1972 Texas Highway Map Is Better Than Ever

AUSTIN—Gleaming new stretches of Interstate highways, more miles of four-lane divided facilities, several new lakes and a new National park make this year's 1972 Official Highway Travel Map better than ever.

The free map, published by the Texas Highway Department, is a perennial favorite with Texas motorists. Projections for 1972 call for distribution as high as 1.4 million.

This year's map includes the addition of Lake Fairfield in Freestone County and Decker Lake in Travis County. Lake Palestine, located in Henderson, Smith, Cherokee and Anderson counties, has been on the map for several years. This year, however, the water impoundment has been enlarged considerably.

The new map reflects construction, realignment and improvement of many types of highway facilities in the State-maintained system.

The publication shows that about 130 miles of Interstate highways have been added to the State's highway network. Texas now has 2,922 miles of Interstate highways open to traffic. When the national Interstate system is complete, Texas will have 3,176 miles of IH routes.

The map shows that several important gaps in the State's Interstate system have been closed. These include:

A 40-mile segment of IH 30 between Mount Pelasant and New Boston, completing IH 30 between Dallas and Texarkana.

A 32-mile segment of IH 45 between Streetman and Buffalo, completing IH 45 between Dallas and Galveston.

Ten-mile and 31-mile segments of IH 20 between Abilene and Fort Worth.

The '72 map shows that some 265 miles of divided highways have been added to the State system. This gives Texas 5,695 miles of four-lane divided facilities. Four lane divided highways are an important safety measure in an effort to cut down on head-on accidents.

The new map will reflect a new U. S. Highway 380 designation from Greenville in Hunt County, westward to near Old Glory in Stonewall County. In addition, the map will show the new boundaries of the Guadalupe Mountain National Park located in Hudspeth and Culberson counties.

Visitors will find expert assistance in planning travels in Texas at 11 tourist information bureaus operated by the Highway Department, including the Roy Bean Visitor Center and Cactus Garden at Langtry and in the Capitol in Austin.

The other tourist information bureaus are located at key highway gateways at Anthony, Laredo, Orange, Waskom, Texarkana, Denison, Gainesville, Wichita Falls and Amarillo.

Each bureau and information center is operated by trained travel counselors who assist more than one million visitors annually.

Other features of the '72 map include listings of Highway Department district offices, Department of Public Safety Offices and State Parks. A handy conversion table turns kilometers to miles and liters to gallons.

Safety rest areas are designated on the map with a small blue dot, comfort stations with the familiar blue square.

The Texas Highway Department provides approximately 1,100 safety rest areas, roadside parks and scenic turnouts for the safety and convenience of highway users in Texas.

Copies of the 1972 Official Highway Travel Map are available at Highway Department Tourist Bureaus and at Department district offices. The map is one of the most popular of the more than 7.3 million pieces of travel-oriented literature distributed each year by the Texas Highway Department.

The map also may be ordered directly by sending name, address and ZIP code to Texas Highway Department, Travel and Information Division, P. O. Box 5064, Austin, Texas 78763.

SHIRTTAIL SERMON

In the fourth chapter of Ephesians, the first verse tells, "I therefore, a prisoner for the Lord, beg you to lead a life worthy of the calling to which you have been called."

Jesus calls in many ways, such as through needs of people, in the events of history, and also in current events.

In the first place, God is the one who calls. Your response depends on how deeply you believe this to be true. "Follow me," Jesus said to Levi and he got up from his tax table and followed the master.

In the second place, God has called, at infinite pain to himself, we are told in I Corinthians 6:20, "You are bought with a price."

In the third place, God has a purpose in his call. He wants men for a life of fellowship and service in the world.

You are called: doctors, nurses, teachers, farmers, housewives, merchants, salesmen, lawyers, preachers, missionaries, and many, many others—all of us. Will we answer?

PLANS MADE TO CONTROL MESQUITE, OTHER BRUSH

Many ranchers in the Hall-Childress Soil and Water Conservation District are making plans to control mesquite and other species of brush on their rangeland this winter, according to James L. McDonald, soil conservationist. McDonald stated that the Hall County Conservation Needs Inventory shows there to be 576,000 acres in Hall County. A total of 325,000 acres are in rangeland and of this, 60% or 204,000 acres are in need of brush control and improved stand of range grasses. McDonald said, "Brush control by tree-doing is best done during the months of December through June, as this is the time to seed range grasses."

Range seeding is a very important part of the tree dozing process as the original grasses are uprooted along with the brush. When brush control and range seeding is done grasses are introduced into the grubbed area thus preventing an annual vegetative crop of weeds.

Farmers and ranchers who are doing brush control by tree dozing and seeding on their operating units are: Mack Richards, Woodrow Mullin, Howard Richardson and Henry House, George Gafford, Lee Scrivner, Mona Roberson and J. C. Johnson have controlled brush by tree dozing. The Del Norte Grazing Association, Zack Fisher and Rayford Hutcherson all carried on aerial spraying operations as a mean of brush control. For information concerning brush control and range seeding, contact the Soil Conservation Service office in Memphis.

Ed Matefski and C. E. Castner, both of Pampa, caught 12 channel catfish that weighed a total of 56 pounds while fishing at Lake Theo Sunday. There were 67 fishermen purchasing fishing permits Sunday at the lake which is now under the management of Charles Grantham. Shaded picnic tables, a boat and fishing dock and restrooms are under construction at the lake this week.

What do Ed McMahon, Bob Lilly, Bob Hayes, Phyllis Diller, The Carpenters, The Lettermen and Charley Pride have in common?

They all "Drive Friendly." And they're telling Texans of their own personal ways of driving friendly on a new series of radio public service announcements now being distributed to more than 400 stations by the Texas Office of Traffic Safety Administration.

In one of the announcements, Ed McMahon, Johnny Carson's food-and-drink-loving sidekick on the "Tonight" show, admits that he does "enjoy a nip every once in a while."

"But," he says, "I never drink when I'm going to have to do the driving home. If you plan to drink, let someone else drive. That's just one more way to 'Drive Friendly'—the Texas way."

The entertainers and athletes on this new record, which is third in the series, join a long list of state and national personalities who support the Governor's traffic safety program.

Thank you for the words of comfort and concern, your gift of flowers, the food and those who served it, the ministers and the song service. It is only in a small town where these things are done in such a great way. It has helped to make our burden more bearable. May God bless each and every one of you. The family of Mary Jewel Grimm
