AREA RECEIVES AN INCH OF RAIN

Faces are brighter and considerably shorter here in Quitaque Thursday morning following an inch of rain that fell between the hours of 10 o'clock Wednesday night and 5 o'clock Thursday morning.

Most of the rainfall was of the slow, gentle variety that a thirsty land soaked up almost as fast as it fell, with little or no runoff on the farmland.

Just about everyone that was questioned, in every direction from town, reported that they caught an inch of rain.

Quite a bit of cotton is up here in the valley; some have cotton in the ground that they believe will come up now, but some have not planted yet, conserving what little moisture was in the ground and hoping that more rain would come in time.

Chances look pretty good for more rain today or night.

It is a fact that things look considerably better than they did 24 hours ago.

LAST RITES HELD FOR WILL GRAHAM

Last rites for W. A. Graham, 95, retired rancher and land owner who died last Sunday night about 10 o'clock, were held at 10 a. m. Tuesday in Blackburn - Shaw Memorial Chapel in Amarillo.

Dr. Jordan Grooms, pastor of the Polk Street Methodist Church officiated at the funeral service, assisted by the Rev. Strauss Atkinson, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Canyon.

Entombment was in Llano Mausoleum.

Pallbearers were C. E. Lyle, Denton Smith, Frank Kimbrough, Leon Middleton, Dennis Reynolds and Archie Castleberry.

Mr. Graham, who was one of this area's early settlers, was born September 21, 1869, in Tennessee. In 1890 he moved to the Claude area which was then known as Mulberry Flats.

Mr. Graham had extensive holdings of wheat and pasture lands in the Quitaque, Silverton and Happy areas.

He brought his widowed mother, his sister and several brothers to live on the Mulberry Flats land where he planted the first Kaffir corn in Armstrong County.

After the family arrived there was no way to raise money until the row crops were harvested so Mr. Graham worked for $1 a day hauling rock and cutting timber in the brakes for the rock-constructed jail.

He brought the first horse-drawn threshers into the Panhandle area by financing the freight bill for custom threshing operators.

He was married to Miss Osha Osburn at Goodnight and they came to Quitaque in 1906.

Mr. Graham worked for the Summer Rec Program Begins Monday

Around 70 boys and girls signed up for swimming and other events in the summer recreation program Wednesday afternoon. Coach Gene King, program director has reported. He says that others will be signing up from now until Monday when activities begin.

As was the case last year, the first year for the Quitaque summer program, swimming is going to be the number one activity for the local youngsters. When questioned earlier this year well over a hundred indicated that they were planning on taking swimming.

Coach King said that the swim schedule is set up, and meetings are slated for next week concerning the other activities. Interest seems to be lagging in the baseball program and it is hoped that others will sign up for that program. Coach King has called for a meeting of the men who will help out in that program, the meeting to take place next Thursday at 5:30 p. m. at the high school. Those who are going to work in the tennis program are asked to meet with Coach King at the high school at 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

The gym will be open one night each week for those who want to play basketball. It is emphasized that this will not be an organized or supervised program and there will not be an adult in the gym. It will simply be an open time for basketball recreation. Interscholastic League rules do not permit a supervised program of basketball during the summer months.

High school boys will have the gym on Tuesday nights beginning at 7:30. High school girls will have the gym on Monday nights, also beginning at 7:30. Junior Hi boys and girls will both play on Thursday nights, beginning at 7:30.

Coach King said that swimmers will be divided into the following groups: Group I will be the Beginners, ages 6, 7, and 8; Group II will be 9 and 10 year-olds; Group III, 11, 12 and 13; Group IV will be the 14-year and up Beginners; and Group V will be the Intermediates.

The groups will be divided into 3 classes of swimmers: the beginners who will be under constant supervision, the intermediates who will be given some freedom, but will be under watch at all times, and the senior group, who will swim as they choose.

The first week's swimming will be tests to determine which class of swimmers each boy or girl will be assigned. The senior swimmers will be given the most severe tests.

Considerable difficulty was experienced last year in arranging transportation to and from the pool at Silverton every swim day and some were forced to take their cars many times.

This year parents who have children taking part in the program must take their cars and a load of children to the pool twice during the season. Coach King is asking for volunteers to take their cars the first two weeks, by which time a schedule will be worked out and each one can be notified when they will take their cars. If you will volunteer to take a group during the first 2 weeks of the swim program, will you please get in touch with Coach King and let him know when you can go.

Fees for the summer program will be the same as last year but there will be one difference—the fees must be paid before a boy or girl can take part in the activities. The recreation program is self supporting and the fees are needed to finance the program.

The first two weeks swimming schedule will be as follows:

MONDAY, JUNE 15 —
9:00 - 10:00 Group I
10:00 - 11:00 Group II
9:00 - 11:00 Group V

THE QUITAQUE TRIBUNE

THURSDAY, JUNE 11, 1964

Shopping for dinnerware this spring? You can pick a peek of pretty patterns from the brand-new array of designs just now being introduced in fine melamine dinnerware. More than a hundred new and colorful patterns are reaching the stores from the different manufacturers in the field. Chances are you'll find dozens that will delight you.

One leading style trend seen in the 1964 lines is toward more abstract designs and modern geometric borders, offered in both vivid and muted colors in nearly a third of the season's new patterns. For the first time, these contemporary styles are being introduced in almost equal numbers with floral designs, the long-time favorite type of decoration for melamine dinnerware.

If you happen to prefer leaf motifs or fruit designs, you can easily find these, too. They're widely available, ranking third and fourth, respectively, in the number of new patterns on the market. Also making news this season are the very new "textured" and "stoneware" finishes; more multi-color decorations; more border-to-border designs in handsome bold styling, and additional entries in two-tone "color on color" bowls and cups.

Among the latest colors to appear in this modern breakfast-resistant dinnerware are a rich dark Java brown; blueberry, a deep-toned blue; and charcoal, used with dramatic effect against stark white backgrounds.

Most frequently seen accent colors in the new patterns are those in the green and turquoise family—avocado, lime, mint, absinthe, bright turquoise and Bristol blue. Next most popular accent hues are shades of brown, ranging from the deep tones to the lighter sandalwood, taupe, beige and butterscotch tones.

Osburn of Denver, Colo. Mrs. Griffin and the children returned to Denver with her mother to Quitaque for a few more days before returning to duty at the Air Force Base at Sherman.

PATTERNS FOR PROGRESS

What makes a community grow?

Our recent PATTERNS FOR PROGRESS ads have summarized basic economic development factors. The series continues as we advance to community development, which is made possible by sound economic development.

The West Texas community of Ballinger is a shining example. With organization, teamwork and sound planning, Ballinger has developed a $400,000 Memorial Hospital (pictured above) . . . 17 new commercial buildings . . . modernization of 16 others . . . 21 new businesses . . . a new community center . . . major park improvements . . . a frontier museum . . . and the adoption of a new city charter.

Ballinger is an outstanding PATTERN FOR PROGRESS.

When such a community spirit seeks new industry, even more growth comes. National studies show payrolls from 100 basic new jobs increase local personal income by $660,000 . . . bank deposits by $229,000 . . . annual retail sales by $331,000 . . . add three new retail outlets . . . increase population by 359 including 91 school children . . . add 100 new homes . . . 97 more car registrations . . . and create 65 new non-manufacturing jobs.

WTU's area representatives will assist growth-conscious communities in planning for community development programs and activities. This service is available on request through your WTU local manager.

FLYING QUEENS' COACH ACCEPTS POSITION WITH TULIA BANK

Harley J. Redin, who is widely known for his coaching of the Hutcherson Flying Queens of Wayland after a successful career as coach of the Wayland Pioneers, has resigned from classroom responsibilities and full-time association with Wayland Baptist College to join the First State Bank, Tulia, in an executive capacity, according to President Roy C. McClung, of Wayland.

Redin will continue as coach of the Queens, serving as coach from Nov. 1 to March 15.

Redin assumed his new position on June 1.

"We are pleased to have Mr. Redin come with the First State Bank," says Perry Whittemore, president. "We are also glad that it is possible for him to continue as coach of the Flying Queens during the basketball season, as well as serve as a First State Bank executive the year-round."

President McClung expressed regret that Wayland would lose other services of Redin while expressing the appreciation of the college to the Tulia bank for working out an arrangement to allow Redin to continue as Queens coach.

Redin, a native of Silverton, has been on the Wayland faculty as associate professor of health and physical education since 1947, coming from graduate work at North Texas State. He is a reserve captain in the Marine Corps with which he served during World War II before going to NTSU.

The Redins plan to duplicate in Tulia the house they recently completed in Plainview, thinking it would be the last house they would build for the family. Construction should start immediately as they hope to have it ready so that their sons, Kenny and Van, can enroll in Tulia schools in September.

CONGRESSMAN WALTER ROGER'S WASHINGTON REPORT

It is Tuesday, November 3, 1964, election day. Twilight blankets the Eastern Seaboard. The polling places are closing. The election tallies and the computerized forecasts "naming" our next President are flashing westward across the Plains and mountains to the States washed by the Pacific. In the West the polls are still open and will be for several hours more. From television and radio, millions upon millions of Western voters are learning before they have voted how election trends are developing. The computers are predicting how their votes will count—for a winner, for a loser, in a landslide, as deciding ballots in a close race.

To what extent is the Presidential vote in the West influenced by early returns from the East?

In his classic study of a Presidential election, "The Making of the President 1960," Theodore H. White observed, "The psychology of the bandwagon, of being with the victor, may effect ten, twenty or fifty thousand California votes; conversely, the psychology of emergency may, if there seems to be the slightest hope, rush slugs out of their homes to vote their convictions. Both parties focus tightly on Connecticut on election evening to transmit early returns to influence the California vote."

For several reasons Connecticut is the key Eastern State in early-return considerations. It is populous; the Democratic and Republican parties are well organized; its voters ballot on voting machines, and the results are all but completely tabulated half an hour after the polls close.

Polls in Connecticut close two and three hours before the polls close in California, Washington and Oregon—four and five hours before they close in Alaska and Hawaii. If early returns do influence elections, there is less time but still ample time for votes also to be influenced in Midwest and Mountain States after the tallies flash from Connecticut and other States up and down the East Coast.

Constant improvements are being made in reporting techniques of television, radio and the printed press as well as in communications technology. The effectiveness of computer vote analysis is improving. Unlike pre-election polls, which (as we have seen this year) are shaded by uncertainties and "undecideds," data computers can predict election outcome with cold accuracy providing the calculations are based on returns from carefully selected precincts with clear histories of past voter performance.

What, if anything should be done if elections are influenced by communicating early returns into areas where voting has not been completed? There is no easy answer. It is my view that the Federal government can not prohibit wire or wireless communications from disseminating early returns. I would be opposed to any attempt to impose on the press media or private citizens any restraint on relaying election returns in their possession. To impose such restraints would violate the First Amendment to the Constitution and the prohibition against censorship contained in the Communications Act.

I believe the answer, if one is required, must be found in amending election laws or writing new ones. State legislatures might agree to a uniform election code prohibiting the release of Federal election returns in one State until the polls have closed in all States. As a last resort, would the people of the country be willing for their Congress to separate Federal elections from the election process as it is now constituted and in that way establish time control over the release of Federal election returns? Perhaps some day we will have to wrestle with a solution to this question: The Marshall Islands, now a U. S. Trust Territory in the Pacific, are not hours behind the East Coast—they are a full day ahead of it. In some distant year, if the islanders do attain the vote, will Americans be saying, "As go the Marshall Islands, so goes the Nation?"

Re-embroidered floral motifs enhanced the bodice and bouffant skirt which extended to a chapel sweep. A nosegay of illusion roses held her shoulder length veil and she carried a cascade arrangement of white roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. Kenneth Fuller was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Misses Celia Rosenwald, Margaret Reese and Janan Baldwin. Nelson Wertman was best man; groomsmen and ushers were Johnny Kenehan, Raymond Richardson and Monty Monzingo.

The bride is a graduate of Amarillo High School and was selected one of 27 students to appear in the 1963 Campus Review of "Six Flags Over Texas." She is employed with Blackburn Bros.

The bride is the sister of Mrs. Bob Cochran of Quitaque. Mrs. Cochran and her daughter Kay attended the wedding.

LIBERALIZED LOAN PROGRAM ANNOUNCED BY SMALL BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

The very small businessman—chiefly operators of retail shops or service establishments—many of whom have had a hard time obtaining financing in the past—will now find it much easier to qualify for a Government loan, Jack Teddlie, Lubbock Branch Manager of the Small Business Administration, said today.

The new, liberalized loan program was announced by President Johnson at White ceremonies in Washington on May 26, which Mr. Teddlie attended, along with SBA Administrator Eugene P. Foley, Cortland J. Silver, Chairman of National SBA's Advisory Council, and other business and Government officials.

The White House ceremonies, in connection with National Small Business Week, were the climax of a trip to Washington by Mr. Teddlie along with other SBA regional directors and branch managers to review the Agency's activities.

"President Johnson's Administration is very definitely concerned with the welfare of small business," Teddlie said. "He assured us that he has small businessmen in his mind every day and his interest was clearly demonstrated by his willingness to take time out from a very busy schedule personally to greet the SBA representatives."

The SBA's new small loan program reflects a new emphasis on helping the very small businesses, Teddlie said.

SBA Administrator Foley has expressed the view that the Agency in the past has not done as much as it should to help the businessman at the lower end of the small business scale, he said. Yet they are often the businessmen most in need of financial help, and those who have the most difficulty in obtaining it.

The new small loan program was designed to meet this need, Teddlie said. Under this program SBA will make loans to small firms up to a maximum of $15,000 for as long as 6 years under greatly liberalized terms.

Primary emphasis will be on the character of the applicant and his past record of meeting obligations, and no application will be turned away merely because he lacks collateral to pledge as security for the loan. "SBA believes that you have to take a chance on people," Teddlie said, "and we will take a calculated risk in cases where we believe the applicant has a favorable earnings potential sufficient to repay the loan."

"We have simplified our procedures and requirements for these loans. We believe it is important to help the many thousands of struggling small firms, as a means of creating new jobs, and stimulating the Nation's economy."

"It is clear," Teddlie said, "that the SBA will have an important role in President Johnson's war against poverty. More and more it is becoming apparent that a thriving small business community can do much toward taking up the slack in unemployment."

He said that top SBA officials in Washington are also concerned with the large number of business mergers which may be a threat to small business and the problem of industrial conversion from defense to commercial production.

Teddlie added that SBA officials are giving serious thought to the effects on small business in the future as the Government cuts back on defense production and the economy converts primarily to provide for civilian needs.

The Amarillo City Panhellenic Council (which is composed of the nineteen organized sorority alumnae groups of the city) is holding a forum and Coke party at the Tascosa High School Commons at three o'clock Sunday, June 14th. Girls from several area colleges will be there to speak about the various aspects of college life and sorority membership.

This will in no sense be a "rush party." It is designed simply to acquaint girls with sororities and college life. All graduating senior girls are cordially invited to attend.

All girls going through rush must be registered with the Amarillo City Panhellenic. Registration will take place at the forum. If unable to attend the forum please contact Mrs. Russell Sahn at 3901 Lynette.

NOTE TO TRIBUNE SUBSCRIBER:

Six Flags Over Texas is located at Arlington, midway between Fort Worth and Dallas.

People who have been to both Disneyland and Six Flags say that Six Flags compares very favorably to the California attraction. The editors visited Six Flags in the first year of its operation and enjoyed it very much. It is reported to be an even better attraction now. We can wholeheartedly recommend it to anyone. It is better to time a visit to Six Flags on a day other than a holiday or special occasion. Some of the young people who attended the special Baptist days at Six Flags reported that the crowds were tremendous at that time.

We hope you can pay it a visit when you come to Texas again.
