C. E. MONTGOMERY BURIED HERE SUNDAY

Funeral services for Clarence Elbert Montgomery, 51, of Abilene, former resident of the Quitaque area, were held at 2:30 P. M., Sunday, September 18, in the first Baptist Church of Quitaque with the Rev. Bob Beck, pastor officiating.

He was a member of the Baptist Church.

Mr. Montgomery was born in Romulus, Oklahoma, August 10, 1910, and passed from this life Sept. 16, 1960 at Abilene, Texas.

Mr. Montgomery had been a resident of Abilene for 25 years, moving there from the Quitaque area.

Survivors include three sisters, Mrs. Roy Smith of Quitaque, Mrs. Bill Morris of Tulia, and Mrs. Norman Price of Idalou; three brothers, J. W. of Lubbock, Oscar of Tulia, and Cleo, of Boone, Colo. Burial was in the Quitaque Cemetery under the direction of Eudy-Seale Funeral Home of Turkey.

Pall bearers were Maynard Wilson, Wayne Whittington, Horace McDonald, Glen Morrison, Murry Morrison and Joe Bedwell.

Mrs. Jim Tunnell

Mr. and Mrs. Alton Johnson were hosts at a coffee Sunday, September 18, given in honor of her mother, Mrs. Jim Tunnell. They were assisted by Mrs. Johnson's sister, Mr. and Mrs. Price Colwell of Amarillo.

Mrs. Tunnell recently celebrated her 75th birthday, and her daughters decided to invite her friends to visit with her. The first guests to arrive were from Wichita Falls and Mrs. Tunnell began to be a little suspicious of what was going on but did not really know until a number of guests arrived Sunday afternoon.

Nieces of Mrs. Tunnell helped with the serving. The table was laid with a white linen cloth. The centerpiece was a beautiful arrangement of autumn glory. Mr. E. W. Scheid, former coach and superintendent of the Quitaque schools, and good friend of the Tunnell's, brought a bouquet of graduated mums in bronze and gold color. They were added to a styrofoam base, covered with tiny pine cones and miniature cattails. A profusion of fruit, including pineapple, apples, grapes and lemons cascaded down from the flowers, and a variety of vegetables consisting of squash, pepper, corn on the cob, and a big red onion with green sprouts, surrounded the base.

A silver coffee service graced one end of the table and a punch bowl and cups of milk glass adorned the opposite end of the table.

China and silver appointments completed the table arrangements.

Methodists Vote Unanimously To Build Parsonage

The congregation of the First Methodist Church last Sunday morning voted unanimously to build a new brick-neneer parsonage at an anticipated cost of $15,000, half of the cost to be raised immediately in cash and pledges. The campaign for funds began immediately following the vote, with forms being passed out to secure commitments. Contact-teams are being set up to personally contact each family on the church roll for their support. Friends of the church will also be given opportunity to contribute.

M. L. Roberson is the treasurer for the project. Those wishing to mail or bring their pledge in between Sundays may do so directly to him. He will have pledge forms in his store.

This Sunday Roberson will give a report concerning the amount promised to date toward the goal of $7,500. It is urged that each person try to get his pledge in by the close of the morning service so it can be included on the treasurer's report to the congregation.

It is expected that actual construction will begin on the new Methodist parsonage toward the latter part of October. The floorplan is on display in the vestibule of the church and anyone interested is invited to see it.

Honored Sunday

Mrs. Tunnell also received two long-distance phone calls from friends who could not attend. One was from Max Addison of Lubbock, and the other was from Mrs. Floy Wise of Amarillo. She received many lovely gifts and Monday was still receiving guests and gifts. Everyone enjoyed the fellowship with Mrs. Tunnell and wish her many, many more of these happy occasions.

Thirty-seven At Lions Club Meeting

Twenty-three Lions, two new members, and twelve guests were in attendance at the regular meeting of the Lions Club Monday evening.

The meetings are now being held at the school cafeteria at 6:30.

Members of the local P-TA treated the Lions to delicious meal of chicken fried steak, fresh corn, onions, tomatoes, green beans and dessert.

As a part of the regular business meeting, special awards were made to the following Lions:

To Geo. Ray Colvin, an award for 10 years of perfect attendance.

O. R. Stark and Fish Wilson were awarded their ten-year membership pins. B. K. Hamilton and Bert Grundy are others who have been members of the Lions Club ten-years but were not present to receive them.

After the business session, entertainment was furnished by the older members of Mr. Berryhill's Ag Class.

Bobby Saul, president of the group, explained that the local chapter did not have any hogs in the various shows taking place in our part of the country because all of them were "to sorry to show".

To demonstrate, four "hogs" were chosen from the Lion membership and a hog show was held.

Joe Bedwell, Bob Ham, James Brunson and Donnie Brunson were those fortunate ones selected to show. After judging and noting the bad and good, which were very few, Bobby placed the hogs in the following manner: although he is the runt of the litter, and possibly wormy, Joe Bedwell was acclaimed the Grand Champion of the rejects. Bob Ham, although running slightly to lard, was the second best of the lot. James Brunson, a razorback, showed some possibilities, but was handicapped due to the fact that there are few acorns to root up and feed on, was given the third place ribbon. Last place and sorriest of the rejects was Donnie Brunson. Judge Saul went over the bad points first, noting the lack of hair, probably due to being many, and other faults. "Come to think of it, the judge said, "I can find nothing good about this hog, and therefore I have no choice other than to call him the poorest of lot."

Lions are reminded that the winter meetings will be held at the school cafeteria at 6:30.

REVISED FARM HOUSING REGULATIONS ANNOUNCED BY USDA

COLLEGE STATION, Sept. 22.—The U. S. Department of Agriculture recently announced a change in the regulations governing farm housing loans made under Title V of the Housing Act of 1949.

Effective immediately, any farmowner who annually produces for sale or home use at least $400 worth of commodities (based on 1944 prices), and who meets other eligibility requirements, may be able to obtain a farm housing loan. To be eligible previously, an applicant had to own a farm that would produce a substantial amount of the operator's income.

Farm Housing loans, which are made by the USDA's Farmers Home Administrations, are used to construct and repair needed farm houses and service buildings. The USDA said its experience demonstrates that there are farmers who can properly use and repay this type of credit, but whose income from farming operations does not constitute a substantial part of their total income.

Other eligibility requirements for farm housing loans remain unchanged. These requirements are that the applicant must lack the resources needed to obtain credit elsewhere, he must be a citizen of the United States and he must have sufficient income farm and other sources to pay farm operating and family living expenses and meet payments on his debts.

Local county extension agents can provide publications and standard house plans for anyone desiring to apply for one of the above loans. Ask for B-172, "House Plans for Texas," or one of the leaflets showing plans for other buildings.

TECH PLAYS FIRST OFFICIAL SW CONFERENCE GAME SATURDAY

LUBBOCK, Sept. 19. — Texas Tech's long-heralded debut in Southwest Conference football takes place Saturday night, when the Red Raiders invade College Station to meet Texas A & M.

Pointing up the difficulty of the chore facing the Raiders is the rivalry history, which shows only five Tech wins in the 18 games played. Tech has eked out two successive triumphs, 15-14 and 20-14 over the past two seasons. But those were played in neutral Dallas, and the big one, "for keeps", will be on the Aggies' home turf.

As far as the score board is concerned, however, the season opened on an optimistic note for the Raiders — Tech triumphing 34-14 the Aggies losing 9-0.

But Tech was playing a thinly-manned West Texas squad trying to rebuild after a 1-9 season, and A & M was facing still powerful Louisiana State University.

In taking the victory before a record-breaking crowd of 30,000, the Raiders exhibited one of their strongest offenses in several years. Tech's attack rolled up 474 yards, 323 of it rushing (a weakness last season), to 194 for West Texas.

In view of the large turnout, Tech officials are bracing for a heavy demand for tickets to the Raiders' next home game, with Baylor University October 15, and remember, night games now start at 7:30 P. M.

To You

When you trade in Quitaque, what happens to the money you spend? That's easy to answer! A large part of it comes right back to YOU. This happens in several ways:

- (2) Merchants employ local people; the more business they do, the larger their payrolls . . . and the men and women they employ spend their money in Quitaque too.

Collister, Chief Agronomist and Assistant Director of the High Plains Research Foundation, has named an honorary Trustee of the International Sesamum Foundation. He is one of the three scientists throughout the world to be honored by such an appointment.

Dr. Collister's appointment came in recognition of his pioneer work in development of improved varieties of sesame. TAX-MAN SAM SEZ:

The Internal Revenue Service still has several thousand refund checks that belong to North Texans. Every year a lot of tax payers fail to write plain enough for the tax folks to read. Then the electronic machines fail to spell some taxpayer's name right on their refund check. Due to several causes the Internal Revenue Service ends up with quite a few thousand returned refund checks. They work hard at trying to find the taxpayer's correct name and address, but a lot of folks also add to the confusion by moving and not telling Internal Revenue of their new address. If you were due a refund refund check this year, if you have not received your refund check yet, if you have not been notified that your return is being given a pre-refund audit, you should write to Internal Revenue. You may be one of the several thousand who may be pleasantly surprised by having a refund check forwarded to them.

LATEST MISSILES TO BE ON DISPLAY AT PANHANDLE-SOUTH PLAINS FAIR

A dynamic trailer-mounted Nike-Hercules missile display will be one of the featured exhibits at the 43rd annual Panhandle-South Plains Fair scheduled in Lubbock, September 26, through October 1.

The big brother of the Nike Ajax is another step forward in the Army's efforts to "improve the breed." The display at the Fair will be manned by a complete team of demonstration personnel.

The 39-foot-long missile is substantially faster and has a much greater range than its predecessor, the Nike Ajax. The ground-to-air missile can destroy entire formations of aircraft, as well as single targets and any nuclear weapons that they may be carrying.

The 31.5-inch-in-diameter missile has been protecting some U. S. cities since June, 1958. As of October, 1959, the Nike Hercules has destroyed targets at altitudes above 100,000 feet, a target moving faster than 2,000 miles an hour and a target at a range in excess of 75 miles.

The dart-shaped missile to be displayed at the Fair, is 27 feet long. The missile's booster is 14.5 feet long. It is launched by remote control, and is given its initial impetus by a solid propellant booster rocket and then accelerated by a solid sustainer motor. The Nike-Hercules can be armed with either an atomic or conventional warhead. The missile, will be displayed at the Fair free of charge.

According to some estimates, overall production of plastics in the United States will double during the next decade, reaching an annual output of about 11 billion pounds by 1970.

Third of a series —

With the approach of the centennial of the Civil War, flag manufacturers expect to see an increase in the sale of both the U. S. flag and the flag of the Confederacy. But chances are very few of the Confederate flags sold will be the one adopted by the Confederate Congress. More than likely most of them will be reproductions of the flag most familiar to Southerners—the so-called Battle Flag shown above.

The familiar blue X with 13 white stars on a red background was never officially adopted by the Confederacy, but it was the only flag many Confederate soldiers ever saw. It first came into use in September, 1861, because in the heat and dust of the battle of Manassas two months before, Confederates had had trouble distinguishing the official "Stars and Bars" from the Stars and Stripes.

General P. G. T. Beauregard, who was up against superior Union odds, was anxiously waiting for reinforcements and when they finally came, he had trouble from a distance deciding whether they were Confederates carrying the Stars and Stripes or Federals carrying the Stars and Bars. As a result of the confusion at Manassas, the Battle Flag was brought into use and was the flag that followed the Confederate cause to the end.

The flag which Beauregard's reinforcements carried was the first official flag of the Confederacy and was first flown from the capitol at Montgomery, Alabama, at sunrise on March 4, 1861. Also called the "First National," the flag was composed of two red bars or stripes and a white one with seven white stars—one for each state at the time of adoption in a circular pattern on a blue field.

A design for the new flag was adopted by the Confederate Congress on May 1, 1863. Called the "Second National" or the "Stainless Banner", the new flag was pure white with the battle flag superimposed in the upper left hand corner.

But again objections were raised. When it was hanging limp, the flag resembled a flag of truce. So on March 4, 1865, little more than a month before Appomatox, the Confederate Congress got around to ordering that a red bar be placed vertically across the end of the "Stainless Banner". This was the so-called "Last National" flag of the Confederacy.

Another flag, identified with the Confederacy but never officially adopted, was the "Bonnie Blue Flag," made famous by a song sung throughout the war. According to most accounts, this flag, a single white star on blue background, was inspired by the flag carried by Texans in their fight for independence from Mexico.

In 1861, Harry McCarthy, an Irish comedian, sang a song entitled "Bonnie Blue Flag" in New Orleans. His theatre audience was composed mostly of Texas volunteers on their way to service in the Confederate army. McCarthy's sister carried a blue flag with a white star in honor of the Texans and the response to the song was so enthusiastic that it became popular in the South, as did the flag which was used until the Confederacy adopted its own banner.

The "Bonnie Blue Flag" was used as a secession banner in Montgomery during the first session of the Provisional Congress of the Confederacy and the Confederate flag came to be called both the Stars and Bars and the Bonnie Blue Flag.

I'm having some sketches of the five Confederate flags drawn up and if you'd like a copy, send a stamped envelope and I'll send you one. And if you know why there are 13 stars in the Battle Flag, send the information along. I couldn't find it in my references.

MRS. C. L. DUNN HONORED WITH PRETTY BRIDAL SHOWER

The lovely home of Mrs. Jack Strange of Silverton was the scene of a pretty bridal shower honoring Mrs. C. L. Dunn (nee Pat Vines) Tuesday, September 20.

The punch and cake squares carried out the bride's chosen colors of white and turquoise.

Thirty-six guests registered. Some who were unable to attend sent gifts. Mrs. Dunn received many useful and beautiful gifts.

Vester Spencer was taken to People's Hospital at Floydada Saturday afternoon. The cause of his trouble has not been determined at this writing.
