

Mr. and Mrs. D.B. Kirk

HIGHLIGHTS FROM THE PAST TO THE PRESENT

Our story travels this week to south of Spearman where it settles near the Holt Community, in Hutchinson County. Highlights from the Past to the Present looks into the life history of another pioneer family, the D.B. Kirks.

Mr. D.B. Kirk was born in Tennessee and at a young age moved with his family to Dallas County and later to Erath County. At the age of fifteen Mr. Kirk worked in the coal mines near Thurman, Texas for a dollar a day wages with 50c a week taken out for insurance.

Miss Minnie Lee Crawford was born in Steville, Erath County, Texas. When Miss Crawford was only sixteen she became the bride of Mr. D.B. Kirk who was seventeen. The date of their marriage was December 24, 1895. It will never be forgotten how the couple sloshed through muddy roads from their community of Hog Creek to Dublin, Texas where their marriage was to take place in the Methodist parsonage.

Following their marriage the couple was engaged in cotton farming which they liked very much. Though the farming situation was fine, the epidemics of malaria were more than the family could take and gave them a great desire to move to another section of the country.

In 1900 (when Mr. Kirk became 21, old enough to stake a claim) the couple set out for what they have often times since called "God's Country" on the north plains. The trip by wagon and team took six weeks from their East Texas home to the Panhandle. They would camp along the way and had no trouble until they reached the Canadian River with quicksand but they crossed with little trouble. At that time the land in this area could be secured as their own by staking and living on a claim.

Mr. D.B. Kirk, his brother-in-law and two Bailey boys filed on land in what is now Hutchinson County. One of the Bailey boys traded his section to the father of D.B. Kirk, Joseph N. Kirk and the father then moved to the Panhandle to make his home. The three other men returned to Erath County where they continued with their small farming lives.

A half-dugout was the home for the family. It actually served more or less as a shelter from the outdoors rather than as a true home. The house being of dirt often was visited by many crickets, snakes and skunks. It was the easiest life one could find.

The family lived on their claim for four years making it theirs. In the time they acquired some chickens which the family had not had. Mrs. Kirk had nearly forgotten how to dress a chicken and to prove that fact she doused the hen in cold water and spent two hours plucking the feathers. The year ended with twelve dominecker hens.

Mr. Kirk worked on the Fort Worth and Denver Railroad tracks for extra money. His salary was three dollars a day by working his own mules. While the family accompanied the father and husband, they would camp out. Mrs. Kirk took her chickens, keeping them in a coop. She fed them table scraps and the chickens supplied them with eggs for their own use as well as some to be sold at 15¢ per dozen.

On April 4th 1901, Mr. Kirk was completing his "one final round" plowing sod with a team of horses. His "one final round" would usually turn into many more. A disastrous prairie fire rolled in like a dark black cloud and a quick change of the wind turned the fire toward the place where he was plowing. Thinking he could make "one more round" he was caught by the fire. Trying to get away he hitched his mules to the wagon and tried to head them toward home. The mules sensed the fire and turned quick to the opposite direction causing the wagon tongue to lodge in the ground. Mr. Kirk was thrown from the wagon to the ground and all his clothing but his shirt was burned. By the time he finally reached the dug-out his eyes were swollen shut, one ear was nearly burned off and he had terrific flesh burns on his entire body.

Help did not reach them until the next day about sundown. Mr. Bill Harbour, a bachelor, set out across the prairie as soon as the area had cooled from the fire. He made his way and got word to the doctor from Old Hansford for Mr. Kirk. When the doctor saw the terrific burns, he gave Mr. Kirk little chance to live and said if his life was spared his hands would be useless. Mr. Kirk was quite courageous and believed not one word of what the doctor had said. With his charred flesh falling from his hands, Mr. Kirk told the doctor that he had to have his hands because he had a wife and three little chaps, at the time nothing was mentioned about another baby on the way.

The family recall rains which gave way to sod crops which were small but were good. The gardens with vegetables produced the majority of the food for the family.

Keys to the doors of the Kirk home were never seen for the family never locked their home. Many a time Mrs. Kirk would comment that she never knew who slept on the guest pallet for the night. She always thought that it lessened her fears to think that she was entertaining angels unaware.

Excitement and accidents were combined for the family several times for one day Faye calmly came to the house to tell that one of the little boys had fallen in the horse tank and went to sleep. It was a far cry from sleep but a near cry to death. Still another incident is recalled by the family as the time one of the boys slammed the cellar door down just in time to knock his brother out, the lad was knocked so far out that he didn't come to, until they got him to the doctor several miles away at Hansford.

One of the best ways to keep the small children of the pioneer days quiet and occupied was to put him in a rocking chair and tie him there with a tea towel or a diaper. For most children it was 100% safe but for the Kirk child it was different. How it happened Mr. Kirk didn't know but what she knew was that the child was badly burned.

Before the family was able to put down a well water was hauled to their home from twelve miles away. The supplies for the Kirk home were purchased at Hartley in the fall and must last for the winter. Staples, such as flour, syrup, oat meal, sugar, coffee and dried fruits were bought in large quantities.

Fresh fruit was a treat and the only time the children ever had all the oranges they wanted was when a train of fruit wrecked at Mr. Kirk was going for their winter supplies. The train crew loaded down every wagon that came along with the oranges.

The only time the family would leave their farm was to attend a camp meeting or the annual Christmas Tree held in Old Hansford at the Courthouse or at the Holt school. The family always had a school to attend. Mr. Kirk and two other men, Madison Womble and John Lackey, hauled the lumber for the Lackey School.

Mr. Kirk's first love was Hereford cattle and he was one of the first farmers to plant wheat. He used a cotton-lene bucket with holes punched in it as a method of drilling. Another of the early businesses Mr. Kirk was engaged in was the building and operation of a sorghum mill on Moores Creek. He was in partners with Carson Womble with the mill.

As times improved the family had a bit of financial gain. Mrs. Kirk bought a chifferobe and a manual powered washing machine which were quite outstanding household articles for the time. They bought their first case automobile in 1913. This car had a cruising speed of about 15 mph and a racing speed of 40 mph.

Mr. and Mrs. D.B. Kirk reared nine children, eight of them now living. Bill, the inventor of "Old Scratch", died in 1959. Four of the boys followed in their father's footsteps and were farmers; being Delon, Buster, Raymond, and Herbert. The final son A.D. is an engineer with Dow Chemical Company. The three girls were teachers being; Faye, Doris and Mattie.

For about twelve years Mr. Kirk served as County Commissioner. He was deeply concerned with education and was strong with his beliefs for all school improvements. He also encouraged the County Hospital at Borger. Several of the boys make their home in this area.

Mr. Kirk passed away May, 5, 1959 after living a quite outstanding life. His wife continued to make her home in Spearman until her death last year on November 20, 1963. The couple had celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary in 1955 at a quiet family gathering.

The Kirk family was another of the quite outstanding families of the area known as pioneers who found a land which they could call home and struggled to improve it. To make it rich for the future generations. They are among the early settlers who started their business success by staking out a claim and living on it until they could call it theirs.

LYNDON JOHNSON DECLARES SOIL STEWARDSHIP WEEK

It is fitting that we set aside a Soil Stewardship Week each year to recognize our stewardship of the land.

During the last 50 years, the American farmer has increasingly proved himself a good steward of his land. In many places he has taken worn out and eroded land and literally turned it into a bountiful land. For the first time, we are able to produce at low cost an abundance of the food and fiber we need and still provide for many less fortunate.

It is our task to hold the rich heritage of our land in trust for future generations. What we do with it now will determine its productivity of generations to come. We must make it an instrument for progress and prosperity. If we care for the nurture and land, there is plenty. If we neglect the land, there is poverty. This is the essence of stewardship.

Lyndon B. Johnson

Most all churches in the Hansford Soil Conservation District are planning some type of Observance for Soil Stewardship Week---May 3-10, 1964. The film "The Earth Is the Lords" was shown at the First Baptist Church in Spearman last Sunday. It is scheduled to be shown at the Morse Baptist Church next Sunday.

Mrs. Mary Brandvik was honored at the Oslo Lutheran Mother Daughter Banquet, hosted by the Brotherhood. She is standing beside a beautiful bouquet of roses and a praying hands plaque which she received as a memento of the occasion. Her daughter, Mrs. Myrtle Bernstein, accompanied Mrs. Brandvik to the banquet.

Mother-Daughter Banquet at Oslo

An Outstanding Mother-Daughter Banquet was hosted Sunday night May 3rd at the Oslo Lutheran Church. The hosts for the occasion were the men of the Oslo Lutheran Brotherhood.

The Mothers and Daughters gathered for the outstanding evening which included the meal prepared and served by the men of the church. Some 100 were in attendance for the gala event.

The tables were ornately decorated with three bouquets of pink roses. Special speaker for the evening was Eula Goodall who gave an intriguing talk about "Mothers".

With Mother's Day only a few days away this was a fine salute to all mothers. The evening opened with the invocation by Elmo Dahl. A welcome was presented by Bob Ferguson and Mrs. James Stedje acknowledge the welcome with the Response. Special music was presented by David Knutson at the Piano.

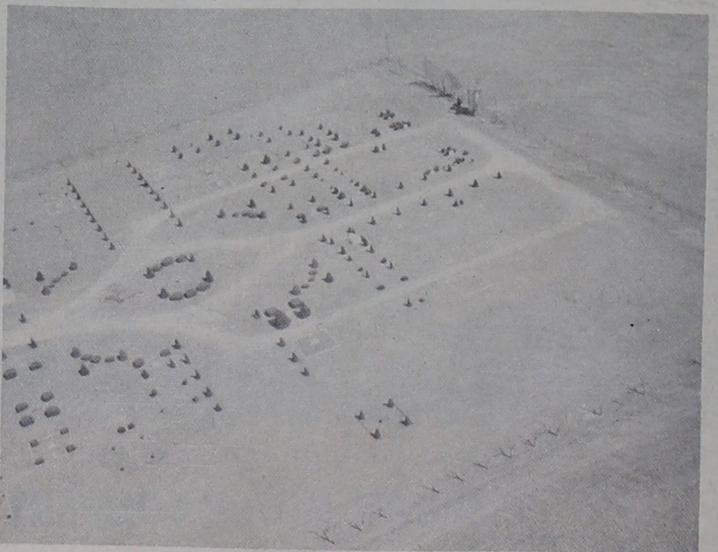

Special acknowledgements were presented to the eldest and youngest mothers present for the evening. Mrs. Mary Brandvik received the praying hands plaque for the eldest mother while Mrs. Vance Cclier received the same award for being the youngest mother. Hand woven book markers were presented to all the other mothers present.

The Evening concluded with the Benediction by Robert Yanke.

CHANGING AGRICULTURE
How times have changed! Not too long ago, when you thought of the Agricultural industry, you thought of the farmer. Kenneth Wolf, Extension economist-agribusiness, points out that today, the agricultural industry is a network of interdependence. In fact, of each 10 Texans employed, four are in agriculture, but three of the four are off the farm.

On the side of the farmer and rancher, Wolf explains, are such businesses as chemical, farm equipment, fertilizer, financial, utility and many others. Each year in Texas, they supply agricultural producers with $1.8 billion worth of things needed to grow the products. The products grown are then sold for about $2.4 billion.

On the other side of the farmer and rancher, he adds, are those businesses engaged in marketing the product. A few of these are shortage ware houses, textile plants, railroads and trucking lines, packing, plants, wholesale grocers and supermarkets. These off-farm businesses add about $3.9 billion to the value of the products raised by the farmers and ranchers.

This changing picture of agriculture has resulted in change not thought possible 30 years ago. In 1930, for example, one farm worker produced enough to feed 10 people. Today he produces enough to feed 28. The average wage earner had to work 60 hours 15 years ago to buy a month's food supply for his family. Today it takes him 38 hours, Wolf says.

Business management in our present agricultural industry has played a major role in making the industry so efficient, believes the economist.

A man's caliber may be measured by the amount of opposition it takes to discourage him.

GRAIN SORGHUM TEST
Grain Sorghum farmers will be selecting the varieties they will plant soon. I have the result of the 1963-- hybrid sorghum variety test from the Experiment Station at Bushland and the High Plains Research Foundation. Below is the top 15 hybrids from the Experiment Station: Bonanza, NK 310, 62CS044, Pioneer 820, WMGS 65, TE 88, Standking, WAC 750, Dekalb F 63, PAG 515, Scott 500, Surgro 789, WAC 700, PAG 665, Apache.

Below is the top 15 hybrids from the High Plains Research Station: Excel B-52, NK 310, Golden West Bonanza, WAC 700, DEKALB F65 Richardson 303 R, PAG 665, RS 681, WAC 750, Lindsey 788, Lindsey 551 Asgrwo Ranger A, Dekalb F64, Redlan Kafir, Texas 660.

Whatever variety you select you should consider if it is right for your farming operations, that is, the yield, days to bloom or maturity date, plant height, lodging.

I have the information above on most of the hybrids so drop by the office if you would like to discuss this.

LAND PRICES
Not too many years ago, all the talk in land economics was about productive value and its relationship to price. This concept of buying and selling land may still be valid in a few areas of the state, but it is becoming less important with each land transaction.

Maybe productive value is still a big question—in land pricing. However, if it is, the meaning has changed drastically. Before the big swing to rural recreation or "people farming" as some choose to call it, the farmer looked at how many bushels of corn a tract of land would produce. He evaluated prospective acreage by such factors as soil resources, kinds of soil available, slope or lay of the land and erosion conditions.

In "People farming" erosion conditions might tend to increase land value rather than decrease it as in the past. Land with extreme erosion conditions often bring premium prices because of its ease of adaptation to lakes and ponds. Deep gullies can easily and inexpensively be converted to fishing, boating and swimming facilities.

The high price of land now makes a purchase for livestock production almost senseless. The rise in land prices can be attributed to three main sources, says Dr. A.B. Wooten, land economist of Texas A & M University. These are increased demand for rural home sites, recreation and speculation. Another factor in land buying and ownership is "hobby farming." In this situation, people buy a few acres of land and put a few cows and chickens on it. Next they build a house and a few farm buildings. These people realize they aren't making a monetary profit from the venture, but the psychological profit of living in the country and owning a farm is their main objective.

When many people buy land today, they don't really consider the total price. Instead, they want to know how large a down payment is required and what the monthly payment will be. If these two factors fit into the family budget, another family moves to the country.

The Holy Spirit

So many do not understand the Holy Spirit and His work. The Holy Spirit is the third person in the God-Triune.

His work? Scripture says, "No one can say, 'Jesus is Lord' except by the Holy Spirit." I Cor. 12:3. Or "The unspiritual man does not receive the gifts of Spirit of God, for they are folly to him, and he is not able to understand them because they are spiritually discerned." (Cor. 2:14).

The things of God are understood by humans only by the power of the Holy Spirit. Until His work is in us, things are nothing but foolishness in the darkened mind of man. This is original sin. Without this enlightening insight, man doesn't even know he needs divine help. Natural man cannot come to any belief in things beyond nature because we are bound by our own nature. It requires the power of the Holy Spirit.

We need to be born of Water and the Spirit or We cannot become a child of God and an heir of heaven. (John 3:5).

It is the Holy Spirit who washes us clean in the blood of Christ. It is the Holy Spirit who helps me understand God, His Word, Christ and His Sacrifice, for the Spirit leads into all truth.

I believe that I cannot by my own reason or strength believe in Jesus Christ, my Lord, or come to Him; but the Holy Spirit calls me by the Gospel, enlightens me with His gifts, sanctifies and keeps me in the true faith.

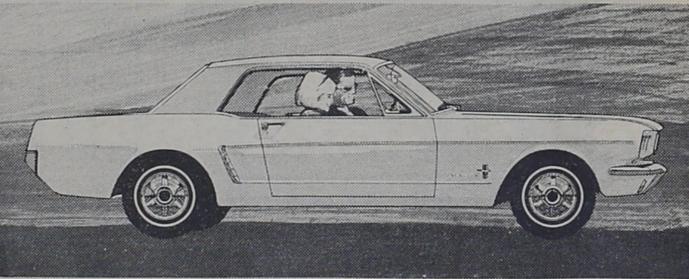

I wonder why so many people do not call upon the Holy Spirit, God Triune, for help? The Holy Spirit was given to this world on Pentecost to be an abiding working power in our life. Pentecost was the birthday of the Christian Church.

It is the Holy Spirit that convicting us of sin and showing us Christ's righteousness. Without Him, we could not call upon Christ to cleanse us. Without the Spirit we would continue in darkness of death.

Our prayer: Come Holy Spirit, work in my heart God's love.

By Vern Sanford
George Fin, an Ohio bait processor, says post mortems prove bluegill will eat anything that moves or fits into its mouth.

"Furthermore," says Finn, "the bluegill is hungry all the time and you don't have to wait for a special lunch period to feed him."

The bluegill, in this instance, takes in all the perch family.

Most of us call 'em perch, but others like the name of bluegill. And still others call 'em bream. But by whatever name, ounce for ounce, there is nothing quite as rewarding for an afternoon of fast and furious pleasure than taking bluegill.

Mainly, the bluegill is a worm fish. Perhaps more of them have been caught on worms than all other baits combined. We used to dig worms in the back yard. Now we buy them put up in ice cream containers.

Some fishermen string a whole worm on their hook. Others break the worm into bits and put only a small part on a small hook to be sure and catch the bait stealers.

Now, thanks to scientific breakthroughs, there are methods of preserving natural baits, such as garden worms, crickets, grasshoppers, grubs and grass shrimp. All these are ideal bluegill baits and will help you catch a basket full with very little trouble.

Biologists encourage bluegill fishing. They urge you to take as many as possible and not throw any back. Reason is impoundment soon can become overrun with them.

Although most of us picture bluegill fishing with a cane pole and a small float, there are other methods that will prove as much or more fun.

For instance, there is nothing better than a flyrod for catching them, especially if you are working from a boat. A light flyrod or ultra-light spin casting outfit is ideal for tossing the various baits close to the rock banks, which seem to be the best spot to catch bluegill.

I know two fellows in Austin who sometimes forget about their big bass fishing and take out after those fighting bluegills with casting equipment. They fish a great deal on Lake Marble Falls, where there are high rock banks. By casting directly against the rock banks and jiggling the lure a time or two after it hits the water, perch will attack it.

I've seen them bring in perch smaller than the lure they cast. During the course of an afternoon they'll fill a wire basket with bluegill the size of your hand. And who can deny these are not good eating!

Others using spin or casting equipment carry along several of those little plastic bubbles. They are fastened to the line about two feet from the end.

On the terminal there will be one or two small hooks. These can be baited with worms or some of those preserved baits. By casting the bubble near the rocky shore, the bait is sure to attract fish.

Sometimes when fishing in this manner with bluegills you will come up with a crappie or even a big bass.

This type of fishing is especially good on short float trips down some of the streams of Texas. You get a mixed creel on trips of this kind. Many of them however, are various subspecies of perch. Sometimes you get those big goggle-eyed ones.

And don't sell perch short as to their eating qualities. Just scale 'em, clean 'em and toss them into a skillet with plenty of hot grease and let them cook until they are thoroughly brown. This way, on the smaller fish at least, you are not bothered with the bones. You chew them along with the meat.

On the larger ones you can peel off the very delicious flesh and throw the bones away.

Cord of Thanks

Our heartfelt thanks goes out to the many friends and neighbors for all the expressions of sympathy and love as was revealed in the many Cards, Flowers, Memorials, Preparation and Serving of Food, during our recent time of sorrow.

May the good Lord Bless you all.

BAND TRIP A SUCCESS

by Kathy Fletcher
The Gruver Greyhound Band, loaded on two buses, left out of Gruver High School Wednesday morning for Enid, Oklahoma as their destination. The group checked Enid around 4:00 p.m. Wednesday afternoon and unloaded all baggage at the Hotel Youngblood where they stayed throughout the trip.

Wednesday night the 1st Festival Marching Contest was held. Thirty-two bands participated in this event. Before the actual marching took place, a military inspection contest was held. Instruments, uniforms, and personal appearance were all checked. They received a 1st Division rating for this event. Then the "Greyhound Growl" began and they stepped high, got their horns and let's have a full sound were the cries of the bandmen. In this contest, there were 100 possible perfect points and the Greyhound Band made 97.5 out of a 1st division. These ratings were rated by seven judges: C.B. Hunt, Jr. from Baylor College stated "A well trained band... interesting performance... your alignment is good!" Col. Irons from Arlington, Texas, said "A very good band!" Harold Wachman, from the University of Florida commented, "A spectacular routine; well executed." George Wilson from Interlochen, Michigan remarked, "Excellent show!"

Thursday, April 30, the Festival Solo and Ensemble Contest was held. Gruver entered several students. Eleven 1st Division medals and three 2nd Division certificates were awarded. No one made lower than a III division.

Also Thursday several band clinics were held. A percussion clinic was conducted by Dick Shory, a percussionist from the Chicago Symphony. It was attended by the full percussion section. A Low Brass Clinic was also presented by Keith Garvin who is an Army Band Soloist from Washington D.C. This clinic was attended by all the horns, trombones, basses and baritone.

Thursday afternoon the second marching contest was held in which the remaining bands competing marched.

Thursday at 4:00 p.m. the Tri-State Band, Choir and Orchestra had rehearsals, which took place on Friday and Saturday also. Twenty-two bandmen from Gruver were honored by being chosen to be in these organizations. They were: Band: Jane Hoy--2nd Flute, Lyn Ayres--3rd Clarinet, Arlene Barkley--3rd horn, Paul Cotter--2nd Cornet, Wayne Leatherman--Bass, Judy Bayless--2nd Clarinet, Kathy Fletcher--Bass Clarinet, Larice George--1st Saxophone, Kenneth Bratton--Baritone, Larry McClellan--1st Oboe. Choir: Mary Lou Cluck--1st Alto, Marian Jeffries--1st Alto, Alford Blount--Bass, John Blount--Baritone, Mary Etling--2nd Soprano, Judy Holt--1st Soprano, Billy White--2nd Tenor, Jim Beck--Bass. Orchestra: Jody Wallin--1st violin, Judy Gillispie--Clarinet, Larry Ghigo--Percussion, Harley Murrell--String Bass.

Drum Major, Judy Bayless, adds finishing touches to the Greyhound Band to prepare for the rigid inspection they will go through before marching.

Mr. Larry Sparks helps to ease tension among bandmen before they march.

Friday morning at 10:20 a.m. the Festival Concert and Sight-reading Contest was held at Long Fellow Jr. High School in Enid. There were three judges for the concert contest: Judge Dilly who commented, "You have developed a good musical feel." "Fine disciplined--this group follows its conductor well," stated Jack Ranny. From the third judge, Phil Fry comments written were, "This group plays very musically. I particularly liked your handling of the 6/8 movement in the suite." In this event a I Division was made. The Band then went to Sightreading where a I II division was made. Friday afternoon a stage Band Clinic was held at the VFW Hall. Everyone was invited that wished to attend. Also at the same time a High Brass Clinic presented by Byron Autry was held and a Woodwind Clinic too. All woodwinds were required to attend this clinic. At 7:00 p.m. the entire

The Gruver F.T.A. would like to extend a cordial invitation to any prospective new members to come to the officer election May 18, 1964 in the high school study hall at 4:00 p.m. Refreshments will be served.

The F.T.A., Future Teachers of America, is, as its name implies, a club to encourage young people to learn more about the teaching profession, it does not, however put any obligations on its members to go into the teaching profession.

The F.T.A. has been a service club for its school this year and will continue to be a club to insure progress in this school by uniting students who are interested in making our school all it ought to be.

I know I can speak for all the members of this club when I say that F.T.A. has been an exciting experience for me and an inspiration to higher achievements.

I feel that it would be well worth your while to learn more about the F.T.A. by attending this open meeting.

school building. Brass solos will be played in the Methodist church and judged by Robert Sexton, P.A.M.C. All solo contests (other than twirling) will run from 8:30 to 5:30. Participating in the solo and ensemble contest are about 600 students from schools entered. This is a record enrollment for the Area I Grade School Contest.
