Three Valley High School teenagers were injured, two seriously, in this pickup last Friday, when it rolled over on the curve just west of Turkey. The vehicle, reportedly traveling at a high rate of speed, left the highway and rolled, hitting this highline pole in the process. The driver and one passenger were seriously injured, another was bruised and shaken, but returned to school that day. (Photo courtesy Corkey Garner)

Three Valley High School Youths Injured In One-Vehicle Accident

Friday, November 19, 1993 Adam Seymour asked permission to return to his home for some school supplies. When granted permission, Adam and two other students, Jarret Pigg and Michael Lane who decided to accompany him began their journey to Turkey.

Little did they realize that before they would return to Valley School that their lives would be forever changed.

The boys were involved in a one vehicle accident on the curve west of Turkey where the butane tanks are located. The pickup landed on its cab with all three boys thrown out of the vehicle.

Michael Lane and Adam Seymour were taken by Turkey Ambulance to Childress Hospital and Jarret Pigg was transported by Quitague Ambulance to the Methodist Hospital in Plainview.

Michael was to return to school later in the day, a very shaken and bruised young man.

Adam, however with head, lung and pelvic injuries was transported to Lubbock Methodist Hospital when he was stable enough to withstand the trip.

Jarret Pigg was taken early Saturday morning to Methodist Hospital in Lubbock. Jarret had broken the arm he had in a cast from a football injury and had to have one kidney removed.

Both Adam and Jarrett are making progress at this time but slowly.

Ironically sixty years ago to a day another accident happened on this same curve and that time there were two fatalities and one young man injured for life.

This same curve has been the scene of five accidents in the not too distant past.

Briscoe County Judge Saws One Mean Fiddle

courtesy Amarillo Globe News by David Small

Folks in Silvertown may not know it, but their county judge is one of the hottest fiddlers in the West.

The Western Music Association held its annual Western Music Festival in Tucson, Arizona, earlier this month. And judges there chose Briscoe County Judge Jimmy Burson to be one of the three finalists in the festival's annual fiddling contest.

"They do western, or cowboy, music as opposed to bluegrass or country," Burson said.

This year, the festival saluted the music of Bob Wills and the Texas Playboys and The Sons of the Pioneers, he said.

About nine fiddlers from Oregon, New Mexico, Arizona and Texas competed in the competition, Burson said. Contestants were required to play one "hoedown" number, one western song and one tune of their choice, he said. Burson fired up his fiddle and wowed the crowd with renditions of "Arkansas Traveler" and old hoedown song, "Rossi Waltz" and "Lone Star Rag."

The competition only awards first place, Burson said. He didn't win but he was happy just to be one of the finalists, he said.

"I also entered the yodelin' contest, but I didn't win that either," Burson said.

Burson warbled out a song called "Skyball Paint," which includes three different kinds of yodels, he said.

Burson struggled to describe the different yodels. Then he chuckled and said, "You just kind of do it with key changes."

For the sake of his family and neighbors, Burson never practices his yodeling at home, he said.

"I'm usually out somewhere where nobody can hear me," he said. "I practice on my cows every now and then."

"Plains-of-Texas" Talent Show

Plainview is sponsoring a Talent show on December 18th. The "Plains-of-Texas Talent Show" will have three age groups: 3-10, 11-18, 19 and up.

A prize of $100 will be awarded to the winner in each age group.

THEN & NOW!

by Eunice McFall

Thanksgiving Week is upon us. We have so many things in our lives to be thankful for. Life, health, family, friends, freedom, warm clothes when the north wind blows, food for our hunger, water for our thirst, lovely scenery when we thirst for beauty, and the ability to earn our daily bread are just a few of the many blessings that come to mind when we think of Thanksgiving.

I, for one, am truly grateful that our country as a whole is able to offer thanks to our God for all of the many blessings that we do enjoy in our lives here in the United States.

The Pilgrims also offered their thanks to their God for all the blessings that they had received! They had needed so much strength and fortitude to have even survived that year. Yet they wanted to offer thanks for being alive and well in this new land. They also shared their feelings, food and hospitality with their neighbors, the Indians. Or perhaps it was the other way around the Indians shared with the Pilgrims! Either way it was a wonderful tradition to start for our country. We, too, should be able to find someone to share our holiday festivities with!

The old saying, the more the merrier is certainly true when we have get together with our families and friends. It seems that the holidays are a time when families should all be close together and sharing their time and love with one another.

This year in addition to giving thanks for all our blessing, we need to be remembering in our Thanksgiving prayers those who are coping with the tragic events of last week. They all need our prayer, support and hope. So when we are counting our blessings, let's add a prayer for the families that are hurting at this time in our communities. When you see them on the street, give them a hug. When you have a moment, give them a call to let them know you are thinking about them. If you can find the time drop a note to them in a card to say you care! After all that is what living in a small town is all about—showing our friends that we do love and care about them not only in their happy times but in the times of worry and sorrow also.

As I write this Adam Seymour has been moved to a private room. Jarret Pigg remains in ICU. Both boys are in Methodist Hospital in Lubbock.

"We are trying to improve our communications with our customers" said Elkins. The toll free number is 1-800-792-1112.

On The QT

Estelle Davidson joined her daughter, Lavada McCracken of Tulia, Friday for a visit in Dumas with the Richard Edwards family. They got to see Chris play ball Friday night. The ladies returned home Sunday morning.

Delbert Phelps has been hospitalized at Lubbock in the Methodist Hospital.

The cute blonde in town with Guss Hrcir was 2 yr. old Charly, Guss and Vinita's granddaughter from Amarillo. She spent 5 days, then son, Clay, picked her up and left Justin for the week-end. Nita picked Justin up Sunday night and brought Vinita's mother, Melva, also of Amarillo, to visit. She will stay through the holidays.

Leon McCracken drove to Quitaque to take his mother, Lockwood McCracken to his home in Pecos Sunday, November 14, 1993 for visit. She remained until Thursday when Leon brought her home.

Sunday, November 21, 1993, her daughter, Mary Jo Polk of Cedar Park, Texas arrived for a visit with Lockwood.

you prefer to cook the dressing with the bird, mix dressing and stuff turkey loosely just before putting it in the oven. As soon as the turkey is cooked, remove the dressing.

*To prevent bacterial growth, keep hot foods above 140 F and cold foods below 40 F.

*Foods containing dairy products, mayonnaise, or eggs should be refrigerated until served. That includes salads, pumpkin or cream-type pies, cakes with cream cheese or cooked icings and eggnog.

*If children help out in the kitchen, discourage them from tasting the cookie dough or other goodies that contain raw eggs.

The risk of food poisoning does not end after food is cooked, so treat leftovers with care.

Never leave perishable food out on the table or counter for more than 2 hours. It is best to promptly refrigerate or freeze leftovers in small, shallow containers for quick cooling.

Use leftover turkey within three to four days or freeze for up to one month. Do not keep dressing and gravy longer than two days and bring gravy to a boil before serving.

Food harboring harmful bacteria does not necessarily have an odor or spoiled appearance. Remember the adage: "When in doubt, throw it out".

Poisoning Danger Of Holiday Meals

Hectic holiday meal preparations can increase the chances for food poisoning especially among young children, said an expert at the USDA's Children's Nutrition Research Center.

"Children are vulnerable because their intestinal tract and immune system are not fully developed," said Dr. Kathleen Motil, and assistant professor of pediatrics at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston. "They may have less resistance to the bacteria that causes food-borne illnesses."

The severity of the illness varies from person to person. Symptoms include stomach cramps, nausea, diarrhea and vomiting and, in some cases, fever. Symptoms can appear anywhere from two to 36 hours after eating and lasts several days.

When children become ill, parents should make sure they are given plenty to drink to prevent dehydration.

"Oral dehydrating solutions, available in most pharmacies, are better for toddlers and pre-school age children because they contain appropriate concentrations of salts (electrolytes) that maintain their body fluids," she said.

Alert your physician if you suspect that your child may be suffering from food poisoning since a young child's condition can deteriorate quickly.

To safeguard holiday feasts, Dr. Corinne Montandon, CNRC nutritionist and assistant professor of peridiatrics at Baylor provides the following food safety tips:

* Buy quality foods. Check expiration dates carefully.

* Do not defrost a frozen turkey at room temperatures. Bacteria can multiply to disease-causing levels before the turkey is completely thawed. Instead, place it in its original wrapper on a tray or in a pan, and let it gradually defrost in the refrigerator.

Follow manufacturer's instructions if meat or poultry is to be thawed in the microwave.

* Be aware of the dangers of "cross contamination." Avoid transferring bacteria by washing hands, utensils and work surfaces with hot soapy water. Uncooked poultry or meat should not come into contact with other foods.

*Cook turkey until thermometer inserted into bird registers 180 F to 185 F. Juices should run clear.

*Consider cooking the stuffing separately. Flavor the cavity with onion, celery and herbs. If

Briscoe County Developing Hospitality

This is the first part in a series on developing our hospitality habits. The impression we make on tourists is a deciding factor on how they will perceive our area. It also the first step in developing hospitality habits.

Our job in being a hospitable host is to make a good first impression. You form an impression in the first six seconds that you meet someone. Therefore, it is up to you, to make the most of those 6 seconds when you are greeting tourists. You should greet them within the first minute of their arrival with a sincere smile. Also remember to act naturally, but professionally. Avoid being a robot.

Remember to be courteous and friendly! Maintaining eye contact will help you to come across as confident, honest and knowledgeable. The tone of your voice or how you say something makes more of an impression than the words you use. Therefore, you should SMILE with your voice. Following these steps will help you to make that good first impression which is needed to help promote our area.

"they received the word with all readiness of mind, and searched the scriptures daily."

-Acts 17:11

Do you have a minute? Probably not, in that busy life of yours that runs from work to dinner; then to a Boy Scout meeting or a bowling tournament in which your boss is depending on you, or whatever. Of course, these are all important activities related to your lifestyle, but they leave you little time for anything else. However, if you look hard enough you can find a few minutes to browse through the Bible, seeking the Lord's advice and learning the origin of your faith; on the commuter train or perhaps in your car while waiting for someone. You might even keep a paperback copy of it in the glove compartment. In any case, those few absorbing moments now and then can be the most rewarding ones of your life, because the principles therein are timeless.

Remember that just owning a Bible will do you no good; you must open it and start reading it, whenever you can.

Dryland Seminars Will Be At Farm And Ranch Show

Dryland agriculture in the Texas High plains will be the topic of the day when the West Texas A&M University Dryland Agriculture Institute, the WTAMU Division of Agriculture and the WTAMU Agricultural Development Association sponsor a series of expert seminars November 30, 1993 at the 9th Annual Amarillo Farm and Ranch Show at the Amarillo Civic Center.

"Cropping and Tillage Systems for Dryland Grain Production" will be presented at 9 a.m. by O. R. Jones, a soil scientist with the U. S. Department of Agriculture-Agricultural Research Station at Bushland. Jones has been at Bushland for 32 years. The last nine years, he has concentrated on tillage effects on sorghum and wheat. In his presentation, he will discuss various tillage effects, crop selection, crop sequencing and efficient use of water.

Jim Cavin, a veteran farmer in Deaf Smith County, and Vanis Byrd of Dalhart, will host a "Producer Panel on Dryland Corn Production" at 9:30 a.m. Cavin grew dryland corn in 1991 and 1993. He said he was pleased with the yields, which were comparable to sorghum.

"This (dryland corn production) is still real new. Farmers need to experiment with it awhile before they plant acres and acres," Cavin said. "Last year, we had harsh, stressful conditions and still did well with below-average rainfall and above-average temperatures."

At 9:55 a.m., Mr. Jim Schrib, a field sales agronomy manager at the Amarillo branch of Pioneer Hi-Bred Intertation, Inc., will discuss "Considerations for Dryland Corn Production."

"The key to successful dryland corn production is to have a high soil moisture profile at planting time and to use the correct hybrid, the correct population and the correct planting date," Schrib said. "You have to make certain the corn pollinates before the temperatures get too high."

Dr. W. Arden Colette, WTAMU professor of agriculture, business and economics, will discuss "Livestock Response to Grazing Old World Bluestem on CRP Lands in the Texas Panhandle: First Year Preliminary Results" at 10:10 a.m.

"The purpose of this experiment is to determine the profitability of utilizing CRP land instead of plowing it up," he said.

The government allows only one CRP experiment per state. Colette's research project took three years to establish. He was closely involved with the state ASCS (Agriculture Stabilization & Conservation Service) and the U. S. Department of Agriculture. He will collect data for three more years before the project is complete.

At 10:40 a.m., WTAMU Professor Ron Thomason will conclude the series with the presentation "Utilizing Manure and Compost in Dryland Forage Production."

Thomason has supervised a two-year experiment at WTAMU's Nance Ranch involving various applications of manure and compost to 50 acres of forage sorghum. Data collected include yield comparisons and soil analysis.

Admission to the three-day Amarillo Farm and Ranch Show is free, and free parking is available.

"Enter into his gates with thanksgiving. . . be thankful unto him, and bless his name."

-Psalm 100:4

Every Day Of Your Life Should Be A Day Of Thanksgiving

We indulge in self-pity, lamenting our woes, Plus the ones that have never occurred; And forget the good fortune which everyone knows

The Almighty so often conferred. Now the place of our worship will help us recall

That gratitude should be restored; So we don't need a special occasion at all

To acknowledge the love of the Lord. Though we all have experienced trouble and strife,

Yet our lessons in faith will convey; For the blessings we've had, every day of our life

Should be known as our Thanksgiving Day.

I would like to thank all the people who helped make the Junior High football season so successful. This season would not have been successful without the support of our students, faculty and parents.

Also, I would like to thank my 7th grade girls and 8th grade class for the wonderful presents given to me. I am convinced that some of the best young people are right here at Valley. It has been a great privilege and pleasure to be able to sponsor Valley Junior High.

Thanks for the memories!

Hunter Education Course Available

Those hunters who have waited until the last minute to take hunter education, especially younger hunters and anyone hunting out of state, have a few more chances before the holidays to take the course, particularly during the holiday break when children are out of school.

Anyone who will be hunting next spring also should consider taking the course.

Every Texas hunter born on or after September 2, 1971 must successfully complete a hunter education training course. If you were born on or after September 2, 1971, and you are 17 years old or older, you must successfully complete a hunter education course; or if you are 12-16 years old you must successfully complete a hunter education course or be accompanied by a licensed hunter 17 or older.

The program is reciprocal with all other states and Canadian provinces. The minimum 10 hour course, which must be scheduled over a minimum of two days, focuses primarily on hunting safety, responsibility, ethics, game laws and a number of other topics.

The course has a small fee. Certification is not required to purchase a license, but the person must carry certification while hunting.

A hunter education course will be taught in Lubbock on December 7, 1993 by John Dea. Call (806) 744-0213 for more information.
