ART GRADUATES WORK DISPLAYED IN LIBRARY

A collection of published book illustrations now on display in the Tech library features the work of Arvis L. Stewart, Tech art graduate and popular illustrator of children's literature and textbooks. Stewart's work has received wide acclaim and has been reproduced in "Illustrations 11" and "Illustrations 12," volumes devoted to the best in contemporary art selected from exhibitions sponsored by the National Society of Illustrators. Working mainly with ink, charcoal and watercolor, Stewart reveals a broad range of interests, with emphasis on nature and history. Typical examples of his talent are found in such books as Alice Christgav's "The Laugh Peddler," Peter Neumeyer's "The Faithful Fish," both published by Young Scott Books, the Whitman Classics edition of Louisa Mae Alcott's "Little Women," and "Still Waters of the Air," issued by Dial Press. After receiving his degree from Tech in 1965, Stewart went to New York where he worked for a time as a free lance illustrator for Corchia Group Studio before stepping out professionally on his own. A native of Hall County, Stewart attended high school in Amarillo. He is married to the former Angela Adams. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Stewart, grandson of Mrs. Leo Stewart of Turkey, and a nephew of Mrs. Bruce Price of Quitaque.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Foster of Amarillo spent Christmas and thru Saturday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Denver Anderson.

Holiday visitors at the James Barefield home were their children, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burnam and family of Amarillo; Mr. and Mrs. Phil Barefield, Hereford; Mr. and Mrs. John Bingham and girls of Coahoma; and Rev. and Mrs. Richard Pittman and girls, Wolforth.

TURKEY SCHOOL DISTRICT ANNOUNCES NEW FREE AND REDUCED LUNCH PRICE POLICY

The Turkey Independent School District has long recognized the need for helping meet the nutritional needs of its students. The Turkey Schools serve a well-balanced nutritious lunch each school day. The charge to students who can pay is 40 cents; however, since some families find it difficult to pay this full price the school will provide these lunches free of charge or at a reduced price to those children determined by the principals to be unable to pay the full price for their lunches.

Families who feel that their children may be eligible for free or reduced price lunches are urged to apply. Copies of the application form will be sent home in a letter to parents later. Additional forms may be obtained at the Superintendent's office. The completed application, signed by an adult member of the family should be sent to the Principal's office, at the Turkey Schools. Such applications will be reviewed promptly and within 3 days the family will be notified in writing as of the decision made. All information provided on the application will be held in the strictest confidence.

Any unusual circumstances or hardships which affect the family's ability to pay for school lunches, such as prolonged illness in the family, unexpected expenses due to fire, flood, or any other disaster of this nature; seasonal unemployment and similar emergency situations, will also be considered.

If a family is not satisfied with the decision made on its application, it may request a hearing to appeal the decision. This request may be made orally or in writing to the office of Superintendent Loran Denton, who will review the application with them to see if different arrangements can be made.

The school district's formal free and reduced price policy statement and the procedure that will be followed when a decision is appealed are on file in the Superintendent's office, and may be reviewed by any interested person.

What makes No Tillage work?
 An efficient contact herbicide mixed with a residual herbicide to kill existing vegetation so that soil cover doesn't compete with a newly developing crop.

Equipment planning is relatively simple since No Tillage requires less equipment than conventional planting. The only "special" equipment needed is a No Tillage planter. Several equipment companies manufacture No Tillage planters. Or, conventional equipment can easily be adapted to No Tillage.

Leaving a good cover crop all but eliminates wind and water erosion. Moisture is not worked out of the soil. Good covers can withstand sudden rainfall up to three inches without undue washing, and conserves moisture by preventing runoff.

No Tillage also means improved soil structure. The once-over operation eliminates seedbed preparation trips normally made across the field. This reduces compaction, and increases penetration of water into the soil where it's stored for crop use.

Tips On Upholstery Care

Time spent keeping upholstered furniture clean today will pay dividends in longer life and better looks. Upholstered furniture represents a substantial investment, and it merits planned and careful care. Soil and stain unattended soon become difficult, if not impossible, to remove. Here are some tips for keeping your upholstered furniture in like new condition:

CARE BEGINS BEFORE YOU BUY . . . Before you buy any upholstered furniture, ask yourself, "How will it wear and clean?" Most fabrics used today are blends of different yarns. Durability and shrinkage cannot be determined for every blend on the market and do not correspond with the characteristics of fabrics rated individually. Generally, tighter fabric weaves indicate quality and give longer wear.

ROUTINE UPHOLSTERY CARE . . . Vacuum once a week and reverse cushions. Keep furniture away from direct sunlight. Brush with "soft" brush only (stiff brushes can damage fabric fibers). Remove spots immediately. Use partial slip covers (on arm and head rests since they receive the most wear).

RECOMMENDED CLEANING PRODUCTS . . . For synthetic fibers and cotton you may use light-duty detergent foam (but this is risky because the liquid may cause over-wetting and also must be rinsed). Or use Upholstery Shampoo specially formulated to dry into solid, hard crystals for easy removal by vacuuming. For leather, use saddle soap, paste wax, leather preservative or Upholstery Shampoo. For plastics, use a mild detergent-and-water solution or Upholstery Shampoo. For fabric over foam rubber, use Upholstery Shampoo (never use spirit solvent cleaning fluids because they can damage the rubber padding).

Compression Is Therapy for Leg Problems

How does medical science treat varicose veins and other severe leg problems caused by faulty circulation of the blood? "There is a variety of treatments, including surgery in serious cases," said William O. Elson, director of medical research for the Bauer & Black division of the Kendall Company, "but the most common and most effective therapy, in most cases, is simply compression."

"Down through history," Elson continued, "compression was achieved by a number of primitive and clumsy methods." Even today, some women bandage their legs, an inexact and sometimes dangerous practice.

"Because of new synthetic elastic, which is stronger and more durable than rubber itself, and which is lightweight and washable as well, science has approached the ideal of achieving perfect, and comfortable, compression in modern elastic stockings," Elson said.

Only elastic hosiery provides the true compression which varicose veins require for support, Elson pointed out. He cautioned against the use of "support" hosiery when the doctor has prescribed elastic stockings, although Bauer & Black manufactures both types.

Tip For Older Women
 The scientist also offered a valuable tip to older women: "While you can buy Ultra Sheer elastic stockings which are almost indistinguishable from ordinary nylon hosiery, surgical weight elastic stockings are still a great value. It is true that their appearance is not so chic as the others, but they provide much warmth, as well as firm support. Durable surgical weight elastic stockings are still a great favorite with many women who have worn them for years. They do their shopping in them — and switch to ultra sheer elastic for social occasions."

When To Put Them On
 Elson also suggested that women who need elastic hosiery for support should learn to get used to putting the stockings on before getting out of bed each morning.

"Since compression is the key to their effectiveness, it is wise to put on the stockings before the weight of the body's blood supply distends the veins," the researcher said.

One more point was made by Elson with regard to ideal compression through elastic hosiery: "It is important that such stockings be scientifically knitted, so that the foot and the ankle receive more compression than the calf or the upper leg. This is just the opposite effect from that which is created when a manufacturer depends only upon the elastic material to give compression — for the ankle, of course, is much smaller than the calf."

New Hybrids Aid Texas Farmers In Fighting Sorghum Diseases

For the Texas farmer whose livelihood depends on sorghum production, the ability to recognize sorghum diseases may determine his profit potential.

The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at College Station has conducted extensive disease surveys on the problem for several years. They have found downy mildew present in 63 Texas gulf coast counties.

Economic losses to farmers in only ten coastal counties were estimated by Texas A & M officials at 2.5 million dollars in one year.

Progress to combat sorghum diseases is being made, however. Researchers at Northrup, King and Co., one of the nation's leading grain seed producers, recommends farmers take the following steps to minimize damage and loss:

1. Rotate non-related crops regularly.
2. Destroy sorghum stubble as soon after harvest as possible. This reduces organism buildup.
3. Plant resistant sorghum varieties.

The company's researchers report the development of two new downy mildew resistant sorghum hybrids which are now available to farmers. These hybrids, they say, are the best and most practical means to avoid sorghum disease infection.

Both new hybrid varieties resist downy mildew, head smut and other foliar diseases. The hybrids are: NK 233, an early maturing sorghum and NK 266, a medium maturing sorghum.

Many Texas sorghum farmers have suffered poor yields because of downy mildew and other diseases. The new hybrids are expected to go a long way towards solving these problems and boosting sagging farm profits.

Fields severely infected with downy mildew (right) show an extremely ragged appearance. Yields can be reduced 60 to 70% under severe infection.

WINGS FOR THINGS

1970: 10 billion ton-miles
1985: 180 billion ton-miles

World air cargo shipments in the next fifteen years will increase by a factor of eighteen, the International Civil Aviation Organization predicts. Ten billion ton-miles will be flown in 1970; this will increase to nearly 180 billion ton-miles in 1985. U.S. manufacturers today build nearly 75 percent of the transport aircraft operated by free-world air carriers. The international preference for U.S. transports is based on proven records for operating efficiency, reliability and ease of maintenance, all backed by a global network of manufacturers' service organizations.

Today's Babies — Active, Alert, Aware

One of the best ways for modern parents to assure their babies will tune in and turn on to the world around them is to provide them with plenty of mental and physical stimuli from their earliest moments.

Right from the start, a baby's senses are taking in the world around him and reacting to it, and it's a wise parent who provides the proper atmosphere for the development of baby's senses of sight, sound, touch and smell.

Today's new parents can look to a number of innovations on the market which will provide the babies with the proper aids to growth and development.

For instance, Scott Paper Company has developed a disposable diaper, babyScott, which insures complete freedom of movement for baby. Its trim, low-cut front and snug closing provides both comfort and protection. Consisting of a disposable pad, bikini style plastic panty babyScott eliminates the droopy maxi fit of conventional diapers which tend to restrict baby's movements. Thus freed baby is free to react to the world around him.

Modern parents will want that world to be one which will stimulate baby's mental and physical growth. Even his toys can be a means of awakening his powers of thinking and acting.

As an example, a series of playthings has been designed to help develop a baby's leg and arm muscles, balance and coordination.

In the collection is a stylized rocking horse called "Rocking Beauty" which a very young child can utilize Happiness for a baby is an interesting toy, and the freedom to enjoy it. Scott Paper Company has developed a disposable diaper, babyScott, which insures complete freedom of movement for the developing child because of its trim, low-cut front and snug closing. Consisting of a disposable pad, bikini style plastic panty, babyScott's trim fit allows a baby to enjoy toys such as Creative Playthings' "Rocking Beauty" stylized rocking horse.

to develop a sense of rhythm. Another is a "Crawligator," a wheeled support for baby's stomach, which encourages his arms and legs to move freely. The group by Creative Playthings includes other play systems such as, a handsome jungle gym, hanging mobiles to stimulate the eye and toys which challenge a youngster's mechanical and counting ability.

Many of today's child experts agree that a baby begins learning the minute he is born and stimulating his senses of sight, sound, touch and smell is the surest way to start him on the road to knowledge, of himself and the world around him.

CHILD'S PLAY

BY BARBARA ALLEN
ASTRONAUTS ARE TODAY'S HEROES

Our children's heroes are different from those of their older brothers and parents—but the ingredients are basically the same.

In past years, young boys pretended to be detectives, soldiers, cowboys. Now they've turned their eyes skyward to the world of astronauts—right in keeping with the image of daring, courage, intelligence and "good guy" that we parents try to foster.

But, our children want to select their own heroes and the way they've been buying Ideal Toy's S.T.A.R. (Space Travel and Reconnaissance) TEAM space equipment is a good indication the astronauts are today's favorites.

Before man set foot on the moon, space toys weren't all that popular. And, most of them were in the form of "dolls" for boys.

However, with S.T.A.R. TEAM gear, our youngsters actually can be astronauts, rather than playing with them, because this realistic and authentic equipment is worn by the youngster.

It includes a helmet with headphone and amber gold dome giving the young space man the same tinted view of the universe seen by the moon walkers, air cushion space boots, a remote gripper device, ionization nebulizer to "deradiate" moon samples and space equipment belt with anti-gravity tool, signal communicator, life support system and scanner scope.

Around my house, these toys have provided countless hours of imaginative playtime.

Now, the latest development for our children is the new S.T.A.R. TEAM club complete with official membership card, ring, jacket patch, space map and map case. Your child can get his membership blank from your local toy dealer. If for some reason it's inconvenient for you to take him to the store, he may become a member by sending $1 with his name and address to S.T.A.R. TEAM Command, P. O. Box 612, Rosemount, Minn. 55068.
