Hightower Wins Battle For Surplus-Plagued Farm Families

Congressman Jack Hightower and other farm-state congressmen have won an important battle to retain the major South Korean cotton market for U. S. exports. Responding to a letter from Hightower and other congressmen, the Reagan Administration has agreed to reverse its earlier stand on approving credit to South Korea for the purpose of assisting them in the purchase of American cotton. The Administration had initially decided against granting agricultural credit to South Korea, one of this country's most dependable trading partners and lowest loan risks.

In a letter to the President, Hightower protested the Administration's initial denial of credit, pointing out that the U. S. share of the Korean market had declined from 95 percent to just under 80 percent, meaning an annual loss of approximately $73.5 million for U. S. farmers. Korean purchases of U. S. cotton have accounted for more than a fourth of all U. S. cotton exports. Hightower said this initial Administration decision would cause further serious decline as Korea sought other sources because of the initial decision.

"It seems clear to me that the Administration ought to be doing everything it can to encourage U. S. agricultural exports instead of discouraging them," said Hightower. "The PIK program is one way of reducing these price-depressing crop surpluses, and boosting our exports to dependable customers like Korea is another important way."

The decision reversal is important to Texas cotton growers as South Korea has consistently been the largest purchaser of Texas cotton. The Asian country is also one of the most reliable trading partners when it has come to repaying U. S. loans extended for the purchase of American exports.

Thanks to Turkey, Quitaque Business People

The Valley Tribune wants to thank all the businesspeople in Quitaque and Turkey for supporting the two issues of the Valley School ~~-----~~. We would like to ask the seniors to add their thanks to the businesspeople for their support over the years. They have your interest at heart.

Thanks again!

Tougher Stance Being Taken On Theft of Electricity

Electric utilities in Texas, including West Texas Utilities Co., are taking a tougher stance these days on theft of electricity.

Reasons for the crackdown are a change in the State Penal Code making meter tampering a penitentiary offense and the fact that the cost of producing electric energy has gone up.

"We view any form of stealing electric power as a serious crime," said Don Welch of Abilene, WTU vice president and director of customer services, "because we feel a strong responsibility to protect the interest of our good paying customers."

"It costs money to produce electricity," Welch said. "If one customer manages to get some of it free, the other customers have to make up the difference."

The State Legislature amended the criminal mischief statute in 1981 to make diversion of any utility service a third degree felony with a possible punishment of a maximum fine of $5,000 and from two to ten years in prison. The law also allows authorities to make the assumption that the person in whose name the service was last billed is the responsible party.

Convictions have been obtained in several Texas cities since the law was passed, and WTU recently filed charges which resulted in a felony indictment being issued against a customer.

Welch said that meter tampering not only is a serious crime which is becoming more easy to detect, but that it is extremely dangerous.

"Many people do not understand the danger involved," he said. "Property damage, serious injury, or even death can result."

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Green visited in Lubbock Thursday of last week with his brother, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Green.

Tommy Lacy of Greenville, Mississippi and Jimmy Lacy of Lubbock were here this weekend to attend graduation exercises. Their brother, Randy Lacy, was among the graduates of Valley High School. They also visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lacy.

Rev. and Mrs. Roy Patterson and small granddaughter, Brenda Aubuchon, visited in Lubbock Sunday afternoon with Mrs. Patterson's sister, Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Collins and Mr. and Mrs. Otha Castle, and also with the Castle's daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Matt Hartnett and son, Matthew, who had flown down in a private plane as a surprise for her father's birthday Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Orval Cobb spent Sunday visiting Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hasty in Clarendon.

Fayette Seitz of Mobeetie visited in the home of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Edna Taylor, in Quitaque Saturday. He came to return his niece, Margie Key, to her home in Pampa after she had spent two weeks with her aunt.

STRENGTHENING THE SOCIAL SECURITY SYSTEM

A Special News Message for the People of the 13th Congressional District

by Jack Hightower

The President has finally signed the bipartisan compromise bill largely put together by the National Commission on Social Security Reform and passed by Congress earlier this year. For many of the 36 million Americans directly affected now, and for the millions to be affected in the future, this measure should save the system about $165 billion over just the next seven years, and it should reassure those concerned about whether the system will survive its current difficulties.

The basic problem with Social Security was that it was in danger of going bankrupt because more money was being paid out to beneficiaries than was being taken in through Social Security taxes. This new legislation will do many things to correct the system's short-term and long-term structural problems. I'd like to preface my explanation of what was accomplished by saying that there were a number of items in the package I did not favor. However, my main concern was that if all 535 Members of Congress started picking apart the compromise and taking out every section each of us opposed, everything would have unravelled—with further dangerous delay. Therefore, the Commission's plan was considered in the Congress as one package with the only exception being two special amendments which involved the retirement age and Social Security withholding taxes.

The legislation represented two main approaches to solving the financial problem. First, the income formula was changed to bring more money into the system at a faster and more reliable rate. Second, the complex system of paying benefits was modified so as to reduce the rate at which the funds lose money before being refilled.

First, the bill delays from June to December payment of the cost-of-living adjustment that is intended to help beneficiaries cope with inflation. It also modifies the consumer price index formula by which such adjustments are computed so as to make it more realistic than in the past. Second, the already-scheduled 1985 Social Security tax rates have been speeded up just this one time to go into effect in 1984, but this speed-up only affects employers, not employees. I did not originally support this speed-up but it is one example of the kinds of compromises in the package that Congress agreed to in order to get other provisions included. Third, the Pickle Amendment was approved which provides a phased-in raising of the retirement age from 65 to 67 to be completed by the year 2027. I supported this approach, instead of the other option we had to just raise Social Security taxes again, because I think people are already overburdened with such taxes. Phasing in a slightly higher retirement age makes more sense to me because it's less burdensome to our young taxpayers trying to get on their feet, to our middle-aged taxpayers now carrying the lion's share of the overall tax burden, and in many cases it's more realistic for some of the elderly who are living longer and want to work longer before they retire. And fourth, the bill brings all future federal employees into the Social Security system starting January 1, 1984. This was a hotly controversial item, and I've heard from a large number of federal employees in the district. While I agree with many of the points they make regarding this issue, I can say that one of its good aspects is that for the first time, members of Congress and the Executive branch will have to pay into the system. It is only reasonable and fair that if everyone else has to help support the system, Congress and the Chief Executive should, too. All federal employees who are now covered under the Civil Service Retirement system will continue under that program; they will not lose any benefits.

Another major provision makes one-half of a beneficiary's Social Security income subject to taxation, if the retiree already has an income of $25,000 or more, or $32,000 for a couple. In other words, people with a great deal of retirement income in addition to Social Security are being asked to help support other retirees who have nothing but their small Social Security check each month. This is another example of a compromise provision that doesn't please everyone, but is a compromise included to help save the entire system.

There are other miscellaneous provisions that help to stabilize the system and restore balance to the cash-flow. For example, the bill contains a section that says uncashed Social Security checks shall now be put back into the fund. In the past, once a check was issued, it was counted as outgo, whether it was ever cashed or not. Once this system is put in place, these checks will be accounted for, and the Treasury Department is working on the mechanics now. All in all, I think the compromise was critically necessary, and may not have gone far enough, but it was the best package that everyone including the President could agree on. It will definitely help put—and keep—Social Security in the black for the foreseeable future.

The Social Security Act Amendments of 1983

*Brings those who go to work for the federal government after January 1, 1983, into the Social Security system. Current and future members of Congress, the President, Vice-President, federal judges and top political appointees will also be included.

*Brings all employees of private, tax-exempt, non-profit organizations into the system, beginning January 1, 1983.

*Prohibits state and local governments from terminating Social Security coverage for their employees. Previously, they could drop out of the program if they gave the Social Security Administration two years notice.

*Delays the July, 1983 cost-of-living adjustment for Social Security and Supplemental Security Income recipients until January, 1984, and switches the annual adjustment to January. The adjustment will be provided next January, even if the increase in the Consumer Price Index is less than three percent. Under the old law, there was no adjustment when the increase was that low.

*Adjusts the cost-of-living adjustment when reserves in the Old Age and Survivors Insurance and Disability Insurance trust funds are less than 15 percent of what will be needed for the year, for 1985 through 1988. In that case, the adjustment will be based on the lower of the increase in the Consumer Price Index or the increase in average wages.

*Gradually increases the retirement age from 65 to 67 by the year 2027. The age would be raised to 66 over a six-year period ending in 2009; it would then be raised to 67 over six years ending in 2027.

*Rearranges payroll tax increases already scheduled to go into effect under previous law. Laws now on the books provide for payroll taxes of 7.15 percent until 1990, when taxes jump to 7.65 percent. The Social Security bill provides an additional, intermediate payroll tax increase from 7.15 percent to 7.51 percent in 1988 before reaching the 7.65 percent level in 1990. A three percent tax credit will be allowed against the 1984 tax increase for employees only.

*Increases payroll taxes for self-employed individuals from the current 75 percent of combined employer-employee taxes to the full 100 percent of employer-employee taxes. To offset the impact of the tax, self-employed people will be given an income tax credit.

*Changes the way the government pays hospitals under the Medicare program by establishing fixed fees in advance for various types of services rather than the current cost-plus reimbursement system.

*Continues the program of extended unemployment benefits for another six months, to September 30, 1983.

*Adds two public members to the Social Security board of trustees, now composed of the secretaries of the Treasury, Labor and Health and Human Services.

*Removes the Social Security system from the "unified" federal budget, beginning in fiscal 1992.

*Relaxes the penalty on retirees with outside earnings. Under the new law, benefits would be reduced $1 for each $3 earned over $6,600, beginning in 1990. Under existing law, benefits are reduced $1 for every $2 over that amount.

*Further reduces benefits received by persons who retire early.

*Gradually increases the amount of money paid to workers who do not retire until after they reach 65, beginning in 1990, but cuts off this so-called delayed retirement credit once they reach 70.

*Taxes either one-half of the Social Security benefits an individual receives or one-half of the amount over $25,000, whichever is less, if his adjusted gross income exceeds $25,000. For married couples, the base is $32,000.

*Provides for the continuation of Social Security benefits to divorced spouses, disabled divorced spouses and disabled widows and widowers if they remarry after filing for benefits. Under the old law, benefits were terminated in most cases.

INFLATION-FIGHTING FOOD IDEAS

*Permits U. S. employers to provide Social Security coverage for American citizens working abroad for the foreign affiliate of an American employer. The company must have at least 10 percent interest in the foreign company. Under the old law, coverage was available only if both the American employer and the foreign affiliate were corporations.

*Reduces the so-called "wind-fall benefit" some retirees received when they worked for only a short period of time under the Social Security system and received far more in benefits than they paid in.

*Instructs HHS to establish a program under which the states can receive official death certificate information from the federal government to prevent benefit payments to the deceased.

*Requires Congress to establish a study team to determine if the Social Security Administration should be an independent agency.

*Requires the government to issue Social Security identification cards made of banknote paper to guard against counterfeiting.

*Provides that aged, blind and disabled residents of public emergency shelters for the homeless may be eligible for Supplemental Security Income benefits for as many as three months in a year. Currently, most residents are not eligible.

*Instructs HHS to formally notify elderly Social Security recipients that they may be eligible for benefits under the Supplemental Security Income program.

Mrs. Leon Lane Hosts Nuevo Study Club

Mrs. Leon Lane was hostess to the Nuevo Study Club in her home Thursday, May 19, for the last meeting of the club year. The president, Mrs. Bert Degam, opened the meeting by giving a short devotional called "Joy" and used a scripture from Psalms 5:11.

Mrs. Willis Walker gave a report on planting wild flowers on vacant lots and the club voted to sponsor the project beginning in September. Mrs. Jack Barnhill is in charge of the project for Turkey. Mrs. Lane said that she could not hold the office of secretary next year, so Mrs. M. T. Blume was elected secretary.

The hostess was also program leader and used Bess Truman, another of the First Ladies, as the topic for her program. She told the group that the Trumans lived simply and it took only one truck to move the things they took to the White House. In comparison, she said it took 20 big army trucks to move the Roosevelts out. She closed her interesting account of the life of Mrs. Truman by saying that she died in October of 1982 at the age of 97.

A lovely refreshment plate was served to Mmes. D. C. Powell, John Adamson, W. L. Armstrong, Roy Patterson, R. C. Green, Paul Meacham, Ella Colvin, Degam, Walker and Lane.

An event that children have looked forward to since last fall — the end of school — is approaching to set the stage for a whirlwind of activities which includes summer camp for a third of a million Texas youngsters.

met by each camp. Approximately 440 summer camps will be licensed this year.

Parents, too, can help in preparing children for camp so that they will return home after a safe and rewarding summer experience. Such precautionary advice will reinforce what they hear from camp counselors. These safety tips should include these topics:

*Ticks. Repellents will help deter ticks, which can cause Rocky Mountain spotted fever. However, if ticks are present campers should check their clothing and bodies often for ticks and carefully remove them — preferably with tweezers — without crushing the ticks with their bare fingers.

*Poison ivy, poison oak, or poison sumac. Be aware of these plants, since severe skin conditions can result on exposure. Poison oak and poison ivy usually grow close to the ground and have three-leaf clusters.

*Wild animals. Avoid any wild animal, no matter how cute, which has lost its fear of humans. The animal could be rabid.

*Water. Drink water only from the approved camp sources. Stream and lake water — no matter how clean and clear it appears — could be contaminated.

*Sunshine. Sunburn can be avoided by applying a sunscreen, by wearing a hat or cap to protect the face, and by wearing long-sleeved shirts and long trousers at least part of the day. If you're participating in heavy exercise during the hot summer, drink plenty of fluids and take it easy if you sweat profusely or overheat. You could get heat stroke or sunstroke.

*Swimming and boating.

Mr. and Mrs. James Barefield and Joey spent from Friday night until Sunday on Hubbard Creek Lake near Breckenridge. Mr. Barefield has a brother, Earnest, and his wife who have a house on the lake. They live in Lorain, Ohio in the winter months and spend part of the summer on the lake. They visited the Barefields in Quitaque Wednesday and spent the night, returning to the lake Thursday. Mrs. Earnest Barefield's brother and his wife accompanied them to Quitaque. They took a tour of Caprock Canyons State Park while they were here. Earnest had a video and sound camera, and they got many good pictures of the park and the animals and replayed them when they got back to town.

The James Barefields report they caught many crappie and brought back fillets, and also brought back frozen catfish fillets which their brothers had frozen. They visited Mr. and Mrs. Don Barefield and son in Breckenridge, also. They report a good time.

Handbook helps advisers counsel work bound students

COLLEGE STATION — Some high school counselors are themselves in need of counseling when it comes to helping students who are not interested in going to college, says a psychologist who has co-authored a handbook for counselors.

The High School Student in the Working World gives counselors tips on how to help students decide if college is for them and then tells counselors how to help students get a job, handle the first day at work and develop good habits to help them keep the job.

"We want the counselors to help the kids determine whether or not they want to go to college," said Dr. Christopher Borman, head of Texas A&M University's Educational Psychology Department and one of four Texas A&M faculty members who developed the handbook.

The handbook, published by the Texas Education Agency, has been distributed to every junior high and high school in Texas.

Borman said it is important for parents as well as counselors to realize that young people can be successful without going through four years of college. Training programs through the armed forces, vocational schools, community colleges and apprenticeship programs can lead to equally or more lucrative careers, he said.

Mrs. Yolanda Roberson were guests of the Woods for lunch.

Susie Rivas, secretary at Energas in Quitaque, returned home Friday after undergoing major surgery at Central Plains Hospital in Plainview and spending some time visiting her sister. She has an appointment for a checkup with her doctor later in the week, and she is hoping she can return to work next week.

Visitors in the A. B. Ramsey home Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Chadwick, Shane and Bradley, Amarillo, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Jameson, Kevin and Michelle, Claytonville, and Jana Boyles, Turkey.

Guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Hamilton over the weekend were their children, Mr. and Mrs. Verlon Hamilton, Vicki and Sammie, Roanoke, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hamilton and Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Hamilton, Amarillo, and Butch Hamilton, Quitaque.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Eudy, who are camped at Caprock Canyons State Park north of Quitaque, visited his brothers, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Eudy and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Eudy, in Turkey over the weekend.

CAPITOL UPDATE

John Tower
 U.S. SENATOR for TEXAS
 WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

Texas farmers in 1982 exported more than $2.5 billion in agricultural products. This clearly is of extreme importance to the Texas economy, and to the nation's economic health. Thus, it is imperative that we maintain and expand foreign markets for our state's agricultural goods. During the past few weeks, I have been involved in several initiatives toward this end.

One of the potentially most effective is an amendment I introduced in the Senate Banking Committee to give the United States leverage in dealing with countries who receive loans from the International Monetary Fund. The amendment would require the Administration to consult with the appropriate Congressional committees before voting for any International Monetary Fund program or a nation that has import restrictions in violation of international agreements which would damage U.S. exports and employment.

This amendment was accepted by the committee, and I am confident that the full Senate also will agree to retain it in the IMF bill. Since the United States has enough voting shares in the IMF to veto any major action, this provision would give the U.S. the basis from which to negotiate effectively an end to many of the import restrictions which have hampered the ability of the American farmer to compete fairly in the world market.

An additional major market for U.S. agricultural products is the Soviet Union. I discussed with senior Administration officials early in April the need to enter into a new long-term grain agreement with the Soviet Union. The Administration expressed its desire to do so, and last week the Soviet Union agreed to enter into these negotiations. It is my hope that they can begin in early June.

A new long-term grain agreement with the Soviet Union will go a long way toward re-establishing the reputation of the United States as a reliable trading partner.

Another recent Administration action will have a direct impact on the market for Texas cotton this year. The Senior Interagency Group for International Economic Affairs approved a $50 million credit package which will allow Korea to buy U.S. cotton at favorable interest rates. The Senior Interagency group originally had turned down the proposal, but changed its position after I asked the President to reconsider the earlier position.

Korea is a major purchaser of short-staple cotton, the type most commonly produced in Texas. This credit package will enable the U.S. to maintain its position as Korea's primary supplier of cotton, and Texas farmers will be among the major beneficiaries.

Our agricultural industry, though it is the most efficient in the world, still faces many problems because of unfair trade barriers erected by foreign governments. The actions I have outlined here will help us solve the problem, but there is much yet to be done. I plan to discuss the need for fair trade policies with European officials next week. And I will continue to work through every available channel to remove barriers to the sale of Texas and U.S. agricultural products.

Senator Bill Sarpalius

Reports

SUPPORT FOR OUR CHILDREN

AUSTIN — The Texas Senate has approved legislation which could save the taxpayers of Texas millions of dollars a year. The Senate, by a vote of 27-3, has called for a constitutional amendment which would permit courts to garnish wages of parents who fail to pay court ordered child support. We feel this crackdown on parents, who are delinquent in child support payments, will provide the state with an additional tool for collecting child support, and in so doing, will foster more parental responsibility and reduce the dependency upon the state for financial assistance.

Texas taxpayers last year, provided welfare assistance to more than 155,000 children in one parent households in which the absent parent refused to support their children, despite having the resources. We feel that we must crack down on parents who have abandoned their children financially, before we appropriate more and more money for child welfare payments.

Every state in the nation, with the exception of Texas and South Carolina, have garnishment statutes to ensure child support payments. From their experience, it has been determined that the most effective tool for securing regular support payments involved an order for the garnishment of income.

A garnishment order is a court order which requires payment of child support by an employer out of the obligated parent's income.

The Texas Constitution has prohibited the garnishment of wages for personal services since 1876. Before this ban on garnishment with respect to seizing wages of parents who duck child support can be lifted, Texas voters must approve a constitutional amendment in November of 1984. Under the proposed amendment, a court could order employers to deduct up to one-third of the parent's wages, after taxes, when child support payments have been missed for at least two months. The use of garnishment would be used solely for child support purposes.

We feel this action will benefit not only the taxpayers of Texas, but it will also help the children and parents involved. Garnishment wages could provide future security for dependent children and could reassure the custodial parent that payments will be regular. If a custodial parent is receiving regular support payments, then the need to seek public assistance is often reduced. We believe that parents have the primary responsibility to provide for their children. However, as legislators we feel we must see that those responsibilities are met. The children of this state don't have political clout; they don't have the right to vote. We must see that their needs are recognized and cared for. We're confident that a constitutional amendment will help meet the needs of many children in this state. If you have any questions or comments about the proposed amendment, please contact us by writing, Senator Bill Sarpalius, P. O. Box 12068, Austin, Texas 78711.

Lake Mackenzie Survey Reveals Problem With Fish

Recent biological surveys by Texas Parks and Wildlife Department at the 896-acre Mackenzie Reservoir near Silvertown indicate there are several problems inhibiting the development of a better sport fishery.

Biologist Joe Kraai of Canyon said low fertility of the water, thermal stratification and stunted fish populations all are hampering the lake's potential.

"The numbers of game fish are fairly good, but growth is very slow because of the infertility of the water and resulting poor forage base," said Kraai. He noted that Florida largemouth bass were stocked in June 1982 and could help the fishery if the water fertility problem can be solved.

"Bass are present in adequate numbers, and reproduction has been good, so additional stockings of bass would not be necessary or helpful at this time," Kraai said.

Kraai recommends a monthly application of a highly-soluble fertilizer rich in phosphorus from April through August each year. Installation of an aerator to promote destratification also would be helpful, Kraai said.

Other recommendations for the Mackenzie Municipal Water District lake included public restrooms at boat ramp locations and a fishing pier. No changes in fish size or bag limits would be helpful and are not recommended at present, Kraai said.

Hybrid striped bass, stocked in 1979 and 1981, grew rapidly at first but more slowly later. White crappie and sunfish are relatively abundant, Kraai said, but stunted. Channel catfish are growing slowly, but blue and flatheads are doing better. Introduced walleye are present, but additional stockings may be necessary, he added.

their resources in rural Texas," said TFU President Mike Moeller, "because the need there for employment opportunities and for the services the workers provide is so great." The programs place workers with senior centers, schools, libraries, and municipalities to furnish services that would not otherwise be available.

"In signing the proclamation on June 1, the Governor will be saying 'Thank-you' to these hundreds of workers for a job well-done," Moeller said. "He will be saying to these people that their work and their small towns remain a vital part of the Texas of today."

Moeller will attend the signing ceremony along with Green Thumb state director Diane Parrish; STEP project director Bob Girard; Bob Gibbons, Board Chairman, Texas Department on Aging; and Dan Stewart, of the TDoA staff. Enrolees from both programs will also be present to meet the governor and witness the signing of the proclamation.

GOVERNOR TO HONOR TFU OLDER WORKERS

Governor Mark White will sign a special proclamation declaring Wednesday, June 1, as Texas Farmers Union Green Thumb - Senior Texans Employment Program Day in recognition of the hundreds of older workers enrolled in the two senior employment programs.

Texas Farmers Union (TFU) has sponsored the Green Thumb program in Texas since 1970. The largest and oldest federally-funded senior employment program, Green Thumb has more than 17,000 enrolees nationwide, including 1,059 in 111 Texas counties.

In 1973, the Texas Legislature adopted a TFU proposal to establish the Senior Texans Employment Program (STEP), which now receives both state and federal support through the Texas Department on Aging. STEP now employs 830 workers in 122 counties.

"Both programs concentrate

QUITAQUE CEMETERY ASSOCIATION NEWS

Last winter a group of senior citizens began talking of forming a Senior Citizens Association. After several preliminary meetings sponsored by "We the Women," they got serious and formed the organization and applied to the State of Texas for a charter. On March 14, this charter was granted by the Secretary of State.

From that time to now the enthusiasm has grown, and all other legal matters are being processed. At this time there are about 35 members and a potential of many more.

These senior citizens got busy looking for fund raising projects, among them they were granted the contract of keeping the Quitaque Cemetery for 1983.

Monday morning about 30 members met at the cemetery with lawn mowers, hoes, rakes and a lot of energy and began working. The next day about 3:00 p.m. they were through. All grass mowed, all stones and curbing edged, all grave spaces raked and filled where needed, all trash hauled and trees trimmed.

Please take a drive out there and have a look. I believe the cemetery is the best groomed it has ever been. On behalf of the Quitaque Cemetery Association, we say "Thank you, senior citizens, for a superb job."

Incidentally, if you have not paid your cemetery dues please do so, so that this work can be carried on.

MEMORIAL WEEKEND
BEGINS SUMMER
VACATION SEASON

Memorial Day weekend signals the start of the summer vacation season and increased dangers to motorists, according to the Texas Department of Public Safety.

Col. Jim Adams, DPS director, urged drivers to exercise caution during the upcoming holiday weekend and throughout the summer.

"During the vacation season, more motorists will be exposed to highway driving hazards," Adams said. "Heeding the traffic laws, wearing seat belts, and staying alert for drunk drivers is the best defense for avoiding an accident."

The DPS director requested the assistance of Texas drivers in minimizing traffic deaths.

"Statewide traffic fatalities are now about 13 percent below the number for the same period last year," Adams pointed out. "But we also have to remember that the potential for additional fatalities during any holiday weekend is great and we must adjust our driving habits and attitudes accordingly."

A total of 58 traffic deaths resulted from accidents during the Memorial Day weekend in 1982.

"Troopers will be on the lookout for hazardous violations over the Memorial Day weekend in an effort to prevent accidents and we do not intend to relax our efforts to arrest drunk drivers and cite speeders," Adams said. "These two violations continue to cause most of the traffic fatalities in our state."

CONTACT SCS FOR WELL EVALUATIONS

The Caprock District Soil and Water Conservation Service is testing irrigation wells for farmers in Briscoe County. These well tests tell you how much water your well is really pumping, and gives you an estimate of what it will cost you to water this summer. The tests are free and are made available to help you conserve water and cut costs.

The pump evaluation also gives you a good idea of the condition your pump is in, to help you decide if repair is needed.

The entire evaluation takes about 30 minutes and can be done while you are watering. Contact the SCS office in Silvertown, 823-2320, to schedule a well test.

GREAT PLAINS
CONSERVATION PROGRAM HAS FUNDS AVAILABLE

Briscoe County farmers wanting to do conservation work on their farms can receive cost-share assistance through the Soil Conservation Service.

Up to $35,000 in federal funds is available to each farmer or rancher in a Great Plains contract. This money can be used for terraces, irrigation pipelines, mesquite control, fences, tanks and dams, and many other conservation practices.

Even if you have had a contract in the past, you may qualify for another contract at this time.

The funds are available immediately upon approval of your application.

Contact the Soil Conservation Service in Silvertown, 823-2320, or come by the office for more information.
