Together — At Last

by Liesl O'Dell, Daily Commercial Staff Writer

"Tears of joy." That's how two long-lost brothers described their reaction to finding each other this week after half a century apart.

Wiley Shipman Foster, 53, of Croom-A-Coochee, discovered five months ago that the couple who raised him actually kidnapped him at age 3. He lived 50 years not knowing that his father, mother, two brothers, sister and numerous other relatives in his hometown of Canton, NC were searching for him.

With some luck and quick thinking from his daughter, Michelle Cimino, Foster was reunited in April with his sister, Opal Shipman Toothman of Turkey, Texas, and his brother, Charles Shipman of Tennessee.

But the long-awaited reunion was not complete. Foster's youngest brother, Earl Shipman of San Antonio, had lost touch with his family and couldn't be found.

During the last five months, Foster said he's worried and wondered how he could find his youngest brother whom he's never met. Opal, who lives in Turkey, Texas, also wanted to find their missing brother.

On Monday, Earl Shipman went to visit Opal after four years of no communication.

"As soon as I got out of the car, Opal came running up to me saying, 'We found Wiley! We found Wiley!' I couldn't believe it," Earl said.

Opal and Earl said they sat and talked for six hours. And the next day, they called Wiley.

"I got this message that said, 'Call your sister, it's an emergency,'" Wiley said. "I got on the phone and she said, 'I have to tell you something.' About that time, Earl got on the phone. I fell down on the bed and...I cried," Wiley said as tears filled his eyes. The brothers, who were sitting on a couch together, grasped hands and comforted each other.

Earl said his sister showed him the Daily Commercial article from April 21 that documented her reunion with Wiley and Charles. He took the article to his boss at Goodwill Industry's transportation office in San Antonio and asked for some emergency time off.

"My boss read the article and couldn't believe it. It said my family was looking for me. He gave me eight days off and wished me luck," Earl said. The next day, he set out for Croom-A-Coochee and arrived about 10 p.m. Wednesday.

Earl said although he must leave tonight, Saturday night, he'll come back in October during his scheduled vacation. Wiley said the siblings are planning a complete reunion in Texas during spring break, too. It will be the first time the four siblings have been together at one time.

The last time the family saw Wiley was at his third birthday party in Canton, NC. At the time Opal was 5, Charles was 4 and his mother was three months pregnant with Earl.

Because his parents were going through a legal separation, the children were temporarily sent to stay with family members and friends named Foster. After a couple of weeks, the family went to pick up Wiley, but the Fosters and Wiley were gone.

"We moved around a lot. I remember one year when I went to 13 different schools. I had no idea they were running from my family," Wiley said.

According to Opal, the family tried to look for Wiley, their mother even hired a private detective, but to no avail. Opal said as she grew older, she wrote to the social security administration, the armed forces, the driver's license bureau and any agency she could think of to find Wiley. Nothing worked.

The siblings' mother died 29 years ago. Their father died four years ago.

"I wish this (reunion) could have happened four years ago for my dad. He was always real concerned about Wiley," Earl said. "To be honest, I had given up. When you're young, you have hope, but after 50 years, you tend to accept that this is the way it's going to be."

Opal still recalls that when her father passed, he asked her to never give up searching for Wiley.

"You don't realize how much hurt there has been over the last 50 years. We're trying to mend what was lost," Opal said in April.

Since Wiley's story appeared in the Daily Commercial, his story has been told in newspapers in Texas and North Carolina, on a North Carolina ABC-affiliated news program and on Good Morning America.

Wiley said he's received calls from people in Phoenix, Nevada, Miami, Orlando and California who were moved by his story.

"They called saying, 'I'm sorry,' and they wondered how I felt," Wiley said. "People would stop me on the street, too, and ask me how I was and if I had found Earl yet."

Wiley said a doctor called from California asking advice on how to find his sibling.

"The man said he hadn't seen his brother in 25 years and that his brother was adopted. I told him to start where his brother was born and to get a birth certificate. That way, he could look in the adoption records. He called me one week later and said he had found his brother. Imagine that. A man with all that money couldn't find his brother, but I told him something really simple and it worked," Wiley said.

Earl and Wiley said they hope their story gives others hope and courage to keep looking for lost relatives.

As for the Fosters, Wiley said he called them in April after discovering the truth.

"I told them what I found out and they denied the whole thing. Then, they told me to never call back again. I've tried calling twice more since then, but they hung up on me. My aunt called me and said she was supposed to tell me about my family after they died," Wiley said.

Wiley said the Fosters are both 77 and are in poor health.

THEN & NOW!

by Eunice McFall

Fall is fast arriving around us. As we look around we see changes each day that remind us that the summer is ending and the fall season is fast approaching. In fact some mornings there is a smell of fall in the air. If you are a person that appreciates all seasons of the year, you are rejoicing that the greens of summer are fading and the golden and red hues of fall are upon us. But if you are a person with allergies, you are probably sniffing and sneezing as the pollen changes and you have a stuffy head and nose during the fall season. Yes, it is a beautiful time of year as is every season that we have, the clean white of a winter snow, the fresh green of the trees and grass of spring and the beautiful colors of summer followed by the vibrant colors of fall are all very much appreciated but when the weather affects your health, you seem to not appreciate the beauty quite so much!

Fall—bonfires, falling leaves, cotton fields white with bales, hay bales green or golden in the field, football, Halloween, school begins, harvest moon, lush golden mums, red ripe tomatoes, pumpkins gleaming orange in the sunshine, the joy of shared memories of other autumns, long warm days and cool short nights.

Fall—heralding the arrival of winter with its howling north winds that can chill to the bone, the shorter days and longer nights, the gleaming of the snow in the moonlight, the warmth of a fireplace on a long cold winter night, the joy of warm hot chocolate after a brisk walk on a cold afternoon, the scent of stews, soups and chili steaming in the cold air, the wonder of curling up with a good book and the enjoyment of friendships during the long evenings.

Fall—a new beginning for each of us if we so choose. With less to do in the garden, field, home or business, there is more time to choose to be a good friend and neighbor, more time to read that book you have been wanting to read, more time to catch up on the news of what is going on in our world, more time to enjoy our families and most of all more time to just stop and think about what is most important to each one of us. No one can do this important task but you yourself. It seems that we often get so caught up in the tasks of every day living that we simply do not find the time to stop and think about what we are doing, we just do!

Fall—Harvest time is usually a very busy time for the farmers so they have not got the time to sit and contemplate their life or desires until they have gotten through the harvest. Winter with its long nights can afford them the time to have a well deserved time to rest and recuperate from their labors. Whatever time that is available to you is the time to take advantage and do those most important items on your list—showing care and concern for those that are most precious to you!

Valley Drops Homecoming

by Coach Burtch
The Patriots got off to a rough start in Friday night's homecoming game. The Patriots had 2 first quarter turnovers and a blocked punt which led to the Claude Mustangs leading 20-0 with 6 minutes gone in the game. Claude scored again in the 2nd quarter to lead 28-0. With under a minute left in the half the Patriots got on the board with a 25 yard field goal by Jr. Reyna. The 2nd half saw an evenly matched game with the Patriots scoring once and the Mustangs scoring once. "We just got off to a slow start. Our heads weren't in the game. We have to be ready to play 4 quarters of football and we didn't." The next game will be at Crowell, 8:00 p.m.

Jr. High Patriots Lose To Colts

The Jr. High Valley Patriots lost a hard fought battle to the Claude Colts on Thursday, 28-8. Rowdy Mullin scored the lone Patriot touchdown late into the second half on a 25 yard dash up the middle. The 2 point conversion was added by Rowdy also. The boys looked good in their first game of the season. Their next game will be home against Crowell on the 19th. Come help the Jr. High cheerleaders support the Patriots.

Together...

"His back is fusing together and she's dying of cancer. I'm going to let them live in peace," Wiley said.

Earl said at first, he wanted to talk to the Fosters, but now he doesn't.

"I don't have anything to say to them. It's a puzzle to me. I feel sad for them. I can only guess that since they won't talk to Wiley, they are ashamed of what they did," Earl said. "If I ever to talk to them, they have some explaining to do. It seems cruel. I can understand not telling a child that they aren't his parents, but a grown man? He's got children and grandchildren of his own. Did they think he couldn't take the truth?"

Wiley said he and his brother have spent the last few days together catching up.

"I'm still on cloud nine. My feet haven't touched ground. It's hard to believe that just a few months ago I had no hope, and now..." Earl said.

Wiley echoed his brother's emotion: "It's truly been great. I can't tell you how wonderful it has been. But remember, there is one more episode. When we all get together in Texas, that'll be the best," Wiley said.

The Valley Tribune, Quitaque, Texas, Thursday, Sept. 19, 1996 From the Roost

(EDITOR'S NOTE:

(DUE to the extreme length of Mr. Denton's article, and unavailability of space in last week's Tribune, the editor chose to omit portions of "The Roost Report." We are therefore printing those portions which were omitted, at Denton's request.)

"If one gives it some thought, all of us old toms and hens need to come down off the roost for a spell and do some sharing in life or the little turkeys won't know how to roost. To preserve for all, the natural, historical, and artistic heritage is the overall purpose, but how this is presented to the public is our thoughts at this time."

"Let me backtrack here a bit. We understand our library's and museum's were built for a purpose. Every item, books, rocks, or whatever is preserved in these facilities to provide information so that one may obtain knowledge and wisdom out of which comes understanding. I can hear someone say "Well, what's the problem, old Tom?" Purpose is. (The "purpose" was in last week's article.)

"Folks understanding of what the libraries and museums purposes are find it a joy when they work to provide a place to keep and preserve material in which are the essence of life, that is memories. When grandpaw takes his grandson by the hand and walks quietly through the museum sharing his life by pointing out old things as well as new things and how, when, and where these things effected his life, he is imparting memories to the child and those kind of memories will stay. When a group of young girls set quietly in the museum listening to a grandmother's story of her life as she gently crochets a tablepiece, something eternal is imparted. They will remember the event and become young ladies."

I am sure that this overview is somewhat subjective in nature, but I can assure you that folks who are interested and have these things in their vision as to what a museum or library can be and they will have fun! Here's an example! Drop in the Caprock Library and see Arlene Hinkle if you haven't done so! Each time my family and I visit we have a good time and leave loaded with books."

Ray and Tommie Jo Cruse Celebrate 50th Anniversary

Fifty years of love between Ray and Tommie Cruse, was celebrated on September 1, 1996. Hosts and hostesses for the blessed occasion were their children, Donnie and Judy Cruse, Darrell and Brenda Cruse, James and Darla Gwinn, Larry and Deirdra Clifton and Mark and Derinra Patton, also Tommie's mother and brother, Dona Browning and E. J. Browning. Also present were their grandchildren, Chad and Regina Seward of Goldthwaite, Brand and Jodi Cruse of Canyon, Chancy and Christie Cruse of Hedley, Roegan, Talon, Leah, Keane and Derrick Cruse of Flomot, Monica and Skylar Clifton of Matador, Thor and Tory Patton of Silverton, and Fannin and Danielle Gwinn of Whiteflat. It was a very special time of love, laughter and reminiscing for the whole family. Their children surprised them with three albums filled with cards, pictures and letters of congratulations from friends and relatives across the United States.

Festivities were complete with a luncheon, beautifully decorated cake and punch. The table was attractively appointed with a floral centerpiece, crystal punch service, crystal mint dish and gold flatware. The cake was adorned with decorations that had previously topped her parents, Jess and Dona Browning's 50th wedding cake. The crystal punch service is a family heirloom used for the celebrations of both her parents, and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Mullin Sr., whose home was the site of Ray and Tommie's wedding. The crystal mint dish brought back memories of Ray's parents, Elmer and Belle Cruse, as it was used for their 50th Wedding Anniversary celebration. Completing the setting was a pair of white doves, hand crafted especially for the occasion, by Dona Browning.

JV Beats Claude

The Valley JV beat Claude last Thursday night at Claude. Valley scored in the first quarter on a B.J. Price run from 8 yards out. The extra point kick was blocked and the Patriots led 6-0. A cold rain dampened both offenses in the second quarter and neither team was able to score from then on. Valley continued to move the ball, but untimely turnovers cost the Patriots several scoring opportunities. Valley ended winning with the score of 6-0.

The JV record is currently 2-0. They play Crowell Thursday night at home at 6:00. The Junior High plays Crowell at 5:00.

EXCESS NITRATE IN QUITAQUE WATER

The City of Quitaque has been notified by the Texas Department of Health that the water being supplied by our system exceeds the maximum constituent level for Nitrate (as Nitrogen) specified by the "State Drinking Water Act" (public law 93-523 U. S.). The limit for Nitrate (as nitrogen) is set at 10 milligrams per liter of water. The amount of nitrate (as Nitrogen) in the water we supply was reported to be 13.10 milligrams per liter of water. Adults and children over the age of 6 months need not be concerned about drinking from the tap. An excess of nitrate intake by an infant under the age of 6 months may reduce its available oxygen supply and possibly produce "blue baby" symptoms.

To obtain bottled water from the City of Quitaque, persons must come by the City Hall between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. Caution DO NOT BOIL YOUR WATER Boiling water will increase the concentration of Nitrates. The City of Quitaque will provide, at no charge to our customers, bottled water of acceptable quality to pregnant women and infants under 6 months of age for cooking and drinking purposes. For more information contact Robert Patrick, City Administrator or Maria Cruz, City Secretary at City Hall or call 455-1456. 40 1tc
