We make Sunday reservations

Thursday we breakfasted in Paris and then had a business lunch in New York. On Friday, we joined a conference in San Francisco. With the new space-age technology, we feel so free, as though we have conquered time and distance and everything.

Well, maybe not everything!

You know some things can't be answered by better machines. So, wherever we are, we go to church on Sunday. How about you?

News From The Extension Service

by Jackie Johnson
Briscoe County Agricultural Agent
The Texas Animal Health Commission recently announced a quarantine order that reimposes restrictions on swine movements in Texas placed in effect March 29, to control hog cholera.

The new order became effective May 28, and it will remain in effect until further notice.

All previous restrictions on swine movements contained in the previous order will remain the same, with the exception of one additional restriction.

The new restriction order will require holding all purchased swine for 30 days at the premise of the purchaser, and no movement will be allowed except for slaughter during the quarantine.

If swine are apparently healthy, this premise quarantine will automatically expire after the 30th day without any inspection. It is strongly felt that extending quarantine control will bring Texas closer to the complete eradication of the cholera virus by the Dec. 1972 target date. Although 22 cases of cholera have been confirmed since March 29, none of these cases have been connected with swine movements after that date.

Five counties — Denton, Freestone, Wise, Parker and Palo Pinto — have been completely released from federal quarantine, according to Bailey. He added that Potter County had been placed under federal quarantine. Originally, all or portions of 33 Texas counties were under federal quarantine.

All swine can be moved, provided that proper inspections and permits are acquired.

MINIMUM TILLAGE, STRIP CROPPING RECOMMENDED

According to David Seitz, minimum tillage and strip cropping are two of the methods recommended by conservationists to prevent wind erosion. Crop residues left on the soil surface will not only prevent the soil from blowing but will also reduce soil compaction, reduce formation of hard pans, improve soil aeration and moisture intake rates, and soil tilth.

Royce Frisbie examining sand dune deposited in county road from adjoining field which didn't have sufficient cover to prevent erosion.

DRIVE FRIENDLY—Gov. Preston Smith is joined by two other state officials in urging drivers to DRIVE FRIENDLY during the summer when traffic is heaviest. On the left is A. Ross Rommel, the state's traffic safety administrator, and on the right is Col. Wilson E. Speir, director of the Department of Public Safety. The Governor said the state is doing everything possible to cut down on traffic accidents. "But, we need the full support of the driver himself," the Governor said.

FARMERS UNION OPPOSES PROPOSED INCREASE IN SECOND CLASS POSTAGE

The Farmers Union has urged the Postal Rate Commission to turn down a proposed increase in second class postal rates.

Dr. Weldon V. Barton, assistant national legislative director of the Farmers Union, said in testimony before the Commission that increasing second class postal rates would threaten the existence of small town newspapers. But in addition, he said, it would also "combine with other forces working to stagnate rural America."

Loss of weekly newspapers and other printed information sources that move through the mails "would serve to drag down and frustrate efforts to upgrade health, transportation, employment, education, and other activities essential for rural revitalization," Barton said.

Furthermore, he urged that rates on other classes of mail not be increased in order to absorb the deficit that will result from maintenance of current second class rates. "Instead," he said, "Farmers Union urges that —after the Postal Service makes every effort to secure financial savings by squeeze-ing out operating inefficiencies — the deficits be allowed to accumulate so as to encourage remedial amendment of the 1970 Postal Reorganization Act.

"Over the long run —as deficits accumulate— Farmers Union recommends amendment of the 1970 Act to authorize continued subsidization out of general revenues of the federal government for essential mail and other information - communication services. We are convinced that efficient and inexpensive mail service to all areas of the nation is related to the public interest in a way that fully justifies the subsidization out of general tax revenue that is required to secure this objective."

Mouth-Watering Vegetables

Nothing tastes better than really fresh vegetables. You'll love sweet corn if eaten shortly after harvest. It loses its sugars if held too long.

You can grow all the vegetables the family can eat if you have an open area in the backyard that gets 8 to 10 hours of sunshine each day. A spot 25 by 40 feet is enough for the average family, with enough vegetables left over for freezing and canning.

Vegetables do well on well-drained, loamy type soils. Use plenty of organic matter. It adds richness to the soil and helps hold moisture. It takes a lot of moisture to produce vegetables so water thoroughly each week unless you get an inch or more of rainfall.

You'll move along faster and make fewer mistakes if you draw a sketch of the garden. Group rows of each variety, especially corn to insure good cross pollination.

Once you have planted the vegetables, they will need no more care than the flower garden. To simplify it even more, you can use the same insect control program used in the flower garden. With a broad spectrum insecticide like Spectracide you don't have to worry about mixing several different chemicals to control major flower and vegetable pests.

A few short rows of vegetables will add to your gardening pleasures this spring and summer and will cut a third or more off your grocery bill. Besides, fresh vegetables direct from the garden taste better.

USDA Authorizes Loans For Farm Storage Facilities

Farm storage facility loans to finance "wet storage" and hay storage farm structures will be available effective July 1, 1971, the U. S. Department of Agriculture announced today.

Today's announcement removes a previous prohibition on loans for oxygen-free and silo-type structures. It also adds loans for hay storage which can be used by producers in conjunction with the Agricultural Act of 1970 provisions dealing with hay for emergency use. Regulations applying to current farm storage facility loans will generally be applicable to loans for hay storage.

USDA officials explained that changing conditions for harvesting, storing and feeding methods require greater use of on-farm structures capable of storing agricultural commodities containing a high percentage of moisture.

These changes become effective July 1, 1971.

Keep it cool, keep it clean and keep it covered! Follow these rules in handling and storing meat and you will insure flavor and wholesomeness.

First, you should be familiar with the store where you shop and brand names. Select stores and names with good reputations for your meat shopping.

As you shop, be alert to packaging conditions. Reject a package that is broken, wet, bulging or appears to be under tension.

It's important to avoid exposing meat packages to warm air. Refrigerate them as soon as you return home.

Many bacteriologists say that "Life begins at forty." By this, they mean 40° Fahrenheit. In fact, meat held at 40° Fahrenheit will keep twice as long as meat held at 50° Fahrenheit.

At even lower temperatures, such as 32° Fahrenheit, meat can be stored four times as long.

America's food processors, shippers and retailers exercise much care and diligence in providing the nation with a bountiful supply of nourishing, high-quality foods. And homemakers, too, have a responsibility to protect and preserve the quality of this food supply.

It is a good idea to carry your insulated ice chest in the car when you go grocery shopping. Store the items which should be kept cold in the ice chest. Then if you are delayed, you don't have to worry about the groceries.

You can't live on love forever.

Okay, you're young. You've got all the love in the world and you're doing your best to live on it. Retirement? That's for when you're old, right?

It's for when you're old if you can afford it.

The kind of retirement you're after isn't the typical rocking-away-on-the-front-porch variety. You probably picture yourself taking extended vacations, pursuing hobbies, or buying that forty acres and living off the land. Pipe dreams? Not if you prepare now.

There's an easy, painless way to make your retirement dreams a reality. Join the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. That way, an amount you specify will be set aside from each paycheck and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds. It's an easy way to save.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5½% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra ½%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970... with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

Now is the time to start saving. Money's a nice thing to have while you're living on love forever.

Bonds are safe. If lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace them. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Tax may be deferred until redemption. And always remember, Bonds are a proud way to save.

Take stock in America.
Now Bonds pay a bonus at maturity.

The U.S. Government does not pay for this advertisement. It is presented as a public service in cooperation with The Department of the Treasury and The Advertising Council.

Business Review

Merrell Food

MODERN FOOD STORE - This store, as well stocked as stores in any city, offer the food shoppers of this area a wide selection of quality foods.

When Jake Merrell, of Merrell Food, says that a particular cut of meat is good, you can jolly well believe it. He basing his judgment on 25 years experience in the business, and most of the time he's talking about beef he has raised, fed high protein grain diet, processed through his own butchering facilities and cut and packaged for display in this market in the food store.

Just this spring he completed the construction of a modern slaughterhouse northeast of town, designed and built to government specifications, and where he can process as many as 25 head of beeves per week. Butchering takes place twice a week—on Tuesdays and Thursdays. During these periods a government meat inspector is on duty at all times.

In addition to his processing for his own market, Merrell also does custom butchering and processing for the people of this area.

The Merrell Food store provides a chance for the people of the Valley to enjoy supermarket convenience, for the large 6,000 foot modern store building is well stocked with nationally known canned and packaged foods. These are displayed on food gondolas arranged along spacious aisles for easy shopping. An open-case fresh produce department is as modern and as well stocked as is to be found in any store, and so is the dairy and frozen food department. Add to this the meat market already mentioned and you have as wide a variety of foods as you'll find in stores in any city.

A friendly staff is always on hand to help Jake serve Valley customers who rely on the store for their food. Jerry Chadwick is in charge of the meat department. Checkers are Florence Cobb and Estelle Davidson, who have been with Jake for many years and are thoroughly familiar with the store and the customers' needs.

Jake hardly needs an introduction. The son of W. W. Merrell and the late Mrs. Merrell, he was born and raised not too many miles from the present location of his store. A graduate of the Quitaque High School, he served in the U. S. Coast Guard from 1941 until 1945, when he returned to Quitaque and opened a grocery, feed and seed store on the west end of Main Street. He built his present store in 1959.

Jake could well qualify as one of the busiest men in town. In addition to operating the store and his feeding operations, he farms and ranches. His son, Warren Lee, runs the farm northeast of Quitaque.

His family consists of his wife, Jo May, two sons, Warren Lee, 24, and Jerry, 19, and a daughter, Jo Beth. Jerry is a sophomore at West Texas State University, and is planning on a veterinary science career; Jo Beth will be a junior at WTSU and plans on finishing her four year pre-med course within three years, after which she will enter Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo to train as a medical technician.

MEAT MARKET - Beef, pork and poultry, carefully selected and grain-fed to insure flavor and tenderness, are processed and sold through the market at Merrell Food. Jake, along with the butcher, Jerry Chadwick, are shown as they process fryers for the store.
