Another big election has been scheduled for Saturday, January 16, at which time all registered voters living within the city limits of Muleshoe will have the opportunity to go to the polls and vote on the additional one half percent sales tax issue to be used strictly for economic development.

Only registered voters living within the city limits are eligible to vote. Persons with a business in Muleshoe who live outside the city limits are Not eligible to vote.

With the passage of S.B. 971 in 1989 a new era for Texas cities interested in economic development was ushered in.

Following the passage of the bill, cities were allowed to call for local elections, which, if approved, would impose a sales tax dedicated to economic development.

To many people, the sales tax is often viewed as being a more equitable tax. It only taxes those who make a decision to buy taxable items.

Items not already covered with the sales tax will not be covered with this tax. Some of these items include: groceries, housing, automobiles, gasoline, prescription drugs, doctor's visits, airline tickets, apartment rental, attorney fees, farm machinery, food stamp items, insurance premiums to name a few.

No one likes taxes, but if you noticed, most of the basic needs will not be affected.

The Muleshoe Industrial Foundation and the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture, who highly indorse this issue believe that Muleshoe now has the opportunity to control their own destiny by passing a sales tax increase that can be used

Plans To Restructure USDA Field Offices

By Edward Hadigan Secretary of Agriculture

Last May, we began the most sweeping review ever conducted of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's field office network. Today we are closer to completing the package, and I want to thank the Office of Management and Budget for its expertise.

There are 14,309 field offices of the Department of Agriculture. Of that number 7,405 are agencies that deal with the delivery of farm services at the county level.

The remaining number of offices are those that deal with the Food and Nutrition Service, Food Inspection, Forest Service, Agricultural Marketing Services and other missions--all of which are the subject of other studies.

But the effort toward restructuring USDA began last May with an evaluation of the 7,405 county-based offices charged with delivering farm service benefits. We are dealing today with the preliminary results of that study.

Those 7,405 offices are in 3,700 locations around the country, because many offices are located at the same address.

What we are submitting to the Congress and agricultural groups today is the condensed work of a joint USDA/OMB review team. They studied these county-based offices on the basis of six criteria:

- *program delivery costs;
- *number of producers served;
- *complexity of programs administered;

- *geographic service area;
- *whether local offices were sactered or located under one roof, and
- *intensity of workload at local offices.

Our projections are that we will be reducing the total number of USDA locations by roughly 28 percent and the total number of USDA offices in these initially studied categories by 17 percent. That will mean a reduction of 1,000 locations are more than 1,000 offices. Next week I will make a final decision on the number of offices recommended for closing and make it public.

The current USDA field office structure is comparable to that which existed when 20 percent of the U.S. population lived on farms and was without modern communication. Today less than one percent of the U.S. population lives on farms and has all of the modern transportation and telecommunication services available to them. Many improvements in the delivery of services to farmers could be made if the field office structure were streamlined so that we could afford to place in each of the offices the technological advances that are available today.

This is not about reducing service to farmers. It is about being able to afford to improve our services to farmers in a manner that respects the role of the American taxpayer.

News From Congressman
Larry Combest

On the first day of the 103rd Congress, U.S. Representative Larry Combest (R-Texas) renewed his efforts to reduce federal regulatory red tape and streamline government programs. Combest seized this opportunity to introduce six bills he hopes will be passed into law during this Congress. "While these bills are only a part of my legislative agenda, they represent some of the most frequent complaints from folks in West Texas such as getting government off their backs, lowering taxes, and improving the health care system," said Combest.

Combest has served the 19th Congressional district for the past eight years, and continues the fight for issues he so strongly supports. "As your voice in Congress, I believe several bills previously introduced have merit and are worthy of our continued attention during the upcoming Congress," said Combest. "Now is the time to set the tone for a productive year."

The first piece of legislation Combest introduced on January 5, 1992, is the Congressional Accountability Act of 1993, which would force Congress to abide by the same laws they put in place for everyone else. "It is inconceivable to exempt elected officials from the same laws their constituents are subject to," said Combest.

Combest will continue his effort to reduce burdensome government regulations. The Paperwork Reduction in Health Care Act of 1993 could save $100 billion in paperwork costs associated with health care. Billions of dollars in administrative costs in health care can be saved by reducing federal health care paperwork burdens. He proposes the reduction of these regulations by five percent for each of the next five years.

Another important piece of legislation Combest re-introduced would enable states to extend the 65 mile-per-hour speed limit to include rural four-lane highways. Congress allowed states to increase the speed limit on rural highways. Most Texas highways, however, are not interstates, and are not eligible for the 65 mile-per-hour limit. This legislation would allow states to increase the speed limit on rural four-lane highways, which are vital to travel in West Texas.

Combest also proposed an amendment to the Constitution of the United States relating to voluntary prayer in public schools. "I fully support voluntary school prayer, and I will work diligently towards the passage of this legislation," said Combest.

The Wetlands Delineation Fairness Act challenges the validity of strict regulations which continually burden today's small businesses. Combest believes wetlands must be protected; however, regulations must be reasonable and rational, with common-sense policies regarding playa lakes, prairie potholes, and farm ponds. Burdensome land-use restrictions have caused costly delays for towns, farmers, and home-builders in West Texas. "The road to reform begins with reducing these oppressive regulations," said Combest.

Combest also introduced legislation stating the taxation treatment of state and local government bonds should not be changed in order to increase federal revenues. "States are in the worst financial shape in decades and municipal bonds are often the only source of revenue for states to utilize in the much needed revitalization of their physical infrastructure, such as highways, bridges, mass transit and wastewater treatment plants," said Combest. "I will fight to ensure that these vital bonds are kept in a tax-exempt status."

"I am pleased to be able to represent the people of the 19th Congressional District for another two years," said Combest. "As Congress begins a new session, I am eager to support strong, beneficial legislation which will have a positive impact on West Texas."

Letter To The Editor

January 8, 1993

Editor, Muleshoe Journal
Muleshoe Texas

Dear Editor,

Some sixteen years ago I moved my family to Muleshoe. It soon became apparent that Muleshoe ranked above the average small community in quality of life and the quality of its people. As I became involved in various aspects of civic work, I felt the cohesive spirit of the town.

In more recent years, I observed the overwhelming support of the local citizens in the formation of a hospital district designed to save our hospital. I also observed an overflowing high school auditorium expressing support for a possible site selection of a state prison facility. It was a good feeling to see a packed house at the recent banquet honoring our Governor and several other state dignitaries, bearing the theme "Muleshoe Spirit - Texas Pride". This spirit is alive and well in Muleshoe. Its citizens always rise to the occasion in support of any worthwhile endeavor beneficial to our town.

It is now time to rise again in support. The passage of the upcoming Economic Development sales tax election on January 16th presents us as Muleshoe citizens an opportunity to promote and stimulate community growth and create jobs. In order to have economic growth, we must be able to compete financially with other communities. 75 Texas cities have already passed the 1/2 percent sales tax. Some state programs are also available only to cities that have passed the sales tax. Legal restrictions require that these monies be administered through a five member committee appointed by the city council. This committee must adhere to strict guidelines assuring these funds be used only for economic development.

Statistics show that this tax will have a very limited and insignificant impact on each of our family budgets. The benefits generated to enhance the future of Muleshoe deserve our careful consideration.

I urge you to vote in favor of this issue on Saturday, January 16th.

Robert Montgomery, Mayor

Letter to the Editor

A little over a year ago my family and I moved to Muleshoe from the Canyon/Amarillo area. We were immediately impressed with what we found, a positive "together-we-can-accomplish anything" attitude, which has been so appropriately termed "Muleshoe Spirit". On January 16th, we as a community have an opportunity to move forward with that progressive attitude.

Maintaining the status quo is no longer an option. Rural communities do have a choice, either to grow, or die from natural attrition.

For West Texas communities, the realities of the future require an aggressive approach to economic development. Over 70 Texas communities have passed a similar investment in the future and many others are in the process. To compete in today's highly competitive environment, we must be equipped to enter the contest.

The 1/2 cent sales tax is the most sensible economic development tool that a city has. As state incentives become weaker, the 1/2 cent sales tax is a way to structure incentives locally, which is in the tradition of Muleshoe. We can do it locally.

Because other cities have this tax in place, they will get the jobs that Muleshoe will not. If we want jobs, we must provide the money to bring them here.

Is passage of this proposition a guarantee of immediate success? No, but failure is an almost certain guarantee of not being able to be competitive in acquiring new jobs.

Don't think of this as a tax, but as an investment in Muleshoe's future! Please, join my family and me in voting "For" the economic future of Muleshoe on January 16th.

Sincerely,
Mike McDearmon

Dear Evelene,

Last week was spent ringing in the New Year with a quick but productive tour of the new Senate District 31. I appreciate your taking time from your busy holiday schedule to join me. I enjoyed making the time to touch base with those I work so hard to represent. It was important for me to hear your opinions and answer your questions before the Legislature convenes January 12.

As I head south to Austin, I want to remind you that my door is always open to you. Please let me hear from you on the issues facing the Legislature and the state of Texas.

Do not hesitate to give me or my staff a call if there is anything we can do for you.

Sincerely,
Teel Bivins

Letter To The Editor

I have been a member of the Board of Directors of the Muleshoe Area Industrial Foundation for the last five years, serving as Chairman of the Board for the past year. Over this period of time, we have had numerous request to submit a proposal to companies or businesses to either re-locate or start up a business in our community. We have had request from local businesses for some assistance in expanding their business. Time and time again we have had to deny these requests because we have had no access to resources needed to fulfill these request. We have not been able to compete with those communities that have the resources to provide buildings or other facilities that these local or new businesses can lease or purchase.

We have a very wonderful place to live here in our community, but poor economy over the past few years have caused problems for the business in our area which effects all of us. We have benefited from our community in many ways over the years, now its time that we put something back so that the economy in this area will improve, now businesses will come in, existing businesses can expand, and new jobs will be created. With the approval of the half cent economic development sales tax, these things can be accomplished.

As chairman of the Board of Muleshoe Area Industrial Foundation, I ask that you give the Foundation a chance by supporting the 1/2 cent tax. This is a very small price to pay to stimulate growth and prosperity in our community, and now is the time to take action before our community deteriorates further.

Sincerely,
Duane Lloyd, Chairman
Muleshoe Area Industrial Foundation

Tips For Relieving Pain From Sensitive Teeth

If a sip of hot coffee or a bite of ice cream makes you wince with pain, you may have the common condition called tooth hypersensitivity.

Nearly one in four adults are affected by this discomfort. Teeth can become painfully sensitive when the normal protective enamel covering is worn away, or when gums surrounding the root of the tooth recede. As a result, the extra sensitive root surface called dentin, becomes exposed. Then heat, cold, or touch can cause pain.

But you can take steps to alleviate the discomfort before your next dental appointment, assuming decay or bite problems are not the cause of your sensitivity. Dr. George Clark, dental specialist at Block Drug Company, suggests these tips on reducing tooth sensitivity:

- * Learn proper brushing techniques to avoid creating grooves at the gum-tooth line which lead to gum erosion. Brush from the gum out to the end of the tooth.
- * Use a soft, dense, round-bristled brush specially designed for cleaning sensitive teeth and gums.
- * Floss gently so as not to increase sensitivity by damaging gums in the process.
- * Brush regularly with a desensitizing toothpaste such as Sensodyne, that contains potassium nitrate or strontium chloride, two ingredients recognized as effective in reducing tooth sensitivity. Potassium nitrate toothpaste may now contain flouride for cavity protection as well.
- * Carbonated beverages and foods high in acidity including tomatoes, tomato juice, citrus fruits and juices, pickled foods, and vinegar, can increase tooth sensitivity, so reduce them or avoid them completely.

Keep Small Feet Healthy As Children Grow

Many of the foot problems that plague adults begin in childhood, when feet are just as important as teeth, eyes, and other parts of a child's developing body.

A child's feet grow rapidly during the first year of life, attaining almost half of their adult size. Podiatrists consider this period of time to be crucial.

Parents should take these steps to help normal development of the feet, say podiatrists.

-When covering a babies feet in the crib, make sure they are covered loosely enough to permit freedom of movement.

-Provide opportunities for baby to exercise their feet, such as letting them lie uncovered so they can kick.

-Change the babies position several times a day. Lying too long in one spot, especially on the stomach, can put excessive strain on the feet and legs.

-Don't force children to begin walking too soon. They will do so when they are physically and emotionally ready. And don't anguish over comparisons with other children.

Travelling With The Texas Angler

By: Keith Warren

The last cold front of 1992 that arrived on New Year's Eve was the answer to some bass anglers prayers, and just the opposite for others. For weeks prior to the frontal system, the entire state was experiencing unseasonably warm temperatures. This spring-type weather drove bass into shallow water, making them easy to catch.

December was a great month to bass fish Texas lakes that have aquatic vegetation. Bass were locating in the weed beds and eager to bite. As the water continued to stay warm, the bass moved further into the grass. The further into the grass the fish moved, the more difficult it became to get to them.

Types of aquatic vegetation varies from lake to lake, as does its density. Some lakes are heavily covered, while others have much smaller quantities.

Choke Canyon is one of those lakes where underwater grass is extremely prevalent. In many areas the grass is sated on the surface

New Hotline, Reward Program Attacks Arson

A new statewide hotline and reward program could help insurance companies and law enforcement agencies put arsonists out of business.

By telephoning 1 (800) 835-6422, callers can provide information on any fire suspected to be arson or on any instance of insurance fraud. If the information leads to the arrest of a suspected arsonist, the caller will be eligible for a reward of up to $1,000.

The hotline and reward program was established by the Texas Commission on Fire Protection, the National Insurance Crime Bureau and A Texas Advisory Council on Arson.

"The Texas Commission on Fire Protection would like to thank the Board of Directors and members of A Texas Advisory Council on Arson for their leadership and guidance in making this cooperative effort possible," said Ernest A. Emerson, Texas State Fire Marshal. A Texas Advisory Council on Arson is a non profit organization of professionals and individuals with an interest in investigating and preventing arson.

"Arson-for-profit is big business in Texas," Emerson said. "The information we expect to receive through the hotline can give local jurisdictions the information they need to prosecute arsonists. The effective use of this information may also assist the insurance industry in protection against fraudulent claims and in turn reduce the rising cost of insurance protection."

Similar to a crimestopper tip line, the arson hotline will be staffed 24 hours a day. Trained personnel with the National Insurance Crime Bureau will receive the calls and forward information to the State Fire Marshal's Office, a division of the Texas Commission on Fire Protection. State Fire Marshal's Office staff will then disseminate information to appropriate local fire and law enforcement agencies.

The National Insurance Crime Bureau will also administer the arson reward program.

Additional information on the arson hotline and reward program is available through the State Fire Marshal's Office in Austin, (512) 873-1700.

making it perfect bass habitat, but difficult to get through.

According to Choke's best known guide Elroy Krueger, the bass located themselves back in shallow grass flats and were catchable around clear pockets.

Any clear spot that was surrounded by heavy grass was a likely place to catch bass. "Prior to year's end we had to use a push pole to get the fish," said Krueger, "but once we got through the grass they were easy to catch." Elroy said this last cold front of 1992 will drive shallow bass to deeper water around the outside grass lines and make fishing for them a little easier.

On the opposite end of the spectrum, was Lake Sam Rayburn. Rayburn fishermen were experiencing unusually great fishing during the month of December.

The grass is this clear East Texas lake is plentiful; however, it grows in deeper water than it does in Choke Canyon.

According to one of Rayburn's best bass fishermen, Butch Hudkins, the bass were going crazy biting just about anything prior to the cold front.

"Now the bass have moved to deeper water and are holding on submerged vegetation that is not visible. There are hundreds of acres of this type of water and the fish have really slowed down. They are not hitting fast moving lures and want something presented slowly, right in front of them. The water temperature has dropped too fast and it'll take quite a while for it to warm back up and bring the bass shallow again," said Hudkins.

Just as the weather has turned off

Rayburn's fish, it will turn them on elsewhere. Saltwater fishermen's success is starting to pick up and the white bass are starting to head up rivers in deep south Texas for their annual spawning ritual.

SURE HANDS OF THE SURGEON

A child walks . . . an arm is straightened . . . a growth is removed . . . these and many other things are the result of the fine work of the surgeon. This is an occupation and a labor worthy of appreciation.

A star . . . a new born baby . . . the world itself . . . these and many other things reveal God to us. "The heavens declare the glory of God; and the firmament sheweth his handypwork."

Psalm 19, 1

God has wrought a great work. Let us show our love and appreciation by worshipping him in Church

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Coleman Adv. Ser.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Friends:

Throughout the world favorable media coverage has been a principal means of bringing alcoholics into our Fellowship. You have helped make this possible and for that, we thank you.

Anonymity, the spiritual foundation of our Fellowship, assures the members of Alcoholics Anonymous that recovery can be private. This is true as well for those who may some day need us.

Therefore, we seek your continued support by presenting A.A. members:
*only by first name
*using no recognizable picture Alcoholics Anonymous is not affiliated with any other organization, although many have adapted A.A.'s Twelve Steps for their own use. A.A. is self-supporting, declining any outside contributions; and we are nonprofessional, offering only the voluntary support of one alcoholic helping another.

MICROWAVE TIPS

One of the secrets in keeping crisp bread and rolls crisp when microwaving is to use paper and foil to absorb the moisture.

Microwave energy drives moisture to the surface of breads. A paper napkin is usually enough to absorb the moisture.

But crisp rolls may soften unless you use foil to shield them. Place foil on bottom of oven and place the napkin over the foil.
