications are that the effort will suc-

The tariff and the silver question will be the important issues of the session. The President to-day informed Mr. Warner that he would present the silver question and force the issue.

The organization of the House will not be different from that of last session, except as to the position of Doorkeeper, to which Mr. Samuel Donaldson, of Tennessee, will be elected. The organization of committees will be very much the same as at the last session, and Messrs. Wellborn and Reagan will be continued as chairmen respectively of the committees on Indian Affairs and com-are all on hand, except Senator Maxey and Representatives Reagan, Thockmorton and Jones. Col. Culberson was the last to arrive, reaching here to-day. THE News reporter called on him late this evening and asked his views in regard to the proposed revision of the rules. He says: 'The change of the rules dividing up the appropriation bills among the committees will increase the amount of expenditures, because each committee will be influenced more or less by the department of the government it represents." Yet he thinks the experiment ought to be made if for no other purpose than to break the legislative despotism now exereised by the committee on appropriations. He says, however, that the proposition embraces another feature, which doubtless is the secret motive of the movement, namely, to destroy the committees on coinage and currency and substitute another to be called the committee on finance. The reason for this is to relieve the Speaker of embarrassment in the appointment of the committee on coinage, as that committee would have to be constituted in view of old members heretofore serving upon it in opposition to the President's ideas of dealing with silver. It is believed that by getting a new committee altogether this result may be obviated. He thinks the last feature unless abandoned will defeat the whole proposition. Concerning the probable action upon the silver question he has learned to-day positively that the issue of further coinage of silver will be forced upon Congress by the President and the Secretary of the Treasury. He believes there will be some division among the silver advocates, but not enough to repeal the existing law.

COL. CULBERSON expressed himself as strongly opposed to the demonetization of silver and believes that it will reduce the volume of money, cheapen property and labor, and tend only to the advantage of the rich. It is understood that all of the other Texas members are in sympathy with him.

GENERAL WASHINGTON NEWS.

COMMITTEE CHAIRMANSHIPS.

Washington, Dec. 2.—The impression is growing here among those who have talked with Speaker Carlisle that there will be no radical changes in committee chairmanships in the House, but that a number of promotions will be made where former chairmen have failed of re-election. It is thought in most cases the next on the list will be moved up. According to the last roster of the House, if the Speaker carries out this plan, the chairmen of the more im portant committees, elective and prospective, will be as follows: Elections-Chairman, Turner of Georgia, Ways and Means-Chairman, Morrison Ways and Means—Chairman, Morrison of Illinois, re-elected.

Appropriations—Chairman, Randall of Pennsylvania, re-elected.

Judiciary—Chairman, Tucker of Virginia, re-elected.

Banking and currency—Ermentrout, of Pennsylvania, who at last session, was second on the list, Chairman Aylett H. Buckner, of Missouri, having been defeated.

Rivers and harbors-Chairman Willis, of Kentucky, re-elected.
Foreign affairs—Chairman Curtin, of Pennsylvania, re-elected.
Postoffices and postroads—Reese, of Georgia, second on list, vice Chairman Money

Manufactures—Hon. Charles L. Mitchell, of Connecticut, next in eligibility, Chairman Bagley having been defeated. Pacific Railroads—Throckmorton, of Texas, next in order to Chairman Cassidy defeated. Labor-O'Neill, of Missouri, vice Chairman Hopkins defeated.

Patents—Singleton, of Mississippi, vice Chairman Vance defeated.
Pensions—Tillman, of South Carolina, vice Chairman Hewitt defeated.

Mr. Cannon, of Illinois, has called a caucus of the Republican members of the House to meet in the hall of representatives at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon. SMUGGLING.

Gov. Zulick, of Arizona, reports that smuggling is freely carried on, without let or hindrance, between Arizona and the the State of Sonora, Mexico. The principal articles brought in are liquor, made from cactus, and cigars on which no duty is paid, and by the United States loses many thousands of dellars annually.

HOUSE RULES.

more conservative members of both parties, have taken up the question of changing the rules of the House, and will favor a different plan from that proposed by Mr Springer. Being opposed to the distribution of the appropriation bills among other committees, they will direct their attention to the prevention of riders being carried through the House on the appropriation bills. Their idea is to give the committee control of all appropriations or recommend legislation on appropriation bills. There are now 130 representatives in Washington. MARSHAL OF COLUMBIA.

The President has appointed Albert A. Wilson, of Washington, to be United States Marshal for the District of Columbia. Mr. Wilson is president of an insurance company, vice president of a railway company, and a bank director in this city. The President being convinced that the people of the District of Columbia are entitled to the entire time and attention of this officer in the performance of the legitimate duties pertaining to the marshalship, he has de-termined to relieve the office of unofficial and social functions, that have of late years attended it, and Mr. Wilson will not be called upon to perform the latter service.

The President said to-day, in connection with the appointment of Mr. Wilson, that it was due to Marshal McMichael to state that that gentleman tendered his resignation or the 5th of last March and had continued in his position up to the present time at the request of the President.

INDIAN CIVILIZATION.

The annual report of the Oommissioner of Atkins devoted nearly one-quarter of his report to an explanation of the general policies which he thinks should be adopted by the government in the management of the Indians. He proposes at the outset to make agriculturists adopted by the government in the management of the Indians. He proposes at the outset to make agriculturists out of them. It requires no seer, he says, to foresee the civilization of the Indian race as a result naturally deducible from a knowledge and practice upon their part of the art of agriculture, for the history of agriculture, among all people, and in all countries, intimately connects it with the highest intellectual and moral devolopment of man, and the Indian, he says, constitutes no exception to this political maxim. He sees nopeful signs of Indian progress and development in the increased interest manifested in agriculture on several reservations during the past few years. In outlining the practical policy which he believes should be adopted by Congress and the government in the management of the Indians, he advocates a dissolution of tribal relations, and the allotment of lands in severalty to the Indians, and it should be industriously impressed upon them that they must abandon their tribal relations and take lands in severalty, as the corner stone of their complete success in agriculture, which means self-support, personal independence and thrift. When they have taken their lands in severalty in sufficient quantities, the remaining lands of their reservations should be purchased by the government and opened to homestead enters at 50 or 75 cents per acre, and the money paid by the government for their lands held in trust and invested for the education, civilization and material advancement of the red race, reserving for each tribe it own money. He thinks they can easily be made self-sustaining by agriculture, and then when the farm and the school has become familiar institutions among them they will be prepared to take the higher and more responsible duties and privileges which appertain to American citizenship. For the education of the Indians next year the commissioner asks for an increase of more than $100,000 above the appropriations for the current fiscal year. He urges the passage of a law p

PUBLIC DEBT STATEMENT.

The debt statement issued to-day shows an increase in the public debt during the month of November amounting to $4,887,195. The net cash balance reported in the treasury is $61,930,595, a decrease since Nov. 1 of $4,887,697, and the total debt now, less net cash, is $1,452,544,766.

The gold coin bullion and gold certificate cash, is $1,452,544,766.

The gold coin bullion and gold certificate balance in the Treasury is now $146,391,486, or about $47,000,000 more than a month ago, and the silver bullion standard dollar and silver certificate balance is $76,449,332, or about $2,000,000 more than on Nov. 1.

The amount of fractional silver and minor coins in the treasury, and classed as unavailable for the reduction of the debt, is $28,536,480, er $4,850,000 more than a month ago. There are $105,000,000 gold certificates outstanding, against $109,000,000 on Nov. 1, and $92,790,642 in silver certificates outstanding, against $93,146,772 a month ago.

The store of standard silver dollars has increased about two millions during the month and now amounts to $165,568,018.

Customs receipts for November amounted to $13,056,651, against $11,727, 855 in Nov. 1884.

Internal revenue receipts were $9,249,938, against $8,861,852 in November 1884, and the miscellaneous receipts were $9,249,938, against $9,661, against $11,727, 855 in Nov. 1884.

Internal revenue receipts were $9,074,573, or nearly one and a half million more than in November 1884. Compared with the first five months of the preceding fiscal year the total receipts from all sources show an increase of about $1,000,000 and amount to $141,017,248, while the expenditures during the five months of this year are but $115,013,931, or more than $7,000,000 less than for the corresponding months of 1884.

RETURN OF THE SPECIAL. WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—The members of the congressional committee and of the Supreme Court who went to Indianapolis to attend the funeral of Vice President Hendricks, returned to Washington this evening, reaching the Baltimore and Potomac Depot at 5:45 o'clock. Senator Harris, of Indiana, Palmer, of Michigan, and eight or ten Western Repregan, and eight or ten Western Representatives joined the party at Indianapolis and came on to Washington. The return trip over the Pennsylvania Road was without any noteworthy incident. The train left Indianapolis at 6 p. m. yesterday, and was nearly twenty-four hours on the road, making ordinary speed. This was in accordance with the wishes of the party who, before leaving Washington, were informed by Col. Park, of the Pennsylvania Road, that they should suggest their own pleasure when to leave and when to return, and whether to run fast or slow.

THE TEXAS TERROR'S TRIAL.

JIM HOLLAND, WHO SLEW TOM DAVIS.

What the Status of His Case is, as Stated by Both Sides-To be Called Within a Week.

Special to The News.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—The big black pistol with which James T. Holland, the Texan dead shot, sent a bullet through the heart of Tom Davis, the sawdust swindler, will not be shown to the jury for several days, though it was the intention of the city authorities to try the case at once. The District Attorney has been

ers, when word was received that Mrs. Hill, the wife of John T. Hill, Holland's companion at the time of the tragedy, was to become a mother, and therefore was unable to appear as a witness. The commissioners, who are taking testimony in Texas as to the character of Holland have important work in hand, and Texans generally claim that the prisoner was a quiet, peaceful citizen, with good social connections Indian Affairs was made public to-day. Gen. and hitherto unblemished character. They say he lived in the heart of a wild, rough cattle country, and that to carry such a pistol as the terrible weapon with which Davis was killed is the custom there. They declare that Holland could not have made arrangements to buy counterfeit money from Davis, as all his previous life would refute such a suggestion. Another position which the Texans take is that Holland has been convicted in advance by New York sentiment because of his native State. All this the District Attorney denies. He says that Holland is a very bad man and that his past life is a bad one. Testimony as to any previous crime committed by Holland cannot be used unless to rebut proof of good character or to show that his testimony is not entitled to credit. If Holland does not take the stand his record cannot be called up against him, but if he takes this course, then Theodore Davis' story of how the killing was done will remain uncontradicted. This is the disemma that the defense is in. Either the direct evidence of the only other eye witness must stand to condemn Holland as a cold-blooded murderer, or else the prisoner must take the stand and have his whole past brought up against him. "I want to say," said District Attorney Fitzgerald, "that this was a cruel and cowardly murder. The cry raised by Holland's friends that he is regarded as a rough simply because he comes from Texas, is an absurd lie. Holiand killed a man in cold blood. As between the two men the State of New York does not have any sympathy in the quarrel on either side. It is enough that a man was killed wilfully, premeditatedly and ideliberately. There is no significance in the fact that Davis was a swindler or even a thief.

which we will produce, shows conclusively in his own handwriting that he was trying to buy counterfeit money. There is no doubt that the longer the trial of the case is put off the worse it is for Holland."

Holland will be defended by Gen. Roger A. Pryor, ex-Senator Grady, Edmund Price and a lawver from Texas. The case of the people will be presented by Mr. Fitzgerald and Col. Fellows. Mr. Grady to-day said to The News correspondent that witnesses are now en route from Texas and he expected the trial to proceed within a week.

HOLLAND AT THE TOMBS. Holland is still in the Tombs, where his lawyers visit him almost daily. Holland sits all day reading in his cell, except when he walks about the corridor for a couple of hours in a cardigan jacket and loose trousers. He is cool, quiet and very reticent, and making no intimate acquaintances among the prisoners. Warden Finn says he is well behaved. The prisoner's sister came from Texas to visit him a few days ago and has gone home again.

spondent has just been talking with Mr. M. B. Pulliam, a wealthy stockman, touching the action of the Land Board. Mr. Pulliam has 40,000 acres on the Pecos River, and says if the board would enforce the law and permit lessees to thoroughly protect themselves he would lease as much school lands as he possessed, as his land is a prey to free grass men, and the intervening school sec-tions prevent him from fencing. If the stockmen were forced to lease all would lease—the majority would at least. He doubts, however, if the Land Board has the right to demand more than four cents per acre, as many have advised.

ATTEMPTS AT ASSASSINATION.

Atrocious Attacks on Citizens of Southwest Texas With Murderous Weapons.

Special to The News. San Antonio, Dec. 2.—Cecilo Martinez complained to a Justice of the Peace this morning that Leandro Gracia, on the evening of Nov. 26, attempted to assassinate him. Cecilo alleges that Gracia made an indecent proposal to his wife. On the same evening, shortly after dark, while Cecilo was unharnessing his horses, Gracia attacked him with his knife. As soon as he made the first stab, Gracia ran away. Although pursued by Martinez, he escaped. Fortunately for Martinez he wore a heavy overcoat, and thus the blow proved futile. The skin of his vic-

This morning Mr. Louis Borgez, Constable in Precinct No. 8, and who lives two and one-half miles from the Kraut place, at Leon Springs, in what is known as Maverick Hollow, came to this city and imparted to a friend the particulars of an attempt to assassinate, which was perpetrated on him night before last, at his house, by unknown parties in ambush. Borgez lives close to the road, and a little while lafter dark on Monday night he visited his stockpen and fed his stock and was returning to the house when the shot was fired at him. The bullet passed very close to his head. The flash was apparently but about ten steps away from him, but in the dark no form of the would-be assassin could be made out. Borgez passed very close to his head. The flash was apparently but about ten steps away from him, but in the dark no form of the wouldbe assassin could be made out. Borgez fled quickly through the doorway, and as he strode across the room his person was plainly in view, through an open window, as he passed before the light. Seeing this, the assassin or assassins fired again two shots, both of which missed the mark and lodged inside the room. One of the shots, after passing through an inch plank, passed through an iron kettle sitting on the stove, and cut a clean hole through it. The other shot passed through a four inch scantling and fell harmless to the floor. While the amount sued for is $4659 42, claimed as actual shortage, the suit is directed against two different sets of sureties on the defendant's official bond as treasurer of the association, one covering the term of 1834, the other 1885. The sureties on the first bond made previous to suit are H. Buttleman, Jas. Sweeney, J. R. Seligman. On the 1885 bond H. Buttleman, Joe Atkins and Pat Barry. The two terms are covered in the suit in order to locate if possible when the defalcation occurred. The defense of the sureties on the latter bond is in effect that the defalcation occurred in 1884. The case will be resumed to-morrow. called to-day in the District Court A STRANDED COMPANY.

After the very execrable performance given here Tuesday night by the Pauline Markham Company and the financial failure that has been attendant upon the business of the company through the State generally, the troupe to-day determined upon disbanding and relying upon their individual efforts to get back to their homes. The party consists of some six or eight people who are now in he city, including Miss Markham. Manager Grunewald knew the character of performance given by this company, and at one time had decided upon canceling their Galveston dates, but afterwards reconsidered this determination and concluded to carry out the contract. So unfavorably was this company received at San Antonio that the house was closed upon them the second night. It is received at san Antonio that the house was closed upon them the second night. It is but an illustration of the negative application of the "survival of the fittest," and the greatest surprise is that the company managed to hold out as long as it did. The receipts Tuesday were but little in excess of $50. There is some talk of a benefit to assist in certains. sist in getting the company home, and should such a course be determined upon the citizens would no doubt respond liberally in this humane cause.

FIRE TEST. A test was made this morning of the capacity of the salt water system in comparison of the efficiency of steamer service. parison of the efficiency of steamer service.

"Not that it can possibly make any difference in influencing the action on rates of premium," said one of the insurance agents now in the city adjusting accounts, "but we just wanted so see; that's all." And so the competitive test between the salt water and steam fire engine and the time for it was quietly arranged by Chief Oldenburg. The time was fixed by 10 o'clock this morning and the place the almost extreme west end of the city, on Strand, between Thirty-second and Thirty-fourth streets. Accordingly, Chief Oldenburg summoned No. 6 with two hose carriages to the scene at the appointed hour. The hose was adjusted to the salt water hydrants at the intersection of Thirty-first street and Strand, and also near the freight depot on Strand near Thirty-second street. The engines ranged alongside the old oil mill well and business begun by the turning in of an alarm, thus giving the salt water works no intimation of the real state of affairs. In a very few minutes a deluge of water came from the hydrants, and Engine No. 6 throwing against the wind, and the hydrants with the winds. The flow from the Thirty-first street hydrants was clear and good, while that from the depot hydrant was muddy and variable. No. 6 stream excited the admiration of the insurance men and Alderman McDonald, chairman of the fire committee, who were present. While the hydrants, in the opinion of the agents, were not fully satisfactory, they "Not that it can possibly make any differ-fire to warrant American companies in staying and doing business here.

The fire department is regarded as insufficient in numbers, while there is a lack of confidence in the water works since the failure when most needed.

The State Board have recommended to the Council the placing of wells at every other corner of the business streets and at a convenient distance apart in the burned portions of the city. These wells, they urged, can be supplied direct from the salt water works, and kept in immediate urged, can be supplied direct from the salt water works, and kept in immediate readiness for service. The board further want the two additional fire engines placed in service, making five in all. This will necessitate the employment of more firemen. It thus appears that, as was the case at the great fire, the salt water hydrants will not be depended upon, and will be used as originally intended as auxillary to the department.

These improvements in the fire service the State Board regards as essential. It is their ultimatum, and it depends wholly with the city what they are going to do chartiff.

with the city what they are going to do about it.

Quite a number of the State Board of Underwriters are still in the city and a number of adjusters looking into the losses by the late fire. The increased rate of insurance established by the board is still the subject of much discussion among property-holders, but the increased burden will not fall so heavily upon this class as upon the masses, as insurance, like taxes, is always fully calculated in the rent, and is paid eventually by the tenants upon the explanation that the increase in insurance was the only alternative for maintaining insurance protection in Galveston in any shape. The business community generally and those of extensive property interests are becoming reconciled to the ultimation as an alternative far preferable to having the insurance business withdrawn entirely from this city. business withdrawn entirely from this city. Even under the present status of the case it is announced upon good authority that several prominent companies intend withdrawing their business from Galveston on Jan. 1. The authority upon which was based the statement that the increase of rates was not sanctioned by veston on Jan. 1. The authority upon which was based the statement that the increase of rates was not sanctioned by the local board is disputed by Mr. James Sorley, the president of that board, who states that the new rates established met with the unanimous approval of the local board as the only alternative for meeting the present difficulty, and it will be a difficult matter to keep the companies, even with this additional incentive. Galveston without insurance facilities would be in a condition that could not be borne, and the responsibility now rests with the city in affording such protection against fires as to reduce the rates to figures engaged by other cities in the State where better protection is afforded.

The enlarging of the fire limits and the ordinance requiring all roofs in the city to be fireproof are regarded as steps in the right direction, and the suggestion is a pertinent one that such laws looking to an increased protection against fire be made subjects of charter amendments at the coming session of the Legislature; that such legislation may be made more permanent and binding in its character and not subject to change or amendment by every succeeding city administration. The absence of adequate protection has been too painfully demonstrated of late, and the increase of insurance is not regarded as disproportioned to the want of protection afforded. The joint committee of the City

ENGLAND.

THEEBAW SURRENDERS. London, Dec. 2 .- A dispatch from Gen. Prendergast states that King Theebaw surrendered in person and was conveyed as a prisoner of war to British territory. A NATIONALIST VICTORY.

London, Dec. 2.—In the north division of Fermanagh, William H. K. Redmond, Nationalist, defeated J. C. Bloomfeld, Tory, by a vote of 3255 to 2822.

LATER RETURNS.

Election returns up to this hour show that the Liberals have elected 228 of their candidates for Parliament, Conservatives 192 and Nationalists 45. The Liberals have reduced the Tories' net gain to 38, and are wild with delight over their retrieval of so much lost ground. In Birr division, Kings County, Malloy (Nationalist) is elected over Capt. Willesby Bernard (Conservative). For one of the divisions of Kerry, Tom Harrigan (Nationalist) is returned over Mr. Roman (Conservative).

ELECTION RETURNS. Col. Warring, Conservative, has been returned for the northern division of Downs and for the western division of Clare. J. Jordan, Nationalist, is elected by an enormous majority.

A GLOOMY VIEW.

The Standard this morning takes a gloomy view of the political situation from the Tory standpoint. It mournfully admits that the new Radical gospel has not been preached in vain among the countrymen. It estimates that nothing less than two-thirds of the seats remaining to be voted for will give Lord Salisbury an adequate following in the new Parliament, and it says that the necessity for vigorous action is imperative.

COMMISSION FOR ROUMELIA. A dispatch from Constantinople states that the Sultan has issued an irade with regard to the Roumelian question, decreeing gard to the Roumelian question, decreeing that commissioners for Eastern Roumelia shall continue to rule that province until a new governor can be appointed to administer its affairs. The dispatch also states that the Turkey government is hurrying forward with all possible dispatch troops and munitions of war to the Roumelian frontier. frontier.

LIBERALS JUBILANT. So far as to-day's vote in the counties has been heard from it shows Liberals gains. A surprising feature of the returns is that in the manufacturing districts the Liberals seem not only to have held their own, but to have made gains. This is considered remarkable in view of the catching arguments drummed into the people of those districts by the Tories in favor of "fair trade," as they choose to call the protective policy. The success of the government's Burmese expedition also failed to have the effect which the Conservatives expected in the voting. Over all these things the Liberals have plucked up courage and are feeling very jubilant to-night. to have made gains. This is considered re-

HOW THEEBAW SURRENDERED. A dispatch from Rangoon says King Theebaw, although he had surrendered his army and his kingdom, refused to surrender his own person until the British troops surrounded his palace in the city of Mandalay. Gen. Frendergast entered the palace and received the King's formal act of submission. The general escorted the King and two Queens through the British lines to a carriage, which conveyed them to the steamship landing on the Irrawaddy River. SIMLA, Dec. 2.—Earl Dufferin, Vicerov of India, has decided, after communicating with the home government, to intern King Thebaw, of Burnaat, in any remote Indian city which the deposed Monarch shall select, and have him treated as becomes his exalted rank. He will have all the palaces and all the wives he wants as a solace for captivity, and the chief difference between his every day life in the future and that of the past, will doubtless be that he will be restrained from cutting off the heads of a few dozen obnoxious courtiers or relatives, as the fancy takes him.

DRIVING AS AN ART. A Horseman's Criticism of the Incompetent Men Who Handle Reins.

New York Tribune. "Jump in here, Tribune," was the hearty greeting given from a light wagon by a Tribune reporter's horse-dealing friend as he pulled up in Harlem lane. "Jump in here and I'll show you how fast a horse can't go that's got a big record." The reporter took a seat in the top wagon, and the horse jogged at comfortable gait up the

"I am exercising this brute for a customer of mine who has gone abroad," continued the horseman. "He gave a rippin' price for him at some country fair last summer because he had a record of 2:50. I can't say he never trotted it, but I'll bet or swear he's reformed or thinks it's wicked to do it he's reformed or thinks it's wicked to do it again."

The well filled thoroughfare caused the reporter to remark that the business of driving was enlarging yearly.

"That's so," said the horseman, "and I don't know of any other line where safety of life and limb is concerned that allows the employment of so many inexperienced, incapable persons. You'll see them at all times on the road and in the streets in charge of public and private turnouts, and it seems to be 'know nothing, fear nothing.'

"Now look at this fancy affair alongside of us," said he, pointing to a high-stepping, nervous bay team before an elegant carriage and driven by a man gorgeously clad in livery. "Do you know that money wouldn't hire me to ride in a closed rig like that with such a driver?—too much style, that with such a driver?—too much style, too little sense. That fellow has been told osit up straight and stiff so that his togery can be seen, and to imitate some forign nonsense in holding his elbows close to its ribs and his lines up near to his chin. The has the reins in one hand and the whip He has the reins in one hand and the whip in the other; now suppose one of those nice horses should stumble or slip, he might get a bad scratch or sprain, for there's no pull bearing on him to help him recover bit. Then again, if a spirited team like that should take fright and want to run, what control over it has a man in that position? Why, before he could gather his lines and get himself into shape, such a pair of horses could make from three to five jumps, and that's where the luck would have to come in.

'It seems to me that people who are bright enough to make wealth and direct workmen should have better judgment in selecting drivers. Of course there are many expert drivers in the employment of many expert drivers in the employment of our best families; they get good pay and know their business, and are allowed to manage it. The trouble with many private drivers is that they have to put up with low wages, and perform mixed duties at that. First-class men will not submit to such terms. Tip-top American drivers kick at wearing livery duds at any rate. Driving ought to at least come under the head of skilled labor; some of these days I believe you'll see a bureau established requiring an official test of a driver's fitness. Men who have charge of boats and boilers are all under some sort of supervision; an engineer of charge of boats and boilers are all under some sort of supervision; an engineer of course has to be skiliful and intelligent, but his charge allows him many guides to go by. Agauge shows him the pressure of steam, an unusual sound in the movement of machinery notifies him that something needs to be examined or corrected. A horse needs comparatively as much careful watching as a boat or boiler, and life is as sacred by the carriage load as by the boat load. As it is now, anybody, boy or man, can rattle through the streets with a single or double team at the risk of making paragraphs for you chaps. Why, sir, there are hundreds of men driving horses every day in this city—and especially on Sundays—who couldn't adjust a double or single harness in any emergency. You've often noticed when a horse has fallen and has to be unbuckled to rise or to pull the shafts out of his way, rise or to pull the shafts out of his way, good-natured cartmen, bystanders or po-licemen have had to do the business. Speak-ing of harness, if had my way I'd have an authorized harness inspection for all public service where the wear and tear are severe; much safety could be provided for by

'Where is he spavined?' I asked of the driver. 'In his foreleg,' said he, pointing with his whip. Well, I explained to the old gentleman that horses didn't get spavined in their forelegs, and I ddn't embrace the opportunity for a swap. So you see there's some virtue in a horseman.

"How can a safe private driver be selected? Well, city and Western stage drivers are a good line of men to draw from; almost any of them with a fair reputation for sobriety would fill the bill. They are accustomed to close and fast driving and are familiar with all details of harness and wagons in case anything needs looking wagons in case anything needs looking

"Colored men? Oh yes, there are lots of good darkey drivers; they like horses and take to them with remarkable fondness. some of them with remarkable fondness. Some of them are apt, however, to delight in show and will make a free-going team do more work than a white man will. Unless he's bossed pretty sharp our colored brother will often use up a good horse about as quick as—well, about as quick as a lady driver will!"

The present administration authorities are doing their utmost to establish a government, and it is thought this will be accomplished when the last one of the Gonzales regime will have been wiped out. The people are almost unanimous in support of this measure and a more intelligent executive will henceforth take the reins of power. The revolutionary party are still increasing their forces and will be on the alert for the resurrection of the Governor. Sales of property was made by the Louisiana Supreme Court (Mr. Justice Fenner) in the case of Conner et al. vs. Robertson: 1. Sales of property for future delivery, with the bona fide intention and obligation to make actual delivery, are lawful contracts; but if under the form of such a contract the real intent be merely to speculate upon the rise and fall of prices and the goods are not to be delivered, but the contract to be settled on the basis of difference of prices, the transaction is a wager and is non-actionable. 2. In order to affect the contract the alleged illegal intent must have been mutual, and such intent by one party, not concurred in by the other, will not avail. 3. The law presumes lawful purpose until the contrary is proved, and when one party charges illegal intent the burden of proof is imposed upon him. 4. The validity of the contract depends upon the state of things existing at its date, and is not effected by subsequent agreements under which the parties voluntarily assent to a settlement on the basis of differences. 5. The mere fact that at the date of his contract the vendor had not the goods and had made no arrangements for obtaining them, and had no expectation of receiving them unless by subsequent purchase, does not suffice to impair the contract. The contrary doctrine once announced is now thoroughly overruled. 6. It follows that the failure to suffice to impair the contract. The contrary doctrine once announced is now thoroughly overruled. 6. It follows that the failure to identify the particular goods sold does not affect the matter, because the sale is not of ascertained articles but of articles of a designated kind, quantity to be selected thereafter, which is a lawful contract when the obligations are reciprocal.

cording to the dicision of the New Hampshire Supreme Court in the case of Gilman vs. Stevens, noted in the Albany Law Journal. In this case it appeared that on Sept. 6, 1883, the defendant was indebted to the plaintiff in the sum of $522 37, upon account for goods sold to him in Boston. On that day one Burr, the plaintiff's traveler, called upon the defendant for money on account; the defendant was unable to pay, but offered his notes amounting to $500, payable to the plaintiff, $200 in fourteen, $150 in thirty, and $150 in forty-five days. Burr had no authority to accept the notes, but received and forwarded them to the plaintiff in Boston, who on Sept. 12 had them discounted. After Sept. 17 the plaintiff paid to the bank the amount of notes, took them up, and at the trial produced and offered them to the defendant. There was no agreement or mutual understanding that the notes were or were not given and received in payment of the account pro tanto. There was evidence tending to show that it is found that by the law of Massachusetts a promissory note constitutes payment of a pre-existing debt for which it is given, in the absence of any stipulation on the subject. The plaintiff did not intend to extend the time for the payment of the account, and did not do so unless such extension resulted as the legal effect of receiving the notes and disposing of them in the manner stated. The court held that the notes were made and court held that the notes were made and payable in New Hampshire, and that in de-termining their validity and effect they should be regarded as New Hampshire con-

Company vs. Cavy, et al., decided by Judge tresham, of the United States Circuit Jourt, it appears that the plaintiff was a large manufacturer of white lead at St. outs, which was accustomed to stamp bon the upper end or head of its kegs the ords "Southern Company, St. Louis." nesse words encircled the head of the keg, St. Louis" forming the lower half of upon the upper end or head of its kegs the words "Southern Company, St. Louis." These words encircled the head of the keg, "St. Louis" forming the lower half of the circle and "Southern Company" the upper half, and they enclosed the words, "warranted strictly pure white lead in pure linseed oil." The complainant used another braud or mark, in addition to the one already described, by simply stenciling a red crescent upon the upper half of the head of the keg. The defendants were manufacturers of white lead at Chicago. They branded upon the heads of their kegs "Southwestern, St. Louis," surrounding the words "Southwestern, St. Louis," surrounding the words "Southwestern, St. Louis," appeared upon the complainant's kegs and the letters were the same in size and appearance. The crescent, however, did not appear on any of defendants' kegs. The defendants also pasted on the sides of their kegs a label containing the words, "The white lead in this package is guaranteed strictly pure, ground in bleached oil and for purity, whiteness and durability is not excelled by any lead manufactured." The plaintiff filed a bill to enjoin the defendants from infringing its trade mark. Judge Gresham granted an injunction, holding that the plaintiff's trade mark has been infringed. He said: "The defendants so brand the heads of their kegs as to naturally mislead or induce persons purchasing for consumption to suppose they are purchasing the complainant's lead when they are getting an inferior article. The brand used by the defendants is so like the complainant's who are or may be decived. The complainant's he complainant's lead when they are getting an inferior article. Bradstreet's, Nov. 21.

In the case o Bradstreet's, Nov. 21. In the case of the State of Alabama vs. Burr et al., decided by the Supreme Court of the United States on the 16th inst., it appeared that the defendants were the directors and officers of the Alabama and Chattanooga Railroad Company. The Governor of Alabama was authorized by the State Legislature to indorse the first mortgage bonds of this company to the amount of $16,000 for each completed mile of road. and was also authorized to issue $2,000,000 in State bonds and exchange them for an equal amount of the company's bonds, taking as security a mortgage upon lands granted the company. The money realized in both cases was to be used only in the construction and equipment of the road. The complaint on which the action was based charged that the defendants had fraudulently represented that they had constructed certain miles of their road in Tennessee and Mississippi, when in fact they had in one case purchased an old road and in the other leased a section of road for which they were paying rental, that the Governor's indorsement was secured by this fraud, that the defense and their accomplices misappropriated moneys accruing from the sale of the State bonds received by them, that by reason of wrongful, illegal and fraudulent acts the company became her brutent and the reason of wrongful, illegal and fraudulent acts the company became bankrupt and unable to pay the interest on its indoxed bonds or redeem the State bonds, that the State was therefore compelled to pay the interest and redeem its bonds, and that the mortgages were foreclosed and the property of the company sold. The defendants demurred to the declaration, and the Supreme Court of the United States sustained the demurrer, holding that the facts stated did not constitute a sufficient cause of action against the defendants. The court said that the State was to indorse certain bonds upon certain security. It made court said that the State was to indorse cer tain bonds upon certain security. It made the indorgement and got the security. There was no pretence that the road cost less than the value of the bonds; consequently, if the bonds were not used to build the road other funds belonging to the company must have been used, and it was proper to treat the bonds as substitutes therefor. The court held that the loss of the State was directly attributable to the deficiency in the value of the original security. the original security.

Marriage of John L. Sullivan.

Washington, Nov. 30 .- John L. Sullivan, the pugilist, was quietly married here yeserday to a Miss Annie Livingston, a local favorite of the variety stage. She is described as being a handsome young woman. Sullivan was accompanied to town by Tom Brady and Harry Minor, of New York, who also witnessed the marriage ceremony. The great slugger was in his most liberal mood. He presented the bride's attendant with a diamond ring, and his own attendant, a Mr. Jem McKeon, with a diamond scarfpin. The officiating clergyman had pressed into his hand a $100 bill as his fee. The couple have gone to Boston, where Mrs. Sullivan No. 1, recently divorced, lives.

McKinney, Dec. 2.—Deputy United States Marshal Waller with the assistance of Sheriff Beck, arrested W. E. Bond to-day in the western part of the county. It seems Bond, last week, with his knife, cut seven seats to pieces on a car on the Central Road, and when he got off at Allen threw a link of iron at the brakeman, all out of pure cussedness. No one knew him, and he was arrested on his general description, and he has been identified by men who were on the

He had on his person a pistol, a large bowie knife and also a complete set of burglars' tools, a lot of acids and a large oreide watch. Some of the files were enclosed in envelopes addressed to Mrs. P. A. Kelley, Van Alstyne, Texas. The envolope was mailed at Vernon, Texas, Aug. 1, 1885, and a request to return to W. A. McKinney, County Treasurer, Vernon, Willbarger County, Texas. He had an order book supposed to be stolen from a salesman thought to belong to the house of Cullen & Newman, Knoxville, Tennessee. He had also a large number of canceled postage stamps. He is red-headed, of florid complexion, about six feet high, well built, a foreigner, speaks broken English very well, about 25 or 30 years old, supposed to be a German. He is held here for a fine of $33 and will be turned loose to work at his trade as soon as his fine is paid, unless a demand is made for him in some place where he is wanted. Night before last Chris Williams ran a pitchfork through the arm of Josh Herndon, his brother-in-law, several miles southwest of McKinney, in a dispute between them. Williams has not been arrested.

met and accepted applications to lease some 113% sections of school land. The applications of Goodnight and others for some 700,000 acres in the Pannandle may be considered as accepted. There were several persons from the grazing districts present representing lease interests who asked for protection. They threaten to throw up their leases if other cattlemen can buy a half section in their pasture and bring in any amount of stock to graze upon the leased land. Already a large number of leases have been abandoned, or at any rate the second year's payments for some $20,000 are long overdue, and the presumption is the leases are abandoned. The board really admits the gravity of these complaints.

Mr. Goodnight made a strong showing on his side of the question. He said he had enclosed the lands under the 4 cent act, and was ready to close the contract at the rate established by the law, which gave ample time to select lands desired. However, when he was ready the board had advanced the rate 100 per cent which he knew was more than the ready the board had advanced the rate 100 per cent, which he knew was more than the land was worth. He had tendered the State the 4 cents, and now if he could have protection, he would pay the 6 cents. He stoutly denied that he had cut or sold any timber from State lands. He had encouraged people to come into the country and make improvements by giving them timber from his own lands. If they depredated upon the school lands he was not responsible. The man who was by the grass commissioner reported to have made $40,000 by selling timber off State lands, had worked hard about eight years and had not made above $1000 a eight years and had not made above $1000 a

The board was impressed with his statement The board was impressed with his statement and those of other stockmen, and will make another attempt at executing the lease law by limiting the number of cattle actual settlers are to take into the leased inclosures. This will be by a provision in the contract for the purchase of the land, and it is expected with this protection, which lessees in general can themselves enforce, there will be no further kicking against the law by the more responsible cattle raisers. It is suggested, however, that the board should establish some agencies in the cattle districts to arbitrate between stockmen and settlers, else if left to themselves another fence-cutting war might be precipitated.

THE TREASURY STATEMENT shows a cash balance to the revenue account of $7540, available school fund $9683, university and other funds $197,623. The school fund has $5,613,717 in bonds on hand, university and asylums $996,184 of Surprising Statement in the Chance Trial at Sherman-Also an Ancient Contradictory Document-Local News Notes.

SHERMAN, Dec. 2.—This has been one of the dullest days of the season and nothing of any importance, outside of the Chance nurder trial, has taken place. Testimony for the defense culminated in the introduction of Jim Young on the stand. It will be remembered that Young is one of the three indicted on Dec. 1, 1865. He was the first of the three tried and came clear. Cox was next tried, and in this case Young was a witness for the defense. The entire audience were thrown into a state of excitement when the witness (Young) to-excitement when the witness (Young) today testified that he himself did the killing, and that Cox and Chance had nothing to do with it. The self-acknowledged murderer gave, as his reasons for so doing, that E. Junius Foster, who was editing a Republican paper in this city in 1863, said that the killing of his (Young's) father was the best thing that ever happened for North Texas.

On the cross-examination the State's Attorney produced a sworn statement signed by Jim Young in 1873 and read it before the court. In this document Young swears that he and Cox were at least 100 yards from the place of the killing when the shots were first fired. He also testified to having been with Chance that night, but did not know where he was at the time of the not know where he was at the time of the killing. The difference in the two state-ments was so apparent that the witness was decidedly reluctant to admit that they were both his sworn testimony.

The argument in the case was concluded late in the evening, and at 9 p. m. the jury is still out.

BACK FROM THE BURIAL. Trip of the President's Cabinet Party to Indian-

CUMBERLAND, Md., Dec. 2.-The Baltimore and Ohio special train, with members of the Cabinet on board who attended Vice President Hendrick's funeral, passed here on return journey to Washington at 12:02. After a night's rest the party arose at an early hour and greatly enjoyed the run over the mountains. Major Pangborn, who is in charge, expects to land the passengers safely in Washington at 3:30 o'clock.

ARRIVED AT HOME. WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—The Baltimore and Ohio special train which left Washington on Monday afternoon with Secretaries Bayard, Lamar and Whitney and Postmaster General Vilas on board, en route to Indianapolis, reached here on the return trip at 3:30 o'clock to-day. Each member of the party individually expressed gratification with the complete arrangements and highly complimented Major Pangborn on his arrangement of the details. At an early hour to-day copies of the leading morning papers were handed the members of the party, which owing to the fact that no stops had been made proved to be quite a feature of the trip.

Immediately after breakfast Postmaster General Vilas went to work in his private drawing room, remarking that he felt so re-freshed, mentally and physically, that he resned, mentary and physically, that he could refrain therefrom no longer.

Secretary Bayard said the journey had been a remarkably pleasant one, and he characterized the thirty-five or six hours on the road as so much recreation. The usual assurance was given that the President had not left the capital, but it was not credited. The impression that the President was with the party also prevailed among the masses in Indianapolis, and when the first car, or pilot section of the Capinet special, left the Union Depot the cars with curtains closely drawn were singled out by the immense throng as those occupied by the President and his friends. SINGING PSALMS TO A DEAD HORSE Some two weeks ago the Governor wrote to a friend who publishes a newspaer that. so far as enforcing the lease law as it now stands is concerned, one might as well sing songs to a dead horse. This meant that the law as it stands cannot be enforced, and that it is dead. Now, since that time, the Attorney-General, the Comptroller, the Land Commissioner, and some fine, intelligent agents who have examined into the condition of affairs in the free grass regions, say the law is in a bad way, and they call upon the Governor to revive it, or to invoke legislation to supply a better one. To this the Governor replies, in substance, that the law is not dead, or that he has not officially received the funeral notice. When he wrote people would believe the law dead, and that was to be an end of it. When the Land Board asked him to apply tests to the supposed corpse, lest it might be buried alive, it began to appear that the deceased had some influential friends who might insist on a coroner's inquest. Then the Governor also suspected it to be premature to order the coffin, and so the funeral is off. But he evidently still believes that the patient is in a critical condition and seems disposed to consider the case hopeless. He advises the use of remedies that the friends of the patient have discarded. They ask the Governor to apply the heroic remedy-the magnetic battery of executive power-while he would waste a year in dosing the patient with "yarb tea" expedients. The lease law dead and buried out of sight and hearing, would have disembarrassed the Governor and also the Land Board. This, the first intention, has been abandoned because the Land Board found signs of life and forced the Governor to withdraw his announcement. The Governor declared the law dead before the board's agents had been heard. Since they have been heard the board thinks that the Governor may revive the law, and the Governor says, in substance, that he may from general information believe the law ineffectual, but must have official knowledge of it before he acts. These agents declare that the civil authorities, juries and witnesses will not do the State justice; hence, while writs may be issued and executed in inaugurating proceedings, the State could never obtain judgments and decrees. The Governor says, procure writs and obtain judgments, any one of you | gives an opening to unscrupulous men to who wishes, or whose duty it is to enforce the law, and I will cheerfully place a military company at your disposal to serve writs and enforce judgments. It might happen that a Governor would wish to enforce the law himself, as the constitution makes it his duty. But he would not use such force as mentioned for any good purpose until judgments are had; but the agents report that judgments cannot be had, and so the force cannot be used by the Governor or any one else who would wish to serve the people. Under the incontestable evidence of such men as Gen. Henry E. Mc-Culloch and Hon. J. D. Stephens and their associates, that civil remedies cannot be applied, what is to be thought of the proposition of the Governor? When those gentlemen declare that judgments cannot be obtained, what is to be thought of the offer to lend the military to enforce judgments? If any one should wish to use the ranger force for any good purpose in a country where the State civil authority is in hostility to the State, that person must use the rangers in aid of the civil authority that is in hostility to the State. If the local foe to the law is not sufficient to destroy it, you who wish to use the rangers can complete the job. That is the logic of the Governor's last manifesto. Go into the scrimmage, but be sure and help the man who has the advantage. If you find the civil authority able to issue and execute its writs, to procure truthful and disinterested witnesses, honest and impartial jurors, just - judges and prompt judgments for the State, just ask for rangers and you can have them. If the witnesses for the State are interested, or are bulldozed and run off, if the juries are chosen by the people for the place has been for free grass, the courts indifferent and called to his fathers. Now let us see if a P. Roeder, 222 Olive street, St. Louis, Mo.

This is apparent to prize in the lottery of death. every one who wishes the law enforced. Now if the experiment of using the rangers, as proposed by the Land Board and Gen. McCulloch, should be tried, it is likely that they would meet with no resistance in removing fences from the school lands; but if they should meet opposition and and convict them of fence-cutting,

why may not the Governor promise

The New York Herald closes an article on the subject by saying:

When the whole population of a great State like Georgia is liable to switch its politics utterly off from contests between Democrats and Republicans to a combat over the "temperance question," it signifies a very languid public interest in anything there is really at issue between the two old parties. And, in fact, what is there really at issue between them? Certainly not the tariff, nor the currency, nor civil service reform. On neither of those questions is either of the old parties a unit.

> THE Mexican Financier publishes a list of the countries to which merchandise and precious metals are exported from Mexico. From this it appears that the total value of exports to the United States for the first half of the fiscal year 1884-85 was $12,065,612 37, consisting of precious metals $7,971,887 39 and merchandise $4,039,724 98. During the same period the value of the exports to all European countries was $8,891,362 12, consisting of precious metals $7,208,377 54 and merchandise $1,682,984 58. This shows the exports to the United States to exceed those to all European countries by $3,174,250 25. The growth of the trade with the United States has been largest in the Northern Mexican States and will undoubtedly be permanent.

MRS. M. J. MORGAN'S MONEY INDUCED TO GIVE AWAY LARGE SUMS.

How the Rev. Dr. Conkling Profited-No Doubt of Mrs. Morgan's Sanity-Heirs Desire Rich Presents Returned.

New York Tribune.

An article printed in the Sun yesterday stated, on the authority of Thomas Dobson. of No. 202 Broadway, an attorney-at-law, who served Charles Morgan in a professional capacity and afterwards sustained similar relations to his widow, Mrs. Mary Jane Morgan, who died in July last, that the Rev. Dr. Nathaniel W. Conkling had prevailed upon Mrs. Morgan, when she was in such a condition of dementia as to be wholly unfit for the transaction of business, to deliver to him $600,000 in government bonds, a handsome house, and valuable furniture and jewelry. Mr. Dobson accused Dr. Conkling of deliberately working upon Mrs. Morgan when she was in these temporary aberrations of mind for the express purpose of accomplishing these transfers of property. Dr. Conkling was the pastor of the Rutgers Presbyterian church, at Madison avenue and Twenty-ninth street, which Mr. Morgan attended. He conducted funeral services for Mr. Morgan, before which he had had no acquaintance with Mrs. Morgan, as she was an Episcopalian and worshipped elsewhere. After Mr. Morgan's death Dr. Conkling visited the widow and furnished her the consolations of religion. In this way, according to Mr. Dobson, he soon secured a good deal of influence over her and when in a partially demented condition, to which the disease with which she was afflicted subjected her, Dr. Conkling or indeed any one else could do with her pretty much as William Moir, Mrs. Morgan's brother-inlaw and the administrator upon her estate, confirms the statements made in the Sun by Mr. Dobson. "There is no use in denying it," he said to a Tribune reporter yesterday; "the Rev. Dr. Conkling did get $500,060 day; "the Rev. Dr. Conkling did get $500,060 in bonds and 20 per cent accrued interest, or $600,000 in all, which he induced Mrs. Morgan to buy for him. She ordered her financial agent, Mr. Rintoul, to purchase the bonds; Mr. Rintoul bought and paid for them and Dr. Conkling carried them away from her home in a cab. He also got the house he lives in, worth about $55,000, almost all the furniture, bric-a-brac and paintings which it contains, and many other gifts of money and jewelry. He got these things from her when she was mentally unfit to transact any business. Her sister. things from her when she was highten, dufit to transact any business. years, was afflicted in the same way, so that I know the mental derangement."

"What sort of a disease was it?"

"It was a mental affection accompanying Bright's disease of the kidneys. It came by temporary fits, during which anybody could do almost anything he chose with its subject. There is no doubt that Mr. Conkling got all this money. We have traced it directly to him in figures, receipts and acknowledgments of various kinds."

"Are you, as administrator, going to proceed against Mr. Conkling?"

"That depends entirely on what my counsel, Messrs. Sullivan & Cromwell, think about the chance of recovery; but I think I shall. Certainly he has no earthly right to the vast property he has thus acquired. Mrs. Morgan, in this condition, was the prey of any quantity of sharps. The John H. Linsly married the widow of Charles Morgan, Jr. Nearly all her life Mrs. Linsly has known Mrs. Morgan and last night. They much regretted that so much publicity had been given to the late Mrs. Morgan's affairs, but were glad of the mrs. Morgan's anairs, but were glad of the opportunity to correct some misapprehensions as to Mrs. Morgan's mental condition which might be inferred from some of the statements published about her. After speaking in feeling terms of the sterling worth of her friend, Mrs. Linsly said:

"Mrs. Morgan was a remarkably able and clear-headed woman. During all the years that I knew her I never saw anything that could awaken the slighest suspicious as to that I knew her I never saw anything that could awaken the slighest suspicions as to her sanity. It was true that she spentlarge sums of money on various works of art, but it was hers to spend as she pleased and she showed good taste in making her purchases. I remember that one day last winter she was making out a list of her pictures when she remarked that she had made a mistake in spelling the name of one of the artists—a German with an unusual sort of name. I mention this to show how good was her memory. She was always solicitous about the welfare of those in her household and would take especial always solicitous about the welfare of those in her household and would take especial pains to avoid giving much trouble to some of her most faithful domestics who had served her long. She would even personally attend to some of their ailments. That surely is not evidence of insanity. I saw her on the day that she left New York for Saratoga. She was then somewhat nervous because of the worry attending the preparations for her departure, but was entirely clear-headed.

"It is well known that she suffered from because of the worry attending the preparations for her departure, but was entirely clear-headed.

"It is well known that she suffered from diabetes, but I never heard that it developed into Bright's disease. I have every reason to believe that it did not. She once asked her physician, Dr. Austin Flint, Sr., to tell her if her disease had any tendency in that direction, and he laughed at her. He never told her that she had Bright's disease—at least I have never heard that he did.

"I have an idea that Mrs. Morgan intended to found an art museum as a memorial to her husband. Various things led me to infer this, though I never heard her make any direct statement to that effect. Her interest in Mr. Conkling was due in the first place for her husband's regard for him. That, was the basis of their subsequent friendship. She certainly showed him a great deal of kindness but I have never heard that she gave him anything like $600,000."

Mr. Linsly said that, speaking without any authoritative information, he was decidedly of the opinion that she had not done anything of the kind. Concerning Mr. Morgan's estate Mr. Linsly said: "A large portion of his property was in Louisiana and Texas. Before his death he organized a steck company with a capital stock of $5,000,000. He gave his wife $750,000 worth of this stock; his eldest daughter, Mrs. Quintard, $750,000; his next daughter, Mrs. Quintard, $750,000 for her portion. The remaining $5,000,000 for her portion. The remaining $5,000,000 of his property was left by will, as stated, to be divided among his heirs according to the laws of the S laws of the State of New York.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT. Special Telegram to The Inter Ocean.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.-When Charles Morgan, the great shipowner, died in this city a little over six years ago he left an estate estimated at fully $5,000,000. He was a close fisted, if not penurious, old man, who had known the value of a dollar in his early days and did not forget it. His widow died last summer, and left an estate barely worth three millions over which there promises to be a bitter and over which there promises to be a litter and protracted controversy. She had got to be known as the most extravagant woman in New York, and many people appear to have amassed fortunes by humoring her eccentric wishes. She developed a craze for paintings, antique furniture, costly ceramics, fine horses and carriages, and paid nearly $300,000 for the collection of orchids which was recently sold at auction in this city for barely one-tenth of that sum. From a statement in the Sun of this morning, however, it seems that Mrs. Morgan not only wished to enjoy her large wealth to the utmost, but was possessed of the reverged between the control of the rare and benevolent desire to see other people enjoy it as well. The Rev. Dr. N. W. Conkling, who did not at the time appear to revel in worldly possessions to any alarming extent, preached a sermon over the cold remains of the defunct Mr. Morgan, and incidentally STRUCK UP AN ACQUAINTANCE with the widow. This he improved upon and became a frequent visitor at her house, offering sympathy for her great loss. She gave him several large sums of money, bought him a house at 55 East Thirty-fourth street for $52,000, paid $45,000 to have it furnished, sent himself and his family on a tour across the continent, and after paying all expenses presented him with further large sums of money to buy clothes for the family and for household and other expenses But this was not all, for to insure him enjoyment for the rest of his life Mrs. Morgan finally presented him with $600,000 in government bonds, which he turned into registered bonds in his own name. These he had carried away in a coupe from Mrs. Morgan's house. Shortly after the benevolent widow passed to another world. It now appears that she was frequently not in her right mind in consequence of the disease from which she died, a statement which is easy to believe. Beside her gifts to the preacher, she squandered money right and left and in very large sums, for much of which she received very little if any returns. She made a will leaving the bulk of her great estate to her clerical friend, but this can not be found, and it is thought she may have destroyed it in some sane moment. The heirs are now getting ready to recover the money she gave away, and hence these disclosures. enjoyment for the rest of his life Mrs. Mor-

THE STATE PRESS.

What the Newspapers Throughout Texas Are Talking About. The Marshall Herald declares that:

The revelations contained in recent numbers of The News of Dallas and Galveston, with the editorial commentaries that accompany them, backed up as they have been by the reports of the Grass Commissioners. by the reports of the Grass Commissioners, present a state of affairs relative to the public school lands of the State that ought to arrest public attention everywhere. We are surprised that the press, and especially the interior newspapers of the State, have given the subject so little attention. Next year there will be a Governor and other State officers and a Legislature to elect, and certainly there is no more important theme than this to engage the attention of reflecting men and journalists. Such a patrimony as the school lands of Texas is without a parallel in the history of the world. Wisely administered these lands will furnish an educational fund that will prove an incalculable blessing for generations to come. The danger is that the most valuable of them will be seized by speculators, or be disposed of by the State officers entrusted with their management, in a manner that will leave but a small moiety in money to the children of the State. How great has been the sacrifice already no one knows. The articles in The News give us no just conception of what the sacrifice has been, but they certainly leave the inference that the aggregated loss has been very great. The Land Board is made up of the Governor, Attorney General, Commissioner of the Land Office, Comptroller and State Treasurer. It has been strangely the course of every Texas Legislature to commit the most important trusts to these officials, who have certainly enough to do in discharging the duties devolving on them under the laws of the State. No corporation or individual owning or controlling vast bodies of lands would trust their management to any body of men hampered with other duties, reasonably occupying all their time. On the contrary, it would be expected that men filling such a trust would give it their undivided attention. These officers cannot do so, and why they ever accepted such a task is extraordinary. But having undertaken it, they either ought to have given it more enlightened attention than they have done, or have long since done, or have long since resigned. We do not doubt that a thorough investigation of land matters would show a condition of are fairs that would startle the people of the State. This is not all to be attributed to the Land Board. This we do not charge, nor are they directly responsible for much of the they directly responsible for much of the mismanagement, waste and spoliation that has taken place; but there is no doubt of one thing, in our opinion, that if there had been a proper Land Board, composed of industrious, honest, patriotic men, whose time and attention had been devoted to the guardianship of these lands, the State would have saved hundreds of thousands and perhaps millions of dollars. This is a grave matter, which neither the press nor the people can view with indifference. The Land Board should awaken to its responsibilities, and while it may not be able to regain what has been lost, it can and ought to gain what has been lost, it can and ought to arrest further spoilations. The members of the board owe this to themselves not less than to the people of the State.

The San Antonio Times is a free grasser to the extent of being a bulldozer, It says:
Messrs. Swain, Templeton and Walsh ought to pay the cattlemen out West a visit.
They would be treated right, but they would hear a few words while the visit lasted. It is one thing to stay at home, like a carpet knight, and talk about sending the rangers after the cattlemen, but it might be quite a different thing to go out with the rangers after the cattlemen. In theory the majority of the Land Board are very zealous and brave in this matter, but practically their proposition is a failure. What would the handful of rangers now in the service of the State do suppressing the violation of the lease law in a single county in Western Texas. The cattlemen and cowboys would laugh them to scorn. If Messrs. Swain, Walsh and Templeton wish to see a little fun, in which there will be a tinge of crimson, let them turn the rangers loose on the cattlemen. It will not do to call the cattlemen a set of outlaws, even if they have used and are using a good deal of free grass, They are, for the most part, gentlemen, and do not believe they are stealing. They believe the land laws are both unjust and defective, and all the rangers in the world, with all their Winchesters and six-shooters, to the extent of being a bulldozer, It says: lieve the land laws are both unjust and defective, and all the rangers in the world, with all their Winchesters and six-shooters, can't whip this belief out of them. The majority of the Land Board should beware. The situation is a critical one. The cattle and sheep men can be reasoned with, they are mainly law-abiding, but they can't be coerced by an armed force. Messers, Swain, Walsh and Templeton can paste this fact in their hats and study it with profit. If the laws can't be enforced because they are bad, let them be repealed; if they are good, let the Legislature take steps to enforce them, by additional legislation; but shall an armed force be called in to break up the peace of the State, to quell outrages where there are none, and create pandemonium generally? Never.

The San Antonio Express says: The San Antonio Express says:

The San Antonio Express says:

The State enacted a law requiring that those using the public domain should pay the State for its use. Under this act large tracts of land were leased by men who came forward and paid their money into the State treasury therefor. Others occupying large tracts of the public domain ignored the law, many of them sneering at the demand of the State officials that the law be respected. If the State is not competent to onforce the lease law and the Lagislature mand of the State officials that the law be respected. If the State is not competent to enforce the lease law, and the Legislature cannot enact provisions that will enable it to enforce it, then it should be repealed; and, as the State cannot afford to make fish of one citizen and flesh of another, every lease made under the law should be revoked, and the meanure raid into the tree-group there.

RAILROAD RUMBLER'S REVIEW

THE FRESH TRAIL OF THE IRON HORSE.

Facts, Figures and Fancies Gleaned, Originated and Wired Specially for this Department of the News

Virtually the term of office of W. H. Newman as General Traffic Manager of the Missouri Pacific system began Tuesday, the 1st instant. It is possible he will not begin the active assumption of his new duties until

During the interim he will remain in Texas winding up the details of his old business and facilitating the work of his suc-

A Vermonter by birth, Mr. Newman is a Texan by adoption and by business and social sympathy. He came to the State when railroad business was in its infancy as an humble freight clerk, and every mile of track laid on her soil marked a relative advance in the mental grasp and business acquirements of her adopted son.

Born in '47, he entered the railway service

Born in '4', he entered the railway service in '60, and came to the Southwest in '72 as station agent of, the Southern Pacific, now Texas and Pacific, at Shreveport, La.

His great capability for the complex freight business was not long without recognition by his employers, and in March, 1872, he was made general freight agent of the Texas and Pacific, which position he filled with marked ability and success for welve years, during which time he saw the filled with marked ability and success for twelve years, during which time he saw the line he served emerge from a fragmentary road into a great system, spanning the continent from ocean to ocean. In 1884 Mr. Newman became traffic manager of the Missouri Pacific lines in Texas and Louisiana. His recent promotion is the highest proof of his fitness for the most important and arduous traffic position in the United States, having under his absolute control the regulation of rates on 6046 miles of road.

A friend of his said to the Rumbler yesterday:

"Newman's strong elements are a phenominal memory—he can carry around in his head enough figures to fill a book—and a dogged resolution when he takes a stand on any question in a freight convention, which carries everything before it.

"When he goes to St. Louis he will meet some very fly traffic managers, on the B Line, on the Ohio and Mississippi, on the Wabash, on the Old Van and on the Chicago and Alton.

and Alton.
"I will give Newman just one month to weigh them up and then they are his meat."

E. O'Keefe, foreman of machinery on the Santa Fe at this point, gave the Rambler some important pointers on velocipedes yesterday.

J. N. Fuller, Eastern agent of the Santa Fe at New York, is in the city.

A special train with the officials and directors of the Texas Trunk goes out this morning at 8 o'clock for an inspection of the road. The special will leave from the Santa Fe depot. RAILROAD MAGNATES. Special to The News.

MARSHALL, Dec. 2.—Gov. J. C. Brown and the party of railroad officials arrived here this morning early. They remained only a few hours, made an inspection of the shops and other property and left for New Or-AN INJUNCTION. An injunction was sued out before Judge Hazelwood, by the executive committee and attorneys for the citizens of the city of Marshall and of Harrison county against the Texas city of Marshall and of Harrison county against the Texas and Pacific Railway Company, enjoining the company from moving the general offices of the road from this place and to compel them to return the offices that have already been removed. The required bond of $20,000 was filed and the service was had to-day on Superintendent Cumming and the office of the company. The day is not yet fixed for trying the case.

There is a dry hun a the dispatch from Montreal stating that no passenger trains will as yet be run on the Canadian Pacific, facetiously observes the San Francisco Chronicle, and then proceeds to "poke fun' at the road. The directors, the dispatch says, "are anxious to watch the action of the glaciers and snowslides for a few months." This is a very good idea. When Lord Milton made his survey for the road he reported that there were spots in the valley where the snow lay 40 feet deep and the topmost branches of tall tress peeped through it like little huckleberry bushes. A railroad train running through a valley by the side of mountain range in such a country might get buried pretty deep by a snow-the side of mountain range in such a country might get buried pretty deep by a snow-slide. It would lie buried till the summer came. The passengers' bodies would probably be found in a fine state of preservation, owing to the cold. Whether this would console their relatives may be a question. We had not heard of glaciers in the Saskatchewan Valley. But if there are, the Canadian Pacific directors are quite right in watching them carefully- They will bear a good deal of watching. When a glacier starts on its travels it carries villages, railroads and everything else before it.

"It is evident that the Canadian Pacific is not going to be a formidable rival to the more southerly lines, at least for some time to come. Snow, ice and frost are impediments which it is difficult to overcome. A moderate quantity of snow may be shoveled away; a certain amount of ice may be thawed out; a certain degree of cold may be endured, but when it comes to mountains of snow, to glaciers of ice, to a steady temperature of 40° below zero for days together, the energies of men are paralyzed by the mere contemplation of such insuperable obstacles. Who is going to run the risk of traveling in a region where a train may be detained for weeks without food or fuel? Who is going to ship goods by trains which may be buried under the snow for months? "If the Canadian Pacific is ever opened to traffic there is one line of business for which it is especially adapted. That is the refrigerator service. Trains of cars laden with beef or butter or milk or other commodities which require cold to keep them fresh can travel from end to end of the line and their contents will be kept in perfect condition without any of the tiresome precautions which the refrigerator service requires on more southerly lines. That is the manifest destiny of our Northern neighbors; the carriage of passengers and ordinary goods she must leave to others."

TERRIBLE CONSEQUENCES OF AN ACCIDENT The locomotive running a train on a short branch line in Texas recently exploded its boiler-apparently a harmless little puff. for we do not find any one was hurt. consequences, however, were heart rending, for the local paper says that "the engineer fireman and conductor were compelled to walk back over four miles to town, and arrived in a thoroughly fatigued condition." What became of the passengers we are not informed; they must have been left to their fate in the presumably desolate spot "over four miles from town"—or perhaps there were no passengers.

A NEW DODGE "Just think of it," he growled, with disgust written on every line of his face. "I was coming out of St. Louis the other day, and, the car being crowded, I gave half my seat to a demure little widow.' "How do you know she was a widow?"

BOSS OF THE BROTHERHOOD REPORTS

A Hand in Shattering the Andre Shaft-No More Money for Dynamite Work Across the Sea-Duty of Skirmishers.

Special to The News.

New York, Dec. 2 .- The Irish element of New York, particularly the National Leaguers, were to-day surprised to find published in the Pittsburg Dispatch of yesterday morning the material portions of the annual report of O'Donovan Rossa as chief executive head of the Fenian Brotherhood of America. In view of the exciting events occurring in England within the past year, many of them from the use of dynamite, and the plots of which occurrences, whether right or wrong, are charged up to the account of Irishmen, made the report of Rossa a document of more than ordinary interest to that large and important class of people in the metropolis. The name of Rossa is to most persons inseparably connected with what are termed dynamite conspiracies, and although much of his writings for his paper are regarded as vaporings and bombast, his official report to so large, influential and respectable an order as the Fenian Brotherhood could reasonably be expected to be much to the opposite, in its statistical features at least. Many of the best, the wealthiest and most influential Trishmen of New York City are members of and contribute to the support ing funds of the Brotherhood movements, and are in full sympathy with the prime object of the order—the ultimate independence of Ireland. Rossa's report to them is of especial interest. Here is the most striking part of what the fiery Fenian leader has to SHATTERING OF THE ANDRE SHAFT. "It is against the constitution of the Ferian Brotherhood to strike at England's power on the continent of America. English intriguers had erected a monument to an English spy on American soil. That monument was destroyed. I charge my accounts with $100 as a donation to the man who did the work. I did not give the money to do the work or to have it done, but I gave it after it was done, and for this I have been deservedly censured. Other items of been deservedly censured. Other items of larger amount nave been expended on work at this side of the Atlantic, but not in the United States. But in this direction I will not offend again. I was anxious to see work done against the enemy wherever the enemy could be seen. I am satisfied the Irish race realize that such work can be done, and satisfied they believe it is the work which will bring the enemy to terms. It devolved upon me to be active, to relieve my character from the foul imputation that fell upon it in consequence of having helped to collect for skirmishing work one time some $90,000, which was never spent in such work. SHORT OF MONEY.

"The labors that devolved upon me those years past have been very onerous, very wearying, and, I may say, very worrying at times. The work would be pleasant enough if there was money enough to keep the missioners employed. I always worked ahead of my means; I borrowed money to keep the missioners in the field; but the most distress ing situation I found myself in was when the ing situation I found myself in was when the missioners had done work and had to fly to America to find myself unable to help them decently or unable to re-engage them in missionary work. When men risk their lives to do dangerous work for Ireland, you cannot, after that dangerous work is done, tell them to go back to their civil life employment. A very large item of my expenditure is that which was spen in assisting our soldiers who had fought bravely in the battlefield and for want of finds remained idle for some time. Who strinds remained idle for some time. Who ever will have the honor of taking my place now will have to be prepared to encounter similar difficulties if he work energetically and if he be able to bring the Brotherhood no more support than I have been able to bring it.

A TRIFLE FOR TERROR.

"The whole amount collected from all sources during the years we have been working is $14,000 or $15,000. Some of the Council have advised me lately not to be publishing the total every week, as it is so council have advised me lately not to be publishing the total every week, as it is so small compared with what other organizations gather for work in Ireland. But our small amount stands before the public in the columns of the United Irishman to show what terror can be struck to the heart of the enemy by a trifle spent in the proper direction. I believe it is generally admitted that England is more afraid to day of the work of the Fenian Brotherhood than she is of any other work all other societies of Irishmen are doing. The Parliamentary patriots themselves admit that only for our work England would pay very little attention to their demands. We do not care who is in the foreground to get and take from England what Ireland wants, but if we cease encouraging and assisting the skirmishers, Ireland will get nothing that is worth having. If all the money spent in agitation was spent in Lucifer matches or in something stronger, in the heart of London, Ireland would very soon have her freedom, in spite of England's teeth."

AN ACCUSATION AND AN ASSAULT.

Street Fracas at Gilmer, Which Alarmed the

Natives and Closed Court. Special to The News. GILMER, Dec. 2.—About 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon the people were disturbed by the cry of, "let 'em fight," and THE NEWS reporter, starting for the scene, saw one man fall and another jump on him, while a good many people began running toward the scene of action. Justice Court was in session, but on hearing the CRY OF MURDER. everybody, including the Court himself, ran to the windows of the courthouse to ran to the windows of the courthouse to look at the blood-curdling sight, and an impromptu adjournment resulted. The man on top was pulled off and he ran across the street with his head bleeding profusely, and Constable B. L. Lee took after him. After running about 100 yards the man was arrested and found to be Mr. Asberry Steelman.

The man who fell under and was thought to be killed was Mr. G. J. Finney, from near the man who left under and was thought to be killed was Mr. G. J. Finney, from near Calloway, who was now assisted to his feet, covered with blood and still bleeding freely. The excitement by this time was intense. After their wounds were dressed they were carried to the courthouse and examined. Steelman said: "Finney accused we and my father of me and my father of and I knocked him on the head for it. I will die and go to h—ll before any one can talk to me in this way anywhere."

On close examination Finney's wounds were pronounced to be "not necessarily dangerous" by Dr. Gathright, who was called to dress them. The weapon was alled to dress them. The weapon used

A PAIR OF BRASS KNUCKS and Finney's head was badly cut and bruised but it is hoped his skull is not fractured. Steelman's wounds were slight but bled profusely and soon covered his cloth-ing with blood. His father, Joe Steelman, Esq., is one of the oldest and most re-spected citizens of the country and no one has yet announced belief in Finney's ac-

The continued growth of the school under Prof. Looney's management and control, is an evidence of his and Mrs. Looney's popularity as well as proficiency as educators. A freight train was wrecked at Old Lanark, about five miles east of here, last night, smashing up eight cars loaded with merchandise and doing considerable damage otherwise. Fortunately none of the crew was hurt.

APACHE ATROCITIES.

Ghastly Mementoes on Exhibition in an Editorial Room at Albuquerque.

Special to The News. ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Dec. 2.—The awful atrocities that have been perpetrated in this Territory and Arizona by the Apache Indians during the past five months are fresh in the minds of the public. By many residents they are not yet considered at an end, but fears are felt that other victims may be added to the already long list. The Albuquerque Democrat has ghastly mementos of the outrages. They consist of the clothing worn by Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Yeater when they were murdered by the Apaches, near Deming, and are on exhibition in the editorial rooms of the Democrat. This horrible illustration of the bloodthirsty nature of these inhuman brutes were sent in by the editor and proprietor of the Democrat, who is in the lower country. The coat and vest worn by Mr. Yeater have three bullet holes in each, and show evidence of a struggle. The dress and skirts of his wife are badly torn and filled with blood. The lady's shoes are cut in several places, and the whole is sufficient to rouse the indignation of all the people of the country. Searching parties are out in the localities of the horrible outrages, mostly along the Mexican and United States border line, looking for persons who may have been wounded and who were able to crawl to places of hiding and shelter and who may possibly be still alive. The settlers are aroused to indignation at the way the Indian department has been managed in the past and are in full accord and sympathy with the present national administration in its theory that the care and control of the savages of the West and Southwest should be turned over to the army, and the hope is expressed that this will be done at the coming session of Congress. editor and proprietor of the Demo-

done at the coming session of Congress.

Condemned by a Citizen Because They Have Not Been Recently Worked.

Special to The News. EAGLE PASS, Dec. 2 .- It is learned from an American gentleman just from Santa Rosa, Mexico, that the famous Cedral silver mines, near that place, have been denounced by a citizen named Reuben Castillo according to the old Mexican laws. They are compelled to perform a ceramount of work every six months in the mines, but it is claimed that none has been done in these mines in that pace of time, hence the claim that they respace of time, hence the claim that they revert to the commonwealth and are subject to whoever may wish to claim them. On the other hand it is said that a law of later date completely abrogates this, since their possession in 1871 by their present owners. A Mobile company has expended over $1,000,000 altogether on the mines, which are very old and which under the Spanish conquerors paid largely, as the records in the church at Santa Rosa show, if the case comes to law the probabilities are that the Americans will regain possession, as the courts in Mexico have lately treated foreigners with great fairness.

A GHASTLY DISCOVERY.

The Severed Head and Body of a Man Found Near Mexia. Special to The News.

GROESBEECK, Dec. 2.—A dead man was today found seven miles from Mexia, at Rock Crossing, on the Navasota River. The body was much mutilated, the head being severed was much mutilated, the head being severed from the body, and a 45-calibre pistol ball shot into the head. It is supposed to be the body of G. W. Hewitt from Navasota County, murdered, it is alleged, by two negro men, one of whom is described as about 20 or 22 years old, little moustache, copper colored, rather slender built. The negroes took horses belonging to the deceased: one chestnut soroffers a reward for the arrest of the ne

Trouble in Church.

DETROIT, Dec. 2.—Troubles at St. Albert's Church were resumed this morning when Fathers Dombrowski and Jawerski, newly appointed pastors, attempted morning masses, and a crowd of one thousand Polish women and a number of men were in the church. Each new arrival anuounced her advent by yelling like a Comanche Indian. Services were interruped by yells and brandishing of fists, and women tried to to get at the altar to remove the priests. Policemen were stationed at the head of the aisles and prevented any progress toward the altar. One woman, Lizzie Jewandoski, climbed over the pews and succeeded in getting within the sanctnary, succeeded in getting within the sanctnary, where she prayed and yelled in turns. Father Jawerski came forward, when her eager hands clutched him and tore his habit off. At this time there were thirty police in and abo ut the edifice, and conflicts between the officers and people were many. Fathers Jawerski and Dombrowski were pelted with mud while crossing the street on their return to the seminary opposite the church. The police cleared the street, but the crowd closed in, making it impossible to do anything but fight. thing but fight.

Mrs. Dorsey's Case.

Newport, R. I., Dec. 2.—Soon after the opening of the court in the Burton case this morning, Mrs. Dorsey, the prisoner, fainted, and remained unconscious half an hour. When the doctors had brought her to consciousness she was propped up with pillows and remained during the session, being cared for with the utmost solicitude by her cared for with the utmost solicitude by her husband. Charles Easton repeated his testimony given at the inquest regarding the negotiations for his purchase of Burton's residence. Mr. and Mrs. James McGruder, tenants of the deceased, testified nothing new. The State here closed its case. For the defense, G. J. Topham, administrator of Burton's estate, said that its inventory aggregated $577 50 cash.

COMMERCIAL.

DALLAS, Dec. 2 .- To-day more attention was given to collections than to incurring additional sales. This condition will prevail for two more days probably. Business is good on mail orders chiefly. Retailers are inclined to stay at their places on the month's opening.

The nail rate is reduced on receipts of a limited supply. Orders for large contracts cannot be filled at any price. The concession given is more a matter of good nature on the part of local jobbers than actual business principles. Furnaces continue cold and supply is still based on old stocks, now very supply is still based on old stocks, now very low. Some favor was shown Dallas jobbers lately on nails on account of their very heavy buying in other lines, and this advantage is extended to consumers.

Cotton works stupidly in cash and futures. The only improvement in sight is pretty good buying for January delivery, and that option is 2 points higher. Of course an advance of 2-100 in a speculative way is almost nothing, and really cuts no figure, but holders greet anything in that direction with applause. The statistical position is very weak.

DALLAS SPOT MARKET.

The stock market opened quiet but firm, and on a good buying of the leaders for foreign account prices advanced steadily during the two hours to noon. Lake Shore, New York Central, and Erie were the strongest stocks and led the upward movement. They were heavily bought and recorded sharp advances. The next strongest stocks were Southern Pacific preferred, Kansas and Texas, Pacific Mail, New York Central, Louisville and Nashville, Omaha, Northwestern, and Western Union. At midday a majority of the list showed advances of & to 1½ per cent, but after 12 o'clock the advance was more than lost by sharp selling of Western Union, induced by the announcement that that company had reduced cable rates on press dispatches from 25c to 20c per word. At the lowest point figures were down ½ to 2 per cent. The market continued weak during the afternoon on a moderate degree of trading. The absence of any news in regard to the efforts to dissolve the injunction restraining the New York Central from leasing the West Shore was the chief cause of the weakness in the afternoon. Prices went fractionally lower in all attempts to market stocks up to within half an hour of the close, when there was a firmer tone imparted to speculators by purchases to cover on the part of some of the shorts, and in most cases the decline was recovered, prices closing at the best of the day were as follows: Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati and Indianapolis, I per cent; Western Union, ½; Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, I; Lake Erie and Western, I; Louisville and Nashville, ½; Texas Pacific, ½; Jersey Central ½. GENERAL TELEGRAPH MARKETS.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—The opening was at the lowest point of the day, 85¼ January wheat. The buying by local operators for home account sent the market up to 85%, but by a little after 10 o'clock no large quantities were sold at this figure; at 85% the trading was active and so on down to 85½, where values seemed to strike a rut and stay in it until lifted out by light receipts. An increased demand from the winter wheat districts and war news carried January wheat up steadily to 86½c. The close of the morning session was firm at the advance noted. Minor grains were firm without activity. Packers were not after lard with the same avidity shown yesterday and the early market was a surprise in that it did not break all to pieces on posting of stocks in store. It eased off 12½ cents, but later, as other markets began showing more strength, recovered slightly.

ST. LOUIS LIVE STOCK MARKET.

St. Louis, Dec. 2.—Cattle—Receipts 1923 head, shipments 261 head. Common and medium qualities were in plentiful supply this morning, and really desirable descriptions few and far between. The demand was up to the average, but most buyers in view of the increased receipts and the general quality of the offerings, looked for lower prices, and in this they were disappointed, as salesmen insisted upon full former rates, and the only prospect for a reduction was in common stuff, which no one appeared desirous of taking, and there were plenty of orders for all the best descriptions and all through the early movement was slow, holders were not worried and looked for an entire clearance before nightfall at the following: Butchers, steers, fair to choice $3 25@4 25; common, $2 75@ 3 00; common $2 00@2 50; feeding steers, $3 25@3 75; stockers, $2 60@3 25; native bulls, $2 00@2 50; good to choice wintered Texans, $3 25 75; Indian and Texas range steers, $2 75@3 50; common do. $1 74@2 55; cows, common to good, $1 75@2 75; bulls, $1 75@1 90.

the property, besides working great hardship to the employes. Judge Fisher took this view of the case, and issued the order requiring the receivers to keep the offices open till 9 a. m. Dec. 17, the United Lines handing over at once $1000 to pay the running expenses until that time. On the date and at the hour mentioned the offices will be shut up until after the sale, which will occupy but a short time, when the purchasers will be permitted to take immediate possession. It is understood that persons acting for the United Lines will buy in the property.

METHOD AMONG THE MILLERS

THEY MEANT BUSINESS AND NOT BLUFF.

And Chicago Wheat is Weak and Sick-How the Guileless Grain Grower Also Played the Mischief.

Special to The News. Chicago, Dec. 2.—The wheat market of Change looks sick. There seems to be an unusual unanimity of sentiment among traders, and a belief that a shrinkage in values is inevitable has become so general that under greatly increased offerings almost a panicky feeling prevails. Advices from the Northwest are as "bearish" as ever, Duluth telegrams telling of bursting warehouses and predicting that stocks at that point will increase fully half a million bushels during the next three weeks. Minneapolis dispatches are at the same tenor and the mills there which have been grinding 500,000 to 600,000 bushels of wheat per week are closed, while the daily posted statement of receipts here shows that there is more truth than bluff in the threat of the Millers' Association to divert the grain arriving at Minneapolis to this city. New York reports some fair lots taken for export at the decline, but this steady increase in the visible supply is bound to have a very depressing effect on foreign markets, which are already about lifeless, owing to the plentiful offerings of Indian wheat for distant delivery as well as for wheat for distant delivery as well as for spot cash at prices relatively far below ours. The wheat importing States of this country also are evidently of the opinion that there is going to be a plethora of breadstuffs, and consequently much lower prices later on, making it bad policy to buy more than from hand to mouth. Thus the prospect for the immediate future from the standpoint of supply and demand is clearly as discouraging as could be wished. The speculative current too, has turned, and Sid Kent, Eldredge, Warner and other heavy operators who were ranged on the bull side around 88@90c, have seemingly changed front, being now apparently as bearish as they were bullish. Whether or not it is a case of genuine conversion it is difficult to say, but it is certain they are employing all the bear tactics they can command to turn the crowd into an army of sellers, and they have succeeded pretty well. Nearly all the prominent houses here have been reported bankrupt, and there is a general lack of confidence, small dealers being content to stand back and wonder where the market will find a resting place. Lindblom thinks it must get under 80c again before anybody will take hold.

The real cause of the weakness is thus explained by a conservative operator: "Every year it is easier for the farmer to move his wheat to market, and every year the visible supply will increase faster after harvest than it did the year before. We have built enormous elevators and used every effort to induce countrymen to send their grain to us, offering to lend money on it, and claiming that we could take care of it much better than they. Well, they accepted our offer, and now we stand aghast at the monument of our own rearing, never remembering that by as much as the visible supply has increased the invisible supply has been diminished.

Corn is weak and lower, the "longs" being demoralized by big receipts and the break in wheat. Even the brokers who felt certain that there would be the same flurry in "year" that there was in November, now spot cash at prices relatively far below ours. The wheat importing States of this

MATTERS AT EAGLE PASS.

Adams Exercised-Fencing in the Jail-A Church Movement-The Fiestas. Special to The News.

Eagle Pass, Dec. 2 .- Adams, the convicted murderer in the jail here, begins to manifest considerably more interest in the course his case is taking, and appeared very dejected when the telegram appearing in THE NEWS of Nov. 28 from Tyler was translated for him to-day.

The Tyler correspondent was in error when he construed the telegram from here as reflecting on the honorable Court of Appeals and the attorneys in the case. It was peals and the attorneys in the case. It was not intended in that manner, and if the gentleman will note the matter a little closer he will see that his gratuitous accusation was not warranted by facts.

A tight board fence, to be twelve feet high, is being erected around the county jail. Heretofore it has been entirely uninclosed, and had friends of prisoners been so inclined they could easily have passed tools into the confined prisoners, who, under fair opportunity, could have cut their way out. The annual fiestas and bull fights in Piedias Negras will be shortly inaugurated there.

dias Negras will be shortly inaugurated there.

Plans have been received for the Episcopal church to be erected here, and if built according to them the edifice will be 51x80 and an elegant structure.

Mrs. C.M. Lawton, of New York, is the largest contributor, it being her purpose to constitute it a memorial chapel for her daughter, Mrs. S. V. W. Jones, who died some years ago. The ladies of Eagle Pass deserve especial mention also, for the assiduity they have exercised in giving concerts and festivals the past year, in order to raise funds to purchase the lots upon which to erect the building.

Mexican money is now quoted at 83 cents currency per $1, a lower price than it has reached for several months past. Falling off in local demand is the principal cause of the decline.

Foremost in the Ranks.

It is the intention of one of the chroniclers of The Naws to apprise our readers in a few days of the many choice and appropriate articles offered by the merchants on Elm and Main streets for the holidays, but perhaps it would not be premature or out of place to let our citizens know in time that China Hall is decidedly the first place to be visited, as fully a half hour can be pleasantly spent by seekers after the beautiful and curious in inspecting the formidable array of chinaware, chandeliers, toilet sets, vases and ornaments that make A MOST DAZZLING SIGHT. It would seem as though Mr. Goslin has made an effort to procure something of everything that could please. His stock is not only very handsome, but what is more surprising of all is the reasonable prices which they are of some, but what is more surprising of an is the reasonable prices which they are of-fered for. As for toys, it would be hard to find a better selection, and, in brief, we can say that China Hall should be visited at once by all who have an intention of making purchases, whether for every day use or for holiday presents.

A Dog Ordinance and an Important Opinion on the Legal and Literary Value of a Copulative Conjunction.

The City Council met in regular session last night. Present: Mayor Brown and Aldermen Carter, Peterman, Keller, Linski, Loeb, Bookhout, Rauch, Louckx, Spellman, Gibson, Williams and Dougherty.

The following bids for putting up a shed for the use of the Fire Department in the rear of the City Hall were opened:

John W. Morrison, to complete the building according to the City Engineer's plans and specifications, $298.

Figh & Sanderson, for the brick work,

It appearing from the City Engineer's estimates of a total cost of $300, that the walls could be built for $214 50, the bid of Mr. Morrison was accepted on motion of Mr.

The following bids on the water tower and waterworks were opened:
W. E. Thomas, of Houston, three bids, $7100, $7850 and $7650.

J. A. Stuart, 60-horse power boiler $820, or 80-horse power, $960. Dean Steam Pumping Company, Holyoke,

A. Nowles, New York, two condensing engines. 2,000,000 gallons capacity every twenty-four hours, $10,750; to be delivered at New York

Sinker, Davis & Co., of Dallas, water tower according to specifications, except concrete or brick foundation, $10,800. They also bid on two steam pumps, capacity 2,000,000 each, manufactured by the Dean Steam Pump Co., Indianapolis, to be delivered and set up, $5100. Messrs. Sinker & Davis complained that the advertised specifications on the boilers were too incomplete to permit their bidding on them.

Another bid was read from W. E. Thomas, of Houston, on a water tower of less diameter than the pipe for which his other bids were made, for $6300, or with concrete foundation $7150.

J. R. Williams, sale agent for Henry R. Worthington, St. Louis, steel plate water tower $7875, or $8672 delivered according to the plans of Chester B. Davis.

The same bidder submitted a plan of Sinker, Davis & Co., of Dallas, water

Clark remostrating against the widening of Harwood street between Elmand Live Oak on the ground that it would compel the removal of two cottages and leave a third on the side-walk, militating seriously against their renting and against her and her sister, a minor with no representative, as the owners of the houses. The petition was received and filed.

A letter was read from E. H. Bennett tendering his resignation as city printer. The resignation and relinquishment of contract was accepted, and on motion of Mr. Carter the city secretary was instructed to advertise in The Dallas Morning News until next Tuesday for bids for the city printing to run the balance of the year, the bids to be opened Tuesday night.

REPORTS OF CITY OFFICERS.

A report gained currency in police circles yesterday to the effect that just before day a party was seen running for dear life fifty paces in advance of another, who exercised himself by shooting at the fugitive. It is fortunate for some people that the darkest hour is before the dawn. The origin of the trouble may be supported but carrent be re-reached the scene. By this time, however, the flames, which seemed to have had all the headway of a prairie fire, communicated to Mr. Beeman's blacksmith shop and Robert son's shoe shop. All the buildings were destroyed, entailing losses as follows: Langston, the owner of the building occupied by Williams' grocery, $600: Williams, $400; Beeman, $700; Robertson, $300. None of the buildings were insured.

About 11 a. m. the alarm was again sounded, the occasion proving to be the burning from some unknown cause of a small cottage occupied by a colored family a few doors west of the crossing of Veal and Young streets. The structure, like Mark Twain's mule, disappeared with a flash and vanish, so much so that by the time the fire companies reached the spot there was no scene left, and they passed on asking the neighbors where the fire was. The building was estimated at about $500, and was not insured. REPORTS OF CITY OFFICERS. The report of the Health Officer showed that 27 patients were admitted in November, making, with the 24 on hand Nov. 1 ber, making, with the 24 of hand Nov. 1, a total of 51 treated. Three patients died and 39 were discharged cured. The deaths were caused, 1 by chronic diarrhea, 1 by epilepsy and 1 by typhoid fever. Total deaths in the city for November 36; adults 23, children 16. Dr. Carter reported the almost total disappearance of dengue and the existence of no other epidemic in the city.

The City Engineer made the following re-Proport: "Sometime last May I reported to the Mayor as dangerous the two-story brick house, 833 and 835 Main street, now occupied by Nolan & McCrosky, and belonging to a nonresident named William Lanson, Jas. B. Simpson agent. The Mayor appointed a committee of three, experienced builders, who efter a careful inspection, reported to who, after a careful inspection, reported to the Mayor that the Main street wall and at least twenty feet of the east wall should be taken down from the roof and to the foundation and rebuilt.

The ordinance adding certain territory to the Third and Sixth Wards was passed under suspension of the rules.

Mr. Carter called up his resolution dividing the office of "City Assessor and Collector" into two offices, City Assessor and City Collector, and proceeded to speak to it. The City Attorney he was aware had construed the office to be indivisible, but learned men had reached a different analysis of the reading of the ordinance. In fact, there was quite a difference of opinion existing among many scholars as to the constructable meaning of the language. For his part he was satisfied to let the matter, if the Council should so elect, go over to the Legislature for remedial action. He concluded by saying: "I am not going to intimate that there is anything wrong, but this Council has no more idea of the shape of that office than a man in China. There has never been a report to call a report in six years from a report to call a report in six years from that office. There was $187 50 appropriated to make a report, and they cut off the man before he could make it."

perfore he could make it."

Mr. Brookout raised the point of order hat the subject matter of the resolution was in violation of the plain letter and pirit of the city charter.

The Mayor decided that the point of order was not well taken, holding that it was not its province pending the consideration of measures by the Council to pass on their egality. That he was only authorized to do in the exercise of the veto power.

legality. That he was only authorized to do in the exercise of the veto power.

Mr. Gibson asked that the City Attorney give his opinion of the meaning of the charter, and the City Secretary proceeded to furnish each member of the Council with a copy of the charter. Then as the Aldermen had their eyes rivited on the connecting link which had been puzzling the scholars, the City Attorney proceeded to explain the legal and the grammatical force of the connecting link atoresaid as established by the most approved principles in punctuation and the intention of the framers of the charter. On the latter head [at this point every aldermanic head was bent over his book like a college class struggling s book like a college class struggling with the pons assinorum of geometry) it was only necessary in order to arrive at the construction of the line to take it in connec-nection with other portions of the charter gle identity in about a hundred places.

Mr. Linskie caught on to the idea at once and begged to be allowed to withdraw his name as the seconder of the resolution, Theatrical.

A large and enthusiastic audience witnessed the initial production last evening of "Zozo, the Magic Queen." It was a matter of regret that so few ladies were present, as nothing in the performance can be construed into the slightest offense against propriety. The dialogue throughout is perfectly chaste, and the costuming not more abbreviated than that so fre quently seen in grand opera, where the ballet is an essential feature. "Zozo," like all spectacular dramas, has speaking parts, and these differ but little from the tradifolded a bewildering realm of enchantment fills the eye with pleasure and the mind with supernatural thoughts. The transformation scene is full of pretty effects and pictures of pretty women in attitudes of ecstacy, enshrined in bowers of flowers and sunlight, more than realized one's dreams of life in fairy land. The drill in the third act was done in faultless style, while the tableaux were vividly realistic.

The character of Zozo was sustained by tableaux were vividly realistic.

The character of Zozo was sustained by Adelaide Cherie, a lady of superb physique and pleasant voice. Miss Toma Henlon, who personated Rhododendron, the bearer of the talisman, was quite fascinating, and furnished some excellent vocal music during the performance. Her singing of the "Last Rose of Summer" and "Suwanee River" was full of pathos, and brought forth many calls for an encore. Miss Florence J. Bindley is a talented little lady, and was much admired for her song and dance and her rendition of popular airs upon the xylophone, the chime bells and the attuned glasses. Marie Daubs made an exquisite audience into spasms of uproarious merriment. "Zozo" will be repeated this evening. Ladies need have no hesitation about attending, and a rich treat is in store for them.

"Only a Farmer's Daughter," a play full of strong situations will follow "Zozo" at the Opera-house, with two performances, on Friday and Saturday evenings. Miss Blanche Cartisse is in the cast.

The "Private Secretary," with Gillette and Kennedy, is booked for Monday and Tuesday of Next week.

And Her Husband Accused of Her Murder-Mysterious Case.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Dec. 2.-A brutal murder of a woman occurred this morning in the village of Medina, about forty miles west of here, and the inquest has resulted in the arrest of her husband, charged with the crime. The first dispatch received from Medina says that when John Miles returned from his hour at 12:30 o'clock he found his wife Amelia, aged 58, lying on the floor dead. The story told to a Herald reporter was to the effect that about 10:30 o'clock he left

The story told to a Herald reporter was to the effect that about 10:30 o'clock he left me, returning at the time above mentioned. According to custom, he went to the back door, but found he could not get in on account of a button holding the latch down. He came around to the front door and talked to a couple of neighbors and then went back. He forced the button off the latch, and entering the room found the dead body of his wife lying on the threshold between the kitchen and pantry, with terrible bruises on the face, and throat cut from ear to ear, and near by a dipper of water, heavily tinged with blood, where the mur derer had evidently washed his hands. Miles ran out and alarmed the neighbors, telling them that his wife had been murdered, and he had been robbed of $107. A coroner was speedily summoned and an inquest began. It was shown that Miles had himself been the only one seen around the premises, and his answers to certain questions were so vague that suspicion was aroused and the coroner ordered his arrest. On his person was found $600. In the house a silver watch, a purse with some money and a revolver were found untouched. The case against Miles is regarded as strong. The character of the man is fair. There never have been any quarrels between him and his wife, as far as the neighbors are aware. He said they never had a word between them of any nature. Miles is a Frenchman, about 67 years old.

Maddox's New Departure.

Meeting the genial S. G. Maddox, of Weatherford, vesterday, at the Grand Wind. sor Hotel, THE NEWS chronicler was only too pleased to enter his apartment and view his extensive line of samples. Heavens! what an array of beauty; what an artistic study in leather. Mr. M. kindly informed THE NEWS that he represented the well known firm of Selz, Schwab & Co., of Chicago. The trade recognize the specialties of this house in men's fine goods in boots and shoes, but they have also a reputation which is second to none in their commonly called "cheap goods," but which should be more properly construed into goods that can be bought by the working class to a good advantage. Their line is certainly very complete in every detail, from the finest hand sewed boots and shoes for men's wear to the lowest grades for laboring classes. Mr. Maddox, who makes his headquarters in Weatherford, is socially very popular, but he is exceedingly fortunate in representing so worthy a concern as Selz, Schwab & Co. of Chicago, a house that certainly occupies the leading position in the boot and shoe line in the United States, and one that has deservedly earned the reputation for attain ing perfection for goods at a reasonable cost, employing skilled labor ever and rendering their name as a household word for integrity and square dealing.
