Is Your Range Drought Proof?

Many ranchers in the Lower Clear Fork, Middle Clear Fork and Central Colorado Soil and Water Conservation Districts are reducing the damaging effects of droughts, says A. H. Ringhoffer, Range Conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service at Baird. Through the development of a ranch conservation plan, ranchers are able to systematically plan the necessary conservation practices needed to maintain and improve their rangeland.

The ranch conservation plan is based on a range site and condition survey which is made by the rancher and the Soil Conservation Service technician. This survey will show the different types of country with the kinds and amounts of grasses present. The survey will also show whether the grasses are high producing grasses such as sideoats grama, cane bluestem, little bluestem, and western wheatgrass or lower producing grasses such as buffalograss, Texas wintergrass, white tridens and vine mesquite. The survey may show that the range has deteriorated to the condition that only weak perennial grasses or annuals such as filaree or six weeks grama are present.

After a range survey is made, the rancher has a better opportunity to identify his soil, plant, and water problems. He may be realizing only a part of the production potential from his rangeland because of low range condition. Brush infestation may be cutting down forage production.

Whatever the problems or opportunities may be, there is usually more than one way of dealing with each. If brush is a problem, various methods of control should be considered. Type of brush, degree of infestation, and range sites on the ranch will give clues as to whether chemical or mechanical control would be more effective.

Shortage of feed during one or more seasons may indicate the need for supplemental grazing or an increase in hay production. Additional water facilities or fences may be desirable to distribute the grazing load evenly over all the range

Of all the possible ways of dealing with each problem, one will probably fit the objectives and desires of each rancher.

Ranchers desiring to have a ranch for the development of a means of reducing the damaging effects of drought, should contact their Soil and Water Conservation District Supervisor or the local Soil Conservation Service technicians.

Weekly Meditation

Scripture Text: "And she and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn." Luke 2:7.

There was no room for them in the inn. These few words from the Gospel of Luke give us an rteresting insight into the condition of our Lord's birth. The little town of Bethlehem was crowded to capacity with those who had come from far and near to be taxed by Caesar Augustus' decree. All the available lodgings had been taken when Joseph came up from Nazareth of Gallee, with espoused wife, Mary, being great with child. As a last resort they took refuge for the night in a stable. There, amid the animals in a stable's stall, the child, Jesus, came to be born

Now nearly two thusand years later, the same is true to a great extent. Christ came, not only to be born in a manger, but to be forage inventory made on their born in the hearts and lives of men. Too many of us have lost ranch conservation plan, as a | the true spirit of Christmas, because we have not made room for the Christ in our hearts.

> We might ask, "Whose birthday is it, anyway?" No longer is it the festival of the home but the festival of department stores. Once it was dressed in swaddling clothes; now it is wrapped in cellophane and faily trimmed

Once it was a heavenly host chanting "Peace"! rought forth her firstborn son, Now, it is a very human multiwith sore feet and thin tude tempers. Once it was the story of the Christ-Child. Now it is the story of a red-nosed rein-

> We need to be reminded that it is His birthday! At what season of the year could we better honor Christ than at Christmas time? Christ was put into Christmas when God in His great love sent His Son to walk among men. When we exclude Christ from our thinking and doing and giving, it really isn't Christmas at all. Christmas becomes just another holiday for merry-making and festivities.

Let's make this Christmas for Christ. Let us honor Him with our hearts. "Joy to the World" should ring from our lips, as we share the "glad tiding of great joy" with those round about us.

choose to share the "Good News" loved one. This is the best gift humanity can receive. Won't you make room for Christ this

Bread 'n Butter Gifts

You'll be the dinner guest most in demand if you show up with goodies like these for your hostess. They're literally bread and butter gifts: individual loaves baked in tiny pans, and flavored butters to go with them. Best of all, convenient hot roll mix speeds baking — one package makes eight Little Loaves. To leave time free for pre-party primping, bake ahead and freeze loaves. Just remove baked breads from pans, cool completely, wrap immediately in heavy-duty aluminum foil and freeze — up to 2½ - 3 months.

Clyde Nets $1500 For Community Fund

The Clyde Community Fund has reported a final total of $1,500.00, falling a little short of last year's final tabulation.

The Clyde Communty Fund was organzed in August, 1961, and has had Clyde's full support since that time.

Local clubs, whose members have donated many hours to soliciting contributions, are the Clyde Study Club, Thursday Club, Helping Hand Club, Enterprise Club, Big Heart Garden Club, Tuesday Tillers Club, representatives of the Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts, Lions Club and Volunteer Fire Department.

Officers for the 1965 campaign are L. F. Newton, President; H. E. Swofford, 1st Vice President; Mrs. Jess Pyeatt, 2nd Vice President; Mrs. John Berry, Secre-tary; and Gerald Holcomb, Treasurer.

Appointed Board members are Mrs. Homer Kennard, Mrs. Earl Gargus, and Lee Loper, and representatives of all the organizations.

Officials of the 1965 drive expressed their appreciation to workers who helped with the campaign and to the citizens of this area who responded to the request for funds.

Word was received Sunday that Joe Warren Jr., of Fort Worth had died Sunday morning from a heart attack. Joe Jr. is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Warren Sr. of Baird, and the Warrens were long time residents of Oplin.

It is a wierd feeling for the telephone to awaken you at four o'clock in the morning. Tuesday mornnig of last week, by brother, Cotton Barrett, who lives near Lawn, called me to come quick that he needed to get his wife to the hospital. She was hospitalized all last week and I was with them a lot of the time.

Frank Windham Sr. was also hospitalized at Hendrick Memorial Hospital last week undergo-++++++++++++++++++ ing a physical checkup.
