THEN and NOW!

by Eunice McFall

Have you ever heard someone say, "There's nothing I can do, after all I am only one person?" Do you feel that this is a true saying for the way life goes on today? Do you think that you would not be missed if you just suddenly disappeared from the face of the earth? Have you ever received a shocking notice of a death of someone that you thought was in good health? Do you think often of that person and wish that you could once again be in their presence? We do not have to be considered great in the eyes of the world to be missed. Everyone has a place to fill in this life and it cannot be filled by anyone else. No one can take the place of your brother or sister or mother or father. Some may come close but no one has the same personality, the same thoughts, the same way of expressing themselves as you do. You are very important to someone somewhere even if you do not realize it.

It only takes one person to start a ball rolling and it also just takes one person to stop the same ball from rolling. Do you want to be a starter or a stopper? The choice is up to you. Only you can decide where your talent lies. Only you can decide to get up in the morning with a smile on your face ready to face the day and accomplish something. Only you can make each person that you meet during the day feel that they are someone special in your life. Now that to me is really talent! A much needed talent in our hurry scurry world of today!

We can not be someone one that we aren't but we can be the best ME that is available even if we do have to work a bit harder than the neighbor down the road. It always looks easier when someone else does the job than when we try to learn something new doesn't it? Well they were not born knowing how to do the job they too had to begin at the beginning and learn the skill. So can you! I repeat no one can fill your shoes or take your place--you are a very unique person, a very important one!

When Thomas Jefferson presented his credentials as U. S. minister to France, the French premier remarked, "I see that you have come to replace Benjamin Franklin."

"I have come to succeed him," corrected Jefferson. "No one can replace him." And so it is with each of us, no one can replace us!

Emergency Farm Loan Applications Being Accepted

Applications for emergency farm loans for losses caused by natural disaster are being accepted at the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) office located in Memphis, Texas, FmHA County Supervisor John Perkins said today.

Hall County is one of five in Texas recently named by Secretary of Agriculture Mike Espy as eligible for loans to cover part of actual production losses resulting from the natural disaster.

Mr. Perkins said farmers may be eligible for loans of up to 80 percent of their actual losses or operating loan needed to continue in business. For farmers unable to obtain credit from private commercial lenders, the interest is 4.5 percent.

"As a general rule, a farmer must have suffered at least a 30 percent loss of production to be eligible for an FmHA emergency loan," Perkins said. Farmers participating in the PIK or Federal Crop Insurance program will have to figure in proceeds from those programs in determining their loss.

"Applications for loans under this emergency designation will be accepted until October 17, 1994, but farmers should apply as soon as possible. Delays in applying could create backlogs in processing and possibly over into the new farming season," Perkins said.

FmHA is a credit agency of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. It is authorized to provide disaster emergency loans to recognized farmers who work at and rely on farming for a substantial part of their living. Eligibility is extended to individual farmers who are U.S. citizens and to farming partnerships, corporations or cooperatives in which U. S. citizens hold a majority interest. The FmHA office in Memphis is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Mr. Scott states that small communities can no longer stay to themselves and survive economically. We need the support of our region to buy and sell our goods and services because the population is no longer there. Fewer people are available in West Texas. The ones that are left need to stick together and help each other.

Royce Pigg will be catering lunch and there will be a charge for the meal. A question and answer period will follow Mr. Scott's talk.

All interested business owners and individuals in the area are encouraged to attend this meeting.

March 20 National Agriculture Day

National Agriculture Day, March 20, and National Agriculture Week, March 14-20, coincide with the beginning of spring, when thousands of farmers across the country are preparing their fields for planting. The annual observance directs attention to the important contributions made by the food and agriculture industry, which are often overlooked in the hustle and bustle of modern America.

Few people realize the U. S. agriculture industry represents nearly 16 percent of the Gross Domestic Product and an estimated 21 million jobs. In Texas, agriculture is the second largest industry. Our state's food and fiber system generates almost $12 billion a year in sales and pumps more than $36 billion dollars into Texas' economy, stated Rick Perry Agriculture Commissioner.

Cotton Shirts That Don't Need Ironing

Today's movement to wrinkle-resistant slacks and shirts is not merely a recycling of the durable press and wash-and-wear products of yesteryear. These new fabrics are newly engineered with advanced technology, some of which was pioneered by Cotton Incorporated.
 An all-cotton, non-shrinking, durable-press shirt has been the Holy Grail of garment manufacturers for years...until now. Japanese and American companies have engineered cotton shirts that require little or no ironing. These shirts should be available on retail shelves by Father's Day.
 Like today's cotton shirts, the no-iron variety will be slightly more expensive than blends. However, the industry expects people who now wear blends to switch to the easier-care, natural fiber.

Cooking Corner Tips To Help You

Winter Baking with Apple Sauce: Healthier and Delicious!

(NAPS)—Here's an idea you may warm up to on a chilly day: Why not treat your family—and yourself—to a delicious home baked treat? Few things smell and taste as good as a fresh-from-the-oven dessert—one that you know is healthier and nutritious because you've baked it yourself with apple sauce, a marvelous fat-free substitute for butter, oil or shortening in baking.

Delicious low-fat cakes and sweet treats can be baked with apple sauce instead of butter, oil or shortening.

Apple sauce provides moisture and stability when used as a fat alternative in a variety of recipes, from cakes and muffins to breads and even box cake mixes, say the experts at Mott's® U.S.A. When you use apple sauce instead of oil, you can greatly reduce the amount of fat and calories in many homemade favorites, from savory cornbread to pineapple upside down cake.

For example, take this recipe for Mott's® Bake Lite Low Fat Apricot Carrot Bread developed by the Better Homes and Gardens® test kitchen. This bread is made with apple sauce instead of oil and it has just 160 calories and 2.9 grams of fat per serving, compared to 176 calories and 5.2 grams of fat per serving in a conventional recipe.

Apricot Carrot Bread

- 1 3/4 cups all purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/4 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 whole egg, beaten
- 1/2 cup granulated sugar
- 1/2 cup Mott's® Natural Apple Sauce
- 1/2 cup carrots, finely shredded

- 2 tablespoons vegetable oil
- 1/3 cup dried apricots, snipped to small bits
- 1/2 cup powdered sugar
- 2 teaspoons Mott's® Apple Juice

1. Preheat oven to 350°F. Spray an 8x4x2 inch loaf pan with cooking spray.

2. In a large mixing bowl combine flour, baking powder, baking soda, and salt.

3. In a medium size bowl combine beaten egg, sugar, Mott's® Natural Apple Sauce, carrots, and vegetable oil. Add all this at once to dry ingredients; stir just until moistened (batter will be thick). Fold in apricots.

4. Pour batter into prepared loaf pan and bake 45 to 50 minutes or until a toothpick inserted comes out clean. Remove from oven and let cool. Wrap loaf and store overnight before slicing.

Powdered Sugar Icing:
 In a small bowl combine 1/2 cup sifted powdered sugar and 2 teaspoons Mott's® Apple Juice or water to make a drizzling consistency. Before serving, drizzle loaf with icing.

 Dear Friends at the Tribune,
 We're moving to Weatherford, Texas on March 11, 1994. Have bought an acre of "country" outside town and have plans to build on for our blessed and growing family. The shop Rayford works for now is also in Weatherford. Can't wait for the return to a small town atmosphere although leaving our church (Dr. Bob Beck's in Fort Worth) is very hard.
 New Address: 604 Gun Barrel Road, Weatherford, Texas 76086.
 We will probably move my mother, Jo Persons but there is no rush. I can still visit her from Weatherford.

Cotton Featured In Showing

According to a recent article in the trade publication Women's Wear Daily, (WWD) cottons, both woven and knit, were a top story in lounge wear and sleepwear at the recent Intimate Apparel Salon in New York City. At this showcase of up-and-coming innerwear designers and smaller firms, spring and transition lines were the main attraction.

According to WWD, major tones included sand, beige and taupe. Cotton was prevalent in foundations with pretty embellishments, oversized shirts and boxer shorts, camisoles, gowns, robes and at home wear such as tunics over wide-leg pants.

As I write this column the special session has been over two days, I regret exceedingly the unfortunate outcome of the thirty-two day meeting of the legislators. The sad part of it is that nothing was done to help the needy people, the blind and the underprivileged children—notwithstanding repeated exhortations and warnings. Not only that, but Texas will lose several million dollars of Federal funds to carry on this program.

An eight pound daughter was born Monday morning at a Clovis, NM, hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Olan Ward, who live west of Quitaque.

B. F. Kirk, superintendent of the school at Flomot, was in Quitaque Monday on business and made a visit to the "Post" office. He said that school at Flomot has reopened but that hardly fifty percent of the children were in regular attendance as there was still lots of cotton to be gathered.

He also stated that interest was high in the Quitaque-Flomot game to be played Thanksgiving day at Quitaque and that the Flomot fans would likely be "coming to town."

Mr. Kirk had a small replica of a very attractive new curtain for the stage in the school auditorium at Flomot for which he was selling advertising space.

Help Offered To Plan Landscapes

South Plains residents who find their "green thumbs" itching to do some Spring beautification around their yards, can get some professional guidance here Saturday, March 19, during an all-day Landscape Development Workshop for individuals and families.

Conducting the training will be Dr. Steve George, associate professor and horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service at Dallas, and a faculty of leading landscape architects and designers from the South Plains.

The workshop will be from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. at Bailey Bookstore, 4835 50th St. It is sponsored by the Extension Service, West Texas Arts and Botanical Society, South Plains Extension Master Gardeners and the Lubbock County Extension Office.

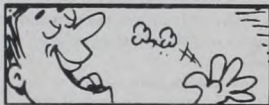

To provide individual instruction and counseling, only 40 registrants will be accepted, said Stanley Young, Lubbock County extension agent. A family will be counted as a single registrant. There will be a fee to register. Participants are encouraged to bring a plan of their property or a diagram showing dimensions of the yard and buildings.

From 9 a.m. until noon, George will lecture, demonstrate and discuss home landscape designs, development and remodeling. From 1 to 2 p.m. participants will write designs, work on plans for their yards and ask questions of the faculty.

From 2 to 6 p.m. each registrant will have a 20 minute consultation with George or other landscape professionals. Among these will be James Harris, of James B. Harris Associates; Elaine Shields, vice-president for landscape design critics counsel, Texas Garden Club, Inc., and Chuck Sudduth, of Chuck Sudduth Associates.

Participants will receive the Sunset Publishing book on landscape design and remodeling; a book on adapted plants by the Texas Association of Nurseries and current Extension Service brochures on home horticulture.

To register, write to Dr. Roland E. Roberts, Extension Service horticulturist, Route 3, Box 213 AA, Lubbock, Tx 79401 (telephone 806-746-6101). Registration fee received after the class is filed will be returned.

What Causes Mental Illness

I'm not sure that anyone knows what causes mental illness definitely but some factors are:

1. Environment- our experiences with people and things around us in our family, school and job. Some of us have many tensions or stressors that will leave a mark on us emotionally, if not coped with effectively.

2. Physical Causes-some physical illnesses can damage to brain tissue. Body chemistry can play a part, also.

3. Heredity-can be a factor. The relationship between heredity and environment in causing mental illness is not yet clear.

Some warning signs may be:
Anxiety- a prolonged, severe feeling that something unpleasant is going to happen, even though there is no apparent cause for worry.

Depression-more than the "blues"; leading to withdrawal from the outside world; not caring what's going on.

Physical Complaint-with no organic cause.

Sudden change-action inconsistent with normal behavior.

If any of the above symptoms are prolonged and severe, it's time to get a professional opinion. Often, understanding the cause can clear away the symptoms.

Business With a Handshake

Courtesy Stan Gray

With little more than a handshake backed up by an old-fashioned, honest business ethic, Hayden Carter has built hundreds and hundreds of homes in the Paragould area.

And Carter's way of doing business coupled with the fact that he has helped so many people get into a house of their own, has earned him a tremendous amount of respect in Greene County, Arkansas.

Carter, 77, of 103 Madonna Dr., Paragould, attributes his long, successful building career to "treating people right." That also holds true in the everyday business of just living, he adds.

Carter's building career started in California after he left his native Oklahoma for the golden west "to seek my fortune."

He went to work for a dairy company in Hanford, California, and was off work each afternoon by 2 or 3. Carter said he gradually got into building by doing carpentry work part-time in the afternoons.

"After a while I got up enough nerve to turn loose and build one on my own. I built the first several houses with a handsaw. I was afraid to death to invest $33.50 in a Sears-Roebuck electric saw," he said.

"Since I've come to Arkansas there hasn't been a day that I haven't had a house under construction," he said.

Carter said he and his late wife, Nora, both devout members of the Church of Christ, decided to move to Searcy in the early 1950's so their children could attend a Christian school, but they heard about the newly-opened Crowley's Ridge Academy and decided to move to Center Hill.

And he started building houses in Greene County. And he built houses and he built houses.

"I've been asked about 350 times how many houses I've built. I had one person ask me this morning and two people asked me yesterday," he said during an interview Wednesday.

"I'd say around 700 or it might be 800 or 900. I've been intending to get out one of these days and count them," he said.

All of those early houses were smaller, one bathroom structures. "I never did go in for the real expensive homes. There for a while I wouldn't build a house with two baths in it. I thought that was too much," said Carter.

He built the kind of houses a working couple could afford. "It was something they could buy. They couldn't of bought a more expensive home," he explained.

Carter not only built the homes, he also financed many of the houses in his subdivisions. "Somebody said I've helped people get into houses as much as FHA and the VA combined, but that's going too far," Carter related.

"I've traded for hogs, cows and cars that didn't run. I've took them all for down payments," he recalled with a smile.

But in a world where it seems easy credit often leads to bankruptcy and a mountain of unpaid bills, Carter said every mortgage he ever carried has been paid off. "I don't guess I've lost a dime on a one of them."

He also said he doesn't believe in contracts. "I've only signed one contract in my life. I just believe a fellow who wants to sign a contract has got something up his sleeve," he said.

About the only other construction Carter has been involved in besides building houses was church related. He has helped to build about 10 churches, along with projects at CRA and Crowley's Ridge College.

The Gay Carter Activity Center on the CRC campus is named after his late daughter. And a memorial plaque has been added in honor of his wife.

Carter said the death of his wife in 1991 was the hardest thing he's lived through. "When she died, I wanted to die, too. But people kept encouraging me. When my great-grandchildren hugged me around the legs and looked up at me and said 'Grandpa, I love you,' well I thought maybe that's enough of a reason to want to get out and do something."

He and his two sons, Tommy and Alan, and grandsons carry on the business today. Tommy and Alan went off to college and came home and said they wanted to build houses and I guess we've been busy ever since," he said.

Carter also went off to college himself in the 1970's and earned a bachelor's degree in social studies from Arkansas State University. He also taught Bible courses "free Enjoyed receiving a letter from Mary Hogue of Post. Mrs. Hogue is a former resident of Turkey. She sent her check to renew her subscription to the Valley Tribune. Mary stated she thoroughly enjoys reading the paper as she can keep up with her friends in Turkey. She reports she is doing ok, but needs to return to Turkey every once in awhile for a visit.

Last week-end Zach Green, son of the Doctor's James Green of Wichita Falls, was a visitor in the home of his grandparents, Keith and Bettie Green. Zach was returned to his home last Tuesday by Jana Johnson and his great grandmother, Kathleen Green. Jana had a dental appointment that day with Doctor James Green.

The week-end before, Brent Marshall of Matador and Jana Johnson, a student at WTA&M in Canyon were Sunday guests of the Keith Greens.

Bud Richardson of Tulia was in Turkey last Tuesday and Wednesday. He came to stay with his brother-in-law, Arville Setliff, while his sister, Lorene Setliff, worked at the Primary Elections. Bud renewed his subscription to the Valley Tribune, as evidently he had missed his name in the paper when their subscriptions expired. When Bud and Alice quit receiving the paper, they checked on it and realized that it had indeed expired. He said, "We've got to have our Valley Tribune!!!"

gratis" for several years at CRC. "They gave me a raise every year," he quipped.

Carter said he is now building homes for a third generation in Greene County. "I've built houses for grandpa and grandma, the sons and daughters, and now the grandchildren.

"I've always been known as the fellow who wears the striped overalls. When I first started wearing them they were 79 cents a pair. Now they're $36 a pair. That tells you how long I've been at it," said Carter.

Hayden Carter is the brother of Ralph Carter of Quitaque.

Shane House has recently moved from Turkey. Shane, son of Mike and Susie House is a new employee of Wal-Mart in Plainview. He is living in the country home where Glen D. Pigg used to live. The house is located east of Plainview.

When last Tuesday's snow melted away, Squint and Betty House drove to Junction to spend a few days at their fishing cabin on the Llano.

They were met at that location by their grand daughter, Audra House, a student at John Tarleton College in Stephenville. Audra brought several of her friends with her from college. Squint and Betty returned home soon after the girls arrived and left the fishing to them. Audra is now a certified Nurses Aid.

Delores Price returned home last Friday after spending several days in Lubbock last week with her mother, Velma Lacy, who had surgery. Mrs. Lacy remains a patient in St. Mary's Hospital where she is taking therapy.

Don't forget to pay your T.V. tower dues. You can pay them at the bank in Turkey or Quitaque. I paid ours last week at the Turkey Bank.

After attending a horse show last week-end near Childress, Beth Mills drove to Turkey to visit her parents, the Jess Mullins and other relatives and friends.

While visiting with my daughter, Brenda, by phone, the other night she said she had had a great time in Austin. She attended the High School Girls Sate Basketball Tournery. While there she visited with Bill Hulsey, a former valley Coach. Bill is now coaching at Friendship with another ex-Valley Coach, Robert Phelps. She also visited with a cousin, Sherry Haynes, who coaches at Roosevelt. She said the only time she sees Sherry is in Austin.

Keep in mind the Turkey Methodist Church revival-April 10-13. The revival speaker is Jerry Moore.

Louis and Oleta Randell were in Childress Saturday visiting with Audrey Whitaker, Lurline Walker and Oleta Crump in the Childress Nursing Center.

Safety Tips About Flying Your Kites

Spring is in the air, and so is the wind. It's the perfect opportunity for kids to fly their kites. West Texas Utilities Company reminds kids, and adults too, there are certain safety precautions that should be taken concerning kites and power lines.

* Never use wire, tinsel or any metal in kites or string- they can conduct electricity.

*Never fly a kite near power lines. Electricity always takes the path of least resistance to the ground. It could go through the string to your body. Choose a wide open field to fly kites.

*If a kite is caught in a power line, Leave It There. Parents should call WTU for assistance, and properly trained personnel with safety equipment will take care of getting the kite down.

* Do not fly kites on rainy days when there is a possibility of lightning arcing to the string.

Eat Healthy Live Longer

by Ronda Alexander
Health and nutrition are key words that we hear over and over. It is up to each individual to learn what good health and good nutrition are all about.

Factors that affect our health include: what we eat and drink, how much we exercise and whether or not we smoke. Scientists have found that: eating a diet high in fat, saturated fat and cholesterol increase the risks of heart disease; eating a diet high in fat of all kinds can increase risks of several cancers, including breast, colon and prostate; eating too little fiber increase risk of colon cancer and can aggravate some digestive tract problems; too much sodium contributes to high blood pressure and stroke in some people; and sugar and other sticky carbohydrates contribute to tooth decay.

Eating healthy isn't as difficult as it may seem. It simply means: learning about good nutrition, reading the label to make healthier choices, eating a variety of foods (such as fruits, vegetables and bread/cereals), eating fewer fried foods or fatty meats and exercising.

Inhalants & Poisons Awareness Week

Nearly 300 organizations in 135 Texas cities will be joined by 180 organizations in 42 other states in a grassroots campaign to combat a "silent epidemic" during Inhalants & Poisons Awareness Week, March 20-26, initiated by the Texas Prevention Partnership.

The Texas Prevention Partnership is a public-private effort initiated and funded in part by the Texas Commission on Alcohol and Drug Abuse. TPP has been conducting a comprehensive inhalant prevention program since 1990.

The education and awareness week comes in the wake of a recent national survey which found by the time American youth reach the eighth grade, one in five has sniffed a legal substance to get high, making inhalants the third most abused substance after alcohol and tobacco for that age group. The rate of usage of inhalants among eighth graders is double that of marijuana.

The University of Michigan study, conducted for the National Institute on Drug Abuse (NIDA) and released in February, confirmed what many educators, law officers and parents had feared-that inhalant abuse is increasing among middle school students (6-8th grades). Among eighth graders, the use of inhalants increased 17.4 percent from 1992 to 1993.

"Crack cocaine and marijuana are making headlines, but far more of our 12-14 year olds are abusing common household products," said Harry Weiss, executive director of the Texas Prevention Partnership.

Chronic inhalant abusers suffer irreversible brain damage. First-time users have died from powerful adrenaline surges that short-circuit the heart. Kidney, liver, lung and bone marrow damage can also develop.

Dr. Richard Scatterday, an Irving, Texas expert on the medical effects of inhalants, said the dangers from first-time use of inhalants cannot be overemphasized: "It appears that the risk of sudden death with any given episode of inhalant use exceeds that presented by any other drug of abuse".

The long-term University of Michigan study parallels findings of inhalant abuse in Texas: one in four Texas seventh graders has sniffed or "huffed" common household products.

Weiss, who founded the National Inhalant Prevention Coalition which is partially supported by the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, said inhalant abuse has been a "silent epidemic" which only recently has gained the attention of the media at the national level.

"Inhalants strike our youngest and most vulnerable non-renewable resources," Weiss said. "Communities across this country are joining together to begin to change this devastating trend."

Join us March 20-26 for Inhalants & Poisons Awareness Week and help combat this major problem. For more information contact: Texas Prevention Partnership, 1615 Guadalupe Street, Suite 201, Austin, Texas 78701, phone (512-480-8953).
