Severe Weather Causes Damage North Of Quitaque

Storms and severe weather that erupted Thesday evening in Swisher and Briscoe counties had area residents scrambling for their storm cellars. A strong line of thunderstorms formed over Swisher county and moved slowly East into Briscoe county this storm cell produced up to golfball size hail, lightening, rain, strong winds and spawned several possible tornados.

North of Quitaque on FM 1065 a possible tornado touched down causing well over $20,000 damage to Larry Don Price's barn and farm equipment. According to Larry Don at between 7:15 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. a strong storm approached their home place. High winds and blowing dirt, along with local weather spotter advisories prompted Larry Don and his wife to seek shelter in their cellar During that time the wind sucked open the cellar door and started sucking out dirt and debris. "I tried to shut the door but was unable to budge it, it was sucking my shirt over my head." Larry Don recounted. "It sounded like a giant vacuum cleaner it was so loud it hurt our ears. At that point I went back down into the cellar to wait out the storm. The wind blew really hard, then it just stopped. At that point I came up out the cellar to check out the situation." A tree was uprooted not 5 feet from the cellar, but that was mild compared with what he saw when

A tree was uprooted not 5 feet from the cellar, but that was mild compared with what he saw when he looked behind the house "Where my barn stood, not 15 minutes before, only the items in the barn were left. The barn, or what little was left of it lay twisted and scattered 30 to 100 yards from its original spot." said Larry Don. "I went to check out the damage and when I reached my pickup the cellular phone was ringing. Kerry Flemmings, who lives just southwest of me, called to ask if we were OK." he said. Apparently Mr Flemmings was standing outside his home watching the storms when he saw rotation on the ground in a wheat field just north of his home. It touched down, then went right back up. It lowered from the cloud again right over the Price's home place and he saw debris flying south across a pasture next to the Prices home. This is when he called to check on his neighbors.

Larry Don stated he owes a big thank you to Dennis Farley a local weather spotter, who was on the scanner urgently telling people to seek shelter, that a possible tornado had been spotted. Thanks to that and alittle encouragement from his wife they managed to avoid any injury

8/20 Cut-Off Date For EM Loan Applications

Last week Plains Cotton Growers officials noted the possibility of pro-ducers becoming eligible for USDA Emergency Loans through implementation of overlooked Quality Adjustment Factors during the EM loan application process.

As a follow up to that report some questions regarding the window of opportunity to begin the EM loan application process have been asked by

According to the regulations, growers have nine months from date of the County Disaster declaration to apply for an Emergency loan. Going over a listing of disaster declarations and the deadlines for application indicate that all of the counties served by PCG fall under the same Disaster declaration and have a common application deadline for producers seeking loans. The deadline for loan applicatios to be initiated is August 20, 2001.

This date reflects the end of a period nine months after the initial declaration was made.

For purposes of eligibility the losses reported must have been caused contributed to as a result of the named disaster, primarily noted as drought and excessive heat. On a related note, growers who plan to apply for benefits under the second phase of the 2000 Crop Disaster Program, which may be announced very soon, would have to offset any amount received through that program when establishing their EM loan amount. With several months to go before the end of the application period, some growers may want to wait to see how much additional assistance they receive through the CDP's second phase before completing the EM loan application process. Proceeds from the CDP program offset the amount a grower can qualify for through the EM loan program and would be directly applied against nay EM loan the grower has in place, if received after the loan is ex-

2001 ARPA Gives FSA New Responsibilities

Findint a better way to deal with fraud and abuse within the Federal Crop Insurance Program was one of the driving forces behind the devel-opment of the Agricultural Risk Protection Act (ARPA) of 2000.

In addition to increased subsidies, the legislation brings with it some w rules regarding the handling of complaints and the way spot shecks for program compliance are handled. Starting with the 2001 crop, Farm Service Agency employees have received training and instructions regarding their responsibilities under the 2000 ARPA.

The legislation requires FSA to report suspected cases of insurance oud, waste or abuse to the USDA Risk Management Agency (RMA) for follow-up and investigation. FSA employees will also be helping RMA audit insurance claims during the growing season.

All crop insurance related activity at the county level will be coordi nated through the FSA State Office in College Station and the RMA Regional Compliance Center in Dallas. FSA's knowledge of potential crop insurance violations may be based on the results of the spot check procedure, personal observation in the field or on reports from concerned producers. All complaints or referrals will be confidential and the complainants can remain anonymous

Upon receiving a complaint or making an observation the county FSA office will document observations and gather evidence necessary to vali-date the report. At that point the process is transferred to the RMA Regional Compliance Office for further investigation.

Property Owners Receive 2001 Value Notices

State law requires county appraisal districts to notify property owners about changes in their property's value. On May 18, 2001, the Briscoe County Appraisal District mailed property owners notices showing their 2001 proposed value.

Carlye Fleming, chief appraiser of the district reminds prop erty owners that the notice of appraised value is not a tax bill.

"Please do not pay--this notice is not a tax bill," Fleming said. Fleming emphasized the importance of the notice and the key information that it contains. "A property owner has the right to appeal to the BriscoeCountyAppraisal Review Board on any disagreement with the property's value, exemptions, ownership, and other areas." she saic.

The appraisal review board, more commonly called the "ARB" an independent pinel of citizens responsible for hearing and settling protests fron property owners who disagree with some action by the appraial district. The notice includes instructions on how and when to ile a protest and a protest form.

What should a property owner look for on the notice? "Look at the proposed value for 2001." Fleming said. "The notice shows the land's value and any improvement(s) value for the property for the current year." Ar improvement is a building, structure, fence, or any other type of ixture to the land.

The appraisal notce also includes current year information on emptions granted in the property. It provides last year

Homeowners that qualify for property tax homestead exemp-tions have a limitation on their homes' appraised value. The appraisal district may not increase their home value by more than 10 percent for eacl year since the last reappraisal year A homeowner's reappaisal notice shows both the market value for the home and the linited home value.

Notices to propery owners whose values increased more than $500 also will include "estimated" taxes. These last year's tax rates. Generally, txing units set final 2001 tax rates in August and September. Fnal tax amounts may vary from these "estimated" amounts.

Fleming asks proerty owners to look carefully at the legal description and mailing address to be sure that there are no mistakes. "If the notic contains an old address, please let the appraisal district know. The post office forwards mail to a new address for a short tire only, and tax bills do not go out until October," Fleming said.

A property owne is responsible for informing the appraisal district of the correct sailing address. A property owner is liable for additional penaltie and interest on a tax bill that is not paid on time

Fleming added, 'f you did not get a notice and want 2001 infor mation about yourproperty, please call the appraisal district at (806) 823-2161. Te general deadline for protesting the ARB is June 29th.

Particle Film Technology Used On Plants

Vegetable, cotton, and citrus trees in the Rio Grande V alley could soon be covered in white. The white film is not a late snowfall. It is a new mathed reverses we have a state of the sta method growers use to protect their crops from insects and plant diseases. This new and cheaper method of managing pests is being tested on South Texas crops. Producers spray a white coating on plants that repels insects and diseases. The method is called particle film technology , and it leaves plants looking as if a light snow has fallen. It's been used successfully for a few years on fruit trees in the north, and the same technology has shown excellent results on Valley crops. Rain washes the coating off but winds are no problem because there is an adhesive agent in the mix.

Possible consumer Effects From Foot-And-Mouth

's are worried about foot-and-mouth disease outbreaks. Many people don't work in the agricultural industry and have limited contact with farming. These consumers have expressed concern about how this crisis could affect their families. Konrad Eugster is the executive director of the Texas Veterinary Medical Diagnostic Laboratory. He says there is no health field high the theorem of the families of the families in the families of the famil no health risk linked to eating beef from animals infected with foot-and-mouth disease. The price of beef in supermarkets is not likely to go up and beef shortages should not occur. The real concern is the effect the disease could have on the agricultural industry in the United States. If an outbreak occurs, other countries would stop importing meat products from our nation. The bigger risk is how the devastation of the agricultural industry could impact the whole economy.

Inexpensive Workouts Get Great Results

Getting the exercise necessary for good health doesn't have to be ex-ensive or time-consuming. Extension health specialist Carol Rice says exercise comes in two forms, aerobic and resistance. For inexpensive re-sistance training, lift weights at home using telephone books or canned food to improve upper body strength. Rice says resistance exercises build muscles and speed metabolism. Walking is an excellent form of aerobic exercise. It requires no equipment or gym membership and reduces de-pression and stress while delaying the onset of diabetes. Remember, every little bit helps. Rice suggests parking further from your office or tak-ing the stairs instead of the elevator.

Fresh Produce Food Safety Training May Become Essential For Growers

Food safety training is now available for producers. Extension hortirood safety training is now available for producers. Extension north-culturist Frank Dainello says growers need to become proactive in pre-venting food-borne pathogens in the field. If they don't current food safety guidelines could quickly become law. Contrary to common beliefs, food-borne pathogens pose a much greater risk to consumers of fresh produce than pesticides and herbicides. Death and hospitalization occur yearly because of the lack of simple precautions against food-borne pathogens. County extension offices are offering safety training seminars. For more information on food safety training contact your county extension agent.

The word Carnival comes from the Latin words for "goodbye to meat". As early as the Middle Ages a tradition developed that called for feasting prior to the 40-day period of fasting known as Lent. This became the Carnival.
