There were four lumber yards, a blacksmith, and post office costing $30,000.

Since business was booming, there was need of a place to provide lodging for travelers and take care of the festivities of the town. There was nothing large enough to house the crowds that attended local dances or to provide eating space for Lions Clubs, Chamber of Commerce, and other organizations. Men who came into town from the surrounding ranches (Matador, Mill Iron, Shoe Bar and J. A.) needed lodging and a place to conduct business. Drummers (salesmen) came by train and auto. H. B. Jordan saw the need, so the foundation of the hotel was laid, and construction of the building began in the spring of 1927 with material hauled from Fulton Lumber Company

Pulinview, Texas.

But weather played a part in the construction of the building. The walls had been bricked up above the doors and windows as far as the second story when a tornado leveled it to the ground. It came from the southwest June 12, 1927, turning over a large sheet iron garage, upsetting the lumber yard and its lumber shed. lumber yard and its lumber shed. Gale winds and torrential rains accompanied this terrific blast of twister-like winds, telephone wires and poles were entangled the length of Main Street, and the walls of the incomplete Turkey Hotel were leveled like toy blocks. Brick work began again, and in November 1927, Jordan completed the construction of the hotel at the approximate cost of $85,000 and opened it for business with J. W. Knowles as manager.

An article in the newspaper at the time described the hotel as a two-story brick building with twenty guest rooms opening into a large lobby on the second floor. a large looby on the second floor.
Downstairs, besides the spacious lobby, were two large sample rooms, a kitchen and a dining room, and quarters for the manager and his family. The rooms upstairs had hot and cold worker and work hearted, with water and were heated with steam. Seven rooms had private steam. Seven rooms had private baths. The newspaper set an approximate value of $85,000 on the hotel and its fixtures.

H. B. Jordan was able to finance the building of the hotel in two ways: for the consideration of the payment of one note for $3,000 dated January 6, 1928 and executed by H. B. Jordan, Fulton Lumber Company (by W. Burton, president) issued a Re-Burton, president) issued a Re-lease of Deed of Trust dated March 1, 1928. Released was: the south 50 feet of Lots 4 and 5 and the west 25 feet of the south 50 feet of Lot 6, all in Block 16 of the feet of Lot 6, all in Block 16 of the original town of Turkey. AREA LAW OFFICERS FIND MAN WANDERING ON THE HIGHWAY

A search for a man wandering along U. S. Hwy. 287 near Giles Monday sent law enforcement officers in Hall and Donley counties searching the hills for a man on foot.

The search began when travelers on Hwy. 287 began complaining about a man acting incohering about a man acting inconer-ently along the highway, so Hall County Sheriff Thomas Tippett, his son, Cliff, Chief Deputy Kenny Schull, several Reserve Deputies, Chief of Police Mike Allen of Memphis and Donley County, Ligray, Thomason and County Jimmy Thompson and Constable Blackie Johnson of Giles began their search.

Sheriff Tippett's son, Cliff, first spotted the man and he was taken into custody.

"The man acted real silly but told us he had a pickup he abandoned somewhere in the area, so the Reserve Deputies all went looking for the pickup," Sheriff Tippett said.

Reserve Deputies Chaster

After identity of the man, Daniel Leal, and the pickup were put together, the investigation revealed that a suspect answering Leal's description had hit several Allsup's stores in Briscoe, Motley and both stores in Hall County (Memphis and Turkey) for gasoline and other purchases he failed to pay for.

Leal is in Hall County Jail facing charges of theft of under $20 and will be turned over to Briscoe County to face similar charges, Sheriff Tippett said.

FOR A CACTUS. SPINES ARE FINE

by Dick Hanna

All plants give off water, mostly through their leaves. In places that get lots of rain, this doesn't matter much—the plants doesn't matter much—the plants can quickly get more water from the soil. But in the desert this loss of water would be a big problem for plants.

Cactuses, such as the giant saguaro (suh-WAHR-oh), have saguard sui-wanteed, have solved the problem by getting rid of their leaves. Over the ages, their leaves have gotten smaller and smaller—until they've be-come spines. But cactuses can still lose some water through their skins, especially when the wind blows. Spines help by sheltering a cactus' skin from the wind, and even more water is saved.

ThankSgiving

... a time for prayer

O Lord! that lends me life, Lend me a heart replete with thankfulness! -William Shakespeare

Thanksgiving Day is an event celebrated by more than one nation, and aside from being a traditional family feast day, it is intended for those of us who are more inclined to dwell on our misfortunes than on our advantages, because we are naturally more conscious of them. For example, sickness is more likely to command our attention than a state of good health. Regardless of our circumstances, we must remind ourselves of all the good things that have happened to us, and also, of all the misfortunes that we have been spared; and we should do this every day of our lives, rather than wait for a special occasion such as this. By attending the church of your choice you will learn to recognize and be grateful for your many blessings, and thereby be better able to cope with your problems, whatever they may be.

> "Enter into his gates with thanksgiving, and into his courts with praise: be thankful unto him, and bless his name. Psalms 100:4
