As I See It!

By Thelma Gafford

The topic this week is Quitaque Homecoming, and what a homecoming it is going to be! I've never seen so many people trying to get their homes, yards, businesses, and buildings in shape for all the returning exes. Even a few different window displays have gone up, just for this week. A lot of hard work has gone into the preparation. The anxiety around here is almost as high as at a football game! It's great, isn't it? You know, I've even seen some women tipping their hairdressers to make them look younger! Can you believe that? And have you noticed the guys conserving oxygen for the weekend? Well, I guess that's what they're doing, they walk around holding their breath, chest out and stomach in, until they can't hold it anymore.

There will be other visitors in the area this weekend that will be looking for a bit of history, too. A group of archeologists will be in the area attempting to map out Coronado's expedition trail.

Yet another group, The First National Bank of Quitaque, will celebrate 70 years of active business history with an Open House Reception all day Thursday, August 2.

This will be the last editorial I will write as editor, maybe I can (from time to time) have the privilege of hosting a guest editorial, but for now, I pass this space on to the new editor of the Valley Tribune, Mrs. Eunice McFall.

This job has been an experience, as well as a challenge. I have loved every minute of it. Well, maybe not every minute, like when I made a mistake, and you, the reader, brought it to my attention; maybe I didn't enjoy that so much. You would scream at me (well, it seemed like it at times), but you never hit me or pulled my hair so that's nice! I have made a lot of wonderful friends, I've shared your good times, as well as the bad, I've announced your new arrivals, and helped you say goodbye to your loved ones. But the time has come that I must give up my "day" job for my fulltime job at the family business in Turkey. I will, however, continue to work for the Tribune on Mondays in Turkey.

So, take it away Eunice.....!

We're starting into the last full month of summer and the starting of school and the end of vacation season is not far away. It's been an unusual one so far...severe heat and drought in June and cool with rain in July. We wonder what August to mid-September holds for us. Looks like the next six weeks will decide whether we have a crop or not...What our school enrollment will be...What our 1990 Census count will be and a lot of other unanswered questions. If anybody out there knows, wish they would fill us in. The suspense is awful!

 Heard it predicted the other day, with all the electronic stuff we now have, that the United States will, by the year of 2000, be three feet deep in AA batteries!

 Hear about the hotel guest who called the desk and ordered a 7-Up? It never did arrive but the telephone woke him up promptly at seven the next morning!

 Wonder if we could get Roseanne Barr to come and sing the National Anthem at the opening of the football season?!

A Sign Of Progress?

by Jack Tunnell

Some men got permission to use the building, where the Community Center was to be founded many years later, to demonstrate a radio. It was, they said, just like a telephone, without wire lines.

They put up a bunch of copper wires on the roof, carried a little cabinet, about two feet square, batteries, head pieces (like the telephone operator used), and tools.

They finally got everything ready, but said it would be late that afternoon when reception was best, and two or three stations more would broadcast.

Many curious people heard voices from distant cities--I think even Amarillo--though mixed with many squawks and squeaks.

The men told of coming improvements, many new stations to start, etc. How could anyone be so stupid--spend all the money it would take to build and operate a station, just to amuse the few people who had time to listen? And the money to buy one!

I think this kid's question answered itself, or was answered many times in the next generation or two.

They said that someday there would be pictures with the voices. In fact, they said some company was working on that very thing, even then.

Of course we all had our opinions about such a lie, all very much the same. When that happened, man would even be thinking of going to the moon. We all knew how impossible that would be EVER!

Reception Honors Merrell's On 40th Anniversary

Truman and Melba Jo Merrell

were honored with a reception held in the yard of their country home south of Quitaque, July 20, 1990 at 7 p.m. Truman Merrell and Melba Jo Woods were united in marriage June 10, 1950 at Silvertown, Texas. G.A. Elrod performed the ceremony in the Baptist parsonage.

Hosting the occasion were their daughters and families, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff (Cheryl) Cooper, Cassie and Clint, Ft. Worth and Mr. and Mrs. DeWayne (Jayne) Adams, Joanna and A.J., Norwalk, Calif.

Cassie Cooper and Joanna Adams registered the guests as they arrived. A picture of the Merrells taken on their wedding day and a beautiful 40th anniversary plate were on the register table.

Refreshments of cake and homemade ice cream were served to over 100 guests. Nieces of the Merrell's served at the refreshment tables.

It was a delightful occasion with lots of visiting, picture taking, remembering many happy memories. A memory book was made by those attending bringing a page.

The reception was a complete surprise to the Merrells until the Coopers arrived at the home place on Tuesday afternoon. The young grandson announced to Grammy, "You won't believe all the anniversary cake we've got out in our car," That solved Cheryl's problem of how she was going to tell her mom and dad.

A group of relatives and friends gathered at the Turkey Drive-In last Saturday afternoon, July 28, for a surprise birthday party for Zona Lane.

Upon Zona's arrival, brought to the cafe by her granddaughter, Connie Duorak, she was greeted with "surprise" in unison by the group, then they all sang "Happy Birthday" to her.

The cafe had been festively decorated for the occasion with streamers and party balloons. The serving table was covered with a pink cloth. In the center of the table was a huge birthday cake inscribed with Happy Birthday and two candles representing her age, 92! Behind the cake was an enormous basket of fresh cut flowers. On the basket was a wide ribbon with "Happy Birthday Grandmother" painted on it.

Birthday cake, coffee and ice tea were served to the festive crowd by granddaughter, Laura Stewart.

Following breakfast Saturday morning, the group visited the Capitol, saw the Treaty Oak, and other things of interest. The evening meal was served at the Spaghetti Warehouse.

Sunday breakfast was served in the Woodhollow room at the motel, and plans were made for next years reunion. Lots of practical jokes were enjoyed that were pulled on several family members. Goodbyes were said around noon and the families departed for their homes.

The Panther Scream

From "The Panther Scream" May 19, 1933

THE LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT OF THE SENIOR CLASS OF THE SENIOR CLASS QUITAQUE HIGH SCHOOL, OF 1933 A.D.

We the Seniors in the Year of Our Lord, 1933, being in full possession of the Faculty, and realizing that our days as students--nay, members--of QHS are numbered, do make this, our last will and testament, to become effective on the evening of May 26, 1933, when we, as a class and as individuals, by due process of law and graduation, become Ex-Seniors. Having attained the heights through eleven years of hard labor, we are now able to look down on the world from above and feel that we should leave to the still toiling Juniors, who, if providence and the Faculty permit, will be among the Celestial body in 1934, certain rights and privileges, certain things which may be of benefit to them in the year to come.

We, the Senior Class, '33 do give and bequeath to the Class of '34 all rights and privileges attached to the water towers and signs thereon, which with slight changes in date and retouching, will become symbolic of their high estate; all rights to the flag pole, including axle grease; any and all half-empty cans of paint that may be found in various and sundry places; and full authority over the fine lockers now being used by the seniors, with recommendations and addresses of several good burglar insurance writers who are willing to lose money in a good cause. We extend them the Key of Knowledge which is supposed to unlock the hearts of the Faculty. We hope that they will have more success in finding the keyhole than we have had.

In addition to the above bequests from the class as a whole, we have several individual bequests to the Junior Class:

Polly Walls hereby gives and bequeaths her chewing gum, which has served her long and faithfully through the past four years of high school, to Anne Faulkner, with full instructions as to the proper technique.

Jean and Soph will to Pearl Page and Roy Martin, alternating with Max Addison and Rena Persons, their favorite spooning corners--with no instructions. We believe them to be unnecessary.

Mildred Graham gives her golden curls to Annie Reeves.

Bud Bailey wishes to pass on his ability as a champion debater to Red Tipps, believing he has placed it in worthy hands.

Ben Ezzell requests that the Class of '34 spend a week in deliberation to select the member most deserving of everlasting punishment, then make that member Editor-In-Chief of the Panther Scream with all its attendant honors. Rucker Hawkins, Junior Sanders, and Ruth Simmons are earnestly recommended as likely heirs.

C.T. Rucker wills to Roy Gregg our future track star, his second wind. Clifford has never found it yet, but he still has hopes.

To Chunk Tipps, Jack Stroup passes on his winning ways with the teachers with best hopes of success.

To Rosie Lee and Vera Bell Stone, Mildred, Ben and Shorty bequeath their English IV notebooks, complete with notes, themes and red ink marks--all that is necessary to inherit this fortune is to apply to Miss Walters--self-appointed guardian--and the terms of this will to be carried out to the letter--or to the wastebasket.

Robbie Jo--on hearing that Marjorie is subject to head colds wills her beautiful 'Rose Colored Hair--to keep the wigwam, you know.

To Geneva Metzker, Iva wills her favorite tune, which is to be used exclusively in reciting poetry. It can be adapted to almost any poem.

To Betty Cutbirth, Bo leaves the remainder of that Golden Glint, advising her that it is not waterproof.

A.C., Gaston and Bill leave a vacancy to be filled by any ten Juniors.

From Shorty we have a bequest of six extra inches to be given in height to Buddy Grundy.

Era Bob leaves her soulful brown eyes to Ursel Taylor while Mary Edith Dunham bequeaths the medal which she won in Extemporaneous Speaking in Austin to Mr. Delmar Ashworth.

The whole class, with varying expressions of relief and sympathy to the rest of the school.

As executor we appoint that worthy gentleman, Supt. E.W. Scheid, with the request that he carry out to the best of his ability, the bequests made herein, according to the provisions set forth in this will.

THE SENIOR CLASS TEN YEARS HENCE

In June, 1943, a citizen of Quitaque, reporter on the Quitaque Post, West Texas' best daily paper, went to New York to interview the famous Madame Swastika, the world's greatest seer.

When he arrived in the city, he found to his amazement, that Madame Swastika was none other than Miss Era Bob Eddleman, of the Senior Class of '33. The reporter found Miss Swastika in an expansive mood, and somewhat home sick. So she consented to gaze in her crystal ball and find out where the rest of her Senior class were.

The crystal ball was cloudy at first. When it became clearer, it showed the members of the class in rapid succession. One peculiar thing about it was that the members of the class were given in alphabetical order.

Fenton Bailey, with a lock of straw-colored hair over one eye, was the greatest baseball player since Babe Ruth.

A.C. Bickford, renowned for his executive ability, was the new mayor of Gasoline, Texas.

Mary Edith Dunham, still a great speaker, was lecturing on "Women's Rights".

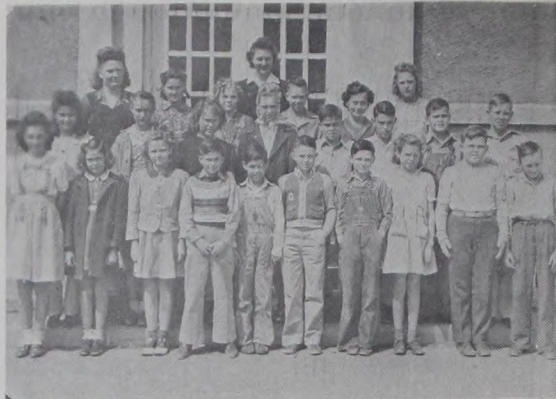

Hollis Evans, grown sour, was a professional chess player.

Ben Ezzell, even taller and much thinner, was the human skeleton in the Barnum & Bailey Circus.

Marcellus Graham, a world-famous athlete, was posing for pictures of "What the Well-Dressed Athlete is Wearing".

Mildred Graham, now a redhead, was gaining fame as an aviatrix.

Homer Morris finally turned out to be a "man-about-town" and was defendant in a "breach of promise" suit.

Gaston Owens, somewhat huskier, was a bodyguard for Wallace Beery.

Jeane Puckett, stately in a velvet gown, rivaled Kate Smith in singing but not in weight.

C.T. Rucker, a pompous fat man, was running a girl's boarding school in the Mountains of Virginia.

Iva Smith, grown tall with soulful eyes, was a poetess.

Jack Stroup, who had shrunk both in height and weight, was featherweight champion of the world.

Robbie Jo Tunnell's flaming red head ornamented all of the sport pages, since she had just completed the first non-stop swim from Hawaii to California.

Madame Swastika, formerly Era Bob Eddleman, appeared next in the ball with her long brunette curls shining.

Polly Walls, no taller, and we must confess, somewhat portly, was ambassador to France.

Bill Woods, now in Chicago, had just been named "Public enemy No. 1," by the chief of police in Chicago.

The crystal ball became cloudy, then cleared, and bravely waving, appeared the blue and gold flag of the famous class of '33.

The young of an eel is called an elver.

Briscoe County Extension News

County Extension agent Lynda Fogerson and Silverton FHA member Aimee Francis participated in a three-day summer institute at the Texas Tech Health Sciences Center in Lubbock July 18-20, to introduce the Y. E. S. project, a new intergenerational project designed for rural communities.

Y.E.S. matches 4-H and FHA youth with senior citizens in their community to provide assisted living services to help seniors maintain independent living and to promote positive intergenerational relationships between the two age groups.

This project is the result of a collaborative effort among the Texas Tech University College of Home Economics, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service home economists in the South Plains district and the Texas Tech Health Sciences Center.

The Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, the nation's largest health care philanthropy, is providing major funding for this project.

The extension agent, one home economics teacher and one additional local person will form the county resource team. Patsy Towe, who was unable to attend the training, will be a member of the county team.

A county advisory committee will be formed to make recommendations and set project policies for the county. Any adult interested in serving on this advisory committee may apply to Lynda Fogerson in the County Extension Office.

The project will not be available until January 1991. Aimee Francis will be recruiting FHA and 4-H members to participate.

Y.E.S. has the potential to provide valuable assistance to Briscoe County senior adults and to increase youths' understanding of aging and appreciation for the older citizens.

Light Pop Corn Is Great Snack

Light microwave pop corn is popping up on retail shelves across the country. These new products have been formulated with the health-conscious consumer in mind. That's good news for snackers of all ages.

The popped corn tastes great as is, or you can lightly flavor it with herbs and other seasoners that keep the calorie, fat and sodium tally under control. Remember, too, that pop corn is a good source of dietary fiber. The light varieties contain 3 grams of dietary fiber per serving.

Here are some tempting and light serving suggestions using light pop corn.
