

"Wellman came out ready to play," Coach Tyler said. "They moved the ball and scored on us in that first quarter. They were certainly in the ball game at that point." The second quarter was all Valley as Cruse scored on a 36 yard interception return and a 55 yard run, and Fidel Valdes scored from 13 yards out on an end reverse. The 22 point second quarter gave the Patriots a 38-12 halftime lead.

"Our defense picked it up starting in the second quarter," Tyler said. "Also, I think people get tired of tackling us. Our running backs just pound and pound you and our linemen keep hammering you. Eventually, teams wear down.

The second half was all Valley as Cruse scored two more touchdowns. His first came on a 15 yard run with 6:45 left in the third quarter His final touchdown, a 9 yard scamper, came after Clif Yeary blocked a punt. Yeary again blocked a punt with 5:30 left in game and Fidel Valdes picked it up and scored to end the game.

We were real pleased with the whole effort," Tyler said. "We got great games from the regulars and we got great contributions from Fidel and Douglas." Douglas Payne helped lead the Valley defense with seven tackles and helped contain the Wildcats

Would You Like To Honor Your Veteran?

If you would like to honor a family member in our series of "Honoring Those Who Served" whether it was in WWI, WWII, Korea or Vietnam, please contact us here at The Valley Tribune. We will be happy to help you, this series will be ending soon if we do not have any more submissions. Call us at 806-455potent passing attack. Heavy pressure from Yeary, Robert Mendoza, and Adam Ortiz kept the Wellman quarterback nervous as Yeary recorded 15 tackles and Mendoza tallied nine. Cruse finished the game with 162 yards rushing, four touchdowns, 11 tackles, and an interception. Wilks threw for 60 vards and touchdown, was good on five of six extra point kicks, had a 56 yard punt, and booted most of his kickoffs out of the end zone.

"I hope people realize how good these two guys are," Tyler said. "They just do everything for us. Those two, along with JC and Manuel, are making sure their last season is a great one." For the game, Valley finished with 322 yards rushing, 60 yards passing, and 14 first downs. Clif

Yeary chipped in 114 yards rushing. The defense held the Wildcats to only five first downs and 112 yards of total offense

"It was a great game for us," Tyler said. "The offense and defense both just wore Wellman down. That's been our trademark and that's what we try to do.

The Patriots will try to wear down the Sanderson Eagles in the State Semifinals Saturday at 6 p.m. at Borden County High School in Gail.

The Attack Of The Giant Tumbleweeds

Sometimes late at night when the wind is moving about, you hear a low rumbling sound and a whisk of something moving past. It's then that you know that you have escaped being attacked by the giant, stickery tum-bleweed, also known as the rollus stickurus.

Being almost silent, it has the ability to sneak upon you without any warning It has a sense of knowing where you are and when you are the most vulnerable. It will attack without hesitation and with no remorse. They usually strike from your blind side, leaving stickers embedded in you and your clothes. At that point they will move on, looking for another victim. The very large ones have no fear, they will at times attack automobiles, having a fiendish desire to cross a highway and run in front of them or in under them, hoping that they will be drug long enough to start

Dust and high winds always accompany them. When resting, they are found on fence rows, looking menacing, waiting for the right time to at-tack. It has been said that given a chance, they will consume a small child from a school playground and take them off, perhaps to feed to their young after regurgitating them in their nest, or to be held for ransom. However, this has never been proven. It is always advisable, when seeing a dust storm gathering, to take children and small animals indoors for their own protection. No one really knows what would happen if they were left unattended were left unattended. The large ones are found chiefly on a prairie or any other flat land. They can be killed only when they are young and sappy, and only with an "Eye" hoe as they are tough even then and must be flailed unmercifully and beaten into submission. They are most dangerous after a freeze, and most numerous during the winter. They tend to colonize around any structure that is strong enough to retard their flight. Be on the lookout for them as no one is safe from their attack. For pity sake. BE CAREFUL!

Texans For Quality Assessment Meeting Monday, December 2nd

A Texans for Quality Assessment meeting will be held on Monday, De cember 2nd at 7 p.m. in the bronze room on the square in Memphis.

Texans for quality Assessment is a statewide organization made up of professional educators, parents and Texas citizens who opose the current state mandated testing system (TAAS and TAKS). The purpose of the group is to educate the public on the harmful effects of high-stakes standardized testing and to encourage Texas citizens to join the effort of per suading policy makers to allow multiple criteria to be used in evaluating student learning, teacher performance and school quality . Opposition of the current testing system is strong and growing daily Research proves there are numerous harmful disadvantages to using high stakes test like the TAAS and TAKS as teh single means of assessment.

"My students hae gifts that are not measured by olne generic test. but without a high school diploma, their gifts won't go far. I think that'w worng. Our schools need many different ways to measure our viared and beautiful children." sttes Deborah Kelt, school teacher and Austin area representative

The state coordinator is Dr. Elaine Hampton, Science Educatin Professor at University of Texas a tEl Paso. For more imformatin visit www.texastesting.org or contact your local area representtive, Kay Donna Wolfcale 806-259-2662.

Everyone is enoucraged to attend the meeting to find out what small steps can be taken to make a huge difference in the educational future of Texas schools

No Disaster Aid Until 2003

The word from Washington this week was a mixed blessing as a last ditch effort by Senate Democrats to bring a Bill with Disaster Assistance to the Senate floor was defeated with the help of soon to be Senate Major ity Leader Trent Lott (R-MS).

Lott led the opposition to the Bill that would have included some $6 billion in savings from projected Farm Bill expenditures to assist farmers and ranchers who suffered drought related losses in 2001 and 2002.

Lott's efforts against the Democratic effort were tempered somewhat by a pledge to renew the effort to deliver drought assistance when Con gress returns in 2003.

Lott noted that the Administration was still supportive of delivering drought assistance to growers as long as appropriate funding off-sets were found.

The efforts of Disaster Assistance proponents will now turn to identifying the vehicles through which drought assistance can be approved. The most attractive of these will likely be the many unfinished 2003 funding Bills that will have to be worked through as soon as Congress returns and a possible Supplemental Spending Bill that the Bush Admin-

All in all the effort to secure Drought Assistance has been set back considerably, although apparently not permanently abandoned. The best approach continues to be communicating the many reasons why drought assistance is necessary. Efforts in this regard should not be abandoned or put on hold over the next month and half until Congress

2nd Annual Texas Commodity Symposium

The 2nd Annual Texas Commodity Symposium has been scheduled for Wednesday, December 4, 2002 in conjunction with the Amarillo Farm and Ranch Show at the Amarillo Civic Center. Registration will begin at 8:30 in the Grand Plaza Room near the Buchanan Street entrance.

Being a legislative year in Texas, state officials have been invited to highlight some key issues that will be debated and discussed in Austin. Speakers will include State Statistician Robin Roark, Representative David Swinford, Agriculture Policy Board Ad-Hoc Advisory Council Chairman Woody Anderson, and Farm Service Agency Deputy Administrator for Farm Programs John Johnson.

Keynote speaker for the symposium will be Jim Butler, Deputy Under Secretary for Farm and Foreign Agricultural Services, USDA. Butler served as USDA's deputy under secretary for marketing and regulatory programs since September 2001. In his new position, he will be a key advisor regarding sanitary and phytosanitary issues, as well as trade and farm and food policies.

This symposium is free and will conclude with a catered lunch. For more information call 800-647-2676.

Deadline Announced For Livestock Compensation Program (LCP)

The Hall County Farm Service Agency has received notice that the deadline for submitting applications for the Livestock Compensation  $\ensuremath{\text{Pro-}}$ gram (LCP) has been announced. FSA will continue to accept applica-tions for the Livestock Compensation Program until December 13, 2002. LCP provided direct payments per head to producers who suffered live-stock losses as a result of severe drought conditions.

Livestock must have been owned for 90 calendar days with June 1, 2002, being within this 90 day time period. Livestock meeting this requirement that have been sold or have died before sign-up would be eligible for payment.

Ineligible livestock include swine, horses, poultry, packer owned ani-mals, and livestock kept for recreation activities. All beef and dairy cattle, and buffalo and beefalo that weighed less than 500 pounds on June 1st are also ineligible

There will be a $40,000.00 payment limitation per person, and gross revenue for the preceding tax year must be $2.5 million or less. For more information ,contact the Hall County Farm Service Agency.

THINGS THAT MAKE YOU GO HMMM ...

By Laura Taylor

Thanksgiving is here and Christmas is right on it's heels. There are million things to do and only 24 hours in a day to get them done. So kick back, relax a few minutes, regroup and enjoy this story my sister passed it on to me

A husband and wife were watching TV when the wife said, "I'm tired, and it's getting late. I think I'll go to bed." She went to the kitchen to make sandwiches for the next day's lunches. Rinsed out the popcorn bowls, took meat out of the freezer for supper the following evening, checked the cereal box levels, filled the sugar container put spoons and bowls on the table and started the coffee pot for brewing the next morn ing

She then put some wet clothes in the dryer, put a load of clothes into the wash, ironed a shirt and secured a loose button. She picked up the game pieces left on the table and put the telephone book back into the drawer. She watered the plants, emptied a wastebasket and hung up a towel to dry. She yawned and stretches and headed for the bedroom. She stopped by the desk and wrote a note to the teacher counted out some cash for the field trip, and pulled a textbook out from hiding under the chair. She signed a birthday card for a friend, addressed and stamped the envelope and wrote a quick note for the grocery store. She put both near her purse.

Next she then washed her face with 3 in 1 cleanser, put on her Night Solution and Age Fighting Moisturizer, brushed and flossed her teeth and filed her nails

Her husband then called out. "I thought you were going to bed?" "I'm on my way," she said. She put some water into the dog's dish and put out the cat then made sure the doors were locked. She looked in on each of the kids and turned out their lamp, hung up a shirt, threw some dirty socks in the hamper, and had a brief conversation with the one up still doing homework.

In her own room she set the alarm; laid out clothing for the next day straightened up the shoe rack. She added three things to her 6 most important things to do list. She said her prayers, and visualized the

About that time her husband turned off the TV and announced to no one in particular. "I'm going to bed." and he did ... without another thought

Turkey Jamboree December 7 By Lawana Cruse

The next Turkey Jamboree will be Saturday, December 7 at the old Turkey High School Gym. Entertainers for the evening will be John and Maybelle Frances from Silverton, who are very well known around this area for their talent. Lance May from Lubbock, a very talented young man who performs regularly at the Cactus Theatre in Lubbock. He also performed a concert at the Gem Theatre last February here in Turkey. Terry Davis from Amarillo is a regular performer at the Big Texas Opry, will be making his first appearance on the Turkey Jamboree this month. There will also be a surprise Western Swing band on the show this time and you sure don't want to miss that! And of course our Turkey Gems will be performing.

The Tirkey Roost Museum group will have the concession stand, erving stew, combread, and all the trimmings. The Jamboree if FREE! Show time is 7:00 p.m. Hope to see you there.

Look Before You Lease

New Publication Explains Groundwater Leasing Groundwater leasing is relatively new, and as is the case of any ne endeavor involving people's pocketbooks, scoundrels see a golden oppor tunity to take advantage of the uninformed.

Judon Fambrough, an attorney at law with the Real Estate Center at Texas A&M University, warns landowners to approach a groundwater lease with great caution. Even when signing up with a reputable water production company, groundwater owners should know how to protect their interests. "Be very careful what you sign because groundwater production may last for generations," Fambrough says. "Unlike oil and gas wells, which go dry, water wells recharge, making the length of the lease indefinite."

Fambrough suggests the following. *Be careful to sign a groundwater lease, not a groundwater deed. Many times the wording of a lease and a deed appears similar. the owner may be selling the water rights, not leasing them. Leases, generally "grant, leases of the state of the lease and let" the the company the right to explore, produce and sell wa-ter for a limited time. Deeds "grant, sell and convey" the water or water rights to the company forever. *Know the difference between negotiating a lease covenant and a lease condition If a condition is breached, the lease terminates automatically. When possible, negotiate lease conditions instead of covenants. To be onsidered a conditon and not a covenant, the provision must state that the lease terminates if a certain event or breach occurs

*Remember all proposed provisions in the lease are subject to negotia-tion. The owner's power to negotiate depends on he amount of land owned; the amount, quality and depths of groundwater, and the number of com es vying for the lease

*Do not feel obligated to accept the firs offer the company makes. Remember the first offer the company makes may not be the best offer, expecially in terms of lease provisions. For example, the company may pay the same for a lease whether or not restrictions are placed on the depths of production Landowners might make more money by restrict-ing the depth of the production and allowing for other leases at other depths.

*Avoid ambiguous terms. These may lead to misunderstanding and litigations. For example, some leases require groundwater companies to compensate landowners for "actual damages" to the land. However, no mention is made of how to calculate the damages, when the damages are due and payable or how to settle damage claims when a dispute arises.

*Make sure that any terms or provisions negotiated by the groundwa-ter owner are in writing and attached to the lease form. Do not accept oral midificatins to a lease. Generally, oral agreements are unenforce abl

More specific suggestions can be found in 'Secrets of Negotiating Groundwater Leases, a 2002 Center publication by Fambrough. This guide takes the reader through each lease provision paragraph by paragraph and notes how certain items may be negotiated in the landowner's favor. Because of the newness of the water production and leasing busi-ness, there are few guides like this. The publication can be downloaded for free from the Center's website, http://recenter.tamu.edu/pdf 1593.pdf.

Fambrough explains the differences and similarities between oil and gas leasing and groundwater leasing in this publication. There are no standard groundwater lease forms as there are for oil and gas leases, and much of the terminology and provisions lack legal definitions and prece-dents, making groundwater leasing riskier. The Real Estate Center at Texas A&M University has been providing solutions through research for more than 30 years. Funded primarily by Texas real estate licensee fees, the Center was created by the state legis-lature to meet the needs of many audiences, including the real estate industry, instructor, researchers and the general public

Phil Barefield, Kay Calvert and Maria Cruz represented the community of Quitaque at a recent grant writing workshop at Ceta Glen Encampment. The workshop was sponsored by the Area Resource Conservation and Development Coordinators. Information provided at the workshop will be used to advance the grant process as funds are sought to complete a new community center in Quitaque.

Home Based Business Seminar To Be Held

A Home Based Business Seminar will be held on Saturday December 7, 2002 in the Valley School Cafeteria beginning at 8:00 a.m. This event is cosponsored by Texas Cooperative Extension, Briscoe County and the Quitaque Chamber of Commerce. Pam Brown, Extension Consumer Science Specialist, will share her expertise on getting started, financial assistance, marketing & pricing, and making a business plan. Dan Redd from West Texas A&M University will tell about the Rural Ag Incubator Program. Tax laws related to businesses will be presented by Certified Public Accountant Rick Beesinger and Briscoe County Attorney Bill Smith will discuss legal issues. A panel of local home-based business owners will share their experiences and answer questions.

If your interested in starting a home based business, please come to this free informational seminar Registration will begin at 7:45 a.m. Our goal is to help citizens utilize the resources that are here to bring in outside money.

Soothing A Holiday Stomach

Turkey and dressing and heartburn, oh my! This holiday season, many people will unfortunately receive the gift that keeps on giving, heartburn and stomach upset. "The holiday foods we love bet, like Thanksgiving turkey, gravy and pie, are made up almost completely of fat," said Dr. Gulchin Ergun, medical director of the Reflux Center at Baylor College of Medicine and The Methodist Hospital in Houston. "The same fat that makes our food taste so good also can give us heartburn.

heartburn." Heartburn is caused when stomach acid overcomes the barrier between the stomach and esophagus, called the sphincter, which keeps the lower end of the esophagus closed when a person is not swallowing food or liquids. Foods that contain fat cause the sphincter to relax, allowing the acid to come up more easily into the chest. The result is a burning pain in the chest and the abdo-men that can last for hours and is often accompanied by a sour taste. The simple way to prevent heartburn is to avoid the foods and drinks that trigger it, like high fat foods, foods high in acidity like cranberry sauce, and alcoholic drinks.

But if you just can't give up your favorite treats, the following tips may help soothe your holiday stomach:

soothe your holiday stomach: "Move around. Lying down after a big meal may help trigger heartburn. "Chest pressure is negative, and your body wants to move things from a posi-tive to a negative area," Ergun said. "If you are lying down after a big meal, it makes it easier for stomach acid to move up." Ergun suggests taking a walk, or playing a game of touch football with your family after your meal. "Take an antacid. For immediate relief, over the counter antacids work fastest to reduce the acid that causes heartburn or stomach upset. "Eat in moderation. If you can't give up your mother's famous pecan pie, then go easy on the ham, or just eat only a portion of everything on your plate. "Having a small amount of heartburn around the holidays isn't necessarily bad for you" Ergun said. "But you should really see your doctor if you are having symptoms two or three times a week."
