NUMBER 35

600 Copies to Exes

This week's Post was born of an idea started by the following card:

Greetings to all.
Especially to the Class of 1929 — Would somebody from this class please send me the "news" of their fellow classmates? I have lost "track" of so many of them. To mention a few — Rosemary Price, Lola Rucker, Coleman Draper, Rucker Tipps, Roy Burgess, etc.

Someday I hope to be able to attend this Reunion — It sounds like fun.

Yours very sincerely,
Evangeline W. Watkins
Laramie, Wyoming

As you can see, this weeks edition of the Post could easily be called the "picture sheet." We were snapping pictures going and coming during the recent homecoming and some of them are recorded for future references in this paper.

Also, the Student Association has bought 650 copies of this issue and sent them out to as many ex-students and residents. Many more ex'es will receive their copy through the Post Subscription files. We hope you had an enjoyable time at the Quitaque Homecoming. If you did not get to attend, we hope this issue will encourage you to make plans now to attend the Homecoming planned for 1960.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Barbee of Quitaque are happy to announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Patsy, to Curtis Brasher, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Brasher of Plainview.

the local school in 1954 and in Plainview. She has been employed by the Amarillo National Bank.

Mr. Brasher is employed by the Paul Graham Floor Covering Company in Lubbock, where he and his young bride will make their home. Patsy wishes to take this opportunity to invite all her friends to be present at the wedding.

Each lady with young children is urged to attend the meeting at this new time and bring her children to the church with her. Nursery arrangements have been made so that the children will be cared for during the service.

June Stevenson, shown above, will perform for many of her friends and acquaintances this week end, in the Holiday On Ice Show in Amarillo. June's mother was once a resident of Quitaque, and she is the granddaughter of Mrs. Carrie Jago. (Engraving courtesy of Amarillo Daily News).

FARM TOUR DATES SET

The tour the 26th will be at Silvertown and area. Both tours will begin at 1:30 p.m. from the City Hall at Quitaque and the Courthouse in Silvertown. There will be some interesting stops that farmers won't want to miss. There will be a stop at the Hybrid grain Demonstration that Glynn Morrison and Murray Morrison have planted, there will be the grass demonstration that Leron Brunson has planted. These are just two of the fine stops that are in that area. At Silvertown, stops will be made to observe a Land Leveling Demonstration that Mr. K. M. Fleming has, then there will be the Hybrid demonstration of Bryant Eddleman's, and many other stops that will interest every farmer on the plains.

A farm and soil tour does a lot for the community by showing demonstrations that may or may not be applicable on each farm in the County.

A large crowd is expected both days.

NEW OFFICERS — Above are the new officers for the Quitaque Homecoming Association: Bob Ham, Pearl Allen, Tubby Hamilton, and James Brunson.

What's Good About It?

Did you ever hear anyone say anything good about living in a small town? Usually it's not what's good, but what's wrong with it or what doesn't it have.

Quitaque Lions are learning something new — What's Good About it! The program committee has worked out a three part program under this heading, and James Brunson kicked off the series last week with "Personal Values of Living in a Small Town."

One of these mentioned was the recent Homecoming, which was enjoyed by several hundred local citizens and visitors. It was a good example of the close relationship that a small town offers its citizens. Cooperation was wonderful, and many people will be talking for many months about "Who they saw" and "Did you hear." The Homecoming also proved an excellent excuse for many people to be of service to their fellow man.

"Taking a personal interest in a person is the best way to influence a person," Brunson said. In a small town there is more opportunity to be personally interested in people and problems, than there is in a larger city.

People of a small community have similar ideas, similar interests, and people of every vocation meet and enjoy fellowship on the same level, it was brought out in the program. Also, every person has a place to fill and it is their responsibility to take care of that particular spot. In a small place, such as Quitaque, there is a job for everyone and sometimes two. Every person is able to take an active part in the projects of their community.

Supt. Leroy Scott brought out several interesting facts in a discussion labeled "Advantages of Going to a Small School."

"School," he said, "is a partnership between you and the teacher, for the purpose of rearing children." He went on to explain that of course the parent carried the heavy end of the load, but at the same time, a lasting impression was made on a child in the classroom.

A closer relationship between child and teacher was one of the advantages he listed that is unique in a small school. Better social habits could be attained because of a wholesome atmosphere prevailing on the campus and classrooms. There is no place for cliques and closed circles among a small student body.

Another advantage named by Supt. Scott was that there is a better opportunity for students to take part in extra-curricular activities. "As far as I know, every girl in high school belongs to our Pep Squad," he said. Football boys who play in small town games, might easily be replaced by the more talented, or developed youngsters in a large school system. A freshman who desires to play football in Quitaque, is almost assured a spot on the team, probably the following year, where in a large school just a select few are able to participate. Last, but not least, the teachers in small schools get to know parents of the children they teach. They have a better chance of understanding and lending a helping hand to their students because of their knowledge of the child's background and home life. Supt. Scott gave examples of teachers in larger systems who do not even know their students by name, much less their parents.

Bro. Curtis Lee spoke briefly on the phases of our community life which pertains to Moral and Spiritual virtues.

He emphasized the fact that in a small place you know the good people and the bad by their first name. This intimate knowledge of an individual helps a person attain a better insight to their own characteristics — good and bad. There is a better opportunity for a person to live and learn by mistakes in a small community because of the close association with their friends and neighbors in all types of situations. "This is life at its fullest," Bro. Lee stated, to live in such a way that your neighbors and associates will be happy to introduce you as a friend.

Two more programs of this nature are scheduled — one next meeting night and the closing one two meetings from that date.

Robert Price, who is an aspiring young farmer, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Price, treated his second grade classmates to a watermelon feast last week. Robert grew the melons himself, some of which are displayed

How Does Cotton Affect You?

THE QUITAQUE (TEXAS) POST Thursday, Sept. 19, 1957

Every grower of cotton in Briscoe County is vitally concerned with the cotton situation. Will there be more or less acreage of cotton in the future? How does price influence acreage? What affects do the man made fibers have on the acreage and price of cotton? These are some of the things the National Cotton Congress will try to answer for the cotton grower of the County Monday night, September 23rd. Every Cotton farmer that avails himself to this information will have a better understanding of what cotton faces.

One may ask, "What is the National Cotton Council, what do they do for me?" The Cotton Council is made up of growers, ginners, and all the people that make a living from cotton. It is organized to try to keep conditions where they can continue to make a living from cotton and its related business.

Mr. John Gregg from Memphis, Tennessee will lead the discussion at this meeting. All the County ginners, warehouse men, and the County Extension Service urge you to come to this fine meeting. It will be held in the County Courtroom at 8:00 p.m. the 23rd of September. Mark the date down and bring your neighbors.

Kay Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Anderson, Jr. was honored with a back yard weiner roast, Monday, September 9, at her home, given by her Mother.

Guests roasted their own weiners and built hot dogs to please themselves after an hour of games including Red Rover, Drop the Handkerchief and London Bridge. Cupcakes and punch completed the menu.

Mrs. C. E. Anderson, Sr. baked her granddaughter a "Little Bo - Peep" birthday cake.

Curiosity and breathless anticipation reached a tense degree as the honoree opened her gifts which included a lamp, bracelets, doctor's kit, T-shirts dishes and cooking utensils.

Kay received a tent from her parents. Mrs. Anderson made movies of Kay and the following children who attended the party: Rhonda and Beverly Rogers, Scotty and Sherry Stark, Jimmy Pope, Glen Roger Taylor, Jill Daniels, Dusty and Debbie Bailey, Barry and Jamie Johnson, Rickie Fulton, John Briscoe County's Exhibits at the Tri-State Fair in Amarillo were off in Quality this year. This is due to the lateness of the crops. There were very few products that were actually ready to be prepared. At that the County did manage to win a few blue ribbons, some white ones, a few red and pink.

Winners amounted to some 20 dollars. It is hoped that the individual winners will place their winnings in the 4-H Club fund as members and the Extension Agent went to a great deal of trouble getting these products ready and entering them in the show.
