BOOSTER BREAKFAST DRAWS MANY

Bishop Boaz to Speak at Prohibition Meeting Here Tonight

Through the Editor's Spectacles
By GEORGE

Two Cisco boys who set out for adventure in Wyoming Saturday afternoon were being returned to their homes here today from Iatan, Texas. Near Big Spring, where kindly officers intervened in the opinion that the youngsters were quite too young for adventure so far away from home. They left Cisco hitch-hiking their way. The call of far horizons is particularly tempting to youngsters in the highly imaginative years. I know how frantic must be the fathers and the mothers of boys who run away, and how likely their anxiety—or the reaction from it—is to prompt them to severe punishment of the youngsters. But I hope that in this case the parents will remember they were once boys and girls, too, and deal with the boys in a really sympathetic manner.

The Cisco Daily Press has a few reprints of the picture of Will Rogers that appeared in the Sunday issue of the paper. I think it is one of the most satisfactory pictures of the famous humorist that I ever saw. It shows him as a man, relaxed and utterly human, not as a comedian or an actor. He is not attempting to entertain anyone; there is nothing of the histrionic in his features. It is a splendid picture of Mr. Rogers, not as good as a photograph, perhaps, but a remarkable picture made by the Associated Press. If you want one of them you may have it for five cents—just about what it costs us to print it.

Chief Purdue says he can sympathize with anyone who has been in a wreck. He was in one Saturday night himself. The cause was that he was reaching between a couple of extremes. For about an hour Saturday night he and the rest of the police were about as busy as Curly Armstrong's left-handed crap-shooter. The colored section of the city was the scene of some riotous amusement and the officers leaped into the situation forthrightly. The merry-makers ran in twos. Purdue jumped a couple near a church. Even a drunken fellow has the instinct to seek sanctuary near a church. He gave chase. Meanwhile Ass't Chief Pierce struck off on another trail and took a quarry by surprise. Purdue, fast for his left, overtook the pair he was chasing and hooked the fingers of a hand in the belt of each. But the momentum of his drive and the pull of the fleeing quarry dragged him into an overbalance and he celebrated his official dignity with the flying sprawl, his knees scattering the good earth, mixed with some gravel, over the church's precincts. As he went down he shrilled on his whistle and Pierce came running, having admonished his own captive to stay by the car, which the prisoner promptly proceeded not to do. One of Purdue's pair got away but the chief held on to the other and brought him safely to the city jail. Subsequent trips produced the others and the chief treated his skinned places with iodine with some satisfaction. Four of the six that were accumulated were fined. The other two were released after investigation produced nothing of a serious nature.

RALLY TO BE AT BAPTIST FIRST CHURCH

Speaker Is Head of United Dry Forces of Texas

Bishop H. A. Boaz of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, will be the speaker this evening at a prohibition rally at the First Baptist church. The Bishop, head of the United Dry Forces of the state of Texas, is a speaker of great ability. The rally will begin at 8 o'clock. It will be part of the local campaign against repeal of the prohibition amendment to the constitution of the state of Texas upon which issue the voters of the state will cast their ballots next Saturday.

Guffey Bill Is Passed by House, Sent to Senate

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP)—The house this afternoon passed the Guffey bill to establish the "Little NRA," for the bituminous coal industry. The new deal leadership sighed with relief, once the count was certain to send the disputed measure to the senate. The vote was 195 ayes and 160 noes with two voting present. What the senate will do with the measure is considered problematical. It may have rough sledding.

Local Preachers to Preach at Reich

The local preachers will hold their regular fourth Sunday services at Reich church Sunday, August 26, it was announced today. There will be services all day with dinner on the ground. The Rev. Mr. Davis, local preacher of Rising Star, will preach at 11 a. m. and at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, the Rev. W. A. Tate of Carbon will preach. An old-fashioned testimonial service will be conducted by Tandy Martin, Carbon local preacher. The public is invited to bring "a smile and a well-filled basket." Arrangements are in charge of W. L. Boyd, A. B. Armstrong and G. M. Meglasson.

Powers Outstrip Pre-War Days In Running up Bills for Arms

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP)—The rapid acceleration of military preparations, particularly in the last two years, has piled upon the taxpayers of the seven great powers an armament burden much heavier than the staggering load of pre-world war days. Expenditures for national defense by the seven powers in the financial year 1935-36 are estimated at a grand total of $5,160,000,000, more than three times the $1,587,633,502 outlay for military preparedness by those nations in 1910. Moreover, war between Italy and Ethiopia would greatly increase this year's arms budget. Agreements Failed Since the autumn of 1933 when Germany withdrew from the disarmament conference and the League of Nations, attempts to reach an agreement on the limitation of armaments have been at a standstill. Nazi Germany's rearming, other frictions in Europe and the Far East have resulted in

Social Securities Bill Signed

Termed one of the most important pieces of legislation enacted by the democratic administration, the social securities bill providing unemployment insurance and old age pensions became law with the signature of President Roosevelt. More Meat Solution to High Price, Says Sec'y

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP)—Secretary Wallace today told a group of housewives, representing Detroit meat strikers, that the only way to bring about lower meat prices is to produce more meat. Led by Mrs. Mary Zuk, the delegation asked Secretary Wallace, of the agricultural department, to investigate the packing industry at Detroit immediately, and to effect a reduction in the price of all meats. Wallace replied that the present prices resulted from last year's drought. He said the agricultural adjustment administration is attempting only to get a fair price for the farmers, and to provide sufficient food for the consumers. The women were obviously dissatisfied with the statement.

New President of Hull House Meets Jane Addams' Wish

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP)—Selection of Adena Miller Rich as president of Hull House marked the fulfillment of the desire of Jane Addams, founder and for 55 years president of the famous Chicago welfare organization. Two years ago Miss Addams, co-winner of the Nobel peace prize in 1931 and the "first citizen of Chicago," lay ill in Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore. She called her friends to her. Mrs. Rich was one. And to them she said that in the event of her death she hoped that Mrs. Rich would be chosen to carry on the leadership of the famous settlement house.

Decided Unanimously Meeting shortly after Miss Addams' death on May 21, this unit decided unanimously that Mrs. Rich, wife of a Chicago stock broker, should be given the post.

This story was told by Clarence E. Carter, Washington social worker and officer in the Hull House organization. Carter directed the Jane Addams memorial fund drive. A graduate of Oberlin college, Mrs. Rich did graduate work at the University of Chicago, the Chicago School of Civics and Philanthropy and the New York School of Social Work. For years she has been a teacher and writer on social welfare subjects. Handled Addams Correspondence Since going to Hull House 20 years ago, she has served as director of young people's clubs, represented Hull House at numerous conferences and specialized in the orientation of foreign born. For years she handled much of Miss Addams' correspondence.

PLANE WITH ROGERS, POST AT SEATTLE

Bodies of Famous Pair May Reach Los Angeles Tonight

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 19 (AP)—Pilot Joe Crosson's plane, bearing the bodies of Will Rogers and Willey Post south from their tragic air crash deaths in Alaska, arrived here today from Vancouver. The plane's curtains were drawn. Pan-American Airways officials in New York indicated the bodies may reach Los Angeles tonight. The big Pan-American transport ship left Alameda, Calif., today to make connections with Crosson's plane and fly the bodies from Seattle. In the meantime plans are being made for the funeral services for Post in Oklahoma City Thursday, and for Rogers the same day in Los Angeles. Plans are also being made to establish something permanent to the flier and humorist in Oklahoma.

Ethiopian Arms Order from U. S. Firm Is Reported

ADDIS ABABA, Aug. 19 (AP)—Emperor Haile Selassie was reported today to have placed a large war munitions order with the Colt Firearms company of the United States. Meanwhile it was understood that considerable quantities of arms and munitions were entering Ethiopia through Sudan, but that the quantities were far short of what was necessary.

Hopson Received "Hidden Profits" It Is Charged

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP)—The senate lobby committee today placed in the record evidence they said showed that Howard C. Hopson, head of the Associated Gas and Electric system, had received "hidden profits" from a private company which sold services to units of the Associated system. They contended that Hopson received $654,000 paid by the company to Edward J. Cheney, associate engineer. Hopson said he didn't know whether the books showed he received the money.

Tax Gyration Emphasize Bewilderment at Capital

By BYRON PRICE (Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington) The recent tax gyrations in congress further emphasize the general bewilderment which has surrounded this issue ever since Mr. Roosevelt deposited it unexpectedly on the doorstep of the capital. It would be difficult to recall any piece of legislation which has had a more baffling career. Perhaps it was the heat, or the humidity, or perhaps it was some deep and devious form of political action, the true purport of which only history can reveal. Whatever it was, the simple facts leave the ordinary mind staggering and wholly non-plussed. Surprise has followed surprise, and the reasons for much that was done still seem to be effectively hidden even from congressional understandings. If ever a bill was drafted and pushed toward enactment in an atmosphere of confusion, doubt,

Roosevelt Will Speak Saturday Night Over Air

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP)—President Roosevelt will speak over the air Saturday night at 8 o'clock (CST) in a speech to the Young Democrats Clubs of America, which convenes in Milwaukee. The speech will be a national broadcast hook-up from the White House.

Mussolini Spurns Compromise Effort

PARIS, Aug. 19 (AP)—Another diplomatic effort to prevent the impending war between Italy and Ethiopia ended today in an outburst of general recriminations. A high French official said that "Europe faces a crisis like that of 1914 and that France must resign herself to losing Italy's friendship." "The League must triumph," he declared, "or there will be chaos. The whole world went to war because Austria proposed to do to Serbia less than what Mussolini intends doing to Ethiopia." Baron Pompeo Aloisi, who conveyed Mussolini's "No" to the French and British peace proposals, prepared to return home. A British spokesman commented: "Nothing can be done at Geneva to prevent war."

Pentacostal Open Air Revival Meet

The following notice of the revival meeting, being conducted by the local Pentacostal church, is requested publication in the Daily Press today: "The open air revival at the intersection of Tenth street and D avenue, sponsored by the 'Jesus Name' Pentacostal church, 400 West 17th street, is being attended by large congregations. "Mrs. J. E. Blackwell, pastor, is bringing the messages. We have no candy prizes to give away, or toy balloons for your babies to play with, but if you enjoy the old-time 'thus saith the Lord' gospel messages here is where you can hear them. "We just preach the 'God's' eternal truth. "We especially invite the sick and afflicted that they may hear these enlightening messages, and good gospel singing. "Services at 8:30 each evening. ATTEND VETS PICNIC Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Kilpatrick attended a picnic for Spanish-American war veterans sponsored by the Ranser Spanish-American veterans chapter at Ringling Lake near Eastland Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Turner, and daughter, Nell Frances, of Richmond, Va., and Mrs. L. E. Richardson of Longview, left yesterday after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. James Moore.

TICKETS SELL RAPIDLY FOR NOVEL MEET

Swim at 6 a. m. Will Precede Meal; Everybody Invited

Sale of tickets for the Boosters breakfast at Lake Cisco Tuesday morning has been brisk today with the prospect that between 75 and 100 will attend. The breakfast, preceded by a swim at 6 a. m., will begin at 7, and the Boosters committee in charge was anxious that attendance be prompt so that the meeting might go off without loss of time to the business men who will attend. The first breakfast was handled with dispatch and proved one of the most successful meetings ever held, as well as one of the most interesting and novel. There will not be a long program, President Johnny Cox said, because of the fact that those attending will wish to be in their places of business without delay. The breakfast is not exclusive to members of the Boosters, but every person interested in Cisco and the work of the organization will be welcome to attend. Women are also invited. The Community Natural Gas company is furnishing gas for cooking the breakfast while the Cisco Daily Press is furnishing the range.

Preparation of Project for West Ward Is Praised

Praise of the manner in which the project proposal for the west ward school WPA application was prepared was voiced at Abilene last week by the district WPA engineer's office. The project was the best prepared that the office had ever received, the engineers said. The school is seeking a WPA project for strengthening the foundation of the building. It will cost in the neighborhood of $15,000. A vast amount of detail work was necessary in the preparation of the project. Wesley Harrell prepared the engineering data.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

I will both lay me down in peace and sleep. He maketh me to lie down in green pastures.—Ps. 4:8; 23:2.

Goodnight now cometh gentle sleep And tears that fall like gentle rain. "Goodnight, O, holy, blest, and deep, The rest that follows pain How should we reach God's upper light If life's long day had no goodnight."

He maketh me to lie down for rest and peace, and we all need the time of quietness before God. It was divine wisdom that said, "Come ye apart into a desert place and rest awhile."—Sara A. Hubbard.

New Alignment May Be

It is possible that there will be a new alignment of parties—likely not next year—but there is evidence of the intention of the leaders of the party of Thomas Jefferson favoring an amendment to the federal constitution that will give more centralized powers to the American government.

Possibly there is some reason for amendments to the constitution but hardly to abridge the fundamental features of the constitution, such as would give the federal congress power to take over state authority in matters of national import and to take over those prerogatives of local self government.

But to give the national administration power to enforce rules and regulations of the individual, as attempted in the NRA, are not included in the desired constitutional changes.

The child labor amendment—intensely popular with union labor—is one of the proposals suggested. This amendment hit hard at the bill of rights and the rights of states and families, to regulate and control their local affairs.

When the Cisco federal building was repainted recently, the treasury department let the contract to a Dallas contractor who brought his crew from Dallas and did the job. Local painters were unable to secure any of this work.

But to change the fundamental law of the land to enable the administration in power to promulgate such regulations as was attempted in the operation of the NRA program is essentially contrary to the American form of government, which as an emergency, was only tolerated and never endorsed by the people.

HOWEVER, there is one proposal for a constitutional change that the Daily Press believes will strike a popular chord in the minds of the masses, and that is to forbid tax exempt securities.

are now classed as the best and safest investment, and those who have idle money buy these tax exempt securities—not only the capitalists—but the individual who accumulates a few thousand dollars place it in tax-exempt bonds. True, the interest is usually small, but with no taxes to pay, coupled with the small interest and the safety of the securities, gives the investor a neat return on his investment.

BUT THAT a democratic administration should propose such changes that will make for a stronger central government is inimical to everything that goes to make a democrat.

SO FAR President Roosevelt has given no indications that he would initiate any change in the constitution that might abridge the rights of the states except the child labor amendment. While much can be said in its favor, yet it would be clearly in opposition to the rights of states to live under their own local laws.

THERE still is much talk at Washington regarding constitutional changes, and no one knows what amendments may be proposed. Should there be proposals to make the central government stronger and emasculate the state legislature it might be cause for an entirely different political alignment.

Out-of-Town Labor

THE USE of out-of-town craftsmen by out-of-town contractors on local jobs has aroused the resentment of local craftsmen who feel that the practice is an infringement on their rights. Under normal conditions the contention is open to a great deal of argument, the most convincing premise of which is the fact that the home craftsmen would not hesitate to take a job in some other community.

WHEN the Cisco federal building was repainted recently, the treasury department let the contract to a Dallas contractor who brought his crew from Dallas and did the job. Local painters were unable to secure any of this work.

THE PRACTICE of outside owners of Cisco property in awarding Cisco work to outside workmen is also unfair. We maintain that the potential income from labor that originates in Cisco ought to remain for the support of Cisco people and Cisco business.

G-MEN MAKE RAID IN OZARKS 'JUNGLE'

Alleged bank robbers and their "molls" were taken into custody by federal agents following a raid on the "jungle" territory near Harrison, Ark. Left, Maxine Melton (left), 22, and Lucille Davis, accompanied by a deputy sheriff, as they were jailed in Kansas City to await charges of harboring fugitives from justice.

SCANNING NEW BOOKS

In "The Wedge" (Stokes), his first full-length novel, Hermann B. Deutsch falls something short of perfection. He has a moving story to tell of Mexico's revolutions, but he has embroidered his tale with so many Mexican phrases, so much local color and folk lore, that much of its pace and effectiveness is lost.

It is not until the last few pages, when the current of the story seems to have caught up even Mr. Deutsch, that "The Wedge" really sweeps along at full tide toward its logical conclusion in a striking last sentence.

The book is the story of Desidero, whose father carves saints, cursing his artistic fate the while. The boy also is an artist, and he moves through the bloody revolution against Diaz with little comprehension of what it means.

In El Paso he finally finds his full artistic power. A great contentment and surety replaces his feverish early manner. He goes often to the bank of the Rio Grande, dreaming that somewhere in Mexico there is a valley with material ready for his sensitive hands.

But he has drawn cartoons for a revolutionary paper in El Paso, things that meant only money for food and wine to him. In Juarez he finds himself on the proscribed list nevertheless. He is seized, thrown into a cell, condemned to die at sunup.

THUMBNAILED REVIEWS

"The Magnate," by Hermann Hagedorn (Reynal & Hitchcock): beautifully written biography of a man who began as a 15-year-old poker player in Butte, and ended an invalid worth millions; William Boyce Thompson's most interesting days were spent trying to hold Russia together, in the great war.

"Death and General Putnam, and 101 Other Poems," by Arthur Guiterman (Dutton): one of our most competent versifiers in a nostalgic mood; the poems are chiefly in praise of nature, domestic bliss, home.

"Better Than Dying," by Robert Fathery (Doubleday, Doran): living, dying and the mutations thereof in a southern jail; the jail is run by a curious chap who keeps a little faun named Albert for a pet.

DEPORTATION

"Strange Passage," by Theodore Irwin (Smith & Hazz): two young deportees fall in love on a deportation special, are separated when it is wrecked, meet again eight years later, and finally are deported—together; a good idea, overlaid with a good deal of technical nonsense.

"The League of Frightened Men," by Rex Stout (Farrar & Rinehart): Nero Wolfe solves the mystery which frightens some thirty Harvard graduates out of their wits; the yarn is a good novel as well as a good mystery, and the placid Nero is grand.

The World of Stamps

Four hundred years since the formation of the captaincy or governorship of the Brazilian state of Pernambuco is being celebrated with a current two-stamp issue by Brazil. Appearing in bi-colors, the stamps illustrate with a woodcut type of drawing the original town of Pernambuco, showing the mission in the foreground and several houses in the rear.

SILVER JUBILEES

Although a million of the stamps were printed, Great Britain's issue in celebration of the silver jubilee in the reign of King George appears to be near the exhaustion point. Post offices already are beginning to sell stamps of normal size in many parts of Great Britain. There has been an unusual world-wide demand on the part of collectors for these items as well as the celebratory issues put out by the various colonies and divisions of the empire.

NEW GOLD STAMP

Columbia's wealth of the nation issue, put out in 1932, in which the various natural industries of the country were used as the motif, now contains a new "gold" stamp. It replaces the former design, with the allegorical figure of gold mining somewhat changed. Like the product, it portrays, the stamp is colored gold. In the former design the miner was shown examining a nugget, while in the new one he appears to be more on the order of "The Thinker," with elbow on knee and chin resting on his wrist.

FACE VALUE CHANGE

Denomination styles in U. S. stamps have changed many times over the years for one reason or another. For instance the 24 and the 90 cent items were included in most issues up to 1893, when the first $1 stamp came out. Today there are current 1-2 and 1 1-2 centers in addition to a complete numerical list from 1 cent to 15 cents inclusive, besides the higher denominations.

Probably the most changes in the shortest time have been made in the airmails. At the start in 1918, there were a 6, a 16 and a 24-center. The 1923 issue changed the 6 to an 8. The 1926 printing shifted them all around to 10, 15 and 20 cents. In 1930 a 5-cent appeared for the first time, this same year bringing the initial Zeppelin issue of 65 cents, $1.30 and 2.60. By 1931 the airmail rate had been increased and 8 cents was inserted again.

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMER

WASHINGTON—There was a time when the mere fact of "Cactus Jack" Garner's presence in the railroad ticket office of the capitol meant adjournment of congress was near.

"Old-timers" around Washington still watch to see when he'll buy his ticket. But not many—The weather vane on capitol hill (during the present congress at least) is Bill Bankhead of Alabama.

Bankhead, brother of the junior senator from Alabama, and, (he boasts of this) the "daddy of Tallulah," was duly elected the majority leader of the house of the present congress.

Before the session started he was stricken ill. So much so that he's been unable to appear on the floor for the entire session. He has been hovering around the house during convalescence and, house insiders say, directing much of the strategy employed.

Bill Bankhead left his bed the other day and went to the "hill". A few moments thereafter he ordered a ticket for Jasper, Alabama. Adjournment must be in sight.

ONLY TWO 'NAYS'

Thomas Jefferson sat down many years ago and prescribed how members of congress should act. The house of representatives came along later and adopted Jefferson's suggestions in toto.

Among other things Jefferson said that the sergeant-at-arms of any parliamentary body should, first of all, preserve order—his primary duty. And, says "Jefferson's Manual," "the mace is the symbol of his authority."

Members of the house, many of whom have found it necessary to look into Jefferson's Manual only in a cursory way, were astounded when Representative Warren of North Carolina, who controls the purse strings of individual members of the house, informed them: "Believe it or not, the office of sergeant-at-arms does a banking business of $12,000,000 annually." Warren had recommended that the sergeant-at-arms be provided with a stenographer.

They debated it for quite a while. Economy in government, balance the budget and all were mentioned—But when the vote was taken only two members of the house were in the "nay" column.

CANDIDATES PLEASE ANSWER

The 345 members of the house and the 32 senators coming up for reelection in 1936, please copy. (Maxims of how to prepare and behave yourself as a candidate in '36, prescribed by one of 'em—a senator): "Do you go around asking everybody's advice?" "Do you ever analyze your prejudices?" "Do you know how to get a kick into your thinking?" "Do you try too hard—driving sledge hammers?" "Do you ever check up on your own disposition?" "Can you take criticism without seeing red?" "Do you know how to make yourself a fluent, convincing talker?" "If they do," says this senator, "they don't have to worry about a damn thing next year."

Man About

Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—I am writing this from the veranda of Burnbrae Inn, a rambling old structure of twenty seven rooms which sits on a hill overlooking Morris pond.

Burnbrae really isn't an inn. It's a lovely old farm house that for 200 years has lifted its face to the wind and the rain and has seen 10 generations come and go. You drive up here from the city and introduce yourself much as one used to in the horse and buggy days. Then you drink from the well beneath the old grape arbor, and after that you choose a chair on the veranda which is 50 yards long, and rest awhile.

If they like you, they ask you to come in and stay awhile. This gives you the privilege of registering and being escorted back to your room in some lost wing of the old house. If they don't like you, you aren't invited in, and so after you have had your rest you get into your car and drive away again. That's the way it is.

When you go to sleep at night you imagine it is raining outside, because you hear a soft pattering of falling water. But it isn't rain. It's the subdued rush of the brook as it tumbles from a fall into the glen.

Morris Pond isn't really a pond either. It's a lake. In some places bottom has never been touched, although men with soundings have gone down as far as 200 feet. Years ago some New York sportsmen released a catch of landlock salmon in the lake. Nobody ever saw them after that, except old Charlie, who is the caretaker of the place. One morning rowing across to the island he thought he saw the body of a man floating near the shore. But it wasn't a man. It was the remains of one of those salmon, and it weighed 54 pounds. This was nearly 30 years after it had been released.

Burnbrae pond, an adjunct to Morris, is the jewel like lake which rests at the foot of the hill that supports the inn. Although small, it is cool and deep, with rock and ferns skirting the shore, and it is a paradise of hard fighting black bass. I know of no lake with more fish per cubic feet than Burnbrae pond.

Across the lake to the east rises a chain of jagged wild hills. These hills afford some of the finest deer hunting in the east. The surrounding country is so wild that to see it is to wonder if man has been there before you—a fact that will astonish you and when you realize on a clear night you can top those hills and see in the distance the shimmering iridescent lights of New York.

Burnbrae isn't very far from Sparta, N. J. You wind down a cone-like mountain until you come to the outskirts of the town. This leads, too, to Lake Mohawk and to Lake Hopatcong, where Ted Cook has his jittery mansion.

But, unlike these lakes with their fast motorboats, colorful ensembles of summer cottages, and smart dance bands, Burnbrae is remote, a far away retreat where words fall in soft accents and bullfrogs grow as large as tom-

Human and Other Nature

By W. F. BRUCE

A celebration that has as its name and its purpose the honoring of those who have been long in the community is apt to present a conglomeration of ideas. Everybody comes, from the slow-tottering honorees to the slow-creeping great grand children. The world of the babies is far different from the world of fifty years ago. Then there are all the youngsters and the middle-aged to satisfy. Usually the conveyances, the amusement devices, the stands, the exhibits, and everything belong to the world of the babies and not that of the grandfathers and grandmothers.

It looks like for Old Settlers' Reunion we might for one little while during the year try to make it real old-timey for those few that are living mostly in the memory of the past. Why not rig up the old spring wagon or cart, patch up the old buggy harness, and hitch up the old pony and take a real ride for once. We might even be able to break in a steer and see how they used to travel in the days of oxen. Then for amusement we might have some jump-the-rope, or choose up and play town ball. Perhaps we could scare up a couple of old high wheel bicycles for a race. Some interesting exhibits could be collected in the form of old Bibles, files of old newspapers, spinning wheels, old-time farm implements, and the like. The program would be reminiscent in keeping with the general tone of the occasion. Let us try on Old Settlers' Reunion sometime that is one.

National Women's Golf Tournament Opens August 26

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 19 (AP)—The nation's top-flight women golfers will swarm over Interlachen Country club the last week of this month to battle 6,672 yards of woods, lakes, fairways, and greens for honor and fame in the national tournament.

Every club in their bags will be brought along by the great and the near-great among the feminine sharpshooters, for Interlachen is that kind of a course that Bobby Jones subdued in 1930, the year he made his grand slam in golf.

One of the veteran campaigners—Glenna Collet Vare—and the youngest state champion in the history of United States golf—Edith Estrabrooks, 14, Dubuque, Iowa—are among the entries.

They'll Watch Glenna

When the women tee off the morning of August 26, the rest of the field will keep an eye on Mrs. Vare, for she is just as determined to unleash some prize winning golf as Virginia Van Wie, the 1934 winner, is certain she will not defend her title.

Mrs. Austin Pardue, a real contender herself, had a letter from Mrs. Vare just the other day in which Glenna said she had been playing more golf this year than in many past. And she hinted it had been pretty good golf, too.

At least she's confident it should prove good enough to acquire her fourth national championship. Only recently she walked away with the Griscom trophy in the Philadelphia area and that happened to embrace a pretty fast field.

Just to get in tune for the national, Mrs. Vare will play two exhibitions with Joyce Wethered before the English girl leaves for home.

Threats From All Sides

But Glenna won't have the field all to herself. Bernice Wall, who hails from Harry Cooper's Glen Oak course at Glen Ellyn, Ill., will be in the lists with many others.

Among the foremost contenders for the title is Mrs. O. S. Hill, who already is on the ground. She has played a few rounds over the course and hopes to capture the title that has eluded her grasp.

Miss Patty Berg, Minnesota women's champion, and Mrs. Patricia Stephenson, Minneapolis, can be counted on to furnish stiff opposition to championship hopes of the expected field of 130, as can Mary K. Browne, Cleveland; Marion Milley, Lexington, Ky., trans-Mississippi and western amateur titlist, and Lucile Robinson, Des Moines, 1933 western champion.

The first day's play, August 26, will consist of 18 hole qualifying rounds with match play following on each subsequent day of the week. The final on Saturday will be over the 36 hole route.

The Community Natural Gas company team and the Nance Motor company, in first and second places in the City Soft Ball league second half standing, will meet tonight in a crucial game of the series. By defeating the Gassers, the Nance team would go into a tie for the leadership of the half with the opportunity of annexing another win in their next meeting to cop the honors and go into a series with the John H. Garner team, first half champions, for the season championship.

ROTHROCK OPENS BIG SERIES WITH HOME RUN

Back on New York's Polo grounds, the St. Louis Cardinals were making another desperate try to wrest National league leadership from the Giants, beginning another crucial series between the two teams. Here, Jack Rothrock, Cardinal outfielder, is shown winding up at the plate after he had moved in on one of Carl Hubbell's southpaw slants in the first inning. Catcher Gus Mancuso stands by. Football's Easy to Coach Says Ex-Notre Dame Player

By RICHARD COWELL (Associated Press Staff Writer)

CHEYENNE, Wyo. Aug. 19 (AP)—Cold calculations with a pencil may show Young America's chances of becoming an all-American gridiron star are slim, but Larry (Moon) Mullins, star full-back on Knute Rockne's "national champion" elevens at Notre Dame, believes they are good.

"Football is an easy game for a youngster to play well, and it's an easy game to coach," Mullins said on a visit here. En route to Atchison, Kas., where he is head coach at St. Benedict's college, he stopped off for a huddle with his line coach, Tom Kassiss, another Rockne product.

Mullins, in California, recently appeared in a national picture with Jim Thorpe, Purdue's great Jim Purvis, Jeff Cravath, U. S. C. star and former Denver U. coach, and other heroes of the gridiron.

It Takes Brains

"A college boy can be a good football player if he has an adequate physical heritage, brains, a good competitive spirit and sufficient desire to be a good player," said the big blond former backfield ace, as he and Kassiss trudged over the Cheyenne country club links.

"It's not hard to be a good football coach either," he went on. "I'd say a man needs first the ability to hold the respect of his squad; a technical knowledge of the game and brains enough to apply his knowledge."

"I think all boys should play football, not only because the game is excellent physical training, but because it gives them, while they are young, an idea of the competitive side of life," he said, after slamming a drive 200 yards down the fairway.

Then he touched on the inspirational side of the game.

The 1935 Outlook

"It can be overdone, of course, but there's a lot to this 'die for dear old Rutgers' stuff. No matter how good his material is, a coach has to instill spirit into his

There's a grand opportunity awaiting some capable young first baseman. One like Phil Cavarretta, of the Chicago Cubs, for instance. If you happen to know of one, preferably a left-hander, send him to Bill Terry, the New York Giants' manager.

Terry has been casting about in hopes of finding someone with enough stuff to step in there and relieve him when the time comes for Bill to concentrate on his executive duties. That may not be soon but Bill wants to have the right man handy when he decides to step out of his player's uniform.

Right now there isn't a first baseman in the National league who rates higher than Terry but Bill knows as well as the next fellow that he can't go on forever. He's 37 now.

ALL WANT CAVARRETTA

Early in the season Terry showed considerable interest in young Joe Malay, a promising first-sacker. But Joe needed more seasoning, so back he went to the minors. According to the reports that have been drifting through, Joe has not come along as fast as Terry had hoped and may not be ready for big league service by next season.

Bill would like to have Phil Cavarretta. And so would almost any other big league manager. Phil plays the first sack as though it was part of him and already has the poise of a veteran player. No wonder that Terry is envious of Charlie Grimm's good fortune in picking up a gem like the 19-year-old Cavarretta, enabling

Relief Labor Checks Are Distributed

Today was pay day at the work relief offices, when several hundred checks were handed out to as many relief workers in this section. The amount of this pay roll could not be determined, as the paymaster was too busy waiting on the workers, who were too eager to receive their checks, to permit him to even answer questions.

These checks, the Daily Press was informed, should have been distributed Saturday, but were delayed in arriving. They were for week before last's labor performance.

The Judge Interviews a Bevy Of 'Feminine Pulchritude'

Copyright, 1935, King Features Syndicate, Inc. HOLLYWOOD—If it isn't love, then Jean Muir is one of Hollywood's most unselfish friends. The Warner Brothers star has spent the last week helping George Walcott, youthful actor, prepare for a screen test at the 20th Century-Fox studio.

Jean Muir always has been an enigma to the Hollywood match-makers. She has had few beaux and has shunned the film colony's social whirl. Walcott is an old friend from New York, whose acquaintance Jean renewed when she was working as assistant to Max Reinhardt in the stage production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream".

You'd hardly know Katherine De Mille. She has lost 20 pounds since finishing "The Crusades" and looks wonderful. She did it all without going on a diet, too.

The opposite problem confronts Lily Pons. The diva has been put on a special meal schedule to help her regain three pounds lost in the filming of "Love Song". She eats light repasts every two hours of the working day, mainly milk and fruit with an occasional sandwich.

You Asked Me and I'm Telling You! Mary Otis, Milwaukeee: Almost any kind of an outfit will do to tour the Hollywood late-spots in. Except for special occasions, the stay-up-laters dress very casually out here.

It happened, Joe Reddy reports, at a Hollywood bar. Two Scots were stalling to see which one would buy the drinks. At last, in desperation, one exclaimed: "Do you recall our old friend, Sandy? He's on a hunting trip and, yesterday, he went out and shot a buck right between the yores."

"What's yores?" asked the other Scot. "Scotch and soda," bellowed the winner.

Autograph seekers, more numerous and more insistent this summer than ever before in Hollywood, mobbed the child star, Jane Withers, when the 20th Century-Fox company, making "This Is the Life," sought to take scenes on the Ocean Park amusement pier. The demonstration reached such proportions that the troupe was forced to pack up and return to the studio. The scenes are now to be shot on a set, this being cheaper, the film company has decided, than to face the loss of time and the possibility of someone being injured and suing for damages.

What was the extraordinary telegram that Director Mitchell Leisen's wife sent him when he began his current picture? HOLLYWOOD TICKER-TAPE—Marlene Dietrich has 30 pairs of white slacks and 27 white blouses to go with them.

Every member of the party was loud in praise of the natural wonders of Carlsbad Cavern, beside which even the Mammoth Cave of Kentucky, those members of the Blue Grass state in the party had to acknowledge, was not of greater wonder.

That Wallace Ford was adopted 17 times in his youth?

But the irrepressible male entourage, with his discordant "all aboard," intervened to prevent the Press man from extending them an invitation to visit this oasis of West Texas, the likes of which they have not and will not vision till some of the party returns to their native homes, where nature has provided abundance of water. Some of the party were from that super-watered section of Tennessee, where nature has given them gushing springs, the like of which had we here we would have impounded an ocean. But having nothing but a dry arroyo, we have only impounded a miniature lake, with a mean depth of 135 feet and a shore line of 35 miles. Yet, we would like to have escorted the party out to our resort, for besides the lake we could have shown them a modern fish hatchery, sponsored by the state of Texas, from which is supplied the foundation of some of the most extensive fish propagating waters of Texas.

Courious, of Course While Cisco probably had little of interest to offer those from those super-watered states, yet there were some from those arid regions of the northwest that would have been interested, and even those from the watered states would have been curious to know how it could have been done in this section.

The party were traveling in a huge passenger trailer, one unit of the University of Oklahoma Tours, and were returning from its western trip. This touring party started from Chicago for a tour of the west, visiting Yellowstone Park, points in Mexico, Seattle, San Francisco, Yosemite Valley, Carlsbad and other points.

Every member of the party was loud in praise of the natural wonders of Carlsbad Cavern, beside which even the Mammoth Cave of Kentucky, those members of the Blue Grass state in the party had to acknowledge, was not of greater wonder.

The bus that stopped here was just one in the caravan carrying about 500 people, but there were a few who stopped here—about fifty in the party. Each car and passenger trailer was equipped with its own cafeteria and own dormitory of tents, making itself independent as well as self-serving. Three of the caravans conveyed this coterie over the vast and somewhat unexplored west, on an alleged educational expedition. But one can imagine the amount of education this bevy of beauties, in the "wild and wooly" west, may

New Relief Set-up Begins Operation Saturday Morning

COUNTY TO BE SERVED OUT OF TWO OFFICES

Saturday morning the new relief set-up was inaugurated under the district supervisor, R. C. Connally, administrator for five counties, with headquarters at Abilene. The new program calls for the closing of the relief offices in Eastland, Ranger, Cisco, Rising Star and Gorman, leaving open those at Eastland and Carbon. From these two offices will be administered relief for the county. Clients of Cisco, Ranger and Eastland, will look to the Eastland office for relief supplies, while the clients of the southern part of the county will be served out of the Carbon office, according to H. W. Seale, case worker in charge of the Eastland office.

Mr. Seale's home has always been in Eastland, but he comes to his new job from Rising Star where he has been connected with the relief administration. W. E. Moore, county case worker at Eastland under the old regime, has been transferred to Jones county, as case worker in charge.

Eastland, Carbon Main Offices
The offices of Eastland and Carbon will be administered through the Abilene district office, where Mr. Connally is district administrator, and F. A. Wells is district case supervisor, who was formerly case supervisor of Eastland county. Both have charge of district 13-A, comprising five counties. This arrangement eliminates two county administrators and two case workers for each of the counties served under the old regime, besides other administrative workers, reducing the expense of administration.

A commodity base will be maintained at each of the former relief offices at Cisco, Ranger, Rising Star and Gorman. E. R. Trimble, former assistant county administrator, is chief clerk at Eastland. Floyd Gilbert, former county work manager, is chief clerk at the Carbon office.

Under the new set-up all free commodity disbursements orders, except emergency medical supplies, will be written in the homes of the relief clients by case workers, and it will not be necessary for the clients to go either to Eastland or Carbon.

Restoration To Rolls
Those who may have been dropped from the rolls without cause, may state their grounds for restoration to Miss Thelma Halstead, intake secretary of the Eastland office, for the Eastland, Cisco and Ranger sections, while those living in the south end of the county may make their applications for restoration to Miss Jewell Reeves, of the Carbon office.

Relief commodities will be distributed from the several towns formerly maintaining relief offices under the old set-up. R. E. Richardson, is the distributor, who will direct the distribution of commodities.

In the new regime the relief clients will not have to go to the headquarters of the relief administration, but their supplies will be obtained on orders written by the case workers in the homes of the clients, except for medical emergency supplies.

Commodity Supplies
The commodity supplies will be delivered to the commodity distributor at Eastland, and by him will be distributed to the several relief storerooms of the county—Cisco, Ranger, Eastland, Carbon, Rising Star and Gorman—which are the present points of distribution. From these stations the commodities will be distributed to the relief clients over the county, on orders from the case workers.

"At present there are no commodities on hand," Mr. Richardson, said, "but we are expecting a consignment any day, and just as soon as these commodities arrive distribution will be resumed. As soon as they begin to arrive notice will be given by publication in the Cisco Daily Press."

Many of the personnel of the old set-up have been retained, though the new program necessarily meant the dropping of some of the former administration forces," Mr. Richardson said.

Following is the personnel of the workers who have been retained under the new administration:

Under H. W. Seale at Eastland
H. W. Seale, case worker in charge at Eastland, whose staff personnel will be Nita Williams, Eastland; Guy Brogdon, Cisco; Ed Richardson, Ranger and Rising Star; Winnie Tichenor, Cisco and Eastland; Allie Blythe and Connie Bryant, Ranger; Don Moorman, Gorman; Bess Paschall, Ranger and Olden; Ray Campbell, Ranger; Mrs. Etta Judia, Ranger and Cisco; Margaret Hudson, Gorman; Rita Troxell and Helen Davis, filing clerks; Marjorie Noell and Lorraine Powell, stenographers. Floyd Gilbert, chief clerk at Carbon, will be assisted by the following staff of workers; Katherine

EXECUTIVE DUTIES CALL TERRY
If the Giants' manager is entertaining any ideas of trying to wean Cavarretta away from the Cubs, he had better dismiss the thought. The former Chicago high school youth is going to stay right in his home town where he is tremendously popular with the neighbors.

Right now Terry has his hands well filled with the task of guiding the Giants to another pennant. But in the back of his head remains the hope of finding a capable man to take his place

Real Song Festival Promised at Ranger

RANGER, Aug. 19—A real song festival is promised those who will attend the big singing convention, which will be held in Ranger Saturday night, August 24 and Sunday, August 25.

Several noted quartets and singers from over Texas have been invited to attend and take part, and some have already notified the Local Singing association of their intention of being here.

The convention is being sponsored by the Local Singing association, of which Dr. A. K. Wier is president, the trustees of the independent school district and the chamber of commerce.

The convention will be held in Ranger's new $40,000.00 auditorium, which is a recent addition to Ranger's school system.

Over 500 letters have gone out to singers of this section of the State inviting them to take part, and no doubt the seating capacity of the auditorium will be taxed to take care of the crowds.

Every singer in this section of the state is invited to take part and enjoy this unusual treat of hearing noted singers and quartets.

The three organizations sponsoring the convention have formed committees to do everything possible to make the meeting a big success, and they want everyone to feel welcome to be here and take part in this great Song Festival.

men to make a championship team."

Mullins' teams won 22 games, lost four and tied one in the three years he has coached at St. Benedict's.

Mullins saw the Notre Dame spring practice and thinks the Irish are due for a big year under Elmer Layden.

"Layden has some great backs in Shakespeare, Elser, Carideo and his brother Mike," said Mullins. "But he needs a center and tackles."

Ohio State is a "cinch" for the Big Ten title, in Mullins' opinion, and Stanford and Santa Clara look best to him on the Pacific coast.

In his own region, Mullins picks Kansas State and Nebraska to top the big six.

"But Oklahoma may go places with Biff Jones coaching," he said.

The Best Ever
Ted Twomey, 1929 Notre Dame tackle, and Ernie Nevers, Stanford star, are the greatest football players he ever saw.

Mullins thinks there's nothing wrong in football "except some colleges follow a 'cut-the-squad' policy that deprives a lot of good boys of a chance to play.

"Let 'em all play, is my idea. And let the rules alone, so the public can learn something about the game."

Eastland Attorney Sues City For Fees

EASTLAND, Aug. 19—Milton E. Lawrence, former Eastland city attorney, Saturday filed suit in the 91st district court asking $750 allegedly due for services rendered in three cases.

Lawrence recited that he was hired April 17 to defend the city in a suit filed by C. W. Hoffman and H. O. Satterwhite, who asked the 88th district court to issue a Mandamus against the commission to hear and determine results of the April 2 election.

Lawrence claims in the petition he was authorized by Commissioners O. E. Harvey, J. M. Sherrill, Ben Pryor, T. M. Johnson and Donald Kinnaird.

On April 19, the petition recites, Lawrence filed suit vs. Hoffman and Satterwhite, asking that they be restrained from interfering with the board of commission in its discharge of duties.

Third case in which Lawrence acted for the city, according to the petition, was on June 1 when he was hired by Commissioners Pryor, Harvey and Sherrill to defend the city in a suit filed by Kinnaird, who asked that a mandamus be issued that the council hear and determine the April 2 election contest.
