Hope For Oil Field Brightened by Gorman Well

FLOW RAISED BY TREATING IT WITH ACID

Responding to an 1,500 quarts of acid treatment, Kirk and Davison's No. 1 Gorman well, located two miles east of Gorman, was flowing at the rate of over 120 barrels per day Saturday.

Well pressure forced an hourly flow at the rate of five and six barrels.

The well was treated with the acid in the gray lime formation between 2,847 and 2,878 feet.

Arnold Kirk and George Davison, both of Eastland are drilling the well.

Acid treatment came the latter part of last week after it had been drilled to a deeper depth than that originally scheduled.

It is located in section 25, block two of the H. and T. C. railway survey.

The territory, in recent years, a dormant one, was viewed with eagerness by many oil men of the section. Operators were present in Eastland from Fort Worth and it was understood by some, preparing to lease land in that section.

Another well near Gorman, George Campbell's No. 1 Thompson was reported drilling at 2,600 feet. The well is in section 17, D. and D. Survey. It is about four miles southwest of Gorman.

Instrumental Music To Precede Service

Mrs. S. E. Hittson and Miss Elizabeth Daniel will give a 15 minute concert of sacred selections preceding evening services at the First Presbyterian church this evening. Mrs. Hittson will play the organ with Miss Daniel at the piano. The concert will be a part of the evening worship hour each Sunday.

1,000 Attend Meet Of Postal Employees

Postmaster Luther McCrea, returning from a meeting of postal employees at San Angelo, reported Friday that 1,000 persons, representing six organizations, attended the meeting. Those attending were enthusiastic and the meeting beneficial.

The postmaster, Mrs. Velma Had and J. M. Witten attended the meeting.

Organizations represented at the convention, which lasted for three days, were the National League of District Postmasters, Rural Letter Carrier association, United National Association of Post Office Clerks, Association of Postal Supervisors, Ladies Auxiliary of Rural Letter Carriers, and Ladies Auxiliary of Post Office Clerks.

Peace Is Extended In Coal Industry

WASHINGTON, July 27 — The soft coal industry today began six-weeks period of peaceful operation under a union contract that was extended for the fourth time on the direct appeal of President Roosevelt.

Raid Reveals New Political Crisis For Cuban Nation

HAVANA, July 27 — A raid by army men on the public works department brought the disclosure today that Cuba faces a fresh political crisis.

On the charge that a financial was being perpetrated, soldiers surrounded the public works building and arrested Undersecretary Francisco Diaz and 35 aides.

It was reported they also sought the secretary of public works.

It was learned that aside from political charges, the raid aimed at crushing a new political party—the Black Eagle—composed of former army officers and supporters of Gerardo Machado, the dictator whose deposition started the political trouble which has lasted nearly two years.

Substantial Business Upturn Is Shown by Postal Receipts

Prosperity apparently has turned the corner for Cisco and the nation as a whole.

There were no bands playing, no flags waving, no crowds cheering. Instead things went smoothly forward, with just a little increase in tempo that meant more dollars for the business man and a little less feeling of uneasiness for the man on the street.

The betterment of conditions has been slow—not any sudden boom—but it has been steady.

The increase was shown in a check of postal receipts and savings Friday, that revealed Cisco had been doing substantially more business this year than it was doing during the same time last year.

Postal receipts here have shown an 18 per cent increase this year according to Postmaster Luther McCrea.

"I've kept looking for them to fall off each month, but so far they haven't. Month for month, they have shown an 18 per cent increase.

"Of course there has been a seasonal drop lately, just as there is at this time this year, but it still has shown an increase over the same time last summer."

He said that recently he had talked with a number of other postmasters over the state, and that they reported the same thing.

"All of them said that their offices had shown an increase. Of course, though, the percentage of it varied with the different offices."

Postal receipts have long been used as a business barometer, but that isn't all in this case. There has also been a very definite increase in registered savings. The office here has registered an increase of $15,000 in the last four months, McCrea said.

"That is in money that isn't needed by the owners just now, and which they don't expect to need for at least a year. "However, at the same time this increase was taking place, several persons were also drawing out savings, saying that they wanted to invest them in property, including both homes and businesses. That would seem to indicate that things are looking better.

Cisco has done at least its share in the purchase of 'baby bonds' also, the postmaster said. During the last four months $14,625 worth of the bonds have been purchased from the office here and McCrea said he had to send in a requisition for more of the bonds.

"Those bonds were all purchased by individuals, too," he said. "Some went to estates, but not a dollar's worth was sold to business enterprises, which would seem to indicate that he upturn is general rather than confined to certain interests."

PLANS SHAPED FOR FFA CAMP HERE AUG. 8

Plans were taking shape Saturday for one of the biggest F. F. A. encampments ever held here when boys from all over this part of the state gather at Lake Cisco Aug. 8, 9, and 10 for their annual Future Farmer camp.

J. M. Bird, vocational agriculture teacher here, said that the committee in charge is planning to take care of such a crowd as that of last year, when 500 boys were present. The boys will sleep in sections of the big dam, itself, while their meals will be served in another section.

They are due to begin arriving the morning of Thursday, August 8, he said.

P. A. Tanksley, vocational agriculture teacher at Millsap, formerly of Ranger, has charge of all contests. A. J. Spangler of John Tarleton Agriculture college is in charge of the assembly, the program. An assembly will be held at 7:45 on Thursday.

Most of the encampment will be given over to recreation, with plenty of water contests in the big swimming pool, it was said. The most important phase of the work, however, will be stressed in the best Future Farmer and best agricultural students contests on Friday.

Prizes will be awarded at the final meeting on Saturday evening, when plans will be made for next year's camp.

Held aloft on a comrade's shoulders, the young bugler sounds a stirring call as Italian troops sail from Naples for Ethiopia to the cheers of thousands jamming the piers.

RENEWAL FOR AFRICAN TALK IS DEMANDED

By United Press
GENEVA, July 27. — Italy will consider leaving the League of Nations unless the council considers the basis of renewed arbitration only, Premier Benito Mussolini said today in a note to the League.

Mussolini thus drew the line sharply between the Italian and Ethiopian positions on the council's possible courses of action.

Ethiopia has demanded that the council take up the entire background of the dispute and move actively to avert the threatened war.

Italy maintained that the council's only course is to follow a strictly legalistic attitude toward the dispute and refer the matter back to the conciliation commission that ran into an impasse in its preparations in Holland.

Joseph Avanol, secretary general of the League, replied to Mussolini that he was with the Italian leader's telegram to members of the League council. He added he will forward to Mussolini immediately any Ethiopian communication the League receives.

The League Secretariat published the veiled warning of Italy's II Duce shortly after it had announced that the League council would meet Wednesday July 31, to resume its deliberation on the East Africa dispute.

NINE BILLED BY DISTRICT GRAND JURY

Indictments against nine out of 24 returned by 91st district court grand jurors in their final report were announced Saturday by county officers.

The jurors for the June term of the court were dismissed Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock and, though unusual by officers, did not make a final written report.

Man Is Dead From Own Pistol Wound

HOUSTON, July 27. — Robert Autrey, 31, of Fort Worth, suspected hijacker, who shot himself after his woman companion was killed in a car wreck June 13, died last night in a hospital.

An operation was performed yesterday to remove the bullet from Autrey's brain.

Autrey walked from the wreck and shot himself with a pistol when he was unable to extricate his companion, Miss Joan Maddox of El Paso and Fort Worth.

New Department of Safety Likely To Hold First Meeting During the Week

DALLAS, July 27. — The newly created department of safety, commissioners for which Governor Allred has just announced, will probably meet early next week in the first official session, Albert Johnson, Dallas attorney and one of the appointees, said today.

"We have been meeting unofficially in the past month and a half," he added, explaining the meetings were not public because of their unofficial nature. The bill creating the department does not go into effect until August 10.

Ernest Goens, Tyler attorney and member of the commission, recently underwent an operation for appendicitis and the speed of his recovery will determine the date for the first official meeting, Johnson said.

Johnson declined to discuss the results of the unofficial meetings except to say numerous records of individuals in the state's employ have been investigated.

Under the new public safety department will be the ranger force and the highway patrol, whose combined forces will wage a concerted and directed drive on vice.

NAZIS BEGIN NEW DRIVE ON GERMAN JEWS

Copyright 1935 by United Press
BERLIN, July 27 — A new bitter drive against Jews was believed eminent today.

It was indicated that, though the Nazi drive would continue for suppression of "political" activities by the Roman Catholic church in his evangelical opposition to Nazification of religion, the war veterans' organization, and socialist and communist organizations the Jews would be the chief target.

For four and a half hours Julius Stieglcher, bald, implacable leader of the anti Jewish drive, addressed a national congress of school teachers in Munich last night.

He left no doubt in the minds of his hearers that recent attacks on Jews, which have aroused world interest, were but forerunners of the campaign to come.

State Taxes Are Reduced by Board

By United Press
AUSTIN, July 27 — The state automatic tax board today reduced the total state tax rate from 77 cents on $100 valuation to 62 cents.

The 15 cent reduction is entirely in the levy for state school support. The items in the levy are:

For available school fund, 20 cents; for confederate pensions, seven cents; for state general revenue, 35 cents.

The last two are the maximum permitted under the state constitution.

With the maximum tax levied for the general revenue fund it was estimated that fund will have a deficit of $12,000,000 on August 31, 1936. An accurate forecast is impossible.

MARRIED BY JUSTICE
L. F. Jordan and Miss Alma Langford of Riese, Texas, were married by Justice of Peace Milton Newman at Eastland Saturday.

BACK FROM TRIAL

Sheriff Virge Foster has returned to Eastland from Angleton where he was a state witness in the trial of Clyde Thompson, "thrill slayer," once convicted in this county for the slaying of Lucien and Leon Shook. Thompson received 99 years at Angleton for the slaying of a prison inmate recently.

Unchanged Water In Pool Remains Clean

AUSTIN, July 27 — Those prone to worry about swallowing water while in swimming have some good news coming.

C. J. Anderson, University of Texas swimming coach says that water in the University pool, though changed only twice yearly, is twice as pure — by germ counts — as regular drinking water. Chemicals and frequent additions keep the swimming water pure.

Ciscoans Back From Methodist Meeting

Rumbling along over 1,200 miles in a T model Ford and boasting of "no flats", Mack Statham and Ralph Nance have returned from a three weeks trip to Arkansas where two weeks were spent attending a Methodist Young People's Training School at Mt. Sequoyah, Fayetteville, Arkansas.

During the June month of last year the two boys were elected to offices at the Northwest Texas summer assembly at McMurry, Statham, district director of the Abilene District; Nance, vice president of the conference. Holding these offices, the boys were assisted in attending the school in Arkansas this year.

Woman Saved From Snakebite Death

DEL RIO, July 27 — Mrs. Dan Smith is very much indebted to a chicken.

The other day she was saved from perhaps injury when a rattlesnake struck her above the ankle.

Upon hearing a commotion Mrs. Smith, armed with a shotgun, went to the chicken yard. She was peering into the elements looking for a chicken hawk when the reptile struck her above the ankle.

After the administration of a serum she was suffering no ill effect from the bite which might have proved serious had the serpent not expended a discharge of venom in the chicken before attacking his human victim.

An aggregate of $5,385,600 will be spent in the 13 counties comprising WPA district No. 13, centering on Abilene, if WPA realizes its purpose of providing jobs for all employables on relief rolls.

District 13 had 8,976 employable men and women at last count of National Reemployment Service agents in each of the counties, according to E. A. Elliott, District 5 supervisor for the NRS. Elliott's office serves 44 West Texas counties including all of those in WPA District 13.

Rockport Is Hit By Building Boom

ROCKPORT, July 27 — A building boom is on in this city.

Several beach lots in the southern part of town are soon to be added to the sites for modern cottages, and several property owners are building modern houses with all modern conveniences.

Rent houses have been scarce here for some time and although many houses have been built there is still a shortage, reports indicate.

EPIC BATTLE UPON BANKING LAWS BEGINS

By United Press
WASHINGTON, July 27 — The house and senate sent conferees today into what promised to be the most dramatic battle of this session over the administration's program for wide revision of the nation's banking laws.

Leaders in the epic battle are Senator Carter Glass, rep., Va., and Representative Henry Steagall, dem., Ala.

The administration relies on Steagall to defend its omnibus bank reform bill in a hard hand-to-hand combat with Glass.

Leaders in the fight for rigid federal monetary control said they expected the issue to be fought in conference. They hoped to return to the bill much of the central banking authority the house has given Governor Mariner Eccles and the federal reserve board.

Chairman Duncan U. Fletcher, dem., Fla., of the senate banking and currency committee announced the issue would be battled out in conference.

Nightmare May Win Reprieve for Negro

By United Press
AUSTIN, July 27 — Ben Boyd, negro, under sentence to die Monday, may win a reprieve through a nightmare. Governor James Allred, who alone can save Boyd from the electric chair, admits he had a horrible dream. In it, he said, he was about to be electrocuted.

Say Marland Charge Only Imagination

By United Press
OKLAHOMA CITY, July 27 — Leading Oklahoma utilities and oil men today said Governor E. W. Marland's charges that their interests were plotting to have him impeached were a "figment of the imagination."

Marland made the charges in a speech before women democratic leaders and many state officials, flatly accusing the utilities and oil interests of working to impeach him.

He defied them and asserted "we are going to drag this thing out into the open."

Marland charged they were infuriated because of increased income and gross production taxes passed since he took office in January.

Methods For Oil Industry Studied

Lindy And Ann Go Back to Old Home To Greet Friends

LITTLE FALLS, Minn., July 27. — "Charlie" Lindbergh and the Missus stole quietly into the old home town today, greeting old friends who knew the colonel well but had never seen Mrs. Lindbergh except in the newspapers and in the newspapers.

Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh arrived unannounced in Little Falls Friday night. It was Lindbergh's first trip here since his flight to Paris in 1927, but it was in sharp contrast with the welcome he got then when thousands gathered to view and applaud the ace of the airways.

The famous fliers slipped in so quietly that some time passed before the town realized its most famous son had arrived.

Low Cost of University

"The graduate school of the University of Texas has been maintained within modest proportions and within total student costs that are extremely low," writes A. P. Brogan, assistant dean of the graduate school of the university. It is the telling argument of the assistant dean that Texas needs a graduate school on the level of the best national standards. In the educational record for April, 1934 there is printed a report of the committee on graduate instruction of the American Council on Education. This committee undertook carefully to gather the opinion of many specialists throughout the United States on the quality of work offered and required for the degree of doctor of philosophy in American universities. The results of this extensive investigation, writes Dr. Brogan show that the University of Texas is recognized as being the head of all southern and southwestern universities but that it is much below the level of those universities mostly in the north which have much larger income per student.

The University of Texas is ranked 21st among the leading universities of the United States in an article based on the committee's report and published in the June 2, 1934 issue of School and Society. It is outranked by no other institution in the South or the Southwest. It is outranked by the following state institutions: California, Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois, Minnesota, Ohio, Iowa State and Missouri. It is also outranked by 11 private universities such as Harvard, Columbia, Chicago and others. "It should not be forgotten that the best figures available show that these institutions which outrank the University of Texas spend something like two to five times as much per student as the university of Texas," is the conclusion of Dr. Brogan.

In spite of the adverse factors of low cost per student, low salaries for faculty, heavy teaching load and inadequate facilities for the promotion of research, the graduate school of the university has so far been able to maintain a surprisingly high national rank. This is an excerpt from the Brogan leaflet: "The youth of Texas deserves a state university second to none, since there is no reason to doubt that our best students are equal in capacity to the best anywhere. The performance of Texans and of former students of the university in the greatest universities of the world is sufficient evidence that the Texas youths are equal to the youth of any other state, although they cannot get opportunities in Texas that are first class except in a few subjects."

Wisconsin, Michigan, Minnesota, Iowa and Missouri are largely agricultural states. Now why should these states lead the empire state of the American sisterhood, with its vast natural resource wealth, its staples which lead the world, its mineral wealth, which is not only vast but inexhaustible according to geologists and those who are competent to supply the facts and the figures. Why shouldn't Texas lead the states named? It is for the millions of Texans to make answer. They are reminded by Dr. Brogan that "with careful management the University of Texas can build a good graduate school with increased funds that represent a trifle of the money now spent on education in this state." It is for the friends of Texas U. everywhere to make answer. It is for the ex-students,—that many thousands of ex-students—to make answer. It is for the lawmakers to make answer. And lastly,

Behind the Scenes in Washington

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—Not all the wealthier citizens of this country will slam the door when the Democrats pass the hat for the next campaign fund.

You were reminded that Mr. Roosevelt hadn't scared all the "angels" out of the party when Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, Jr., of Philadelphia was named minister to Norway. Mr. Biddle is sometimes called "the Biddle of the Biddles" and is reported to have tossed in more than $100,000 for state and national campaign chests at one time or another.

Other millionaires among a fairly large group expected by Democratic politicians to contribute next year are Gerard Swope, Vincent Astor, Ambassador Jesse Straus at Paris, and Averell Harriman, who has been working at NEA.

New Dealers recognize the need of such men in the party fold, whether they are attracted because they like to be close to those in power or whether, as it is described, they are "more enlightened" than most others in their class.

Swope has sons occupying important jobs with the Resettlement Administration and the SEC. Straus has a son with Resettlement. If you looked around enough, you'd find quite a few sons of millionaires posted here and there in New Deal ranks.

None of Roosevelt's millionaire friends has walked out on him since he called for a "soak-the-rich" tax program. Some of them deplore a few of his tendencies, but cling to his leadership. Republicans, meanwhile, continue to mean that they aren't getting any money. Their old friends seem to be giving it all to the American Liberty League.

SENOR Luis Munoz Marin, Puerto Rican senator and publisher, has learned from the local police that the San Juan police chief warned them of a possible attempt by political enemies to assassinate Marin. The local force now checks up with him once a week to see whether he is still alive.

Marin, here to work with the administration on its plans for Puerto Rican rehabilitation, isn't worried, but is sure he will be safer when he gets back home. Nobody ever commits a political murder there, because possibilities of escape from the island are so remote.

THE administration continues to have trouble with its island governors. Bob Gore had to resign the Puerto Rican governorship after a series of jams. Paul Pearson, whose troubles are largely due to his status as a Hoover holdover, will resign from the Virgin Islands. Lately, rumbles of criticism are heard as to that amiable gentleman now governor of Puerto Rico, Gen. Blanton Winship.

The Roosevelt tendency to "make little ones out of big ones," as evidenced by his holding company bill and graduated corporation tax proposal, is manifesting itself in Puerto Rico. The rehabilitation plan calls for enforcement of an old congressional law limiting land ownership by sugar corporations to 500 acres.

Corporations have ignored the law and now own most of the island's good soil. An enforcement law by the Puerto Rican legislature is desired by the administration.

Refusal to Work Means 'Off Relief'

Harry L. Hopkins is the federal relief administrator. He was interviewed and very promptly said that removal of families from the relief rolls was up to the state administrations. In other words, he is backing the administrators of the wheat belt states in their orders to cut from the rolls persons who refuse to accept jobs in the harvest fields. His words: "It is the policy of the administration to back state administrators, not only in this instance but in all instances where persons refuse to accept jobs in removing them from the relief rolls."

Nineteen thousand families were removed from the relief rolls in the state of South Dakota. This is their grievance! Wheat farmers are willing to feed and house them until the grain has been harvested and marketed and in financial condition to meet all demands for wage payments. They are to be fed and housed. They are to be given employment, and when cash returns are in they are to be reimbursed and given every cent that is due them.

UNDER THE DOME AT AUSTIN

By GORDON K. SHEARER
United Press Staff Correspondent

AUSTIN, July 27 — The biggest shake-up in state employment experienced since 1927 is due to take place after the next state election. To avoid frequent changes in personnel, the legislature created boards to manage most of the state functions. There are three boards or multiples of three. It was provided that a third of the membership should expire each two years. Initial boards drew for two, four and six year terms to start off the staggered system.

The theory was that each governor would name a third of the administration on its plans for Puerto Rican rehabilitation, isn't worried, but is sure he will be safer when he gets back home. Nobody ever commits a political murder there, because possibilities of escape from the island are so remote.

The bitter battle fought by the Governors Ferguson, who supported the opponents of Alfred in both an initial and a run-off primary, has prevented a coalition of their supporters. In most instances the Alfred appointees are more inclined to the Moody-Sterling hold-overs than to the board members named by Mrs. Ferguson.

The legislators overlooked the effect of a governor having more than one term. Gov. Dan Moody had two. Governors Ross Sterling and Miriam A. Ferguson, who followed, had a term each.

Sterling reappointed many Moody appointees whose terms expired in the Sterling administration. The result is that a majority of the board members will not be of new political flavor until after another election.

The Roosevelt tendency to "make little ones out of big ones," as evidenced by his holding company bill and graduated corporation tax proposal, is manifesting itself in Puerto Rico. The rehabilitation plan calls for enforcement of an old congressional law limiting land ownership by sugar corporations to 500 acres.

Former Governor Moody's power in state boards was extended not only by Governor Sterling's reappointment of men who had been named by Moody but by Moody's system of making appointments during his second term. If he had appointed a man in his first term and was particularly pleased with him, that man would be reappointed for six years when the next vacancy occurred. Then some one else would be given the four year term, thus left vacant.

After the next election there will be on the boards a third of Mrs. Ferguson's appointees, a third of persons appointed by Governor Alfred and a third made up of those appointed by Governor Alfred in a second term, or a third appointed by some new governor. Either way the majority of the boards will be changed politically. It is therefore natural that state employees view the future with considerable trepidation.

Governor Alfred is making many of his first-term appointments in advance to give the selected officials time to study the job before taking it over. He has named a bank commissioner, a state auditor and two members of the state game commission, though their terms will not expire until September.

This makes a surmise that he may have selected, also, the commissioners of the new state Department of Safety. They will choose the state director who is to have charge of the new anti-crime drive. It would be a wise thing for a governor to do, giving the commissioners a chance to study the problem before being run to death by job hunters.

Secretary of State Gerald Mann and other officials went to New Orleans to defend the State Securities Act regulating sales of stocks and securities. They took along many brief cases of documents. Then from New Orleans to Austin came this SOS:

"Please send at once six copies of the Securities Act."

Senator Tom DeBerry, Bogata, went to New Orleans as a member of a legislative committee to study cotton legislation. After the session he visited Baton Rouge to see the Louisiana state capitol. He gazed on its legislative halls. A guide conducted him to the governor's office and explained how it is connected with the legislature so the governor at his desk can hear the legislative proceedings. DeBerry was shown the board upon which is reflected in the governor's office the vote of each measure.

"Fine," said DeBerry. "Now what sort of contraption is there so the legislators can know what goes on down in the governor's office?"

AUSTIN, July 27 — Rep. Harvey O. Jones of Rummels county has sent his resignation as a member of the house to Gov. Alfred in order to accept appointment as postmaster at his home, Winters.

A special election will be held Aug. 24, date of the constitutional amendment election, to name his successor. M. R. Jones' son, Harvey D. Jones, upper law student in the University of Texas, would be logical candidate except that he is not old enough to hold the office.

Chairman Claude D. Teer of the board of control, and Adam R. Johnson, state relief director, have secured an allotment of about $3,000,000 for relief work in Texas during August. They went to Washington and successfully negotiated this "tapering off" allotment of Tennessee, Arkansas and several other states were being dissolved and their final functions shifted to works progress.

Director Johnson announced that as about 65,000 Texas employables are certified to works progress officials, the relief rolls will be decimated in Texas. After a conference with Congressman J. P. Buchanan it was announced that all employable persons in Texas will be "off the dole" in October, and if these people don't care to take jobs available to them, they will have the choice, but will be of relief for good.
The state will try to work out with counties and cities some way to assume care of the unemployables after Dec. 1, when the federal government relinquishes them to the states.

Dr. George C. Hester, professor of government at Southwestern university, temporarily with the federal power commission as economic analyst, who recently was elected professor of government in C.A.I. at Kingsville, will return to Texas and continue at Southwestern in 1935-36.
He was tendered appointment for another year in the power commission but replied that he wished to get back to his professional work in Texas.

Irrigation Canals To Be Constructed

DONNA, Tex., July 27 — Construction of concrete-lined irrigation canals for the Donna Irrigation district, Hidalgo county No. 1, probably will start August 1, according to G. C. McBride, supervising engineer for the firm doing the work.
The new concrete canals will be built atop existing canal banks and the average ditch will be about five feet at the top. A total of 66 miles of these canals will be built to replace existing earthen canals, many of which are considerably larger than the concrete mains.

Concrete construction will have water loss from seepage and evaporation and will hasten flow or irrigation waters through the system, McBride explained.

"I wouldn't have left her, Mr. Marsh, but your mother—"
Marsh nodded impatiently. "I know. She didn't understand the girl's condition. I'm afraid we'd better have Seavers at once."
"Let me see . . ." Miss Conley stepped forward confidently. "What happened?"
"She evidently tried to get out of the room, and collapsed in the hall. Must have been out of her head."
Jo opened her eyes again, shook her head weakly back and forth on the pillow. "I'm . . . I'm all right. I wasn't out of my head. I . . . I just wanted to talk to someone who—"
"We know all about it, Jo. And don't you worry. I've fixed everything."
"About Fragonet, and—"
Marsh nodded. "Everything." He stood up and turned to the nurse. "Should I telephone Seavers?"
"Let me watch her closely for an hour or so. I hardly think we'll need to call Doctor Seavers—but this may mean she'll have to stay in bed longer than we planned."
"Be sure to let me know if the slightest thing seems wrong," Marsh said. "And, remember, you're not to leave her. I—I think it would simplify matters if you remember that I'm the only one to give orders to the employees here."
When Marsh had left Jo's rooms he returned to the lobby and to Preston.
"If Fragonet is in his room will you please tell him I'd like to see him down at the boat house?"
The clerk nodded. "He's in his room, sir. I'll deliver the message."
Marsh strode down toward the boat house, went through two cigarrets at a furious pace before the lank frame of Fragonet appeared along the board walk. The actor's eyes seemed strained and tired, and he looked at Marsh as if to say, "All right, Old Man, let me have it!"
Marsh returned his gaze speculatively. "Apparently you've raised one devil of a mess, Peta." "Apparently. I've a way of doing that. I do want to say I'm mighty sorry, Douglas. But the real apologies should go to Jo Darian. My wife built a fire under the poor kid—and your mother added some fuel of her own. All my fault of course."
"But that doesn't straighten it out," Marsh said.
"What do you mean?"
"I mean that you can't make these things happen and then say you're sorry, Peta. There's more to it than that. I—" Marsh hesitated, lit another cigarette before he went on. "I feel more or less responsible for Jo Darian, you know. She didn't want to come down here in the first place, but I saw she was in a tough spot and I thought it would be a good thing all around."
Fragonet was silent a moment. Then: "If you're warning me to keep off in the future, I'm afraid you've the wrong slant on this whole thing, Doug. I'm serious. I'm divorcing Edna—or she's divorcing me—it doesn't matter which, really." The actor turned suddenly to Marsh. "I'm really in love with Jo. I want to marry her."
"I see . . ." replied Marsh slowly.

Stories in STAMPS

By I. S. Klein

The KING who BECAME A SAINT

THE Magyars had scarcely settled in Europe, in the region that is now Hungary, when one of their earliest leaders, Geza, fourth duke of Hungary, saw a vision of the martyred St. Stephen. The saint told the ruler he would have a son who would continue the work the duke had begun.
That son, named for the great saint, soon won the admiration and aid of Pope Sylvester, for he spread Christianity throughout his dominions and improved the lot of his people. For this work, the Pope recognized Stephen as king of Hungary and sent him a crown and a cross to be borne before him. Devoted to the church, throughout his reign, Stephen became one of the most beloved rulers of Hungary.
On his death in 1038, at the age of 61, Stephen was canonized. Today, Hungarians also remember him by his portrait on one of their stamps, shown here.

John Freeland of Romney Saw Assassination of Lincoln

WORKED UPON RAILROAD WITH BILLY THE KID

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

In the shade of a friendly tree John Freeland reminisces. Back through the years his thoughts wander. As of yesterday come the mental pictures of torn battlefields of the Civil War, a fateful night in Washington when the president of the United States fell before an assassin's bullet, companionship with a man whose name was to become a legend in banditry of the great Southwest.

His eyes are dim and the walks with tottering step but John Freeland has never ceased to live in the strictest sense. Life remains an adventure, the glamor and glory as strong today as when he shouldered gun for the Union or acted on the legitimate stage with Julius Brutus Booth, father of an assassin. He lives near the little community of Romney, 11 miles south of Cisco, his story told to but few. Yet the life of John Freeland is one of the most colorful and interesting of any you will find in the world today.

Actor To Farmer He has been everything from soldier to butcher to actor to farmer. He has rubbed elbows with Billy the Kid, the outlaw, he saw President Abraham Lincoln shot to death, and from all the turmoil and strife of 30 years he says the old days were the best though he is not complaining particularly of the present. John Freeland was born in Baltimore county, Maryland, December 9, 1845. There wasn't much of a town. Just a community that had sprung up about a cotton factory. They called it Mount Vernon.

He has been a big part of these United States and taken advantage of all the opportunities life affords. Most interesting are his experiences at Washington at the close of the Civil War, a conflict in which he served valiantly. It was the night of April 14, 1865, that he saw President Lincoln's assassination. He is probably the last person living today who was in Ford's Theater when that crime of the ages was committed.

"I was sitting in the second gallery," he relates. "I was an extra actor then, playing soldier parts. I was a butcher and employee of a painting shop also.

"President Lincoln and family were guests of the theater that night.

Thought It Was Act "During the play John Wilkes Booth, an actor, jumped from the president's box. As he hit the stage he fell. He had broken a leg. But he got up and pulled out a long knife. Waving it he yelled 'Sic semper tyranni!' and then dragged himself across the stage and out into an alley. A man was waiting there for him with a saddled horse. Booth got on the horse and rode away.

"When Booth first leaped onto the stage the people thought it was part of the play until a woman in the president's box screamed and a fellow in the large crowd that was at the show that night recognized him. Then they knew it was not part of the act. It happened so quickly, however, that Booth had shot the president, leaped to the stage, brandished the knife and fled before anybody started to do anything about it.

"I didn't see both shot Lincoln. I doubt if anybody else in the audience did. I saw him jump about ten feet to the stage.

"John Wilkes Booth was a handsome man. He had a smooth, white face and black hair and was of medium build."

"The story has been told that Booth escaped and came to Texas where he lived for some time after the assassination," the interviewer asked. "Do you believe that?"

Freeland answered quickly and emphatically. He related that he had talked to the undertaker who prepared Booth's body for burial and who buried it under the floor of what was called the "Arsenal" at Washington. The secrecy was to prevent anyone getting the body. This undertaker also disinterred the remains and moved them to Mount Olive cemetery.

"He told me there was no doubt about it. It was John Wilkes Booth," Freeland said.

Booth, history relates, was shot as he came from a barn that had been set afire. Freeland says Booth told officers before he died: "Tell my mother I died for my country."

John Freeland was but a boy when he enlisted in the Union Army in the Civil War. He entered the service at the age of sixteen and served three years. He was wounded in the nose at the battle of Gettysburg or he would have served longer. The bullet, Freeland said, entered the nose and came out at the back of the neck.

It was not the only wound Freeland ever sustained in his life either. He was accidentally shot in the stomach while in New Mexico.

In the Civil War Freeland was in the battle of Gettysburg, Shenandoah Valley and other engagements.

Knew Assassin's Father Immediately after the war he appeared on the stage in Washington. He does not remember the first name of the Booth he worked with but undoubtedly it was Julius Brutus Booth father of John Wilkes Booth.

Of the elder Booth he says: "He was hard to get along with if you made mistakes. If you didn't do what you Arguing intensification of the anti-Jewish activities which were climaxed by recent rioting, Wolf von Heldorf (above), one of the most fanatical anti-Semites in the Nazi hierarchy, was named chief "backer" today with three sons and a grandson at the farm near Rising Star. He has been at that place for 37 years.

During his journeys over the country he worked on the railroad near Las Vegas, N. M. "It was here that I knew a nice, pleasant, kindly young fellow named Billy the Kid," he said.

Billy the Kid was working on the railroad with Freeland at Watson Station, 20 miles from Las Vegas. He says the Kid was not a type to make you think he would make a bandit but at the time he knew him the Kid had killed two men.

"Oh, I've seen part of this world," Freeland grinned at his interviewer. "I was never arrested in my life—but once," he said. "They took me down to the city hall to question me."

He revealed that he had only been taken as a witness and was not used in court even then.

took Airplane Ride Freeland chews tobacco. He quit smoking a pipe 20 years ago. He likes beer, he says, but he never "took over a dram of whiskey at a time. He has four of his original teeth remaining, his eyesight is fair and he can hear pretty well. He got his second sight some time ago and reads without spectacles though not for any great length of time.

He says he took one airplane ride but "they went too fast" though he'd "ride in it again if I had the chance."

He draws a pension of $75 per month and declares "I enjoy it." He poses willingly for pictures and asks that he be given a copy of what is put in the paper about him.

John Freeland is as interesting as his life. He says he quit school when in the sixth grade but his experiences and travel have sharpened his wit and broadened his mind. There's nothing dull about talking to him.

His interviewer drove away. Freeland watched him from his chair under the tree.

"Goodbye and good luck," he said. "Come back and see me."

Then when the car had been driven out of sight he returned to his glamorous memories.

Life goes on but mostly in the past for John Freeland.

NEW ENGLAND LIBERALS HEW GOP PLANKS

By WILLIAM D. CLARK United Press Staff Correspondent EASTERN POINT, Conn., July 27. New England Republicans may abandon their traditional label of conservatism for one of moderate liberalism in the 1936 national elections.

And Maine, the prognosticating state, may be the first to experiment with a widely diversified constructive program, recognizing that "new economic conditions have created new problems for government."

The regular Republican party may be forced to concede to a strongly organized younger faction a generous portion of the all-important duty of determining the ingredients of the Northwestern platform.

Revolt Not Discussed There is no hint of revolt among New England Young Republicans, who stand for a liberal and conservative program within the scope of the constitution.

Rather, the feeling is that the progressive ideas of the younger element, combined with the seasoned experience of the older faction, best can put forward a strong and convincing front to gain back the party strength which waned in the 1932 elections.

The New Hampshire convention of the New England Young Republicans September 28 and 29, was expected to bring forth a declaration of principles well sprinkled with liberalism.

Trend Definitely Marked This was plainly indicated at the first regional conference of the New England group here June 29 and 30 when insurgent factions from Maine and Massachusetts succeeded in injecting into a declaratory resolution, over the protests of conservatives, such controversial issues as the veterans' bonus, unemployment relief and insurance, interstate labor compacts, old age pension and betterment of conditions in the textile industry.

The Eastern Point convention met without a definite program in mind and disbanded with a tentative 15-point platform, creation of a New England Young Republican Council and the grooming of a liberal, Gov. H. Styles Bridges, New Hampshire, as ultimate leader of the Northeastern element.

Intensive Drive Indicated While the New Hampshire conference is expected to lay the ground work, so far as the younger faction is concerned, adoption of a platform of principles is seen as only a starting point in the general campaign.

Encouraged by the results of the Eastern Point convention, which fostered enlargement of state organization by determined drives among county units, the campaign

Norsemen Again Dare Atlantic

is to be carried still further for representation on the state central committees and in the national convention if possible.

Older leaders, who drew an easy breath after the Eastern Point convention voted "that any effort to draft a complete expression of opinion upon controversial subjects is premature at this time," plainly feared results of the New Hampshire meeting might head the platform too far to the left.

The same liberal group that battled unsuccessfully in the New York state convention, was ready to shift its support to New England and press for adoption of a strong program. Forced to a showdown, the regular party leaders might be compelled to share places with the young leaders whose forces and issues would be firmly organized in advance of state conventions.

Bridges, who is 38, dominated the Eastern Point conference. He steered the delegates from proposals to force the depression into the foreground as one of the issues of the 1936 campaign.

He blamed the economic slump on the "genius of mankind," and declared "unless a method can be found of penalizing or assessing man - replacing machinery as it comes into being, the problem will grow steadily worse."

GERMANY SOON WILL BLOT OUT CHURCH STRIFE

By PAUL KECKEMETHI United Press Staff Correspondent BERLIN, July 27.—A period of tribulation, surpassing all previous ordeals seems to loom for Protestantism in Germany.

The law promulgated on June 26, making the ministry of interior sole arbiter of legality within the church, and taking away jurisdiction on this matter from the regular courts, threatens to outlaw the "confessional movement" to which the majority in Germany belong.

Up to now, the legal situation within the Evangelical church has been confused, both the "confessional movement" led by President Karl Koch and Reich Bishop Ludwig Mueller's "church government" claiming to represent legal authority within the church. The courts thus far have sustained the confessional movement's claim, while the state on the whole has been neutral, although confessional pastors were subjected to persecution on occasions.

Decision May Be Drastic After the law of June 26, everybody awaits the ministry of interior's decision.

If this decision is favorable to Mueller, then opposition against the present "church government" automatically will be treated as opposition against the state.

The organization of the "confessional movement" then would probably be disbanded, and pastors would be placed before the alternative of either recognizing Mueller's authority or quitting their posts.

Any propaganda on behalf of the confessional movement's aims then would be classed as "subversive" anti-state propaganda leading to immediate imprisonment.

Rival Powers in Doubt That this might happen to the confessional movement is considered in Evangelical quarters as all too possible. It is generally felt that the time is ripe for decision in favor of one or the other rival power in the church, a compromise more remote than ever since the confessional synod's sharp resolutions in Augsburg.

Thus, unless something unexpected happens, it is likely that the ministry of interior will make a clear-cut decision enthrone the one party in sole power and dispossess the other altogether.

Theoretically, of course, either party may win or lose. It is contended in church opposition quarters, however, that the law of June 26 permits the conclusion will be against the confessionalists. It is said that, if the minister intended to uphold the confessional movement, he presumably would not have halted the lawsuits now pending. On the contrary, he would have enforced with all their implications the judgments thus far returned by the courts.

Muller Is Nazi Mueller, of course, has one decisive advantage over his rivals. He is a Nazi and was Hitler's candidate for the post of Reich bishop at the 1933 church elections. As to the "confessionals," many of their leaders, such as Bishop Hans Meiser of Bavaria, are convinced Nazis, but the movement as such clearly embraces both Nazis and non-Nazis animated by the same religious spirit.

Another fact, becoming more and more obvious also tends to turn the scales in Mueller's favor. Mueller is apparently ready to compromise with the "Neo-pagan" movement in Germany, to which such influential Nazis as Alfred Rosenberg, the party's supreme teacher of philosophy, belong.

Does Not Revive Paganism "Neo-paganism" has nothing to do with the revival of pagan rites or mythologies. It is in the first place a movement seeking to evolve a new religion "adapted to the Germanic race." The search for a new religion is still in flux, but one thing is unquestioned among "neo-pagans," much as they may disagree among

Church Overseer Named by Hitler

Appointed minister without portfolio, Hans Kerrl, long known as a foe of the Jews, has been entrusted by Chancellor Hitler, with the enforcement of General Goering's decrees regulating the Protestant and Catholic church activities in Germany. He was expected to act against any clergyman who criticized the Nazi state, themselves, namely, that the greater part of Christian tradition, including the Bible, must be rejected.

The neo-pagans' argument is simple.

They start from the principle that any religious teaching must be fitted to the soul of the race to which it is addressed.

Then, they point to the Jewish Bible, evolved in the Orient, among a people racially different from the Teutons.

Bible May Be Discarded The conclusion, then, is evident that a religion adapted to the Germanic race cannot be based upon the Bible.

This doctrine has a tremendous appeal, especially to the young generation in Protestant Northern Germany.

The Bible everywhere is in the center of discussion. Protestants find it difficult to answer criticisms from the neo-pagan side because any apology of the Bible immediately raises the question of "one-hundred-per-cent" Germanism.

The standing figure wears one-piece pajamas of white shantung with navy polk dotted straps and a beach hat with unusual pagoda crown. The tailored robe matches the polka dotted trimming. This harmonizes handsomely with the coral suit.

SISTER MARY'S RECIPES

BY MARY E. DAGUE

BY served iced tea some no doubt odd times during the season, so you ought to do a bit of pioneering before the family takes to sneaking off to the drugstore for long, cold drinks.

It pays to try experiments with unusual combinations and different garnishes. If you do it's easy to get a reputation for always serving something delightfully cool and thirst-quenching.

Here are a few recipes to give you a start. I'm sure you'll agree that these are quite out-of-the-ordinary and you can vary the ingredients to make your own iced inventions.

Plaza Cooler Blend juice of 1 lemon with 3 times as much loganberry juice; sweeten to taste with powdered sugar; add plain iced water sufficient for the glass. Pour over finely cracked ice in a tall glass. Garnish with a thin slice of orange, a thin slice of fresh pineapple and other fresh fruits in season. Dip a branch of mint in powdered sugar and place in the ice at one side of glass.

Persian Cooler Juice 1 lime, 3 times as much purple grape juice, powdered sugar to taste; dash of white curacao and iced water sufficient for the glass. Pour over finely cracked ice in a tall glass. Garnish with small fresh fruits, such as cherries, light-red and oxblood; red raspberries, dewberries or strawberries.

Orange Bliss Place 1-3 of orange juice sweetened to taste with powdered sugar in the bottom of a tall

Tomorrow's Menu BREAKFAST: Fresh pears, cereal, cream, crisp broiled bacon with cress, toast, milk, coffee. LUNCHEON: Broccoli baked with cheese, salad of mixed fruits, Melba toast, iced chocolate. DINNER: Iced fruit-soup, cold sliced baked ham, peanut and potato croquettes, salad with cheese, watermelon salad, chocolate ice-box cake, milk, coffee.

Party Punch Blend 2-5 lemon juice and 3-5 claret and sweeten to taste with powdered sugar. Add charged water until the mixture is diluted to your taste. Pour into a large punch bowl with a block of ice in the center. Garnish with small pieces of fresh fruit, cherries, berries, etc. In a little hole in the center of the block of ice plant a bouquet of mint leaves.

Fruit Punch Use in proportions to suit your own taste lemon juice, orange juice, white grape juice, and dilute with ginger ale. Sweeten to taste with powdered sugar. Pour into a large punch bowl with a block of ice in the center. Garnish with assorted fruits. These last two drinks are especially fine for big parties. Serve tiny frosted cakes or assorted sandwiches or both with punch.

U. S. HOPES IN CUP RECOVERY ARE BLASTED

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 27 — America's hope of regaining the Davis Cup were blasted to bits today when Wilmer Allison of Austin and then Donald Budge of California were defeated in the opening rounds of play in the challenge.

A wildly cheering crowd of 15,000 which packed every seat and every inch of standing room saw Bunny Austin rally to humble Allison 6-2, 2-6, 4-6, 6-3, 7-5 and Fred Perry rout the youthful and inexperienced Budge, 6-0, 6-8, 6-3, 6-4. The clean sweep gave England a commanding two to nothing lead, and the Americans, to win, must take the doubles match on Monday and the concluding two singles engagements Tuesday, in which Perry will oppose Allison and Budge will play Austin.

Big Bill Pending in Washington

"Deplorable lethargy that has come over the Seventy-fourth Congress," chirped the elder adjutant at the Washington Zoo. "But with such intemperate weather—"

"Fiddsticks, sir! Also drumsticks!" peeped the junior adjutant. "I should attribute the prolongation of the current session less to the heat than to the timidity. Not even the wisest old birds perched on Capitol Hill knows as much as you and I would about what to do with the flocks of bills they've assembled. Any bill, I always say, should be as plain as the nose on your face. They're in for a peck of trouble—enough to give anybody gooseflesh...."

"But you and I, sir, are inured to the tropical excesses of our native Java. Java consider the plight of the hot-headed Senate? What good are a right and left wing if one can't fan one's self with them? True, Senators go in for flights of oratory over any wish-bone of contention, and give each other the bird, but that only starts the feathers flying again."

"What sticks in my craw," fluttered the other zoo veteran, "is that some people are too busy crowing over the Blue Eagle's demise. He was the last ornithological representative we're likely to have in public affairs for some time. Now he's dead as our dodo ancestor, his feathers decorating the caps of the reactionaries. Anyway, I think Congress ought to start from scratch."

"That's a bird of an idea, but I'll wager my only white weskit that Congress will roost up there all summer."

WHEAT POLICY GAIN CHECKED BY CANADIANS

OTTAWA, Ont., July 27 — Although the Dominion government was reticent about doing, it once it agreed to remove the lid from its operations in the wheat market, the removal, admittedly, was complete.

The revelations are most illuminating. The Canadian treasury is committed to a huge amount of money—roughly $196,000,000, with 228,000,000 bushels of wheat on hand which cost an average of 86 cents a bushel. On the other side there are substantial assets on hand and margins in cash.

When the new Grain Board, being set up by legislation, begins business, the gross obligations it will have to take over vary from $180,000,000 to more than $200,000,000, depending upon the cost of the futures which are contracted. Against this, is the value of the wheat and certain cash deposits. The contingent liability or, perhaps more properly speaking, the ultimate loss, will depend upon whether, and when, the huge surplus on hand is sold and at what price.

Helps Protect Farmer
Certain facts stand out conspicuously in the complete inquiry which the government has facilitated. One is the primary circumstance that government intervention was designed to help the "pool" farmers out of the trouble into which they had landed after a futile endeavor to hold up the European market for a price which Europe would never pay.

Another admitted fact is that, in its stabilization processes, through the agency of John I. MacFarland, the government was motivated by the desire to protect the interest of the western producers when their own efforts to that end had proved disastrous. Whatever the disaster, if any, may be, there was good faith and good intent.

Agent Bought and Sold
But it appears that the government agent did more than sell or hold wheat. The transactions were most varied. The agency was in and out of the market. It bought and it sold. It even sold at times and then bought back at a higher price—considerably higher in fact. At one time, there was a paper profit of more than $38,000,000 but it was not taken. If it had been the story would be different. The wheat was held. Then the market fell off and the paper profit turned into a loss which has stayed a loss—steadily mounting.

What commonly is deduced from the operations is that the government agency was expecting only a fair crop this year and an absorptive world capacity greatly in excess of what it proved to be. Instead, the world production is promising, with the demand from Canada correspondingly lessened. If there were any gambling on a short crop, the "gamble" appears to have turned out badly.

Gain and Less Weighed
In the two-sided argument, it is contended, from one viewpoint, that the stabilizing operations have meant $100,000,000 more to the western farmer. Against this, is the huge financial obligation assumed by the Dominion government, the apparent prospect of loss which may be heavy and the depressing effect on the wheat market, perhaps for three or four years, until the accumulation of 228 million bushels of surplus is liquidated and the normal process of marketing the current crops is established.

The wheat situation is often described in Parliament as a "mess." The description appears to be fairly accurate.

GARNER'S AND LOBOES SHIFT ON SCHEDULE

The Loboos and Garner's will exchange places on the city softball schedule a couple of times during the remainder of the season, League President Rex Page said Saturday.

The reason given was that Garner's, under the present schedule, plays two games in two nights and is the only team in the circuit which does. The shift will affect no other team, he said, in that the two games exchanged in each case are against the Community club.

Page said Saturday that he believed the change would smooth out the bumpy places in the season's schedule and give each club a better chance.

Monday night the Nance team will meet Garner's. The following night the Loboos will play Community. Then on Thursday night Community and Garner's will meet. The same situation will take place in the week of August 12.

The Community club still is leading in the second half of the season. Following is the league standing.

Garner's	1	1	.500
Nance	1	1	.500
