DISTRICT COMMITTEE DELAYS ACTION

Amarillo Publisher Heads West Texas Chamber in 1932

BIG SPRING CHOSEN FOR CONVENTION

SWEETWATER, May 14. — Wilbur C. Hawk, general manager of the Amarillo News-Globe, today was elected president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. Big Spring was awarded the next convention. The vote for Hawk was by acclamation at the directors' breakfast. Hawk, widely known in southwest newspaper circles, succeeds a fellow publisher, Houston Harte, who has presided at this year's annual meeting here. Spencer Wells, of Lubbock, was elected first vice-president and Walter D. Cline, of Wichita Falls, second vice-president. A. J. Swenson, Stamford, was re-elected treasurer and D. A. Bandeen, manager, was re-elected to office. Delegates in closing session today adopted three resolutions which call for revision of state and local governments which were described as the means for saving at least $2,000,000 annually.

The first, a resolution calling for reorganization of state departments, described this as possible by consolidation and elimination of offices. Judiciary Reorganization. Another $500,000 could be saved by reorganization of the Texas judiciary system, a resolution declared. The third called for favoring immediate enactment of "county home bills" to permit consolidation of city and county governments and the consolidation of two or more counties. It was described as an economy measure.

The principal address was delivered today by President H. G. James, of the University of South Dakota, a former professor of government at the University of Texas. The South Dakota educator made a plea for efficiency and economy in government as a means of saving democracy. Houston Harte presided at the morning session which selected Big Spring as the 1933 convention city. San Angelo, Amarillo and Mineral Wells were also applicants.

WINS PERMANENT HOME TOWNSHIP. May 14. — Permanent possession of the Home Town Speaking Contest award cup today was given to Joe Witherspoon, of Wichita Falls, declared winner for the third consecutive year in the annual oratorical contest. J. W. Lauderdale, of Breckenridge, was second, J. H. Kelly, Quanah, third, and Judson Wise, of Moran, fourth. The contest is an annual feature in connection with the meeting of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

GARNER SAYS HOOVER SHOULD IMITATE CAL

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Speaker Garner today attacked President Hoover's message of yesterday concerning "frozen confidence." He declared that Mr. Hoover's statements during the past two years have "done more to freeze confidence than everything else put together." "I suggest," Garner said, "that the President imitate Cal Coolidge for 30 days and I can guarantee that the condition of public confidence will improve. "He can't get over that old mining stock sale idea," the speaker added. "Even the Lindbergh case comes in. The idea is so embedded with him he can't even let the department of justice get out a statement without signing it himself. Garner said the people have lost confidence in President Hoover's opinions because "they are always jumping around." Speaking at his daily press conference the speaker said the President has been speaking "from an individual and selfish point of view." "There is one good feature of the president's," the speaker said. "Whenever he finds a sound suggestion, he adopts it as his own. That is certainly a good feature. "The President's statements now have grown from single ones to double-barreled ones. He isn't satisfied now with one statement a day."

SETTLEMENT REPORTED IN LCAC TANGLE

Settlement of the financial difficulties involving the Lake Cisco Amusement company and an arrangement particularly advantageous to Cisco was reported to have come out of negotiations in connection with the filing of an injunction suit in district court at Eastland recently to prevent disposition of the company's properties at a trustee sale. Announcement of particulars has not been made but it is understood that control of the company has been placed in Cisco hands and an arrangement which is expected to be very beneficial to this city has been entered into.

W. A. Myrick, trustee, had advertised the company's properties for sale in default of bond payments and interest but the sale was not consummated when H. C. Reiner, of St. Louis, one of the holders of bonds of the company, secured an injunction in district court at Eastland. Hearing on the injunction was set for last Thursday and a settlement was brought about in a conference of parties concerned at Eastland on that day. Details of the settlement were to be made public as soon as some minor matters in connection with it were ironed out.

PARADING NEW YORKERS DEMAND LEGALIZED BEER BE RETURNED

NEW YORK, May 14.—Thousands of New Yorkers today demanded legalized beer as a means of taxation when Mayor James J. Walker stepped out in front of his big beer parade on Fifth Avenue. A bright, warm sun beat down as the first of the marchers gathered and started down Fifth Avenue in their demand for "Beer for Taxation." Bands played "How Dry I Am," posters glistened and there were shouts from the sidelines and from the marchers. The parade was a motley gathering of all races, trades and classes of New York's citizens. It was directed by radio from a blimp flying high overhead Manhattan ordered by Police Commissioner Edward Mulrooney as a test or radio traffic control for the first time in the history of New York's police department. Any congestion of traffic observed from the blimp will be straightened out by radio equipped patrol cars along the line of march.

The play, a farce in three acts, is called "The New Poor." Twelve characters take part. The graduation exercises for the seventh grade will be held Thursday evening at the high school. The class of high school graduates numbers over 60 students.

Led by the dapper mayor with "leaders of industry" close behind, the variegated array of marchers moved along a semi-circular route extending from upper Fifth Avenue to the lower end of Central Park and then back up along Central Park west on the other side of the park. Veterans of the Civil, the Spanish-American and World War kept step to the martial music of the "Stein Song."

"WET PARADE" IS PREPARED

WINONA, Minn., May 14.—Prominent citizens, unemployed residents and farmers in the city for the week-end today prepared to join in a "wet parade" modeled after Mayor James J. Walker's demonstration in New York City. DETROITERS MARCH FOR BEER. DETROIT, May 14.—Headed by members of the American Legion who are sponsoring the event an estimated 35,000 marchers are to parade downtown today in a "Bring Back Beer" demonstration. "Sweet Adeline," "How Dry I Am," and "The Little Brown Jug" were ditties prominent in the repertoires of the 20 bands scheduled to participate.

DALLAS TRADE TRIPPERS ARE GREETED HERE

The desire of Dallas and Dallas business men to become better acquainted with Cisco and its sister communities of the west, was expressed Saturday noon by 125 "hand-picked" trade trippers of that city in a brief stop and program here at noon. The trippers, traveling by special train en route from the Sweetwater convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce to Dallas, de-trained at 12:15 p. m. and marched behind the Lobo high school band and the visiting Dallas band to the intersection of D avenue and Eighth street where they were welcomed by B. A. Butler, Cisco Daily News, George Bowers, production superintendent of the Simms oil company, introduced by J. Frank Martino, sales manager for Butler Brothers, Dallas, responded in an address in which he praised the Cisco spirit and institutions and declared that "We have nothing to sell — we have come to get better acquainted."

J. Durrell Padgett was general chairman of the tour and E. F. Anderson, was secretary. Homer D. Puckett was chairman of the speaker's committee. The Lobo band, conducted by Director G. W. Collum welcomed the trippers with music at the station, escorted them to the speaking place and back to the station to bid them bon voyage with a final outburst of music as the train pulled from the station. While the program was in progress many members of the Dallas party occupied themselves by visiting the various stores and meeting the merchants.

$200,000 Fire at Dallas Saturday

DALLAS, May 14. — A fire which did $200,000 damage today was still eating its way through a warehouse filled closely with stacked oak flooring here tonight and 75 firemen settled down to what they expect to be a two day battle with the flames. Many of the firemen were unable to withstand the intense heat of the blazing and smoldering hardwood of which 3,000,000 feet had been burned and six collapsed.

VAST NET IS SPREAD FOR KIDNAP GANG

By BATES RANEY U. P. Staff Correspondent. HOPEWELL, N. J., May 14.—Seventy-five coast guard vessels swept the north Atlantic coastal waters today in an intensive search for a vessel on which the Lindbergh extortionists, possibly the actual kidnapers and murderers of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., are believed to be hiding. Supplementing this force a fleet of three amphibian planes and 13 cutters attached to coast guard base No. 9 at Cape May, N. J., were engaged in the manhunt. The planes favored by excellent flying weather covered an area of several hundred miles and at one time were reported to be 200 miles out at sea. Release to authorities of every scrap of information in the possession of Dr. John P. Condon (Falsie) and John Hughes Curtis, of Norfolk, Va., gave police and federal detectives their first clear picture of the vicious gang that cruelly bargained for ransom with guilty knowledge that they could not deliver the murdered child. Dr. Condon and District Attorney Charles D. McLaughlin, of the Bronx held a long conference this afternoon at which McLaughlin questioned the negotiator intensively as to the identity of the extortion gang. Keep Silence. Both Condon and McLaughlin refused to discuss details of the conference, but upon emerging from the district attorney's office Condon remarked that "it would be tough to be indicted for keeping silence" when all he had done was to try to hold the Lindberghs. New clues were unearthed today in the most intensive investigation conducted since the kidnaping on March 1. Prosecutor Erwin E. Marshall, of Mercer county, where the child's body was found, announced that search of the hillsides where the baby's hastily made grave was discovered wholly by chance, had revealed certain information of importance. He declined to elaborate on his statement. It was learned that searchers tramping over every inch of the surrounding territory too late by at least eight weeks, today discovered a broken shovel with fresh earth clinging to it.

Bradley's Burgoo King took foremost place among the season's three-year-olds today when he won the $50,000 Preakness stakes and became the third horse in history to win both the Derby and Preakness. Tick On was second, beaten by a neck and Boatwain was third. Sir Barton won both Derby and Preakness in 1919 and Gallant Fox in 1930. The winning time today was one minute 56 and four-fifths seconds. The race had a net value to the winner of $59,375. A capacity crowd of 46,000 watched the struggle. Mad Pussit finished fourth. Burgoo King paid $8.50 in the two dollar mutuels to win, five dollars to place, and $4 for third.

Confronted in her bedroom by a crazed Japanese servant who shouted his intention of murdering her entire household, Mrs. Dora W. Boice, above, sports-woman of Cherry Valley, N. Larry Daly was slain in a struggle with the Japanese, who finally committed suicide.

Next Texas Governor Has Opportunity For Fame or For Miserable Failure

By GORDON K. SHEARER United Press Staff Correspondent. AUSTIN, May 14. — Texas' governor for the next two years will go down in state history as one of its most famous executives or one of its greatest failures. No medium verdict will be possible on the governor of Texas for 1933-34. One view held here is that the next governor faces an almost impossible situation. One view held here is that the greatest opportunity that has come to an executive in many years. Holders of this latter view, and they are many, point out that public apathy no longer exists. A governor has the chance to get the backing of public sentiment for steps that heretofore have met defeat. The governor of Texas for 1933-34 faces revenue difficulties as his greatest obstacle. Revenue Cut. Shrinking property valuations will automatically cut down the state revenue even if the tax rate is driven to its highest possible constitutional limit. Indications now point to the people adopting a constitutional amendment in November freezing homesteads from taxation up to $3,000 valuation. Valuations are made locally. It can easily be foreseen that few homesteads will be paying taxes if the amendment carries. A state income tax, once urged as a substitute for much of the ad valorem tax, apparently will avail little for shrinking incomes have substantiated the claims of its opponents that it is not a sure enough system of state support. An intangible asset tax, also frequently urged, would meet the added opposition now that business should not be burdened in its present trying period. Opportunities. To offset financial worries, the 1933-34 governor of Texas has opportunities previous governors have not had to put over many measure among them: A public utility commission. Decried before, such a measure would now get public support from the people who are again scanning their necessary living expenses. Ice, rejected heretofore as a utility, might be included. Recent developments makes it possible that even milk might be so classed. Curtailment of expense of government offers the 1933-34 governor a chance to build a great record.

STATEMENT BY CISCO BOARD IS REJECTED

The question of Cisco's re-entry into Inter-cholatic League football next fall was as far from an answer Saturday night as ever. The district executive committee, meeting at Abilene Saturday afternoon, took no definite action to recommend to the state committee that the Lobo school be reinstated. The committee, however, passed a resolution recommending that such re-instatement be made provided that the Cisco authorities make a statement which the committee was to prepare Saturday night and submit to the Cisco school board possibly today.

A statement prepared by Cisco and revised by members of the executive committee in a meeting called at Eastland last week was rejected by the committee last night because it was claimed not to be complete enough. The statement, revised in pencil by Supt. Holland of Breckenridge and agreed to by all members of the executive committee and the Cisco school board present at the Eastland meeting read: Cisco's Statement. "After a consideration of the evidence with reference to the eligibility of the Cisco player, we are of the opinion that there was a conflict of testimony of such a nature as probably would justify the District Committee in deciding that the Cisco-Breckenridge game should be forfeited to Breckenridge. "We feel that the action of the District Committee in recommending the suspension of Cisco was too drastic, erroneous and not justifiable and penalized those who were in no manner responsible for such irregularities as the district might have believed occurred. "The Cisco School Board will use its best judgment in correcting such irregularities as it may be convinced have occurred in connection with the football situation. "No action was taken at the Eastland session because L. E. Dudley, Abilene principal and chairman of the committee, and Supt. Woodward of Brownwood, were absent and members present declined to act without a full committee. Supt. R. D. Green of Abilene, sitting for Dudley, and other committeemen present agreed that the revised Cisco statement was satisfactory. Is Rejected. But last night it was rejected by the executive committee on the ground that it was not full enough. F. D. Wright and O. J. Russell, Cisco school board members, were the only Cisco representative at the Abilene meeting. "As an off-hand opinion," said Mr. Wright last night, "I should say that the Cisco board will not approve the statement that the committee is expected to prepare." The statement will probably be delivered to the local board today. Four hours or more were occupied in the session at Abilene.

SMALL WILL GIVE SUPPORT TO STERLING

ABILENE, May 14. — When informed that Gov. Ross Sterling had announced for re-election, State Sen. Clint C. Small of Wellington, said here he planned to support Sterling during the coming campaign and predicted Sterling would win. Small said he never was really interested in the race himself this year but was interested in Sterling's announcement because he believed the Ferguson (James E. and Miriam) should have active opposition now. He said he believed Sterling's delay in announcing was "puzzling and disappointing" to the people but believed also that Sterling is entitled to the traditional second term.

THE GIFT OF PEACE:—Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you; not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid.—John 14: 27.

TEXAS DEMOCRATS IN BEHIND JACK GARNER.

Texas democrats have registered their verdict. In precinct and county convention they have given a ringing endorsement to the candidacy of a native son and instructed the state convention to select 40 delegates loyal at all times to the cause of their chosen leader until he has been nominated for the presidency or his name has been withdrawn as a candidate for that distinguished place of honor. California democrats spoke first. In a remarkable three-cornered contest they handed the prize of 44 delegates to the Texan with instructions that are almost iron-clad.

Texas and California are mighty commonwealths. They are fast growing commonwealths. They are veritable empires. Their natural resources are staggering to the mind. Now the democrats of these two fast moving states are in behind Garner as the choice of democrats for the presidential nomination of the party in this campaign which is to be memorable and the leaders of the two delegations predict in case of a deadlock that Garner will be nominated and in addition to all this the successor of Herbert Hoover as president of the United States.

A reminder that the young democrats of Texas swept the large cities and large counties of the state, controlled the conventions and made history in this year of our Lord 1932. They tossed aside a lot of dead timber, meaning the so-called elderly statesmen, they exiled many veterans to the political thicket and they demanded a new deal all around. Everywhere in the picture the American Legionnaires were in evidence, not as legionnaires but as democrats who insisted that a new order of social things is necessary and that new faces should be placed in the picture gallery of the nation.

KEEP THE RECORDS STRAIGHT.

Governor Sterling is on the firing line. He insists that the records shall be kept straight, meaning the cost of government in Texas. He has furnished the public an analysis which shows that more than 90 per cent of the total cost, in round numbers $103,672,473, in 1930, is due to increases in expenditures for highways and education. Moreover, that the balance of the increase, representing approximately 10 per cent of the total, is divided among the various other governmental functions. Increases in expenditures for the group, including executive, administrative, regulatory and other miscellaneous activities, has been less than one per cent of the total increase since 1920. In 1930 highways cost $47,052,605.51; education, $39,289,548.57. Another reminder that those who pay gallonage tax on gasoline contribute a large sum annually to the revenue necessary for the support of education under the skies of Texas. Also they contribute the money to build the highways as well as for the maintenance or upkeep of the highways. Governor Sterling is right. There is a reason why the records should be kept straight.

PENSION FOR THOSE WHO WORE THE GREY.

There are thousands of Confederate pensioners in Texas. In the long ago they fought for the Planters' republic and the flag that was furled forever. A reminder that disbursements for Confederate and other pensions were for the year 1920 $1,524,449, and for the year 1930 $2,817,131, or an increase of $1,292,682. Where is the political leader in Texas who would stop these pensions from the rolls? Where is the candidate for office who would dare to suggest it?

The Dog in the Manger!

Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE

I am glad to learn that the situation involving the Lake Cisco Amusement company is being worked out to the greater advantage of Cisco. A settlement of the financial difficulties in which the company was plunged along with almost every other business institution in the land, is nearing a consummation which will not only retain its share of the benefits that Cisco hopes to derive from the existence of the splendid facilities here at home.

We cannot afford to lose this institution. The money that has been spent, the time that has been devoted to its development are much too valuable an investment to cast aside. No other city in this section of the state has the advantages that Cisco possesses in Lake Cisco and the recreational facilities that have been developed in connection with it. It would be the poorest economy to neglect these advantages. With all the power of an aggressive citizenship we should demand that every opportunity that exists here should be exploited to the utmost.

Details of the settlement are not available at the time this is being written, but they are to be given to the public, I am informed. There are minor questions to be worked out.

I may hold differently from some considered more practical in their estimation of economic, social and political questions. I spun life on a purely mechanical or pragmatic basis. Profit, as I see it is not a matter merely of dollars and cents. I like to live. I believe that one of the most practical enterprises that Cisco can undertake is the enterprise of making this city one of the most interesting, the most thoroughly enjoyable places to live that is possible. If our consideration is earnestly devoted to improving all those attributes which contribute to a well-rounded, wholesome living for the individual many of these problems of economic and public welfare will automatically solve themselves. Here in Cisco we cannot make resources but we can develop the resources we have.

We hear the cry often that what we need is payrolls. Perhaps that is true. But how are we to hope for payrolls if the opportunities that we do have are neglected?

Mit Williams, assistant manager of J. C. Penny company, observes that many people, financially well fixed, are enjoying the depression and hope that it will continue. Their money will buy more, he said. It is humanly natural for each of us to get all each can for the money. Money made during flush times has all at once become twice as valuable as at once was. In effect those who have laid away comfortable sums during periods of easy money have had their stakes doubled. Not everybody lost money during the fiasco that began with the stock market crash in 1929. A good many people have made 100 per cent on their investment in savings. That may be or it may not be a pleasant reflection. At least it should prove a valuable lesson to some of us who placed too much confidence in the perpetuity of prosperity.

But it appears to be quite selfish, indeed, a type of treason against not merely the public welfare but eventually one's personal interests, to harbor such a sentiment. I would remind that the only assurance of economic safety is the general well-being. It is a false philosophy that would establish one upon a little pinnacle, isolated from one's fellows. Whether we like it or not we are not independent of the people about us. Our individual fortunes are inevitably controlled by them.

I lift the following paragraph from Melvin A. Traylor's "Home-spun Sense."
"We must not take unfair advantage of our competitors. It is entirely proper for us by legitimate means to obtain all the business that we can, but in doing so we ought to do nothing that will injure our competitors and that will in any way aid to destroy the confidence which the banks must repose in each other and which the community at large must repose in the banks as a whole if we are going to thrive, and remember always we cannot thrive separately. We shall either all thrive together or all suffer disaster."

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—We come again to the point where the relations between Tammany Hall and Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York threaten to become a matter of large general interest pending the selection of the next Democratic nominee for the presidency.

In the last year there have been other occasions when the governor's foes and various bystanders began to shout that the governor was at a crossroads where he must make a critical decision between defying Tammany and bidding for its support by truckling to it.

But despite the evidence of graft turned up by the Seabury committee in New York and Roosevelt's dismissal of one Tammany official, he has not yet come to the point where he had to choose between the bitter enmity of Tammany and the chance of losing support through the course of an exhibition of political cowardice. Thus far he has been able to pursue a middle course, without slashing at the machine with any unnecessary vigor or bowing too obviously before it.

Seabury's Stand

THE issue may not ever become so clean-cut as to face Roosevelt with a vital dilemma, but there are two factors which impress some political observers who believe that it will.

First, there is Mr. Samuel Seabury himself, the chief investigator of Tammany. Seabury has indicated that he thinks Roosevelt has been pussyfooting on the graft issue and there has been some suspicion that he would be likely to burst out publicly with his feelings in advance of the convention. Lately there have been reports that Seabury would recommend to Roosevelt the removal of New York's mayor, Jimmy Walker.

The other factor is the increasing doubt whether Roosevelt can be nominated at Chicago without the 50 votes of New York, which are expected to be cast as a unit under the direction of Tammany's chief, John F. Curry. If Roosevelt were now certain of those 50 delegates he would be reasonably sure of the nomination. If they are cast against him the going is likely to be rough, if not impossible.

A Delicate Situation

THERE have been some distinct indications that Curry was more favorable to Roosevelt than to Al Smith, the mainstay of the stop-Roosevelt combination. But he is infinitely more partial to Tammany Hall and a presidential nomination means nothing to Tammany's leaders as compared with their local position in New York City.

And inasmuch as Smith could do the organization considerable harm if he were to go after it in a New York City fight, Tammany has reason not to be too enthusiastic about supporting Roosevelt while he has Smith's bitter political enmity.

Hence the delicate political situation which will arise for Roosevelt if Seabury demands removal of Walker. The importance of the issue would be best measured by the weight of evidence which Seabury assembles behind the request. Other demands for Walker's removal, made by private citizens, have been easily tossed off because the evidence wasn't sufficiently convincing to demonstrate clearly that the governor should act.

But Seabury is nobody's fool and if he goes through with his reported intention he probably will make out a plausible case.

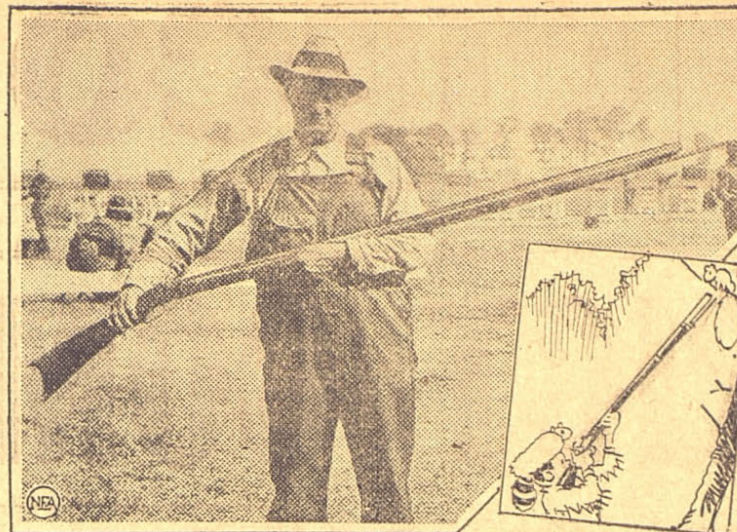

The November Angle

PREDICTIONS are again heard that Roosevelt will have to choose between losing strength through the country and incurring the direct opposition of Tammany. In the latter case, it is often argued, he might well stir up enough national enthusiasm to insure his election despite Tammany. But he would also be incurring the risk of a knifing from Tammany which might cost him New York state in the November elections.

It is more or less interesting to note that no one has yet suggested that any course the governor may take in such a situation will have any implications other than political.

It reminds you of the fact that in the Republican party, during all the excited speculation over whether President Hoover would stand for a moist plank in the platform, it has never yet occurred to anyone that the administration's decision would be guided by anything except the likely political consequences.

Mountain Sharpshooters Clash

In the heart of the Cumberland mountains, at Pikeville, Tenn., mountaineers held a match with the famous "long rifles" used by their grandpappies in settling the wild country. Gilbert Angel, above, rated one of the best shots of the district, cracked 47 out of a possible 50 at a range of 50 yards with the huge rifle, 100 years old, he is seen holding. The target was a cross cut on a blackened plank and molded bullets and black powder were used as in the old days.

COUNTY WHICH GETS JUDGE'S SERVICE PAYS

Counties receiving the benefit of the services of district judges who are assigned to courts other than their own to assist in relieving congested dockets pay the expenses incurred by such service, it was explained Saturday in a statement issued to the press by Judge George L. Davenport, of 91st district court. Judge Davenport's statement said:

To the Citizens of Eastland County:

For the past few years Judge Been of the 88th district court and I have been called to the various parts of the state to assist other courts with congested dockets, and have devoted considerable time to this work.

My attention has been called to the fact that some are laboring under the impression that counties where this work has been done have received the benefit of our service at the expense of Eastland county. In this connection I desire to make a full explanation.

In 1927, by an Act of the legislature, the district judges of the state were authorized to organize into administrative judicial districts. This was done the same year and the state divided into nine (9) administrative judicial districts, the courts of Eastland county having been placed in the eighth (8th) district.

Presiding Judges.

In keeping with the provisions of the above law the governor appointed a judge from each of the nine (9) respective administrative districts and are clothed with authority to transfer any judge within his district to any part of the state where his services are needed; such a judge when transferred being clothed with the same authority as if presiding in his own district, receiving no compensation therefor except his salary which is paid by the state. However, the law provides that his actual expenses shall be paid by the county (outside of his own district) receiving his services.

Under this law the whole procedure for the exchange of judges and for their transfer from one district to another has been simplified and made more practical, so that now when the dockets of any particular district become congested prompt relief may be obtained, and in this way avoiding the necessity of creating new courts. This law, so far as I am advised, has met with universal approval from the bench and bar.

To this relief work the judges of the Eastland county courts have contributed as much of their time as their own dockets would permit, and will be expected to continue so long as present conditions exist.

Legislative Action.

There has been some agitation of late as you know to abolish some of the courts, and at the last session of the legislature an effort was made to redistrict the entire state, with the contention on the part of some that by doing so, the number of our courts might be reduced. This may be possible and I feel that at the next session of the legislature such action will be taken as the facts then justify.

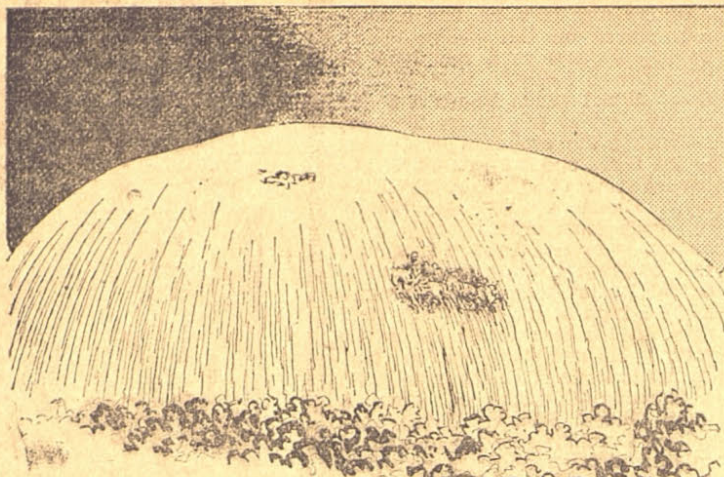

Our own court dockets are still heavy with a large number of cases to be tried, but on account of depressed conditions, many of the litigants are unable financially at this time to have their cases tried, and personally I doubt if it would be fair to such litigants, many of whom reside in our county, to arbitrarily dismiss their suits.

GEO. L. DAVENPORT, Judge of the Ninety-first District Court.

MEMORIES OF EXTINCT TEXAS PORT REVIVED

AUSTIN, May 14. — Ruins of Indianola, the ill-fated port which gave birth to Texas trade and commerce, will be visited by former residents and their relatives May 15 when the Indianola association holds its annual meeting at Port Lavaca.

Crumbled walls and a weed-tangled cemetery are all that remain along the shell-strewn shores of Matagorda Bay to mark the ancient trade center of the southwest. In 1875 a flood swept the city, taking a death toll variously estimated from 300 to 700 persons. Gulf waves completed the destruction in 1886.

Powder Horn was the name Tonkaway Indians gave the early settlement. Later its name was changed to Indian Point, and in 1948 to Indianola. Before 1875, its 7,000 inhabitants saw ships from all parts of the world unload cargoes at their doors. Camel and mule trains carried necessities inland to El Paso and other points in the far west.

Mrs. Johanna Runge of Austin was elected a vice-president of the Indianola association when former residents of the old port organized at Curcio April 15, 1930. The association will meet this year at Port Lavaca in order that its members may make excursions to the site of the lost city.

Graphic Accounts

In Mrs. Runge's possession are yellowed newspapers which give graphic accounts of the city's survival, pestilence and flood only to drop from sight in the tidal wave of 1886.

The following account, published at Edna, dated August 27, 1886:

"On the evening of August 19, 1886, storm signals ran up at the U. S. signal post at Indianola. At half past nine o'clock, the post recorded the wind velocity at 36 miles per hour. At 3:45 a. m. Friday, the wind velocity reached 72 miles per hour. The wires of Louis Woodworth, telegraph operator, broke. The city was cut off from the world. The storm began.

A howling blast and rushing torrents drowned every voice. Bridge and buildings were swept away. Spray cut the flesh like shot. Wreckage bounced along soaring waves as human beings clung to debris like rats.

A few days later, the screams of seagulls and the lap of waves beyond Pass Cavallo were the only sounds in a once flourishing city.

Chero — Mrs. Laverne Sattler opened Beauty Shoppe in Bohne Barber Shop, Main street.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JACOB AT BETHEL

Text: Gen. 28:10-17.
The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for May 15.

By WM. E. GILROY, D. D., Editor of The Congregationalist

The story of Jacob's experience at Bethel derives much of its real meaning and significance from the whole story of Jacob's previous life. Jacob's career had been rather checkered. He was not one of those characters whose life experiences move steadily and whose character and action had been uniformly good and prompted by high motives. On the contrary there was a great deal, both in the man himself and in his outward conduct, that was at variance with the reputation that he has come to have in religious history.

If this reputation of Jacob be deserved, it is because in spite of the fact that there was much in his record that is unworthy, there were also scenes and experiences that showed him capable of religious feeling and of religious response.

We forget, sometimes, that men are to be judged by the best that is in them as well as by the worst. No judgment of a man is quite valid unless it takes into account what the man was capable of becoming. Not one of us would like to be judged by his manifestations of weakness and failure.

We like to think that even when we yielded to temptation there was a better man somewhere within us than the man who yielded. We like to think that our aspirations speak more truly of what we are than our shortcomings and our failures.

It is perhaps significant that Jacob's experience at Bethel was in a dream. Modern psychology is teaching that our real longings and desires are often experiences in dream life. A tendency of modern psychology has been to associate dreams chiefly with suppressed desires, largely downward and evil in their tendency, but a sounder interpretation would evidently relate our dream life to our better impulses and longings as well.

The very fact that there was in Jacob the struggle of his elemental ambition and selfishness with the consciousness of something better to which he had not yet quite yielded his life, would account for the dream. Jacob evidently had been suppressing something finer in himself than had come to light in his words of his actions.

In the dream at Bethel Jacob had a vision of God. The critic may quibble about that statement and suggest that Jacob had not a very high conception of God, that it was more a tribal deity with whom he conversed. But the God who came to Jacob in his dream represented the noblest being of whom he could conceive; and is not that what God is to each one of us? The important thing is that the experience at Bethel, though it began in a dream, did not end there. Following the dream came the reality. Jacob awakened out of his sleep a new and a better man. He is not the first man whose life has been changed through the power of a dream becoming true.

Motor Cop Adopts "Prisoner"

The "one-man's orphan home," as he styles it, of Motorcycle Policeman Don Maynard, Huntington, W. Va., has gained another recruit—a 10-month-old baby girl he found on a doorstep when he was called to make an arrest. This adoption was the eleventh for Mr. and Mrs. Maynard, pictured above with the founding. Eighteen years ago when they married, they adopted six brothers and sisters of the bride. Later, four of Maynard's brothers came. The stock wined and brought three more babies in the Maynard brood. Chagrined because his flock had dwindled recently to six or eight, the others having "married off," Maynard wishes he had a good farm. "Then I could take on at least 20," he grins.

MENUS FOR THE ENTIRE FAMILY

BY SISTER MARY
NEA Service Writer

JUST as whipped cream turns the plainest pudding into something quite festive and attractive, so very often a properly chosen sauce makes a cheap cut of meat or fish most appetizing. This spring especially home-makers face the necessity of tempting jaded appetites as economically as possible and any unusual trick of seasoning or serving is a means toward this end.

If more cooks would serve caper sauce with boiled mutton they would find this excellent and inexpensive meat more popular.

The mission of any sauce is to accompany and it must also blend in both flavor and texture with the main dish. Sometimes it must add flavor to a food which is somewhat tasteless and other times the sauce must soften a too pronounced flavor in a food. This is the case with caper sauce with mutton.

Caper Sauce
Two tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1-2 cup water, 1 cup mutton broth, 4 tablespoons capers, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 1-2 cup cream (optional).
Melt butter and stir in flour. Cook and stir until frothy. Add broth and water slowly, stirring constantly. Bring to the boiling point and add capers and parsley. Heat again to boiling point and add cream. Heat but do not let boil and serve at once.

Rich Fish Sauce
A fish sauce must often supply fat, since some fish, such as the cod, carry all their fat in the liver. The sauce must also take care of the dryness of many varieties of fish.
Two tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 2 cups milk, 1 tablespoon minced gherkins, 2 tablespoons minced parsley, 1 hard cooked egg, onion.
Melt butter and add onion. Cook. Add salt and parsley and cook until frothy. Slowly add milk, stirring constantly. Bring to the boiling point and cook five minutes. Add prepared gherkins and eggs cut in slices. Serve at once. A tart sauce is often wanted with fish and the following tomato sauce is delicious. This sauce is good with veal, too.

Tomato Sauce
Four tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons minced onion, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup sifted canned tomatoes, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1-4 teaspoon mustard, 1-2 teaspoon paprika, 1-2 cup cream.
Melt butter and add onion. Cook over a low fire for a minutes, letting onion brown slightly. Stir in flour, salt, mustard and paprika sifted together. Cook until frothy and slowly add water, stirring constantly. Add tomatoes and parsley and simmer twenty minutes. Rub through a strainer and stir in lemon juice. Reheat and add cream heated to the same temperature. Serve at once.

Orange Sauce
Orange sauce is unusual and delicious with roast lamb or broiled lamb chops.
Two oranges, 1-2 lemon, 5 tablespoons currant jelly, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 tablespoons non-alcoholic sherry, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon white pepper, 2 tablespoons minced mint.
Use grated rind and juice of oranges and juice of lemon. Combine all ingredients and beat with a fork until blended. Serve very cold.

Cagney Real Hero In 'The Crowd Roars'

Unlike any part he has heretofore played on the screen, James Cagney appears as a real hero in "The Crowd Roars," the Warner Bros. special which begins a 2 day engagement at the Palace Theater.

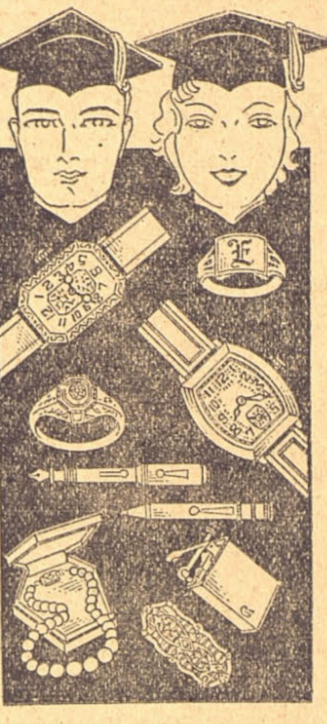

Tracing the evolution of Cagney in the films, one finds that the red-headed star of "The Public Enemy," "Blonde Crazy," and "Taxi!" has gone from cringing coward to blatant gangster, through hoodlums to tough-guy. Although "The Crowd Roars" offers him a chance to be a hero of the late Wally Reid type, in his own words he is "no softy." He never expects to play romantic leads as a Latin type lover, a mooring Valentino, or even a John Gilbert Romeo. Cagney has earned a unique spot for himself in talking pictures and has no desire to step out of it. His "bit" with George Arliss in "The Millionaire" won him much credit and showed he is capable of playing varied types of roles, but his own peculiar and individual appeal to the public is greatest in roles in which he is "no softy."

In "The Crowd Roars," he is cast as a daredevil auto racer whose grit and courage win him the championship. Joan Blondell plays a featured role, as do Eric Linden, and Ann Dvorak, a young lady who is fast reaching stellar heights. Guy Kibben and Frank McHugh also appear in the cast.

Fourteen drivers of international reputation are seen zooming their cars around the Indianapolis, Ventura and Ascot race tracks, under the direction of Howard Hawks, who also wrote the story. It has been heralded as the most exciting and actionful production in years.

the MAN HUNTERS BY MABEL McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Susan Carey, pretty secretary who is in love with Bob Dunbar, has a proposal of marriage from Ben Lampman, penniless young musician.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXVII

After wavering in the balance for several days Ben Lampman's condition suddenly improved. The doctor announced that Ben would recover.

Before the shooting her course had seemed so simple and so plain. It had seemed both generous and wise of her to accept Ernest Heath's name and protection.

She procrastinated. She let the days pass without coming to a decision. She even wore, nowadays, on the third finger of her left hand a ring with a single shining stone.

She tried to talk to Rose about it but there was not much help from this quarter since she did not dare to speak of Bob Dunbar.

So the days slipped by and nearer came the date set for the wedding. Aunt Jessie wrote glowing letters from Florida.

Susan's heart gave a wild leap. It was preposterous, of course, but she supposed Bob should have been looking for her!

Mr. Shultz was, as he would have put it, "no great hand at description." "Oh, a sort of medium-sized man who would be no taller than young feller," he said slowly.

"I suppose so," Susan answered. When she went into the house she heard the telephone bell ringing and sped for it but just before she reached the dining room the bell gave a final gasp and stopped.

"You called this number," Susan told her fiercely.

"Scary but there's no one on the wire now." The girl could have wept at the words. Someone had been trying to reach her.

For the hundredth time Susan chided herself for her folly. How could she go on hoping in the face of so many disappointments?

For the hundredth time Susan chided herself for her folly.

TEXAS TOPICS

By RAYMOND BROOKS

AUSTIN, May 14. — Numbers of county officials who have gone back and made painstaking and conscientious search, since the fee investigations, mostly small, about which they were in doubt.

The results is that several hundred items aggregating probably $10,000 or $15,000, have been found, and the money remitted to the treasury.

The same attitude toward new fee items have caused officials to pay over to the state small amounts that likely otherwise would have re-acted finally with the officers.

Here is one advantage of a department's having fuller control over its revenues and disbursements than granted the usual agency of the state.

Executive Secy. Will Tucker hasn't made out an expense account for his own travel since last fall.

It is the only department so far as known that had cut its salaries before this present agitation for budget-trimming got under way.

The civil judicial council is going to find out just how long the average case requires for final disposition in supreme court.

Texas Golf Tournament Will Be Played On Course Located in Arkansas

TEXARKANA, May 14 — This year's Texas Amateur Golf association tournament will set its story in that it will be played on an out-of-state course.

For the links of the Texarkana Country club, which will be host to the event on May 24-28, are not in Texas but in Arkansas.

The fact that the course lies far removed from the "center of population" of Texas golfers as is possible is bound to raise scores since few of the contestants will have played it before the short period allowed preceding actual match play.

Its traveling deputies get three cents per mile instead of the five cents allowed by law.

Executive Secy. Will Tucker hasn't made out an expense account for his own travel since last fall.

It is the only department so far as known that had cut its salaries before this present agitation for budget-trimming got under way.

The civil judicial council is going to find out just how long the average case requires for final disposition in supreme court.

Members A. P. Johnson, Carrizo Springs, and R. W. Stayton, Austin, have begun an analysis of the time that each case stays on the docket of the court, and this will be published to the legislature and the state as part of the work of the ment of a mind to get the jump on opposition. Included in these were Gus Moreland and John Falconer, Jr., both of Dallas, the former defending champion.

The course itself is responding to intensive attention paid it this spring, and, according to J. K. Kadley, Texarkana, president of the Texas Golf association, will be in excellent shape as play starts.

The greens have been softened by recent rains and consequent growth of grass. Moreland blamed hard fast greens for a poor score made here in April and contested them with those of Brook Hollow, Dallas, where he said he could "drive on with a brass" and stick.

The course itself, admittedly outstanding among southwest links, almost defies description. Built over terrain that might have been ordered for the purpose, its fairways carved from virgin growths of pine and oak, and owned by people who were willing to make the required outlay to achieve their object it is a fitting scene for the 1932 Texas classic.

It is fast becoming recognized in this section as having a say-so when tournament sites are being selected. Altogether the approaching Texas amateur will be its most important event in point of size, it has twice been host to the Arkansas men's one- and the Arkansas women's and once to the Texas women's. The latter will be played there again this fall.

RANDOLPH CLASSES HAVE BANQUET

In an unusually attractive setting, members of the Junior and Senior classes and faculty of Randolph college enjoyed the annual banquet, the Juniors honoring the Seniors, at the First Christian church Friday evening. An Indian motif was cleverly used in every detail of decoration. The school colors of red and white were displayed on a "U" shape. At one end of the room there was a realistic Indian scene, with a teepee, in front of which was a campfire, electrically lighted, and an Indian. An abundance of greenery, disguising columns in the center of the room as trees, was used giving further emphasis to the desired effect. Place cards were in the form of teepees, inside of which was the program. Bouquets of wild flowers added floral loveliness to the festive board, where the dinner in three courses, consisting of fruit cocktail, baked chicken and dressing, cream peas, potatoes, gravy, pills, salad, ice cream, and angel food cake, was served.

The invocation was given by President Lee Clark, Jules Karkalis, president of the Junior class, was toastmaster for the occasion, and gave the welcoming address. The response was given by Joe Clark, president of the Senior class. Mrs. Allan Wood gave several musical selections during the evening, and Frank Reynolds sang "Pale Moon", accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Glendon Drake. A short talk was given by "Pep" Garrett, and every member of the faculty gave an impromptu talk. An intensely interesting address full of sparkling wit and humor was given by Rev. J. Stuart Pearce. By request, Frank Reynolds sang "Ohloe". The student body sang "Alma Mater." About 70 people enjoyed this affair.

"Meet me in St. Louie" sang the crowds. What's the best reason for having a telephone? World's Fair days in St. Louis... 28 years ago. Remember the crowds along the Pike... the maze of palaces and colonnades... Igorrotes and whiskered Ainus... Parisian beauties and Geisha girls... exciting sham battles of the Boer War... brilliant beauty of the Cascades at night... We hope you don't remember too clearly long distance telephone calls of those days. For there have been amazing improvements. Compare, for instance, a long distance call in 1904 with the "1932 model": Clearness In 1904... You often had to shout, sometimes could hardly hear at all. In 1932... You speak in ordinary tones. People say "I can hear you as clearly as though you were in the next room." Speed In 1904... Ten to fifteen minutes was considered excellent time for a call to "go through." Delays of an hour or more were not uncommon. In 1932... Connections are made while you hold the line, on nine out of ten calls. Distance In 1904... Most calls were to neighboring towns. About 1,000 miles was the maximum distance you could call. In 1932... You can, if you wish, call 92% of the world's telephones. San Francisco, Chicago, Boston, Miami, New Orleans... are as near by telephone as a town ten miles away. If you haven't been a user of long distance, we hope you'll try a call. You'll be surprised how easy it is and how pleasant. The cost, we wager, will be less than you think, especially if you call "station-to-station" after 8:30 p.m. Miss Long Distance will be glad to quote rates. For instance, such a call to St. Louis costs $1.40. Said Mr. McCarthy: "You never know when you'll get a business call at home. And during the day, it's a fine thing to know the Missis can call you, should anything go wrong."

What's the best reason for having a telephone? ... we asked the McCarthy's. Said Mr. McCarthy: "You never know when you'll get a business call at home. And during the day, it's a fine thing to know the Missis can call you, should anything go wrong." Mrs. McCarthy: "Well, I'll admit I enjoy 'visiting' on the telephone. I can keep in touch with folks I don't get to see very often. And the telephone does save a world of trips to the grocery, the drug store, the cleaners and the like. What if we should need the doctor... or the police... or the fire department?" We're glad to find the telephone is something each of the McCarthy's uses... that it gives so much pleasure... is depended on in emergencies. Perhaps you do not have a telephone at home. If not, we really believe you're missing something. If you're interested, call the business office. SOUTHWESTERN BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY
