Intended Abduction Victim Shoots Down 4 Assailants

THREE DEAD AND FOURTH MAY SUCCUMB

ATLANTA, Tex., Sept. 18. — Two men were arrested this afternoon in connection with the attempted kidnaping of J. H. Boyd, 50, who killed three men, frustrating the kidnaping.

J. N. Alexander, living near the gasoline service station of Boyd, and Joe Luce, of Bloomsburg, brother of one of the dead men, were arrested on charges assault to murder and kidnaping.

ATLANTA, Tex., Sept. 18. — A shooting cry between four purported abductors and their intended victim resulted today in the death of three of the supposed kidnapers, perhaps fatal wounding of the fourth and the wounding of the victim, J. H. Boyd, 50, filling station operator.

The first that was known of the killing was when Boyd staggered into a doctor's office about midnight, seeking medical attention, and told of the attempt to kidnap him, resulting in the death of:

Harry Luce, 45; Bill Fish, 38, Boyd's step-son, and Early Sullivan.

A brother of Early Sullivan, Bill, is in a Shreveport hospital and may not recover.

"One of the men came to my station about 11 last night," said Boyd, "and declared their car had run out of gasoline. I went to the station and returned with him with a can of gasoline."

"Two men were in the parked car and one on the road. One grabbed me and struck me over the head, but it did not knock me unconscious."

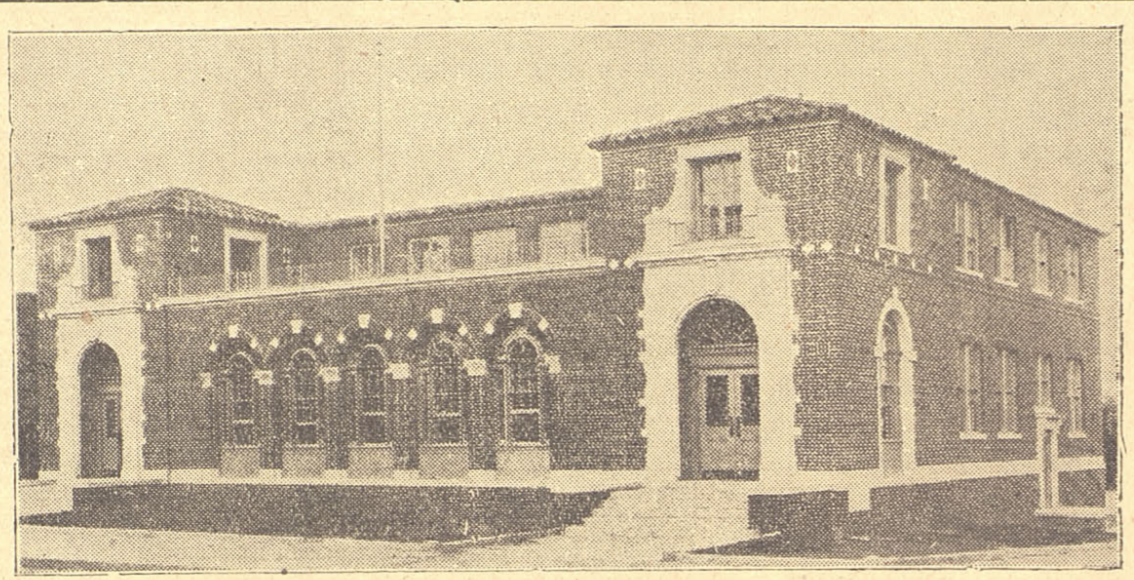

Boyd drew his 38 calibre revolver and started shooting. As he fired four shots two men slumped. A bullet then tore into his right arm, breaking it as his attackers returned the fire. He changed the pistol to his left hand and fired two more shots, one killing the third attacker and the other perhaps fatally wounding Bill Sullivan.

Another bullet laid a furrow across Boyd's chest, but so quickly did he route them that his assailants had little time to shoot back. Boyd then drove back to Atlanta for police and medical attention, leaving the dead and wounded where they had fallen.

In the struggle Boyd said they produced what appeared to be a sack, but he avoided their attempt to emmesh him in it. Boyd is expected to recover.

Trouble over the division of family property is believed to have prompted the attempted kidnaping. The alleged abductors were led by Fish, Boyd's stepson.

BANKER KEPT CAPTIVE; $5,000 IS OBTAINED

MILTON JUNCTION, Wis., Sept. 18. — Four bandits who installed themselves in the home of John A. Paul, president of the Farmer's bank late yesterday, and held Paul and his family captives all night obtained $5,000 from the bank today and escaped.

Paul was at home alone when the bank bandits arrived, threatened him with guns and forced him into a bedroom. When his two sons and a daughter arrived they were herded into the bedroom with him.

The daughter, Miss Janet Paul, a former University of Wisconsin co-ed, said today she was amazed at the bandits' courtesy.

At 7 o'clock this morning they made one of the sons, Malcolm, accompany them to the bank and tied up the others.

Monday will be the final day for the construction of sanitary pit toilets before the ordinance requiring this type of toilet instead of the surface type, goes into effect Tuesday.

The city health department today said that quite a number of citizens have so far failed to comply with a revival meeting at Eastland Church of Christ Sunday morning at 11 a. m., which will continue until Sunday night week.

Arrangements have not been completed for the day services but evening services will be at 7:30 each day.

This will be the fourth revival meeting the Rev. Busby has conducted in Eastland at this church. He is a forceful speaker and considered one of the ablest ministers in his church. He is well known here and admired by all.

A cordial invitation is extended to everyone to attend this series of meetings and take part in them.

WORLD WAR VETS TREK TO CONVENTION

DETROIT, Sept. 18. — Men who fought through Belleau Wood, clumped through the mud of Flanders, faced death at Chateau Thierry and helped to crack the Hindenburg line, today were preparing to march on Detroit.

But where the American soldiers fought every foot of the way in those battles of 13 and 14 years ago, they will be received with open armed hospitality when they reach here for the American Legion convention, Sept. 21-24.

Already the city and its Canadian neighbor, Windsor, where many of the legionnaires will be quartered, are taking on a gala appearance for the reception and entertainment.

Largest Convention The convention is expected to surpass in numerical strength any of the past national gatherings of the organization. Each year the meeting has attracted more members, and the 80,000 odd who went to Boston last year probably will be eclipsed by the Detroit crowds.

Arrangements for housing the 100,000 visitors virtually are complete. Hotels and apartment houses have been taken over for the week of the convention. Thousands will be temporarily housed in a city of Pullmans, and many will be quartered across the Detroit river in Windsor.

For those who drive their own automobiles, parking privileges and camping facilities will be extended. Officials also have arranged for free parking at the various airports for legionnaires who come by plane.

A full card of sports, tours and other entertainment will keep occupied those who pass up the business sessions and leave the heavier burdens of the convention to the actual delegates. Bowling tournaments, golf, dances, boat races at Belle Isle, baseball games and tours will be daily entertainments, while the antics of the Forty and Eight and of the various state delegations are expected to keep the city in a whoopee whirl.

Big Day The big day of the convention will be Sept. 22, when the mammoth parade will be held. Six hours were required at Boston for the parade to pass a given point, but with Detroit's wider streets, officials say the parade will pass more quickly, even though it may be longer.

General John J. Pershing is to lead the parade in an automobile driven by Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, who before he became America's outstanding air ace, was General Pershing's first chauffeur in France. On this day hundreds of visitors are expected to drive to Detroit from Michigan, Ohio and Indiana. Police officials estimate more than 2,000,000 persons will watch the parade.

Final Contests Finals in the band and fife and drum contests will be held Sept. 23 at Navin Field, where 40,000 can be accommodated. The main sessions of the convention are scheduled for Olympic Arena, the mammoth indoor hockey rink and fight stadium, while lesser meetings of committees and groups will be in hotels and at the Masonic Temple.

Dinners, luncheons and breakfasts for distinguished guests, city officials and officers of the legion will be held daily. The usual dinner given by the national commander, Ralph T. O'Neal, to distinguish guests, will be Monday night.

BONDHOLDER ENVOYS GO BACK HOME

Three representatives of a New York group, claiming to represent over $3,000,000 in Cisco municipal bonds, left here yesterday a somewhat discouraged trio after an investigation that covered three days.

The three men, C. P. Bullard, New York City; Henry E. Poor, Cincinnati, C., and H. W. Pitkin, of Des Moines, Ia., arrived Tuesday eager for a conference at Dallas following a personal survey of the Cisco territory, but they left yesterday without requesting the conference.

Instead, loaded with records pertaining to city financial affairs, tax lists and audit sheets, they told Mayor J. T. Berry that it would probably be six months before the city heard from them again.

Nothing of any consequence developed at a conference between the three men and members of the commission yesterday morning.

The bondholder representatives inquired if the commission had any proposition to make and were told that the commission did not. They, themselves, had no idea in mind, it was revealed, and the conference was devoted merely to further interrogation of the officials on local resources and conditions which might affect settlement of the more than $4,500,000 public debt.

No Agreement No agreement on the suit in which the bondholder group is plaintiff and which is scheduled to come up in federal court at Abilene next month was reached. The three men explained that the litigation was in the hands of their attorneys and that these attorneys would deal with it.

Opinion of Mayor J. T. Berry and some other members of the commission interviewed was that the visit of the three representatives accomplished nothing beyond impressing upon the visitors the practical impossibility of Cisco to meet the staggering obligations with which the city is confronted. From that standpoint it was said to have been fortunate that the bondholder representatives came to Cisco rather than meeting Cisco representatives in New York.

One proposal made by a member of the visiting trio and not taken seriously was that Cisco undertake the normal payment of $1,500,000 of its total bonded indebtedness, with the remaining more than $3,000,000 postponed into the future in the nature of a bumper obligation to be taken up when and if more prosperous conditions made the city able to do that.

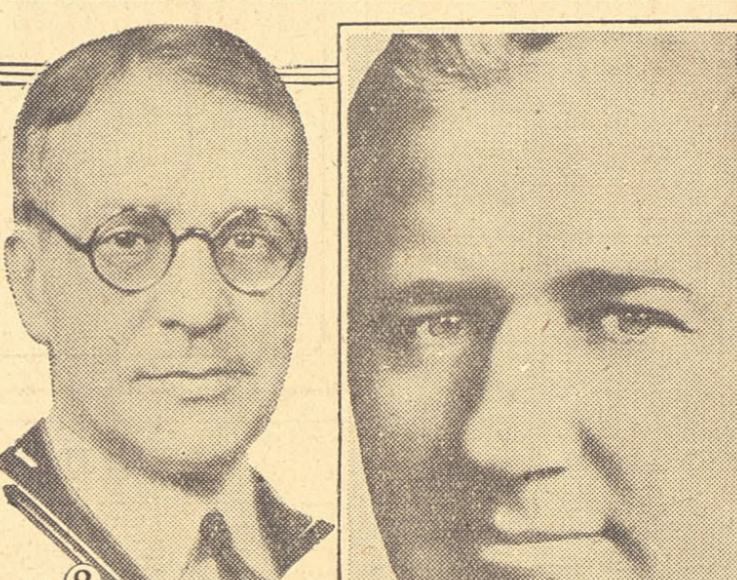

A great deal of additional information dealing with the city was requested by the representatives and is being prepared for submission to them at New York.

Miss Andres Speaks To Rotary Club Miss Ella Andres of the high school faculty entertained the Cisco Rotary club yesterday noon with an interesting account of her trip to Mexico City the past summer with a party of Americans, for advanced courses in Spanish at the University of Mexico. She was presented by Leon Maner, who was chairman of the program committee for the day.

She described Mexico as she had seen it during her stay in the capital and travels through the country and gave her impressions of the nation which is rich in natural wealth and promises as civilization advances to develop into a great country. She declared herself favorably impressed with what she saw and with Mexico's future.

PLAN LIMIT PRODUCTION AUSTIN, Sept. 18. — Plans to stabilize the oil industry by limiting Texas production to 800,000 barrels a day were discussed in the office of Gov. Ross Sterling for two and a half hours today.

Notables to Speak at Legion Meet

Eyes right, Detroit, the Yanks are coming! Here are some of the notables who will attend the American Legion's national convention there Sept. 21-24.

Ralph T. O'Neil (1) is national commander of the legion. Among the principal speakers will be (2) Newton D. Baker, war-time secretary of war; (3) Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball czar; (4) Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs, and (5) Major Edward L. White, president of ETDAC (international organization of World War veterans of 10 nations).

SATURDAY IS BIG DAY AS TRADES CAMPAIGN BEGINS

Tomorrow is the big day! Many hundreds of people are expected to gather in front of the Webster Wholesale Grocery building on East Seventh street at 7 o'clock Saturday evening and hear the Cisco Lobo band play an hour's concert.

Between numbers many presents will be given away to people in the audience, these presents having been donated by Cisco's business men.

Ted R. Smith, who has been employed for this special trades day campaign, promises a large attendance of out of town people as well as Cisco residents. Mr. Smith has attended the community fairs held at Scranton and Pleasant Hill and the trades day events have been well advertised in these communities.

Thousands of circulars have been scattered over the various sections of Cisco's trade territory, which fact is expected to bring many people to Cisco for this first entertainment feature of a series which is to be repeated each Saturday night and on First Mondays in the afternoon at 4 o'clock.

More elaborate entertainment features are promised by Mr. Smith as the campaign progresses. He will likely treat these crowds to one of his thrilling stunts of walking the ledge on one of Cisco's tall buildings or of driving a car blindfolded—stunts that he has put on many times.

Come to Cisco, see the special features that Cisco merchants are offering special offerings of merchandise at unusually good values—and an entertainment that all are sure to appreciate.

ONE-THIRD MEASURE IN HOUSE VOTED

AUSTIN, Sept. 18. — The Texas senate today adopted its bill restricting cotton planting for the next two years to a fourth of the cultivated acreage by a vote of 19 to 8.

The one-fourth restriction bill was offered as an amendment to the house bill, which would restrict cotton planting to a third of the tilled soil.

The amended bill will probably be returned to the house late today and a conference committee called to determine which of the two percentage bills more nearly affects a 50 per cent cut in the Texas cotton crop, which is the aim of proponents of both figures.

Twelve minutes after a messenger from the house announced the house had passed the one-third measure, the senate agricultural committee returned a favorable report on the bill. The senate did not even stand at ease to permit the committee to deliberate. Instead debate proceeded on the senate bill as Senator Oliver Cunningham, of Abilene, chairman of the agricultural committee, hurried from desk to desk to obtain the favorable report.

WON'T RECALL LEGISLATURE. BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 18. — Any plan for cotton acreage reduction is unconstitutional and unenforceable and there is "not a chance under God's sun of my calling the Louisiana legislature back into session to adopt a reduction measure similar to the one passed in Texas," Gov. Huey P. Long, author of the no-cotton proposal said here today.

J. M. RAY, 77, PIONEER HERE, DIES TODAY J. M. Ray, pioneer resident of this section, died at his home, eight miles north of Cisco on the Breckenridge highway, this morning.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 3 o'clock at the Church of Christ at Eighth street and H avenue. The Rev. Cole Jackson, of Moran, assisted by the Rev. Paul Witt, pastor of the church, will officiate. Green Funeral home is in charge of burial arrangements.

Mr. Ray was for 50 years a citizen of Stephens and Eastland counties. Four children survive. They are: W. H. Ray, J. W. Ray, J. B. Ray and Mrs. E. E. Daniels, all of this city. His wife died January 8, 1931.

In addition to the children, 11 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren survive.

New Water and Sewer Lines Built Completion of 1,500 feet of water lines and 1,100 feet of sewer lines in the south part of the city was announced today by City Engineer Reagan. Work has been started immediately on 3,000 feet of new water line and 300 feet of new sewer line in the north part of the city.

A. C. Green Recovers From Sudden Attack A. C. Green, Cisco mortician, was reported recovering at his home this afternoon following a heart attack suffered while at the McDonald Hardware company store about 10:30 this morning.

He was carried to his home by friends and a physician summoned immediately. He recovered quickly after the attack.

TAX BILL IS SENT UP BY GOV. STERLING

AUSTIN, Sept. 18. — Gov. Ross Sterling today changed his repeated announcement that he would not "submit a frazzling thing more" to the legislature and sent up a bill fixing the state tax rate at "not to exceed 69 cents." That is the present rate. The possible rate under existing law is 77 cents. The 69-cent bill would result in a 27-cent rate for general state purposes as 35 cents goes to schools, and seven cents to Confederate pensions.

Two Fined on Vagrancy Charges

Mose and Goldie Tolliver, colored, charged with vagrancy in connection with the possession of beer for purposes of sale, were assessed fines in corporation court this morning. Police arrested them last night in a raid in which they said they found white men being served beer at the place.

DAILY BIBLE THOUGHT

THE ROAD TO WANT:—He that oppressteth the poor to increase his riches, and he that giveth to the rich, shall surely come to want.—Prov. 22: 16.

GIVE GOD THE BEST:—Honor the Lord with thy substance, and with the first fruits of all thine increase.—Proverbs 3: 9.

THEY'LL WORK IF THEY EAT.

Williamson county's grand jury wants prisoners put to work, rather than left lying out sentences in the comfortable shade of the jail. The body recommended restoring what has come to be known as the chain-gang, that is, use of prisoners on county roads. It wants prisoners to work if they are to eat at county expense.

This type of labor hasn't proved very useful, at best. Old abuses of hiring out prisoners to private enterprises have been abolished permanently.

The main effect would be spent upon the prisoners themselves.

Compulsory work would make Eastland county considerably more unpleasant for the vagrant, the prowler and the petty criminal, than the prospect of resting up at county expense in a comfortable jail. The men would come out in better shape, and the county would be a little better off. Nobody would be deprived of employment.

The more important feature of such a policy is that it would serve as a preventative for crime. Parodying Ben Franklin's celebrated axiom we have a saying not untrue that if you take care of the misdemeanors the felonies will take care of themselves. In other words vagrancy is the breeding ground for serious crimes. Prisoners who discover that a jail sentence means a work sentence are not apt to make the same mistake again.

USELESS TAXING.

A third of a million dollars saving is worth thinking about as a measure of farm relief or citizens' relief.

The people of Texas are now being compelled to pay out that much uselessly, and neither the county nor the state receives any part of it.

They are paying out that amount each year to buy the compulsory headlight certificate required before the annual registration of automobiles.

The testing stations get 15 cents of the amount. A county headlight license supervisor gets 10 cents.

In Eastland county, about $2,400 a year is taken out of the pockets of the citizens for headlight certificates on 9,500 trucks and cars.

The testing of headlights is perfunctory. In a few cases a light will be tilted down. The volume of light is not investigated, and the blinding glare of light that makes highways dangerous is never remedied by the tests. The driver, five minutes after the receipt is issued, could tilt his lights sky-high, and for another year nothing would be done about it.

Members of the legislature have attacked the law as worthless, and as unjust and inexcusable levy of money from citizens without benefit to the state or county, but have taken no action to repeal the law. When new registrations start for 1932, every old car in the state will be subject to a 25-cent assessment. All new cars also must be tested before initial license is granted.

It has been estimated there are 100 people in Texas being supported as county headlight supervisors, by this law. The supervisor issues permits to anywhere from one to 100 stations in a county, then has little to do but sit down and draw his yearly salary, occasionally furnishing one of the stations a pad of blanks, when requested.

Eastland county officials have pointed out that the county fund gets no part of the revenues from the headlight law's levy.

BLUEBONNET VINDICATED.

The Texas bluebonnet, official flower of Texas, has been acquitted of a grave charge. It has been vindicated; and it will flourish in all the glory of its majestic beauty.

It was accused of being a killer. Cattle growers had claimed that the bluebonnet poisoned livestock that fed upon it.

A. & M. college extension service sat as judge and jury. The charge was a grave one. If sustained, beauty would have had to give way to the beast; the bluebonnet, instead of gratifying one's eye, arousing his patriotism and uplifting his soul in rapture, would have been frowned upon with suspicion and outlawed.

A. & M. college officially has reported that a test was made of the charge that eating the bluebonnet gave cattle paralysis. An animal was led to the sacrificial altar of feeding upon the ambrosial flower. That animal, a fat steer, was fed on bluebonnet seed for 120 days, a total of 13 pounds of the seed. He showed no effects. He stands as supreme proof of the innocence of Lupinus Subcarneus.

Didn't they know that in the horny-handed lariat days of Texas the bluebonnet was known as buffalo clover, and recognized as an important part of the food of the herds? Didn't they know a flower so beautiful, one that on its merits compelled official recognition of the Texas legislature, would even lift a Texas longhorn into the realm of the ethereal for having grazed upon it?

More glory to the cerulean flower that brings gladness to man and no longer withers under the suspicion of causing harm to any beast. Maybe it was marihuana those cows ate.

OTHER OPINIONS

A MENACE OF THE ROAD

People differed about the abolition of slavery and they differ on the questions of abolition of war and prohibition, but there is no difference of opinion about the abolition of automobile accidents. The constant rising tide of death is not a theory but a fact. The daily list of dead and wounded tells its own story. The question which confronts this state and every other state is, "What are we going to do about it?" Are we going to accept the present situation as inevitable and as part of each day's toll of the machinery of civilization, as part of the price we must pay for progress? Are we simply to say the auto has come to stay, and let it go at that, or are we to bend all our energies and all our minds to the task of making the automobile safe a safe one in which to live?

Traffic is at its peak again, with longer lists of weekend accident casualties and more talk about accident prevention. It is a foregone conclusion that many of these traffic accidents, with their high percentage of fatalities are the result of defective motor cars. The amazing thing is that the public has suffered thousands of these death cars to carry on so long without inquiry into their inherent capacity for mischief. Only a few states have undertaken a universal inspection of motor vehicles. If railroads used such defective equipment, they would soon have no passengers. But for years automobiles lacking safety equipment have been permitted to dash up and down the streets and highways.

What is society to do with the driver who, to save the price of an adjustment of his brakes, lights or steering mechanism, will risk not only his own life, but the lives of many others? — Paris News.

LONG TELEPHONE CABLE

MALMO, Sweden, Sept. 18. — Sweden's longest submarine telephone cable has been laid between Barseback, near here, and Charlottenlund, in Denmark. It carries 54 wires in addition to a special wire for radio transmission. The cable weighs 300 metric tons and measures 22.2 kilometers (14 miles).

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON—The late Nicholas Longworth once expressed the thought that only the Creator could guess which party would organize the House and elect its next speaker. Longworth and several other members are since dead and the uncertainty has only increased.

The one difference in the situation which has developed since the demise of the last Congress, as regards the issue of party control, is that since Nick Longworth's death there has been a gradual growth of opinion that Democratic Floor Leader Jack Garner of Texas will stand an excellent chance of being elected to the speakership even if the Republicans continue to hold their bare majority of seats.

Garner's Advantage

Chief factors of uncertainty are the doubt as to the exact division of the 435 seats when Congress meets in December and the obvious fact that some men in each party do not believe that it is wise for their side of the aisle to take control unless it can help it.

Several things have served to promote the belief that Garner is a better bet than either of the principal Republican aspirants, Floor Leader John Q. Tilson and Chairman Bert Snell of the Rules Committee. First, there is Garner himself, who is certainly more popular and probably smarter than Tilson or Snell. Also, Garner is said to have a powerful and unrelenting yen for the speakership now that Longworth is gone. And, whereas Snell would not have the united support of Republican members even if there were no Tilson and Tilson wouldn't have it if there were no Snell, Garner has his Democrats well in hand—as well as Longworth used

In the Political Arena

BY THE POLITICAL ANALYST

Atty. Gen. James V. Alford called upon the county and district attorneys throughout Texas to investigate an avalanche of complaints by farmers into asserted violations by ginners and cottonseed buyers of anti-trust laws. He has invited all the officials to bring penalty suits wherever evidence is shown that unlawful agreements were made as to the price of ginning or the price paid for cottonseed. The suits have to be by authority and in the name of the attorney general's department, and Mr. Alford said he will issue specific authorization in each case.

Recently Mr. Alford himself filed the first of the suits against ginners of Travis, Williamson and Bastrop counties, and an oil mill at Elgin. "Since filing these suits," Mr. Alford said, "we have been overwhelmed with complaints from farmers all over Texas, and it is impossible for us to investigate all of them in the near future, and give to the farmers the relief to which they are entitled.

"The law authorizes a county or district attorney to investigate these violations of the law through courts of inquiry or the grand jury, or otherwise, under direction of the attorney general. I will appreciate their cooperation in this matter and suggest that any farmer or other person desiring to make a complaint take the same up with the county or district attorney at once. In this way they can probably get quicker action than through this department," he said.

"Some of the ginners," Mr. Alford said, "have tried to justify their action in fixing prices by stating to have the Republicans.

There are Republican insurgents who take their party label very lightly and there is Congressman Paul J. Kvale, the lone Farmer-Labor member from Minnesota. If the Democrats gain just one seat between now and December Mr. Kvale will find 217 Republicans on one side of him and 217 Democrats on the other side of him and if they all should happen to vote on strictly party lines when time comes to organize the House, Mr. Kvale would have the ultimate in strategic positions. Mr. Kvale might reasonably be expected to be buried under a snow-storm of promises.

Banks on Progressives

There has been a report, unconfirmed and unverified, that both Kvale and Congressman Maas, Minnesota insurgent Republican, have agreed to vote for Garner. Assuming that the House convened with 213 Republicans and 216 Democrats—a lineup still likely to persist—and that none but Kvale and Maas failed to vote for his party's caucus candidate, that would do the trick for Garner. But there is some uncertainty also about two or three other progressive members which also strengthens Garner confidence.

The speakership situation is now so tight—or loose, as you like—that other elements than those mentioned may enter in and decide the outcome. It must be remembered that besides the election of one man as Speaker the organization of the House also involves the prestige and responsibilities of control and the coveted committee chairmanships with their privilege of directing legislation. Also, one of the first questions before the new House will be that of relaxing the rigid rules which enabled the Republicans to control completely when they had a big majority.

that public utilities furnishing them power were making the same charges as when the farmers were receiving more for their cotton, and consequently paying more for having it ginned. No one objects more than I to the high rates charged by some of our public utilities but this does not justify any ginners or cottonseed men in getting together and making an agreement to hold up the price for their service to the farmer.

"I have detailed investigators to call on Congressman Wright Patman and secure any and all of evidence which he may have of the existence of a cottonseed trust. I appreciate his interest in the matter, and if anybody else knows any facts tending to show a monopoly, I will thank them to notify me at once."

STATE GUARDS 5,000 YEAR OLD BERRY PLANTS

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 19.—Four huckleberry plants, each believed to be at least 5,000 years old are being carefully nurtured by Pennsylvania forestry officials in the Tuscarora Forest District in Perry county.

The plants are the only ones of their kind in the world, according to John W. Keller, Deputy Secretary of Forestry in Pennsylvania.

There is no means of propagating them, he said, because the seeds produced by the plants are not fertile.

Unlike the common huckleberry bushes native to Pennsylvania hills, the four plants in the Perry county forest are evergreen known to botanists as Gaylussacia brachycera.

They grow in four neighboring ravines, with one entire plant extending in all directions on the north slope of each ravine and covering about one hundred acres each.

A botanist recently estimated annual growth to be about six inches. From this estimate the foresters computed the ages of the plants to be from 5,000 to 12,000 years and relics of the preglacial periods of the state.

The plants were discovered in 1846. Prior to that Michaux famed French botanist, reported finding one in Virginia, but the discovery was never verified Kelley said.

Sunday Services at The Churches

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
Sunday school at 9:45 a. m. A class for every age. A work for every worker. Dr. Stuart Pearce of El Paso will preach at 11 a. m. and also at 7:30 p. m. A cordial invitation is extended to all to hear Dr. Pearce, who is recognized as an able and forceful preacher.

HOLY ROSARY CHURCH
Mass will be at 10 a. m. by Rev. P. Riano. This is the seventeenth Sunday after Pentecost and the Gospel is from St. Matthew XXII, 35-46. We are told that the two great commandments are to love God and our neighbor. We must love our neighbor as ourself. This is easier said than done. Some try to defraud and steal from the federal, state, county or city government without apparently thinking that they are defrauding or stealing from their neighbors because the government means every man, woman and child in the country. So when we act thus we are acting unjustly towards our fellowman. Want of love of our fellow man is the logical cause of the present depression. There is enough for all in this world but many are not satisfied with enough. — REV. M. COLLINS.

GRACE LUTHERAN CHURCH
Corner Sixteenth street and F avenue street. Sunday school and Bible class at 9:30 a. m. Morning service at 10:30 a. m. Evening service at 8 p. m. Topic for morning service: "Jesus Teaching the Sadducees Concerning the Resurrection"; for evening service: "The Good Angels." We welcome you to these services. — ARTHUR RATHJEN, pastor.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH
The subject of the lesson sermon is "Matter" in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, September 20, Matthew 24:35 furnishes the golden text: "Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away." The following passages from the Bible (Psalms 39:6,7) are included in the lesson sermon: "Surely every man walketh in a vain show; surely they are disquieted in vain; he heppeth up riches, and knoweth not who shall gather them. And now, Lord, what wait I for? my hope is in thee."

EPISCOPAL CHURCH
708 West Fifth street. Evening prayer and sermon at 7:30 p. m., the Rev. C. A. Beasley priest in charge.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH
Broadway and H avenue. Sunday Sept. 20th Sunday school 9:30 a. m. classes for everybody. The pastor, Rev. H. D. Tucker will preach as follows: 10:50 a. m. "A Heartbreaking Lock" and 7:30 p. m. "Fence Straddlers." Leagues meet at 6:30. You are invited to worship with us. — H. D. TUCKER, pastor.

Locked the Stable After the Horse Was Stolen

We are all familiar with the above saying which means, Action came too late. Now, that is the way with many people about their insurance—they think about it when it is too late—they lock the stable too late.

When your car perhaps has been stolen or you are faced with a liability suit, then it is too late to insure—

Let us protect you now.

FRENCH SOCIAL INSURANCE LAW IS UNPOPULAR

PARIS, Sept. 18.—The newest development in French social legislation, the compulsory Social Insurance for all workers whose annual salary does not exceed $600, is meeting with growing unpopularity and there is a growing movement, outside of party lines, for the repeal of this legislation.

Theoretically the scheme sounded ideal to the political groups of the left and they forced its passage through Parliament. All workers employed at a minimum wage were to contribute five per cent of their salary to the state insurance fund, their employers contributing the same, and thereafter the workers and their families were to live happily.

Practically, the scheme has not worked out so well. Many laborers refused to contribute and asked for five per cent wage increases so that the insurance payments would not come from their wage envelopes. That brought an immediate reaction in living costs.

Injured Workers
Workers who were injured and sought to collect insurance on their claims found that they had run into endless red tape. Under this insurance scheme, workers who are injured pay but 15 per cent of their druggist's bill, the state paying the remainder. In case of serious injury, insured workers can be put on half salary for six months, thereafter receiving a pension during any absence up to five years.

Women workers about to become mothers are excused from work and pensioned at half salary for six weeks before the date of birth and six weeks after the birth. There is a definite pension for workers reaching 60 for the remainder of their lives. The pension at 70 averages less than $5 a month.

Death Duties
There is also a demand for a downward revision of the heavy death duties which the state charges on all estates. These duties vary according to the degree of parentage of the heirs, but in some cases have run as much as 97 per cent of the heritage.

Heirs of the first degree, sons inheriting from fathers, pay three to 15 per cent on estates from one franc to 50 millions.

Widows inheriting from husbands, or vice versa, pay 3.6 per cent to 15.6 per cent. Nephews and nieces inheriting from aunts or uncles pay 20 to 44 per cent, all other degrees of parentage pay from 32 to 56.4 per cent. There is a supplementary tax of 39 per cent when there are no direct children among the heirs.

Famous Oklahoma Ranchman Dies
MULHALL, Okla., Sept. 18.—Col. Zack Mulhall, famous Oklahoma ranchman and showman died at his home here today. The 84 year old pioneer was stricken Tuesday midnight. Grief over his wife's death last January was said to have broken on his health. He died at 3:05 a. m.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Sunday at the ranch home. Father Van Mens of the Guthrie Catholic church will have charge. Burial will be in the Mulhall vault at the ranch.

GETS AUTO
ST. LOUIS, Sept. 18.—William W. Thompson has been going to fires for 35 years, although never a bona fide fireman. More than 500 actual fire fighters now have given Thompson a new red automobile, so he can get to fires faster. Thompson estimates he has been to 10,000 blazes.

Pitchin' Ivory
"GO get some pitchin' ivory," quoth Uncle Robbis the other day to Robin Scouts Nap Rucker, Larry Sutton and Joe Becker. So Rucker is combing the south, Sutton is scurrying about the east and Joe Becker has unfurled the baseball dragnet over the west. Which is to say that the Old Guard of Robin pitchers is slipping.

Claim Again, Feller!
LEON SEE, on behalf of his behemoth, Primo Carnera, stood right up the other day and claimed the world's heavyweight championship. The reason: Schmeling failed to fulfill his contract to meet Carnera Sept. 17. Well, anyway, you'll have to admit that Leon See's is the real, dyed-in-the-wool heavyweight championship claim.

Is This a Clew?
HACK WILSON was left on the bench the other day by Manager Hornsby, and a pitcher, Bud Teachout, was sent to the outfield. Hornsby's explanation was, "Hack knows he is through as a Cub, so it would hardly be fair either to the team or himself to play him." Just the same, it was a somewhat surprising move, and behind it you may, or may not, see a clew to one of the reasons why Hack hasn't been at his best this year. Hack is a guy who has to have a lot of kindly co-operation.

A GLANCE at the eastern football sector at once reveals omens of power at Colgate. In two seasons under the coaching of Andy Kerr, Colgate teams have scored 698 points in 19 games, against 46 for the visiting firemen. If there was an eastern champion last year, it must have been Colgate. And this

EXPERIMENT IN HEALTH EDUCATION

TEXARKANA, Sept. 18.—An experiment in health education, which is looked to by educators of the state for a pattern for Texas public schools, will be carried on in the Texarkana, Texas, public schools this year by the Bureau of Nutrition and Health Education of the University of Texas extension service. Miss Nancy Hunters Pettus, field worker, is in charge of the experiment here. H. W. Stilwell, superintendent of the local school system, has given his encouragement to tentative plans made by Miss Pettus.

A system of public health education that will prove highly attractive to teachers and pupils, and can be carried out by teachers under direction of the bureau at Austin is most desired, and experiments to be

DID YOU KNOW THAT—
WHILE Hunk Anderson hints that Notre Dame will not lose a game this season, Athletic Director Jesse Harper says the team hardly could be expected to win a third straight championship. . . . Each player can take whatever view he likes. . . . Often a fellow strives harder when he wants to convince somebody that he's good. . . . and often when you tell a guy he's good, he begins to believe it, and adjusts his deeds accordingly. . . . It doesn't seem such bad philosophy for a team to be trying to dispel one chief's doubt and, at the same time, justify another leader's faith. . . . But even without philosophy, Notre Dame will be tough.

Where's Mike?
YOUNG men bearing monickers of strange design come to the big leagues these days. I mean front handles. There is Lyle Tinning, purchased recently by the Cubs. The Tigers bought Pitcher Orin Collier, and among those recalled were Ivy Shiver and Whitlow Wyatt. And the Yankees bought a gent yeletp Hormidas Aube from Albany.

Just An Opinion
DEMPSEY could jump into the ring today and flatten Primo Carnera, Victorio Campolo or a half dozen other large geeks. But he had better let Herr Schmeling strictly alone.

JUST "BOUNCING BABY"
HART, Mich., Sept. 18.—A 12-foot fall down a stairway was of little consequence to Robert Burke, two and one-half years old. A doctor, summoned after the accident was unable to find a bruise on his body and pronounced him a "bouncing baby."

made this year will point in that direction, Miss Pettus explained. Progress already made locally in public health education led to the selection of Texarkana as a base for the experiment. The program will be carried on through the elementary, sixth and seventh grades. Conferences with teachers will be held during this week and the early part of next week in order that the experiment might be launched with all teachers and pupils participating, Miss Pettus said.

Adoption of the better features of health education already included in regular work of the schools of the state, but which heretofore has been done without a standard program for all of the schools, will be made a part of the experiment.

An effort to raise the standard of health teaching in the schools, to lend attractiveness to the health program, and to base the health program on activities in which the pupils are most likely to become interested will be made here, Miss Pettus said.

China Hears of Broadway

The Broadway of America highway, on which this city is located, is even being heard of in far-away China. The August 12th issue of the "North China Star" published in Tientsin, China, carries a story by Edson R. Waite, internationally known columnist, on the Broadway through Texas and other southwest territory.

Basis for the story is laid on a trip taken with Grady Bell, secretary of the Odessa, Texas, Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Bell is now field representative of the Broadway association. Mr. Waite, who syndicates his articles to more than 3,000 daily and weekly papers throughout the United States and foreign countries, recently made a trip over the Broadway from Memphis, Tenn., to San Diego and as a result frequent references to the Broadway have been made in his articles giving this highway unrivaled publicity.

"It is improbable that the story appearing in the Tientsin paper will help much in increasing travel over the Broadway," said F. O. Mackey, president of the association. "However, we are not passing up any bets to attract tourists, even from China. We are looking for a big revival in tourist travel this fall and winter and the Broadway now more than 93 per cent improved, is ready to take care of this travel and offer the tourist the maximum in good roads, courteous service along the way, fine accommodations and interesting scenic and historic points."

DIZZY HEADACHE RELIEVED

A dizzy, sickening headache often is a warning sign of constipation. Poisons which constipation dams up in the intestines are beginning to get in their dangerous work. There's refreshing relief in a dose of two of Theodor's Black-Draught. "I first began taking Black-Draught for biliousness and constipation," writes Mrs. Alonzo Rothrock, of Ilmo, Mo. "I would have sick headache and dizziness so I could not stoop over. I did not get any better until I began taking Black-Draught. After using it for some time, I quit having sick headache."

PURE AND EFFICIENT

by LAURA LOU BROOKMAN Author of "MAD MARRIAGE"

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Pretty Norma Kent, 20-year-old secretary, marries Mark Travers, son of F. M. Travers, millionaire real estate dealer, in spite of the father's opposition and threats to disinherit Mark.

The story opens in Marlboro, middle western metropolis. Mark sells his expensive roadster to get money for the honeymoon and he and Norma go to fashionable Blue Springs. There Norma meets Hollis Stone, and it is evident from the girl's manner that she has known Stone before and for some reason seems to fear him.

Their money is soon gone, partly due to Mark's gambling. With $500 borrowed from Stone the couple return to Marlboro. Mark sets out on a round of pleasure seeking instead of hunting for a job. He introduces Norma to Natalie Price, a debutante who has long hoped to marry Mark. When their funds dwindle again Mark and Norma decide to a cheap apartment. Mark begins to hunt work seriously. He gets one job and loses it. Then he becomes a floor-walker in Blossomdale's department store. On the anniversary of their marriage two months before he brings Norma roses. She is outraged at this extravagance and they quarrel. Norma threatens to leave him but Mark's mother arrives. Mrs. Travers urges Mark to seek a reconciliation with his father but he refuses.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXV
Norma spread the newspaper out on the living room table. She bent over it, frowning slightly as she studied a column. The words were in fine print and very black. Norma pursed her lips as she read:

"Truss the bird. Rub a little butter over it and dredge with flour salt and pepper. Put in roasting pan and place in hot oven. Baste at frequent intervals."
The three little wrinkles in the girl's forehead deepened. Somehow the instructions sounded complicated. She went on reading until she had finished the column.

It was last night's edition of the Press that lay before her, opened to the woman's page. In two columns on the right-hand side Sister Sarah, the home economics editor, gave menus and recipes for the Thanksgiving dinner. There were three menus—one elaborate and formal with roast turkey the main dish, one in which duck was the piece de resistance, and a simpler one in which the fowl was chicken.

Sister Sarah wrote of traditional seasonal delicacies. Of course there must be dressing and gravy with the bird. Celery and cranberry sauce and all the harvest vegetables were synonymous with Thanksgiving. For dessert either mince pie or pumpkin and there'd be no harm in having doughnuts and cider and squares of cheese handy for an evening lunch. Sister Sarah wrote about old-fashioned festivities at Grandmother's so that you could almost see an old white farm house and a jolly family gathered about the table waiting for second helpings.

Thanksgiving was three days away. For a week Norma had been thinking about the holiday. Mark would not have to go to the store and the rest would be a fine thing for him. So much of the time lately Mark had looked tired.

Cooking the Thanksgiving dinner was a challenge to Norma's housewifely ability. She was eager to show her skill and at the same time a little anxious. She had read every word in Sister Sarah's column for several days.

Turkey, of course, was out of the question. Imagine cooking a turkey for two! Chicken seemed commonplace. Norma made her decision therefore in favor of duck. She was concentrating this morning on the printed instructions for roasting a duck.

"Truss the bird. . . Put in roasting pan and place in hot oven. Baste at frequent intervals. . . It might be simple to someone who knew exactly what it all meant. What was "basting" and how frequent were "frequent intervals?"

Suddenly an inspiration popped into the girl's head. She went to the telephone. "I'd like to speak to Miss Saunders," she informed the girl who answered. Another moment and she heard Chris' voice.

"Hello, Chris. How are you? Oh—fine, of course! Listen, is it all right to interrupt your business to ask advice about cooking. It is? Well—that's lucky because there's something I just have to know. I want to have roast duck for dinner Thursday and can you tell me what I'm supposed to do with it after I get it home from the meat market?"

Most of the answer that came over the wire was lost in laughter. "But, Chris, I mean it! I've been reading a lot of recipes in the paper and I can't make head or tail of them. It says to baste the duck but I don't see why it needs to be sewed."

Explanations were in order. Chris, never-failing source of assistance, explained the term "basting" in its ordinary use. She told Norma to get paper and pencil and when she had them and was back at the telephone gave careful instructions for preparation of the fowl.

"It really isn't difficult, Norma," the older girl said. "Just do the way I've told you and I'm sure there won't be any trouble. Of course you want to buy your duck at a market where you know they'll give you a good one."

"Oh, Mr. Sykes always gives me good meat. I'm not worried about that part. Thanks a thousand times, Chris. You certainly are a lifesaver. By the way, what are you doing Thursday? Why don't you come out? To dinner I mean! We'd love to have you—"

Chris declined the invitation with apologies. She had an engagement, she said. She didn't specify where or with whom her dinner engagement was.

"But you will come out to see us soon, won't you?" Norma insisted.

Prince's Principal Partner

the fruit centerpiece was as colorful and attractive as though it had been arranged on a silver platter instead of one of the plates from the "five and ten."

At the other side of the city in a palatial dining room an elaborate dinner was being served. Mark's father and mother sat at either end of that dining table. Half a dozen servants had spent their efforts preparing and serving the repast. It was the sort of Thanksgiving dinner to which Mark Travers had been accustomed all his life.

There could have been no greater contrast than the simple meal Norma had cooked and the one at which Mark's parents sat. Perhaps Mark was thinking something of this sort.

He leaned forward across the table and found the girl's hand. As he pressed it Mark said in a lowered voice: "You—you make me awfully happy. You're so sweet, Norma!"

All of which was ample reason for Norma Travers to rise next morning feeling the world was a grand place in which to live. She finished her tasks in the apartment. Then she dressed, putting on the old polo coat and snug hat she had worn so often on daily trips to the law office. She had errands to attend to downtown and was anxious to finish them and be home by noon.

The street car was not crowded and Norma found a seat immediately. That was because the morning rush had ended. She rode to Broad street and Eighth avenue and then left the car.

Norma walked rapidly. Mentally she was reviewing her list of purchases—first the saucer to replace the one she had broken, then the oil cloth and the yard of ribbon—

Her thoughts were interrupted by a shrill, familiar voice. (To Be Continued)

Pagant Lauds Ax Wielder

SOMERSET, Pa., Sept. 18. — "Tony Beaver," mythical character known and loved by lumbermen wherever an ax is chipped into a tree, was created in actual life here by the combined efforts of a parent writer and an actor.

In a natural amphitheater, the prodigious "Tony" himself, his character and that of the equally extraordinary "Johnny Inkslinger," were portrayed for the Allegheny Tableland Association Music festival held here Sept. 5 and 6.

An audience from eight counties in West Virginia and Pennsylvania — composing the plateau famed for maple sugar and syrup, potatoes buckwheat cakes and blackberry jam — applauded the feats of the timberman's traditional hero.

It was "Tony Beaver" who logged the Tableland and "Johnny Inkslinger" who figured it took "Tony" seven years, four months, two weeks, five days, 17 hours, four minutes, and 46 1-2 seconds to take a log of the Tableland, following as he did, "the slippin's and slidin's of Eel river as she traveled all over the plateau country."

"Nobody but Tony Beaver could 'a' done it," the tradition continues, "an' even he couldn't 'a' done it if it hadn't been for Babe, the blux ox, who wuz born the year of the blue snow nad measured 47 ax handles and a plus o' tobaccoer between the horns."

"Johnny Inkslinger" the time-keeper of bunkhouse tales, is the "bad" keeper of 229 barrels of ink the year of the ink shortage by remembering not to cross his t's and dot his i's.

Did You Ever Stop to Think?

By EDSON R. WAITE Shawnee, Oklahoma.

That the advertisements inform you of what is new on the markets. Advertisers know that business policy demands the absolute truth about their merchandise, its quality and price and that it must be advertised or you won't come back for more.

Advertised merchandise will look as good to you when you get it home as it did at the store. Shopping right is very important as it means the saving of money. You should always insist on getting advertised merchandise because it is better.

Advertising introduces you to new goods and service. It always pays to shop at the stores that advertise. People who are hunting bargains find them by reading the advertisements.

Nowadays people know that it pays to buy what they read about instead of buying things they never heard of.

107,000 DEATHS ARE BLAMED UPON FLIES

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 18. — More than 107,000 men, women, and children will die in the United States this year from typhoid fever, enteritis, diphtheria, infantile paralysis, and other dangerous diseases known to be carried by house flies, the Rex Research Foundation announced today after a nation-wide survey of vital statistics.

"Appalling as this death toll will appear to thinking men and women, it is gratifying to know that the deaths from these fly-borne diseases are constantly being diminished through scientific control of the house fly and other disease-bearing insect pests," the Foundation asserted in a bulletin covering last survey. "Public education, however, is needed to bring about intelligent and organized campaigns of fly extermination in each individual home. If every member of the family was alert to the importance of fly destruction, the country's annual death rate from fly-borne diseases would be reduced more than 50 per cent."

PLANS OBSERVATORY

LEIPZIG, Sept. 18. — The geophysical institute of the University of Leipzig is erecting a large observatory in a forest near here. The building, which is being built on a base of solid rock, will have an 80-foot tower. An "earthquake cellar" in a nearby quarry will house the observatory's seismograph, and two further buildings will be devoted to the study of terrestrial magnetism.

Whistles Silent

Old familiar factory whistles are heard no more. The lines of unemployed increase.

Unemployment in Glasgow and surrounding towns is higher than it ever has been. When the Clyde is idle, all Scotland senses the decline of national and individual income and feels depression more acutely.

At the present time less than 500,000 tons excluding the Cunard liner, are under construction. This figure represents almost a million tons less than the figure for July 31, 1931.

Retiring Show Slump
Lloyd's Register, Shipbuilding Returns for the quarter ended June 30 illustrates the slump in British and Irish shipbuilding. The figure for the quarter ended June 30 is lower than any quarter since Dec. 1887, and includes nearly 68,000 tons on which work has been suspended.

Tonnage under construction in Great Britain and Ireland amounts to only 30.4 per cent of the world tonnage. The average percentages in the last 12 months before the war were 57.2 for Great Britain and Ireland and 42.8 for the remainder of the world.

About one-third of the oil tankers under construction in the world are being built in Great Britain or Ireland. Steam tonnage building, in contrast to immediate previous quarters, exceeds that of the tonnage of motor ships under construction.

14 Enrolled in Special Classes

The enrollment in two special Sunday school classes being conducted this week at the First Baptist church had reached 14 today. The two classes meet each evening at 7:30 beginning Monday and continuing through Friday evening.

One class, studying the Sunday school manual, is being taught by C. S. Karlatits. The other, in New Testament studies, is being taught by Asa Skiles.
