SPORTS

by Joe Kelly

It was almost unbelievable. In fact, even when you looked at the scoreboard it was hard to believe. Here was Texas Tech shutting out Colorado and dominating action.

And, when it was all over, Tech fans breathed a big sigh and said to themselves well, for a defense that was pretty bad much of last year, there's been a big change. Now all we have to do is come up with an offense to match.

There were areas of concern in Coach Steve Sloan's mind following the game. He was particularly concerned about the kicking game, and it will draw much attention the next two weeks.

Kicking wasn't all that bad, but it wasn't the kicking itself that was bothersome. David Kuykendall averaged 40.3 yards on six punts and Brian Hall booted a 30-yard field goal and three of three extra point attempts.

Of concern, however, was a pair of fumbles on punt returns and a return of only four yards on three punts. Also, Kuykendall was aided tremendously by good rolls on his punts.

Sloan didn't know if the punt fumbles were the result of having used the kicking machine in practice, or what. But he assured writers that Tech would work on that phase for sure. It was about the only area that wasn't pleasing.

The defense, of course, drew the most applause and rightfully so. The Raiders were up against a big, strong Colorado team that had the potential to jam the ball down Tech's throat.

And, in Tony Reed, the Buffs had a back who was harder to squeeze than a greased pig. Reed scares you with his speed and quickness, as well as his ability to break tackles. So, there was the potential to embarrass Tech in the home opener.

The Raiders' defense was equal to the challenge and came up with the big play numerous times. In fact, the first big occasion was when it was 3-0, Tech, and the Buffs had the ball on the Raider 37, fourth and nine.

Thomas Howard and Jim Krahl put the stop on Jim Kelleher and the punts were thwarted. And that's the way it went throughout the balmy evening, except for one third quarter burst.

Howard was little short of sensational with 11 tackles, six assists and two interceptions. The former Dunbar star was all over the field and ended up being Tech captain for the week and game. It was a brilliant performance.

As Sloan said later, the Tech team has a great attitude and it "was a team victory, highlighted by the defense." He added that there is good team attitude and that there is good communication between coaches and players, which now is obvious.

The offense didn't exactly sparkle, which was both a surprise and a tribute to Colorado's defense. The Raiders gained little the second half, but they didn't have the ball much.

In fact, Colorado ran 24 more plays than Tech and controlled the ball longer. All of which means nothing if you can't put points on the board. Still, the Raiders will have to show more of an attack and they still have the potential.

All in all, it was a pleasing opener against a tough, talented club. One game isn't the season, but the victory ought to give the Raiders both confidence and momentum.

They have two weeks to get ready for New Mexico, followed by another two weeks to prepare for A&M.

As has been said previously, it's a screwy schedule this season, with six weeks between the first and second games. Wonder if fans can wait that long?

A couple of surprises or three on the first weekend involving conference teams. Houston made an auspicious debut with its victory over Baylor, while TCU was a disappointment in its loss to SMU. And how about Texas losing?

Three of the four conference teams won against outside competition and that is pleasing. Arkansas had a tougher battle than expected, while A&M apparently failed to generate much offense.

As for Texas, the glaring weakness that was suspected at quarterback showed up. Under the wishbone T you must have a superb quarterback, no matter what the other material. Texas obviously has the material, but quarterback is weak.

Mike Cordaro barely beat out Ted Constanzo for the No. 1 position, but Constanzo was less than adequate last year. If there isn't sharp improvement, the Longhorns could be in for a lot of trouble this year.

Nationally, the first big weekend was dotted with shockers, such as LSU tying Nebraska, Ole Miss beating Alabama, UCLA trouncing Arizona State, Pitt whipping Notre Dame, North Carolina over Florida and Duke beating Tennessee.

It might be indicative of what's in store.

Mahon and Curtins Confer on Efforts To Improve Image of Agriculture

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Opportunities for communicating the story of American agriculture of urban consumers have significantly improved and represent one of the most important challenges confronting the U.S. farm community.

These were conclusions reached by Lubbock Congressman George Mahon and U.S. Senator Carl Curtis, who met Thursday to review program results achieved over the past three years by the Agriculture Council of America, a non-profit and non-partisan organization formed three years ago with the personal help of the West Texas Democrat and the Nebraska Republican. ACA's goal is to achieve better understanding of farm problems at the national level.

"The results at this point are quite encouraging," Mahon commented. "Although it is a relatively new effort, and the task set before it is one of great magnitude, impressive progress is being made because for the first time the farmer and those who are in business to serve the farmer are cooperating closely in a joint program of communication."

Mahon, who heads the House Appropriations Committee, and Curtis, top-ranking Republican on the Senate Finance and Agriculture Committees, brought the original group together which launched an exploratory study to determine how to get the farmer's message across nationally.

Since that time ACA has launched a national "Farm Line," a toll-free telephone exchange which provides farmers and people in local farm-related businesses an opportunity to talk directly without any "go-betweens" to national leaders. Both Mahon and Curtis, as well as such other well-known national figures as Senators Bob Dole of Kansas and Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, and Congressman Omar Bureson of Texas have participated in monthly sessions of the panel. Topics covered have included the grain embargo, estate taxes, land use problems, financing for young farmers, and the drought situation.

Other programs conducted by ACA have included public service films, a national exchange visit program between city and farm families, a speakers' bureau for urban audiences, a fact service for the urban media and other programs.

"It's such a positive story to tell," Mahon noted. "As a matter of fact, the farm story is really the miracle of the century—a story that every man, woman and child in this nation should take pride in. I believe ACA's programs are now reaching the level of effectiveness where this story is becoming better understood by the urban bloc in Congress and the people generally."

"I can't help but compare the situation today to three years ago when emotions were running at a very high level with housewives boycotting our basic farm products. We were faced then with price controls, with a threatened rollback on prices, another embargo, and so many other adverse factors which could be directly attributed to misunderstanding."

"Today for the first time I believe city people are beginning to wake up to the fact that the farmer simply must have a profit to stay in business—and his economic situation right now is not good. Farm prices are too low—and this is a problem that ACA hopefully can bring dramatically to the attention of the urban consumer. If we don't have adequate stability in agriculture we won't have adequate supply, and the long-range price to the consumer will be greater."

Portions of the meeting were filmed for subsequent screening on nationwide TV.

ACA Chairman E.L. Hatcher, a Colorado wheat and beef producer, noted that "the Congress has changed so much in just the past few years. Congressman Mahon and Senator Curtis correctly sensed several years ago that something had to be done to communicate our message to the consumer. I'm just glad that enough people recognized the significance of this challenge and acted on it. Otherwise we would still be crying over spilled milk. We are particularly grateful for the strong support we have received from Congressman Mahon and Senator Curtis because they emphasized at the very beginning that farmers had to concentrate much more on lobbying the consumer instead of the Congress."

Formed in 1973, ACA is supported by agribusiness companies, by commodity organizations such as the Texas Grain Sorghum Producers Association and the National Cotton Council; by local farm-related businesses such as implement, seed, feed and fertilizer dealers; and by local banks and the farm credit system. It is also supported by individual farmers in every major agricultural state in the U.S.

Shallowater Girl Scout News

All Brownie and Girl Scout Troops met this last week to recruit members. There was a good turnout in each group but we are hoping for more girls to join before the end of registration which is Sept. 23.

On Sept. 8 for their regular meeting in the Club House the girls of 5th and 6th grade had a feast on watermelon, furnished by Melvin Tischler of Lubbock. For their handicraft project they made Horseshoe Nail Windmills on shingles. Songs and games followed the watermelon seed spitting contest which was won by Carolyn Dever for spitting her seed the farthest.

These girls are really going to have a big time this year again, won't you join them. On September 24, 25 and 26 the girls are going to Camp Rio Blanco for a two day, two night campout. For most of the girls this is their 2nd campout and they are really looking forward to camping again.

There are several uniforms available if your daughter doesn't have one, and remember our deadline for registration is Sept. 23.

For any further information, contact any of our Scout Leaders, Paulette Lamb 873-3487, Shirley Tipton 832-4072, or Judi Tischler 832-4339.

Sheridan's Ride

by Jack Sheridan

It seems like only yesterday that I was commenting on the fact that the craggy-faced, muscular Charles Bronson turned out a picture every week of his life! I was then referring, of course, to his current-at-the-Fox film, "St. Ives," in which he plays a crime reporter on leave to do a novel (fortunate man) and winding up as a go-between in a ransom of stolen papers from a peculiar tycoon.

Well, mercy! lo, at the next-door Cinema West this past week up Pops, guess who?, that self-same Charles Bronson in ANOTHER film, this time a curious item called "From Noon Till Three." This one is out of United Artists. The former was from the Warners stable, which proves that he plays musical chairs with his relaxing outfits as well.

The former film was notable for a man usually associated with violence in that there wasn't much of that this time; it was all low-key and contained.

This newest of the Bronson parade, "From Noon Till Three" is yet another paradox in the man's imagery. For the film, which stars the man and his real-life wife, Jill Ireland, who manages to snare a lead in most of his films over the years, is a kind of cutesy, puzzling entry that has a kind of cuckoo's nest ending.

What it is all about is his membership in a bank robbing gang, their march into ambush in an intriguing opening on a heist plan, the gimmick of a fantasy thrown in here, and the actual march on the little town by the gang to do what we have seen projected through Bronson's fantasy. They come to a huge old Victorian mansion miles from absolutely nowhere (the biggest one isolated building set since "Giant" I am sure) and, because Bronson has lost his horse through a broken leg—mercy-killing, he is left behind "from noon till three" while the band goes on to town to complete the heist. Now, the lady of the mansion is a comely widow, with two black servants (who are propitiously gone to town on the advent of Bronson's arrival) and, by hook and crook, Mr. Bronson moves in on Amanda (for that is her name) and brings the flush of deprived womanhood back to her pale cheek in a deceptive but triumphant ploy.

Pursued by a posse Bronson comes across an itinerant dentist, substitutes clothes and drives off in the gaily-painted wagon, while the posse shoots what they think is Bronson.

This does go on, doesn't it? Well, Bronson gets hooked into a year's jail sentence because the ill-fated dentist copped the gold from his patients' teeth, while Amanda has a book written about their great love, she and the wayfaring outlaw, and it is a best-seller world-wide (even in Japan) and is the "Romeo and Juliet" of western times. This proves a bonanza for the town which exploits the whole thing, even providing Bronson's final resting place, for which he pays a buck to gaze on his last epitaph. He confronts Amanda again but she will have nothing to do with him, until he convinces her that he is the true love alive, well and willing. This cannot be; it will destroy dreams of the world, of romance and true love, and she terminates the relationship.

I'll let you see the film, if you must, for the remainder of the charade. I don't think "From Noon Till Three" is neither good or bad. I don't know if it is comedy or satire. I think it's a sly put-on (maybe not so "sly" at that) but the twists are different and Bronson and his Mrs. play well together, if tongue-in-cheek, and it's better than some more publicized family and R-rated epics currently around. It's PG-rated and runs about an hour and 40 minutes, give and take. Oh yes, it's at the Cinema West, whose next attraction is the sequel, "The Return of a Man Called Horse," with Richard Harris again playing the Englishman with the heart of a Sioux.

There's been an import Italian feature, "Loving Cousins" playing the past week at the Lindsey Theater. It's brutally dubbed into English, surprising for a Carlo Ponti film, and it is R-rated and deals with sex among among the land people of the country. Sonia has been around, as has most of the cast, with the notable exception of the one Sonia loves, her cousin, Nico. Well, it takes 87 minutes to get Sonia where she intended to go in the first place. The only known player in the cast is Hugh Griffith who plays a reprobate with his usual expertise. Susan Player is the lady who must teach Nico the rudiments of love and she's nice to look at, as is the Italian countryside. The rest of the film is forgettable and will pass on, I'm sure, at the end of its one-week booking.

I had hoped to avoid a comment about the "Blue Bird" which closes its run at the Winchester Theater with Thursday's performances. The advance word on the film had cooled me considerably and what I saw, regretfully, only bore out the ominous forecast. This is a screen treatment, with U.S. and Soviet cooperation, of the Maurice Maeterlinck classic, about two children searching for the Bluebird of Happiness. It was attempted long ago by Fox Films with Shirley Temple starred in a Temple-oriented mish-mash. Now it comes to total disaster under the knowledgeable of veteran, supreme director, George Cukor, and with a cast that features Elizabeth Taylor, Jane Fonda, Ava Gardner, Cicely Tyson, Robert Morely, Harry Andrews, Will Geer ("The Waltons"), and a number of other stellar names. The whole think is very lavish, very dull. It runs just under two hours and is, of course, G-rated.

Miss Taylor's voice is always a trial and she tries four (not one) roles here, playing the Mother, Light, Witch and Maternal Love. Fonda is Night, princess of darkness; Gardner is Luxury (and the best of the lot), and Tyson is the cat.

"The Blue Bird" is not all that bad. It's just with the tremendous reserves to draw upon in all departments and production know-how, it's just not that good, either. Too bad. But—they tried.

A "Sense"-ational Sauce

Tantalize the nose, delight the eye and reward the palate with spaghetti and meat sauce. Quick, easy and hearty, this favorite dish is equally at home in a camper, on a boat or at a backyard cookout.

The secret of Spaghetti Sauce with Beef is in a packet of Good Seasons Italian salad dressing mix. Simply add the contents, right from the envelope, to the other sauce ingredients and, as the mixture simmers, all of the flavoring seeps through the sauce.

Summer is no time to spend hours stewing over a hot stove. Here is a recipe that does the work for you.

Spaghetti Sauce With Beef

|----------------------------------|---------------------------------------|
| 3/4 pound ground beef | 1 envelope Italian salad dressing mix |
| 3/4 cup chopped onions | 2 teaspoons sugar |
| 2 tablespoons oil | |
| 3 cans (8 oz. each) tomato sauce | |

Brown ground beef with onions in oil in skillet or large saucepan. Stir in remaining ingredients. Bring to a boil, cover and simmer 10 minutes. Serve over hot cooked spaghetti. Makes about 3 cups sauce, or 3 or 4 servings.

The heat pump is a home heating system that actually captures heat that would otherwise be wasted. The electric heat pump actually squeezes warmth out of cold outside air and uses that warmth inside your home.

Series of Plays Scheduled in Lubbock Next Week

The Dallas Theater Center will bring a series of short plays to Lubbock next week.

Entitled "Close to Home," the play series deals with problems typical of the human situation.

Co-sponsoring the series are the Lubbock Cultural Affairs Council, Junior League of Lubbock, First Presbyterian Church, St. Christopher's Episcopal Church, Texas Tech Program for Older Texans and other community groups.

The plays deal with problems of the aging, rising crime rate and child abuse. Following each play will be a symposium on community problems, led by Dr. Richard Haight of Southern Methodist University. Local community leaders will be present to contribute to discussions.

"The Golden Years" will be presented at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 21 at Lewis Hall of the First Presbyterian Church, site of all the presentations. The play will deal with problems faced by the aged—including financial, medical and interpersonal problems that can be solved through increased community awareness.

"Open House" focuses on the problem of the spiraling crime rate. It will be presented at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 22 at the church.

The final play in the series will be "What About Billy?" Spotlighting child abuse, the play will be presented at 10 a.m. Sept. 23.

There will be no admission charge, and all three plays will be open to the public. The performances are free through a grant from the Texas Committee for the Humanities and Public Policy and the National Endowment for the Humanities.

SUMMARY OF PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS
GENERAL ELECTION NOV. 2, 1976

NUMBER ONE ON THE BALLOT (S.J.R. 49)

Repealing Sections 49-d and 49-d-1 of Article III of the Texas Constitution, S.J.R. 49 amends Section 49-c of Article III of the Texas Constitution to provide for and authorize an additional $400 million in Texas water development bonds that may be issued on approval of two-thirds of the members of each house of the Legislature for such water development purposes as the Legislature may prescribe.

The amendment contains a specific prohibition against the use of state funds for the development of water resources from the Mississippi River and also requires that before any single water development project may be undertaken requiring the expenditure of more than $35 million in bond proceeds, it must be approved by resolution of the Legislature.

The amendment removes the constitutional requirement that certain revenues must be used to retire water development and water quality enhancement bonds and removes the constitutional interest rate limit on such bonds.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment authorizing an increase of $400 million in the amount of Texas Water Development Bonds that may be issued on approval of two-thirds of the legislature; amending and consolidating provisions of Sections 49-c, 49-d and 49-d-1 of Article III of the Texas Constitution; and repealing Sections 49-d and 49-d-1 of Article III of the Texas Constitution."

NUMBER TWO ON THE BALLOT (H.J.R. 99)

H.J.R. 99 proposes an amendment to the Texas Constitution to increase from $100 million to $200 million the aggregate principle amount of Texas water development bonds which may be issued and outstanding by the Texas Water Development Board to provide grants and loans for water quality enhancement purposes as established by the Legislature.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"A constitutional amendment to increase from $100 million to $200 million the amount of Texas Water Development Bonds that may be issued for water quality enhancement purposes."

HORSE TALES

Mustangs Thumped

by Steven Wilson

Shallowater's Mustangs lost their first game of this football season this past Friday night, dropping their record to 1-1. Ralls' Rabbits handed the Mustangs the loss by outscoring them 26-13. The score does not actually indicate how closely the game was contested.

Pete Alvarado scored Shallowater's first touchdown on a 65-yard punt return; the score also happened to be the first of the game. Ralls came back to tie the score at 7-7 with a 70-yard punt return of their own. The third score of the game belonged to Ralls giving them the lead at 14-7. The Mustangs never gave up and an interception by Clay Dixon set-up Shallowater's second score. Billy Glenn was the player who actually carried the ball across the goal line. The touchdown came on a wide sweep that covered 25 yards. A two-point conversion attempt failed, leaving the Mustangs down by one.

Ralls stretched their lead from one to seven with another touchdown. After three unsuccessful extra-point attempts the score stood 20-13. With time running out Shallowater tried to comeback via the air route. A pass was intercepted and all was lost when Ralls scored another touchdown, icing on the cake.

Ralls did not feel safe and did not take control of the game until the last three minutes. This shows that the players of Shallowater gave them a scare they will not soon forget. The young men put out a great deal of effort and should be commended for it. The fans really got behind the team and it helped keep them going when they needed encouragement.

Shallowater meets New Deal for their Homecoming this Friday at New Deal. Let's see if we can support them away, as well as at home.

Shallowater JV

by Chris Middleton

Shallowater JV traveled to Ralls last Thursday, Sept. 9, only to be defeated by a score of 12 to 0. We held Ralls to a score of 0 to 0 at the half, but let them break through to score once in the third quarter and again in the fourth. "Individually, the players showed much needed improvement," said Coach Tubb. This defeat will only serve as a building block in a victory against New Deal Thursday, Sept. 16. Come out and support our JV.

Mustang Hall of Fame

by Steven Wilson

This is the first article in a series that is designed to introduce the Mustang football players to their public. This week's spotlight shines on three seniors, the only seniors on the team. The seniors are Dwaine Thomas, Wes Walker, and David Monteith.

Dwaine wears number 77 and plays both offensive tackle and defensive tackle. From Dwaine it is learned that he weighs 180 pounds and stands 5 feet 6 inches in height, which differs from other reports. Dwaine is a very hard hitting player who always gives you that little bit extra. He is a very emotional player and gives everything that he has in an effort to win. He is a team captain, elected by his teammates, and is a great leader. He will fill his captain job well.

Like Dwaine, Wes Walker plays tackle on the offensive end.

The two young men are alike in another way; Wes is also a captain, a true leader. Wes is a big football player standing 6 feet 3 inches and weighs in at 215 pounds. Wes has come around this year and is ready to get after it. He has been hitting hard this year with a lot of determination. Look for Wes; he is not hard to find wearing big number 79.

David Monteith has not seen any action this year due to an ankle injury. He is looking forward to the day he gets his cast off and is able to return to action. David tips the scales at 180 pounds and stretches the tape to 6 feet. In the "Top of Texas" football book it was said that David "has the potential to best all-around football player." His injury has held him back, but we will soon see if he can live up to his potential. David will wear number 81 when he returns to action.

Ponies Hoofed The Rabbits

by Gloria Lara

It was a victory for the Ponies Thursday night. They came out fighting at the beginning and they fought until the end for a fabulous score of 38-0 for the eighth graders and 8-0 for the seventh graders.

The eighth grade Ponies had a strong defense and offense. The Ralls Jack Rabbits tried to hold strong but the Ponies were just too tough. They proved to be true winners when Robert Sanders, Marcus Lara, and Willie Johnson went in for touchdowns.

The seventh grade team went for their first victory, also against the Jack Rabbits. They had a fighting streak within them. They gave the Jack Rabbits a taste of the powerful Ponies when Lynn Menton scored.

This week the Ponies go against the New Deal Lions in Todd Stadium. Let's go and support our future football stars. Good Luck Ponies.

First Year Ponies Rough and Tough

by Laura Walker

Stretching, bending, running, passing; all of this goes into the training of a powerful football team. Contrary to popular belief, boys do not automatically know how to execute touchdowns, field goals, and long range passes. Each player must be taught which leg goes where and what direction to face when running with the ball.

The boys learn to block just right, fall a certain way and be squashed beneath five or six heavy players without suffocating. To a beginner, the plays can be very complicated. Every boy must learn to do his job right because everyone counts.

Hard work, patience, and a lot of guts resulted in a smashing victory over Ralls in last week's game. A first game victory for such a young squad is a great accomplishment. Congratulations 7th grade and good luck this week!
