HOUSE DOUBLES LEVY ON STOCK SALES

Decision on Laguna Re-Opening Expected Saturday

OPERATION IS EXPECTED TO BE RESUMED

Prospect that the Laguna hotel — sold yesterday in bankruptcy court to the American National Insurance company, holders of a $177,000 lien against it — would shortly be reopened was seen here today with the information that decision upon this question would be taken Saturday.

The hotel, if opened, will be operated by the Southern National Hotel corporation, subsidiary of the insurance company, and owners and operators of a chain of hotels in Texas and other states.

Judge Franklin Canaday, president of the hotel company, is now in Big Spring, where his firm purchased the big Settles hotel at the same time and in the same manner that the Laguna was purchased. He is checking over the property for operation by the Southern National and will come to Cisco Saturday to take action with respect to the Laguna. The Settles, contrary to the situation here, was not closed.

The Southern National people built and operate the Bucaneer and Jean Lafitte hotels at Galveston. They recently completed a 12-story hotel at Clovis, N. M., and hotels at Longview and Kilgore. The company owns and operates a hotel at Brownwood, the Thomas Jefferson hotel in Birmingham, Ala., and a hotel in Virginia.

Decision on the Laguna will await outcome of negotiations with purchasers of the coffee shop equipment and the furniture in the hotel Huey and Phillips, of Dallas, holders of a lien against the coffee shop fixtures, purchased them at the bankrupt sale on a bid of $2,000. The company held a lien of $2,427 against the fixtures. The International Industrial corporation, of New York, holding a lien of $20,000 against the hotel furnishings, purchased them on a bid of $7,500.

The American National Insurance company purchased the electrical fixtures on a bid of $2,598.16.

APPLICATION FOR RED CROSS FLOUR OKED

The application of the Eastland County Chapter of the Red Cross for 45,000 pounds of Red Cross flour milled from Federal Farm board wheat, has been approved by the St. Louis office of the Red Cross and forwarded to the Red Cross Central Wheat Distribution office, at Chicago. Chairman J. E. Spencer was informed in a letter today.

The letter commends Mr. Spencer for the organization he has set up for handling distribution of the flour. "Your letter indicates you have set up a splendid organization for the distribution of the flour," it said.

Spencer announced that the same policies governing other relief handled by the Red Cross will govern the flour distribution. No one will be eligible to receive flour who is able to provide for it otherwise, he said.

The contest was open to all children.

Mother of 27 Gets New Chance for Prize

Although she had given birth to 27 children in her 22 years of married life and was well in the lead in the strange Toronto, Canada, baby marathon, things looked pretty dark for Mrs. Florence Brown, 42, shown above with 12 of her children.

A bill had been introduced in the provincial legislature to set aside the will of the late Charles Vance Millar, eccentric millionaire, in which he had provided $500,000 for the Toronto mother bearing the most children in the ten years following his death. It was proposed to give the money to Toronto University. But amidst cries of "shame" and "disgrace," Colonel W. H. Price, sponsor of the measure, withdrew it during a tumultuous Parliament meeting and now Mrs. Brown seems well on the path to win the fortune.

INCREASING ATTENDANCE DEMONSTRATES GROWING INTEREST IN DAILY NEWS FREE COOKING SCHOOL

The growing interest in the Daily News Free Cooking school, being held every afternoon through Friday beginning at 2:30, in the old M. System building, was displayed yesterday afternoon by the marked increase in attendance.

On the full menu prepared yesterday afternoon by Miss Zella Allen, noted home economist who is conducting the school, were chicken and dumplings, American Girl cake, stuffed baked potatoes, grapefruit salad with appropriate salad dressing, and peppermint candy ice cream.

The first recipe demonstrated by Miss Allen was the one for American Girl cake. She stated that she could think of no more appropriate name for this lovely, colorful cake as follows: 1/2 cup shortening, 1 1/2 cup sugar, 2 egg yolks, 3 cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 1/2 cup sweet milk or water, 1 teaspoon vanilla, whites of 4 eggs. Cream the sugar and shortening, add the egg yolks, sift the baking powder with the flour, and add alternatively the dry ingredients and liquid. After blending these ingredients, fold in the egg whites. Fill two pans with the cream batter, and leave one layer to tint a delicate pink. Bake at 370 degrees for 25 minutes. The cake is put together with red jelly and iced in 7 minute icing.

Dumpling Recipe.
The recipe for the dumplings for the chicken is: 2 1/2 cups flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 3 fourths cup shortening. Blend dry ingredients, add shortening and add enough ice water to make a soft dough. In preparing the chicken, cut it up and stew until tender. When this is done, roll each piece of chicken in a slice of dough, put into a pan with broth, and bake in an oven at 425 degrees until brown. The chicken used yesterday afternoon was donated by Sikles Grocery.

In preparing grapefruit salad,

Miss Allen used 2 cups of diced grapefruit, one cup of diced oranges, one cup of celery, (use celery heart if possible), one-half cup shredded coconut. Drain the juice from the fruit, add the celery and coconut, and fold in the salad dressing. In making the dressing, marshmallows and cream are added to plain mayonnaise.

Recipes were given for 7 minute icing, for making grape jelly, and for preparing squash, which is a good substitute for cream dishes.

Stuffed Potatoes.
Miss Allen prepared baked stuffed potatoes as follows: The baked potatoes were cut in half, the center scraped out and thoroughly creamed with butter, cream, salt, paprika, and a bit of onion. Then two stiffly beaten egg whites were folded in with this mixture. The potato shells were then stuffed and sprinkled with grated cheese. They were then placed in the oven and baked until the cheese was melted.

The recipe for peppermint candy ice cream was as follows: Add one cup of hot water to a pound of crushed peppermint candy in a stew pan and boil until the candy is thoroughly dissolved. Remove from the stove, add one quart of sweet milk, freeze until it is a mushy substance, then add one pint of whipped cream.

Mrs. M. A. Northup, 1003 West Sixth street, was presented a lovely cake by Miss Allen yesterday afternoon for being the most elderly lady in the house. Other awards were as follows: Tullos Brothers, to Mrs. J. B. Hunter, Denman Music company to Mrs. E. E. Morehart, Coca Cola Bottling company, to Mrs. R. S. Elliott, Cash N. Carry Cleaning Plant to Mrs. F. J. Borman, De Luxe Cleaners to Mrs. J. D. Barker, Powell's Cleaning Plant to Lois Casey, Cisco Dairy Association to Mrs. T. B. Powell, Cisco Dairy Association to Mrs. Paul Huestis, Morris Simon Store to Imogene Curry, The Boston Store to Mrs. E. C. Phelps, Red Front Drug Store to Mrs. T. E.

Kennedy, Radford Grocery company to Mrs. J. W. Slaughter, Philpott, the Florist to Mrs. C. D. Phillips, Radford Grocery to Mrs. B. C. Witherspoon, Radford Grocery to Mary Lou Courtney, one pound of Woman's Club Coffee to Mrs. C. S. Sandler, and other items of groceries were presented Mrs. Frances Carothers, Mrs. R. C. Hayes, Mrs. A. D. Anderson, Mrs. E. W. Thomas, Miss Carrie Blankenship, Mrs. Eldon Anderson, and Miss Lucille Flaherty.

Groceries for the demonstrations yesterday were furnished by Altman Grocery.

Through a typographical error the name of Piggly Wiggly was omitted as donor of the prize awarded Mrs. W. Z. Latch at the cooking school Tuesday. The News gladly corrects the error.

West Ward P.-T. A. to Meet Friday at 2:30

LEAGUE BARS CISCO LOBOES IN FOOTBALL

For the first time in its history, Cisco high school today had an interscholastic league penalty invoked against it, and, ironically enough, the penalty was one of the severest sanctions in the history of the league.

For Cisco high school, by mandate of the state executive committee, meeting at Austin yesterday, has been barred from participation in league sponsored football for a period of one year. Only once before had Cisco had even so much as a player declared ineligible except by its own decree.

The action was taken following recommendation of the executive committee of the oil belt district—whose rise to prominence in state interscholastic league athletic affairs is a history largely written in the annals of the local school—that Cisco be barred from league football for one year for having allegedly violated league rules. The accusation, about which considerable stir has arisen during the past two or three months, arose from the participation of Fred Hightower, Cisco quarterback, in the Breckenridge-Cisco game last fall. Cisco won that game, and when the protest of Breckenridge was first considered in a meeting of the district committee here, its right to the victory was sustained. In a post-session session, however, held at Abilene, the previous decision was reversed and the game awarded to Breckenridge. Subsequently, last February, the committee, in a meeting ostensibly called to consider next season schedules, passed a resolution asking the league to bar Cisco.

The Basis.
Hightower came to Cisco from the crack Corsicana team of 1930. Corsicana officials, however, steadfastly refused to transfer until Hightower, confident he would not be able to play here, transferred to Tyler where he had been promised the necessary papers. He had hurriedly enrolled in the school, however, when the Corsicana stand was reversed and he returned to Cisco to participate in football and other athletics under the banner of the local school as he had planned. He attended Tyler school but a few days, the rest of his attendance being here, where he entered at the first of the term after working for a Cisco company during the summer.

Breckenridge, protesting his use in the game there October 23, maintained that he had not attended school at Cisco the required 30 days after transfer before playing in the conference contest. Evidence from Cisco and Tyler was in violent conflict and a state of serious uncertainty existed which the state committee interpreted as unfavorable to Cisco and applied the requested penalty in its verdict yesterday afternoon.

Second Meeting.
The meeting of the state committee was the second held on the subject. A previous session heard Cisco's evidence presented by Supt. R. N. Cluck and members of the school board and then directed League Secy Roy Henderson to make a personal investigation. Henderson came to Cisco and spent two days following a similar inquiry conducted at Tyler.

Yesterday Cisco was represented in a lengthy session of the committee by Supt. Cluck, Principal H. Brandon and F. D. Wright, of the school board. The meeting began at 2:30 p. m. and a verdict was not returned until about 7 o'clock last night.

What plans the Cisco school will follow with reference to football next year have not been announced. The prospects for a winning team were hardly ever more bright, with most of last year's fine material back and recruited from younger ranks to such an extent that there was a prospect of placing in the field a team equal to the best that has represented Cisco in other seasons. The one-year rule, just invoked by the league, promised to work happily for the Lobo standpoint next season, if it promised hardships for subsequent seasons, since it did not interfere with the chances of the Cisco team while imposing restrictions upon teams which would be the most serious rivals of the Lobos.

KITTENS MINUS TAILS
KELSO, Wash., March 31.—A Persian cat owned by P. J. Blanchard gave birth to three tailless kittens. The kittens were normal otherwise.

Yes Sir, He's Her Baby

Oakland, Calif. police authorities were convinced for a time that Harlan Oyer, shown in the arms of his mother, Mrs. Grace Oyer, was Billy Gaffney, kidnaped 10 years ago in Brooklyn.

They watched the Oyer home for days. But Mrs. Oyer produced birth records and baby pictures which proved Harlan to be her own boy. Inset shows the Gaffney baby at the time of the kidnaping.

CHILD FALLS INTO 10-INCH TEST HOLE DRILLED FOR ZINC MINE

PICHER, Okla., March 31.—Two-year-old Gerald Collins fell into a 10-inch lead and zinc mine drill hole today while at play.

He dropped 25 feet down the narrow hole and became wedged between jagged rocks, preventing a further fall into the shaft of unknown depth.

At noon more than 500 persons had gathered to help in the attempted rescue.

The faint cries of the child could be heard.

A steam shovel was called. It had dug to a depth of eight feet at the side of the shaft. This excavation, miners said, was the only hope of saving the child.

The baby, the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Collins, was playing while his nephew was digging a post hole near the Mary Ann mine. Suddenly the child disappeared.

Investigation revealed Gerald had fallen down the abandoned test hole which was sunk to test the quality of the ore before the regular mine shaft was sunk.

A mine airpump was brought up from an adjacent mine and air was forced down the hole. An attempt to pull the child out with grapping hooks was abandoned when it was determined he was fastened between rocks. Such a method might break its limbs.

The parents were frantic.

At 2:10 p. m. the steam shovel had dug a hole 14 feet deep. An ambulance was standing by. Workmen were urged to the utmost by the faint cries of the child which could still be heard.

ADVICE TO VOTERS

Citizens voting in next Tuesday's municipal election for the selection of three city commissioners are urged by election judges to have their county and state poll taxes ready to show when they apply for ballots.

H. S. Subblefield, one of the judges, pointed out this morning that this would save much time for the handlers of the election and the voters.

A CITY POLL TAX WILL NOT BE REQUIRED.
No ordinance fixing a city poll tax this year was passed by the commission and hence voters will not be required to show a receipt. But a city and county poll tax is necessary.

DO NOT MUTILATE YOUR BALLOT.
Last year about 75 ballots were thrown out because the voter signed his or her name.

The judges want every voter to be able to exercise his privilege of voting but the law will not permit any ballot to be mutilated, and, therefore, any signed or marked in any way not prescribed by law cannot be counted.

The proper way to vote is simply to draw a line through each name for whom the voter does NOT wish to vote and to leave those for which the voter wishes to vote unmarked. The judges will number the ballots in proper fashion and the citizen must not put any mark or character upon the list except the lines drawn through the names he is voting AGAINST.

METERS URGED FOR OIL LINES IN EAST TEXAS

AUSTIN, March 31.—Meters for pipe lines of east Texas were recommended to the state railroad commission today by the attorney general's department.

The system of measuring flow of oil from the vast pool would check unfair and excess production by means of the "by-pass," and aid in preventing evasion of gross production and gasoline taxes, it was pointed out.

New production limits for Texas oil fields will not be set until next week, based on the hearings held here by the commission yesterday it was said.

Until that time the previous orders were adopted to expire April 1, will remain in effect.

Few changes in the allowable are to be expected, Comm'r Lon Smith said today. "I think the hearings indicated that conditions are very satisfactory under present regulations," Smith said.

No order for the gulf coast district will be issued for several weeks.

Nine Persons Hurt In Wreck of Train

HOLDREDGE, Neb., March 31.—Nine persons were injured, two believed seriously, when nine cars of crack Chicago-Denver Burlington train, the Aristocrat, were derailed near Astell, Neb., today.

TAX BILL IS EXPECTED TO PASS FRIDAY

WASHINGTON, March 31.—The house today adopted a tax of five cents per $100 on all future contracts on the wheat, cotton and other commodity exchanges. The present tax is 1 cent per $100. The new tax is expected to raise about $6,000,000.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—The house today approved a tax schedule which would more than double the levy on stock market transactions. A tax of one-quarter of one per cent on the selling price was written into the billion-dollar tax bill over the objection of the New York delegation. The provision specifies the tax to be not less than four cents a share. The tax under present law is two cents.

The vote was 207 to 39. On the basis of a $17,000,000,000 business on the exchange this year the tax would raise between $65,000,000 and $75,000,000 for the budget balancing program.

It was the last big remaining feature of the substitute schedule for the sales tax. Other main items of the program already have been adopted. Only minor details remain to be acted upon.

When these are cleaned up the house will pass the tax bill tomorrow.

The New York Tammany delegation protested against the tax as Representative Blanton, of Texas, moved to increase it.

Representative Cullen, Dem., of N. Y., announced today he would not seek to get another vote on his beer amendment. "The next house will be wet," he said. "We will do it then."

The ways and means committee decided to add a tax of ten per cent on the arms and shells. This is expected to raise $4,500,000.

NEGOTIATIONS AT NORFOLK ARE AT HALT

NORFOLK, Va., March 31.—Local negotiations with men claiming to have the Lindbergh baby appeared to be at a halt today.

Dean H. Dobson-Peacock and his two associates have had no actual communication with the men claiming to be the kidnapers or with their agents for several days, it was said.

ANOTHER "JAFSIE" ADVERTISEMENT
NEW YORK, March 31.—Another of the mysterious "Jafsie" advertisements which have been published since the Lindbergh baby was kidnaped, appeared in the New York American today.

This one, printed in capital letters, read: "I accept. Money is ready. Jafsie."

Previous messages signed with this name have mentioned money and one of them expressed a desire to "see the goods." There has been nothing to connect them specifically with the Lindbergh case, however.

STATE DEMO STANDS FIRMLY UPON PLEDGE

DALLAS, March 31.—The state democratic committee was preparing today to fight any attempt to void through court actions the loyalty pledge that the party's executive committee will require of primary voters.

Albert Sidney Johnson, secretary of the committee, said the committee would fight any mandamus court action that Tom Love, Dallas, threatened to bring against the committee in the state supreme court.

STUMPED THE JUDGE

SPOKANE, Wash., March 31.—Judge Webster offered to change the name when he summoned Aldus Petrus Hendrick Beckx van Werald for naturalization.

DAILY BIBLE THOUGHT

THE TENDER SHEPHERD:—He shall feed his flock like a shepherd; He shall gather the lambs with His arms, and carry them in His bosom.—Isaiah 40: 11.

PRES. DAWES ASKED TO COME ACROSS.

Rep. Bachmann is a republican of West Virginia. He has introduced a bill asking for information without delay. It concerns President Dawes of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Representative Bachmann calls for a report within 10 days showing the names of persons and concerns receiving loans and the amount of the advances. He also asked for a report of the officials and employees and the salaries they receive. Representative Bachmann is a very inquisitive personage. He says there has been so much secrecy about the Dawes finance corporation that the information he asks should be made public. Moreover, he says the congress should know to whom this $2,000,000,000 is being loaned and whether the salaries paid to officials and employees are acceptable. A reminder that the special house economy committee agreed that all government salaries should be cut 11 per cent, with a $1000 exemption.

There are 298,000 government employees drawing $3000 annually but only 7000 making $4000. Representative Bachmann wants to know, "you know," what the big fellows attached to the many commissions are taking down annually. There is always a busy fly floundering in the political ointment.

PRICE FIXING OF FARM PRODUCTS

Representative Anderson of Minnesota is a republican. He has introduced a price-fixing bill on farm products. His measure would provide the following minimum prices on basic agricultural products: wheat, $1.25 a bushel; cotton, 15 cents a pound; corn, 75 cents a bushel; rice, 70 cents a bushel; barley, 65 cents a bushel; hogs and cattle, 10 cents a pound; butter, 32 cents a pound.

William Gibbs McAdoo is a democrat. He calls himself a Jeffersonian democrat. His plan of salvation calls for the price fixing of wheat and cotton. That is he would place a high tariff on wheat and cotton imports and then graciously permit the growers of these important staples to throw the surpluses in the world market and bid defiance to all competitors. Now a republican congressman from Minnesota where the rebels of politics are said to be all powerful would go all the road. His plan is to fix prices regardless of tariff. To a puzzled wayfarer on the ground or in the treetops it would appear that democrats are breaking away from the fundamentals of Jefferson and republicans are breaking away from the political ideals as well as the fundamentals of government promulgated by Alexander Hamilton and Abraham Lincoln.

MANY NEW USES FOR METAL.

This is the machine age and the laboratories of the world are ever busy. The latest is a felt coated steel, a new material and it is said the felt coating of metal opens a world of new commercial possibilities. It means that for many practical uses steel can be covered with all sorts of protective or practical finishes, even to the imitation of a silken surface. Steel houses are on the way. This is the age of scientific achievements. There is no telling just what will happen next.

WHERE THE BIBLE CANNOT BE SOLD ON SUNDAY.

Maryland, one of the wettest of states, has its blue laws. A police magistrate in the city of Baltimore ruled that it is a blue law offense to sell a Bible on Sunday. The culprit was making a house to house canvass for buyers of the Bible and religious tracts. A charge against him was working on Sunday. This is what the police magistrate said: "If you want to sell it, do it on week days, not on Sunday." Then he dismissed the culprit.

There are thousands of dead laws on the statute books of American commonwealths that should be repealed and thrown in the ash can.

The Song of the Dove!

The District Will Feel the Effect

AN EDITORIAL.

So far as Interscholastic League football is concerned this year the Cisco Lobos have been sent to Coventry. The state executive committee of the league, in a lengthy session yesterday at Austin — the second it had held on the subject — announced as its verdict late in the day that the charges preferred against the Cisco high school by the district executive committee were true and that the penalty recommended by the district committee should be invoked. Most of those who have followed the case from its inception in the Breckenridge-Cisco game last October 23, when the Lobos made the mistake of defeating the Buckaroos, are familiar with the charges. Rehearsed briefly, they were that Fred Hightower, Cisco quarterback, who had left Cisco high school to enter Tyler high school after Corsicana authorities refused to give him a transfer to the Cisco school, and who returned to Cisco high when the Corsicana officials reversed their stand, had not attended the local school the required thirty days prior to the Breckenridge game. The furore that developed in the teapot resulted first in a meeting at Cisco when the executive committee gave Cisco a clean slate, and later in a post-season session at Abilene when the clean slate was taken back and the game awarded to Breckenridge. The tempest by this time had escaped the teapot and developed into a sizeable cyclone, and in February a third meeting was held when the district committee unanimously recommended that Cisco be penalized by exclusion from football participation next fall. The state committee after two sessions upon the subject, sustained the district committee yesterday and Cisco, so far as concerns the grand old game of football, to which it contributed so much of tradition and progress in the oil belt, is on the outside looking in like a bad little boy who has been spanked as the simile of the morally indignant prosecutors will probably have it. To take the position that the punitive action of the league is a negligible thing is to close ones eyes to the facts. It is a serious matter from several angles, but we are of the opinion that the consequences are not Cisco's alone. The district committee is going to find that it has been magnanimous with its own interests. If they are given credit for lofty ideals, they must at the same time be given credit for having established their case upon technical factors alone, without regard for the weighty implications of the long and honorable record of the Lobos in league athletics. Never before has any protest lodged against Cisco high school athletic teams or against a member of those teams been sustained. Its record of sportsmanship has been one of the proudest attributes of the school. In this case it served the school in poor stead. We cannot but wonder why. Perhaps the district committee can explain.

The monetary effect of the decision of the state committee is the least important factor, as considerable a factor as that will prove. It has been estimated that Cisco's participation in oil belt football is worth from $3,000 to $10,000 a season to the other members of the district. It is obviously impossible to substitute another team of equal drawing power to maintain this financial benefit next season, and it is further obvious that the oil belt is going to need that benefit. For this reason alone the action of the district committee was a pretty costly affair.

But the most serious effect for the district is the reaction that will be exerted upon the organization through summary removal of one of its strongest members. It is bound to disrupt not only for next season, but for seasons to come, the relationships that, while sometimes fiercely competitive, were nevertheless the real assets upon which the district built itself into a commanding place in the interscholastic league body. It is unfortunate, not merely from Cisco's standpoint, but from the standpoint of Abilene, Breckenridge, Eastland and Ranger, and the boys for whom the game exists, that the emotional by-products of athletic rivalry could not have been disposed of in a more equitable manner, without the baneful influence that is certain to follow this action. Perhaps we should say that it is unfortunate that the players and the school children who are the most entitled to the game cannot assume more of its control, rather than their adults, who are much too wise for the primary and fundamental purposes involved.

So far as Cisco is concerned the fact cannot be escaped that the exclusion is a severe blow, as optimistically as some are inclined to view the matter. It will be a difficult thing to resume our former prestige in the sport, even with all factors in our favor. The most unfortunate effect will descend upon the youngsters who are attending Cisco high school in good faith, hopeful of opportunities that have heretofore been open to them. The one-year rule just invoked by the league will prevent their going elsewhere and most of the fine array of talent that is available for next year's team will be excluded from any further chance of attaining the distinction that is dear to the youngster heart, and consequently a splendid influence in molding those traits of character and sportsmanship that stand in such good stead when adult responsibility descends. The student body of the school will likewise be robbed of its right—regardless of whatever merits this case may have — to champion a cause. The enthusiasm and spirit that comes of having a champion in the field will likely be sadly missed. It is a serious thing to deflate juvenile optimism, but it is a more serious thing to make him the victim of serious things to make him the victim of serious things to make him the victim of serious things.

In the Political Arena

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD

Abraham Michels of New York, president of the Interstate Drug Company, was indicted by a federal grand jury in Kansas for the sale and transportation of sub-standard extract of Jamaica ginger in violation of the prohibition law. Widespread of the product as a beverage more than two years ago in Kansas and Oklahoma and elsewhere left scores of persons partially or wholly paralyzed in feet and limbs. Well, the New Yorker was sent to trial. He was found guilty by a jury of his peers. Federal Judge Richard K. Hopkins imposed the maximum penalty — five years imprisonment and a fine of $20,000 on his conviction of two counts.

There were no witnesses for the defense. Legal representatives of the accused president of the drug company argued he bought and sold the product in good faith. He was the first of the wholesalers of the extract to face trial in Kansas. Several retail dealers now are serving long sentences either upon conviction or guilty plea, to charges of sale. Plea of the convicted man that he had bought the stuff in good faith did not appeal to the jury of 12. They adjudged him guilty and the judge gave him the limit. Really the sale of jake will be unpopular in the South and the Southwest in coming time. Now an appeal will be taken to the supreme court of the United States. Will the judgment be upheld or the president of the New York Drug Company be given a new trial?

Protection of life is important. Poison should not be sold over the counter and like as a beverage must be close akin to the liquid fire-water of the so-called infernal regions of that place called Hades.

There are thousands of holders of teachers certificates the county over who are jobless. There are thousands who are said to be inefficient to ply their calling. Officials of state colleges and universities of Texas held a state conference and asked the state board of education to reduce the number of certified teachers in Texas by raising the certified standards. And why not? There are eight teachers colleges turning out teachers annually. There are other institutions of higher education turning out droves of teachers annually. It was agreed that if a two-year college requirement were adopted in Texas as elsewhere the nation over, there will be 11,000 or 12,000 teaching vacancies in various schools of the Lone Star state.

Well, the budget making season is on and the state board of control and state board of education are going to hold a joint conference at Fort Worth April 20-22. Why not cut out duplication of educational effort? Why turn loose thousands of teachers annually in a halfhearted condition according to the critics or the criticisms of the critics of the educational system of the state? At the coming Fort Worth conference it will be ascertained whether thorough cooperation can be obtained to recommend the matter for legislative action. Well, education costs huge sums annually. There is a tremendous overproduction of teachers and the cost of duplicated efforts mounts to amazing figures. Taxpayers are howling for relief. Sixteen senators and 150 representatives will be elected this fall. Why not cut out the dead timber and thereby reduce the cost of government without crippling the higher institutions or the public schools of this grand commonwealth.

30TH YEAR OF PENNEY CO. TO BE OBSERVED

Thursday, April 14th will be the thirtieth anniversary of the founding of the J. C. Penney company, that being the date in 1902 when Mr. Penney opened the store in the mining town of Kemmerer, Wyoming, which ultimately became the mother store of an organization now covering every state in the union. Mr. Penney's original invested capital was $500, which together with his unsecured note for $1500 bought for him a one-third interest in the one room shop operated under the name "Golden Rule Store." The other two-thirds interest was owned by Johnson & Callahan with headquarters in Evanston, Wyoming. The plan of allowing store managers to acquire an interest in the stores they operated was a growing one in the West at that time. It was largely due to the fact that there was little money.

As a partner, a manager was likely to exert himself more than as an employee, and he also became responsible for his share of the operating expense of the store. Early spread was close to Kemmerer and was largely in the states of Utah, Colorado and Idaho.

Full Ownership In 1907, Mr. Penney acquired full ownership of three stores in the Johnson & Callahan group and immediately set his avowed plan of operation into effect.

The plan was simple in its objects. It put the possibility of a store partnership before every male associate in the company. The man who through his own ability could qualify got a store of his own. In modified form, the same general plan is still working today, thirty years later.

Despite the fact that this plan was at one time termed too altruistic to admit of success by bankers, it has resulted in a growth at a more rapid rate than has been shown by any like enterprise in this country. Each original dollar of the $500 Mr. Penney put into the project thirty years ago turned over 375,000 times last year.

In the first ten years, between 1902 and 1912, store units increased 34 as men were attracted by the promise of partnership and new and efficient managerial material was developed.

Total sales at the close of 1912 for the year, were slightly over $2,000,000.

The next ten year period carried the J. C. Penney company name from the Western states as far east as Iowa and South through Texas and into the Southeastern states. Chosen President In 1914, Earl Corder Sams, one of the first men to start working with Mr. Penney in Kemmerer was chosen president to succeed the founder who wanted to pass his reins over to other hands than his own. Under Mr. Sams' direction the moves in expansion went on rapidly, and at the end of the first twenty years in business, total sales for 1922 were more than $49,000,000.

and there were 371 stores carrying the name of the company. Between 1922 and 1927, which marked the twenty-fifth anniversary year, stores had increased to 855 and sales for 1927 were $150,000,000. In general, the expansion of the company in its first twenty-five years of growth, had been among the smaller cities and towns. This policy has not been changed but in the last few years an additional field of expansion was entered in the larger cities and in major locations.

Portland, Oregon; Spokane, Wash. Oakland, Calif.; St. Louis, Missouri; Denver, Colorado; Tulsa, Oklahoma one year after another was added to the list and in mid-summer 1931 the largest store yet to be opened appeared in Seattle, Washington. In 1931 sales were close to $180,000,000 and the organization had undisputedly won its position as the largest single distributor of dry goods, clothing, and footwear, directly over the counter.

It has become recognized as the largest employer in the dry goods and clothing field. Among the labor Unions it is known as the heaviest patron of Union shops in its field.

During its entire history, the organization has been known as one of careful and conservative management. During its thirty years, this company has maintained in a remarkable manner stores that are essentially local in their interests and community activity while combining the resources of many stores for economies in distribution.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON.—There's only one thing surer in Congress than a prohibition fight—and that's a bonus battle. Those two issues are often buried. But they never die. In fact, you can hardly keep them buried overnight.

The proposal to cash the adjusted compensation certificates of all war veterans at a cost of nearly $2,500,000,000 was commonly regarded as interred at least for this session after the American Legion voted last fall to defer it and after it became certain that the federal deficit would be far greater than anyone had anticipated.

Just Like Old John BUT here it is again, rising from the earth like your old friend John Barleycorn. And rapidly gathering strength. The Patman cash bonus bill has a fine chance of passing the House and the Thomas cash bonus bill is likely to pass the Senate. There is no doubt that Patman's bill will go through the House if it once gets on the floor. And if the Ways and Means Committee, which has promised hearings on it after the tax bill fight is concluded, will not report it—as it doubtless will—Patman expects little trouble in getting the 145 signatures necessary to bring it out of committee for a vote.

All members of the House are up for re-election this year. Only a third of the senators are, but that fact cannot be depended upon to stop the bill when it gets going. Treasury officials, however, contend that this would be merely fiat money. It is asserted by opponents that money in circulation would be increased about 50 per cent and that the value of the dollar would depreciate proportionately. And that to issue all that money without placing any gold behind it or any provision for paying off the notes would be likely to drive the United States off the gold standard.

Veto in Prospect PRESIDENT HOOVER will veto any cash bonus bill. Patman thinks he can then get the necessary two-thirds majority to override the veto in the House. That seems problematical at this writing, but the best opinion is that the Senate would not dare override the veto for fear of consequences to the country.

The best bet for stalling the bonus bill at the outset seems to be the hope that the Legion can hold its members in line against it. Many of the local Legion posts have been endorsing the Patman

Leaders Are Helpless

BOTH Republican and Democratic leaders are girding themselves to suppress the bill, but their impotence against veteran legislation has often been proved.

Patman is a jolly, carefree soul in these days of deficits and heroic efforts at budget balancing. How to get those billions to pay the vets? Easy, says he. Just issue currency notes for the necessary amount. All that new money in circulation will mean prosperity and everything! Whoops!

Treasury officials, however, contend that this would be merely fiat money. It is asserted by opponents that money in circulation would be increased about 50 per cent and that the value of the dollar would depreciate proportionately. And that to issue all that money without placing any gold behind it or any provision for paying off the notes would be likely to drive the United States off the gold standard.

Thomas Bond Plan

THE bill offered by Senator Thomas of Oklahoma, which proposes issuance of 30-year bonds to be held by Federal Reserve banks as security for the currency paid out, is regarded with equal disfavor by financial experts, who fear it would threaten the Reserve system in addition to battering down the bond market.

Those who believe the cash bonus proposal will go crashing through both houses may be wrong, but we will soon be finding out.

SEES PROMISE IN FUTURE OF OIL INDUSTRY

CLEVELAND, O., March 31.—President plans to solve the problem of over-production of crude oil and prospects of expanding demand for petroleum products over years ahead give promise to the outlook for the oil industry, W. T. Holliday, president of the Standard Oil company, of Ohio, said today in the company's annual report.

The outstanding economic symptom in the oil industry of the past few years, Holliday said, has been the steady narrowing of margins between the cost of crude oil and the prices for finished products. Oil companies, accordingly, are faced with the necessity of reducing their marketing cost if they are to realize profits on the margins now available.

Gasoline sales of the company in 1931 were the largest in its history.

Strike Order Issued to Miners

COLUMBUS, O., March 31.—A general strike order effective tomorrow, went out from district headquarters of the United Mine Workers of America today to 13,000 coal miners in the already turbulent Ohio and West Virginia panhandle fields, who are not protected by union contracts.

Already 12,000 miners are on strike in the Hocking Valley and other Ohio areas in protest against wage reduction.

PECAN TREES AT GOVERNOR'S HOME BUDDED

AUSTIN, March 31.—That native stock pecan trees can be budded with improved varieties to produce high quality nuts will be proven by the department of agriculture in the state's own backyard.

In co-operation with Mrs. Ross S. Sterling, wife of the governor, and Mrs. Adrian Pool, wife of Board of Control Member Pool, who are ardent advocates of bettering the quality of nuts produced by native pecan trees, pecan experts of the department have topworked and late this summer will bud two large pecan trees on the grounds of the governor's mansion here.

J. H. Burkett, chief of the pecan division and creator of the variety that bears his name, and J. T. Kelly also of the pecan division, supervised the top-working of the trees recently in preparation for the budding.

The larger of the two trees will be budded with the famous Burkett variety, while the second will be budded with either the Texas Profile or Western Schley variety.

In the past the larger tree has produced about 75 pounds of nuts each season, the nuts being so small that about 200 were required to make a pound. Budded with the Burkett variety, it is expected to produce at least 150 or 175 pounds of large nuts that will weigh out around 40 a pound in two seasons.

The New Ford

FULL DETAILS OF NEW FORD MADE PUBLIC BY DEALER

Complete details of the V-8 cylinder Ford car which is to be introduced March 31st, were made public here today by S. H. Nance, Bleasie Motor Co., local Ford dealer.

The New Ford is large, long, roomy, fast, powerful and alert. Its V-8 cylinder engine develops 65 horsepower and it is capable of 75 miles an hour.

Fourteen body types of modern streamline design are offered. A four-cylinder engine developing 50 horsepower also can be supplied with any of these body types at a lower price.

Numerous mechanical advances are incorporated in the new car. These embrace a synchronized silent gear shift and silent second gear rubber engine mountings, down-draft carburetor and carburetor silencer, automatic spark control, fuel pump and rear fuel tank. Other improvements include a newly-designed rear spring, thermostatically-controlled Houdaille double-acting shock absorbers, large four-wheel brakes, newly designed electrically welded steel-spoke wheels with large hubs and hub caps and large tires. The chassis and running gear are cushioned by rubber insulators in the spring shackles and shock absorber links. The body is insulated from the frame by rubber pads.

The new bodies are fresh and modern from the gracefully rounded V-type radiator to rear bumper. The air-flow lines are carried out by the long hood with its rustless steel center strip, the slanting safety glass windshield, and rounded roof line. The convex lamps, full-crowned fenders and long, low running board harmonize with the balance of the design.

Body interiors are roomy and richly furnished. Seats are of new style, designed for utmost comfort. Driver seats in all closed cars are adjustable. A large ventilator is provided in the cowl. The oval instrument panel is in engine-turned finish and has a rustless steel mounting strip. Inside sun visors which fold out of the way when not in use, are provided in all closed cars.

The new Ford V-8 engine is remarkably free from vibration. Frequent and overlapping impulses deliver the power in a smooth constant flow.

The engine is of the 90-degree V-type, developing 65 brake horsepower at 3400 r. p. m. The 65-pound crankshaft is of the 90-degree type with its four cranks at right angles to each other.

The crankshaft is statically and dynamically balanced and its throws counterbalanced. The crankshaft connecting rods and pistons also are in balance so that the engine operates with remarkable smoothness at all engine speeds. Pistons are of aluminum alloy and have three rings, the lower acting as an oil control ring.

Cylinder blocks and crankcase are cast in one unit, giving exceedingly rigid engine construction. New type, one-piece valves, which eliminate tappets, operate directly from the camshaft without pushrods.

Connecting rods from opposite pistons are placed side by side or each 90-degree crankshaft throw. These are mounted on new floating steel bushings, babbitted inside and out which serve to give the benefit of the full crankin bearing area to each connecting rod thus affording longer wear.

A cast aluminum cover embracing insulation and the newly designed shock absorbers.

Two new features have been incorporated in the Houdaille hydraulic double-acting shock absorbers. One is a thermostat control which compensates for varying temperature conditions, and the other, a special valve which automatically lessens the effect of sudden road shocks.

The Ford rear spring is of new design, being flatter and lower. It is mounted on perches at the rear of the axle housing and bowed out so as to clear the differential housing.

The new brakes have a braking surface of 186 square inches. Wheels are 18 inches in diameter. The large hubs enclose the bolts which attach the wheel to the drum. There are 32 steel spokes, sharply pitched and electrically welded to the drop-center rim and hub shell, forming an unusually strong unit. Tires are 18x5.25 inches. Each is balanced to prevent "tramping" or vibration at high speeds. The drive is of the familiar Ford torque tube type, the drive shaft being of tubular construction.

The sympathy of the community is being extended to Mrs. J. W. Griffin on account of the death of her mother, Mrs. Mollie Moore who passed away Sunday at her home at West after a long illness. The deceased had visited her a number of times and was much loved by all who knew her.

Saturday evening about 6:30 the fire whistle blew and in a few minutes a large crowd had gathered near the apartment house of Jake Smith in which fire had started in an upstairs vacant room. Almost before anyone could realize it the roof was falling in and it was impossible for those living in the apartment to get out any of their clothes only a few things belonging to those living downstairs were gotten out. There was almost no wind but even with that advantage it was a hard job for the volunteer firemen to save the home of Mayor J. E. Rushing just a short distance east. The city fire hose was left connected with the hydrant and during the night a stiff wind came up fanning the ashes into flame so that Mr. and Mrs. Rushing and others had to work to put the fire out. Unfortunately there was no insurance on the house or furniture. It seems troubles never come singly as Mrs. Smith was at Lucumcarl, New Mexico where she went to attend the funeral of a grand-daughter and to stay with her daughter who is still quite sick. They have the sympathy of the whole town.

Sunday night a splendid Easter program was given at the Methodist church where a large crowd had gathered to listen to the reading music and pageant. JONES HITS AT HYDE FOR HOPS LOANS

EASTLAND, March 31.—Secretary of Agriculture Hyde does not deny that by far the greatest part of the hops produced in the United States is used to make beer—which is a violation of the law—yet he seeks to defend the action of his department in lending millions of dollars for growing of hops," said District Attorney Joe Jones of Eastland, candidate for congress from the seventeenth district.

He made public a letter from the Secretary of Agriculture, which follows:

"Acknowledging receipt of your letter of the fifteenth, it is not possible for this department to discriminate against any agricultural crop. Hops may be used in the production of beer, but they are also used legally in the production of cereal beverages, in yeast and other products.

"We are utterly unable to separate the illegal use from the legal use and you, as a lawyer, know that we have no right to presume that an agricultural crop, innocent in itself, is going to be devoted to an illegal use.

"The limitation on acreage for cotton and tobacco is made for the benefit of the farmers themselves. At this minute there are 14,500,000 bales of cotton in this country. This is enough to run us another year. If now we stimulate, through government loans, the production of another large crop, the cotton growers will get a very low price. Consequently, we are attempting to use these loans in aid of the farmer's own welfare by trying to prevent the production of a record-breaking crop, which would destroy the farmer's market."

The reference to limitation of cotton acreage was in reply to Jones' protest against restriction of legitimate crops while imposing no restraint on the acreage the hops-grower could plant in "the raw material for law-breaking."

"If I had been a member of congress when the $2,000,000,000 finance reconstruction bill was before it, I would have urged, first, that more than one-tenth of the amount should go to aid farming, upon which prosperity rests the welfare of all of us," Jones declared yesterday, "and, second, as long as the laws of my nation make it illegal to deal in beer, I would have insisted that not one penny government funds be spent to grow a product with which to violate the laws.

What About Marijuana?

"Certainly if the acreage of the cotton farmers in my district can be regulated, then the hops acreage could at least be restricted so that only the needs of legitimate industry could be met. Gross discrimination is being practiced to favor the hops growers of California, President Hoover's home state. "If the Secretary of Agriculture must lend money on any crop, as he says, then what is to keep the Mexicans in the Southwest who grow marijuana—the smoking of which produces intoxication—from applying for, and receiving, loans from the Federal Treasury?"

"Millions of dollars are being spent by our government to enforce prohibition and it is inconsistent, wasteful, unwise and violative of the constitution to spend other millions to make law-breaking easier, especially when the farmers who raise wheat, peanuts, and cotton; the workman who is about to lose his home, and the small town merchant will welcome every dollar that the government wants to loan, and their needs are above any question of suspicion."

CHAPTER XLVIII

Ellen had not returned to Dreamland but she intended to go that evening. The thought of the gaudy noisy place was distasteful to her but she felt a desperate necessity to try to take up the life she had dropped. Dancing — any sort of occupation — would help her forget maddening memories. She must go on with living. So she planned to go to Dreamland.

There was no chance of seeing Larry there. She knew he would obey her request. Oh, who couldn't she decide that her own past was as much her own as was his past? It was the indecision in her mind that was driving her to desperation.

Late that afternoon she dressed to go to the dance hall. Myra was at the library and Molly was lying down. Suddenly the doorbell shrilled.

Ellen glanced at the clock and sighed. She looked into Molly's bedroom and saw that her mother was asleep. There was no escape, so she answered the bell.

She had removed her gloves but left on her hat. She opened the door and looked down the dark cavern of the stairs. Suddenly her heart plunged. Coming up the stairway, trailing perfume and wrapped in silks and furs, was Mrs. Harrowgate.

She kissed Ellen on the cheek in plaintive greeting. Then, sure of her welcome, she stepped into the living room.

"Oh go call mother," Ellen said. "Don't bother, my dear. It's you I came to see."

"But I—I have to leave in a moment or so," Ellen stammered. "Not just now, I'm sure. Sit down my dear."

Ellen sat down.

"Now what is this nonsense between you and Larry?" Mrs. Harrowgate began easily. "You should know that you're breaking the poor child's heart."

"Did he send you here?"

Mrs. Harrowgate flushed. For the first time her magnificent composure was a little shaken.

"He didn't send me — no. In fact he forbade my coming. But I'm not in the habit of being ordered around by my own son and so I told them. He finally agreed with me and even sent you a message."

She opened a soft gray bag studded with amethysts, took out an envelope and handed it to Ellen. Without reading it or even glancing at the address, Ellen laid the message in her lap.

"Do you mind my saying that I consider this whole thing ridiculous?" Mrs. Harrowgate said fretfully. "If Larry had done anything to hurt your feelings — but I'm sure he hasn't — perhaps your conduct would not be so extraordinary. As it is merely to make him suffer for some whim of yours, is childish and absurd. It's cruel!"

She seemed for the moment to lack further adjectives. Mrs. Harrowgate paused for breath, and still Ellen did not speak.

"Larry could have helped you during these difficult days," Mrs. Harrowgate continued. "He could have stood by you when you had to face the police and reporters. You should have let him do that if you hadn't come to my home that afternoon Fergus would never have dreamed of applying to you for help. And then the whole thing he feels deeply responsible. That's what makes —"

"Stop, stop!" Ellen broke in. "Put on your coat," Mrs. Harrowgate said firmly. "Larry's at home now and he's wretchedly unhappy. I'm going to take you to him. You can patch up this quarrel whatever it is together. I'm sure it's too much for me!"

"Hurry, child," she added. "I'm sorry, but I can't come," Ellen told her.

Nothing Mrs. Harrowgate said could persuade her. The older woman threatened, pleaded, even wept. Always she was defeated by Ellen's refusals. There was no triumph in Ellen's heart at the complete surrender of Larry's mother. There was nothing in her heart a burning agony.

Long after Mrs. Harrowgate had gone, the girl sat in the darkening living room. At last she read Larry's message.

"I'll wait for you, my darling, as long as you want me to wait. Nothing in your past, nothing in your future, can affect what I feel for you. Whenever you want to come to me I will be waiting in the studio. You can see the light from the street."

That night before she went to Dreamland Ellen walked past the studio. There was a light there. Larry was waiting as he had promised. Ellen stood for a long time in the cold, quiet twilight. She felt again the sharp and burning pain in her heart. The yellow light at the window burned on steadily.

She went down to the apartment house and walked through the lobby and up the stairs. She could not stop for an elevator. The door of the studio was ajar. She went inside. And as she entered, Larry stepped through the door from the adjoining rooms that were to have been their home. For an instant he paused — then caught her savagely into his arms and kissed her again and again.

Fervently she pushed his hands away and walked to the window to stare down at the roofs and at the men and women and children straggling in the tiny, dusky park. The children were screaming and running briskly, all of them buttoned into leather leggings and little woolen coats.

Ellen turned suddenly and return-

Did You Ever Stop to Think?

By EDSON R. WAITE
Shawnee, Oklahoma.

E. J. Kulas, president of the Otis Steel company and the Midland Steel Products company, says:

"That the period of depression through which the country has been passing may prove to have been of benefit to the country if it restores the old-fashioned appreciation of the value of a dollar. For a number of years prior to 1929 the country was going through a period of expansion. Prices were rising, wages were rising, business was getting bigger day by day. The whole tendency was to make the young man just coming up in the world feel that it was not necessary to keep track of his dollars because it was too easy to get more. In the late twenties this fever of expansion developed into a real speculative mania, in which not only a lot of the young business men but many others who were old enough to know better, became obsessed with the idea that hard work was not necessary when fortunes could be made in the markets almost overnight.

The depression has been bringing us all back to earth. Many prices are back to the levels obtaining at the beginning of the present century and it is likely that our appreciation of the importance of financial independence will also get to these levels. We are quite likely to find that our business body is much more healthy because the illness of drastic depression has burned a lot of the false ideas about easy money out of our systems and left us where we understand that we must work for what we get.

A serious siege of illness sometimes is very good for a man, because it eliminates the poisons from the system and gives the body a chance to function as nature planned. We are quite likely to find that our business body is much more healthy because the illness of drastic depression has burned a lot of the false ideas about easy

URGE FARMERS TO TEST SEED FOR QUALITY

AUSTIN, March 31. — Farmers buying planting seed should exercise great caution to prevent the purchase and planting of seed of low germination or seed with a large percentage of weed and noxious weed seed content, R. V. Miller, field seed certification division chief warns with the immediate approach of the planting season.

Special notice should be taken by the farmers to see that seed offered for sale is correctly labeled Miller urged, and that a correct interpretation of the label is had.

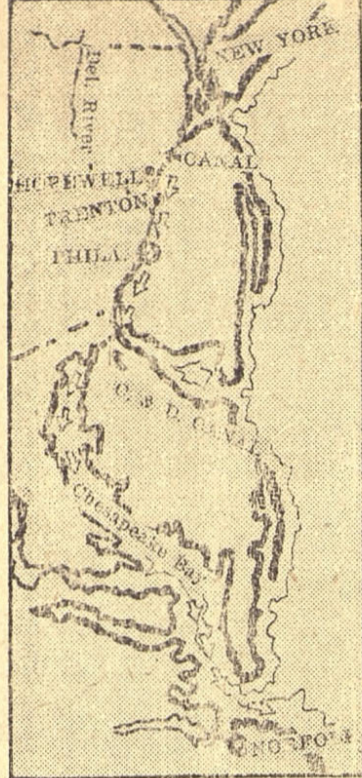

Two state laws are at the command of the Texas department of Agriculture in dealing with the quality and varietal purity of seed. The first law applies only to seed produced by firms voluntarily meeting the requirements of the state seed and plant board. It is known as the seed certification law and it vouchsafes only for the varietal purity and proper method of production and handling state certified seed. Certification tags for such seed are printed in red and show the name of the producer, the variety, the size of container, and the year in which it was grown.

The second law is known as the tested seed law and applies to all seed sold in lots of ten pounds or more. Its tests are based upon a mechanical analysis of a representative sample. These tests have no reference to the varietal purity but give information regarding the percentage of germination, percentage of inert matter and quantity of seed or noxious weed seeds present. The analysis of the test is shown on a white tag label.

All field seeds in lots of ten pounds or more offered for sale in Texas must have this tag or label attached, unless the bag of seed is plainly marked "not clean seed," "not tested," "in storage for the purpose of recleaning," or "seeds sold to

WAS THIS KIDNAP ROUTE?

Inland Waterways Provide Easy Course From Lindbergh Home to Chesapeake Bay

Lindbergh home at Hopewell, N. J. By driving only nine miles from Hopewell, N. J., kidnapers of the Lindbergh baby could have escaped by water direct to Chesapeake bay, as map above shows. A road leads direct from Hopewell to the Delaware and Raritan canal. Passing through the canal the kidnapers could have continued down the Delaware river past Wilmington to the Chesapeake and Delaware canal, which could carry them across to Chesapeake bay. There it would be easy to hide away among the thousands of islands and conduct negotiations, as is indicated in developments at Norfolk. Norfolk police, the United States coast guard and military authorities made no move to apprehend the yacht on which the baby was supposed to be, which strengthened opinions that the negotiations included a pledge of immunity.

Unshaken in his conviction that kidnapers of the Lindbergh baby had communicated with him, the Rev. Harold Robson Peacock, dean of Christ Episcopal church in Norfolk, Va., shown in lower picture, said that he and two friends are expecting the child to be returned to them. John Hughes Curtis, in top picture, a Norfolk boat manufacturer, and Rear Admiral Guy Burrage are his associates in the negotiations. They believe the kidnapers are in a boat in Chesapeake bay, which could be reached direct by an all-water route by driving only nine miles from the merchants to be recleaned before being sold or exposed for sale for seeding purposes. When labeled under either of these phrases, it is unlawful for the vendor to attach statements either by label or otherwise pertaining to germination, mechanical purity and weed seed content.

Free seed testing laboratories are maintained by the Texas Department of Agriculture at Austin and at Lubbock.

Farmers who have purchased seed and have any doubt whatsoever, whether the seed be certified tested seed or labeled under the provisions of the "not tested" section are urged to submit a representative sample to the nearest laboratory for a full and complete test free of charge, Miller said. "We are anxious especially at this time of the year that farmers be advised of this service, toward the end that better stands may be secured and that the tag or tags on a sack may be intelligently interpreted."
