Hartford Sees Food Industry Is Ready for New Responsibility

The food industry is in the best shape in its history to cope with the new problems and responsibilities it must face in 1951, John A. Hartford, Chairman of the Board of The Great Atlantic Pacific Tea Company, said today. "It would be foolhardy to attempt to predict the full impact of our defense effort on the food industry," he said. "Some foods may be in short supply, and price trends will depend on a number of factors over which grocers have no control, but the prospects are bright that the American people will continue to receive an adequate supply of Mr. Hartford also predicted that "The high degree of efficiency achieved by the food industry in the past will be an important asset in any economic shift the future might bring." He summarized assets "which ments" as follows. 1. The nation's farmers have been producing more food than at any other time in history and have the equipment and technical knowledge necessary to expand that production. 2. Food processors have made great technological strides in recent years and they possess exfacilities production which can be readily adapted to meet changed conditions.

3. Efficiency of food distribution in all its phases is at an all-time peak. "Thus, the food industry has a well-equipped plant to put to work on the tremendous job at hand," Mr. Hartford said. "It should not be undertaken with-out full realization that there will be problems. The possibility standards of consumer service This is the primary responstoility which the food industry must accept." Mr. Hartford said that most Americans have been eating more and better food than BAPTIST TRAINING UNION they did prior to World War II. GOOD FEED PROTECTS COWS +++++++++++++++++++++++ AGAINST KETOSIS

A good feeding program will help ward off many winter cases of ketosis in dairy cows, according to reports from veterinarians.

This disease, caused by a decrease in the amount of sugar in the blood, commonly strikes several weeks after a cow freshens. Wobbling, loss of appetite, and a drop in milk production are early signs. Some animals also develope 'crazy" symptoms or lapse into a coma and die. Because experiments have shown that ketosis can be produced merely by cutting down feed intake during the critical periods before and after calving, owners of ketosis-troubled herds are advised against reducing rations too much prior to calving Veterinarians also recommend that feed intake be increased as rapidly as possible after calving. Another preventive measure is Attest:

"HARRIET CRAIG" STARS CRAWFORD

As a strange and exciting woman at war with everything and everyone who stands in her way, Joan Crawford has the greatest emotional role of her career in Columbia Pictures' "Harriet Craig," coming to the Plaza on Wednesday and Thursday. Wendell Corey is co-starred in the movie which has been hailed in many quarters as one of the five best of the year.

Based on the celebrated Pulitriet Craig" enables Miss Crawford to give a provocative interpretation of a type of role that has always delighted her fans. As a woman who has known both hunger and insecurity, Miss Crawford gives an authorative portrait of a fascinating creature who stops at nothing to protect herself in the position she had reached. For her new role, Miss Crawford has been outfitted in a stunning wardrobe that enhances the famous Crawford Wearing a daring new figure. hairdo that will undoubtedly sweep the country, the star is, if anything, more glamorous than ever. As 'Harriet Craig," Miss Crawford is married to Corey, a de-voted, adoring husband. Cleverly she has tied him to her with a in life is her home, on which she lavishes all her energies until it becomes the dominant passion in her life. Her husband, secure in her grip, becomes secondary. But cial calm, is shattered when her husband learns the lie she has lived.
