When you exercise, food passes through your intestinal tract much faster. This means a smaller percentage of the day's calories are absorbed.

Exercise also has psychological benefits. It can give you a sense of accomplishment, self-esteem, well-being and self-control. With these positive feelings, the commitment necessary to stay on your diet will be easier to find.

So if you're on a diet or thinking of starting one, put on your walking shoes - you'll get to your weight loss goal a lot faster than you will in a car with no engine.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic level, Race, Color, Sex, Religion, Handicap or National Origin.

A diet without exercise is like a car without an engine - it won't go anywhere.

Aerobic exercise drives up your metabolic rate. Have you ever been on a diet and found that your rate of weight loss slows down the longer you diet? That's because the metabolic rate decreases with a diet by 10-15%.

Combining exercise with diet counter-balances the problem by increasing your metabolic rate to burn more calories.

Many people believe that exercise increases the desire to eat, but the researchers don't agree. Studies show a decrease in appetite follows strenuous exercise in most people, especially those who are normally inactive.

Exercise also releases fat into the bloodstream which maintains blood sugar levels. Since a drop in blood sugar stimulates hunger, exercise

Southwestern Bell Telephone has begun a program to help find missing children, thanks to the efforts of a Texas employee.

Brenham resident Margot Ramsden, a phone company records clerk, submitted a suggestion that company employees participate in the search for missing and abducted children.

As a result, Southwestern Bell Telephone, in cooperation with Child Find, Inc., is placing posters of missing children at company work locations throughout Texas, Oklahoma, Missouri and Arkansas.

Child Find, Inc., is a New York-based, non-profit organization dedicated to locating missing children.

"All I seem to read and hear about in the news lately are stories about children being abducted and abused and left emotionally scared or worse-murdered," said Ramsden, who has three children and one grandchild. "I felt that a company as community-oriented as Southwestern Bell Telephone could use its resources and help with the growing concern for missing children."

Gary Stevens, Manager-Community Relations said the program should help make the faces of missing children familiar to company employees who live and work in neighborhoods across the state.

The company program provides a series of posters each quarter which include photographs and information on five missing children. Each poster includes a photo of the child, full name, birthday, sex, hair and eye color, the city and state the child is from, the date the child disappeared. Also included is Child Find's toll-free number, 1-800/I-AM-LOST or 1-800/426-5678.

Children featured in this poster program are not necessarily from areas or states served by Southwestern Bell. In fact, Gary Stevens said Child Find points out that missing children often have been moved to a region other than the area from which they were taken. When an employee calls to report seeing a possible missing child, Child Find will try to match the description with children reported missing.

"This project is another example of our employees' tradition of concern for their communities," Gary Stevens said. "We want to do our part to find missing children, and spread the word there's something we all can do to help end this tragedy involving children."

Gary Stevens said Southwestern Bell participates in a number of community programs promoting public safety. The company provides fingerprint identification cards for children; participates in numerous neighborhood patrol programs known as "Crimewatch" or "Crime-stoppers;" and supplies "Quarter Keepers" for children. Quarter Keepers, provided by Southwestern Bell Telephone at no charge, hold a quarter for a pay telephone call, land provide space to record a number to call in case a child is lost or needs help.

Southwestern Bell also distributes a home security brochure to Texas customers as part of its Tele-Help customer information program.

Child Find, Inc. offers these guidelines if you think you're in contact with a missing child.

- Try to find out the child's name and birthdate.
- Make careful note of the child's appearance-identifying marks such as pierced ears, scars, freckles and birthmarks.
- Record the license plate number and state of the car in which the child may be riding. Also note the car's description.--Try to learn what school the child attends. If the child just moved to a region other than the area school he or she attended and in what state.--Many abducted children often are withdrawn, shy and nervous.
- They usually are accompanied by an adult and have few friends their own age.--Follow your instincts. If something "feels" wrong, it usually is.
- If a child asks for help, act immediately.--contact the police if you are certain a suspicious situation exists.--Exercise caution when dealing with these situations.
- Since 1961, Child Find, Inc. has helped locate an average of 83 percent of the children it has registered.

School Students Take Spring Break

Although we have many young people spending their Spring Break Vacation in Houston at the Livestock Show, and some who have traveled to Austin to the girls State Basketball Tournament, we still have a large group of Hansford County young people going to New Mexico and Colorado for winter sports.

Last year Several Families gathered at Angel Fire, New Mexico Ski Resort for a Spring Break Vacation. Pictured are only a few of the young people who enjoyed the snow, skiing, sledding, snowmobiling and general fun of fellowship.

Spring Break skiing has become a "family" tradition for these people and despite unseasonable warm weather and other adverse conditions that may arise, they are determined to have a good time and a memorable vacation.

Some Familie in our area skiing in New Mexico and Colorado this weekend are: The Larry Butlers, Don Thomsens, Terry Butt, Mike Gametts, Ronnie Lusby's, Butch Lassaters, Fred Shieldknights, Ron Cooks, Charles Shieidknights, Donnie Hergerts, Richard Booths, Bobby Archers, Phil Sanders, Darl Hergerts, Mike Rileys, Warren

Southwestern Bell

Southwestern Bell Telephone customers say the company met its goal of providing quality service during 1985, according to Public Utility Commission standards and the company's own internal measurements.

"Throughout the year, service results consistently exceeded the objective on all measurements set by the PUC," said James R. Adams, president of Southwestern Bell Telephone in Texas. "These results are particularly noteworthy considering we spent less money in 1985 and ran the business with fewer employees than in previous years," he said.

The PUC, which regulates the telephone companies in the state, sets standards for service quality. The PUC measures 19 service categories including installation, repair, switching office performance, transmission performance, and operator services.

Of the commission's 228 cumulative measurements in 1985, Southwestern Bell Telephone's overall service results met or exceeded the PUC standards 226 times. "The two missed objectives were due to inclement weather in November and December," Adams said.

Despite ongoing force reductions and other cutbacks, Adams said Texas managers achieved a 50 percent reduction over 1984 in customer complaints to the PUC. Complaints are at their lowest levels since 1979, said.

"In 1985 we reduced customer trouble reports per 100 telephone lines in the state by more than 7 percent over 1984," Adams said.

He added that 99.8 percent of all Texas customers get dial tone within three seconds, and that 99.3 percent complete local telephone calls without problem. The PUC objective is 98 percent.

"Because Southwestern Bell Telephone places top priority on how customers rate our service levels, each month we survey about 12,000 Texas customers who recently had contact with the company to determine the quality of service we provide," Adams said.

Results are obtained through telephone surveys of randomly selected customers. "In Texas last year, we increased the 'overall percent satisfied' rating in every category for both residence and business customers. In fact, the percentage was 100 percent in some categories", Adams said.

"And Texas directory assistance operators were tops in the five states served by Southwestern Bell seven out of 12 months last year in percentage of customers satisfied with our DA service and courtesy. About 85 percent of the calls to directory assistance were answered within 10 seconds," he said.

Adams attributes the company's overall high service marks to the employee body. "Our employees are talented individuals with a commitment to first-rate service at all times. Their dedication, hard work and enthusiasm are reflected in the company's 1985 service accomplishments in Texas," Adams said.

12 MYTHS ABOUT BEEF

In recent years America's "King of Meats" has been taking a beating. For reasons not understood by cattlemen, beef has become the whipping boy for food faddists, diet book authors — and even some scientists and nutritionists.

Is there a reason to be alarmed about beef?

Are we putting our lives at stake when we sit down to a succulent T-bone? Do we risk cancer or heart attack when we sink our teeth into a juicy hamburger? Can a food taste that good — and still be bad for you?

It seems that the MYTHS about beef have no trouble at all being picked up in print, or in being aired on TV or radio. But what are the FACTS about beef?

To show that FACTS often are as interesting as MYTHS, the following present documented truths about beef — how it reaches your table and what it does and doesn't do to your body.

MYTH:

Beef is high in cholesterol.

FACT:

Three ounces of cooked lean beef contain 73 milligrams of cholesterol. By comparison, the same amount of roast chicken contains 76 mg; fried chicken, 74 mg; pork, 77 mg; shrimp, 130 mg; cheddar cheese, 90 mg. Of course, the human body NEEDS cholesterol — some 1,000 milligrams a day — and the body normally will manufacture the difference between the amount consumed and the amount it requires. The standard three-ounce serving of beef provides only about eight percent of the cholesterol the body needs.

MYTH:

Beef is high in calories.

FACT:

Three ounces of lean roast beef contain 169 calories; three ounces of top loin (strip) steak contain 195 calories. Three ounces of baked chicken, without skin, contain 174 calories while three ounces of fried chicken, with skin, contain 209 calories. Actually, beef is ideal for modern, low-calorie diets because today's leaner cattle provide beef that is, on the average, ten percent lower in calories than it was in years past.

MYTH:

Beef is hard to digest.

FACT:

Beef is highly digestible — more digestible, in fact, than vegetables. Beef's ingredients are 96 percent digested, and its abundant nutrients are almost completely absorbed and used by the body.

4

MYTH:

Beef is high in saturated fat.

FACT:

Beef actually contains considerably less fat than is generally assumed. Three ounces of cooked lean beef contain about nine grams of fat — and less than half of that is saturated. Of all the fat in the U.S. food supply, 36 percent comes from meat and fish. The increase in fat intake in this country has been caused primarily by an increase in use of vegetable fats. Fats and oils now account for 43 percent of the fat in the food supply.

MYTH:

Beef contributes to cancer.

FACT:

To date, reported links between diet and cancer have been mostly hypothetical. A group of scientists convened by the American Cancer Society concluded that no single dietary factor, including fat or meat, could possibly account for more than a small fraction of cancer in the U.S. In any event, the issue is fat, of all types, and not meat per se. If a person accepts the theory that a low-fat diet will help prevent cancer, beef should probably be in that person's diet, because modern beef is lower in fat and calories and high in protein, vitamins and minerals.

MYTH:

Beef is frequently processed under unsanitary conditions.

FACT:

The meat industry is the most regulated of all food industries. It has been described as the most regulated industry in the nation, with the exception of the nuclear energy industry. Physical inspections of meat are made in packing plants by certified inspectors from the state or the U.S. Department of Agriculture. When a violation is uncovered, it results in substantial news coverage — because it is a rare and truly unusual event.

MYTH:

Beef's nutritional makeup is no better or worse than that of other meats.

FACT:

Beef actually contains substantially larger amounts of certain vital nutrients. Beef contains nine times as much Vitamin B-12 ounce for ounce as chicken, about two and a half times as much iron and four times as much zinc. (Iron and zinc are the two most common nutritional deficiencies in America today.) Beef is what nutritionists call a "nutrient-dense" food. It supplies a large share of essential nutrients and a relatively small share of calories. For example, a three ounce serving of lean beef supplies only eight percent of an adult's daily calorie requirements — but 45 percent of the daily protein requirements.

MYTH:

Diets recommended by health organizations should not include beef.

FACT:

New research on the nutritional composition of beef and on amounts of meat actually consumed by Americans show that beef can be used regularly by almost any consumer who is concerned about diet and health. It is now known that red meat supplies calories, fat, saturated fat and cholesterol in amounts far below the limits recommended by many scientific and health organizations. Consumers who want to cut down on calories and fat and cholesterol can do so without cutting down on the amount of beef they consume.

MYTH:

Beef provides iron with the same nutritional value as the iron in vegetables.

FACT:

A three-ounce serving of beef supplies 26 percent of the recommended daily allowance of iron for an adult male. And the iron provided by beef is "heme iron," a type that is three to five times more easily absorbed by the body than the iron found in other foods. It also has a booster effect on iron in other foods consumed at the same time. Much of the iron in spinach, for instance, is not made available to the body unless it is eaten in combination with another food. Beef provides iron — and also serves as a catalyst to help you get the most iron out of other foods.

10

MYTH:

Beef cattle production uses grain that could be used to feed the world's hungry.

FACT:

The grain fed to livestock is mostly "feed" grain, for which there is little or no demand as human food. Grain — either food grain or feed grain — will not be produced unless there is a market for it. The livestock industry provides that market. Actually, the grain fed to beef cattle represents only 15 percent of the total feed for cattle.

11

MYTH:

Beef cattle graze on valuable land that could be used for the production of crops for humans.

FACT:

About one billion acres of the nation's 2.2 billion acres of land are used for pasture and grazing. The vast majority of this land is too rugged, too arid, too wet or too high to cultivate crops of any kind. If it were not for grazing ruminant (four stomach) animals like cattle, this one billion acres of land would have no productive use. Cattle are able to convert otherwise unusable cellulose in grass and shrubs into nutritious beef.

12

MYTH:

Americans eat too much beef.

FACT:

Americans consume an average of two ounces of cooked beef per day — considerably less than the recommended daily intake of foods from the meat group. When you consider the superior nutritional value of beef and its genuine good taste, is it any wonder that it continues to be an American favorite both at home and when dining out?

Library Board Honors Mrs. Stump

Marsha Murphy presents Frances Stump with a Poem written by Mary Brock and penned by Sheryl Meek. Congratulations Frances.

The Hansford County Library Board honored Mrs. Frances Stump and the Thriftshop Ladies with a salad supper following the Library Board Meeting on February 12. The supper was held upstairs at the library.

Mrs. Stump is retiring as Director of the Library's Thriftshop following eighteen years of volunteer service there. The Library Board presented Frances with a framed poem written by Mary Brock and penned by Sheryl Meek. The Board will also place a book in the library in honor of Frances. The Book, entitled ADOBE WALLS

THE HISTORY AND ARCHEOLOGY OF THE 1874 TRADING POST* will be published in March by Texas A&M Press. It is written by T. Lindsay Baker and Billy Harrison. Mr. Harrison was the archeologist who directed the digs at Zulu and Adobe Walls.

Mrs. Stump and her husband J. R. Stump farm in Waka, Tx. She was the recent recipient of the Spearman Chamber of Commerce's Citizen Over the Years Award.

The Thriftshop will continue operating under the leadership of Mrs. Jo McLaughlin and the Thriftshop ladies.

Among The Neighbors

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Evans were attending the Texas Water Conservation Convention at Galveston last week when they were notified of the critical condition of their son, Gary, in Denver. He had suffered an accident at his work the previous week and was apparently recovering when he developed a blood clot in his lungs. Mrs. Evans flew directly from Galveston and Kenneth followed in the car. The Terrell Evans joined them and when Gary began to recover, all but Mrs. Evans returned home. She is still with him.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Sheets Jr. timed their recent trip to California so they missed all the winter weather here. They took an exhibition of a farm implement to the California Farm Show at Tulare, California which is in central California. They were in rain 36 hours but not in the floods farther north. En route in New Mexico they were delayed some due to the snow storm. They returned home by the southern route and had a most enjoyable trip. They were gone 12 days and found time to do some sight-seeing.

Mrs. Joyce Ray Hanes of Carrollton visited her father, Raymond Sparks, from Saturday thru Tuesday last week.

Mr. and Mrs. James Sparks attended the funeral of Mrs. Louis Buchner in Follett last Friday. Mrs. Buchner was the step-mother of Mrs. Sparks.

The Holiday Inn at Clovis, New Mexico was the gathering place for a family birthday observance for the Garland Heads over the week-end. At Farwell, they were joined by Garland's mother. Their son, Ronnie and family of Artesia awaited them. Melinda McLaughlin and two sons together with Garland's sister and her husband who are from Farwell completed the circle. The birthday honorees were Ronnie and his daughter Kaci.

Adalyn Barnes entertained with a bridge-dinner Friday night to observe the birthdays of Maylynn Schubert and Elsie Mathews. Other guests were Rosalie Butt, Maudine Patterson, Darlene Howell, Ruth Shaver and Ane Meek.

Mr. and Mrs. James Whitaker of Midland visited in the home of his mother, Helen and Rich Melton during the week-end. They had been in Amarillo to attend the 50th wedding anniversary of his grandparents.

Among those attending the Fox-Ferrel wedding in Memphis Friday night, other than the family were the Reggie Robertsons, Butch Schaeffer and Mr. and Mrs. Jet Mason.

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Brown returned Saturday from a two weeks fishing trip. They visited relatives in Mount Pleasant and Dangerfield and fished in the Lake of the Pines and other nearby lakes. They report excellent fishing and suspect they have made an addict of their granddaughter, 5 year old Kyla, who accompanied them and enjoyed exceptional catches.

Mr. and Mrs. Troy Sloan, Mrs. Kiff White and Mrs. Fannie Venneman drove to Midland Friday to participate in the 50th wedding anniversary of the Willoughby Sparks. Willoughby is a brother of Mrs. White and Mrs. Venneman. It was held in the home of their son, Don, on Saturday. Willoughby and the former Helen Browder were married at Sunray. They have two sons, Bynum and Don who both live at Midland. They have five grandchildren. Mrs. Elizabeth Carr of Miami kept her father, Kiff White, company during their absence.

Lee Ann Sparks, daughter of Anne and Larry Sparks of Canyon Lake, Texas and a student at West Texas University, spent the week-end with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James Sparks.

New residents of Pioneer Manor this week are Mrs. Blanche Stesfon from Oklahoma and Mr. Harold Kelly of Morse, Texas.

Two young men represent the United Methodist Church at a Young Peoples Spiritual Retreat at Ceta Canyon last week-end. Allen Mires and Lane Loomis attended, accompanied by Mrs. Sue Woolley.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel sheets observed their 50th wedding anniversary in a most unusual and interesting manner.

They have been wintering in Mission, Texas and took a bus tour to commemorate their fifty years together. The tour took them down the East coast of Mexico and lasted 13 days. The Yucatan Peninsula is rich in interest, and among the places they visited was Merida, a center of archaeological ruins with pyramids and temples of the Mayan culture. Out in the jungle near Palenques, an inland town, the tour group was to have dinner in a bamboo restaurant. Jean and Daniel, much to their delight and surprise, found a card shower from relatives inside. To add to their surprise a band of meriumbba musicians arrived, and there followed music and dancing in their honor. The meriumba is an instrument still in use that is part of the original Mayan culture.

The children of the Sheets had arranged these surprises. The group flew back to Monterrey, and then to Mission. The Sheets agreed that it was a most memorable observance, tho they did miss sharing their anniversary with relatives and friends.

Jean and Daniel were married on February 8, 1936 in Amarillo. They have two sons-Jerry of Texas City, Texas, is married to the former Carol Ann Lovett and have two children. Perry, whose wife is the former Sharon Novak, lives in San Antonio and has three children.

New Club for Gruver

On February 18th at 1:30 p.m., a group of women who are interested in organizing a Home Extension Club for the Gruver area, met in the La Casita Room of Gruver State Bank.

Karen Babitzke, the Hansford Co. Extension Agent, H.E. of Spearman presented the program and explained the structure of Home Extension Clubs. Topics discussed were about club names, meeting places, and dates, types of programs etc. Mrs. Babitzke handed out Hansford Co. club books that have already been prepared for the current year and suggested that the Gruver Club follow this plan since programs have been chosen.

Since several ladies are interested in being a part of this group but were unable to attend, the election of officers was past-poned until the next meeting.

Meeting days will be second and fourth Mondays of each month and the time chosen is at 1:30 p.m. with locations to be at individual homes or community meeting places. However, due to a conflict of school holidays in March and a "fifth" Monday, the meetings in March will be on the 17th and 31st. Mary Tim Shook will serve as hostess and Gyene Spivey will give the devotional. The meeting is scheduled to be in the La Casita Room.

There has also been some interest expressed in forming a club that will meet at night to accommodate the ladies who work during the day or for mothers who have young children at home and are "napping," making it inconvenient to attend meetings. It would also help solve a baby-sitting problem, for those who desire a night time club, make your wishes known and be prepared for best nights, times, and locations.

Refreshments were served by Gyene Spivey and Harletta Carthel to Nancy Morris, Mary Tim Shook, Sandi Foster, Rhonda Burress, Sandra Gumfory, Jo Alice Clawson, Penny Ralston, Toni Atwood, Joy Henderson, and Karen Babitzke. Evelyn Thiele was a drop in guest.

Everyone is invited for the next meeting on March 17th with the program scheduled to be given by TEHA, the State organization, to give new programs presented at the State Meeting last fall. The second March meeting on the 31st will be a program on Rag Jackets and Vests to be presented by Delinda McLoughlin of Spearman.

Adding one telephone line almost every 35 seconds of every business day in 1985. That's the challenge Southwestern Bell Telephone faced last year in meeting the service demands created by Texas' growth.

"Our state has dynamic telecommunications requirements," said James R. Adams, president of Southwestern Bell Telephone's Texas Division. "Continued population growth and business activity coupled with efforts to diversify our economy are creating unusual challenges for us."

The phone company added 216,000 telephone lines in the state last year, bringing total Southwestern Bell Telephone-served lines to 6.2 million. "Keeping up with that kind of growth requires massive capital investment," said Adams.

Total operating expenses, construction expenditures and tax payments last year for the phone company exceeded $4.5 billion in Texas. "That's more than $12 million a day, 365 days a year," he said. "Good service costs money—a lot of money."

In addition to the 216,000 new lines during 1985, Southwestern Bell Telephone in Texas installed 2.8 million miles of wire and cut into service nine new switching offices.

"We did all that with 1,500 fewer employees than in 1984. Our productivity has allowed us to reduce our employee body by 17 percent since divestiture in 1984," Adams said.

All customers—business and home telephone users—benefit from advanced technology because it allows the phone company to operate more efficiently and hold down the cost of providing good service, Adams said.

"In addition to using technological innovations to enhance the network, we are using technology to dramatically improve operating efficiency," Adams said. "We are automating repair service bureaus with online, computerized customer and inventory records that eliminate costly steps in the repair function. Customer service representatives in our business offices use a fully automated system to establish or change a customer's service faster and more accurately," he said. These programs are expected to save millions of dollars in operating costs over the next ten years.

Southwestern Bell Telephone's commitment to technology also is paying off in brand new services for customers.

Selected customers in Austin are experimenting with a group of five new personalized calling services. Customers can choose calls they wish to receive, and selectively forward others to another number; identify calls from specific numbers by a distinctive ring; radial busy numbers and block unwanted calls.

"In Dallas, we're using the telephone network in a trial of remote meter-reading for the city water department," said Adams.

These new services are working experiments right now, but they are examples of the versatility a high-tech network brings to everyday phone use for all our customers," Adams said.

"And by upgrading our network, we've also improved the quality of our service," said Adams. He pointed out that telephone service is at a record high level in the state. "We are meeting or exceeding service standards set by the Public Utility Commission. Customer complaints to the PUC are at their lowest levels in six years," he said.

Adams cites the Southwestern Bell employee body as key factor in the company's high service marks. "Employee input has enabled us to run the business more efficiently, save significant amounts of money and satisfy customers," he said.

Investments in new technologies are essential in building a telecommunications network that allows room for growth while handling increasing demands for new telecommunications services, Adams explained. But modern technology and state-of-the-art facilities carry hefty price tags, he added.

"1986 marks the ninth consecutive year we'll spend more than one billion dollars expanding and modernizing our facilities in Texas to keep pace with the state's service expectations. In fact, we've invested almost $12 billion the past 10 years to make our network better," Adams said. "That network is continually being upgraded to address customers' current and future telecommunication needs."

"But without adequate earnings, we face some tough choices about continuing to invest at the levels needed to meet Texas' unique telecommunications requirements."

Adams said Southwestern Bell Telephone's program of technological innovation which improves network performance and provides more services is the best way to meet the company's commitment to Texans and to the future of the state.

"Texas is at a critical point in its economic development where we can ill afford to be handicapped by a telecommunications network that is less than top notch," he added.

To God A Note of Thanks

by Alma Greever

Friends in Isa. 61 and a portion of verse 2 we read a prophesy concerning Jesus Christ who said he came not to destroy but to fulfill the things recorded in the psalms law and prophets concerning him. This we read, to proclaim the acceptable year of the Lord and the day of vengeance of our God. Knowing the meaning of this scripture surely brings grief and sorrow but we must warn the lost lest their blood be required at our hand. Because of Adams transgressions all are made sinners, born in sin, lost and undone and without hope in God in this world and Jesus Gods only begotten Son was given that the world be saved and made righteous with a hope of eternal life, and everyday of every year since it has been acceptable with God that we accept this wonderful offering so freely given; and how grievous it is so lightly thought of.

Now let us meditate for awhile on what would take place in Spearman today should we hear someone was lost, the whole community would be stirred and doing something about it. By different means seeking until the lost one be found and friends seemingly when we speak of one eternally lost so much less concern.

In 2 Cor. 6:2 we read behold now is the accepted time behold now is the day of salvation. In Rev. 3:20 behold I stand at the door (heart door) and knock if any man hear my voice and open the door I will come in to him and will weep with him and be with me. This speaking to the Laodicean church age and from the description given we are living at that time where they feel they are rich and have need of nothing and making it seem more needful we make haste to accept this great salvation in this mortal body we are tomorrow. Our breath comes from God and he alone knows the bounds of our habitation: so to be wise we should hear the words of David in Psa. 90:12. So teach us to number our days that we may apply our heart unto wisdom, also in Pro. 39:4 Lord make me to know mine end and the measure of my days what it is that I may know how frail I am.

In James 4:14 we are asked a question. What is your life? Answer it is even a vapour that appeareth for a little time then vanisheth away. Ever the word says "Come" and the Spirit and the Bride say Come. In Pro. 39:4 that says Lord make me to know mine end, in other words what will be my end will it be life or death? It certainly beyond doubt will be death if we do not have life through Christ. Now let us meditate for awhile should there be a very Destructive fire here in Spearman with lives lost or burned to death to make it more real. Our entire community would be bereaved. We are warned and warned the wages of sin is death and this in a lake of fire and God is not willing anyone perish but have everlasting life. How I rejoice Gods dear children who have made the preparation to escape such will not have to look upon that scene, that will be the day of Gods vengeance with the sentence of death there will be no way to escape so now is the time to enter mercys gate.

"Reapers are working the night is coming soon. My dear sinner friend how awful your doom if not gathered in from a world filled with sin. The harvest soon ends your sins to him bring. Oh God how we thank you that you have made a way for escape."

MORNING STAR
by Kerry Newcomb

Set against the vastness of Montan's Big Sky country in the years after the Civil War, against the epic tragedy of the Cheyenne (The People of the Morning Star), here is the story of Joel Ryan and two courageous, beautiful and very different women he loved.

Desperate to put the ravages of the Civil War behind him, Joel Ryan travels west. But he soon finds that the solitude he so desperately craves if not to be his. Early in his journey he rescues a beautiful Cheyenne princess, Mourning Dove, from Henri Laroque, a renegade Canadian who had intended to sell her to an enemy tribe. Even as Joel frees her, she frees his heart from the sorrow that has darkened it - with a love so strong it will cause them to defy her people. Banished from the Cheyenne tribe, they make their home on the vast plains and have a son. But their happiness is shattered when Laroque comes again to take his revenge on Joel, killing Mourning Dove. Joel's tragic loss nearly destroys him and fills him with a need for vengeance so great it will shape his life forever. He sends his son back to the Cheyenne until he can find his wife's murderer and, years, later, returns defeated. He reclaims his son, now a young brave, but feeling unequal to the task of raising him alone, sends east for a mail - order bride. What he gets is Sarah Joy McClinton and her two children, running from the man whose greed killed her husband. Each hopes that the match will result in at least mutual respect and friendship. But Sarah does not know that Joel Ryan will conquer her heart so completely that she would give her life for him...or willingly lose it for him.

Pulsing with the power and romance of the untamed land, here is an enthralling love story filled with the history, lore and legend of a vanished world.

Speaker Glen Smith

Glen Smith, president of International Western World Outreach Center, Inc. (aka Rodeo Cowboy Ministries), is an ex-rodeo professional and rancher.

Ministering the Gospel with a western flavor, Glenn was called of God and ordained to full time ministry in the early nineteen seventies.

Preaching and teaching the uncompromised Word of God, Glenn ministers primarily to those in the farming and livestock industry, although occasionally in churches throughout the country.

An international evangelistic ministry, Western World Outreach Center has pioneered many cowboy church services and campmeetings, including those at the National Finals Rodeo and the World Cup Rodeo in Australia. As a result, many people have found Jesus Christ as their Lord and Savior and learned to live by His Word.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

We Americans are concerned with un-answered questions, because we now see the power move progressing toward a Second National Constitutional Convention initiated by our International Trilateral Commission. Thirty two States are now in agreement with Congress to call a constitutional convention. Only two more States need to submit petitions and the second constitutional convention will be held. The premeditated date set for it is 1989 the 200th birthday of our constitution. Since we no longer have statesmen, but only political puppets in Congress, the second convention could become a nightmare because those who would be chosen to attend would not possess the same degree of Christian Wisdom and character as did our founding fathers. The propaganda that our corrupt Washington news services are feeding us is this: "In their opinion, a balanced-budget constitutional convention offers the strong medicine our economy needs." Their opinion is ignorance. Eventhough our Nation is now $2 trillion in the red and we tried to pay off the $2 trillion debt at that rate ($100 per second, 12 hours per day, 7 days per week equals 1 1/2 billion dollars per year), you couldn't even keep up the interest. I believe the Gramm-Rudman bill was a farce for balancing the budget and Ronald played our Texas Senator for a sucker. The best description for the national political news is the four letter word "LIER". Although defeat may be inevitable for our constitution, because the founding Director of that most powerful Trilateral Commission, Zbigniew Brezezinski, predicted in his book, "Between Two Ages" that 1989 would be the year for the final and complete destruction of the U.S. Constitution. This Trilateral Commission will be assisted by Jimmy Carter's "Alien Amnesty Plan" and Reagan's "Alien Guest Worker Program", and the American Civil Liberties Union plans to give voting rights to Aliens. Therefore if the convention fails the voting Aliens will defeat the true American voters.

"AMERICANS" wake up! We are being led into a peaceful satanic delusion that is designed to pacify and disarm we citizen's into our own enslavement.
