Farm Seminar Slated In Amarillo Next Week

By Curtis Preston

Farmers and ranchers have been concerned for years about high taxes that erode their estates. To help take the bite out of their high estate taxes, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service is planning several educational programs.

A two-day seminar is planned for Amarillo, March 28-29, 1988, which will help farmers and ranchers learn how to reduce taxable estates and learn new methods for passing their operations to the next generation without tax and administrative burdens.

"Of major importance is how every farm estate will be affected after the recent estate tax law changes," points out

Dr. Wayne Hayenga, a lawyer and Extension Economist. "The best tax planning of the past may be the worst under the new law."

The seminar will begin with a discussion on estate taxes, including deductions, expenses and tax rates.

Basic estate planning devices will be explained in depth. Among these are wills, bypass trusts, gifts, disclaimers and property titles.

Relating estate plans to income tax savings can be of even greater benefit than just thinking about an estate plan. In fact, sometimes income tax savings can even be greater than estate tax savings for people with commercial farm and ranch businesses.

There will also be a separate segment of the program devoted to treating beneficiaries fairly. This is a most important subject when there is a farm or ranch in the family and only part of the heirs want to run it.

Another discussion will center on estate planning tools for agriculture and will deal with corporations, partnerships and selling part of the business to heirs.

The second day of the program will be devoted to special estate tax rules for agriculture. These include special farm land valuation, deferred estate tax payment rules, life insurance, "flower" bonds and other property.

"Estate planning is a step toward reduced taxes," points out Hayenga. "This process should start when you plan to inherit substantial property, when you have an active and growing business, when you still have time to take tax-saving actions, when you have minor children, and when your children marry or divorce."

For more detailed information about the seminar, contact your local County Extension Agent or Wayne A. Hayenga, Agricultural Economics Department, Texas A&M University, College Station, TX 77843, phone: (409) 845-2226.

The amount of information available on our abundant mesquite tree continues to grow. The mesquite information I've saved at this desk seems to have spread out about as much as that thorny tree!

Its history: Supposedly brought in from Mexico; pioneers used it for hubs and spokes in wagon wheels and ribs and knees of boats; used in building of original Alamo in 1718; and in furniture at the historic King Ranch headquarters.

Its features: When dried properly, it shrinks and warps very little; a dense and durable wood, it finishes out beautifully.

Its uses: B-B-Q flavoring for domestic meats and quail, duck and venison tenderloin; briefcases, flooring ($8-$18 per square foot); furniture, toys, gun stocks, fence posts, domino sets, vases, flour, and various other items. One gentleman in South Texas spends about 200 hours to complete a mesquite rocking chair. Its price--$2500. Mesquite gum is already being used in the manufacture of gumdrops, lozenges, and mucilages. Present research is focused in the fields of tannins, ethyl alcohol, acids, sugars, plastic, and wallboards. Potential uses are for cattle feed, perhaps a boiler fuel for generating electricity.

Its drawbacks: uses enormous amounts of water from the soil, ruins good grassland, and makes it difficult to work cattle.

An ancient saying: "Plant cotton when the mesquite tree leaves - when the mesquite buds, there is no longer the threat of frost."

The National Champion Mesquite is found in Real County, Texas--northwest of San Antonio on U. S. 83 in Edwards Plateau country. Its trunk circumference is 12 ft., 8 in. and its branches form a canopy 52 ft. high and 71 ft. wide.

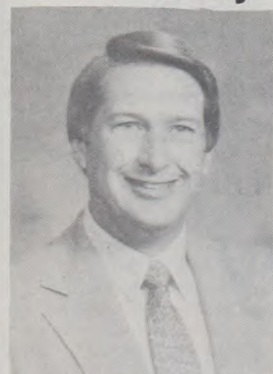

Some entrepreneurs delving into mesquite and its uses have attained success far beyond anything they imagined. A lost job was the beginning of a new business for one Texan. He and his wife took their mesquite bean jelly to a "Taste of Texas" marketing show in San Antonio where they gave away samples. Orders poured in and the product is now found in gift and speciality shops as far away as Los Angeles. Another business began when a couple started selling their mesquite firewood to neighbors. Later, a conversation at an Austin restaurant led to an order. From there they supplied 17 restaurants in Texas and Louisiana--then major grocery store chains. After a 3-minute CBS News broadcast, chefs all over the country began to use "mesquite-grilled" steaks and seafoods on their menus.

It is estimated that there are between 50-70 million U. S. acres where the mesquite tree is dominant. Texas has approximately 56 million of those acres. It seems that Briscoe and Hall counties have their share too!

The much-maligned mesquite--some say one can't cut it up - dig it up - burn it up - its here to stay.

Well, if it is, why not explore the possibilities of turning a supposed liability into an asset. With the quantity available in this area, we are limited only by our imagination!

I read in the Lubbock A.J. the other day where a man convicted of sex abuse with a seven-year-old child had filed for a new trial because (1) the child had been allowed to testify, (2) if certain evidence had not been allowed, he would not have been convicted, and (3) the prosecuting attorney had stated her feeling of his guilt, before the trial was over.

Absolute rage swept over me! We are at a sad point in this old world, aren't we? If you or I go out and beat or shoot a person to death, or kill someone in an automobile accident, we are tried, convicted, and jailed for years for murder, in some degree. If we beat or abuse a child, and he dies, we are tried for injury to a child. If convicted—that's "if"—we serve only months, sometimes a sentence of a couple of years, at the most.

Why is this? I can't explain it, much less understand it, and never will.

You may think our safe community is immune to sex abuse or child abuse, but let me assure you that is not true. The commercial on TV that says "Listen to what you're saying, you won't believe your ears," is probably the most common form of abuse. Although there are no bruises to see, they are most definitely there.

Remember the recent song "Dear Mr. Jesus"? Did you see the video? It will rip your heart out.

If you know of any child being abused in some way, report it; you do not have to give your name.

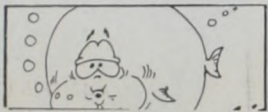

Please, HUG your child today. If they're 5 or 50, kids are people, too.

It can happen anywhere at anytime—a sudden craving for chocolate. Whether it is in the form of fudge, cookies or brownies, there is a weakness for chocolate in most of us.

Although the name might not indicate what goodies are in the ingredient list for this treat, Sea Island Bars are every sweet tooth's dream.

These easy bar cookies are a snap to make. Just melt the butter in a saucepan, stir in the remaining ingredients, spread in a pan and bake. Since they are so simple to prepare, make two batches. One for the rest of the family and one for yourself!

1/2 cup chopped nuts
1/2 cup shredded coconut
1 package (6 ounces) semisweet chocolate pieces

Tips To Help You

A Clear Advantage

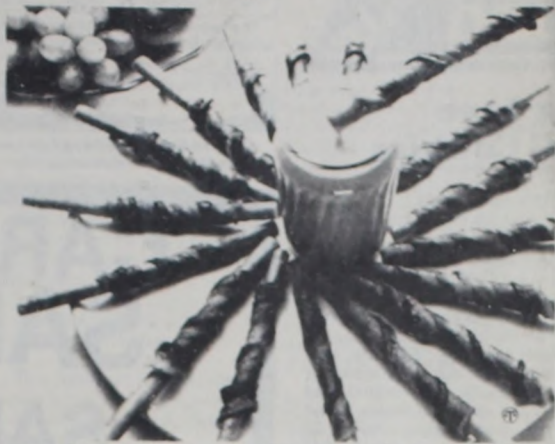

One of the newest microwave cooking utensils is probably already in your kitchen. In fact, you've probably been buying it for years. It's the glass jar or container that holds your pasta sauce, chocolate topping, cheese spread or any number of other delicious, microwaveable foods.

"Glass-packaged foods are ideal for heating in the microwave," says Thelma Pressman, microwave author and expert.

"You can heat and serve from the same container, and reheat any unused portions for later reheating. Glass doesn't change or react with the food during microwaving, so you get the great-tasting food you expected. And, you can see what you're cooking," Pressman says.

She offers these additional tips for heating glass-packaged foods in the microwave:

- Always be sure to remove the lid before heating any glass-packaged product.
- To ensure even and thorough heating, stir the food halfway through the cooking process and again prior to serving.
- Allow the food to cool before resealing and returning it to the refrigerator.
- The jar will be warm to the touch so use oven mitts or potholders to take the glass from the microwave.
- Always stop and check the food after the minimum recommended heating time. Continue heating as needed.
- A variety of glass-packaged products perfect for the microwave are now on the market. Look for them—and follow directions for microwaving as indicated on the label. It seems crystal clear, glass can help you make the most of your microwave. Here's a microwave recipe that you might want to try.

A great appetizer or after-school snack can be bacon-wrapped breadsticks dipped in cheese melted in the microwave.

- Bacon Wrapped Bread Sticks in Cheese Sauce
- 1 8-ounce glass jar microwaveable cheese sauce
 - 3 slices bacon
 - 6 crisp bread sticks

Remove metal lid from glass jar. Heat on medium power (50%) for 2-1/2 to 4 minutes, stirring after every minute. Remove jar with oven mitts or potholders.

While cheese sauce is heating, prepare bread sticks. Cut bacon slices in half lengthwise. Wrap bacon strip around top half of bread stick, barber pole fashion. Place 2 sheets of paper towel on microwave-safe plate. Place wrapped bread sticks in single row on towel. Cover with an additional paper towel. Heat on HI (100%) for 2 to 3-1/2 minutes, just until bacon is crisp. Timing will depend upon thickness of bacon used.

To serve, place jar in center of serving dish, with bacon sticks arranged in a circle. Dip each stick in heated cheese sauce and enjoy a delightful appetizer or snack. Makes 6 appetizers.

Briscoe Co. Agent

by Curtis Preston
As vegetable gardeners in Briscoe County prepare for spring planting, their first step should be to control insects.

Soil insects can reduce vegetable quality and yields if left uncontrolled, points out Curtis Preston, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System.

For effective control, mix insecticides into the soil at a depth of 4-6 inches at least two weeks before the garden plot is planted, suggests Preston.

Among destructive soil insects are wireworms, white grubs, seed corn maggots, cabbage maggots, mole crickets, sowbugs, slugs, snails and cutworms. Some destroy plant seeds, roots, tubers and underground stem parts while others cut off young plants at or near the soil surface.

Most soil insects can be controlled with diazinon 25 percent liquid concentration or Spectracide 6000 applied as a 5 percent granule. Granules usually give the best control, says Preston. If cutworms or sowbugs become a problem after the garden has been planted, broadcast 5 percent Seven bait over the soil surface.

Garden sites planted for the first time or those previously in grass or weeds are more likely to harbor damaging numbers of soil pests. Before treating with an insecticide, inspect the garden site by taking soil samples at several locations to a depth of 5-6 inches. Remove one square foot section of soil from each location and record the number of soil insect pests present. As a general rule, an average of one or more soil insects per sample suggests the need for insecticide treatment.

Before applying any pesticide always read and follow label instructions, added Preston.

Although the threat of wheat leaf rust is not as great this season as it has been for the past several years, growers should be aware that the organism is present and that future conditions may be ideal for rapid development, says Curtis Preston, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System.

Wheat leaf rust is less threatening this season because there is less wheat acreage in South and Central Texas, more varieties are being planted rather than one predominant variety, more slow-rusting varieties are being planted and weather conditions have been rather dry, Preston says. In some areas, rust was more pronounced earlier this winter than it is now.

Producers are urged to keep an eye on their fields and watch for increases in wheat leaf occurrence, the agent says. There is still plenty of time for an epidemic to develop if weather conditions favor such an event, he warns.

Some producers may want to use fungicides this year, since wheat prices have increased and another highly effective fungicide is on the market. Chemical control may pay in many situations, but will not likely be cost-effective for everyone, Preston says.

Producers who have a 40-bushel yield potential and reside where leaf rust represents a serious limiting production factor may want to consider fungicide use. They also should be certain they have a wheat variety that will respond to a fungicide, the agent says.

Growers should watch their wheat fields closely from now until heading time to determine the potential for leaf rust damage. The agent reminds that fungicides are available if yield levels and disease potentials warrant use of this practice.

FACELIFT FOR YOUR HOME
If the coming of spring brings the urge to clean up and fix up your home, you may be trying to decide what can be done to make the most improvement with the least money.

All homes, just like machinery, need regular maintenance, to prolong the usefulness and reduce the cost of major repairs. Probably the least expensive first step is plain old "elbow-grease" and soap and water. A sparkling clean house looks fresh. Wash everything you can -- walls, woodwork, windows, curtains, linens.

Clean out closets, garage, porches, and any other "junk catchers." Have a garage sale of items you no longer need and use the profits to provide other home improvements.

Dollar for dollar, paint is probably the best fix-up investment. A new paint job makes a job look clean and bright. Consider color principles when painting. Lighter colors add visual space and make rooms look larger. Covering a wall with fabric or vinyl wallcovering can add color and emphasis and create a focal point in a room.

You may want to invest in inexpensive crisp bright curtains to add light and life to a kitchen or bathroom.

Add accents of green plants or pots of blooming flowers to bring spring indoors and brighten up the home.

If money is limited, you may have to use more family labor and imagination for your home improvement projects, but this can become a family project. (Of course, my family cringes every time I tell them I have a new family project, like the one I am currently planning to re-do the kitchen.)

If you need some assistance in planning, come by my office in the courthouse basement and look through the housing and home furnishings publications. Some you might want to pick up (these are free) are: "The Care and Cleaning of Furniture and Furnishings," "Cleaning on a Shoestring," "Care of Housewares and Surfaces in the Home," "Kitchen Planning," "Covering Walls with Fabrics," "Home Inspection Checklist," "Home Maintenance Manual," or "Pantry Pests." Call my office at 823-2131 for help or publications.

Show Your Love With Oatmeal Cookies

Old-Fashioned Oatmeal Cookies —just the name conjures up childhood memories of a kitchen filled with the aromas of cinnamon and nutmeg. An apron-clad grandmother handing out soft, warm cookies straight from the oven may also be a part of the picture. Next to chocolate chip cookies, Old-Fashioned Oatmeal Cookies are an American favorite. Full of the goodness of oatmeal, brown sugar and raisins, you will want to serve these cookies warm with a tall glass of cold milk. What a welcome treat for after school!

- Old-Fashioned Oatmeal Cookies
- 1/2 cup raisins
 - Boiling water
 - 1 cup sifted Martha White Self-Rising Flour
 - 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
 - 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
 - 1/4 teaspoon baking soda
 - 1/2 cup sugar
 - 1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar
 - 1/2 cup Snowdrift shortening
 - 1 egg

- 2 tablespoons milk
- 1 1/2 cups uncooked quick oats

Combine raisins and water in small bowl; set aside. Preheat oven to 375°F. Grease 2 large baking sheets; set aside. Sift flour, cinnamon, nutmeg, and baking soda into mixing bowl. Add sugars, shortening, egg, and milk; beat with electric mixer 2 minutes, or until smooth. Drain raisins; add oats and raisins to batter; blend well. Refrigerate about 20 minutes. Roll out dough on lightly floured board or pastry cloth to 1/4-inch thickness. Cut out with floured 2-inch cookie cutter. Place on prepared baking sheets. Bake 12 to 15 minutes, or until golden brown. Transfer immediately to wire racks to cool. Makes about 36 cookies.

For more cookie recipes, including Party Pecan Balls and Chocolate Pinwheels, write for "The Cookie Collection" at the Martha White Kitchen, P.O. Box 58, Dept. 03, Nashville, TN 37202.

Spring slipped in while most everybody was asleep - or should have been - at 3:39 a.m. Sunday.

And the first day of Spring, as well as the last day of Winter were both something that we have all been looking forward to since the middle of December. The weather fooled both the National Weather Service and the Groundhog... it was supposed to be drier than normal... it wasn't... it was supposed to be six weeks of good weather after February 2... it wasn't. The fruit crop was supposed to survive... it didn't... now the mesquites are supposed to be greening up... they ain't. Daylight Savings time is supposed to be coming soon... it will! The Income Tax return is due and it's here. Whatever our Government decrees seem set in concrete (except the National Debt) but Mother Nature allows us a little more flexibility!

Anyway, it's time to shed the long handles, on with the straw hats, out with the lawn mowers, off with the long-sleeve shirts... off with the heaters and on with the air-conditioners, cheaper utility bills (are you kidding?)... we'll forget the whole mess by July 4th!

By the time you have sense enough to read the small print... you can't!

Social Security News

by Terry J. Clements

Some people think that if, for any reason, they delay filing an application for Social Security benefits, they are entitled to benefits retroactively to the month of their first eligibility. That's not the case. If they apply before reaching 65, with few exceptions, they cannot receive retroactive payments for months before age 65. If they apply after reaching 65, they might be entitled to as many as 6 months retroactive payments. This happens if the claimant meets all the requirements for entitlement to benefits except for filing of an application.

Suppose a worker reaches age 65 in June 1987 but he or she doesn't file an application for retirement benefits until June 1988. This person can be entitled to retroactive payments back to December 1987. Let's suppose now that the worker reached 62 in June 1987 and doesn't file an application until June 1988. Retroactive benefits cannot be paid to a retired worker, a spouse, or a widow or widower if this would result in a permanent additional reduction of the benefits.

We say "if" because the retroactive payments do not always result in a permanent reduction of benefits. If the worker's spouse is over 65, or under with a child in his or her care, their benefits as the worker's dependents are not subject to reduction, and they can receive retroactive payments.

The retired worker can receive retroactive benefits for months prior to 65 if he or she had excess earnings in the year of application, and these earnings can be applied to months before 65. The number of retroactive months that can be paid depends on the months covered by the excess earnings.

Retroactive benefits can also be paid to a disabled surviving spouse or a disabled surviving divorced spouse who is entitled to retroactive benefits for any month before reaching age 60.

Also, a widow(er) or a surviving divorced spouse who files an application in the month after the month of the worker's

March Last Month For Late Medicare Sign-Up

March is the last month of the 1988 general enrollment period for people who failed to sign up for Medicare medical insurance at their first chance, Frances Braden, Social Security representative in Vernon, said recently.

Medical insurance protection will start July 1, 1988, for people who sign up during the general enrollment period. The basic monthly premium for medical insurance is $24.80 for the period ending December 1988.

premium is increased by ten percent for each year a person could have had this protection but did not.

Anyone who has a question about either part of medicare-hospital insurance or medical insurance-can get the answer at the Vernon Social Security office, located at 1701 Cumberland. The telephone number is 817-552-9346. The people there have free leaflets which tell about the protection offered by Medicare.

A Honey of a Breakfast

Most people don't have the time or inclination to prepare the heavy ham-and-eggs breakfast Grandpa took for granted. But that doesn't mean the body doesn't need fuel to get it started in the morning.

Let your microwave oven get you off to a good start. Brew a pot of Apple-Spiced Tea and heat some Morton Honey Buns (fresh from the freezer) in the microwave oven. You'll have a hot breakfast in minutes.

Eating alone? Pack what's left of the tea in a thermos and take it with you to the office for a mid-morning pick-up.

Honey Buns with Apple-Spice Tea

- 3 1/2 cups water
- 1/4 cup apple juice
- 3 tea bags
- 1 small apple, cored and sliced
- Dash ground cinnamon
- 1 package (9-1/8 oz.) Morton Honey Buns and sliced

In 1-quart microwave-safe container, combine water and juice. Add tea bags, apple slices and cinnamon. Heat, covered, on HIGH 5 to 7 minutes or until hot. Remove tea bags and pour into cups. Prepare Honey Buns according to microwave package instructions. Makes 4 servings.
