U. S. PLANS DISARMAMENT CAMPAIGN

Blazing Overton Well Is Conquered by Nitro Blast

TWO CHARGES YESTERDAY ARE FAILURES

TYLER, July 7.—The Tulsa Oil company's No. 1 Quinn, near Overton, today spouted oil high into the air after a charge of nitroglycerin snuffed out the fire that had raged for three weeks.

Floyd Kinley, of Tulsa, who with his brother conquered the death dealing Gladewater oil fire two months ago, placed the torpedo of explosive, that tamed the well. Two charges exploded yesterday failed to extinguish the blaze and more nitroglycerin was brought from Tulsa this morning.

The crew today made preparations to stem the wild flow of oil roaring from the hole.

TWO NITRO BLASTS FAIL

TYLER, July 7.—Two nitroglycerin blasts failed Monday to extinguish the blazing Tulsa Oil company's No. 1 O'Quinn well near Overton.

The nitro supply was exhausted and Floyd Kinley, veteran oil fire fighter, ordered more sent from Tulsa by airplane.

Further attempts to shoot out the flaming well were to be made upon its arrival.

CARE URGED IN SETTING GRASS FIRES

A small grass fire on the Bankhead highway in East Cisco yesterday at 5:30 p. m. caused the fire department a run to the scene. No damage was done.

Fire Chief C. O. Pass asked citizens who wish to burn grass to first notify the fire department so that the department may take proper precautions against the flames getting out of control.

He also requested anyone knowing of a fire hazard to inform the department which will take steps to remove the menace.

FARMERS ARE PLEASED WITH ERADICATION

Two more wolves were brought in this week by F. B. Mathews, state trapper. One of the pair, a female, was taken Sunday morning and the other, a male, was captured this morning. The two were caught north of Cisco near the Stephens county line in what is known as the Cedar Mountain country.

Farmers and ranchmen in that area say that they can tell a distinct difference between the depredations of wolves now and the depredations that occurred two or three years ago. They declare that the eradication work being carried out by Eastland county is one of the best investments that the county has made and that it has been worth more to farmers in dollars and cents than any program of county wide agricultural influence that has been undertaken in the past.

GIRL DROWNS IN RIVER AT N. BRAUNFELS

NEW BRAUNFELS, July 7.—Miss Linda Hanz, 19, drowned today while swimming with a party of friends in the Guadalupe river in the city park here.

Louise Vorheiser and Lola Letsch, who went to the girl's aid, were rescued by Frank Roemisch, park keeper.

Wallie Hanz, the dead girl's sister, and Wilma Vorheiser, Louise's sister, witnessed the tragedy from the banks of the river.

"Old Ironsides" Sails Again

For the first time since 1897, when she was decommissioned and threatened with destruction, "Old Ironsides" put to sea again from Boston Harbor and began her tour of seventeen eastern seaboard ports. Here you see the U. S. S. Constitution, proud old fighting frigate of more than a century ago, as it moved along in tow of the minesweeper Grebe. The sails remained tightly furled for her crew is insufficient to handle her under sail. Pennies contributed by American school children paid for the complete reconditioning of the craft.

Methods Found in Colorado Provide Pointers for Local Irrigation Work

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Varnell arrived in Cisco yesterday evening about 7 o'clock on their return from Fort Collins, Colo., where Mr. Varnell attended a three-week summer course in vocational agriculture at the Colorado A. and M. college. They found the trip delightful and their stay at Fort Collins particularly pleasant during the last half of their visit when clouds and cool breezes modified what Varnell said was the most intense sunlight he had ever experienced.

The section around Fort Collins is an irrigated country, with sugar beets and alfalfa the principal crops. Study of the irrigation methods of the area supplied Mr. Varnell with many valuable pointers on the subject. School was in session five days of each week and Mr. Varnell was required to spend four hours each of these days in class rooms. Most of his time outside of the class rooms on school days was required for preparation of material but the weekends were open for recreation and excursions into the farming areas where he watched irrigation procedure and talked with the farmers.

Small Farms
Farms are relatively small, 80 acres being about the average unit. But the production of these farms through irrigation from reservoirs which are replenished by numerous and continually flowing mountain streams from the Rockies, is astonishing, he said, an instance of which is the average production of wheat which is between 60 to 70 bushels per acre.

Methods of irrigation contrast with those in Texas and with principles of irrigation as they are followed here.

"We think of pipes whenever we consider irrigation," said Mr. Varnell. "But they do not. They use ditches winding about the area they wish to irrigate and they handle the water so skillfully that it is led to any part of the farm they desire without waste. A huge ditch leads the water from a large reservoir and as it passes a farm it is diverted by smaller ditches the size of which is gauged to the requirements of the farmer. In the case of alfalfa and wheat and similar sown crops the water is conducted in small ditches about the top of a hill and released to flow over the land, saturating it to the depth of the mulch made by plowing. Skillful farmers control the flow of the water in such a way that one of these small ditches will run all day brimful without breaking over. The farmers watch the irrigation process closely, waging about with rubber boots and leading it over the land, if necessary, by means of small trenches traced with hoes.

"Irrigation of the sugar beets is carried out by a row system, the water carried along an incline and released to run down the rows until the soil is thoroughly wetted.

PRISON GUARD IS SLAIN; 2 INMATES HELD

ANGLETON, Tex., July 7. — Jim Sneed, picket guard at Retrieve prison farm near here, was shot to death last night when two white convicts attempted to make a break for liberty.

Jim Merriman, of Houston, and Jack Perry, of Hempstead, were placed in jail here and charged with the murder of the guard.

The grand jury will meet tomorrow to consider the case, County Attorney Floyd Enlow said.

Sneed was on guard at the convict barracks about 10:15 p. m. Monday when two of the men in the building approached him with the command "Stick up your hands."

Sneed did not comply, Enlow learned, but instead made a movement as if to defend himself.

As he did the two men opened fire. Four bullets crashed into the guard's body, Justice Morrison, who held the inquest, said. They were fired by two pistols. In the barracks the officers found two pistols, one a .45 calibre army automatic and the other a .32 calibre revolver.

TWO ESCAPE GRAHAM JAIL

GRAHAM, July 7.—Jack Compton and Joe Denzer, both convicted of burglary charges, escaped the Young county jail here today after putting a gag on Jailer Newell Yates's mouth and locking him in a cell.

The prisoners used his key to unlock the outer doors.

COMMITTEE TO FT. WORTH ON GAS QUESTION

Following a recent oil belt meeting at Eastland in which the danger to economic interests of the oil belt presented by Fort Worth's threat to discontinue contract with the Lone Star Gas company for its gas supply, was emphasized, a movement is now under foot to send a general committee of officials and citizens from the oil belt towns to Fort Worth for a conference with Fort Worth officials on the question. Gas purchased by Fort Worth from the Lone Star comes principally from this section and since abrogation of Fort Worth's contract with the Lone Star would rob this section of a market for its gas, the committee will urge upon the Fort Worth authorities the mutual disadvantages involved.

Personnel of Cisco's representatives, if the chamber of commerce of this city joins in the program, awaits determination of a date for a conference with the Fort Worth authorities.

POST MAKES NEW RECORD WITH SPEECH

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Acclaim in Washington for his record breaking flight around the world led Wiley Post to break another record by overcame his bashfulness about public speaking. That accomplishment was not easy. It came only after Senator Hiram Bingham pled him with many questions at a banquet in honor of Post and his navigator, Harold Gatty.

SEEKS NAVAL CADETS

NANKING, July 7.—The Navy Ministry here has announced a national examination, open to candidates in all parts of China, to select 100 naval cadets for training as officers. Each province is permitted to select 15 candidates for the examinations.

HUGE PEACH GROWN

CAMDEN, Ark., July 7.—A peach weighing more than half a pound was raised by J. S. Morgan, farmer, near here.

What Eldest Generation's Coming To

"For a birthday celebration," said Mrs. Mary Hartman, 103 "I think I'd like to go up in an airplane—one of these new windmill things." So they hired an autogiro and took the Philadelphia centennial for a joy-ride, and here you see her with her pilot, J. Miller. Mrs. Hartman had to get back to her housework, or she'd have like to have flown to New York to see the globe-circlers. Gatty said Post.

FUEL PLANE CONTINUES TO DELAY FLIGHT

SEATTLE, Wash., July 7.—Reginald Robbins announced today that he and H. S. Jones would be unable to leave until tomorrow for Fairbanks, Alaska, on the first leg of their proposed non-stop refueling flight to Tokyo, Japan.

Robbins said he had received a message from Telegraph Creek, British Columbia, saying his and Jones' refueling plane had been forced down there while attempting to reach Fairbanks.

URGES ADVICE, NOT RELIGION, FOR GRADUATES

EL PASO, July 7.—Taking religion out of high school and college commencement exercises is the object of the Southwestern Rationalist association, organized to combat modern religion and the church. A resolution adopted by the association condemns the policy of associating the educational system with religious services, such as "baccalaureate sermons, etc." The association is opposed to such services as "being a relic of the days of church domination in government."

COVERED WAGON

BROCKTON, Mass., July 7.—With Oregon as its destination, a modern "covered wagon" left here recently to cover the 100-year-old trail of John Mason Peck, pioneer Baptist missionary. The trip, to be made under a stipule of the Baptist Home Missionary society, is scheduled to be completed in the fall of 1932.

CENTERIAN AT WORK

WORCESTER, Mass., July 7.—Though Charles W. Eldridge, Civil War veteran, recently celebrated his 100th birthday anniversary, he goes to work daily at a local plumbing establishment where he has been employed as bookkeeper for 50 years.

DEATH PENALTY DEMANDED IN HOTEL SLAYING

HOUSTON, July 7.—State's attorneys today demanded death as the penalty for the hotel slaying of Mrs. Marie Hart 29-year-old mother of two children, slain when she told her sweetheart that she was returning to her husband.

Testimony in the trial of Donald Covin, 22, of Beaumont, charged with her murder, was brought to an end abruptly today and arguments were started.

Mrs. Hart was slain in the Rice hotel mezzanine at noon, June 1, while the lobby was crowded.

Today her love notes and letters to the young former refinery employe and bell hop were read before the jury as the defense attempted to prove that he was the victim of an older and designing woman who professed her love for him and then deserted him.

Her last letter said "I'm going back to my husband. It will be the best for everybody concerned."

MAN SHOT TO DEATH TODAY AT FT. WORTH

PORT WORTH, July 7.—Roland Lewis, 37, formerly of San Antonio, was shot to death here at 1:30 a. m. today as he sat with a woman companion in an auto at Lake Worth.

The young woman with him said they were parked at Inspiration Point when another auto drove up with two men in it. After a command to "stick 'em up" Lewis got out of his car and was shot four times. He died almost instantly.

The woman then rushed over to the road and halted two policemen who were passing and told them of the shooting. Lewis is survived by a wife and three children.

MUSIC STUDY POPULAR

DALHART, July 7.—Reading, "riting and "rithmetic are still favorites in Dalhart elementary schools. Out of an enrollment of 1175 there were 1146 students who took the three r's. The same number enrolled for music. In the high school first-year American history was the favorite.

BORN EN ROUTE TO FIRE

ALBANY, N. Y., July 7.—A spot behind the driver's seat of a fire engine which was speeding to a fire was the place selected by Nookie, cat mascot, for the birth of her four kittens. Nookie and her newborn offsprings were discovered curled up on a reel of hose.

Cisco Temperature 99 Degrees at Noon

Cisco experienced another torrid temperature today with the mercury registering 99 degrees at noon. This was not the highest level reached during the past hot spell but it was near enough to be of no difference to the citizens, many of whom dispensed with all articles of wearing apparel not essential, to modesty.

DOHERTY ASKS MAILS TO BAR KANSAS PAPER

NEW YORK, July 7.—Henry L. Doherty, head of the Cities Service company, has charged the Kansas City Star with influencing a state order barring sales of certain Cities Service securities and has applied to Postmaster General Walter Brown to have the newspaper barred from the mails.

Doherty made public a telegram he had sent to Governor Harry Woodring accusing him of having "fallen under the evil influence of the men who control the Kansas City Star." He said he had notified Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont that Woodring had intimated he would throw certain Cities Service subsidiaries into receiver-ship.

Fight at Ball Game Is Fatal

GREENVILLE, Tex., July 7.—Millard Williams, 21, today faced charges of murder in connection with the death of Charlie Whitworth, Quinlan community farmer, who died yesterday from head injuries caused by a baseball bat. Williams bond was set at $2,500.

Whitworth was injured in an argument over his umpiring at a community baseball game.

JAP HAIRLESS HORSE MAY BE SENT TO U. S.

TOKIO, July 7.—Not particularly noticed by thousands of visitors a hairless horse has occupied an enclosure in Tokio's municipal zoo in Ueno Park for the past several years. A few days ago, Harold J. Coolidge, a Boston lawyer, in Tokio to present to Tokio Imperial university a collection of American Indian relics from Peabody Museum of Harvard university, saw the animal. There is now a chance that it may cross the Pacific to an American zoo.

Only three hairless horses are known outside Japan, and even here they are not numerous. On Tanega Island, off the southeast tip of Japan, a man has been breeding them for 40 years. Originally brought from Korea by a Japanese invader more than three centuries ago, hairless horses were common at one time in southern Japan. They died out, though, and the breeder on Tanega Island had to start with a single male, which he crossed with an ordinary horse.

When Coolidge heard that the breeder had seven or eight more, he suggested to the officials of the zoo that they exchange the one they now have with an American zoo for an American bison, which they lack.

Small in stature, like most horses in the Orient, the animal has a dull black skin, free of hairs except for a few scattered patches on its back. There is no name, and the tail is short and flat. Because the tail resembles that of an ox the hairless horse is known in Japan as the oxen-horse.

PECAN GROWERS TO MEET

AUSTIN, July 7.—The executive committee of the Texas pecan-growers have arranged a three-day program for a convention to be held at La Grange, July 14-16. A woman will preside at the convention, Mrs. B. W. Klingman of New Braunfels. She was elected head of the association at last year's session.

STILL PUZZLED

HOUSTON, July 7.—Police were still puzzled today over the death of Louis Comet, 30-year-old cafe owner, whose body was found floating in Bray's bayou here yesterday after he had been missing from his home since Thursday.

MOVE WOULD FOLLOW UP MORATORIUM

WASHINGTON, July 7.—The Hoover administration, it was learned today in high official quarters, plans to follow up its victorious campaign for a year's international debt holiday by an equally vigorous movement for world disarmament.

Sec'y of State Stimson, now in Europe, is to act as the administration's agent in sounding out the prospects for a successful world disarmament conference at Geneva, next February.

NATIONS ARE UNITED UPON HOOVER PLAN

WASHINGTON, July 7.—The nations of the world were united today in an effort inspired by President Hoover, to aid economic recovery by suspending war debt payments.

With a smile of victory after two weeks of uncertainty and complicated negotiations, the president last night announced France's acceptance of his plan, "in principle." All other countries involved had previously given their approval.

The debt holiday actually will be retroactive to July 1, although the official agreement reached at Paris dates it from today. It will last until June 30, 1932. Until then all governments, including hard-pressed Germany, may keep at home hundreds of millions of dollars that otherwise would have to be paid out to meet World War debts and reparations obligations.

If Mr. Hoover's dream comes true, the year's respite not only will save Germany from threatened collapse but will restore confidence, stimulate trade and help the whole world on the road to better times.

Former French President Firm

PARIS, July 7.—Former President Gaston Doumergue is making good his threat to disappear completely from the political horizon and let it be known to his supporters that he does not "choose to run" for the French Senate from the Gard department.

Furthermore, M. Doumergue is so insistent upon privacy in his retreat at Tournefeuille that he has given orders that his voluminous mail is to be sorted and the bulk of it, begging letters and political advice from admirers, is to be burned.

The Gard seat in the senate will be filled during the summer by an election to be held at Nimes, but it now appears unlikely that M. Doumergue will consent to run. He expects to be fishing about the time parliament reopens.

Like his predecessor, M. Paul Doumer has only half moved into the Elysee—the White House of France. He has kept the palatial home his family occupied before he was obliged to move to the Luxembourg Palace as President of the Senate and then to the Elysee as President of the Republic.

FUNERAL BILL FOR MEXICAN YOUTHS $3,088

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 7.—Further investigation into the slaying of two Mexican students by a deputy sheriff at Ardmore, if made, will be made by officials at the Washington embassy, H. Valdez, Mexican consul here, said today.

Expenses incidental to the slaying of the students have been paid by deficiency warrants issued by Governor W. H. Murray. The largest item of the total $3,088.18 expense was $2,000 for caskets.

U. S. ENGINES CUT TIME

MILAN, Italy, July 7.—Venice is now three hours from Milan following the installation of American type locomotives on the railway line. The new express makes the run in less than three hours.

DAILY BIBLE THOUGHT

ETERNAL LIFE.—Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbor as thyself. This do, and thou shalt live.—Luke 10: 27, 28.

DEPRESSED DRIVERS.

An American who has just returned home after a world tour lasting nearly two years is surprised by two things.

First, by way of contrast with the buoyant spirit which prevailed here when he left, he is surprised by "the feeling of depression and the talk of depression" which assail him everywhere.

Second, he is astonished by the volume of motor traffic, which is greater than it was when he left.

This really is a curious contrast. To be sure, the automobile has become a family necessity in this country. But how could foreigners understand millions of people riding everywhere in expensive cars and feeling glum?

MORE MONEY TO BUILD SHIPS.

Now the president of the American bureau of shipping is positive that $225,000,000 government appropriation for construction of 100 modern freight ships would relieve unemployment in Pacific coast shipyards. In war time the government built 2600 ships. Indeed it is said that more than $3,000,000,000 was invested in craft to bridge the Atlantic. Well, the bridging followed. Only two hundred of the 2600 ships built as Atlantic bridges remain.

Capt. C. M. McAlester is president of the bureau of shipping. He insists that there must be provided in a very short time a considerable fleet of modern freighters to meet the demands of our foreign trade.

Gen. Sherman must have been right in his conclusion that "war is hell." Think of an investment of $3,000,000,000 in ships and all that survived are antiques.

SPEAKING OF THE TEXAS WOOL CROP.

Texas produced 41,600,000 pounds of wool in 1930 and now the wool guessers say that there will be a slightly larger yield this year. Last year the co-operative handled 119,000,000 pounds of wool. They expect to have consigned this year 130,000,000 pounds or between 35 and 40 per cent of the 1931 crop. Texas leads all states in the production of wool and Texas is the banner mohair producing state of all of the Americans. As for cotton Texas leads the world in its production. Why the scarcity of cotton mills and the absence of woolen mills in Texas?

PROSPERITY SIGNS IN TEXAS.

Swing of the economic pendulum toward a new era of prosperity will be felt by the clothing business over the entire nation, according to John Adams of Dallas, president of the Men's Apparel club of Texas. More than a hundred delegates attend the Fort Worth convention of the club. Texas continues to be the great white spot on the map of America and the day will come when Texas will be as great as a manufacturing state as it is as an agricultural and mineral producing state. A reminder that contracts aggregating $16,030,226 were awarded by the Texas highway commission for road and bridge construction on July 22 with a notice that work on the projects will be started immediately with all contractors pledged to the use of local work. Bumper crops are promised. Texas harvested the greatest wheat crop in the history of the commonwealth and yield of corn and oats will be very heavy. When it comes to production of feedstuffs and foodstuffs Texas will hang up a new high record. As for the summer and winter gardens of the commonwealth they have made dividends and the wool and the mohair producers are not going to face starvation the coming winter.

PROFIT FROM HARDSHIP.

According to William Feather, magazine and advertising man, we are getting a lot of benefit from this business depression.

"Children are learning valuable lessons which they might have missed, had we not had the madness of the New Era. Profits of a depression are not expressed by dollars, but they are real. Common sense is again an economic and social asset, and sensible standards and attitudes are again popular."

If this is true, it is worth suffering for. And apparently we seldom learn wisdom except through suffering.

Ignoring the everlasting "Scotch story," let us face a big truth. Why are the Scotch such a great people, playing so big a part in the world? Mostly because Scotland has always been so hard a country to live in that, from the forced struggle, its people have had bred into them the basic qualities required for success.

REDWOODS ARE SAVED.

The California Redwoods have been saved, not for California alone but for the whole country and for admiring visitors from anywhere in the world. Ten years or so ago it looked as if the redwoods were doomed to fall under the lumberman's ax. Then the public began to get excited about the matter.

Public-spirited men and women, east and west, clubs, the California state park commission, magazines, and even school children rallied to the cry of "Save the redwoods!" Funds were raised. Negotiations were conducted between certain state officials and the lumber company involved. The Save-the-Redwoods League was organized and began to raise funds to purchase the largest tract of redwood forest. The state, by a bond issue in 1927, raised half the cost of the project. Philanthropists contributed generously.

The result has been the creation of Humboldt State Redwood Park, 16,000 acres in extent, running 15 miles along a fine highway. Thus the "tallest, oldest and most magnificent trees in the world" became a national treasure.

The redwoods triumph shows what can be done when enough of the public cares. It took ten years of persistent hard work to accomplish this, but there stand the redwoods now to show victory. What next?

Now why not a moratorium in warship-payments, too?

Between Uncle Sam and his lawyers, Capone won't have much left when he gets out.

The country is suffering from a surplus of ex-spenders.

OTHER OPINIONS

THE TALKIES BECOME INTERNATIONALISTS.

In a curious manner of their own, the talking pictures have a way of solving their own problems. Newest evidence of this comes in the form of the report from France that the French Film Control Commission has removed all restrictions upon the importation of American films. This decision is held to mean the definite termination of the present quota arrangement under which American films enter France. The removal of these restrictions was the result of the adoption of new rules whereby in future the quota law shall be applied toward those countries having similar quota arrangements with regard to films imported from France. As the United States makes no such restriction on French films, the seven-to-one plan in vogue in France—in other words, the granting of licenses for seven imported American screen productions for each French film licensed in the United States—automatically ceases. While the new order is effective only for one year, beginning July 1, it is expected to be permanent.

Just what has brought about the change of front in official France toward American films is not yet clear, beyond a willingness of the government to entertain the arguments of Will H. Hays, president of the Motion Picture Producers & Distributors of America, for reciprocity. Supporting these arguments, probably, is the eloquent box-office report that greets the showing of several French films of the newer order in American cities. These films, while containing French dialogue, are of such a nature that they are easily enjoyed by those who are not able to follow the words.

Similarly, the American films which have been best liked in France in recent months have been those that did not fall within what might be called the conversational class, where the words indeed would have been an obstacle to the spectators' pleasure. American films setting forth lively action that pretty well told its own story, with a well-played musical background, are decidedly popular in Paris. Some films of this sort have even surpassed in drawing power American-made films in which French-speaking players were used as a means of supplying the theaters in France. Even under the quota 237 American "features" were admitted to France last year. The same condition has been observed in Quebec, where there is a preponderant French-speaking population and American films with English speech share approval with the French language pictures, when the telling of the story does not depend too closely on understanding the words.

So the talking picture has been solving its international problem in the course of the development of the sound films from the early days when they were advertised as all dialogue until the present, when dialogue is becoming more and more subservient to action that all but explains itself, and music has been given a major place as a considerable if not a continuous part of the entertainment. Often five minutes or more pass in the newer American pictures without a word spoken, the action proceeding without interruption against a background of special music or other "international" sound effects.

Recognition that the talking picture of today has become a world-wide form of entertainment, almost as intelligible as the silent film was in the old days, and more entertaining because of the addition of sound and improved photographic effects, may believably be behind this new move in France.—Christi, an Science Monitor.

In the Political Arena

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD

Over 40,000 Mexicans who had been residents of the United States returned to Mexico from the port of Laredo alone. One thousand were deported. Thirty-nine thousand went back with all the automobiles loaded with members of their families while others went on trucks loaded with household goods, radios, and all that go to add to the comforts of home. These Texas Mexicans who joined the great exodus, according to the Laredo Times, responded to the call of Mexico for her native sons to return to develop the vast agricultural resources of that country and engage in other pursuits. There were some of these repatriates who reached the Mexican border without funds but the Times say that they were few in number. "Back to Mexico" was the slogan of many. They had prospered in Texas. Then came the depression. They were wise. They returned to their homeland where

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Political speculation anent his major movements annoys and sometimes incenses President Hoover, but there is no getting around the fact that this debt suspension plan is likely to have the most important domestic political effect among all the things Hoover has done.

The president's friends in journalism and in politics say that, laudable as it may be to forget politics at certain times and obvious as it is that domestic political considerations did not inspire the proposal for a one-year debt-reparations moratorium, you can't exactly ignore the fact that it may make a difference in the result of the next presidential campaign and is reasonably sure to change a widely anticipated picture of the next session of Congress.

Strengthens Position

As far as the world-wide depression is concerned—and that is what concerns everyone, in and out of politics, the most-general opinion is that the moratorium is reasonably certain to do more good than harm. Snags may be encountered toward the end of the suspension period and thereafter on account of the uncertainty as to what should next be done about debts and reparations, but Hoover's friends are convinced that his political position already has been strengthened at a time when it needed that badly and they hope that the results of the moratorium will be so obviously beneficial that the president can be pictured as a statesman who stepped in and saved the world at a moment of crisis.

Republican politicians, naturally enough, will make what political capital they can out of the Hoover move. The non-partisan aspect which Mr. Hoover has undertaken to give it also attached to a considerable degree to his conference of business and industrial leaders after the stock market panic, his congressional relief program and the American participation in the London naval conference. But even though the success of those measures provides as many controversial questions the Republicans have boasted of Hoover's part in them all. And they have a right to do so because it's their administration. Even if the moratorium doesn't pan out as well as hoped the next campaign will find the Hoover forces believing and insisting that their leader saved the country from a worse panic than we had, averted much more unemployment and misery, headed off another naval race and finally prevented world financial and economic chaos.

That Extra Session

Already you find James Francis Burke, counsel for the Republican National Committee, asserting in the same breath that party leaders can't afford to try to convert the president's action into partisan advantage but that "its obvious political advantage cannot be escaped."

The possible effects on Capitol Hill include an early extra session of Congress, a more orderly session than had been expected, stronger sentiment for a tax increase and a situation which, if it does not put any damper on partisan fights, may take the edge off anti-administration attacks.

Mr. Hoover has opposed an extra session all along, but it is thought that he would have no particular reason to object to calling Congress in two or three weeks ahead of time if it seemed necessary in order to get congressional action on the moratorium plan before the next debt payments are due Dec. 15. Congress is scheduled to meet on the 7th and delay in organizing the closely divided House has been anticipated. The president's poll of individual members is regarded as partly an attempt to line up a majority behind the proposal so that the necessary legislation may be put through immediately, but most innocent bystanders don't see quite how it can be done.

DESTROYER LAUNCHED
MALMO, Sweden, July 7.—The latest addition to the Swedish navy, the destroyer "Klas Horn", has been launched here at the Kockum yard named for a famous Swedish naval hero of the 16th Century, the vessel has a displacement of about 1,000 tons. It is armed with three 12-centimeter guns, two 40-millimeter automatic guns and three triple 20-peders.

BUMPER CROPS TO PUT SOUTH BACK ON FEET

By MERRILL E. COMPTON
United Press Staff Correspondent

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 7.—Twelve months after the worst drought in the history of the south, business, agricultural and community leaders are looking to prosperity by the means of bumper crops.

The 1930 drought began in May and lasted upwards of 100 days. This year, however, danger of a south-wide drought has been dissipated by sectional rains that have fallen intermittently.

Furthermore, reports do not alone deal with cotton, for the past many years the sole crop of the south, but tell of progress of gardens, hay and grain crops, potatoes, small fruits and orchard stuffs.

Delta Country.
The Mississippi delta, rich cotton producing territory, is planted to other crops for the first time in many years. A large hay crop was harvested early this spring from delta lands, and oats as tall as a man are a common sight.

Agricultural leaders in Arkansas have already given officials of the American Red Cross assurance that that state will be self sustaining this winter, the reason being that thousands of household gardens have been planted and barnyard fowl and animals are being raised.

The Red Cross took the initiative in this campaign last winter, when thousands of packages of seeds were distributed free of charge. Alongside of this campaign, state, county and community agricultural workers began an educational campaign towards proper garden handling.

Other States.
While Arkansas, perhaps, received most publicity because of the sufferings of its stricken farmers, conditions in parts of Mississippi and in western Tennessee were as serious.

In each of these two sections the crops are reported in good condition. Corn, beans, and other garden truck are reported in good condition and, with normal rainfall, will prosper.

Credit conditions, while hampering many farmers this spring, have resulted in two benefits to the south generally: the original producer was forbidden by lack of credit from farming and, secondly, marginal land heretofore planted, though its return was small, was utilized this year.

JAP PRINCE WILL MARRY COMMONER

TOKIO, July 7.—For the second time, a prince of the imperial household of Japan has found a wife outside of the peerage.

This time, however, he is not a prince of the Imperial Blood, as was Prince Chichibu, but a member of the former royal house of Korea, which has been incorporated with the household of Japan's ruler since the annexation of the peninsula in 1910. Prince Ri Ken is shortly to marry Miss Yoshiko Matsudaira, daughter of a captain in the Japanese navy.

Miss Matsudaira was the youngest of the five girls sent to the United States last summer by a Tokio newspaper to express gratitude to the American people for their aid during the earthquake and fire of 1923. She was chosen to take part in this mission because of her beauty and because of proficiency in tennis, swimming, piano playing, fencing and flower arrangement. She is now 20.

Prince Ri Ken is a son of the elder brother of the former King of Korea. No formal announcement of the engagement has yet been made, but it is understood that the Imperial household department will offer no objections, although Miss Matsudaira is a commoner by birth. After she is married to Prince Ri Ken, the emperor will elevate her to the peerage and decorate her with a Court rank.

The other commoner princess in the Imperial household is Princess Chichibu, wife of the heir apparent to the emperor and the oldest of his three brothers.

WILL TOUR STATES

MIAMI, Fla., July 7. — Dr. Austrello Athayde, Brazilian journalist, has arrived here for a tour of the United States in which he will study American industries and tell his people of the manner in which the products they purchase are manufactured.

San Diego — Beautification of campus underway.

Blind Solon Is Reconciled

AUSTIN, July 7.—Representative Olen Van Zandt of Tipton, blind member of the Texas legislature, has brought himself to face the remainder of his life as contentedly as possible without attempts to regain sight.

"I do not see any hope for me in the recent wonderful cases of sight restoration that have been reported recently," said Van Zandt.

"I did have hopes at one time. In 1918 a noted French surgeon was working wonders in my type of blindness. I had fully intended to consult him as soon as I could do so. That was during the World war. He carried on his surgery among the wounded soldiers. While thus engaged he was killed. None has been able to duplicate his work."

Despite his blindness, Van Zandt practices law and is probably more familiar with the contents of bills before the legislature than any other member. So acute has he become to voice differences that he replies by name to members who speak in the house. Mrs. Van Zandt, who accompanies him, reads all bills to him in complete form.

DONKEY TOURISTS

BOLZANO, July 7. — Leeuwpool, a Dutchman who plans to travel around the world with his family in a donkey car, has arrived here. The party consists of De Leeuwpool and his wife, two boys and a three-months-old baby. The family has already traveled 18,000 miles with the assistance of two donkeys and one mule.

48 POUND SALMON

GRONHOGEN, Oland, Sweden, July 7. — A salmon weighing 48 pounds has been caught off Gronhogen in the Baltic Sea. This place, located on the Swedish island of Oland, is a favorite with fishermen. Last year a sturgeon weighing 440 pounds was hauled up not far from Gronhogen.

PARTY TO CONVENE

MONTE NE, Ark., July 7. — W. H. "Coin" Harvey, advocate of "free silver" and head of the recently formed "New Political Party" announced recently the party would hold its convention for selection of a presidential candidate here August 25. He expects 10,000 to attend.

CHURCH ART ON DISPLAY AT CONVENTION

DENVER, July 7.—A gorgeous display of ecclesiastical art will be exhibited here during the triennial convention of the Episcopal church in September.

Rich hangings, stained windows, embroidered vestments, mosaics, carved wood, wrought iron and sculpture, silver chalices and alms basins from many nations will make a veritable treasure house of Chapel House art museum.

Such a display never before has been attempted at the conventions of the church. It has been planned by the Denver Art commission, aided by other Colorado groups.

Much of the evolution of the art of printing, which began with publication of ecclesiastical documents, will be traced in a special arrangement of typographical displays showing the development of artistic printing for church usage.

The commission has planned to bring one exhibit from Sweden, which was termed "the best available example of individual craftsmanship."

American church art will be exhibited chiefly as photographs of cathedrals "to show the relation of the church to the architectural life of America, especially during the last 20 years." In this connection reference was made to the Trinity Church, Boston; the new York Cathedral, and the Cathedral at Washington.

These in charge of the display pointed out that Colorado was the first to organize the work of the church in the art world. Much of this early work was done by Miss Elizabeth Spalding, daughter of Rt. Rev. John Franklin Spalding, one of the pioneer bishops of Colorado.

She organized the Church Art Commission of Colorado. Herself an artist, Miss Spalding interested influential church members in the work of the commission and it later was continued as a national movement.

TAXI JAUNT COST $400

LONDON, July 7. — Delighted with the comfort found in a short trip by taxi, Mrs. A. M. Plant, of Manchester, decided to spend her holiday in a taxi jaunt. Five weeks after she had stepped up to a rank and engaged J. F. Child, taxi driver, the pair returned to London. The car covered a distance of more than 1,800 miles and the trip cost Mrs. Plant about $400.

Consider your Adam's Apple!!*

Don't Rasp Your Throat With Harsh Irritants

"Reach for a LUCKY instead"

Place your finger on your Adam's Apple. You are actually touching your larynx—this contains your voice box—your vocal chords.

From the report of a famous scientist who studied the effects of LUCKY STRIKE'S exclusive "TOASTING" Process—

"During the course of some recent investigations... we became interested to ascertain whether Ultra Violet Rays produced any change in the quality of the cigarettes. It may interest you to know that I was able to detect a very definite difference in the irritant qualities of the treated and untreated cigarettes. Several tests were made, not only on myself, but others as well, and we experienced little difficulty in selecting the treated or irradiated cigarettes as distinctly less irritating to the mucous membrane of the nose and pharynx than the control or untreated cigarettes."

Sunshine mellows—heat purifies—that's why LUCKY STRIKE'S exclusive "TOASTING" Process includes the use of modern Ultra Violet Rays. Remember—LUCKY STRIKE is the only cigarette in America that brings you the added benefits of "TOASTING". And so we say "Consider your Adam's Apple". Be careful in your choice of cigarettes.

YESTERDAY, TODAY OR NEXT WEEK

When an advertiser puts his trade-mark on a product and his money behind it, he wraps his reputation into the package. That is why the purchaser of advertised goods can take an unvarying standard of quality for granted.

Look through the advertising columns of this newspaper and notice the number of established products you see listed there. As you read the name of each one, you form an instant mental picture. Its size, color, shape, flavor and quality are known factors, as staple as wheat. You know that whether you buy the article today or next week, it will be precisely what you want---the same uniformly good product that gave you satisfaction when last you used it.

That is one of the tremendous advantages that advertising has brought you as a consumer. You know before you buy that the maker, whose business success is tied up with his product, will see that quality is maintained. You know that if any change is made in an advertised article it will be to improve it---to give you even greater value for your money.

THERE are reasons for this—Firestone is now building the Greatest Tire Values in history, with the result that Firestone factories are operating 24 hours a day, 6 days a week, to meet public preference.

This is the year everybody is scrutinizing his purchases. This is particularly true in tire buying because of the many confusing and misleading statements made about tires.

When they saw the facts, they bought more Firestone tires during April, May and June than in any like period in Firestone history.

Heart of Liane

By MABEL McELLIOTT

Liana Barrett, 18 and beautiful, lives in a cramped New York apartment with her mother, Cass Barrett, a rather faded actress. On a hot night Liane goes to dinner with Molly Cronin, a neighbor, and two of Molly's men friends. There is a shooting and the girl is held as a witness. She sends a note to her mother who arrives and persuades Shane McDermid, the young policeman in charge, that Liane is innocent of wrongdoing. That night at the theater where Cass is playing Liane encounters a handsome stranger who speaks her name.

A few days later Cass and Liane go to Willow Stream, L. I., where Cass has an engagement in a small summer theater sponsored by wealthy Mrs. Cleespaugh, a widow with one son, Clive. Liane works in the box office, sharing duties with Muriel Ladd, pretty society girl.

At Muriel's home Liane again meets the handsome stranger who spoke to her in the theater. He is Van Robard, but when Liane mentions him her mother makes Liane promise to have nothing more to do with him.

Her convent training stood her in good stead. She had been taught to be neat, methodical, orderly. She was clever at figures and she wrote a clear, feminine script.

"Honestly there isn't enough to keep anyone really busy," the girl thought as her slim fingers worked busily, surely, among the papers on the old walnut desk. She was puzzled at Mrs. Cleespaugh's desire to have her there. "It's probably more because she's lonely than for any other reason," she decided. Their afternoons were given over mostly to driving. If her employer was very tired Liane read to her in the late afternoon. If there were visitors Liane poured tea. Sometimes she worked in the rose garden, snipping leaves, spraying the bushes with a villainous mixture. In the morning, too, she was expected to replace the blooms in the drawing room and study with fresh ones. This was a joy, not work, really. Yes, she was happy here.

And yet there was a restlessness under Liane's quiet contentment. She had the feeling she was waiting, watching for something to happen.

"Hello," said a quiet voice. She looked up. Clive, the son of the house, dripping in his tennis flannels, stepped through the French window that gave on the terrace.

"Hot!" he said sighing and wiping his forehead.

"Isn't it?" agreed Liane. She looked up at him smiling and thinking she had never seen the tall, shy young man look so well. He held a white sweater on his arm. His fair hair fell in a damp, curling forelock over his forehead.

"Heard from Elsie?" he wanted to know.

Liane frowned. "I had a letter—let's see?—on Monday, from Boston," she said. "From Mother. She said Elsie threatened to write me soon." "They've been gone just a week," she reminded him.

"Yes, I know." His tone sounded careless, but as he went on, with a smile and a nod for her, she couldn't help wondering how deep had his flirtation with Elsie gone? The actress was beautiful in a lush, ripe way. "She's the sort," Liane thought artlessly, "that men must go simply mad about." This particular young man seemed so shy, so reticent, one couldn't guess how seriously his feelings were involved.

"He's nice," she decided. Yes, that was exactly the word for Clive. Not exciting probably but good, dependable. She hoped, quite gravely, that Elsie hadn't trifled with his young affections. Elsie had a way of doing such things.

Mrs. Cleespaugh rustled in on the stroke of 11. Her white hair was piled high. She was majestic in lilac-colored swiss, her lorgnette dangling from a tiny platinum chain.

"Good child, to get through all that stack," she approved, flicking the pile of checks and sitting down to sign them. "I thought we'd drive to Easthampton for luncheon. It's sticky, isn't it? Has my son put in an appearance yet?"

Liane told her Clive had gone up to change.

"Ah, then perhaps he'll join us," said the old lady in a tone of quiet satisfaction. "By the way, my dear, I haven't given you your salary yet. I think it would be better, perhaps, if I arranged to make that a weekly matter."

"Salary?" Liane stammered.

"But I thought—mother understood my living was enough."

"Nonsense!" said Mrs. Cleespaugh disdainfully. "You're being a most efficient secretary. Certainly you're to have a salary. How does $30 a week seem to you?"

"It seems magnificent!" faltered the young girl, almost overcome. Why with that she could do magic things! She could save, put by a nest egg for her mother. She could buy herself new gloves. And her shoes were shabby. Perhaps she flushed painfully at the thought—perhaps Mrs. Cleespaugh had noticed that fact.

The old lady was observing her shrewdly. "You're earning it, my dear, I assure you," she said with satisfaction. "No qualms are necessary."

Mrs. Cleespaugh touched a bell rope. When the fresh-faced Irish girl in her apple green uniform and crisp, ruffled apron appeared, the woman said, "Tell Mr. Clive I wish to see him when he is ready."

"He's out by the stables, Ma'am," the rosy girl reported in a few moments. "Wan of the mares has a distemper, and Mr. Clive says he don't know will be able to come for a bit, he's that busy."

Mrs. Cleespaugh rapped her eyeglasses sharply on the gleaming desk. "Tell him I said to come at once. It's frightfully important."

Liane was disturbed. She had never seen the old lady in this mood. Perhaps this manner of his mother's explained the young man's sudden shynesses, his hesitations and withdrawals. Liane sat quiet, hardly daring to lift her eyes.

"Want to see me, Mother?" The girl looked up to see Clive, still in his damp and crumpled tennis things, standing in the doorway.

"Certainly did. I want you to dress and lunch with us. We haven't a minute to spare. Leave the animal to Kelly and hurry."

Then, being young, she forgot that guilty feeling and proceeded to enjoy herself wholly. Mrs. Cleespaugh had said autocratically, "I never come down to breakfast. Never appear before eleven in fact. Perhaps you'd like to have a tray in your room?"

Liane had agreed that that would be delightful. Quiet and tractable as became the young companion of an aristocratic old lady.

"I'm going to be happy here," Liane decided suddenly with one of those rare flashes of prescience which come occasionally to all of us. Why she believed that she couldn't have said. Nevertheless she did.

She got into her old, crisp white linen presently. Her dark hair was damp from the shower. It curled and shapely fell delightfully under her skilful fingers. "Poor girls are the ones who should be born with a natural wave," Liane reflected, thankful this was so in her case. "It's only the rich ones who can afford a hairdresser once a week."

She went down into the study where she began her morning task of straightening out the accounts, sorting mail, slitting the envelopes which she knew contained bills.

French Plan Farmers' Dole

PARIS, July 7. — The French Parliament has under consideration three projects to provide farmers with a bad-weather dole.

Too heavy rains, or not enough, long dry spells which burn the fields, mildew, gales which tear off roofs, or floods which carry off livestock, are all to be followed by immediate cash payments.

The plan calls for the creation of a National Fund for Agricultural Calamities, and the word calamities covers all atmospheric accidents. It is proposed that the farmers join a mutual insurance group, with which the National government would cooperate and advance money.

Hitherto, Parliament has voted relief credits on the occasion of important floods and cyclones, extending the relief to the colonies. Small atmospheric calamities, however, never obtain the government's relief aid, and it is to aid these sufferers that the National fund is designed.

Last year Parliament voted money for the victims of the Garonne flood, the worst in French history. Credits of 25,000,000 francs were also opened for the victims of the Fourviers landslide at Lyons, due to continued rains. Two million francs are also earmarked in the current budget for relief of farmers suffering crop damage.

CAUGHT WITH PLIERS
MULLINS, N. C., July 7. — There are six trustworthy witnesses who will swear that Robert Leggett, fishing for trout in the Suwanee River, near Habersham, Ga., caught one by hooking a pair of pliers onto its tail and hooking a gill with his other hand. It weighed 10 1-2 pounds, and was found lazily breasting a shallow current.

Doggone, its fun to study when a feller wants to and not because teachers say he must. Which accounts for Billy Davison of Oakland Calif., giving vacation time attention to a book with only Hamlet, his Great Dane friend, to look at. It must be deep literature, too, judging by Hamlet's expression. And you can't blame a dog with a name like that for being interested in writing.

ARMY MULES GIVE BRAYS FOR EL PASO

EL PASO, July 7.—The U. S. army mules and horses in the Eighth corps should give three hearty brays and neighs for the El Paso Chamber of Commerce.

As a result of the ceaseless work of the chamber of commerce, the mules and horses, starting July 1, will have their alfalfa rations increased 100 per cent.

Before the chamber succeeded in obtaining war department officials aroused to the feed situation of the animals, hay rations for the mules and horses consisted of 75 per cent prairie hay and 25 per cent alfalfa hay.

Beginning July 1, each mule and horse receives 14 pounds of hay a day, seven of which will be alfalfa. Proponents of more alfalfa argued that on account of the high protein content of alfalfa the government would save on the cost bill.

At the same time, it is expected that the horses and mules will cooperate in eating all the alfalfa hay, and thus increase the price, which is now at rock bottom.

Representatives of Texas, New Mexico and Arizona co-operated in making the more alfalfa campaign of the chamber a success.

The old lady's voice was imperative. Clive said, unperturbed, "So that was it! Sorry, I am not lurching with you today." He turned on his heel. His jaw had taken on a hard line. His voice crackled. "Clive, did you hear me?"

He wheeled and now Liane saw from behind her veiled lashes that his blue eyes were blazing. "I heard and I'm going," he rapped out. "No scenes, please. I'm a bit weary of them."

He was gone.

"Bravo!" Liane applauded him in her heart. Yet she felt sorry for the old woman, who sat, staring at the closed door.

KNEW NOT "HYMEN"

SELMA, Ala., July 7.—Two bachelors, Moses Lillenthal, president of the Exchange club here, and A. H. Mitchell, prominent Rotarian, were defeated in an interclub spelling "bee" when they failed on "hymen". When it was explained to Lillenthal that "Hymen" was the God of Marriage, he admitted he never had heard of it.

REPORT BIG SNAKE

MIAMI, Fla., July 7.—Two Miamians came in from the Everglades recently with a report they had seen a huge snake, at least 15 feet long, 10 inches in diameter, which looked like a log lying across the road. Experts believed it was a Gopher snake, but the discoverers temporarily called it "Glade Snake."

Seymour—Representatives from cities along route of proposed Canada-Gulf highway attended meeting here recently in interest of project.

Jefferson—Cucumbers being salted at local plant.
