

Bill Turrentine, manager of the Seagraves district of the Western Company, has been elected chairman of the South Plains chapter of the American Petroleum Institute. In his new capacity with API, Turrentine will be a member of the API Permian Area Advisory committee which Pat E. Fletcher of Midland is chairman.

Miss Gail Lassiter brought home first place honors in the band regional tryout held in Lubbock recently. She plays the flute. The region includes all Lubbock schools and those as far north as Plainview, south to Lamesa and east to Post. She will compete with students from the Amarillo, El Paso and Midland-Odessa regions for area tryouts on January 17. A sophomore at Morton High School, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Granville Lassiter.

The Texas Board of Vocational Nurses announced last week that all 15 graduates of the fall 1972 Vocational Nursing Program at South Plains College in Levelland, have successfully completed their state board examinations.

South Plains College has received notice that its accreditation by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools has been reaffirmed for 10 years.

South Plains College was first accredited by the Association in 1963, just five years after the college opened its doors to students.

Couple to Mark 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. J.P. Hice, of 706 11th St. in Shallowater, will celebrate their 50th Wedding Anniversary on Sunday, January 6th. The couple will be honored with a community wide reception between the hours of 2 and 4 p.m. at the Shallowater Clubhouse.

Hosting the reception for the couple will be their children, Mrs. Randy Schoor, Mrs. Dee Roy Lemons, Billy Hice, Mrs. Les Bishop and Lorene Hice.

The couple was married on January 6, 1924 at Leon, Oklahoma. They have 5 children, 19 grandchildren and 10 great grandchildren.

The public is cordially invited to the Sunday afternoon reception.

4-Hers Go Caroling

Fourteen members of the 4-H Club met Monday night, December 23rd and went caroling around Shallowater. Lisa Gates was in charge of arrangements.

The group returned to the Clubhouse for refreshments served by Roy Cason, Randy Garrett, Sheri and Cheryl Browning.

Each member brought a toy which was donated to the State Home.

Mr. A. E. Todd is Lions January Citizen of the Month

The Shallowater Lions Club has announced that Mr. A.E. Todd, a long time employee of the Shallowater Public Schools, has been selected by Shallowater area citizens as the "Citizen Of The Month".

Mr. Todd, at 80 and still healthy and active as a school custodian, has represented the school in many ways. As a business manager, substitute teacher and full time friend to Shallowater school students.

Mr. Todd still has the love and respect of his students and is given the same authority as teachers when it comes to discipline. He has "expressed his concern" many times in "boiler room sessions" with children who have had problems behaving themselves and Mr. Todd actually has developed long time friendships due to some of those sessions.

In a recent interview, he stated that he was amazed at what a child would tell you and share with you in those discipline sessions. Mr. Todd says "you can't fool children. They can tell when you really care about them, even when you have to be a little tough with them." He seems to exude a gentle loving nature that makes people around him respect him.

Still in relatively good health, he stands over six feet and his years are quite deceiving.

This is not the first time Shallowater has honored A.E. Todd. He has had two high school annuals dedicated to him, and in the spring of 1972, the local football stadium was named Todd Field in his honor.

Born in Brazos County, near Bryan, Texas, in 1892, he moved to Lubbock County in 1922 and farmed near New Deal. He moved to Shallowater in 1926. He was married to Alice Estell Dyess in 1913 and they had three daughters who were raised in Shallowater. Mrs. Todd died in 1970 and the three daughters now live out of state. Mrs. W.A. Newell lives in Las Vegas, Nev., Mrs. Carl Shriver Jr. lives in Grande Junction, Colo., and Mrs. B.J. Folmer lives in St. Paul, Minn. Mr. Todd has 8 grandchildren and 5 great grandchildren.

Mr. Todd says his main interest is still in school children, but he enjoys reading, especially the Bible and anything of a religious nature. He is a member of the First Baptist Church where he has served as a deacon, taught Sunday School and Bible classes.

When asked if there was any one thing or event that stood out in his mind more than others, he mentioned that it is most humbling and a great thrill to see an ex-student that he has not seen in a long time and to feel the genuine warmth and friendship that so often occurs. Apparently this feeling is not limited to ex-students. When Todd Field was dedicated recently, Mr. Todd received 5 separate standing ovations from students during a 20 minute ceremony.

The Shallowater Lions Club President, Floyd Epperson, stated that he is pleased with the selection of Mr. Todd as an Outstanding Shallowater Citizen, and he mentioned that ballots are available at various businesses in Shallowater and citizens are encouraged to send their nominations to the Lions Club. Plans are underway to shorten the ballot and make it easier for citizens to mail in their nominations. It is not necessary to sign the nomination forms.

Mr. Todd will be honored with an open house and will be presented with a plaque and have a tree planted as a living memorial of his distinguished contributions.

Shallowater Places Eight on All District Team Three Make All South Plains Selection

by Mike Fauvel
Shallowater High School

The Shallowater Mustangs placed eight players on the 5-A All District Team, and three made the All South Plains Teams.

Two players made both first teams, Ray Morris, a senior who made the first team offense as an end and the defense as a defensive back. And Bobby James, also a senior, on offense as a back and on defense as a defensive end.

Bobby Reeves, a junior, made the first team offense as the all district quarterback.

Honorable mention for the offense included Jon Gates, junior, at tackle; Rusty Lusk, junior, center and Don Grimes, junior, at

Shallowater Young Homemakers News

The Shallowater Young Homemakers met at the H.E. Cottage, Monday, December 17 at 5:30 p.m. The group then traveled to Lubbock to Colonial Nursing Home.

They served cookies and punch in the living area for residents of the home. A short story and poem were read by Ms. Jennifer Brinlee and Kathy Miles.

The club also purchased gifts to be placed under the Christmas tree and distributed to the senior citizens in the home when they have their Christmas party.

It was an enjoyable experience for all.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. A.C. Yandell of Hart announce the engagement of their daughter, Joyce, to Mr. Gene Schwab, son of Mr. and Mrs. J.E. Schwab of Shallowater.

Miss Yandell is a graduate of Olton High School and attends South Plains College.

Mr. Schwab is a Shallowater High School graduate and also attends South Plains College where he is studying for the ministry.

The couple plan a March wedding.

The Shallowater City Commission, at a special called meeting on Friday, December 21st, voted to request Daiwa Spinning Co., Inc., a Japanese firm seeking location for an "open end" spinning plant in the West Texas area, to seriously consider locating the proposed $15.0 million plant in Shallowater.

The proposal, which was late in coming from the Shallowater group, thought it would be considered according to sources close to Daiwa, took in to account the availability of a labor market, assured the company of a firm plan to provide the necessary water and pointed out other benefits available if the plant was located in the City of Shallowater.

Japanese developers are expected to announce later this month the site for the $15 million cotton spinning mill. Its location in part depending on higher taxes versus water availability.

The spokesman for the Texas Industrial Commission indicated the announcement of the location for the Daiwa Spinning Co. Ltd. plant could come later in January.

Governor Awards Grants for Improving Law Enforcement

Governor Dolph Briscoe has awarded two grants totaling $129,760 for improving law enforcement and justice in the area served by the South Plains Association of Governments at Lubbock.

The money will come from the Governor's Office, Criminal Justice Division. CJD administers the state's block grant from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration under the Crime Control Act of 1973.

Largest of the grants, $103,565, goes to Lubbock County for organization and implementation of the newly established office of the Criminal District Attorney for the county.

With a staff of 13 attorneys, three investigators and eight secretaries, the criminal district attorney's office takes the place of the offices of the district attorney for the 72nd Judicial District and the county attorney of Lubbock County. The change was brought about by an act of the 63rd Legislature.

A CJD grant of $26,195 goes to the South Plains Association of Governments for continuation of the regional law enforcement training project.

Two sessions of a 240-hour basic training school will be offered to 40 area peace officers. Advanced training will also be offered to approximately 20 police officers.

The courses which are approved by the Texas Commission on Law Enforcement Officer Standards & Education, are offered to peace officers in all SPAG law enforcement agencies on a tuition-free basis.

The SPAG grant applications were among 52, for a total of $3,766,578, considered by the CJD Executive Committee at its December 14 meeting.

Most teenagers lack information about jobs and the world of work they are preparing to enter. This lack of information often is accompanied by hostile attitudes toward business, a nationwide survey by Purdue University shows. In the poll, 54 percent of the high school pupils questioned agreed with the statement that most businesses are out to make as much profit as possible no matter who gets hurt. More than three fourths of the students endorsed a statement that business leaders are more interested in personal gain than in the welfare of the public. Agreement with this opinion has risen more than 15 percent since 1960. Almost half the pupils believe that most businesses treat people as impersonal, unimportant units in the organization. Thirty-nine percent think a company cannot be concerned with the welfare of its employees until after it is very successful and has money to spend on extras. Most students were unable to give correct answers to a group of poll questions about job opportunities and trends. More than 7,000 pupils took part in the poll. The survey report is based on a sample of 1,984 replies matched as closely as possible with the actual high school population. From the results of the Purdue survey, it sounds as though some business education is definitely in order for the nation's youth.

The Wall Street Journal notes that, "A St. Louis printing firm gives its employees a $500 bonus if they quit smoking for two months. But they have to repay the money if they start again within a year. The death of some employees from lung or throat cancer led to the plan, the firm's president says."

A word on the economy from a publication of the Indiana Association of Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Contractors, Inc.: "There has been a lot of complaining of late as regards the shrinking paycheck. A lot of people are getting into the act, trying to pinpoint who or what is causing the paycheck to shrink. Which of the so-called 'necessities' is grabbing the biggest bite? Food? Housing? Clothing? According to government figures for the 1967-72 period, the cost of food has increased 26 percent; housing is up 31 percent; clothing is up 25 percent. The biggest bite, however, is gobbled up by Uncle Sam and his kissing cousins at the state and local levels. The cost of government has increased a whopping 60 percent. As the U.S. Chamber of Commerce observes, 'Maybe we consumers are boycotting the wrong thing!'"

"Everyone at heart is an environmentalist, but the fury of the resistance (to solving energy problems) will come from those environmental extremists who are motivated by hatred of business rather than true concern for the environment."—Mr. Edmund Littlefield, chairman of the board, Utah International Inc.

"...Congress should recognize the urgent necessity of allowing us (railroads) to promptly increase our prices whenever it is necessary to meet rising costs. Railroads are not exempt from the cost-price pressures that affect every business."—Mr. Louis W. Menk, chairman of the board, Burlington Northern Inc.

The "Gulf Oilmanac," a publication of Gulf Oil Corporation, probes the energy problem when it writes, "The U.S. needs a 'nonpolitical energy policy' which is 'well-balanced to permit flexibility while encouraging the uses of energy where they are most needed,' (said Mr. Robert B. Phillips, Executive Vice President of Gulf Oil Company—U.S....Mr. Phillips outlined four basic points which he asks...(to be) remembered: 'Government action has done more than any other single force to bring about the shortage of energy that we have today; the need for a nonpolitical and flexible energy policy; there is crude oil waiting to be discovered and produced if environmental controls are reasonable; and the need for everyone in the industry to make sure that the public and the legislators understand the tremendous need for increased sources of petroleum products.'"

Use Manure During Fertilizer Shortage

Commercial fertilizer may be in short supply in the coming months, but there's another source of fertilizer that could help relieve that shortage—manure.

"Manure is more cumbersome to handle and its nutrient content varies, but it can get the job done if the situation warrants," believes Dr. John Sweeten, agricultural engineer specializing in waste management for the Texas

Agricultural Extension Service. Manure contains essential plant nutrients such as nitrogen, phosphorus, potassium, iron and zinc and is also valuable in improving the physical properties of some soils, points out the Texas A&M University System specialist. Consequently, manure use is increasing in such areas as the High Plains where large feedlots have an abundance of the material. "Most feedlots are now selling all the manure they have and are at least covering the cost of handling it," points out Sweeten. "That's a switch from a few years ago when manure disposal was a real problem."

Most feedlot manure is being delivered for about $1.00 to $1.50 per ton plus five cents per ton mile. This covers the cost to the feedlot for pen cleaning, stockpiling, transportation and field spreading. Farmers in sandy areas may be paying higher prices since manure can give maximum improvement to soil structure.

Sweeten believes that attempts to place a dollar value upon manure based on its nutrient content are sometimes misleading. Rather, it is better to look at increases in crop or forage production that can be obtained.

Some county extension agents are cooperating with farmers in conducting demonstrations to determine the true benefit of manure on various crops and soils.

The engineer cites three studies in the Panhandle where corn silage and grain sorghum yield increases from manure were practically nil to as high as 125 percent compared to plots receiving no fertilizer.

"Physical properties of manure should receive as much attention as nutrient content," points out the engineer. "Manure that undergoes composting in piles may be more desirable than freshly scraped manure because it spreads more evenly and contains fewer viable weed seeds."

The moisture content can also have a profound influence on the value of manure. For instance, feedlot manure can contain 20 times more nitrogen per pound of material than liquid dairy manure diluted with cleaning water.

What is a generally recommended application rate for most cropland?

Sweeten contends that about 10 tons of feedlot manure can be applied per acre for most cropping situations without problems of soil salinity, forage nitrate accumulations, or water pollution. However, since only about half of the nitrogen in manure will be available to plants the first year, applications can be cut to five tons per acre in succeeding years without decreasing the total available nutrients.

"The best guide to application rates is to match fertilizer requirements for the particular crop and soil with an analysis of the manure, taking into account the limited availability of nutrients the first year," advises Sweeten. County Extension agents can assist with determining fertilizer requirements.

"Manure is a valuable commodity that has not been used efficiently in agricultural production in recent years. With the current energy crisis affecting commercial fertilizer production, manure use may come back into its own," believes the engineer.

Miss Gayle Briant and Buz Owens pledged double ring wedding vows at First United Methodist Church in Shallowater at 6 p.m. Saturday, December 29. The Rev. Hugh B. Daniel, pastor of the First United Methodist Church in Lockney officiated.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Bill Briant, Shallowater; and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer H. Owens, Tahoka.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore an ivory gown of bridal satin with a chiffon overlay. The high-rise bodice featured appliqued lace accented by a mandarin collar. Full sheer sleeves were gathered to cuffs of appliqued lace. The softly tiered veil fell from a caplet of pearlized petals. The bride carried a bouquet of white roses, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Attendants to the couple were Mr. and Mrs. Terry Horner of Lubbock. The matron of honor wore a moss green floor-length gown of crepe featuring a bodice with a self ruffle and long full sleeves. She carried a long-stem white rose and baby's breath.

Guests were seated by George Briant, Dalhart, brother of the bride, and Richard White of Dallas.

Altar candles were lighted by Scott Briant, Shallowater, brother of the bride.

Chris Hayes, Shallowater, presented traditional organ music and Mike Cunningham of Lubbock sang "Let Me Be There" and "The First Time Ever I Saw Your Face" as he played the guitar.

A reception was held in Fellowship Hall following the ceremony. Guests were registered by Lana Morris, Shallowater. Traditional wedding cake and punch were served by Vicky Owens, Tahoka, sister of the groom, Shelly Andrews, cousin of the groom, Brownfield; and Sandy and Kim Sechler of Boise City, Okla, cousins of the bride.

The bride is a graduate of Shallowater High School and a speech and hearing therapy major at Texas Tech. She will continue her education at North Texas State University in Denton. The groom is a graduate of Tahoka High School and Texas Tech. He is presently employed with The Group, an architectural firm in Dallas.

After a wedding trip to Taos, New Mexico, the couple will reside at 2424 Arroyo, Dallas.

POW-WOW WITH NATURE

"How!" says Indian Chief Red Feather to Scott Hatlen, 1974 March of Dimes National Poster Child. How indeed, one might reply, has Scott of Las Vegas, Nev., come so far in his 5 years from birth with partly paralyzing open spine. He deserves every feather in his cap. Thanks to corrective surgery, Scott can enjoy the outdoor pleasures of Knott's Berry Farm, in Buena Park, Calif., as much as any other lively youngster. He hops aboard a mysterious large shell. Boy! Is he ever surprised when a Galapagos tortoise appears. But boys like Scotty are not afraid of mere turtles. He hangs on for a slow, slow ride. Later, while taking a breather on a bench, Scotty finds a furry little friend to cuddle. Scott's success helps show the way to some 250,000 other children born with birth defects every year in our country.
