Summer Will Mark Economic Crisis, Says Sen. Borah

THREE-POINT PLATFORM IS SUGGESTED

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Chairman Borah, of the senate foreign relations committee, today warned that failure of the Lausanne conference in June was "foredoomed." The summer of 1932 will mark the beginning of economic recovery or will denote misery than we have been through, he said. "We must do nothing would so greatly aid economic recovery as increased international trade."

Borah offered a three-point platform to restore some semblance of international trade. "We must reduce armaments, stabilize the reparations problem, and restore silver to the place it held prior to 1925."

BRITAIN MAY URGE REDUCTION.

Copyright By United Press LONDON, May 5.—The British government was credited in well-informed circles today with the intention to propose at least a 23 per cent all-round reduction of war debts and reparations at the Lausanne conference, meeting in June. Several unimpeachable sources revealed to the United Press that recent developments in the world economic situation, particularly the increasing gravity of Germany's predicament brought on the British attitude.

GERMANS RACE COMPLETION OF SPEED ROCKETS

By H. A. PETERS United Press Staff Correspondent BERLIN, May 5.—The German "rocket season" is now open for 1932, according to the newspaper, "Zwoelf Uhr Blatt," which, disregarding a number of smaller rocket tests reports a race of two engineers who, it declares, are scheduled to stage a contest in the near future with two super-speed rockets.

The engineers are Johannes Winkler and Rudolf Nebel, who are working at their own secret laboratories at the same test field here and the paper reports that Nebel will be ready for his first test this month. Although the laboratories both refuse any discussion of their work the newspaper gives purported details of the experiments, which have become somewhat of a fever among certain engineers in the last few years.

Nebel uses powder as a means of propulsion in his apparatus. That is the same method used last year by the Austrian chemistry student, Fritz Schmidt, who succeeded in shooting a packet of mail, containing more than 300 letters, a distance of two kilometers.

Winkler uses a so-called "Ray-motor" (whirling type), with chemical liquid as the explosive and propulsive power. He is said to have attained a speed of 300 meters per second in former tests, and to be on the way toward later construction of the so-called "space rocket."

The work of the entire year will be visualized in this exhibit and the public is urged to visit the study hall and inspect the exhibits. They will be in place before and after the community program.

CONVENTION MACHINERY IS WELL OILED

SWEETWATER, May 5.—With the opening of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention less than a week off, committees in charge of the big meeting are making a final check of their activities, and indications are that the convention will open smoothly and function evenly.

Work began yesterday on selling the one thousand registrations to local people and convention badges are to be seen on citizens everywhere. The Gypsy Girl Revue, built around the North Texas Teachers band of Denton, is rehearsing under the direction of Mrs. Lee Weathers and Harry Phelps. This revue will be staged in a cabaret setting with a hostess at the Texas Guinan, and will offer two hours of high class vaudeville entertainment.

25 or 30 bands, among them the world famous Simmons' Cowboy band of Abilene, T. C. U. band of Fort Worth, Los Caballeros of Wichita Falls, Lone Star Gas company's band of Ranger, and other equally well known bands will stage a massed band concert, under the direction of Paul Seed, director of the Los Caballeros of Wichita Falls. This concert will be held on the evening of Friday, May 13.

Miss Dora Whaley, local Gypsy queen, has acknowledgements from Gypsy Girls from fifteen West Texas towns. A breakfast, several teas, and participation in convention dances will be among the entertainments extended them.

Capacity Crowds While indications are that each day will see capacity crowds, Friday the 13th with five special trains and as many motorcades will no doubt be the peak day. Colorado, with a motorcade and its famous Coon Hollow band, is scheduled to lead visitors from the West. Big Spring, in addition to a special train, will have a sizable motorcade.

Among the notables scheduled to visit the convention will be Julian Hyer, of Fort Worth, national president of Lions International. Another interesting feature will be the response to the address of welcome, to be given by Henry Ansley of the Amarillo News-Globe, of Amarillo, Texas, who will give his now famous "I Like the Depression" talk that has been received so enthusiastically, not only in Texas, but throughout the entire United States.

Housing committees are assured of plenty of rooms and anticipate no difficulty in caring for the host of visitors. The Women's Federated clubs and other ladies' organizations are bending every effort in preparations to carry out Sweetwater's convention theme—"Personal Hospitality." A Friendship House will be maintained by the City Federation at convention headquarters, where ladies will be entertained with bridge, tea, etc.

INTERSTATE OIL BOARD CONSIDERED

WASHINGTON, May 5.—A bill by Sen. Thomas, Dem., Okla., designed to conserve domestic oil and gas, was under consideration by a senate judiciary sub-committee today. The measure fosters a compact between states to regulate oil and gas production. It would create an interstate oil conservation board to cooperate with the similar federal board in advising states as to the best management of oil resources.

JAPANESE AND CHINESE SIGN PEACE PAPERS

SHANGHAI, May 5.—Representatives of the Japanese and Chinese governments were propped up in their hospital beds today to sign an agreement which ended hostilities here.

A Japanese surgeon amputated the right leg of Minister Shigemitsu soon after he signed the agreement. He was the most seriously hurt of the five Japanese officials wounded here in a recent bombing.

Before he was given an anaesthetic Shigemitsu shook hands with Samuel Chang, director of intelligence at the Chinese foreign office, and said: "Tell your people we must be friends."

Chinese Vice-Foreign Minister Quo Tai-chi signed at the Chinese hospital where he was taken after a student mob invaded his home and beat him severely recently.

JAPS EXPECT SUMMER WAR IN MANCHURIA

TOKIO, May 5.—The Japanese Army looks forward to a spring and summer of continuous fighting in Manchuria.

Upwards of 50,000 Japanese troops are now operating in the newly established republic of Manchukuo according to information here, and the number shortly will be increased. It is possible more than 75,000 Japanese soldiers will be in the territory of the New Republic within two months.

All news of troop movements to Manchuria is kept secret and newspapers are forbidden to mention the subject. Reliable reports, however, are to the effect the General Staff has decided that reinforcements are necessary and will be sent soon, if they have not already departed.

It is possible, according to one report, that some of the units which saw duty around Shanghai, eventually will go to the Manchurian plains. The difficulties the Army faces are considerable. All the organized Chinese armies have been broken, but scores of bands, ranging from 200 to a thousand, are operating—attacking the Japanese in rapid raids and then retreating, looting towns and villages as they go, in event the populations refuse them food and assistance.

Imperial consent has been given for the Eighth Division, and the remainder of the Tenth Division to be sent to Manchuria, to replace units of the Korean Army, which have been serving there. These troops will arrive in Dairen and will be on duty in various Manchurian towns within a month or so.

The military here insists that a majority of the guerrilla bands are acting under orders of agents of Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, and are receiving money from Peiping.

Refugio—H. B. Zachry of Laredo, received $20,928 in contract to pave 17.7 miles in Refugio county on Highway No. 128, extending from San Patricio county line to point three miles northeast of here.

Authorities said that Means approached Mrs. McLean within two weeks after the kidnaping and told her he was in contact with the kidnapers.

M'ADOO SAYS GARNER NOW REAL THREAT

SAPELO ISLAND, Georgia, May 5.—John N. Garner's victory in California makes him a "formidable contender for the democratic presidential nomination," William Gibbs McAdoo, World War cabinet member and Garner leader in California, believes.

"Speaker Garner heads the bill," McAdoo declared at the estate of Howard Coffin here where he is spending a few days vacation.

"The first real test of strength between Roosevelt, Smith and Garner" has been settled in California by a sweeping victory for the speaker. This not only makes Garner a formidable contender but it is a serious and perhaps irreparable blow to Roosevelt.

"The California result is a warning to the democratic party that it must nominate at Chicago a progressive and sound democrat who can secure united support of the party and attract the large independent vote which is essential to success in the November election."

WHERE THERE IS OIL THERE IS HELL.

An East Texas grand jury has returned indictments containing 213 counts against 11 men. It is alleged their loot amounted to a million barrels of oil. This represents a greater sum than all the Tammany officials investigated by the Seabury committee were charged with having stolen within a period of eight years. In the list of the accused in East Texas there are men of prominence and one or two who were on the payrolls of the state. However, an indictment is not a conviction. It is for a jury of 12 to say the last word.

Away down in the Magic Valley grand jurors returned indictments against a large number of well known citizens. All are charged with having misbehaved in public office or in the handling of the funds confided to their custody.

ARIZONA SENATOR SPRINGS A NEW PLAN.

Senator Carl Hayden of Arizona is in the picture. He has introduced a resolution which would allow nations to pay an ounce of silver for each dollar of indebtedness, when they agree to restore their silver coinage to a fineness of at least five-tenths silver. Furthermore, the Arizona senator in his new plan for restoring silver prices would permit payment of war debts until 1936 with the metal under certain conditions. He explained that the primary object of this legislation is to break the world wide vicious circle of decline of prices by enhancing the purchasing power of "nearly one-half of the people of the world who have no other money than silver."

Why not use copper as the debt paying medium of exchange. Arizona is a copper producing state. It is true that Arizona has silver mines but while the World war was on and indeed for years after peace came copper appeared to be just as valuable as unmined silver.

There are many eminent Americans who insist that the Allies will never pay their war debts to Uncle Sam. If this be true, why boost the price of silver? Now the Happy Warrior has a solution: He would declare a moratorium on foreign debt payments caused by the war for 20 years to come. This would be the blow that would kill the American taxpayer. He is carrying 11 billion dollars of issues of liberty bonds and in addition to this Uncle Sam will have a total debt of $17,000,000,000 at the close of the next fiscal year.

A German kaiser would have signed the treaty of peace at Windsor castle had the people of this glorious republic of the West remained neutral in the World war period of history. It goes without saying that the American eagle saved the day for the Allies.

Why shouldn't they pay what they owe their saviors. In that division of loot our European allies were given rich possessions at the expense of the Hohenzollerns and the Hapsburgs. Now why shouldn't they be able to pay what they owe to the American taxpayer?

HYDE BOOSTS THE HAPPY WARRIOR.

Arthur M. Hyde of Missouri is secretary of the department of agriculture. Now he has let it be known that he is in hearty accord with the Happy Warrior, better known to fame as Alfred E. Smith. In an address broadcast in the city of Washington April 20 Secretary Hyde declared against crop loans to farmers; he declared that the beginning of crop loans "lies in the action of President Wilson, when in answer to an emergency war need, he loaned small amounts in the Northwestern states to buy wheat for seed only."

Furthermore, the secretary said: "The purpose of such loans have been expanded to include not only seed, but food for work animals, fertilizer, oil and gasoline for tractors, and repairs for irrigation ditches, and in 1931 the purposes were further expanded to include drought relief, food and livestock, agricultural rehabilitation in all respects affecting crops, and in 1932 to include loans wherever farmers are otherwise unable to obtain loans for crop purposes." Then it was that the cabinet member from Missouri said: "It is on this very point that a democratic candidate for president recently remarked, 'I will fight any candidate who persists in any demagogic appeal to the working classes of the country to destroy themselves by setting class against class and rich against poor.' I am not in the habit of taking marching orders from democratic sources, but here, at least, is a place where I line up with Al Smith." In conclusion the republican leader of Missouri handed this bouquet of blossoms to the tiller of the soil: "The experience inherited by the farmer from his pioneer ancestors teaches him that the man who lives on what he has and borrows least will come through best."

Well, why borrow? Why eat? Why not hibernate like the bear in the good old winter time?

Hey! Who Threw That Brick?

Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE

I don't know how the rest of the state feels but personally I am beginning to be disgusted with the "prattle-prattle" that breaks out at regular intervals between the members of the railroad commission. The least that can be said about these intermittent controversies is that they are unbecomingly considered big enough to hold positions of such importance, one of whom is an ex-governor of Texas and president-elect of one of the leading universities of the southwest. Mr. Neff may be eminently correct in some of his statements and Messrs. Terrell and Smith may be eminently correct in some of their replies, but it's a bad way to put a principle into practice. If it keeps up Texas politics will be getting almost as bad as "Alfalfa Bill" Murray and his Oklahoma rip-snorting. I wish they would shut up.

It looks like the Terrell-Smith combination is going to run the commission anyway and Mr. Neff had just as well turn his attention to something that he can run—Baylor university, for instance.

"Why worry?" inquires some unknown philosopher whose contribution to the literary recognition of the futility of doing anything at all comes to hand via Henry Drumwright from a representative of one of the wholesale firms with whom John H. Garner's does business. I met the representative, but the dim dawn of nomenclature must have been probed to provide him with the handicap he introduced himself with. I can't remember it and I'll bet five dollars—deferred payment plan—that Henry Drumwright can't offhand tell you what it is. It's pronunciation reminded me of a noted scholar's remarks about the English articulation of the words "secretary" and "necessary." Instead of giving these words the benefit of all their syllables, in the solid American way, the English purist pronounces the first syllable and stirs over the rest, he said, "as though they didn't amount to a damn." Unfortunately such a useless waste of spelling is invading even the speech of our high school debaters and declaimers.

But back to the unknown contributor's philosophy.

Says he:
I wonder why folks worry. There are only two reasons for worry. Either you are successful or you are not successful. If you are successful there is nothing to worry about; if you are not successful there are only two things to worry about. Your health is either good or you are sick. If your health is good there is nothing to worry about; if you are sick there are only two things to worry about. You are going to get well or you are going to die. If you are going to get well there is nothing to worry about; if you are going to die there are only two things to worry about. You are either going to heaven or you are not going to heaven; and if you are going to heaven there is nothing to worry about. If you are going to the other place you will be too d— busy shaking hands with old friends to have time to worry—so why worry?

J. J. Collins, back from the tri-district Rotary convention in Mineral Wells mourns the changes time hath wrought. The effect of environment is a definite experience with Mr. Collins. He has lived so long in America that he cannot any longer understand the English language. The discovery so chagrined him that he would not approach Sir Charles Mander, noted English Rotarian who was visiting the Mineral Wells meeting. While others crowded about the distinguished guest and spoke of fathers, grandfathers and great-grandfathers who came over from England, the Cisco delegate to the convention hung back and wondered what Sir Charles was saying.

Coupled with this linguistic difficulty, Mr. Collins said, was the absurdness of the Briton's jokes, of which he had a store. After an hour of solid thinking, Collins remarked, he was able to catch some of the points, and found them rather clever.

For instance: Said Sir Charles, "We English go into South Africa and dig gold out of the ground. We take it to England, make money out of it and then pay it to you Americans. The Federal Reserve shoves it right back into the ground."

Did You Ever Stop to Think?

By EDSON R. WAITE
Shawnee, Oklahoma.

Wichita, Kansas—Results have proved that newspapers are the most efficient advertising mediums in existence.

A lot of people seem to keep as busy as a wind-mill trying to make politics the principal industry of their home state. If they are not not stopped, they may succeed.

The average city has many advantages and opportunities to offer new industries and new investors. They must keep on advertising these opportunities until they attract what they want, and then advertise to get more of them.

About every place, I go I find life fast. Speed everywhere. Fast talking, fast walking and fast driving. I have learned to dash across streets to jam into street cars and to keep moving.

A whole lot of cities need less destructive talk and more constructive effort.

If patriotism is a virtue in time of war, it should be also in time of peace.

Your city should blow its own horn. Nobody else will do it for you.

"How to be happy though your pay is cut" is a receipt which all with large salaries and small cuts can afford to give. However, it is not easy for those with small salaries and large cuts to wax eloquent on economic enterprises, but then a man can but do his best.

It seems to be that most men's fancies are to make their old suits last another year.

After all, what we want most in this old world of ours is happiness, prosperity and success in everything we undertake.

Nowadays we read many speeches, most of them are of restrained optimism, carefully refraining from leading or urging any particular course.

No advertising gives as quick returns as newspaper advertising.

TEXAS TOPICS

By RAYMOND BROOKS

AUSTIN, May 5. — There is no question of Texas statecraft which Mrs. Ross S. Sterling has not discussed and upon which she does not have definitely-formulated views. There has never been another governor's wife, among all the women of experience and knowledge of public affairs, who has had a fuller or more intimate knowledge and understanding of the state problems and public issues.

Mrs. Sterling frequently visits the executive office, and she shows that she thoroughly enjoys talking to her acquaintances and friends about all the varied questions that come up in a governor's experience, all the complicated matters of administration.

Particularly, Mrs. Sterling is a booster for the use and development of Texas-made goods and products. As First Lady of Texas, she has delighted to set the example of buying Texas-made cotton materials and wearing Texas manufactured cotton dresses.

Her own choice of these materials is related to an understanding sympathy to build up Texas as a manufacturing field.

An out-of-state interest, tied into state relationship through local committees, has been brought into play in the selection of some of the 18 Texas district congressmen this year.

The Crusaders, national prohibition repeal organization, is helping the cause of wet candidates, through making visible, the wet sentiment in some of the districts in Texas.

Substantial money is being spent there were eight or nine employees installed in office at Austin to poll the voters of the capital city in an avowed effort to show Cong. J. P. Buchanan of the Austin district that he did not guess wrong in favoring resubmission of the amendment.

ing resubmission of the amendment.

If politics applied at the there would be this situation. Cashier: "When will you note?" Customer: "July 24, unless conscience forbids." Cashier: "But you are this note in good faith?" Customer: "Oh, yes indeed as it doesn't conflict with conscience."

MORATORIUM FOR ALIMONY PAYERS URGED

CLEVELAND, May 5. — The year of moratoriums find Olaf F. Knudsen engaged in agitating one on alimonies.

The president of the Ohio Alimony association is energetically mapping out a campaign against gold-diggers who marry and then divorce for a good cut of their husbands' salaries.

"Today," Knudsen declares wrathfully, "the courts are choked with cases of this type. Many never come to trial. Why need they? The greedy, self-centered woman who is suing her husband and her lawyer can usually gain their object—money—without trial."

War on Gold Diggers
Knudsen himself is divorced. Not only does his organization intend to make it harder for the gold-digger type of wives to wrest money from their husbands, but also to remove the stigma of "criminal" from the names of those who go to jail when they default in alimony payments. It also aims to improve prison conditions for such prisoners. He finds no fault with awarding alimony to wives, who are physically incapacitated, or who have children. But to those who seek financial redress either in spite, or to assure an easy living, Knudsen is derisive.

"We know that the present day system of granting alimony is all wrong," he maintains. "Equality and justice, rather than special privileges to women, ought to predominate."

Planned Reforms
The Ohio Alimony Association, Knudsen says, will strive to bring about the following reforms:
Elimination of temporary alimony until the court has made a thorough investigation.
Moratorium on alimony while the ex-husband is in jail for non-payment.
Early hearings where temporary alimony is granted.
No temporary alimony for childless women under 25 who are able to work.

— THIS CURIOUS WORLD —

The INDIANS BELIEVED THAT THE SOUL LEFT THE BODY THROUGH THE MOUTH, AND THAT AN INDIAN WHO DIED OF STRANGULATION WOULD BE CUT OFF, FOREVER, FROM THE HAPPY HUNTING GROUNDS.

EROSION HAS CHANGED THE SURFACE OF THE EARTH MORE THAN THE COMBINED EFFORTS OF EARTHQUAKES, VOLCANOES, TORNADOES, LANDSLIDES, AND GLACIERS.

A TOOTH IS THE ONLY PART OF THE BODY THAT CANNOT REPAIR ITSELF.

THE Indians preferred almost any other form of death to that of being strangled. Since the red men thought that the soul took flight through the mouth, strangulation, they believed, would force the soul to remain on earth with the body instead of entering the warrior's heaven.

EROSION goes about its work quietly, but because it is going on constantly, it gets results. The Grand Canyon of the Colorado is one of the outstanding examples of what erosion can do. Earthquakes, volcanoes, landslides, and the like, can make great alterations in small areas, but the face of the earth, as a whole, has undergone few changes because of them.

Survivor of Titanic Disaster Recalls Horrors of Tragedy Twenty Years Ago

EL PASO, May 5. — Passengers screamed and prayed as the Titanic sank 20 years ago this spring, recalls Mrs. A. A. Shamalay of El Paso. She was the first person to leave the doomed liner after it struck the iceberg and began to sink.

"I was asleep when the ship hit the iceberg in the night," she said. "Suddenly there was a loud knock at my door. An officer told me to dress quickly and go up on deck. I was frightened at the tone of his voice.

"Few people had gathered when I reached the deck. Before I could speak, I was placed in a lifeboat. I was the very first person who left the ship.

"As soon as the boat was filled, we were lowered into the water. Later I learned there were 100 of us in that little boat. It was dark and cold. The boat swayed as it was lowered. I could hear the water lapping against the Titanic and began to be afraid.

Rowed Away.
"Quickly we were rowed away from the big ship. There was almost complete silence for nearly four hours. Then the women became panicky and screamed as we faint sounds of singing and praying coming from the Titanic out in the dark.

"I don't remember much about those long hours. I only know I prayed constantly for those poor people on the Titanic. We can live so many different emotions in so few hours. To be thrown from the heights of joy to the very depths of horror and suffering is an experience that takes years of perfect happiness to forget.

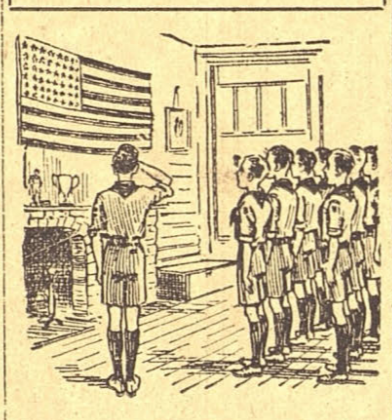

The lifeboat in which Mrs. Shamalay left the sinking liner was picked up early the next morning by the Carpathia first of several steamers to reach the scene of the tragedy in which 1,500 persons lost their lives.

"The next horror came when we docked in New York," said Mrs. Shamalay. "The pier was crowded with hundreds of persons. They were watching the passengers as they left the ship, searching for loved ones not knowing whether they were dead or alive."

Mrs. Shamalay has lived in the United States since that time. She has not taken an ocean voyage since.

Keeping Up With The Boy Scouts

Troop 15
Troop 15 of Rising Star re-registered this week with 29 scouts. M. S. Sellers, chairman of troop committee assisted by Tom Butler Jr., Cecil Shults, and F. A. Lloyd, Otha V. Venable the scoutmaster, G. B. Busbee and Charles Bucy assistants. The troop lost only four members which is quite a record. Jack Gibson and the scoutmaster, Mr. Venable subscribed to the Boy's Life, the official magazine for scouts.

Troop 18
Troop 18 of Breckenridge re-registered with 42 scouts. Pink Norrell, chairman of the troop committee, C. H. Brown, N. G. Price, B. A. Bates, and H. B. Furr as troop committeemen, J. Raleigh Banes scoutmaster, and Stanley Duval as assistant. This is an unusually large troop and it may be that it will develop into two troops. We are happy to see such a large number of boys interested, and it goes to prove that real Scouting is being put on in this troop.

Court of Honor
A court of honor was held in Breckenridge last Thursday night at the Y. M. C. A. with 200 visitors in attendance. 16 tenderfoot scouts were awarded their badges, 6 for second class, 5 for first class, 4 star badges, and 4 life badges and one bronze palm. Two applications for gold palm were made. Sixty merit badges were applied for. E. R. Maxwell chairman of the court of honor committee presided at the meeting, assisted by other members of his court. The next court of honor will be held in Breckenridge the fourth Thursday night in May.

Court of Honor Rising Star
E. M. Howard, chairman presided at the court of honor meeting held in Rising Star last Friday night at the First Methodist church. Four second class awards were made and 13 merit badges applied for. Lane Wells, Cline, Ware, Hilbert, Zellars, and James McDonald received their tenderfoot badges. Otha V. Venable is scoutmaster of Troop 15, assisted by S. G. Busbee and Charles Bucy. Charles Rutherford made application for the silver and bronze combination Eagle palm which will be presented at the next court of honor.

Brownwood Rally
Troop 8 of which O. E. Winebriner is scoutmaster, took off first place in the rally which was held at the First Christian church gym last Saturday night. Troop 2 which Dan Gill is scoutmaster came in for second place, and Troop 35 of Blanket, W. B. Jones, scoutmaster, placed the third.

One of the most interesting contests was when Scout Robert Simms made fire by flint and steel in 7.8 seconds. Scout B. Brewer made fire by friction in 42 seconds. Other troops participating in the rally were 1, 7 and 3. The different events of the rally were knot tying, horse and rider, first aid, fire by friction, fire by flint and steel, harmonica, troop yell, and tug o'war. The number in uniforms and the percentage of the enrollment present also counted for points. All were enthusiastic over the first rally and will be looking forward to the next one. One scoutmaster was heard to remark that his troop would make a better showing in the next rally.

Troop 8 made a good impression, being completely uniformed with one exception.

Last Friday night, 16 Scouts assisted by scoutmaster, J. R. Banes, scout commissioner for the Comanche Trail council, Russel B. Jones, E. R. Maxwell, chairman of the Breckenridge court of honor committee, presented the Caddo troop with their charter and various badges of rank in a colorful ceremony. H. B. Furr and W. O. Shackelford assisted in transporting the scouts over.

R. C. Kelley is scoutmaster and J. R. Coody, Jr., and Eugene Clepper are assistants. J. Q. Corbitt is chairman of the Caddo troop committee. Scoutmaster Kelley registered 10 new scouts Friday night. This makes a total of 20 registered scouts and has candidates to come later.

Apology
The scribe and his office force wish to apologize to Wayne Chadwick Sellers, Troop 15 of Rising Star, for overlooking to place his troop report in this column. We have no excuse to offer unless it was that we were not in the habit of getting reports from Wayne, but we are truly sorry we missed this first one. He has promised to give us another.

Lone Scouts
The scout office wishes to announce to every rural boy who has reached his twelfth birthday, that he is eligible to make application to become a boy scout. The Lone Scouts use the same handbook and pass the same scout tests that the troop Scout does, except most of his scouting is carried on by correspondence and under the supervision of his father or scout friend, (an adult who accepts the responsibility of giving the boy his tests). The boy who is interested may write for further information to Boy Scouts of America, Box 808, Brownwood, Texas.

Mrs. Baldwin Praises Apples

LONDON, May 5. — Although it was an apple which showed him up as the first cad in the Garden of Eden, Man still hankers after apples, especially apple pie, in the opinion of Mrs. Stanley Baldwin, wife of the leader of the Conservative Party and Lord President of the Council in the National Government.

"Of all the dishes at the table, the apple pie appeals to the male more than any other," she said. "If you watch you will always see that the man will take the apple and the woman the pear."

Mrs. Baldwin thinks that the apple is essentially of the "genius feminine." In the beginning, she explained, the apple was the most desirable fruit and was the medium "for showing up Adam as the first cad."

Subsequently, if came up again as the apple of discord, and again a woman was concerned, she explained, but was quick to point out that the apple is not merely a symbol of forbidden things, but is the maid-of-all-work. It attends on the goose and duck dinner, appears as an apple dumpling, and caters for the schoolboy as a "turnover."

Do you inhale?

"Why bring that up?"
—the cigarette trade asks!

FOR years there has been generally a striking avoidance of the word "inhale" in cigarette advertising. Why? Goodness only knows! For everybody inhales—knowingly or unknowingly! Every smoker breathes in some part of the smoke he or she draws out of a cigarette.

That's why it's all-important to be certain that your cigarette smoke is pure and clean—to be sure that you don't inhale certain impurities.

Lucky Strike has dared to raise this vital question—for it has solved the problem! It gives you the protection you want...because certain impurities concealed in even the finest, mildest tobacco leaves are removed by Luckies' famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

"Fifty million smokers can't be wrong!" So whether you inhale knowingly or unknowingly—safeguard your delicate membranes!

FOOTBALL STAR NOW SHINES AS SHOT-PUTTER

By STUART CAMERON
United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, May 5.—Herzran Brix used to be a great football player. Now he's most famous as a shot-putter. He has the greatest shot-put record during the past four years and holds the American record for the event at 52 feet, 5 3/4 inches.

Brix didn't bother with track and field when he was in high school. Too many other sports. He won 16 letters in such things as football, baseball, swimming, tennis and basketball.

He entered the University of Washington in 1924, and in the spring of 1925 began his career in putting the shot. His improvement was steady and gradual. He won the N. C. A. A. championship while a junior at Washington. He hit the 50-foot mark as a senior in 1928 and during the summer won a place on the United States Olympic team and placed second in the finals with a heave of 51-8, which was eight inches over Ralph Rose's world record at the time.

Defeated But Few Times

Since his Olympic test Brix has been defeated only a few times. His most recent defeat was at the hands of Leo Sexton in a spring indoor meet in New York.

Brix, possibly, is more famous among West coast athletes as a former football player at Washington than as a shot-putter. He still likes football, both as a spectator and as a player. Last summer however, he broke his left shoulder while playing a "game" for the benefit of movie cameras. He was tackled unexpectedly and landed a smack on his left shoulder. He's been just a bit off the game since then.

The shoulder has given Brix considerable trouble. Before it is perfectly okeh again he will have to have another operation. This injury, however, has not seemed to hurt his ability with the shot. He's done better than 51-5 with no training this year.

Golf His Hobby

Brix's big hobby is golf. He loves it. He plays in the high 70's and low 80's with an almost monotonous consistency. His best round on a regulation course was 75. He scores because he hits a tremendous drive and adds enormous distance with his wood and iron seconds.

Good looking, of the Apollo type, Brix is husky with slim waist and powerful shoulders and arms, and sufficient underpinning.

Brix has a reputation of being a small eater for a man of his size and activity. But when he eats, he eats. One of his friends told the writer that Brix has wolfed a hot dog in one big bite and a small one.

the MAN HUNTERS BY MABEL McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TODAY Susan Carey, 19 and pretty, works in the office of Ernest Heath, architect. Jack Waring, Heath's assistant, tries to make love to her but is discouraged. Susan lives with her aunt, who is unusually strict. Ray Flannery, employed in the next office, makes friends with Susan and confides her ambition in life—to marry a rich man. Susan is secretly in love with Bob Dunbar, millionaire's son she met at business school. She hears rumors he is to marry Denise Ackroyd, debutante. Susan refuses an offer of marriage from Ben Lumpman, serious-minded young musician. At a weekend party given by Denise Ackroyd, Ben and Bob fight over Susan. She runs away and, meeting Ernest Heath, asks him for his protection. He escorts her back to the Ackroyds, thereby incurring his wife's displeasure. Later Heath informs Susan his wife intends to sue her for alienation of his affections. Waring manages to save the situation, by means of a letter involving Mrs. Heath in an affair with another man. Ray is heartbroken, telling Susan that "Sky" Webb, who has been showing her attention, has married.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXIX

This was the moment Susan had dreamed of all these weeks but now that Bob stood before her there was a curious unreality about it. Her heart pounded painfully. He looked thinner and in some subtle way older. She managed to say calmly, "Will you sit down? I'll see if Mr. Heath is in his office. I'm not quite sure." She knew perfectly well he was not in but she must do something, anything to delay this man. Wildly she sought about in her mind for a way to keep him talking. Then she felt ashamed. Her hands were icy. She returned to the outer office and looked straight at Bob. "I'm sorry. He's not there," she told him. "He usually is by this time but perhaps there is a message I can take."

The young man stood up. No, it was quite all right, he informed her. He would give Heath a ring later. It seemed to Susan that there must be something she could do to detain him. She was starved for the very sight of him yet now that the opportunity lay before her she was like one stricken dumb. They might have been utter strangers, these two young people. Dunbar's hand was on the door knob. He was thanking her in meaningless phrases for her trouble. Then suddenly as on that far-off summer day in the restaurant at the Blackstone that spark of understanding flashed between them. Susan caught her breath. The young man stared at her. She was all in brown today. Simple wool frock cut at the neck to show her creamy throat. Little, sensible brown Oxford shoes. She waited for the words she felt certain were to follow. "I want to say again that I'm sorry for what happened that night. There—the hand not dreamed of! She looked up at him, her eyes flashing and darkening with the emotion that possessed her. "It's quite all right. It wasn't your fault."

The stern lines of his face relaxed. "I was a bit high, I know, but it's no excuse." She wanted to reach out and touch the rough fabric of his overcoat. What she did was to flick her lashes demurely downward and say nothing. "You ran away," the boy accused her. "Why did you do that?" "I don't know. It seemed a good idea at the time," Susan smiled, and the old friendliness was re-established. Strange it was, thought Susan, that with some people the most foolish little phrases take on a new and shining meaning. Whatever she said to Bob, or he to her, seemed fresh and curiously their own. "Look here, won't you—"

What he meant to say she was not destined to know because at that instant the rear door was flung open and Mr. Heath bustled in. Heath did not notice that Miss Carey was flushed and bright eyed, but then she was a very pretty girl and that was quite natural. Susan had to stifle her disappointment as she watched her employer lead Bob into his private office. She found it impossible to keep her mind on her work. She could hear the low murmur of the two voices and her whole being tingled with excitement. What was it Bob had started to say? She prayed, "Dear God, give me another chance to talk to him!" Her heart pounded.

When Pierson returned from lunch she glanced up, scarcely seeing him. He spoke to her twice before she realized the remarks were directed to her. "I said you'd better go to the bank right away. It's almost three," Pierson repeated in a faintly acid tone. She glanced at the clock. It lacked but 10 minutes of the hour. The voices in the private office still rose and fell. As Susan struggled into her coat she added another prayer to her litany. "Please let him stay until I come back. It's not much to ask."

You could not run on La Salle street. People would look at you and think you were mad. But how could one walk sedately and quietly with a heart racing like a wild thing? How slow the teller was behind the bars! With what maddening deliberation he made the entry. Fully Susan smiled at him and he about the weather. Today she hurried, hurry!" Her footsteps eral business recovery depends in large measure upon the automobile industry and also, that the peculiar conditions of the year emphasize the importance of local dealer organizations in 1932 and of local banking and financial help for these dealers.

THE TINYMITES STORY BY HAL COCHRAN PICTURES BY JOE KING

AS Scouty disappeared from sight, wee Windy said, "I'm filled with fright. We never should have let him go into that house alone."

"If anything should happen now, we'd have to rescue him somehow. Hey, listen very closely. I just thought I heard a groan."

"Ha, ha!" laughed Copy. "You're all wrong. You see, the wind is getting strong and what you heard was just a squeak that came from yonder trees."

"Two great big branches rub up there, and send a strange noise through the air. Just keep your nerve and don't get so excited, if you please."

INSIDE the house brave Scouty dropped down to the floor and then he stopped and shouted, "Hi, there, Duncy! If you're here, lad, answer me."

And then, the next thing that he knew, a voice replied, "Hurrah for you!" And Duncy ran into the room, as happy as could be. "I knew you'd find me. This is great! And, listen, I can hardly wait to tell you of some skinny man who brought me to this place."

"They caught me and I made no fuss. The truth is, I was curious to find out what they wanted. Gee, I'm glad you lads gave chase."

"I GUESS those men were scared of you and thought the best thing they could do was lock you in this crazy house," said Scouty, with a smile.

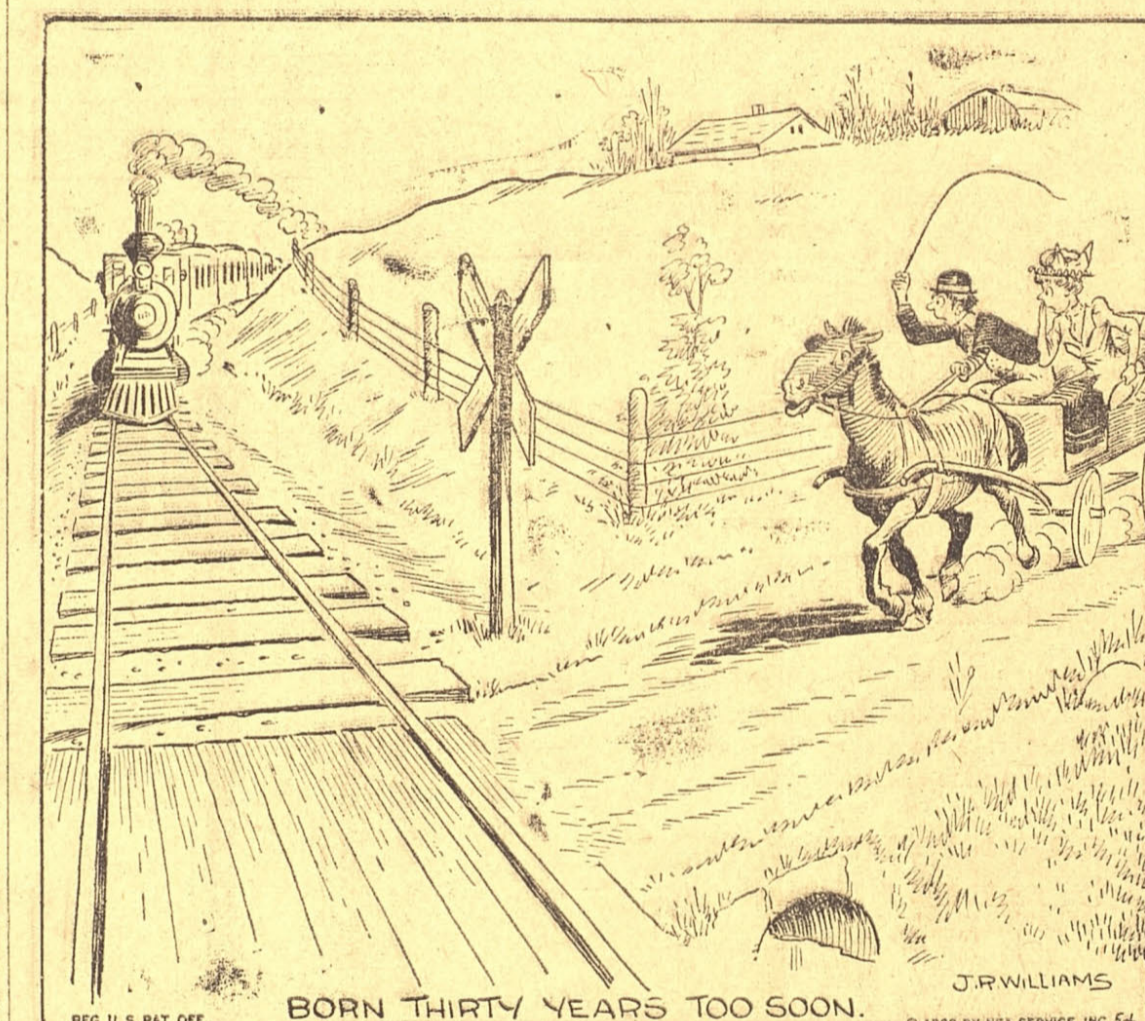

"Let's go outside. Friend Windy's there, with Copy, in the open air. No doubt they're getting anxious. They've been waiting quite a while."

It wasn't long till everyone decided they would have some fun. Said Scouty, "All those skinny men are near at hand, I know."

"Wait here and I will bring one back." They shortly heard his lasso crack. And then they saw brave Scouty, with a skinny man in tow. (Copyright, 1932, NEA Service, Inc.)

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—It's a sad thing that has happened to Al Smith.

Al probably can't prevent the nomination of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt no matter how hard he tries. But even if he should give the "stop Roosevelt" movement the stimulus it so badly needs for success, Smith's position will hardly be any happier.

Old Al, the erstwhile hero of the multitudes, has lost power, prestige and popularity in his party. He is fighting desperately for what he has left. But when the voters and politicians choose delegates to the Democratic presidential convention they usually forget about Al.

And whether or not Al really yearns sorely for that nomination, he must get over every day at the way in which the party is letting him down.

Al to Be Ousted
Al is not only sore, but obviously contemptuous. He sees the nomination going to a man for whom he has small liking and apparently little respect. The man is not as big a man as Al is. He appears to have none of Al's fire, strength or courage. And the man apparently is going to oust Al as the party's leader simply by virtue of possessing the job in which Al originally put him.

Roosevelt may have done Al a great favor to run for governor in 1928 so as to strengthen the national ticket in New York and it may have been hard to persuade him. But he did a far greater favor for himself and Smith really made him governor of New York.

Now here is Roosevelt, the probable nominee, about to run in a year when most Democrats are convinced that nearly any Democrat could win. If Smith, after his brave fight in 1928 against great odds, feels that he should again be the party choice in 1932, with a chance to win, no one can blame him.

The "No-More-Smith" Idea
BUT it's another sad fact that Roosevelt could never have attained his present pre-convention strength had it not been for a widespread desire in the party not to nominate Smith again this year.

Democrats through the south and west, and to some extent the east, determined to head off any 1932 Smith movement and easily became sold on Roosevelt as the strongest other candidate in sight. Their compelling idea was to pick a man who would win and such a man, most of them felt, wouldn't be Smith.

Inasmuch as the "no-more-Smith" idea was influenced almost entirely by Al's religion, the situation becomes more depressing than ever from the Smith standpoint.

Everybody wants to know now how far Smith, following his attack at the Jefferson Day dinner, will go with his campaign against Roosevelt. He still has a real personal following, although it has dwindled more than anyone expected it would. And in combination with the eastern anti-Roosevelt leaders he may be able to cause considerable trouble before and during the convention.

A Sad Time for Al
MANY of his old supporters are accusing him of a "dog-in-the-manger" attitude, however, and the boys and girls who want harmony at all costs are either distressed or angry at his tactics.

If, assuming Roosevelt's nomination, Al carries his enmity into the campaign he probably will experience the saddest period of his life. From a politician's standpoint—and Al is a politician—he would become a mere obstructionist, a deserter from the party which nurtured him, a man with a heart full of bitterness whose only success could lie in the defeat of his own comrades and the re-election of the Hoover whom he gave his best toward licking four years ago. The spectacle, in fact, is hard to imagine.

On the other hand, if Roosevelt is elected, Smith will become just another Democrat—not even a cabinet member.

It is easy to sympathize with Democrats who would like a stronger, more impressive candidate than Roosevelt and who feel that the party has better men. Even among the pro-Roosevelt politicians who were here recently there seemed a surprising lack of personal warmth toward the governor and quite a bit of evidence that many Roosevelt delegations would not stick with him through much fire or water. But they're committed to him now. They think they can win with him. And they're not disposed to listen to Al.
