A Conference at Shreveport.

SHREVEPORT, Nov. 5.—Negotiations have been pending here several days between the Shreveport and Houston Narrow Gauge Railway Company and bondholders, and the creditors represented by Capt. Simon Levy, receiver, with a view to adjusting claims and relieving the road's attorney, P. G. Shelton, of New York, representing bondholders. W. H. Wise, of Shreveport, representing the company, and A. H. Leonard, of New Orleans, representing Receiver Levy, have been engaged to-day arranging details for the settlement, which it is thought will be brought to a close one way or the other to-morrow. A great deal of interest is manifested in the settlement, particularly among the creditors. Mr. E. L. Bremond is on hand and in good spirits, feeling confident a satisfactory settlement will be made with all creditors.

Mr. Young Improving.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 5.—John Russell Young, who has been seriously ill for some time, has greatly improved, and is now able to take short walks.

The dimensions of the perfectly formed girl of the period should be as follows: Height 5 feet 4 1/2 inches; bust 32 inches; waist 24 inches; arm pit to waist 9 inches. A good tape measure can be obtained at any dry goods shop for 5 cents. Directions for self-measurement sent on application.

THE GALVESTON SITUATION.

NO MATERIAL CHANGE IN THE STRIKE.

Merchants Endeavor to Bring About Arbitration—A Heavy Damage Suit Filed. Gov. Davis' Mother Dead.

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS.

GALVESTON, Nov. 5.—A suit for damages in the amount of $15,000 was filed in the District Court to-day for Don Willard Austin, by his next friend Charles W. Austin, against the Beach Hotel and Seaside Improvement Company. The petition states that said Beach Hotel Company, located in the city and county of Galveston, State of Texas, of which Wm. H. Sinclair as president, had a number of wild animals confined in cages near its site for the amusement of the public. Among the animals were several wild panthers. The petition goes on to say that on the 11th day of November, 1884, said Charles W. Austin was doing some carpenter work for the defendant company in the vicinity of the Beach Hotel; that said animals at the time were unguarded by a keeper, and that it was customary for the petitioner's little child, on whose behalf the suit is brought, to come from his father's residence, which was a short distance away from where petitioner was at work; that on or about said day and year the said child, Don Willard Austin, aged 6 years, came as usual to where his father was at work; that being attracted by the animals he stopped for a while by the cage containing the panthers, and while there one of them sprang to the iron bars and lacerated him with his claws so as to injure and disfigure him for life; that it was the result of negligence on the part of said defendant company, wherefore the petitioner claims that said child has been damaged altogether in the sum of $15,000, and petitioner prays for judgment against the defendant company for that amount.

GOV. DAVIS' MOTHER DEAD.

Mrs. Mary Davis died in this city Wednesday evening and was buried from St. Mary's Cathedral this afternoon, the funeral being very largely attended. The deceased was the mother of the late ex-Gov. E. J. Davis and of Mr. W. C. Davis, of this city. She lived to be over 90 years of age, and during her long residence in this city made a large number of warm and devoted friends.

The receivers of the Houston and Texas Central Railway to-day filed a petition in the United States Court asking permission to purchase ten additional passenger coaches, and submit a statement that the Pullman Company would build and deliver them on the track at a cost not to exceed $4500. They also submit the fact that, during 1884, the Central Railway paid to companies $10,383.32 for rent and mileage of passenger coaches.

In the case of the Southern Development Company against the Houston and Texas Central Railway, now pending in the United States Circuit Court, the joint receivers having filed a petition asking advice as to the payment on installments of the semi-annual interest and sinking fund due the State of Texas on account of the loan made the road from the school fund, and which is secured by a lien up to the first seventy-five miles of the railway, Judge Pardee orders as follows: That the joint receivers pay to the State, on account of the loan due on the 10th of November, $19,448.92, and that the receivers pay the said annual interest and sinking fund, as it may become due, until otherwise directed.

ATTITUDE OF THE STRIKERS.

The attitude of the strike remains unchanged, and the embargo against the city is still as binding and the parties at issue seem as unrelenting as when the strike was first declared. The New York steamship San Marcos, of the Mallory Line, arrived about noon to-day and was discharged by the colored laborers without any hindrance or interference on the part of the strikers. An issue was expected to be made at this time and quite a large crowd had gathered at the wharf, but soon dispersed when the work of discharging the vessel began and was proceeded with without molestation. A number of the strikers were also present, but seemed to be merely lookers on with the balance of the crowd. This steamer was unloaded during the day and the work of reloading commenced. As the ships left New York before the interdiction was placed at this end of the line the through freights brought over will have to be stored here, as there is no way of getting out of the city with all the traffic gates hermetically sealed.

ACCUMULATION OF FREIGHT.

An accumulation of freight before the strike will also give a pretty fair load back, but it is thought that the next steamer, which is due Sunday, will bring no through freight, and have very little if any return cargo. A rumor given birth to by the present situation is that the Mallory Company will in all probability draw off their steamers from Galveston pending the present disturbance and run their through freights for Texas and the West into New Orleans, feeding the Southern Pacific system by their Texas and New Orleans division. No official utterances confirm the statement, though the arrangement seems to be a very plausible one for the Mallory Line to adopt in order to circumvent the embargo against them in the event they decline to accede to the demand of the strikers.

THE EFFORTS FOR SETTLEMENT.

Capt. Sawyer, the agent of the Mallory Line here, when seen by a reporter of THE NEWS this evening, stated that no arbitration, or terms of settlement, had yet been proposed by the strikers to the Mallory Company, and that as far as the Mallory Company was concerned, they had no propositions whatever to make, further than the stand already taken by them. Thus the matter remains in status quo with no concessions having been asked on either side. The apparent unconcern of the business community over the matter, is having a good effect, as the strikers are beginning to see that a determination prevails that merchants and the business community can stand it quite as well as the strikers, and hold out as long. The only citizens seeming to take a sufficient interest in the matter to try and effect a compromise of the existing trouble, which is unquestionably damaging Galveston to an incalculable extent, are Mr. Geo. Sealy, president of the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe, and Mr. P. J. Willis, representing the mercantile interests. These gentlemen held a conference with the executive committee of the Knights of Labor and argued with them the suicidal results accruing to themselves as well as Galveston from their action by the stopping of commerce and trade, the main means of their subsistence, and the diverting of trade from this city which may probably be permanent. They argued that already Galveston cotton was being stopped at Houston and compressed there and ready for shipment to the element of Houston which should be the fruits of Galveston labor. Further cotton shipments to Galveston were completely stopped and the trade which Galveston was struggling so hard to maintain was being diverted to New Orleans and other competing points, and once turned it would probably never be regained.

THE GOOSE AND THE GONDEN EGGS.

In short that the strikers were killing the goose that laid them the golden egg. In this connection a reference to the commercial report will show that Galveston cotton receipts were short about 8000 bales to day, only about 1000 bales being received, and that cotton from Houston, already compressed and shipped by the Houston Direct Navigation Company. It is estimated on 'Change by figures from factors and buyers that during the three days continuance of the strike 10,000 bales of cotton, ordered and ready for shipment from Galveston, have been diverted through other channels and completely lost to this market. This is only one item of commerce, and the actual loss to Galveston is incalculable. The conference between Messrs. Sealy and Willis and the strikers seems to have resulted in no very definitely outlined action as to means of compromise, and it did not result in bringing the strikers and the Mallory Company any closer together.

INTERMEDIARY AGENCY NEEDED.

Some intermediary agency seems evidently necessary to bring about this result, as it seems the strike cannot be settled upon any other basis than the one outlined in the proposition to Capt. Sawyer, for a division of labor on the New York wharf. The strike as yet does not seem to have been ordered general, except that it is a complete boycott of Galveston, in and out, over the different roads. The following dispatch, received by the Associated Press to-night, shows that no embargo has been placed at the other end of the Mallory line:

New York, Nov. 4.—Mallory's line reports no difficulty whatever with 'longshoremen' as yet expected. The only open channel left for Galveston seems to be via Houston and the direct navigation against which no interdiction has been placed.

THE MOVEMENT SEEM CONFINED EXCLUSIVELY TO GALVESTON.

The movement seem confined exclusively to Galveston, despite the statement made to the contrary. This is shown by reference to THE NEWS special, and further by a communication that passed to-day from Mr. Crooks, assistant superintendent of the Galveston presses, and Mr. Arnold, who holds a like position in Houston.

Mr. Crooks wired Mr. Arnold, who replied: "Our presses are all in full blast and not a ripple of excitement here." Reports have been received from no point in the State indicating the existence of a strike, though in an official paper called the Executive Board, and under the auspices of the Knights of Labor, they announced to-day that up to the hour of publication that "everything remains unchanged. The Knights of Labor throughout are reporting nobly to the call. Freight from Galveston is being boycotted at every important town."

THE KNIGHTS OF LABOR PAPER.

This publication is made under the directions of the executive committee, and is supposed to echo their views, but it contains little information further than editorializing upon the situation. It paints the cause elaborately from the strikers' standpoint, and is filled with such expressions as the following:

"Galveston expects every man to do his duty throughout the State of Texas!"

"Victory means freedom, and defeat is slavery!"

"The die is cast and every man must be found at his post ready and willing and to die, if necessary."

The strictest reticence is observed and the following article appears headed:

"To the members of the order and all labor organizations: You are cautioned against giving any information to outside parties. Every effort is being made by newspaper men and others to find out your strength. Tell them nothing."

The order issued Wednesday night applies merely to clerks, printers and members engaged in other vocations not connected with the interest at issue in any particular. It is pressed to the effect that, if they desire, but railroad compresses and shipping interests are construed to apply more or less directly to the interest involved and the embargo against these interests is strictly by an order of the executive Board, issued yesterday. The Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe Railway Company was permitted to bring in and carry out the steamer train which is due here to-day, whether than this no other trains will be permitted to move over either of the roads.

WASHINGTON.

MR. EATON REAPPOINTED.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—The President this afternoon reappointed Hon. Dorman B. Eaton Civil Service Commissioner, vice Thoman, resigned. Mr. Eaton's appointment is merely temporary. It is the opinion of the President that Mr. Eaton should remain on the commission until certain matters now pending are cleared up, and until the new commissioners have become acquainted with their duties. The name of the successor to Commissioner Eaton will be announced at an early date.

The Warner Indictment.

New York, Nov. 5.—While officials at the District Attorney's office refused to give any definite information with regard to the report that Wm. D. Warner is to be indicted for alleged complicity in the frame of Ferdinand Ward, it is generally believed the grand jury now in session will bring in such an indictment.

Knights of Labor Arrested.

St. Louis, Nov. 5.—Master Workman Pinkerton, of Street Carriers Assembly, Knights of Labor, and four other members were arrested and jailed to-day, charged with conspiracy. Detectives claim to have positive evidence that they caused the explosion under the street cars recently.

Terrific Explosion.

EVANSVILLE, Nov. 5.—A terrific explosion occurred this evening in the laboratory of Aikin & Co., wrecking the building and badly scalding several persons, three fatally. The engine boiler were blown through the roof of the building. Loss $10,000.

ECHOES OF THE ELECTIONS.

HOW HILL, JONES AND CARR CAME OUT.

Status of the New York Legislature—Gov. Hill Serenaded and Makes a Speech—General Political News.

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The returns for Lieutenant Governor are still incomplete. Gen. Carr runs considerably ahead in many places and Jones has run behind Hill in several counties. Returns from forty-three out of sixty counties report a falling off in the vote, compared with Hill's, of about seven thousand. Jones' plurality will not be more than four thousand over Carr.

The Republicans gained two State Senators and will have a total of twenty-one in the next State Senate, while the Democrats will have eleven. In the Assembly the Republicans will probably have seventy-seven members and the Democrats fifty-one. This is an increase of four for the Republicans.

PARKER TO THE PRESIDENT.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—The following self explanatory telegram was received at the Executive Mansion to-day:

"New York City, Nov. 5.—To Grover Cleveland, President of the United States, Washington: I congratulate you upon the hearty endorsement which New York and Virginia gave your administration yesterday."

GOV. HILL AGAIN ON DUTY.

ALBANY, Nov. 5.—Gov. Hill arrived in the city at an early hour this morning from Elmira, and after breakfasting went immediately to the executive chamber. He is looking well and bears his honors gracefully. About 300 telegrams have been received, and numerous callers are paying their respects.

A SERENADE AND A SPEECH.

Gov. Hill was serenaded this evening. He thanked them for the honors done him by the demonstration, besides the cordial approval of his candidacy evoked from his neighbors in Albany County. He said the victory would encourage every faint-hearted Democrat in the country. The victory was not won on false pretenses. The Democracy relied on no alliances. The election settles the fact that the country is anxious for peace and prosperity, and opposed to fostering sectional strife. The people are interested in an honest, economical administration of public affairs.

IT DON'T SHERINK.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Hill's plurality in fifty-four counties complete and estimates in the balance show 18,405 in the State.

A POLITICAL RUMOR.

BUFFALO, Nov. 5.—It is stated on good authority that Adjutant General Fainsworth, of New York, a personal friend of the President, is to be appointed United States Marshal for the District of Columbia, probably this week.

SPORTING.

THE COMING BILLIARD CONTEST.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—The approaching world's championship tournament at four-teen-inch balk billiards, is the all absorbing theme in sporting circles in this city. All the great experts, including Maurice Vignaux, of Paris, France, regarded almost universally in the public mind as the world's most artistic manipulator of the cue and ivory; Jake Shaefer, the "American Wizard," who now claims New York as a domicile, and George Slosson, of Chicago, who holds the world's championship emblems, won last Spring in New York from Shaefer, are in daily practice and making marvelous scores. The results in these practice games are such as to confuse the billiard authorities as to the superiority of any particular one of the trio mentioned over the other, as one will on one day excel previous performances, and another will, the next day, eclipse his rival's record at this preliminary work. Shaefer to-day completed the best practice game played thus far, making 75 in 14 innings, scoring no higher run than 97, though his total for five innings was over 400. Vignaux made an average to-day of 28 in 1200, while it has been an off day for Slosson. The various State champions, all ambitious to attain world-wide celebrity, fall before the great masters of billiards like a Lilliput hit with the swinging right-hander of a Gulliver. Ben Saylor, champion of the Pacific slope, only made 75 to-day, while Vignaux made 600. In the betting odds of 7 to 1 take your pick, were offered, and 30 against 10, no one seems able to name a man who will be first or second.

ALVARADO.

Round House and Locomotives Destroyed by Fire.

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS. ALVARADO, Nov. 5.—This morning between 2 and 3 o'clock the alarm bells and distress signals were sounded. It was soon ascertained that the round-house of the Missouri Pacific road was in flames. Four large Baldwin engines stood "dead" in their stalls, as the house erected for their protection was being destroyed by the fire. The fire originated in the oil room, but how, no one seems to know. About twenty barrels of oil were stored here, and while burning made a terrific fire. Nothing was saved, some of the men losing even their clothes. This is a severe blow to Alvarado, as not less than fifty men are thrown temporarily out of employment. It is presumed, however, that the railroad company will rebuild at once. The loss is variously estimated at from $100,000 to $125,000.

Killed About a Watch.

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 5.—At Alexandria last night Chas. Metzger and son and John Uppgraff, who had been drinking, quarreled over the relative values of their watches, when a fight occurred. Uppgraff was stabbed in the back, and has since died. The Metzgers were both arrested.

GENERAL FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE.

ENGLAND.

THE ARMSTRONG ABDUCTION. LONDON, Nov. 5.—In the Eliza Armstrong abduction case the Attorney General finished his address to the jury. At the close of his remarks the court was adjourned until Saturday next. It is now believed that Editor Stead, of the Pall Mall Gazette, Bromwell Booth, of the Salvation Army, and Mrs. Jarrett, the woman who negotiated for the services of the girl Eliza, will be convicted.

THE SERBIAN-BULGARIAN TROUBLE.

Serbia and Bulgaria have not yet complied with the demand of the powers to disarm their forces pending a settlement by the conference of the ambassadors. They claim that their military movements are of a strategic and cautious character, without belligerent purpose, which is not believed. It is believed Russia and Austria are mobilizing forces along the frontier nearest the disputed territory. Russia expresses a hostile attitude toward Prince Alexander of Bulgaria by a formal expunction of his name from the list of Russian officers.

EXCITEMENT AT MANDALAY.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—Dispatches state that intense excitement exists at Mandalay. Consultations between Theebaw and Ministers are of frequent occurrence. It is believed Theebaw favors partial submission to British authority.

IRELAND.

PARNELL'S PROTEST.

DUBLIN, Nov. 5.—Parnell has entered a strongly worded protest against the selection for re-election of Mr. P. Callan, present Nationalist representative for the South in Parliament. In his protest, Parnell says Callan is not entitled to be classed as a Nationalist, and declares the Nationalists will not in any way aid his election, or recognize him as a representative of that party, if elected.

CHILLI.

FIRE AT IQUIQUE.

IQUIQUE, Nov. 5.—A fire started this morning about 2 o'clock and burned a block south of the church, containing good dwelling houses. The residence of Senor Loyava was destroyed. The church miraculously escaped. The damage not stated.

LIMA, Nov. 5.—The capture of the Caerist commander, Romero y Filibes, is officially confirmed.

ANOTHER BOSTON SENSATION.

What a Girl Rescued from a Bagno Told Her Rescuers.

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—Lizzie Merchant, aged 15, was to-day found caged in a darkened room in a house of ill-repute. She had no clothes save bedding. She says she was enticed into the house three months ago, drugged, ruined, and confined in the room without clothing to prevent escape. She has been subjected to frequent indignities and beaten when she tried to escape. A discharged inmate reported the case and the girl was rescued.

A POPULAR PHILADELPHIAN.

He "Moved in the Best Society" and Then "Moved to Texas."

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 5.—Charles P. Tasker, who moved in the best society, has fled the city, and is believed to have gone to Texas. Extensive forgeries, amounting to $40,000, have just been discovered, and are said to have been committed by him.

A Jealous Man's Deed.

ALBANY, Ore., Nov. 5.—James Campbell and his betrothed were walking along the street last night, when E. N. Saunders, of Carvalls, editor of the Benton Leader, came up behind and shot Campbell twice in the back. He died this morning. It is supposed Saunders was actuated by jealousy.

Jury Still Out.

EMPORIA, Nov. 5.—The jury in the Walkup case is still out with no prospect of a verdict. It is reported the jury stands seven to five in favor of acquittal. Public sentiment favors acquittal rather than another trial.

Suicide of an Old Man.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 5.—J. G. Graff, aged 70, was found dead in bed at the Gibson House to-day. Financial troubles and ill-health caused the suicide.

Noteworthy Business Changes—Confusion Concerning Terms of a Court. Special to The News.

TYLER, Nov. 5.—Within the past few days some noteworthy changes in business circles have occurred here.

MARRIED. B. D. Maxey and Miss Panie Colomes, both of Dexter, Cooke County, were married in the ladies' parlor at the Binkly House this morning by Esquire Hinkle.

A VIGILANCE COMMITTEE, composed of a number of determined citizens, has been organized to assist the police in ferreting out the perpetrators of some of the recent highway robberies.

GENERAL NOTES. A trio of tramps were taken in at the Pacific freight depot this morning about 1 o'clock.

M. F. Whittington, who lost his store at Dexter by fire a few nights ago, was ex-Shermanite, and his many friends here are grieved to hear of his misfortune.

Jeff Stanfield was incarcerated in the county jail to-day, on a commitment from the Police Court of Denison charging him with the theft of an overcoat.

The Grayson Rifles met at their Armory to-night. J. B. Moore, charged with an assault on a man, has been ordered to stand in the United States Commissioner's Court.

ON THE TURF AT FORT WORTH.

FINE WEATHER AND SPLENDID SPORT.

The Attendance Large and the Time Good. Events To-day and the Pool Box Favorites—General Local Notes.

Special to The News.

FORT WORTH, Nov. 5.—To-day was decidedly the best of the week both in point of attendance and the exhibitions of speed.

The day opened blustery, but by noon the wind calmed down, and by 2 o'clock the weather was all that could be wished.

Pool selling was lively at the track, and the horses sold about as they did last night.

The first race was a pace for a purse of $500. There were four entries and four starters.

First Heat—Aberdeen took the lead, Little Em second, Patsy Clinker third, with Honesty lapping his flank.

On the first quarter Aberdeen broke badly and went to the half-mile post in that condition, being passed by all the other horses.

Little Em came first, Patsy Clinker second, Honesty third, Aberdeen distanced. Time—2:19 1/2.

Second Heat—Little Em took the lead and kept it to the three-quarter mile post, where she was caught by Patsy, who lost in the home stretch.

Little Em coming in a length ahead of him, with Honesty a good third. Time—2:22.

Third Heat—Honesty got a good start, but broke badly on the first quarter, and was passed by the other two, with Em in the lead.

Patsy overhauled the little mare on the third quarter, but lost on the home stretch, and Little Em came in a length ahead, Patsy Clinker second, Honesty third.

Time—2:22 1/2. The programme was changed for the next race, and the one and one-eighth mile dash for $200, which was down as the fourth.

Seven entries and six starters. A great deal of time was lost in starting, principally caused by Bob Swim, who was too anxious to go.

Finally a start was made and promptly led off beautifully with Bob Swim and Amanda Brown close after him.

The others ran in a bunch all the way round. This order was kept up throughout and Chantilly won hands down, all the other horses being well beaten.

Time—1:59 1/2. Third race—Half mile dash, purse $150, six entries and six starters.

It looked as if the horses would never get started, but after everybody's patience was exhausted they all got off in good shape.

Mollie Thomas taking the lead, which she kept up to the finish, with all the rest in a bunch close at her heels.

Gov. Roberts second, Helianthus third. Time—0:51 1/2. The fourth race, one mile heats, purse $250, "took the cake," and was as fine a race as was ever witnessed in Fort Worth.

The first heat was won by Fleur de Lis, and the second heat by Fleur de Lis and Virgie Hearn.

The two last heats were intensely exciting and showed handsome work.

Top Sawyer, Virgie Hearn and Fleur de Lis were the starters. Fleur de Lis was the favorite in the pools for the race, and considerable money changed hands.

First Heat—Top Sawyer took the lead, Fleur de Lis lapping his flank and passing him on the first quarter.

The second heat was won by Fleur de Lis, and the third heat by Top Sawyer.

Time—1:44. Second Heat—Top Sawyer got the worst of the start, being run in between the two others and crowded behind just after passing the judges' stand.

Fleur de Lis won the race, and the excitement was intense. Top Sawyer's nose came under the wire first, just saving him the race.

Fleur de Lis second, and Virgie Hearn third. Time—1:45 1/2. Third Heat—Virgie Hearn withdrawn. It was now getting dark, and the excitement was mounting high.

Top Sawyer was the favorite in the pools. A good start was made, with Fleur de Lis slightly in the lead.

Top overhauled the mare at the quarter-mile post, and they both ran neck and neck to the three-quarter post, when Top took the lead and came in amid uproarious applause.

Yells, beating the mare by about half a length. This wound up the day's sport, and even those who had lost on this last race took their losses good naturedly.

PROGRAMME FOR FRIDAY. First Race—Frotting, free for all, purse $300. Entries, Joe Davis, Sleepy Joe, Flora P.

Second Race—One mile dash for 3-year-olds. Entries, Nat Kramer, Moonlight, Miss Higbee, Hertogas.

Third Race—Three-quarter mile heats. Entries, Tom Berlin, Fletch Taylor, Ailee, Adventure, Jim Britton.

Fourth Race—Three-quarter dash, consolation purse. Entries, Amanda Brown, Hyder Abad, Lucy Morton, Eva Britton.

In the pools to-night Joe Davis, Nat Kramer, Tom Berlin and Amanda Brown were the favorites. COUNTY COURT.

HE NEVER LOST HIS TEMPER.

BY MME. NECKER.

You must know that M. Abauzit is a man who never in the whole course of his life got into a passion; he never allowed his temper to get the better of him; and was never known to be angry with anybody or anything.

During the whole course of his placid existence the calm of his dignified, honest countenance has never once been interrupted by any passionate emotion akin to anger or bad humor; but his friends, much as they esteemed him, could not be made to believe in such uniformity of good temper.

They protested that he had not been, like other men, subject to any severe trials; and felt assured that his ordinary calm manner would certainly yield, on the occurrence of any very disagreeable circumstance.

They went so far as to make a bet among themselves that such would be the case, and proceeded to consult his housekeeper upon the subject.

The worthy old woman had been thirty years in her master's service, and almost adored him. She thought over all his weak points that she was well acquainted with, and at last declared solemnly that she did not see any way in which the bet could be won; she had been thirty years in his house and had never seen him once in a passion.

"Not once in thirty years," she exclaimed to her friends; "that is rather too much for our powers of credulity! It is simply impossible! Not one single little burst of temper in the whole thirty years! Think over it, my good women; confess that he has been once angry, at least."

"But I cannot tell an untruth," she replied. "Well, tell us how we can vex him; tell us how he can be put in a passion. We like him as much as you do, as you are well aware; but we have determined to effect our purpose, and you must assist us—you will be rewarded for it. Now what is your plan, enough to please, but your master appears to be as difficult to vex!"

Thereupon a long consultation took place between them on the most probable method of causing M. Abauzit to lose his temper. After considerable time had been expended upon fruitless propositions of every kind, old Marguerite thought she had discovered a means by which the desired effect could, perhaps, be produced.

"I really do not see why you should wish to deprive my master of his ordinary peace of mind, even for one moment."

"What does it matter," said her friends, "we are just as fond of his peace as you are."

"I am not so sure of that," she hinted. "But we are, and we will make it all right afterward; do not be uneasy on that score. Well, what have you thought of?"

"This is it," said Marguerite; "if there is one thing that my master likes better than another it is to sleep well, to have a comfortable bed. He has been accustomed to this all his life. Now what if you can see, is not to make his bed in the morning, and then I'll say I forgot it."

The expedient appeared admirable, and it was decided that this wonderful outbreak of genius in the shape of the old servant should be put into a practical form without delay. In the meantime, in order to assist matters, the friends agreed to take M. Abauzit a long walk during the afternoon so that he should be tired and ready for bed at night. He was, in fact, very tired when he dragged his weary limbs to his bed room and prepared to take that repose, which, at certain intervals, nature prescribes for all mortals.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS. The following deeds were recorded in the County Clerk's office to-day: J. M. Sarge, guardian, to W. R. Stewart, 7 1/2 acres out of the Wm. Bruton 640 acre survey; consideration $1050.

S. C. Ash to S. O. Moodie, all of block No. 4, subdivision of Ft. Acres Lewis Moore survey; consideration $600.

J. B. Boyd to J. J. Rogers, 320 acres situated on West Fork of the Trinity River; consideration $300.

H. Harley and L. E. Harley to Wm. H. Griffin, 214 acres of the N. B. Breeding survey; consideration $642.

A FRIEND'S SOLICITUDE. About 3 o'clock this morning Officer Tulford, on duty at the Theatre Comique, arrested a man named Harbeson, whom he saw in company with a man named May, going through the pockets of a brakeman on the Texas and Pacific, named George Matthews. Matthews, when awakened, declared he had been robbed of $35 and a watch.

The watch was found on Harbeson, who claimed that he was a friend of Matthews and had only taken it for safe keeping. The $35 was not found. Harbeson was locked up, but Matthews not appearing this morning to make complaint against him, he was released.

ROBBED IN HIS ROOM. W. J. Carpenter, who is known to fame as the husband of the unfortunate Lucille Kirby, who committed suicide about six weeks ago, had his watch and chain, which is valued at $300, stolen from his vest pocket last night at his room at a hotel.

Carpenter and his wife, whom he married a few weeks since, were occupying the room at the time, but were not aware of the theft until this morning.

NOTES. The newly appointed postmaster, Capt. Julian Feild, was to-day presented by his wife with a bouncing baby boy. Of course his name is Grover Cleveland.

Mr. Dahlman has not yet succeeded in raising the $32,000 asked for our citizens for the purchase of the refrigerator works.

This morning a young man in his stocking feet entered the County Clerk's office and asked to be allowed to enter the hospital, saying that he was very sick. He is thought to be demented, and will be taken care of by the city authorities. He gave his name as George Riskey.

But one marriage license was issued to-day. T. H. Thompson and Miss Mary Heath were the lucky parties.

W. J. Mason, Sheriff of Wheeler County, came in this morning after Alex Colvin, a young negro boy who has been in jail here for safe keeping. Colvin is charged with the murder of W. C. Thompson at Mobeetie on the 26th of August last.

PERSONAL. Col. J. P. Smith, Mayor, left for a short trip to Gainesville this morning.

Col. J. H. Britton, of Sherman, attended the races this afternoon and enjoyed the sport with the rest.

Uncle John Knight, the veteran cattleman, is in from his ranch in Palo Pinto County. W. C. Bishop has gone to Santa Fe, N. M., on a business trip.

E. E. Wilson, of Comanche, is in the Fort. Fred Hughes, of Dallas, came over this morning to take in the races.

W. H. Winfield, of the Wabash, is in the city. G. B. Plemons, of Henrietta, came this afternoon.

J. J. Brown, of St. Louis, and A. Black, of New Orleans, arrived to-night. The hotels are crowded and are turning away applicants for rooms.

A BRILLIANT SOCIETY EVENT.

HEARTS AND HANDS IN HYMEN JOINED.

The Marriage Last Night of Mr. G. G. Wright and Miss Dela Slaughter.

"Bride! Upon thy marriage day, When thy gossamer in rich array Made the glistening mirror seem As a star-fleeting dream; When the clustering pearls lay fair 'Midst thy braids of sunny hair, And the white veil o'er thee streaming, Like a silvered waterfall, Mellowed all the pomp and light Into something meekly bright; Sure the fluttering of thy breath Spoke of holiest joy beneath, And the hue that went and came O'er thy cheek, like waving flame, Flowed that crimson, like wine prest, From the gladness of thy breast; As the wealth of summer flowers In thy path was cast in showers, And the breath of song and flute, And the clarion's glad salute, Swiftly thro' the human tide Went thou borne in pomp, young bride, Mirth and music, stars and sky, Welcomed thee triumphantly From the home of childhood's tree, From the long-drawn laughter's glee, To another path and guide, To a bosom yet untried! Bright one, may there ever be Speechless joys awaiting thee!"

One of the most notable events in the social history of Dallas was underlined yesterday in the marriage of Mr. G. G. Wright and Miss Dela Slaughter at the First Baptist Church, Dallas city.

The high social standing of both bride and bridegroom, the popularity and handsomeness of the one, the loveliness and charming disposition of the other, drew to witness the solemn ceremony of their nuptials the fashion and elite of Dallas.

Over the lecturn was suspended, from the center of an immense triumphal arch, a beautiful wedding bell, formed of camellias, with the sprays of that "queenliest of all the roses," skillfully intertwined and interspersed amid the snowy flowers.

The society editor was only allowed to peep at a brown velvet walking dress, richly trimmed in old gold; a dream of a morning dress of white cashmere, made princess, with feather trimmings, and moire antique ribbon; an elegant black silk walking dress and an evening dress of bronze satin, with flowered panels of broad velvet.

The wedding banquet was a realization of all that is rarest in the gastronomic art. Everything that could delight the eye of the connoisseur in decorative art or please the palate of the epicure appeared on the tables of the sumptuous dining-room of the Slaughter residence.

The bride leaning on the arm of her father, Col. C. Slaughter, escorted by Mrs. C. C. Slaughter escorted by the groom, Mr. G. G. Wright.

The happy scene as done: Lover and Sweetheart were Man and Wife. The organ pealed forth a joyful diapason and actors and spectators moved slowly out of the church and under the canopy. Down in how many hearts rang the rhythmic music of the bells!

How they tinkle, tinkle, tinkle, Neath the slumberous arc of night, While the stars that oversprinkle With a crystalline delight, Keeping time, time, time, In a sort of rustic rhyme To the tintinnabulation that so beautifully swells

After the conclusion of the ceremony at the church, the bridal party and invited guests entered carriages and were driven to the mansion of Col. C. C. Slaughter, near the fair grounds, where a round of festivities arranged after the old-fashioned style of Southern hospitality awaited them.

Press of space and lack of time prevent a description of the many elaborate and handsome costumes worn by the several ladies who were present at the Slaughter-Wright wedding reception last evening.

Miss Minnie Slaughter wore a white duchesse satin with white lace draperies looped high on the right side with white gold butterflies, panel on the left side embroidered with gold fern leaves.

Miss Mattie Caruth, white faille-francois with a silvered waterfall, corsage, basque bodice cut pompadour. Trimmings, ostrich feathers and gold pom-poms. Diamond ornaments.

Miss Effie Rauch, white satin duchesse, front draped with Chantilly lace, bodice cut decollete. Trimmings, gold butterflies and pink ostrich feathers. Ornaments, diamonds.

Miss Virgie Melone, white gros grain silk, bodice cut square pompadour, draped with Chantilly lace, trimmings pink flowers. Ornaments diamonds.

The six little maids of honor looked like so many visions from fairy land, and were in and out of the costumes of white tulle over white surah.

The Wright presents were rich and showed a rare degree of taste and elegance on the part of the donors.

DISTRIBUTION OF THE STATE CONVICTS.

The John B. Hood Camp Receives a Proposition from an Iowa Man—Settlements, Stations, etc.

AUSTIN, Nov. 5.—The report for September of Col. George, superintendent of the penitentiary, gives convicts on hand Sept. 1, 2765; received during the month, 33; recaptured, 13; discharged, 66; delivered to Sheriff, 7; pardoned, 5; died, 4; escaped, 11; on hand Oct. 1, 2708.

Treasury receipts to-day, $12,000. Houston and Texas Central and branch lines paid in $831 tax on passenger fares for the last quarter.

The Attorney General is advised of the settlement of the suit against the Mutual Loan and Self-Endowment Association of America, sued at Fort Worth.

The State has sued for the tax of $300 payable by insurance companies and the company paid up the tax for this year, with costs and attorneys' fees, and the suit was dismissed.

John B. Hood Camp to-day, by resolution, rescinded its contract with the Dallas Mercury. Major John T. Brackenridge, of Austin, was chosen financial agent of the camp.

The City Clerk's report shows that the city expenses the last year and four months were $101,890. In the same time $5600 was expended on streets and $711 on bridges.

The Capitol contractor is placing a steam engine in the dome to work some sixteen immense derricks by steam. The preparations for recommending constructions are actively prosecuted, giving the capitol grounds an unwonted aspect of animation.

The penitentiary convicts are distributed as follows: One thousand four hundred and fifty-two on farms, 207 on railroads, 502 at Huntsville and 47 at Rusk; total 2708.

The Tax Collector of Henderson County squared accounts with the Comptroller to-day.

Shots are out for the second anniversary ball of the Capital Rifle Club, next Sunday. The annual shoot is on Saturday and Sunday next.

The Old Gentleman in the Street Car. "Those who travel on the street car, as I am sometimes compelled to do," remarked the old Colonel, as he leaned on his gold-headed cane and bowed to an Atlanta Constitution reporter, "find out a good deal more about female character than they ever would in drawing rooms. In the old days," he continued, clearing his throat a little, "politeness was reciprocal. A gentleman who showed his desire to be polite to a lady was certain to meet with some response. His attempt, no matter how awkward, was rewarded with some acknowledgment—a smile or a bow, and sometimes a word. But what you young gentlemen are pleased to term your new civilization has brought about great changes.

"Ah, you may smile, but it is true. The fine flavor of the old time is lost. I am an old man and it costs me something of an effort to rise in the street car and offer my seat to a lady when I know she will not appreciate the small sacrifice that I have made. I feel better satisfied, however, when I remember that some of you will never know what we have lost in the way of the small courtesies and amenities of life."

"Well," said one of the younger passengers, "when I saw a lady get up and never look around to see whether she thanks me or not."

"Precisely so," replied the colonel. "You inherit your disposition, but the spirit of it is gone. It is a purely commercial thing. It is commercial, purely commercial. It has surprised me to see some of the ladies smile superciliously when I take of my hat to receive their fare. I feel that I am terribly wronged from your surroundings. It is a matter of fact that some of the young men and shabby tricks of disposing of women as if they were so many bundles. Perhaps the snubbings receive are good for me; but I shall never cease to grieve that our society has fallen a victim to modern rapacity."

English French. New York Times. I heard him call "Garcon," which he pronounced "Garkong," and saw a ferocious-looking Frenchman approach him.

"Appartay—moay—oan—beau," said the Englishman grandly. "Vite—vite."

The Frenchman shook his head. The Englishman repeated the demand, at first gently but resolutely, then harshly and with evident disgust. "Un beau, un beau," persisted the Englishman. Still the Frenchman declined to understand. Three Gallic porters came up and united their three intelligences with that of the first one, but without success. The irate Englishman was already attracting attention and the little weazened wife, as she approached the scene of unintelligible verbosity, blushed with shame. "What do you want, my love?" she asked timidly. "I have asked for what I wanted according to my pocket dictionary," said the husband angrily, "and if he doesn't know his own language, I will not let him employ decent porters."

"You asked for a beau. What did you mean?" "Look there," said the Englishman, pointing to the dictionary. "Look under the word 'handsome.' Is it 'beau' the French for handsome? What I want is a handsome cab."—New York Times.

Perpetual Leap Year in Utah. San Francisco Alta California. "In Salt Lake you know, it is perpetually leap year and a lady can ask a man to marry her if she desires to risk the chances of a refusal. Not many of them do so, though, as a general rule, but papa [Brigham Young] had a great many offers. Aunt asked him to marry her, I'm sure."

Mrs. McAllister continued, addressing the latter sentence to her mother, whereupon a pleasant dispute over the proposal ensued, which finally ended by the young lady's positive declaration: "Well, I just know he wouldn't have married her unless she had asked him."

Then to the reporter she said: "Aunt Ann Eliza proposed to papa, too."

"Don't be too sure of that, my dear," interposed the mother. "Well, if she didn't her mother die, anyhow. The old lady kept calling on papa until finally he gave in and married her."

week was consumed in the case of Sodekxon vs. Leon & H. Blum, of Galveston, for damages for attachments, with a verdict in favor of plaintiffs, and damages assessed at $4981. The criminal docket was taken up Monday. So far only misdemeanors have been disposed of, except an outrage case, which was decided as an aggravated assault and penalty assessed at $50 fine and three months' imprisonment in the county jail.

Wedding in Upper Social Circles—Lecture for Liberals—Robbery Circumstances. Special to The News.

WACO, Nov. 5.—Mr. Thomas O. Plunkett, city editor of the Examiner, turned over a new leaf this evening and gumbled it down by bidding adieu to the haunts of bachelorhood. The bride is Miss Jessie, daughter of Mr. G. H. Randle, of the firm of Randle & Co., of this city.

The ceremony was performed in the Fifth Street Methodist Church. Rev. Horace Bishop tying the silken knot in the presence of several hundred friends and acquaintances of the popular pair. Messrs. H. H. Murphy, Eugene Williams, J. M. Connor and D. Hays acted as ushers, with the wife Miss Florida Dickey and Georgia Plunkett as the bearers of flower offerings. After the ceremony a goodly company was entertained at the residence of the bride's home.

The resignation of Stephen Turner as City Engineer was accepted by the City Council this evening at the residence of George B. Gurley was elected to fill the vacancy.

Dr. Calston, of Corsicana, has accepted the invitation of the agnostics of this city to lecture in Liberal Hall. He has named next Thursday evening as the time for his "Free Speech" as the subject. Dr. Calston is a Baptist minister. He has not backslided, but proposes to convince the Liberals of the errors of their ways by bearing the lion in his mane.

A legal complication has arisen in the matter of the masked robbery at DeLeon. The agent robbed represented both the railroad and the express companies. A few hours before the robbery he balanced his account with the railroad by remitting $75 to the treasurer of the Houston and Texas Central Railroad Company through Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express. He reported for the remittance as agent of the express company to himself as agent of the railroad company. The sealed envelope containing the remittance and directed to the treasurer of the Houston and Texas Central Railroad Company was put into the safe of the express company, from which it was taken by the masked robbers. The question between the two companies is who should bear the amount. Both companies take the position of non-liability.

SENSATIONS AT EL PASO. Tramps, Bunco Steers, Quack Doctrines and Victims the Cause. Special to The News.

EL PASO, Nov. 5.—Lately a large number of tramps and other vicious characters from the North have arrived in the city to spend the winter, being attracted by the climate and the nearness to Mexico, and several robberies have been committed in the suburbs. The matter was last night discussed by the City Council. The town officers to-day notified the new comers that they must leave or be arrested and placed to work on the street.

The bunco men on the opposite side of the river have also begun to operate extensively, and several strangers have been relieved of their money.

The abortion cases which have been several days before the grand jury, and which have caused much comment in certain quarters, resulted to-day in the indictment of a female who, since her arrival here about six weeks ago, has been supporting herself as a doctress. There are said to be several other female now in the city who are reporting themselves as physicians, and who have attended young women with disastrous results, and it is expected that other indictments will follow.

It is a woman, at the point of death at a hotel who is alleged to be a subject of maltreatment. She employed a female quack doctor to perform an abortion, and was given a spoonful of oil of tansy, and will not recover. Violent vomiting and convulsions followed, and a leading physician had to be promptly summoned to save her life. The young lady, by direction of her doctress, procured the medicine from a peddler, and it is believed that she is said to be well connected elsewhere. Another young female, in a different part of the city, is also in a precarious condition.

Clara Belle in Cincinnati Enquirer. The snob who knocks the patience from us all is one who is servile, sycophantic and immeasurably polite to his superiors, and bullying, ill-tempered and supercilious to men whom he may for a moment find in his power to annoy. A specimen of this variety came under my notice at Jerome Park. He is a pompous little man with a scraggy beard. Another "gentleman" was a small person whose family recently was advised the fact that they were no longer responsible for his debts and he is refused the shelter of his father's house. He ran away four years ago with his mother's diamonds and sold them in Paris for $7000. I doubt if he is received in a single house of respectability in town.

Another of the "gentlemen" was a Canadian who wears the most English of English clothes, and who recently disappeared from a position he held as book-keeper in a White street dry goods store, with a suddenness that led to some inquiry. He was found to be interested in a poker game where butchers and occasionally negroes played. New York has not yet established its society on so firm a basis that it can afford to brag of its "gentlemen" in a general way.

EXPLOSION EXTRAORDINARY.

A TALK THEREON WITH PROF. POTTER.

His Views on Black Powder, Dynamite, Tri-nitro-Glycerine, Giant Powder, Internal Machines and Kindred Matters.

St. Louis Republican. The recent dastardly outrages, by persons for whom the chief of police is offering rewards, in laying torpedoes and infernal machines upon the street car tracks on the public highways, has revived an almost universal interest in that terrible weapon of miscreants, dynamite. It is a weighty engine of destruction for good or evil, according to the intent of the men who handle it, and it would appear to the reflective mind that its purchase and sale should be regulated by the proper authorities; but such is not the case, for it is easier to procure than laudanum, morphine, arsenic or good whisky, and costs but 35 to 45 cents per pound, according to quantity. A few months ago a certain Dr. J. A. Field introduced himself to Mr. Blythe, of the firm of Levison & Blythe, stating that he had a compound in the way of dynamite which would knock the spots off a cameleopard without injuring the animal itself, if so desired. This struck Mr. Blythe as unique, and he told Dr. Field to call around again and bring with him the names of a few well known business men who were willing to go in. In a desultory way the names of Dr. O'Reilly and Mr. McCullah were mentioned, and one H. M. Thompson, who now runs an engine near the Anheuser-Busch brewery, received a commission to go ahead and compound a mess of dynamite under Fields' recipe, which was to be submitted to Prof. Potter, of Washington University, who made some tests at the city quarries near the workshop, and with his little bill suggested that in his professional opinion the compound wasn't worth a dynamite denomination, and that personally he did not believe the "discovery" would knock the fuff off a kitten without disembodying that playful household pet. The bills of Mr. Thompson were duly receipted and find a resting place in the vaults of Levison & Blythe—he made no more dynamite under that name, but the invention, and the moneys men returned to their customary vocations, Dr. Fields dropping out.

Prof. W. B. Potter was found in his rooms at Washington University and asked to give the Republican some interesting information upon the subject of explosives. He said: "All dynamites contain as their principal explosive ingredient nitro-glycerine in proportions varying according to their grade, from 40 to 75 per cent. Glycerine, you know, is an oil produced by soap-boilers from fatty substances; this oil or glycerine is treated and refined until it has that pure color and sweet taste familiar to most people, and certainly to all the gentler sex. Three parts of sulphuric to one of nitric acid are introduced into the glycerine, and the whole is washed to rid it of the nitric acids. Thus you have, by the combination, mono-nitro glycerine, di-nitro glycerine and tri-nitro glycerine.

This production alone is terrible in its capacity for doing mischief, and if carried in a phial and dropped the damage would be frightful. For purposes of handling and transportation, its destructive properties are nullified by absorbents, such as sawdust, wood pulp or similar material, which makes it solid instead of liquid, and lessens its danger from handling—thus nitro-glycerine and sawdust become what is commonly known as dynamite. Of late, however, the sawdust and pulp sawdust has been treated with sulphuric or nitric acid.

BLACK POWDER, known by a dozen different names, adopted by makers for purposes of trade, is another terrible agent of destruction, and is principally used for quarrying, as it has a rending effect. It explodes by ignition, and slowly, grain after grain, while dynamite explodes instantly, and all portions of the charge simultaneously.

DYNAMITE is put up in paper cartridges which, if properly made, render handling much safer than is the case with black or giant powder. In exploding, it may be partially exploded by being placed upon an arvil and struck with a stone, and generally only the fire being struck explodes; at the same time I would not care to be the man who handled the sledge. It may also be exploded by a cap made of fulminating powder, the latter being the dynamite. The cartridge which the phosphorus is to a common domestic match. Sometimes a fuse or electricity is used to explode dynamite. Now, nitro-glycerine congeals at a temperature of 55 degrees, and will not explode if it becomes very sensitive and in cases I have observed has partially exploded, that is, the portion coming in closest contact with the fire will explode, just as the part upon an arvil receiving the blow from a sledge will explode, but it does not follow that because part of a cartridge of dynamite explodes the whole will. A cartridge thrown by a miscreant into the tender of a locomotive and shoveled into the fire by the tireless fireman will not necessarily explode, but you never know what to expect of dynamite; it is pretty much like a Missouri mule. After the explosion of dynamite it is unaccustomed to handle it, it is very attacked with nausea or vertigo and the fumes give them severe headaches, besides, as the cartridges are usually slit before being used to bury the cap the men placing them in position generally get some of the dynamite into their hands through the pores of the skin and are often incapacitated for awhile.

"But is there any more dangerous compound than dynamite?" "A combination of dynamite properly buried in black powder and both properly confined, if exploded, would blow all the Republicans out of the United States; it has terrible force; in fact black powder exploded by dynamite has FOUR TIMES THE FORCE it would have if fired in the ordinary way, when, as I stated, it explodes as if grain by grain, but when exploded by dynamite it is instantaneous and terrible.

"What is the moving force of dynamite?" "That depends entirely upon the nature of the resisting force, but as an instance, I may say that in averaging up my blasts for one year in the iron mountain I found that for each pound of dynamite used we blow up one and nine-tenths of tons of ore and rock."

INTERNAL MACHINES. "How are internal machines constructed?" "In a thousand ways. You might walk into a mechanic's shop and think he was fixing a rat trap or mending a clock or soldering the spout on a tin kettle, and yet he might be at work on an infernal machine. They are simply contrivances which cause the dynamite to explode at a given moment. This is accomplished either by acids, clock work, a hammer or on electric current. Any mechanic can make one. Some are arranged so that a few drops of sulphuric acid will in a given number of hours or minutes come in contact with your fulminate, and this fires the dynamite."

"By what agency was the flood rock at Hell Gate blown up?" "A new invention known as 'rockarock,' comprised of two compounds, one solid and the other liquid, neither of which is explosive until combined. This is not one of the best explosives by any means, but the contract was awarded because the manufacturers of rockarock bid lowest, their aim being to introduce it into big works."

"How were the Parliament houses, Tower and London Bridge assaulted?" "By dynamite and giant powder combined, the same that was used in the infernal machine placed on the steamship Mosel in Bremerhaven by the connivance of her commander, Capt. Theodor von Krosigk, who, when a premature explosion took place before the vessel put to sea, retired to his cabin and shot himself. He had intended to defraud the underwriters and gain the insurance at the cost of hundreds of lives."

LAREDO. No Quorum and No Election—Exciting Times in Mexico—A Coup d'Etat. LAREDO, Nov. 5.—There was not a quorum of the City Council at its regular session this evening, consequently no nomination and election of Mayor was held to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Darco Sanchez, who was recently elected to the office of Sheriff of Webb County by the Commissioners' Court.

The latest news from Lampasas, Mexico, to-night represents that a high state of excitement exists there. A large mob was present when the train arrived from Monterey for the purpose of escorting old man Rodriguez to his home. This individual had been expelled from the town on account of his revolutionary record, and his presence just before the State elections next Sunday was sufficient to stir up the partisans both for and against the government. It should be understood that what is known or called election riots risks to the dignity of petty revolutions in Mexico. At last accounts Theo Mignel, a young son of Manuel Rodriguez, with an armed party, was protecting his father, who was confronted with a strong force of government troops.

Passengers on the incoming train from Saltillo represent election matters as red hot in the State of Coahuila. It seems that Cervantes, Military Governor of that State, invited the leaders of the opposition party to the government from the surrounding municipalities to meet him in conference at Saltillo, the capital. The conference resulted in all the political leaders being thrown into prison until after the election, which takes place next Sunday.

The News reporter had an agreeable chat this evening with Mr. Mackay, the United States Consul at Laredo. He reports the State of Nueva Leon extremely quiet, and a good feeling prevails for Americans. Collector Bailey arrived last night and will depart for San Antonio on a short visit to-morrow. He states that he has not yet determined upon any appointments of office at Laredo or Carrizo. Special Post-office Agent Hollingsworth, accompanied by Postmaster Burbank of Laredo, left for Saltillo this morning. It is understood that the purpose of the visit will be, if possible, to expedite the transmission of the mail between the two cities.

The assignee of Paul Magri sold out his assigned stock of goods to-day, which brought very low prices.

GREENBACK'S CONTRIBUTIONS. Greenback Literature to be Revived—Paid Dear for the Circus—Notes. Special to The News.

LAREDO, Nov. 5.—Dr. Andrew Young, a prominent Greenbacker and member of the national committee of the Greenback party, announces in this week's issue of the Chronicle that he proposes at an early date to take steps toward the establishment of a party organ, to be published here. He says that "never before in the history of this move were the people so ready to read, think and be converted to Greenbackism as at present."

Bob Davie, it is stated, was robbed of $10 by the ticket-seller at the circus Monday. He went to the proprietor, made known his grievance and the money was refunded.

The Johnson County Teachers' Association meets at the City Hall next Saturday. Rev. Peace Pinch, the newly appointed Congregational preacher, has arrived, and will conduct services at that church Sunday.

J. H. Rosencrans, State Sunday school evangelist of the Christian Church, will begin a series of lectures Sunday night. He will remain the entire week, dealing with various topics of interest to teachers and members of the school.

The report of the public schools shows a total enrollment of 624. Average daily attendance 412. The general prevalence of the dengue explains the low average.

The ladies of the Methodist Church gave a supper to-night. District Court begins Monday.

SAN ANTONIO NOTES. A Prisoner in Suspense—Heavy Pecan Trade—Crazy Stranger, Etc. Special to The News.

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 5.—Albert Solomon, the hack driver who was at one time believed to be implicated in the murder of the soldier Brauer, is just undergoing an unpleasant suspense, he having recently stood his trial for robbing a soldier. The jury retired two days ago and are still considering the verdict. Ten are said to be for conviction and two for acquittal.

The pecan trade of this city is assuming larger proportions every season. A large quantity of this favorite crop is coming into the city from Bandera, Kerr, Mason, Menard and other counties north and west of the city daily. This morning a purchase of 700 pounds was made for the New York market at 5 cents a pound.

The funeral of one of the Sisters of the Incarnate took place this morning. She died yesterday afternoon at the Santa Rosa Hospital.

An affidavit, charging one J. M. Meyer with lunacy, was filed this morning. Mr. Meyer is a resident of Centralia, Ill., and has been staying at the Menger Hotel. Last night he drank whisky until he was drunk, and was conveyed to the Police Station. He arrived here on the 5th inst., and has been dealing with the commission men of this city.

Last night after his arrest he acted wildly in his cell, crying in piteous accents for his child. It is not thought that his mind is permanently affected, but his present condition is believed to be due to excessive drinking.

Quieted the Bully. From the Heidelberg Zeitung. The bullying manner of the German students is proverbial, as is also their mania for duelling. It was at Heidelberg that a quiet citizen, leaving the cars, said to a swaggering student: "Sir, you are crowding me! Keep back a little bit, sir!" The student turned fiercely and said in a loud tone: "Do you not like it? Well, sir, I am at your service whenever you please!" "Oh, that you would rather trade your eye offer is very kind, and you may carry my valise to the hotel for me."

The student fled amid shouts of laughter.

REAL AND VICIOUS PARTY RESPONSIBILITY. One of the pleas frequently advanced in extenuation of the spoils system, or to speak less technically, the system of a completely partisan administration of the civil service of government in all its details, is that, whichever party is in office, it is responsible to the people.

all the members are said to be responsible as a party. Then, as the party can not be considered as responsible to itself, and as the people who are not in it are in the other party, it is responsible to what? There is no independent public on the chosen theory. It remains that the party in office is responsible to the opposition party.

Several important moves have been made by the Republicans within the last few days; movements undoubtedly tending to consolidate their position.

MUSTY MANUSCRIPTS

And the Thoughts They Gave Rise to in a Young Man.

M. M. Folsom in American (Ga.) Recorder.
" My homespun dress is plain, I know,
My hat's palmetto, too;
But then it shows what Southern girls
For Southern rights will do."

Dear girls, they made far greater sacrifices than this, the mere laying aside of the purple and fine linen of wealth and high station.
They not only consented, uncomplainingly, to don the sober apparel made by their own fair hands from products home raised, but they toiled and spun, wrought and wove, that their fathers, brothers and husbands might have a warm gray suit as a protection from Virginia storms. Yes, many a brave lad lies buried amid the fertile valleys by the Potomac's shore, his burial clothes the product of a clumsy old "Georgia loom." Especially was this true of the more sparsely settled regions, the great backwoods, the "home of the crackers," if you please. And right here let me say one little word. In a late issue of a Southern periodical I saw quite a lengthy sketch, professing an insight into "Cracker Life," and the sketch was illustrated by a man who had been trying ever since to decide which was the most ignorant of the subject, author or artist, and I guess I will call it a draw. May heaven forgive them for the infliction. I shall not attempt to do so. Ignorant and illiterate the crackers may be, and are, but 10,000 ex-Confederate soldiers will testify as to their ability to "make their mark."

Nor were they by themselves. The men of the South show a devotion to the cause which they deemed just which was as rare as it was noble. "Troops, more troops!"
rang out the wild cry, and the answering horns poured down from the glens and gorges and desolate peaks of the mountains, from the pine barrens that lie in the interior, from the fertile plains by the broad rivers, and the low lying ridges by the sea.
There were "Gardes," "Rifles," "Hussars," "Chetels" and "Zouaves," numbering from "First" to "way up in the Nineties," all hurrying to the front. Ah! it was rushing time in those days.

"On the banks of the Potomac there's an army
And they're trying for to subjugate Dixie's fair land."

The flower of the youth and manhood of Dixie rallied to arms, threw themselves upon the cordons of fire that were slowly but surely closing around the devoted land, and where they passed the fair homesteads, teeming fields and pastures green of the happiest land under heaven lay scorched and withered, destroyed and laid waste; the cruel demon was leaving its trade mark where-ever the conquering cohorts pressed the sod with their iron heels. The limit of age was extended so as to conscript men who had hitherto been exempt, either from extreme age or extreme youth, until the gray haired veteran marched by the side of the beardless youth to the wild cry of:

"For Dixie's hand we'll take our stand,
To live or die in Dixie,
Hurrah! Hurrah!"
But the government must have means to support the various departments and to feed the suffering soldiery. It is pitiful to think of the childlike simplicity of that weird phantasy, the Southern Confederacy. To think that in her anger—like a spoiled child who takes her playthings away from the common stock and retires to her own corner and says, "I won't stay with you any more!"— she should imagine that her stronger sisters would allow her to enjoy her own affairs to her own nation, when some of these toys were the common property. And then how they determined to conquer her obstinacy, and how she suffered some chastening, and how she was broken and ruined in the conflict rather than submit to the domineering spirit of the others. Ah, me! It is pitiful to think of, and I am sorry that history's page must be blotted by the mournful details of this family affair.

"Old Confed" depreciated so rapidly in value that men began to jest about it, and to class it along with "Stingy Green."
"Flop-eared Millish," etc., and it became a byword in the mouths of the nations, and the mere makeshift of a bankrupt people as a faint apology for the absence of some real standard of value by which commerce might be carried on without resorting to the clumsy method of bargain and barter.

"Silver and gold have I none, but such as I have give I thee."
Then the rulers said, of all your substance give us tithes, so that peradventure we may feed the poor, and clothe the starving, and have followed where Lee and Stonewall led for many weary months of hardship and privation. Here is a transcript of an old document that I unearthed a few days since:

"Estimate and assessment of agricultural products which are taxed in kind, agreed upon by the assessor and the taxpayer, and the value of the portion thereof to which the government is entitled, in accordance with the provisions of the acts of Congress, to lay taxes for the common defense, and to carry on the government of the Confederate States, and an act to amend said act, approved
Feb. 17, 1864. Said estimate and assessment to be returned to the district quartermaster on or before the 1st day of January of each year."
Corn, short corn, buckwheat, rough rice,
Irish potatoes, cured fodder, sugar, molasses of cane and of sorghum, cotton, peas, beans and groundpeas appear on this list of articles from which one-tenth was taken, except with these exemptions, a list of which appears on the back of the paper:

"Each head of family not worth more than $500."
"Each head of family with minor children, not worth over $500 for himself and $100 for each minor living with him, and $100 additional to each minor son he has living or may have lost or had disabled in military or naval service."

land, and even the title proctors forgot their calling, and tumbled into a sort of lumber room, attached to a big business house in this city, these returns, written with pale ink, on the coarse brown Confederate paper, have lain dumb witnesses of the days when even Mr. himself turned pale as he witnessed the bloody orgies of his devotees.
"Their bones are dust, their good swords rust,
Their souls are with the saints, we trust."

How They Got There.
San Francisco Chronicle.

Did you ever listen to a young couple working up to that point of affectionate intimacy at which they call one another by their Christian names?

"It has been a lovely party, hasn't it Miss Jackson?"
" Lovely, Mr. Wilkins."

"I have known you a long time, Miss Jackson."

"I don't have known you quite awhile."

"I've often heard my sister speak of you."

"And my brother is always talking about you."

"Is he? I hear so much about you that I feel quite at home with you."

"It's a lovely night, isn't it Mr. Wilkins?"

"Beautiful. I think Edith's such a pretty name."

"Edith?"

"What did you say?"

"Oh, nothing. I was merely repeating the name."

"I don't like all men's names. I like some.
I like Philip and Ferdinand and"

"What do you think of George?"

"That's your name, George?"

"I beg your pardon."

"Oh, nothing. I was only repeating the name."

"What a lovely night it is, isn't it, Miss Edith?"

"Oh, there! George Wilkins, what did you let me slip on that cobblestone for?"

"I'm very sorry."

"So am I, so much obliged for your escort; I've had such a lovely time."

"And so have I."

"Good night, Mr. Wilkins."

"Good night, Miss Jackson."

"Good night."

"Good night—Edith."

"Good night—George."

And now there is a chance for some other female writer to set to work on the still unfilled want for a typical American novel, as a Western critic proves through three columns of unrelenting type that Miss Murre has not written the great tale. As Charles Egbert Craddock, a prolific user of the best black ink in the market, this imaginative young lady from the same "destricit" which evolved Parson Brownlow and "Sut Lovenox" started the literary world last year by her vivid promise to furnish a book to occupy the vacuum left by other native writers, but the critic of the wild West declares it was only a promissory note, not the real thing, and that she failed to speak in native parlance. Mr. Craddock "bit off more than he could chew," and wound up tamely the thrilling history of the "Great Prophet of the Smoky Mountain." But there is a bare possibility that some readers will take issue with this ungalvanic view of the latest woman novelette. Good gracious!
Can't we scare up some lady who can hold her own through three volumes, and not make everybody die at the threshold of desires.

DAILY NEWS.
Issued simultaneously every day in the year at GALVESTON AND DALLAS, TEX.
A. H. BELO & CO., PUBLISHERS.

The greatest medium of public intelligence in the entire limits of the great Southwest.
Every section of the State of Texas served with all the news, full and fresh, on the day of publication, through a systematic and scientific division of territory and intertransmission o ntelligence. The distance from Galveston to Dallas, 315 Miles, so overcome by this system that the long felt want of a first-class daily newspaper "on time" and thoroughly reliable to every point of the compass from the two offices is at last secured now and for all time to come, neither conflicting nor clashing and each combining the leading excellent features of the other. A most complete and extensive TELEGRAPHIC SERVICE, including a full corps of Special Correspondents and numerous Branch Offices, both within and without the State.

EDITORIALS
carefully and ably prepared by trained journalistic writers on issues Local, State and National, and also on matters of moment in Foreign Countries. A complete and thoroughly accurate COMMERCIAL DEPARTMENT, embodying full market reports from all the leading centers of trade and commerce, features so essential to the desires and necessities of every well regulated business house and man or firm making financial investments.

THE STRIKE AT GALVESTON. JUDGE SCHUHL FURTHER QUESTIONED.

Whys and Wherefores of the Strike, Together With an Admission that the Knights are a Political Organization.

A News representative, in view of the fact that his Wednesday interview with Judge Henry Schulh, judge advocate for Texas of the Knights of Labor, had been out...

Reporter—Judge, there are no questions at issue between the Knights of Labor and the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe Railroad Company...

Judge Schulh—But there are questions, and very serious ones, too, at issue, the main one of which involves honor and manhood...

Reporter—You understand that in the recent negotiations with the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe Railroad Company a written contract was signed...

Judge Schulh—An agreement was entered into and signed and sealed by the Knights of Labor Executive Board of the State and the officials of the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe Railroad.

Reporter—Is there not a clause in your constitution or by-laws looking to the avoidance of strikes, and the settlement of all difficulties by arbitration?

Judge Schulh—There is a clause in our constitution looking to the avoidance of strikes. In fact, the main motto and guiding principle of our order is to avoid strikes...

Reporter—What do you think of this solution, viz: that the Knights of Labor and the Mallory Line should each make up a special officer to arbitrate...

Judge Schulh—If I were a member of the National Board of Arbitration, I would be in favor of it if it were not that the National Board will endorse the action of the State Board...

Reporter—If I were a member of the National Board of Arbitration, I would be in favor of it if it were not that the National Board will endorse the action of the State Board...

Judge Schulh—It is not, but if such a thing existed as a political necessity, or in other words, if poverty and misery existed as the result of class legislation...
