

TEXAS BAPTISTS TO SWEEP STATE WITH "LIVING PROOF"

Texas Baptists are about to sweep the state with "Living Proof," an unparalleled media evangelism campaign featuring testimonies by well-known Americans who have experienced changed lives through commitment to Jesus Christ.

Among celebrities spotlighted in the $1.5 million media campaign are Billy (White Shoes) Johnson of the Houston Oilers; actor Dean Jones; former militant Eldridge Cleaver; and Country and Western Star Jeannie C. Riley.

Living Proof will move across the state in four-week periods of intensive multi-media advertising beginning February 20 in North Texas; March 6 in South Texas, and March 27 in West Texas.

Before ending in April, the campaign is expected to reach every Texas resident at least 40 times through TV, radio, newspaper, magazine, outdoor display and transit advertising.

With nondenominational appeal, the 2.1 million member Baptist General Convention of Texas seeks to raise spiritual and moral awareness through the program, according to Dr. Lloyd Elder, co-chairman of Living Proof.

"People featured in the media testimonials are Living Proof that Jesus is real and that He can make a difference in our lives. By communicating these personal experiences, we intend to provide people with insight that will allow them to determine intelligently whether or not Christ can fill a void in their lives, as he has for so many others," Elder said.

For example, Pro Football Player Billy (White Shoes) Johnson reveals in his testimony that Jesus provided "a satisfaction with myself; a secure feeling in the world and most of all, a quiet peace of mind, way down deep, where the (fans') cheers don't reach."

When successful businessman Allan Mayer, of Oscar Mayer Company, was confronted with his daughter's serious illness he realized it was something he couldn't handle with a phone call or a memo. In his testimony Mayer tells how Christ proved "I could trust him with my daughter's life, and more, He gave me a greater sense of purpose and joy, to prove I could trust him with my life, too."

Other noted individuals unveil in Living Proof testimonies how Christ helped them return meaning, hope and purposefulness to their lives. They include Miss Teenage America Rebecca Ann Reid; Country and Western Singer Connie Smith; Rosargentina Pinel, Counsel General of the Republic of Honduras, San Antonio; Paulino Bernal, former band leader; and Antonio Mendoza of the U. S. Office of Equal Employment. The media campaign is designed to support the evangelistic efforts of various groups and organizations in 4,400 Baptist congregations across the state. Dr. L. L. Morriss, chairman of Living Proof and BGCT Director of Evangelism, explains that the local church is at the heart of this movement.

"The Living Proof media campaign will spur public awareness that will be met by local churches with activities illustrating the value of Christian fellowship," Dr. Morriss said. "Our goal is to lead new converts and inactive Christians back to all the local churches."

Recent visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carver Monroe were Mr. and Mrs. Tom Simpson and Mrs. A. A. Sauck of Rock Springs, Wyoming and Blane Simpson of Lockney.

FARMERS UNION CALLS FOR RENEWED AND REVITALIZED FARM PROGRAM

In a call for a "renewed and revitalized farm program," the National Farmers Union convention Monday afternoon reaffirmed the farm organization's position that governmental policies and programs are "essential to protect family farmers and ranchers against the hazards of the marketplace where almost everyone else, except the farmer and the rancher, is protected."

The Farmers Union convention said that the goals of a national food policy should be "coordinated programs of farm price and income supports to assure 100 percent of parity to all cooperating producers."

In the organization's long-range policy statement, convention delegates urged that target prices be set at 100 percent of parity and that non-recourse loans and purchase agreements be established at 90 percent of parity.

The farm group also called for a program based on the ever-normal granary concept through on-the-farm storage of commodities under loan, and a release price of not less than 100 percent of parity for commodities held in the national food reserve.

Delegates called for the replacement of the present system of import quotas by a new system of variable import duties that would equal the difference between the world price and 110 percent of parity. In addition, the convention

Check Life Preservers Before Heading To Lakes

The aged life preserver which has been sitting in your attic all winter probably needs some attention before use in another season of boating and other water sports.

Water safety officials at the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department remind boaters that game wardens check personal flotation devices (PFDs) on state waters and the devices are required to be in serviceable condition.

Fabric on PFDs wears after years of service. Yank on the straps. If the fabric tears, it's rotten and the jacket or cushion should be replaced.

Many lifesaving devices are filled with kapok, a material which remains buoyant only as long as its dry. The Kapok bags inside should be light and fluffy. If the preserver feels heavy, one of the bags may have ruptured and be waterlogged.

As the weather warms, Parks and Wildlife Department game wardens plan to devote more time and personnel to patrolling Texas' inland and coastal waters.

During the summer months the most common offenses wardens come across are failure to have proper number of PFDs for each person on board a boat, and lack of serviceability of the devices.

Trees Require Infrequent Fertilizations

COLLEGE STATION -- Elegant shade trees that enhance many yards are often overlooked at fertilizing time. However, a landscape specialist for the Texas Agriculture Extension Service says that most trees can tolerate the neglect and only require fertilizer every few years.

"Most trees need to be fertilized only about once every three years," says Everett Janne. "However, trees that have their roots confined by streets, curbs or other structures should be fertilized more often."

He cautions against overfertilization as it may cause excessive top growth, making the tree vulnerable to storm damage.

Janne recommends fertilizing a tree on the basis of its branch spread. For every 1,000 square feet of branches, apply about six pounds of actual nitrogen. This would mean 50 pounds of a fertilizer with an analysis of 12-12-12 (12 x 50 equals 6).

"Regular lawn fertilizer is fine for your shade trees," says Janne, "but the applications are the most beneficial when applied in three separate doses."

He recommends the first application in late fall, the second in spring just before new growth begins, and the last feeding in the summer.

"To assure that the tree gets the complete value from the nutrients, apply the fertilizer evenly beneath the branch spread and then water the soil thoroughly," Janne advises.

A fact sheet on "Fertilizing Woody Ornamental" provides detailed information for interested gardeners. A copy may be obtained from any county Extension office, adds the horticulturist.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Hedrick and boys of Hereford recently visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Carter. One of the grandsons, the youngest, Layne Hedrick, has been playing basketball with the Pee Wees in Hereford. They finished their season last Friday and Layne was selected on the All-City Team, receiving a trophy. Congratulations, Layne!

urged negotiation of international commodity agreements for grains, dairy, and other agricultural commodities.

Continuation of the present peanut and tobacco programs was endorsed by the convention, which also urged reinstatement of the rice program to conform with the Agricultural Act of 1938.

The Farmers Union recommended a price support program for poultry, livestock and livestock products based on the principle of the National Wool Act which provides incentive payments to producers.

The farm group called for a continuing investigation of the lag between reductions in livestock prices to producers and lower retail meat prices. The members of the farm organization also urged study of the teletype livestock marketing system.

HALLELUJAH

Eddie was the smallest one in the choir today. He stood at the end of the front row, stretched tall as he could, and sang with his whole heart.

I looked up at his round freckled boy-face and wondered what he was thinking as the Easter anthem rose in crescendo and blessed the April air. Were his thoughts on chocolate bunnies and rainbow-colored eggs, or on the stirring story he was singing — "He is not here, but is risen"?

Of one thing I am certain. When he is grown and thinks of Eastertime back home, it won't be the candy eggs and Easter baskets he'll remember; but the smell of lilies at the chancel rail, the joy of joining his voice to a Hallelujah chorus.

Give your child a lifetime gift. Celebrate special Sundays and every Sunday by going to your church and taking him with you.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Teachers To Discuss Legislative Bill

The second in a series of monthly legislative briefings for educators in 26 Panhandle counties will be held by the Texas State Teachers Association at 7 p.m. Tuesday, April 12, in the Amarillo High School Cafeteria.

TSTA-proposed bills are pending in the 65th Texas Legislature on school finance, teacher retirement, sick leave, teacher contracts, professional consultation with school boards, and teacher training centers.

The current status of these bills and other education legislation will be discussed by Leon Douglas of Austin, assistant director of the TSTA division of membership and member services.

Most of the major TSTA-proposed concepts in Texas public school program and finance—with one exception—are included in a composite school finance bill (House Bill 750) which has been pending in the House Public Education Committee.

That one exception is a revised Texas Public Education Compensation Plan in which TSTA proposes a 25 percent increase in pay for Texas educators at the base and each of the present 10 steps above base, plus the addition of new steps 11 and 12.

The TSTA salary proposal would raise base pay from the present $8,000 to $10,000 per year for the beginning teacher with a bachelor's degree, and from $8,600 to $10,750 per year for a beginning master's degree teacher.

TSTA is working for a comprehensive teacher retirement bill which would provide a 14.5 percent increase in retirement benefits for Teacher Retirement System members, both active and already retired.

A TSTA-sponsored certification bill was signed into law recently by Governor Dolph Briscoe. A TSTA bill introduced just before the March 11 filing deadline proposes increased funds for Texas teacher centers, which help to train teachers.

Mrs. James Davidson of Quitaque was named Mental Health Bellringer chairperson for the May 1977 campaign, announced Shirley K. Camfield, President of the Mental Health Association in Texas.

"The Mental Health Association is the largest citizens' voluntary advocacy organization in the United States fighting mental illness and promoting mental health," said Camfield. Since the organization is non-governmental, its entire support must come from contributions, such as those collected in May.

The original and continuing purposes of the association are to: improve attitudes toward mental illness and the mental ill; improve and work for the prevention of mental and emotional illness and promotion of mental health.

Through social action the association sees that governmental agencies are accountable. One example is seen in the results of and impoundment suit brought by the Mental Health Association which forced the release of over $1,600,000 federal funds in Texas for research, alcoholism and man-

THE RESURRECTION

As human beings we often "seek the living among the dead." Jesus told the women of Luke 24 that he would rise from the dead, yet they looked for him in the tomb. We may be seeking Jesus in an empty tomb. But he will never be found there, for he has risen. The Son of Man is living now. He is active in his church and among his people. Jesus can and will meet all our needs spiritually, emotionally and materially. He can fulfill us in a way that success, school, a job, friends or even family cannot.

Praise God! We have an assured hope through the resurrection of Christ. We have a life in fellowship with God now that will end in our resurrection. We cannot find that kind of "life" among the dead. "If then you have been raised with Christ, seek the things that are above, where Christ is, seated at the right hand of God. Set your minds on things that are above, not on things that are on earth. For, you have died, and your life is hid with Christ in God. When Christ who is our life appears, then you also will appear with him in glory." The Bible says "... and as they were frightened and bowed their faces to the ground, the men said to them, "Why do you seek the living among the dead?" Lk 24:5

TWENTY-THREE COUNTIES ARE WITHOUT DOCTORS

Washington, D. C. — Senator Lloyd Bentsen Tuesday called on a congressional committee for action to improve the medical care available to elderly and disabled residents of 23 Texas counties that have no medical doctors.

Bentsen, who is co-sponsoring legislation to alleviate the situation, testified Tuesday morning before the Senate Agriculture Committee on behalf of that measure. The bill is also being considered by the Senate Finance Subcommittee on Health, of which Bentsen is a member.

"This bill promises a great improvement in the availability of health services to those living in rural areas by allowing Medicare to reimburse health clinics in rural areas for services provided by both physician assistants and nurse practitioners," the Senator said in his testimony.

"For too long, federal health insurance programs have refused to recognize the harsh realities that face health care delivery in the rural areas of this country. The current programs limit their payments to physicians only. However, not all rural areas are lucky enough to have physicians."

Bentsen cited several statistics to illustrate his point.

"23 counties in Texas were without a physician as of the last count, on December 31, 1973. This is more counties than any other state.

"49 of the 971 counties in the nation that have been designated by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare as "critical health manpower shortage areas" are in Texas. Only Kentucky has more counties so designated.

"And, 200 of some 2300 "medically underserved" areas in the U. S. are in Texas.

"Obviously, one solution to the kind of situation that exists in Texas and many other states in this country is to train enough physicians to provide several for every county. We would like to be able to offer the best quality medical care available to all our citizens. That desire was the basis of the current Medicare reimbursement policy which limits payments it will make only to physicians or to clinics in which a physician is on duty at all times," Bentsen said.

"However, this reimbursement policy eliminates rural areas of Texas and therefore, many of the old and disabled who reside in this area, from eligibility to receive Medicare benefits. In rural areas, the question is not the quality of medical care but rather the existence of medical care," Senator Bentsen said.

Farm Price Supports, Operating Credit May End

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS March 6, 1977 — Without an early and substantial increase in U.S. farm price support levels, farmers may find it impossible to get sufficient production, George W. Stone, Vice president of the National Farmers Union, said here tonight.

Stone, who is president of the Oklahoma Farmers Union, the largest state unit of the National Farmers Union, reported that a substantial number of midwest banks are refusing loans, reducing the size of loans and requiring greater collateral for loans due to risk in farming.

In recent years, farmers were able to increase their debt load because of the inflation of land values, Stone noted, but in 1976, farm debt land values went up only 8%, on the national average while farm debt went up 12%.

"Time is running out on farmers," Stone said. "We can't go on forever substituting credit for income. Unless something is done some farmers will be forced to quit even before they get their 1977 crops in."

Cold war.

It was bad enough we had to fight the British for our freedom. But on top of that, we had to fight the weather, too.

Because winter at Valley Forge meant snow, ice, and freezing temperatures. All serious enemies to a makeshift army without proper clothing, not nearly enough food, and short on ammunition.

It was an army long on courage, but short on money.

And then the money came. Some $27,000,000 from the pockets of new Americans.

The hands are gentle and deft . . . the bird-banding process painless and quick. Soon the bird will fly off, safe and unharmed, unaware that it has become another link in the chain of research concerning the migratory habits of birds.

Our feathered friend has no interest in the fact that his experience ultimately will help chart the flight lines of all migrant birds. With heart beating wildly in its soft, downy throat, it longs only to be free.

Sometimes people are like that bird. Caught in circumstances beyond our control, we flail and thrash about. Fear and doubt overwhelm us and we fail to realize and acknowledge the loving arm of God that is present and sustaining in every situation.

RIDE: ASTROWORLD'S TEXAS CYCLONE RANKS FIRST

Houston—To the average American, the terms "Mom" and "apple pie" have long been a part of the American tradition; to the American thrill-seeker, there is only one word: Roller Coaster.

Reflecting a new era of these "terrifying machines," in Houston Astroworld's "Texas Cyclone," recently honored with the title of the world's number one roller coaster, recreates an enthusiasm for America's favorite thrill that had its beginnings over 400 years ago.

Whether it be the "sense of flight" sensation witnessed by Charles Lindbergh aboard the Cooney Island "Cyclone" in 1929 or the "impact that scared me to death" response of coaster expert, Robert Cartmell, aboard the California "Whirlwind Dipper" at the tender age of six, millions of Americans have for over a century, challenged and sought the ultimate thrill ride.

The term "coaster expert" is not used loosely in reference to Robert Cartmell, Associate Professor of Art and Printmaking at State University of New York at Albany, and highly regarded in the world of coaster buffs.

Not only has Cartmell ridden 139 roller coasters in his lifetime, but has researched and collected over 10,000 photos, patents, and historical data that tells the story of how this unique American pastime began as a foreign sport.

Cartmell's traveling exhibition for the Smithsonian Institution, "Coast to Coast Coasters" assembled in 1975, shows that the Russians deserve the credit for the initial concept of the roller coaster. In 16th Century Czarist Russia, giant wooden mountains of ice were constructed that hurled their "sledged" passengers at dizzying speeds near St. Petersburg.

Next, in 1804, the French perfected a "wheeled Russian Mountain" at Termes, later to be followed by the famous "Aerial Walk" in 1817 and numerous coasters throughout Europe.

"America's own" began in 1870 as a transformed mining device which combined a mildly stimulating ride with magnificent scenery near Mauch Chunk, Pennsylvania. The "Mauch Chunk Switchback" operated successfully for 69 years.

Cartmell says, "Early switchback railways consisted of an undulating track where the cars were pushed up the hills at exhilarating speeds of six miles per hour."

"Figure-8" and scenic railway coasters, combining oval tracks, tunnels, and scenery, were the major advancements of the late 1800's toward a more "thrilling" roller coaster.

The race for the ultimate coaster began in the early 1900's and climaxed in the roaring 20's as speed, drops, and curves conquered scenery.

Of this era, Cartmell says "Coaster buffs rank the 'Cyclone' at Ontario's Crystal Beach as 'the most fearsome' with a nurse and a first aid station at the exit, while the 'Bobs' at Chicago's Riverview Park and 'Aero Coaster' at New York's Rye Beach rank the 'most beautiful'."

In 1927, the highest coaster ever built, the towering 138-foot-high "Blue Streak" at Poughkeepsie, New York and the world-famous New York Coney Island "Cyclone" were constructed.

Comparing over 1500 wooden coasters of the 20's to over 200 today, Cartmell says, "The search for the ultimate coaster is still 'on.'"

In 1974, Cartmell submitted a Top Ten List of Roller Coasters in an article for the "New York Times," which has since drawn a favorable response of over 5,000 letters.

Early 1977, Cartmell revised his list of ultimate coasters from his most recent experiences on coasters built since 1974.

Houston's "Texas Cyclone" at Astroworld, that opened June 12, 1976, is Cartmell's new choice for Number One coaster in the world, replacing the Kennywood Park "Thunderbolt" near Pittsburgh.

Patterned after the 1927 original New York Coney Island "Cyclone," but in true Texas fashion, taller and faster, the "Texas Cyclone" takes riders up a 92-foot lift onto a 53-degree angle incline, reaching peak speeds of 60 miles per hour.

Cartmell says, "The fine line that makes the 'Texas Cyclone' No. 1 is that it's more of a continual thrill, it's one thrill after another. Many consider the Texas Cyclone the greatest thrill ride built since the Golden Age of roller coasters in the 1920's."

The Seventies might well be the age of "Mom, apple pie, and roller coasters."

GROWING CROP WITH LIMITED WATER NOT NEW TO FARMERS

Benefits Provided By Lightning

Ed. Note: Mrs. Leslie (Cleota Rogers) Burns of Norwalk, California, sent the following article enclosed in a greeting card to Bill Helms recently. Mrs. Helms read it and passed it on to The Tribune. We thought perhaps our readers would like to know the benefits lightning provides instead of being the detriment we have always thought it to be.)

It can climb trees, run along telephone wires, ram holes in concrete, dig long trenches. A century ago the civilized world shot off cannons to scare it away. The ancients wore laurel wreaths to ward it off. But science now knows there could be no plant life without it.

We're talking of lightning—that sky-splitting spear of light that has scared and fascinated man since primeval times. Myths and misinformation about it abound. In classic Greece the gods were thought to hurl it when annoyed; anyone who survived being struck by lightning was held in great honor, while any building thus distinguished became sacred. In medieval times lightning was known as the Wild Huntsman, one of Satan's aides, who rode on stormy nights blasting trees and cattle. In American folklore lightning was said to curdle milk but to shy away from pregnant women.

Even now we hear "Lightning never strikes twice in the same place." Wrong. Lightning often hits the same spot if the conditions that attract it are unchanged. It has struck the Empire State Building sixty times. In the Midwest every mile of a 100-foot-high power line is hit every year. But no one knows why Roy Sullivan, a 63-year-old park ranger in Virginia, attracts lightning; he has been hit five times.

We do know that lightning as a random high-voltage electrical discharge. On average, its current is about 15,000 amperes (a thousand times as strong as household current) but can reach 200,000 amperes. In 1953 a scientist took photos of a spectacular storm and calculated the power needed to produce such a display: roughly 100 million kilowatts, about equal to the generating capacity of the entire U. S. at that time.

Our defense against this awesome force is mainly limited to the lightning rod, basically unchanged since Ben Franklin invented it. The rod works because lightning takes any path handy. If no path is available, lightning ferociously makes one. Once it hit a house chimney at Pittsfield, Massachusetts and went down the wood wall but found no metal or wires, and the ground itself resisted conduction. So the lightning ripped a two-foot trench 155 feet long to a nearby house, where it punched a six-inch hole through concrete to get into the cellar and run down a well pipe. Charles P. Steinmetz, genius of General Electric, got interested in lightning after it struck a tree near a shack he owned. The bolt got in the shack by breaking a window.

There it shattered a table, jumped across the room and smashed a mirror. Steinmetz had every shard and splinter collected and fitted together, tracing the pattern of a lightning charge for the first time. Later he produced artificial lightning and developed lightning arresters to protect power lines.

Lightning converts air into fertilizer for plants. Nitrogen is an essential plant food, and about 22 million tons of it float over each square mile of earth. But plants can't suck life from it until it undergoes chemical changes started by lightning (which bombards our planet at a rate of more than 100 strikes a second). The lightning heats air particles to 30,000°C. This intense heat combines their nitrogen and oxygen into nitrogen oxides that are soluble in water. The rain dissolves the oxides and pours them on the land as dilute nitric acid, which reacts with minerals there to become nitrates on which plants can feed. So let's be glad there's lightning.

Mrs. Cora Gragson stayed at The Tribune Monday and worked for the Gaston Owens while they were in Groom. Gaston had a medical checkup.

Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Broxson, Bruce, Annette and Lance of Sunday spent Saturday night with the Ralph Carters.

Bushland, Texas - Growing as much crop as possible with limited water as the name of the farming game in West Texas.

Alternating irrigated and dryland wheat on the same field will increase wheat yield according to Dr. Paul Unger, USDA Soil Scientist at Bushland. Studies conducted over 4 years show that this system will increase total yield about 10 percent over continuous dryland or continuous irrigated wheat on separate fields. Alternating dryland and irrigated wheat averaged 52 bushels per acre while continuous dryland and irrigated wheat averaged 47 bushels per acre when the same sized areas were in dryland and irrigated wheat.

Prior to starting this research, the Agricultural Research Service Scientist had found that some water remained in the soil after irrigated wheat was harvested. Some of this water usually percolates out of the root zone when fields are irrigated each year. This would not happen if the extra soil moisture was utilized by a dryland crop. Unger said, "Dryland studies at Bushland by Dr. Wendall Johnson show that an inch of moisture in the soil will produce 3 bushels of wheat per acre."

Unger's experiment was designed to test the supposition that dryland wheat would benefit from soil water remaining after an irrigated crop. In addition, he checked disking and sweeping for tillage in both the continuous and the alternating systems. With irrigation, beds were formed prior to planting with either tillage method. Dryland plots were left flat. Ammonium nitrate fertilizer was used. Irrigated plots received 120 pounds per acre of nitrogen. Dryland areas following irrigations got 40 pounds per acre of nitrogen. Tascosa wheat was planted at 30 pounds per acre on dryland. One bushel per acre of TAM-101 was planted for irrigation.

Unger found that sweep tillage increased irrigated wheat yields 4 bushels per acre over disk tillage. Continuously irrigated wheat tilled with a disk produced 65 bushels of wheat per acre. Irrigated wheat that was plowed with sweeps made 69 bushels per acre when it followed a dryland crop. The 4-bushel-per-acre increase was a bonus Dr. Unger did not expect. Soil moisture measurements proved that sweep plowing stored more soil moisture between crops than disking.

Tillage tool did not make any difference on dryland wheat yield. However, continuous dry land wheat tilled with sweeps yielded 31 bushels per acre while dryland wheat following irrigated wheat yielded 35 bushels per acre.

Average yield for continuous dryland and continuous irrigated wheat grown on separate areas was 47 bushels per acre. Where dryland and irrigated wheat were alternated, yield increased to 52 bushels per acre. Unger states that this extra 5 bushels per acre of wheat is profit. The alternate system took the same amount of irrigated water as continuously irrigated wheat, provided equal acres were irrigated. "Farmers having a lot more land than irrigation water will find that alternating irrigated wheat with dryland wheat will pay dividends," Unger said.

Use your Refrigerator Wisely... AND SAVE

Reddy's Energy Saving Tips

- ★ Opening your Refrigerator Door as few times as possible keeps Heated Air from getting inside. So Saves Energy.
- ★ Condensate Coils in Refrigerators, like in Air Conditioners, tend to collect Dust and Dirt (especially in Carpeted Kitchens), when they are Dirty, they use more Energy, so your Refrigerator Coils Should Be Cleaned Once a Year.
- ★ Choose a Refrigerator/Freezer based on the real Capacity needs of your family. A Refrigerator or Freezer Operates at Peak Efficiency when Filled to Capacity but not overfilled.
- ★ Insulation Gaskets use Times Leak and Cost Much Wasted Energy. Check your Refrigerator Gaskets for Wear and Replace if Necessary.
