

Open House Honors Mrs. Ruth Merrell

Littlefield Feeders, Inc., To Hold Groundbreaking Ceremonies Today

Littlefield Feeders, Inc. held the groundbreaking ceremonies for the 30,000 head cattle feed lot at 3:00 p.m. Thursday, December 6, 1973, 5 miles North of U.S. 385 and 1/4 miles West on FM 37 of Littlefield.

Mr. Troy Armes, President of Littlefield Feeders, Inc. served as Master of Ceremonies, E.H. Sheffield, Texas Industrial Commission; Bud Patterson, Texas Cattle Feeders Association; A.L. Black, President of Water Inc.; Murril Rogers, President of Houston Bank of Cooperatives, each gave a short talk on the effect of the Feed Lot on area economy.

A reception and steak dinner was held for the speakers and officers of Littlefield Feeders, Inc. following the ceremonies.

Construction will start immediately on a 354 acre tract. Projected time for the first cattle to be on feed in 9 months. They will employ 24 to 28 people with an annual payroll in excess of $200,000.

The actual feed pens will cover approximately 100 acres. They will operate their own feed mill and do custom feeding for single owner and joint owner feeders. They will have the latest automatic equipment for feeding cattle. They also, will encourage feeder clubs where individuals may belong to a small partnership or cooperation for the purpose of feeding cattle.

They will use some 120 million pounds of grain annually, which our local area should be able to supply. They will ship finished cattle all over the U.S., but mainly to the North, East and South.

Lion Boss, Floyd Epperson, Lion Milton Elliott and Shallowater's Outstanding Citizen, Mrs. Ruth Merrell, plant a pecan tree in her honor at Shallowater High School.

Mrs. Ruth Merrell, first recipient of the Lions Club Shallowater Outstanding Citizen Award" was honored Monday at the Community Room of the First State Bank of Shallowater.

Mrs. Merrell, a long time resident, teacher and librarian, has devoted her life to the good of the Shallowater Community. In her teaching career, she has touched the lives of at least four generations in several families, having taught at Hardy and later at Shallowater.

Mrs. Merrell, as a teacher, had the genuine interest of each pupil at heart. Always willing to listen to their problems and give words of encouragement to all whom she had contact.

As a librarian, she helped select the best of reading material and insisted the students read a number of books, which she knew would help them in everyday life, as well as in their studies.

Mrs. Merrell still leads an active life as well as keeping up with her reading. Her big smile and serene nature is a boon to all who know her.

Monday morning, she was taken to the high school where a pecan tree was planted in her honor. She was also presented with a plaque at the bank.

Cake, punch and coffee was served to all who attended the open house for Mrs. Merrell at the Bank. The traditional "Little Red School House" topped the cake.

Shallowater Band Set Christmas Concert Next Week

The Junior and Senior High School Bands of Shallowater will give a Christmas Concert Monday night, December 17th at 8:30 p.m. in the High School Auditorium.

Tickets are being sold by the band students now but may be purchased at the door the night of the concert. The tickets are $1.00 for adults and 50 cents for students.

Everyone is invited to come and enjoy this night of music.

Volunteer Fire Department Busy Answering Calls

The Volunteer Fire Department has been quite busy answering calls to cotton fires. Last Friday they were called to Frenship Co-op Gin near Carlisle where three trailers of cotton were on fire. On Saturday they answered a call to the Wolforth Gin where there was a fire in the gin.

The Fire Department met Monday night at the City Hall for an important business session. The constitution and By-Laws were discussed and voted on. Thirteen members were present. Two new officers were elected. J.H. Phillips was elected president and Terry Mangum was elected captain.

Members of the fire department must attend meetings. Also if you are not a member of the fire department, do not go to the fire and get in the way of equipment and firemen.

Texas Tech Band Plans Band-A-Thon Saturday To Finance Gator Bowl Trip

Texas Tech's Red Raider football team will play in the Gator Bowl Dec. 29 and, with community and campus support, it appeared that the Goin' Band too will appear in Gatorland.

Lubbock TV Stations KLBK and KSEL have agreed to broadcast a Band-A-Thon simultaneously beginning at 10 p.m. Saturday to help raise funds for the band trip, and students will make final plans this week for a campus drive Friday, winding up with a University Daily staff vs. university staff benefit basketball game Saturday.

The game will be at 1:30 p.m. in the Men's Intramural Gym. The band fund is set at $30,000 to send 320 band members and chaperones to Jacksonville, Fla. At the bowl the band will perform "Highlights"

White House Lights

As a result of President Nixon's call to the nation to save energy, the National Park Service announced that the lights that illuminate the exterior of the White House would from now on be turned off at 10 p.m.

Wesley Guild Meets Recently

The First United Methodist Women of Shallowater met Tuesday evening, November 27th at the Village Inn Restaurant in Lubbock for their annual installation banquet.

Mrs. Raymond Mackey was installing officer. Officers installed for 1974 were Mrs. C.M. Thomas, president; Mrs. R.R. Warren, vice-president; Mrs. Doyle Mosbey, secretary; and Mrs. B.H. Thomas Jr., treasurer.

There were thirteen members present. The next meeting will be December 10th in the home of Mrs. C.E. Pair for a Christmas party.

Texas Agricultural Extension Service Publishes New Cattle Feeders Handbook

A new Texas Cattle Feeders Handbook has just been published by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

This comprehensive reference book was prepared in cooperation with Extension Services of nine Great Plains States, and provides information on all aspects of commercial cattle feeding.

The new publication is composed of 50 bulletins or fact sheets, 25 of which are Texas publications and 25 from other states, notes L.A. Maddox, Extension beef cattle specialist and project coordinator.

"The endeavor is a part of the Great Plains Cattle Feeders Committee Project. We plan to make available a wide range of technical material of higher quality than ever before. New and revised information will be mailed to subscribers from now through September 1, 1975," Maddox adds.

Co-authoring the handbook with Maddox are Dr. John Sweeten, agricultural engineer in animal waste management; and Dr. Dennis B. Herd, beef cattle specialist-nutrition.

The handbook, B-1133, includes broad segments of information on nutrition, feed preparation and storage, animal health, feedlot management, feedlot planning and equipment, figures for feeders, waste management, and a section for miscellaneous publications and information, explains Maddox.

For additional information, contact your local county Extension agent.

the best eight minutes from different shows presented at football games this fall.

A total of $50,000 is required to fly the band to the Gator Bowl classic, and of this $20,000 was provided by the Tech Athletic Council and approved by the Board of Regents last Friday.

"We think we have bargain rates for this trip," Deal Killion said. "We investigated bus and train travel, but both were out of the question during the holidays. As it is, we are spending $156 per person and we think that's a pretty reasonable rate."

Band members will be working toward the trip. They will be furnishing the entertainment for the Channels 13 and 28 television show as well as helping with the campus drive.

Checks should be made out to the Texas Tech University Foundation. They can be turned in at any Lubbock or Brownfield bank, or they can be mailed to the Foundation, P.O. Box 4650, Texas Tech University, Lubbock, Texas 79409. Donations are tax deductible.

Bert Sinclair Speaks At First Baptist Monthly Breakfast

The men of the First Baptist Church held their monthly breakfast Monday morning at 6:30 a.m. in the church Fellowship Hall.

Burt Sinclair, who is with the Texas Department of Public Safety education section, presented a program on the abuse and use of hard drugs and the extent of the problem on a local basis. He gave a slide presentation on the hazards of drug abuse and stated that the local church could have a great influence in combatting the problem.

He encouraged the men to be alert, aware, and responsible in dealing with the drug problem.

The annual banquet of the Terry County Chamber of Commerce will be held Sunday, December 8 at 7 p.m. in the Brownfield High School cafeteria. Featured speaker for the occasion will be Dr. Walter Kerr, director of the National Youth Foundation. He is a native Texan and has had a varied career as an entertainer, lawyer, minister and youth leader.

Chat Johnson, Chief Goodfellow, reports that the annual visit of Santa Claus to Seagraves will happen at 4 p.m. Friday, December 21. The appearance of Santa is sponsored by the Goodfellows and the Chamber of Commerce. The Goodfellows are supported by the Seagraves-Loop Community Chest.

Troops 3, 4, and 5 of Pack 644 of Morton visited residents of Roberts Memorial Nursing Home on Thanksgiving. Approximately twenty Cub Scouts were in the group that made many people happy.

Fifty members of the Morton Future Teachers of America took a field trip to Lubbock last week. Mrs. Helen Crone and Mrs. Jeanette Young, sponsors, accompanied the students.

The Texans of South Plains College will begin defense of their Western Junior College Conference basketball title this week in Texan Dome in Levelland.

A math teacher at South Plains College for the past eight years, Robert Pearce, will become chairman of the mathematics and engineering department next fall. He will succeed Wilburn R. Wheeler, who will retire next summer after 43 years in the teaching profession.

A lunar rock sample will be on display at South Plains College through Sunday, December 9. The exhibit is open to the public without charge in the lounge of the Student Union Building between 2 and 5 p.m. Sunday, and 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday.

Senior Students of Seagraves High School are selling tickets for the annual Class Play, "Mother Is A Freshman," which will be presented in the high school auditorium at 8 p.m. Monday, December 10.

Pearl Harbor

Thirty-two years ago this December 7th—a Sunday—the radio broke the news that the United States naval base at Pearl Harbor and air fields in the vicinity had been suddenly bombed by Japanese aircraft.

Though President Roosevelt knew such an attack was possible, though military commanders there had been warned, though an enlisted man on radar watch picked up the incoming raid, and though an intelligence colonel in Washington had concluded the attack was imminent and was struggling with superiors to warn Pearl, the attack was highly successful.

The battleship fleet was wrecked. Thousands were killed. Many aircraft were destroyed. But, by good luck, the few U.S. aircraft carriers in the Pacific were not in the harbor that morning. As it turned out, the carriers were the most vital ships in the resulting war, and they turned the tide in June of 1942, at Midway, six months later.

In this 1941-45 war, the U.S. was attacked; either the nation fought or surrendered. (Hitler declared war on America four days after the Jap attack.) Few Americans proposed surrender, thus the nation was united. In that sense alone, it was a good time to be an American—if one survived the war.

The nation was behind its fighting men, the overwhelming majority of citizens sought to do their part. And unity achieved miracles. In three and a half years the effort of unified Americans produced the world's mightiest military force. The lesson is obvious; unified, the nation can overcome practically any obstacle or problem, even Watergate. We can remember this profitably today—thirty-two years after Pearl Harbor.

Wallace & 1976

Rules for the 1976 Democratic convention have been redrawn and it seems Alabama Governor George Wallace will have a better chance of influencing the outcome in the nomination derby as a result.

Wallace is likely to have more delegates at the convention—if he runs—because the rules for 1976 provide state delegates be split among those competing in the state primaries. Whereas heretofore Wallace has run strongly in many non-southern states, often the winner-take-all system meant he had no delegates from them at the national convention.

Actually the division of delegates in proportion to the primary vote each received is a desirable reform, long needed.

Another reform effected was elimination of the "unit rule" at conventions by which entire state delegations vote as a unit for that candidate with majority support within them. This change is also a democratic reform.

Democrats have, in addition, also abandoned the racial quota rule of 1972, which attempted to force every state delegation's makeup to reflect racial percentages of the population; unwisely, they retained a rule requiring delegations be divided equally between males and females. (The principle is the same in both cases—delegates should be those who are fairly selected in their states because of their interest, qualifications and effort, without regard to sex or race rules, other than one assuring all races and sexes representation.)

The changes now being hailed by Wallace undoubtedly increase his potency; if he has four hundred, or five hundred delegates, rather than two or three hundred, he might well play the role of kingmaker. Conceivably, he could be nominated but that is considered unlikely by most political experts.

If Senator Ted Kennedy remains the favorite for the party's top nomination, the latest changes in convention rules increase Wallace's influence; they give him a much improved chance to be the number-two man on any ticket—if he would accept it.

NEWS REPORT FROM WASHINGTON

Another War? Washington's Move— A Costly Policy— Japan's Plight—

Washington, D.C.—The resupply of Arab armies by the Soviet Union has posed serious questions concerning a renewed outbreak of fighting in the Middle East.

If the war is resumed, can President Nixon again give and loan billions to Israel, perhaps risk another confrontation with Russia, in view of the fact that Israel promises the U.S. nothing specific in return, such as compliance with U.N. resolutions that she withdraw from seized Arab territory?

Can the U.S. afford to send so much of its modern military equipment to Israel again without running unwise security risks? Can Washington further alienate many European nations, and Japan, by a dual policy of maintaining Israel's military supremacy while refusing to impose a settlement on Tel Aviv as a price for this immense, vital support?

World sentiment is overwhelmingly against Israel, and the U.N. has repeatedly voted resolutions calling for an Israeli withdrawal from captured Arab territory.

Only a U.S. veto barred U.N. action in this direction earlier this year.

Tel Aviv's stubborn policy of holding on to Arab lands, especially its decision a few months ago to start settling Israeli citizens there helped precipitate the latest war.

Washington is now faced with the necessity of either facing domestic political repercussions at home in telling Tel Aviv to bow to world pressure and overwhelming international sentiment or facing more and more alienation all over the world.

The Japanese, for example, didn't appreciate a State Department objection to their emergency warning to Israel to evacuate captured Arab lands or risk a break in diplomatic relations. The Japanese see Israel's hard stand as a direct threat to their nation's economy and health, and reprimands from Washington are hardly likely to alter this stark fact of life. Rather, they aggravate friction between the two countries.

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's recent trial-balloon attempt to intimidate the Arab countries, in hinting this country was not helpless in facing the Arab oil threat and could counter with economic retaliation, brought once-friendly King Faisal of Saudi Arabia solidly to the defense of the Arab cause, with a sharp warning that oil production might be cut eighty per cent in this key country.

Meat Prices

Despite the fact that wholesale meat prices have dropped sharply recently, prices at the grocer and butcher have not followed the trend very far.

One way consumers can force retail prices lower is to eat less meat. As demand slackens and meat goes unsold, the price will inevitably come down.

There are today many meat substitutes, some of which are more healthful and just as nutritious as meat. Cutting down on meat consumption, especially meat with considerable fat content, will not be harmful individually and will help in the fight against inflated prices.

Such a cut would produce chaos in countries depending on Saudi Arabian oil, and vastly increase disenchantment with the pro-Israeli policy of the United States. Since the Arabs have now been rearmed, Washington is facing this possibility plus the possibility of a new war.

Frenship Adult Education Program Needs Students

Wyman Richey, Junior High Principal, informs us that students are needed for the Adult Education Classes. They are in danger of losing 2 classes unless enrollment goes up. Many of the students have quit to work in the gins.

If you are an adult who hasn't finished high school, this is an opportunity to prepare for the GED test which will give you a certificate similar to a high school diploma. Some colleges will even accept them.

Or if you simply want to review some subject, this is an opportunity.

The classes meet from 7:00 to 9:30 p.m. on Monday and Thursday evenings in the Junior High

Schools Decorate For Christmas At Frenship

The Junior High teachers are decorating their doors in preparation for Christmas. This year they are using as a theme, "The Twelve Days of Christmas". The doors are to be ready by Monday, December 10. They extend an invitation to everyone to come and see their decorations.

The Student Council of Frenship High School is encouraging decorating of classroom doors to promote the Christmas spirit and beautify the halls.

Prizes will be awarded for first, second and third places. Doors should be completed by December 12.

Frenship Junior High Basketball

The 7th, 8th and 9th grade boys basketball teams played Post at home Monday night. The 7th grade won with a score of 25-24. Leslie Davis was high with 16 points. The seventh grade has a 1-2 record.

The 8th grade won 36-26. Mike Roberts had 22 points, Elda Roberts had 8 and Rodney Parker had 6. The 8th grade has a 2-1 record.

The 9th grade lost by a score of 33-24. Mike Benson was high with 11 points and Rickey Williams had 3. The 9th grade is -3 for the season.

December 6-8 is the Slaton Tournament. December 10 the girls play at Cooper at 5:30 p.m. and the boys play Cooper at Frenship at 5:30 p.m.

ASTROLOGERS WORSHIP CHRIST

"Then Herod sent a private message to the astrologers, asking them to come to see him; at this meeting he found out from them the exact time when they first saw the star. Then he told them, 'Go to Bethlehem and search for the child. And when you find him, come back and tell me so that I can go and worship him too!'"

After this interview the astrologers started out again. And look! The star appeared to them again, standing over Bethlehem. Their joy knew no bounds!

Entering the house where the baby and Mary his mother were, they threw themselves down before him, worshiping. Then they opened their presents and gave him gold, frankincense and myrrh." (Matthew 2:7-11)

Frenship Schools Help Energy Crisis

J. Weldon Bennett, Superintendent of Frenship Schools informed this reporter of what the schools are doing to help in the energy crisis.

They have turned off all lights not especially needed. They have turned down thermostats to 68 degrees, and are trying to keep all outside doors closed.

They are cutting down on buses for basketball teams, making several teams travel on one bus, when possible.

Frenship Basketball Weekly Report

The Frenship Varsity boys played in the Plainview tournament last week. They took 5th place in their division.

SPORTS

by Joe Kelly

To Jim Carlen: Congratulations, coach, you not only made it, you made it big. For the first time in my memory, Texas Tech has given a football coach a pact that insures longevity.

I think it's safe to say that, based on the record of the Raider football teams over Carlen's four seasons at the big spread, the contract was deserved. He has demonstrated that he can recruit the type of player needed to produce a winner, that he can assemble a top staff, that he can organize and direct, that he is a winner.

I think it's also safe to say that Jim has been a controversial coach, especially in his first two seasons here. As a result, not everyone will jump up and cheer, although even those not overly sold on the man personally give grudging tribute to his record.

Indeed, one of the first things mentioned was that he still hadn't beaten Texas. If he had won this year, he probably would have been given a lifetime contract!

The long contract should put to rest the last serious opposition to Coach Carlen. Those who were disgruntled the first two years, and who investigated the possibility of buying up his contract, have been squelched thoroughly.

In fact, the long-term contract should unify people behind Carlen and Texas Tech football. The 10-year pact was not a frivolous, spur-of-the-moment action. It showed abiding faith in him. Anything less than complete support would be fantastic stupidity.

Don't get excited, Tech basketball fans, the season is young yet. What's more, this is the toughest non-conference schedule Tech has had in years.

Gerald Myers has a rebuilding job to do and it isn't going to get done overnight. People don't realize, yet, just how much Ron Richardson and Ed Wakefield meant to last year's championship club. The first home game helped bring it out, though.

Vanderbilt, with an experienced, seasoned team, kept pecking away at the Raiders. They pressed on defense. They harried Tech players from behind. They gambled on the passing lanes to intercept. They didn't panic, kept their poise and forced Raider turnovers.

Vandy had good shooters, too. They had good, quick movement of the ball. At times they faked Tech defenders out of their sneakers. They kept the pressure on.

All of which isn't to say that Tech doesn't have the makings of a good team. It does. The difference right now is that it has too many inexperienced players for topflight competition that is seasoned, canny and poised.

But that's the reason for tough non-conference games. It gives new players the experience they need. It helps a team jell. And when the conference campaign rolls around, it's a new ball game.

There were bright spots in Monday night's loss, and not just the fact that Rick Bullock scored 27 points. Rick was expected to be a prolific scorer this year.

But I thought that Grady Newton showed signs of becoming a good forward, with more experience. He came up with some good points on the board and he handled the ball well at times. Forward, of course, is the spot that bothers Gerald the most.

William Johnson should develop into a strong player, while Richard Little and Don Moore are steady at guard. Both, however, are capable of better games than Monday night.

Tech, at times, moved the ball well. The Raiders were alert and several times took advantage of Vandy mistakes. One area that needs strengthening is rebounding, where Tech too often was out of position, allowing Vandy to come up with too many rebounds.

In short, the picture looks encouraging.

To the surprise of just about everyone, Rice took third place in the conference grid race and Baylor finished on the bottom without a victory. Arkansas did a little better than expected and SMU didn't do as well, despite its finish.

Fans ought to mark down Arkansas and Baylor as two capable of causing trouble next year. The Hogs got stronger as the season progressed and Baylor, in view of the 0-7 record, may be overlooked. Thus, this could make the Bears a real factor.

The news of Andre Tillman's selection to the AP All American team came as a surprise and a non-surprise, both. But the honor was richly deserved for an outstanding football player.

Tillman has been brilliant at split end. Because he wasn't used as a prime receiver much of the time, there was a tendency to overlook him. That would have been tragic, because he blocked brilliantly and was a key to Tech's offensive performance. The honor is earned.

The arrival of two open-end spinning frames at the Texas Tech Textile Research Center during the week of November 25 gives added hope that the recent announcement of three commercial open-end plants on the Plains is "just a beginning," says Ray Joe Riley of Hart, President of Lubbock based Plains Cotton Growers Inc.

"The open-end system is being hailed as a major innovation in the textile industry," Riley states, "and it could be the means for turning an already promising future into a brilliant future for the production of High Plains cotton."

Open-end spinning of cotton yarns, in addition to being three or four times as fast as conventional ring spinning, does not require or even favor raw cotton with micronaire readings in the premium priced 3.5 to 4.9 range. On the contrary, testing to date has shown that low micronaire cottons, normally in abundant supply from the High Plains crop, may well produce yarns on the open-end system superior to those made from higher micronaire cottons.

"These tests are conclusive enough to serve as one of the reasons that an existing mill on the Plains is switching much of its production from ring to open-end spinning, and two other such mills are on the way," Riley notes, adding that "PCG will be doing additional, more extensive research on the two machines at Tech, with the results used to encourage both the establishment of other spinning mills on the Plains and the use of High Plains cotton in open-end operation around the world."

Careful plans are being laid by PCG, the Textile Research Center and others toward these ends. A meeting at the PCG offices November 30, for example, drew research recommendations from PCG, the Textile Research Center, the South Plains Research and Extension Center, the Federal Ginning Laboratory at Lubbock and from principals in the existing and planned commercial operations.

"PCG is also looking ahead to possibilities for other new and perhaps even more revolutionary yarn forming methods yet to be proven commercially," Riley states, "as well as considering research of new weaving and finishing techniques."

"The objective," he continued, "is to make sure our cotton's ability to perform on these new systems is recognized far and wide."

The existing mill to which Riley referred is Southwest Textiles, Inc. of Abernathy. The plant is replacing some of its ring spinning with seven open-end frames (1400

Youth Committies Begin Plans for 1974 First Baptist Church Activities Here

This past week, two committees of several youth each have met to discuss plans for two important activities at First Baptist Church in Shallowater, which will be happening in 1974.

The first of these is the Bob Larson weekend March 1,2,3. Mr. Larson is a very highly respected authority in the field of youth culture and music who has traveled extensively over the world lecturing on these topics. He is a very gifted musician and author. His weekend here will be a combination of lectures and evangelistic services, with special features for youth and adults alike.

This committee meets again Saturday, December 8, to make further plans.

The second activity is the July 22-27 Institute in Basic Youth Conflicts in Dallas. The senior high youth through adults are encouraged to make this trip to perhaps one of the most valuable learning weeks to be had anywhere. Information on this trip will be available in detail soon.

spinning units). Three of the frames should be in operation before the end of this year and the other four in place by the Spring of 1974.

One of the two mills mentioned as "on the way" is Feather Fabrics, Inc., a joint venture between Lubbock area investors and Nijverdal-Ten Cate, the Netherlands' oldest and largest integrated textile firm. This plant will be located in Lubbock, will begin with 2400 spinning units, and should be in production by the Fall of 1974.

The other mill slated for the Plains will be known as Daiwabo Texas, Inc. and will be jointly owned by two Japanese firms, Daiwa Spinning Company and the Marubini Corporation. A specific site for the plant has not been announced but it has been confirmed for the High Plains area. It is expected to be in operation by late 1975 with about 4000 spinning units.

The Primary Music Makers Choir will present their Christmas program Wednesday evening, December 18, at 7:30 p.m. They will sing Christmas carols interspersed with narration and poetry presented by the children. Following their presentation, the Junior Young Musicians Choir will present the Mary Davis cantata for children's voices, "The Children of Bethlehem." This cantata is the story of the children who followed the arrival of Mary and Joseph at Bethlehem, and the events which surrounded the birth of Jesus.

It is hoped that everyone will support these choirs in their program, and will attend both services, as the story of Christmas unfolds through music.

Turkey-In-The-Sack

Cooking turkey in a bag has been a very popular way of cooking. These directions have been requested. Many times we buy the special bags for baking which does the same thing. In case you have the special bags and they are the wrong size, you might like these directions also. Anyway, we nearly always have a paper grocery bag:

Combine and let stand at least 10 minutes:
1 teaspoon pepper
2 teaspoons salt
3 teaspoons paprika
4 teaspoons hot water
Add-mixing well: 1 cup cooking oil.

Wash and dry turkey, then rub inside and out with cooking oil mixture—14 to 16 pound turkey (should not exceed 16 pounds).

Pour remaining oil into large paper sack (type used in grocery stores) and add enough oil to coat inside of sack. Be sure all inner surface is coated in oil. Truss turkey as desired and place in sack, breast up. Fold over end of sack and tie securely. Bake in moderate oven (350 degree F.) approximately ten minutes per pound. Since sack is airtight, turkey is cooked by live steam. Open sack with care. If desired, coat turkey with glaze when cool.

Thinking usually means less talking.

Home and Family Living

The Home and Family Living class participated in a mock wedding Friday, Nov. 30th. The entire ceremony was performed and a reception followed. Refreshments were a cake which was baked and decorated by the class.

The bride and groom were Cheryl Smith and Mike Skidmore. Kathy Miles, Debbie Love and Vicki Roberts were bridesmaids.

The groomsmen were Garry Green, David Cate and Ray Morris. Eddie McCollum served as minister. Ushers were David Marburger and Lynn Crowther.

Terry Thomas and Diane Lester were ringbearer and flowergirl. Amanda Hobgood, Terry Schwab, Debbie Wages, Debbie Harrison and Zoila Perez were relatives of the wedding party.

Christmas Despite Energy Crisis

What are the effects on Christmas because of the energy crisis? Well, in most stores they expect modest increases in sale. With the energy crisis most stores expect to have high increases in sales of such items as sweaters and warm clothing, games, record players, TV sets and other entertainment items, because more people are expected to stay home.

In larger cities, downtown stores have the advantage over malls or plazas located on the edge of the city because of the multi-transportation running throughout the city.

Classical Rock - Yes and E.L.P.

Rock has been influenced by many sources, one of the most successful sources has been from classical roots.

There are many groups who have used this classical/rock formula for their rise to success. The two most famous are Yes and E.L.P.

Yes has had a string of successful singles but it took their 1971 release of Roundabout off their "Fragil" album on Sylaentic Records. Since then they have had two other successful albums, one being a fantastic two volume love album. They have crisscrossed the U.S. on tours, selling out at all their concerts.

Another of the famous groups is E.L.P. standing for Emerson, Lake and Palmer. Their first hit single Lucky Man, sky rocketed them to the top and brought them to light of U.S. audiences.

Since then, they have rocked the U.S. on mighty sellout concert tours, and have collected three gold records, with a fourth album ready to collect gold.

Classical rock is another of rock's many money fields, and if one is tired of the every day common rock-n-roll evolution of the fifties, classical rock is a natural choice for a rock lover.

Peaceful Sounds
by Reyna Dirickson

Peaceful sounds are good to hear
The silent sound of a running deer
The gentle sound of a blowing breeze
The swaying sound of the wind in the trees
The chirping sound of a bird in a tree
The busy buzzing of a bee
The sounds of a squirrel in his nest
These are the sounds I like best.
