Equipment for the Cisco Cannery has arrived and will be installed in the lower floor of the Telephone building, according to E. H. Varnell, high school vocationalist. E. C. SATTERWHITE WAS SEEING VOTERS HERE

E. C. Satterwhite, candidate for tax collector, was electioneering with Cisco voters the first of the week. Returning home Wednesday from a swing through the southern part of the county, he stopped over in Cisco long enough to make this office a short call. While here he authorized his name to be placed in the Citizen's announcement columns, as he realizes the Citizen is the most thoroughly read newspaper in Eastland county.

Mr. Satterwhite, who has spent this week in the Cisco country, visiting the farmers in this section, to whom he is pleading his political cause, was accompanied by Mrs. Satterwhite. From expressions of those whom Mrs. Satterwhite came in contact in the interest of her she moved with her family to Kenhusband's candidacy, the Citizen believes she is a natural campaigner, as many favorable expressions of her have been voiced by those who met this affable lady.

Sister of Mrs. J. H. Stamps was Buried Here Tuesday P. M.

The last rites for Mrs. J. B. Ammerman were held here Tuesday afternoon at the graveside in Oakwood cemetery at 2 o'clock, following the arrival of the remains at 12:20. Green Funeral Home hearse conveyed the body to that mortuary where it was held till the funeral hour, when throngs of old friends of deceased, who knew and loved her during her residence in Cisco, formed a huge cortege that followed to the cemetery, and there they paid their last tribute to a true friend, noble woman and loving parent. Services at the grave were conducted by Rev. E. L. Miley, pastor of the First Christian church of Cisco.

Mrs. Winston now lives with her son, Captain Barlow Winston, of the United States army, at Baltimore. Only Mr. and Mrs. Stamps remain in Cisco of this happy family trio. Besides Mrs. Stamps, Mrs. Winston and another sister, Mrs. J. Y. Hill, of Lockney, other survivors are W. B. Ammerman, Sr., a son, three grandchildren, W. B. Candidate C. Lotief Declines Seat At Belshazzar Feast

Declining the invitation of the Sweetwater committee of the West Texas chamber of commerce to attend the banquet arranged for candidates for legislative honors, Cecil A. Lotief, candidate for flotorial representative from the 107th district, addressed the following letter to Mr. John M. Hendrix, of that committee, which is a characteristic Lotief letter, as he is making the race without any entangling alliances with others than the people whom he expects to represent:

"Thanks for your letter of invitation," Lotief said, "which included one free ticket to the legislative banquet to members and candidates for the legislature.

Association Will Convene Alternately in Eastland County Towns Fortnightly

The next meeting of the Eastland County Taxpayers' association will meet in the city of Rising Star, it was determined at the session held in Eastland May 14. In this deeision the association made a distinct change in its arranged program, as the sessions have been held in Eastland since its organization. The reason for this change, it was said, was to stimulate interest in the association, and instead of holding all meetings in Eastland by holding the sessions alternately in the several towns of the county, the meetings will come to the people, and more will be enabled to attend. Also, by rotating the sessions will give the people a better idea of the purposes of the association, and will provide a nucleus for a local association in each town in which the regular meetings are held. Already several communities have organized local associations, as there is a local at Cisco, Gorman, Cook and other places. The local at Cook is perhaps, the largest in point of membership of any of the local bodies, having a membership of about one hundred. The Cook local meets on Wednesday night.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

In thy presence is fulness of joy-at thy right hand there are pleas ures for evermore.-Ps. 17:11.

> "Life eternal! Heaven rejoices: Jesus lives who once was dead; Join, O man, the deathless voices; Child of God, lift up thy head."

To the material senses, life appears to be a development for a period of time, and then a gradual decline. If the material senses were the only source of information as to existence, the future would indeed be a dark outlook. However, citations from the Bible show that God made man like Himself; and in the book of Malachi we read, "I am the Lord, I change not." In order to possess and retain life and strength, we must learn to know God as Spirit and man as spiritual.—Christian Science Monitor.

LOBBYING EXPENSIVE TO OIL MEN

In the anti-trust oil suits brought by Attorney General Allred he caused to be read into the record that lobbying against the bill to divorce service stations from the major oil companies were expensive to the oil men. This came about through certain correspondence during the consideration of the divorcement bill before the legislature. The bill died in committee room, this correspondence disclosed, and one of the letters stated it "cost considerable money."

But if Allred is successful in the suits now pending, to keep the legislature from passing the bill which would have compelled the major companies to relinquish service stations, it will prove it was a waste of money, for this is one of the main points in the attorney general's suit. And it is a point most clearly showing the major companies to be acting in violation of the anti-trust laws. The state has a conspicuous precedent—that of the packers handed down economy. by the federal supreme court in December, 1930. The supreme court, in this decision, denied the packers the right to engage in retail meat trade. If it is unlawful for packers to sell meat at retail, even a layman can see no reason to permit the major oil companies to operate retail gas and oil

So far, Allred is making progress in his huge suit against the major companies, and many believe he will get a judgment on some of the issues raised, the most conspicuous in violation of the anti-trust laws is the operation of retail service stations.

But in securing the defeat of the bill against operation of service stations, the major companies did not rely wholly on their hired lobbyists and "retainer" representatives in the legislature. Circular letters were sent to all filling station operators for the major companies urging them to wire their representatives in the house and senate to vote against the bill, and the service station operators were urged to see their friends and flood the mail with letters, and to send telegrams to the legislators urging them to vote against the bill. Also major companies urged their employes to work against the pipe line bill pending in the legislature at the time. Much work was done, and the bills died in the committee room.

So, for the time being, the major companies were permitted to continue in the retail business, something the supreme court said the packers could not do, but if Allred bell and Senator Charles A. PURITY OF CISCO WATER ESSENTIAL

One of the most important acts that the city commission can perform is to keep Cisco water supply free from contamination. This can only be determined by frequent analyses, a regulation required by the state and federal health departments. For several years these analyses have been made by Helman Rosenthal, a Dallas chemist, recognized by state and national health authorities. Mr. Rosenthal's work has been accepted by the national govern- surely no body of men ever had a not need more money. But oftentimes the free services prove more expensive 1896. (Cheers.) ultimately. This was found to be true in a former administration. Then the health department did the work, but each report showed greater bacteria contamination than the previous report, and each report was accompanied by a recommendation that the city install a certain style of chlorinator, manufactured by one factory in particular, whose

Rosen- and claimed credit for wha Al- the mines will produce gold enough thal's reports showed no more bacteria than was allowed mighty God had given the earth I would rather have one metal than under the health regulations, while the state continued to show slightly more contamination than previous reports. Each of the state reports insisted on installing the $1,500 chlorinator. When matters reached a stage that something had to be done, Mr. Rosenthal was summoned to Cisco and agreed to give his personal attention to Cisco water, to visit Cisco once each month, and oftener if required, for $75 per month. He was employed, but later reduced this sum to $50 per month, after contracting with several other neighboring cities in a like capacity.

While these arrangements were in course of formation the state department sent one of its water experts to Cisco to demand that something be done. However, when shown the report of Mr. Rosenthal, and its acceptance by the federal health department, the state expert was knocked clear off his feet. Then he admitted that the state department had some of the University students of chemistry to make the analyses.

When Rosenthal arrived in Cisco he was told about the advice of the state department to install the $1,500 chlorinator. He recommended that the city build its own chlorinator, which he stated would cost about $35. This was done, but at a cost of $17.50. So, the first year the city saved the sum of $882.50 over that which the state service would have cost had the city officials followed the advice sent out by the state health department to install the chlorinator those officials recommended. Yet, the service was

But there is another story. Forget about the chlorinator, that would evidently paid some official a nice commission, as only one make of chlorinator would answer the purpose, despite the fact that there are many devices manufactured to purify city water, and some of them are sold as low as $350. Then, another saving the city made in not following the advice of the state department was in the cost of operating the chlorinator. It required a certain sand found only on the gulf coast, and its transportation, coupled with the cost of operating the state-recommended chlorinator, would have approximated the purchase price of the device during its first year of operation.

The other view of the picture is the danger of allowing the water to become contaminated, as it was admitted that the analyses were made by University students, and therefore unreliable. If they made mistakes in finding excessive bacteria, isn't it just as reasonable to suppose a like mistake would be made in not discovering disease germs that might be in the water until Cisco would be in the throes of an epidemic? If such a condition should arise this free service will prove very costly ultimately in dollars and cents as well as human lives that might be the price of false Better be careful, Messrs. Commissioners. Do some investigating before accepting a free service. It will be too late when typhoid takes its toll of human lives. Observation has demonstrated that free service generally proves the most expensive. Better know that you are safe, even if the cost does seem slightly excessive.

Surplus of Cotton Differs From That Of Any Other Crop

Hon. J. F. This surplus has now reached such immense proportions that it

It is apparent that the price of cotton can never rise unless the production in the future is limited cannot do it.

The opponents of our cotton law are usually town dudes, self-constituted constitutional lawvers, and Judge Cunningham is the father white-collared editors of daily newspapers, most of whom have never raised vegetables or fruits, or grown grains or cotton, and hence have little information in regard to agricultural products.

By joint action of the oil-producing states, Governor Sterling and others, have limited the production of oil until the price has risen from ten cents a barrel to one dollar a barrel, in the midst of the world-wide depression. It is the babble of babes for men to contend that the same laws, which raised the price of oil, cannot be applied to cotton. The men who claim this are either not informed or not sincere.

With constitutional provisions almost exactly the same the supreme court of the United States has held that the states have the power by tutional lawyers of Texas maintain that it is unconstitutional to limit the production of cotton.

There is no doubt of the constiutionality of the Texas cotton law whenever all of the facts are fully presented to the supreme court of Texas, or of the United States.

All we lack is joint action by other states with Texas so as to make the measure effective.

This coming January the regular sessions of the legislatures of all the Southern States will be in session, at which time our farmers can and will obtain the passage of laws similar to that of Texas in enough of the Southern States to make the measure effective, after which the price of cotton should slowly rise. Without which certain disaster will overwhelm, not only the farmer, but every industry in the South, dependent on cotton.

The farmers of Texas, the governor of Texas, the commissioner of agriculture of Texas, and a majority of the senators and representatives of Texas, can be depended on to carry the measure to other candidate for governor before the are publishing it this week.

system in Texas, one that will remove 70 percent of the taxes from real estate and placing it on the two-thirds of our wealth now escaping taxation," the speaker declared "there is assessed in Texas for taxes $4,300,000,000 worth of wealth. Records at Washington show an hundred billion wealth in Texas. Now it would not be fair to say that 4.3 per cent of the wealth in the state is paying all of the taxes, but it is true that less than one-third of the wealth is paying all of the ad valorem taxes.

"And 75 per cent of the assessed wealth is real estate. Real estate is carrying the burden in this state and it has carried it until it can no longer stand up under it. Of the other 25 per cent, half of it is upon livestock, furniture and fixtures that are a part of real estate.

"A piece of property is not worth more than it will produce, and when it won't produce a profit it isn't worth the price. When you buy your bank stock you ask how safe is your investment and what will the profits be. Ask yourself the same question about your real estate. If it is paying a profit these days it is doing better than

"We must take the huge taxation load off of real estate and let it come back into its own when it will again be good collateral and there will be a market for it.

"We must place a sales tax upon substitutes produced in competition with products of the soil. If we had had an adequate sales tax last year upon the products of the soy bean and the cocoanut, cottonseed would have brought 100 per cent better price. We must have a tax levied upon the substitutes put out in competition with our

"It must be made a penal offense in Texas for any state official to receive pay from a corporation. Two thousand years ago the Savior said: 'No man can serve two masters,' and it is just as true now as when pronounced by Jesus of Nazareth.

"I am unalterably opposed to a state-wide road bond issue. You amend the constitution and take out of the hands of the people their inherent right to say when they shall or shall not be bonded, and place that authority in official Austin, and you most certainly commit your state to bankruptcy and your posterity to servitude.

"It is not right to charge real estate for the construction and maintenance of highways. Those who use the roads must pay for them. One cent of the present gasoline tax, if used for that purpose would be sufficient to retire the road bonds of every county in Texas as they mature.

"Why are eggs six cents a dozen, cotton five cents a pound, and wheat 40 cents a bushel? Is there too much money in the country? Are our people half clad because there is too much clothing? One reason for the low price of our commodities is that the utilities are taking from Texas more than 70 millions of dollars annually in unfair profits, shipping it to the banks of the East, where the utilities are owned, instead of leaving it in circulation in Texas as a buying power for Texas people. A. WAYNE MITCHELL DIED FRIDAY AT HOME OF SON

The Abilene News records the death of Anthony Wayne Mitchell. who died Friday at the home of his son, T. W. Mitchell, on the Buffalo Gap highway, 11 miles south of that city. Mr. Mitchell had visited in Cisco frequently in years past, where he was a guest in the home of W. H. Kittrell.

Funeral services were held at the Presbyterian church in Buffacemetery at that place. The Abilene paper had the following:

The aged confederate, who had lived for 15 years in the Texas home for veterans at Austin, came here last October to visit his son. He became ill while making the trip and had been confined to bed

Anthony Mitchell was born in James Mitchell, settled, after com- of the Cisco High School, and is ing to Texas with Sam Houston from Tennessee. Enlisting with General Tom Green's brigade at the age of 16 years, young Mitchell served through the war between the states. He was married to Miss Sue Clara Wingard in 1868. Her death occurred in 1917.

Besides his son, Mr. Mitchell is survived by two daughters, Mrs. B. F. Gibson of Lufkin and Mrs. W. D. Nance of Leuders, and several grandchildren and great grandchilmy taxes with a hot check. I have this cancelled check, and will be glad to show it to anyone interested. Now, if anyone desires to ask any questions I shall be glad to answer." Judge Garrett stated. Many had querries to make, some of which were answered, others of record, Judge Garrett said he could not answer definitely without consulting the records.

Not Pushing Home Owners He said he did not pay his taxes because of the organization of the Taxpayers' association, that he paid them just as soon as he could raise the money by cashing his life insurance policy. "The commissioners' court is not pushing any farm owner or small tax payers roles. but we are making an effort to collect taxes on portable property from transient people who are liable to move this property beyond the jurisdiction of the county. I have always made it a point to leave the court room ing on my salary," he stated.

In reply to remarks regarding increased taxes in 1929 he said this increase came from larger corporto a readjustment. That the tax rate was reduced in 1929 and some valuations raised, might have worked more advantageously to the state instead of the county, but he thought very few, if any farmers of the original locales laid in the Stubblefield accompanied him on and small property owners' valuations were raised.

At the conclusion of Judge Garrett's remarks the association adjourned to meet at Rising Star May jungle beasts were used in the pro-

Tarzan, the Ape Man, Showing at the Palace Sunday and Monday

"Tarzen, the Ape Man," Edgar Rice Burroughs' widely-read African adventure novel, has been brought to the screen under the direction of W. S. Van Dyke of 'Trader Horn" fame, and will be shown Sunday and Monday at the Palace Theatre.

Because the hero of this story is a white man who has been brought up in the jungle and lives like the apes in the tree-tops, making his way by swinging through them from limb to limb, difficulty was encountered in finding someone of sufficient athletic prowess to fill the exacting role.

Has Perfect Physique

The problem was solved when Joonny Weissmuller, world's champion swimmer and one of the finest examples of masculine physiques, was cast as Tarzan. Neil Hamilton and C. Aubrey Smith, as leaders of an English safari seeking ivory wealth, Maureen O'Sullivan as Smith's daughter. Doris Llvd. Forrester Harvey and Ivory Williams fill the remaining principal
