

CISCO DAILY NEWS

CISCO, TEXAS—1,614 feet above the sea; 5 lakes of water; 5 rail exits; 6 paved highway exits; 127 blocks of brick streets; good hotels; A-1 public schools and Randolph College; no mosquitoes; no malaria or typhoid.

EASTLAND CO.—Area 925 square miles; population 33,981; cotton, fruit, poultry, dairying, natural gas and oil; Cisco is headquarters for operators of the great shallow oil field; churches of all denominations.

VOLUME XIII.

CISCO, TEXAS, TUESDAY, MAY 3, 1932.

FOUR PAGES TODAY

NUMBER 68.

OKLAHOMA SEEKS TEXAS AID IN SURVEY

Rotarians Conclude Tri-District Convention Today

ANGER MAN NOMINEE FOR 41ST DISTRICT

MINERAL WELLS, May 3.—With separate meetings scheduled for each of the three tri-districts joining in convention here, will conclude the session with election of officers nominated this morning without opposition. Action of meeting places for 1932 conferences of the three districts will be done by officials of the district.

Andy Anderson, of Ranger, was nominated governor of the 41st district, succeeding Gov. Tom Brooks, Waco. His election is assured. C. Todd, of Bryan, was nominated governor of the 47th district, succeeding John A. Crockett, of Pflugerville, and Charlie Ashcroft, of Pflugerville, was nominated for governor of the 48th district, succeeding Jesse A. McGill, of Paris. The tri-district convention here arranged at the convention of the Rotary International in Vienna last summer.

FARM BOARD WILL BEGIN TO SELL COTTON

WASHINGTON, May 3.—The federal farm board in August will begin to sell the stabilization cotton as held since September 1930. The board announced today that it would authorize the cotton stabilization corporation, it holding authority to sell "not to exceed" 500 bales during the year beginning August 1. The liquidation will be gradual.

Permit Clause Kept In Senate Bus Bill

WASHINGTON, May 3.—The state inter-state commerce committee meeting to consider legislation for us and truck regulation, today voted to retain in the Couzens bill a clause providing for removal of interstate trucks by a permit system.

Governor Praises East Texas Work

AUSTIN, May 3.—Telegrams commending civil and military officials in east Texas for their part in uncovering wholesale thefts of oil were sent today by Gov. Ross. "Each of the telegrams might be paraphrased 'Well done.'"

Bandit Gets Life for Murder Of Boy in Grocery Store Holdup

Expressing regret at Michigan's lack of capital punishment, a Detroit judge sentenced Theodore Lily, 26, shown in inset, to life imprisonment while hundreds prepared to attend the funeral of little Billy Reynolds, 8, murdered by Lily during a grocery holdup. The boy is shown with his mother shortly before his death. Billy, who sold magazines after school, entered the store while Lily had the proprietor covered. Lily heartlessly shot the boy down.

Capitol Upkeep at Austin Costs $246 Per Day But Board Keeps Within Budget

AUSTIN, May 3.—It costs $246 a day for cleaning and repairs to the Texas capitol. The building was built at a cost of 3,000,000 acres taken from the public domain. Today the land is worth over $60,000,000. Construction was begun Feb. 1, 1882, and the completed building dedicated May 16, 1888. The task of cleaning its tiled halls, polishing brass, and operating machinery requires a force of 40 men. Nine porters alone are kept busy cleaning its halls and rotundas. During the last fiscal year these porters were paid $6,468. Many departments, such as the banking department, maintain their own staff of janitors to prevent misplacing important records. A carpenter, an electrician, and a painter were paid $1,800 each last year. The capitol maintenance staff also includes a plasterer at $1,500 per year, a plumber at $1,000, a chief engineer of the power plant at $1,800, an assistant at $1,200, and a fireman at $1,000. The capitol bill for fuel, water and lights averages about $2,000 per month. Last year disinfectants, floor sweep and miscellaneous supplies for the building cost $17,308. Keeps Within Budget Despite heavy additional costs for moving lawns and trimming flower beds around the capitol in spring and summer, the state board of control operates entirely within its budget. There will be no deficiency, but a surplus, at the end of this fiscal year judging from present expenditures. The dome of the state capitol is higher by seven feet than the dome of the national capitol in Washington. The 17 watchmen who guard the building night and day refer to it as the seventh largest building in the world. It contains 258 rooms, 900 windows and 500 doors. The building proper covers three acres of ground, but has 18 acres of floor space. Its wainscoting, of oak, pine, cherry, cedar, walnut, ash and mahogany,

WHIMPERING CAPONE WAITS PRISON ORDER

CHICAGO, May 3.—Al Capone, the Coney Island barkeep who built an underworld empire in defiance of law and order, will leave in a few hours for Leavenworth or Atlanta penitentiary, his empire shattered, his defiance shrunk to the whimpering of a common criminal. Federal officials were awaiting this afternoon an order from Washington officials directly whether Capone should be taken to Leavenworth or to Atlanta, the United Press learned authoritatively. A last minute change in arrangements was likely to be made, it was learned.

Capone's mother and sister were his only visitors today. The fat gangster, whose scarred face became symbolic of the murderous terror of the gangs, is expected to depart tonight in company of a carload of convicted dope peddlers, auto thieves and counterfeiters to start a 10-year sentence for defrauding the government of the tax on his ill-gotten income. Two words pronounced by Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes of the U. S. supreme court, struck in a fraction of a second the false glamor from the gangster. Last Chance. The words meant refusal of the court to review the Capone case and ended the last legal delay in carrying out the conviction and sentence. Today U. S. marshals expected the order authorizing them to take Capone, grown 265 pounds fat, in his stay in Cook county jail since trial last October, to Leavenworth where his sentence will run about 7 or 8 months with time out for good behavior. After this he must serve a year in jail and is subject to $50,000 fine. Behind jail bars Capone skulked, alone, cursing his luck while in the city; the leaderless criminal organization fought over the scraps of its one-time power with only a sneer for the one who had been known as "the big shot."

J. J. Collins Attends Rotary Convention

J. J. Collins, president of the Cisco Rotary club, is in Mineral Wells attending the tri-district conference of Rotary clubs. Mr. Collins, named delegate to the convention from the Cisco club, has been in attendance since the opening of the convention. Dr. Lee Clark, president of Randolph college and a member of the Cisco club, left this morning to attend the final sessions of the convention today.

School Board Defers Election of Faculty

The school board, in its meeting last night, passed up any action upon election of teachers and devoted its time to tax matters. A meeting to deal with the selection of a faculty will be called at a later date.

Phillips Trial Sent To Breckenridge

FORT WORTH, May 3.—The trial of W. S. Phillips, one-armed filling station operator, charged with murder in the slaying of E. L. Churchill in a hotel lobby here, March 14, was transferred today to Breckenridge by Criminal District Judge George Hosey. The trial in Breckenridge will be set by Judge C. O. Hamlin.

$35,000 Fire at Ennis Early Today

ENNIS, May 3.—Fire in the business district here early today caused loss of property and goods estimated at $35,000. Nearly a dozen store buildings were either destroyed or damaged. The fire started at 3:30 a. m. and the cause was undetermined.

DROWNED IN JAR

EMPORIA, Kan., May 3.—Ted Langenecker, one and one-half years old, fell into a 10-gallon jar while playing, and drowned. The jar contained only two inches of water.

Louisiana's Governor, No Huey!

Here's the first woman governor of Louisiana in the history of that state. Alice Lee Grosjean, 25, is acting chief executive of the Creole state during the 10-day absence of Governor Alvin O. King, who attended the governors' convention at Richmond, Va. Miss Grosjean was made Louisiana's secretary of state by Senator Huey Long when he was governor. She still holds that office. As Paul Cyr has vacated the post of lieutenant governor, Miss Grosjean automatically stepped into the governor's chair at Baton Rouge when Governor King, Senator Long's successor, went away.

20 ENTRIES IN W. T. C. C. HOME TOWN CONTEST

SWEETWATER, May 3.—Twenty definite entries have been received so far in the My Home Town Speaking contest to be staged during the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention in Sweetwater, May 12-14. Nine other cities have definitely stated they will have contestants and are making their selections through eliminations now, according to B. H. McLain, secretary of the contest.

HUGGINS SAYS PRECINCTS ARE NOT AFFECTED

HOUSTON, May 3.—In a statement issued at the request of many voters, Chairman W. O. Huggins, of the state democratic executive committee, today expressed surprise at the United States supreme court decision upholding negroes' rights to vote in Texas primary elections and asserted it would not affect precinct conventions. "That decision should not be permitted to have any effect whatever upon the precinct conventions," said Huggins' statement. "I think it applies only to primary elections."

Originator of Demo Slogan Is Dead

ROBSTOWN, Tex., May 3.—Jack Stubbs, 40 years old, originator of the democratic party slogan "Hee Haw, We're Coming Back," will not see his slogan used. He died here today of complications following influenza and will be buried tomorrow at Lockhart.

MacDonald Will Undergo Operation

LONDON, May 3.—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald will undergo an operation on his right eye Thursday, an official announcement today said. His left eye was operated on several weeks ago.

Implore Governor to Pardon Massie, et al

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Leading members of the house in a petition, sponsored by Rep. Thatcher, Rep. Ky., today implored Gov. Judd, of Hawaii, to pardon Lieut. Thomas H. Massie and his co-defendants, convicted of manslaughter.

Ranger Man Catches Prize Fish Sunday

E. H. Bobo, of Ranger, was awarded the Moore Drug company's prize for having caught the largest fish at Lake Cisco on the first day of the season Sunday. The Moore Drug company invested more than a dollar a pound in the prize fish, awarding a $5.00 air mignon bucket to Mr. Bobo for his feat—or fortune—in catching a 4 and three-fourths pound bass. Mr. Bobo took the specimen on a Shanon twin-spinner.

DEMOCRATS IN CALIFORNIA GO TO THE POLLS

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 3.—A three-cornered fight for control of the Democratic delegation to the national convention was the center of interest at California's presidential primary election today. The three Democratic delegations were pledged to Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, Speaker John N. Garner and Alfred E. Smith. There was no contest in the Republican party, the entire delegation being instructed to vote for Herbert Hoover. Prohibitionists Qualified. Prohibitionists were the only other party to qualify for the California primary; their candidate being H. Clay Needham of Los Angeles. Interest in the Democratic campaign was reflected in the state registration, which disclosed that large numbers of Republican voters had deserted to participate in the Democratic contest. Registration returns showed a decrease of approximately 10 per cent in Republican registration over 1930, and marked gains for the Democrats in every county of the state. However, the Republicans still maintained their 2-to-1 lead. There was more at stake than control of the 44 votes at the Democratic national convention. A finish fight was on between two factions for places of dominance. State Stumped by McAdoo. On one side was William Randolph Hearst, booster of the Garner ticket and William Gibbs McAdoo, who stumped the state for Garner. On the other was Justice S. Wardell, Isidore B. Dockweiler, national committee chairman, James S. Meredith, secretary of the Republican state central committee, and others on the Roosevelt ticket. For the last few years the division in California Democracy has been over prohibition, the drys acknowledging the leadership of McAdoo and the wets being headed by Wardell. But the Hearst-Garner-McAdoo combination has been one that even the most astute political observers have been unable to figure out. If Garner is elected, McAdoo is certain to become a candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States senator this fall, according to leaders of the party. Others insist he will seek the position anyway. Two referendum propositions appeared on the ballot at a special state election separate from the presidential primary today. U. S. TROOPS FORCE JAPS FROM SECTOR

Joint Penney Picnic Is Held

A joint picnic for employees of the J. C. Penney company stores of Cisco, Eastland, Ranger, and Breckenridge was given last evening in Breckenridge. There were about 75 or 80 people in attendance. Those attending from Cisco were Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Vann, Mr. and Mrs. M. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Pippin, Mrs. R. B. Gustafson, Miss Eula Howell, Miss Lillian Jobe, and Miss Louise Karkalis.

Thief Takes $4.50 From Joe Kilborn

Thief of $4.50 from a cash drawer shortly after noon yesterday, was reported to police by Joe Kilborn, proprietor of the meat market at Altman's grocery. A stranger took advantage of Mr. Kilborn's momentary absence from the market to purloin a money bag from the drawer. He had been loitering about the market and store and "bumming" cigarettes from Mr. Kilborn and only casual notice was paid him until the absence of the money was discovered by Mr. Kilborn when he went to roll a cigarette from the tobacco which he kept in the drawer.

Woman Bandit Is Shot to Death

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 3.—A woman bandit identified as Lena Hurt, 25 years old, was shot to death today as she fled with $8 she had taken at pistol point from J. H. Jackson, drug store operator. In a statement to police Jackson said he shot at the woman as she ran down the street. The bullet struck her in the head.

REGULAR EVENT WORCESTER, Mass., May 3

Burglary at Nathan Sharfman's jewelry store, is getting to be an annual event. Six times within the last eight years the store has been entered and robbed.

MAY JOIN IN VALUATION OF LONE STAR CO.

DALLAS, May 3.—Cooperation of the Texas Railroad commission was sought today by members of the Oklahoma corporation commission in establishing a valuation of the Lone Star Gas company and its subsidiaries. Chairman Paul Walker, of the Oklahoma delegation told the Texas commission since 85 per cent of the holdings of the company were in Texas, the two states should cooperate thoroughly in their findings. The Texas commission has already engaged Hawley, Freese and Nichols, Fort Worth engineers, to survey the Texas properties of the company. The Oklahoma commission is considering engaging the same firm. Valuation of the properties is sought to establish whether rates charged by the company are an adequate return on the investment.

MEETING OF COMMITTEE IN PROSPECT

Probability that a meeting of the district executive committee, to consider recommending Cisco's re-instatement in Interscholastic League football, will be held at Eastland this afternoon or tomorrow afternoon was reported to Supt. E. N. Cluck today. Advances from Eastland and Ranger said that Supt. Bittle and Supt. Holloway, of those schools respectively and Supt. Holland, of Breckenridge, were considering asking such a meeting but that Mr. Holland was attending the Rotary convention at Mineral Wells and it was uncertain whether or not he would return in time for a session this afternoon. It is understood that Chairman Dudley, Abilene principal, has agreed to call a meeting if the three members named requested it.

WOMAN BANDIT IS SHOT TO DEATH

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 3.—A woman bandit identified as Lena Hurt, 25 years old, was shot to death today as she fled with $8 she had taken at pistol point from J. H. Jackson, drug store operator. In a statement to police Jackson said he shot at the woman as she ran down the street. The bullet struck her in the head.

WOMAN BANDIT IS SHOT TO DEATH

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 3.—A woman bandit identified as Lena Hurt, 25 years old, was shot to death today as she fled with $8 she had taken at pistol point from J. H. Jackson, drug store operator. In a statement to police Jackson said he shot at the woman as she ran down the street. The bullet struck her in the head.

WOMAN BANDIT IS SHOT TO DEATH

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 3.—A woman bandit identified as Lena Hurt, 25 years old, was shot to death today as she fled with $8 she had taken at pistol point from J. H. Jackson, drug store operator. In a statement to police Jackson said he shot at the woman as she ran down the street. The bullet struck her in the head.

WEATHER

East and West Texas — Partly cloudy tonight and Wednesday.

THE CISCO DAILY NEWS

Phone 80.

Published By
THE CISCO PRINTING & PUBLISHING COMPANY.
304-306 D Avenue, Cisco, Texas.

MEMBER UNITED PRESS.
MEMBER ADVERTISING BUREAU.
TEXAS DAILY PRESS LEAGUE.

W. H. La ROQUE.....Manager.
B. A. BUTLER.....Editor.

Entered at the Postoffice in Cisco, Texas, as Second Class Mail matter.

Publication Days: Afternoons (except Saturday) and Sunday morning.

Subscription Rates: Per Week (delivered in Cisco), 15c, if paid in advance, Twelve months, $6.00.

Obituaries and Cards of Thanks, 10c per line; Classified, 2c per word.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC.

Any erroneous reflection upon the character, standing or reputation of any person, firm or corporation which may appear in the columns of this paper will be gladly corrected upon being brought to the attention of the editor.

Any error made in advertisements will be gladly corrected upon being brought to attention of the publishers and the liability of this paper is limited to the amount of the space consumed by the error in the advertisement.

DAILY BIBLE THOUGHT

GOD KNOWS ALL:—O God, thou knowest my foolishness; and my sins are not hid from thee.—Psalms 69: 5.

TEXAS RAILROADS AND THEIR TAX.

Texas railroads were assessed for tax purposes for the year 1931 for $269,605,796 and their combined tax bill—state, county, school and special—was $5,663,946. This is shown by the annual report of George H. Sheppard. Now the railroads, or the builders, defrayed the cost of building this mileage of 17,000. They pay for the annual upkeep of the railway. They pay for all the improvements that are necessary from time to time. Facts are facts and they should be given to the people.

A DOUBLE TAXATION BURDEN REMOVED.

Many American corporations and companies and industries, including banks doing business in France, will save millions of dollars in taxation as a result of an agreement signed by the American ambassador and the president of the French republic. This agreement eradicates the double taxation burden which has been carried by American houses with branches in France since 1926. Under this tax regulation all foreign corporations doing business in France had been assessed from 16 to 18 per cent on that part of their dividends ascribed to French operations. Now the French part of the burden has been lifted. As for the tariff taxes on American imports they haven't been lifted. There is a reason for it. If protection is a good thing for the United States, why isn't it a good thing for France?

LA FOLLETTE AND HIS MESSAGE.

Governor Phillip LaFollette of Wisconsin in a telegram addressed to governors of 25 states in conference in the city of Richmond, Va., urged opposition to the Glass banking bill before the United States senate on the grounds that it "constitutes a serious threat to state banks generally and the entire system of independent banking." States to which the communication was sent, Governor LaFollette said, are those who prohibit establishment of branch banks and those which have no branches in operation at the present time.

Governor LaFollette of Wisconsin and Judge George W. Armstrong of Texas appear to be sleeping in the same financial bed, but the Texan said it first. He denounced the Glass bill as a menace to state banks everywhere.

ON THE TRAIL OF HIGH SALARIES.

The interstate commerce commission is making inquiry into the salaries paid by the principal railroads of the nation. Indeed, the finance division of the commission, without any explanation, issued an order that all Class 1 railway companies report to the commission the positions held by all persons receiving the annual rate of pay as $10,000 or more. It is getting so in this land of the free that a gentleman who is enjoying a good thing in the shape of a high salary is threatened not only with investigations but a swift pruning of his annual stipend.

MAINE LAWMAKERS FALL IN LINE.

Maine lawmakers ratified the Norris lame duck amendment, making it the ninth state to do so. Thirty-six states must ratify before the amendment is incorporated in the constitution, but the prediction is made that all 48 states will ratify the valuable contribution Sen. George W. Norris has made to constitutional law of the republic. A reminder that the amendment changes the inauguration date for president to January instead of March and brings the newly elected congress into session in January instead of 11 months after it was elected as at present. Senator George W. Norris is perhaps the most courageous as well as clear sighted of veterans found at Washington. Of course, he has one great drawback or weakness. According to important personages in the financial and industrial centers, he has always been for the "little man," and if one is in ignorance as how the "little man" should be classified he is advised to read the literature put forth in recent days by those who are close to the throne of the bi-partisan board of control who are always very busy just before the coming of national conventions.

TEXAS UNIVERSITY OIL FUNDS.

Royalties received from oil productions on lands of the University of Texas during March totalled $102,341.86. This brought the total oil royalty fund to $15,160,611. Oil money is building the physical plant of the university that in time will be second to none in America. Indeed, its friends say that before the coming of 1940 there will be a registration of 10,000 and perhaps a greater number. In ancient days ancient lawmakers set aside the university lands away out in the wilderness of West Texas. They picked the most worthless tracts that the eyes of man could get within the range of vision. Those worthless lands became oil bearing lands and the royalties made it possible for the friends of university education to give the people of the Southwest a university that should be second to none under American skies in coming years.

A SMALL EDITION OF JUDGE JEFFREYS.

In ancient times England had a judge whose speeches and decisions made him a shining light of that history which is said to be infamous. Three labor organizers were hauled before a judge east of the river. There were charges of "sedition and carrying concealed weapons." Well, the follower of Coke and Blackstone gave a verdict of acquittal because the prosecution failed to offer evidence that proved that the defendants had been "heard to make seditious remarks." In other words the three culprits were given their freedom because guilt had not been proven—nor furnished for that matter but it gave the occupant of the bench a chance to break into the picture. In his dismissal he said:

A Barrel of Trouble!

"My opinion is that your ambition is to pose as heroes. Well, let me tell you right now to us East Tennesseans you are as a yellow dog or a polecat." It must require a high order of courage for a lawyer to brand men given verdicts of acquittal by his own ruling as "yellow dogs and polecats." All this is a reminder, however, that justice and not the judge is sacred.

ELIMINATES "OBEY"

MOORHEAD, Minn., May 3.—There are no "obeys" in marriage ceremonies performed by Judge E. U. Wade, Moorhead's police magistrate. After marrying Earl Kennedy and Laura Bateman, both of Fargo, recently the judge declared: "I'll not make a liar out of anybody."

ELECTROCUTED

RAPID CITY, S. D., May 3.—Robert J. Morris, 14, was electrocuted recently when the tip of his steel fishing rod touched the power lines near the spot where he was casting. His companion heard a sharp buzz when the rod touched the charged wires and saw the body of his friend fall.

RARE DUCK

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., May 3.—A Pacific harlequin, the first duck of this species ever found in Minnesota, was a prize exhibit today in the University of Minnesota natural history museum. The duck was captured on the north shore of Lake Superior by W. J. Breckenridge, museum curator.

GETS COLLECTION

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 3.—Harvard University has acquired the juris-prudence section of the Stollberg-Wiesinger Library, famous German collection dating back to the 16th Century. The approximately 20,000 law books include treatises on international, canon, and Roman law.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—Notes from our nation's capital:
Senator Hattie Caraway's habit of doing crossword puzzles from time to time in her back row seat on the Senate floor has not escaped a certain amount of supercilious criticism from other women who are not senators, but there are two schools of thought on Mrs. Caraway's crossword puzzles.

After all, she is faithful in her attendance and sitting in the Senate is a terrible bore at least nine-tenths of the time. The men are, for the most part, usually not to be found in their seats at all. If they happen to be spending the afternoon in the chamber, they may go off in groups for a couple of hours at lunch, or saunter about the chamber, or drape themselves wherever they like or pile out into the cloakroom to tell stories and smoke.

Mrs. Caraway remains a rather lonesome figure and it seems to be a mean person who would deny her those puzzles.

Lobbyists Multiply

SCHELDON in recent years has the capital so teemed with lobbyists. They are even thicker than the movie stars and radio crooners who call on the president. Taxation and proposals to write tariff items into the tax bill have brought the largest number, but these are days when every organized group has some scheme or other which is recommended to restore national prosperity through favoritism for or salvation of one particular industry, class or section.

Delegates to recent conventions of wet women and of dry women here also turned to and did a great deal of personal lobbying.

At Smith announced that the only complaint among hundreds of telegrams following his Jefferson Day dinner speech (about war debts, Governor Roosevelt, etc.) was one from a man I didn't know who asked if I would tell another bedtime story tonight for his boy. But the complaint hardly counts. The man was a couple of newspapermen attending an alcoholic party, who heard Al on the radio and decided it would be funny to send him the wire. They sent wires to other Democratic speakers, too.

Norris May Leave Town

THERE'D be more congressional investigations, perhaps, if members didn't know their lives would be miserable by unfortunate persons desperate for jobs as investigators or helpers. Senator George Norris of Nebraska, who is kind-hearted, has been so besieged since his resolution to investigate the Farm Board passed that he told me, in seeming seriousness, that he might have to leave town. Hard luck stories threatened to drive him to distraction.

Two Fat "Angels"

RECENT memories: Democratic statesmen and other politicians in the crowd waiting hours for elevators to take them to the top floor Jefferson Day dinner. John W. Davis and John F. (Tammany) Curry together, with snow white hair, white vests, shirts and collars making them look like a couple of nice fat old angels about to rise up on wings. Jimmy Cox of Ohio cleverly using the freight elevator. . . . Henry Rainey of Illinois, who looks like the devil in a dress suit wearing a red carnation.

Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE

I am beginning to be seriously disgusted with the morals of one E. H. Varnell. Superficially we think of good morals as the negative act of abstaining from certain thoughts, acts and pursuits of ill repute, but I am here to tell you that being moral is a positive matter and is concerned in the selection of proper avocations and exercises. Good morals, for instance, enter into the decision between golf and fishing.

Any person who chooses golf with a trio of pedagogues in preference to crappie fishing on a warm, pleasant afternoon has, in this columnist's humble opinion, an important nut loose somewhere in the intracranial machinery. Particularly any person who chooses golf with such a trio of worthies as Prof. R. N. Cluck, Prof. H. Brandon, and Prof. Howard Goss.

Yesterday afternoon I had a case of the fishing fever as is my custom around the first of May. I invited the pencil farmer to accompany me on an excursion to tickle the crappies and basses. To my infinite disgust he pleaded a previous engagement with the pedagogues at pasture pool. Now why on earth should any man, after weeks and weeks of golf, decline to take advantage of his first opportunity to fish. Fishing was an ancient art when a couple of kilted Scotchmen began to bat pebbles from peak to peak, and as a stabilizer of the mind and purifier of the soul it is quite in contrast to the sulphurous influences of the game that made Bobby Jones a movie star. The Lord recognized the etherealizing qualities of fishing when he chose his disciples from the ranks of its devotees. I am distressed for Varnell that he has chosen to ignore the example of the Lord to associate with the genus dominie.

I can very readily see why he would refuse to accompany Cluck on a fishing trip. As a thief of good fishing places the superintendent is a master artist. His respect of a fellow fisherman's discoveries is limited only to the length and capacity of his tackle.

When after a long afternoon of fruitless angling in still, bright water you suddenly locate a spot where the fish are responsive, how exasperating it is to have an alien hook and cork tossed right into the middle of your discovery. But does the superintendent respect your emotions? Unfortunately drowning is a crime in Texas.

News that Col. Ernest O. Thompson of Amarillo, is a certain appointee for the place which Commissioner Pat Neff will vacate when he takes up his duties as president of Baylor university, will please advocates of lower utility rates. The colonel's record at Amarillo, where he is credited with having saved the citizens thousands of dollars in lower gas and telephone rates, commends him to the state at large as a very effective agent in a campaign that is difficult at the best.

The colonel's methods should interest those who adopt coercive tactics in this matter. Knowing something of the colonel and of his methods I have found him a man who does a great deal of thinking first. He is slight, red-headed, wears glasses, is rather brusque of manner, and has the urbanity of a Frenchman. He reminds me of a polished instrument. He also has practical egotism enough to want to run the show and it is a pretty safe bet that the colonel will have a great deal to do with anything that concerns him.

I judge that the Cisco Country club team lost its match with Mineral Wells here last Sunday. O. J. Russell hasn't been around with the results.

For the boldest thief Spectacles nominates the stranger who re-day afternoon purloined $450 from Uncle Joe Kilborn. Mr. Kilborn runs the meat market at the Altman grocery. Yesterday, as is his custom, he prepared his bank deposit and took it to the bank at noon. He left nine half dollars in a sack in the drawer of a table in the market to be used for change. When he returned from lunch one of these "depression" acquaintances came into the store, bummed a cigaret from Mr. Kilborn's tobacco sack, which he kept on the table, and idled about like a man with nothing to do and not particularly concerned about that. Presently a customer produced a dollar note and Mr. Kilborn changed it for two halves out of the sack. Unobserved, the stranger was keenly interested. Presently he went to the front and sat with Mr. Altman and another man. Mr. Kilborn left the store for a cup of coffee. The stranger asked Mr. Altman's permission to go to the back of the store and Mr. Altman, taking him to be an acquaintance of Mr. Kilborn, assented. He noticed that the man stopped at the table and made another cigaret, but thought nothing of it. When Mr. Kilborn returned he also went to the table for a cigaret. The tobacco was not on top as he had left it and he opened the drawer for another sack. The money bag was gone.

TEXAS TOPICS

By RAYMOND BROOKS
AUSTIN, May 3.—With all the croaking of a combersome governmental bureau, the U. S. department of labor has begun the self-appointed job of mauling out, at government expense tons of mimeographed reports on the American Legion's praiseworthy job-finding campaign. . . . an undertaking made necessary by the failure of the U. S. employment service to perform the task adequately.

So the U. S. department of labor's employment service, is franking out something like 10,000 reports, mimeographed by government employes and mailed in envelopes printed in the government printing plant, to newspapers, with the information that the city of Great Falls, Montana, had given employment to 700 people, and that 31 new jobs were reported in South Dakota. . . . Just when the government is levying a 50 per cent increase in postage to pay the bill for such waste as this.

No, the Garner leaders who met with Gov. Sterling didn't talk about Gov. Sterling's re-election race, nor about—as hinted in view of Sen. Walter C. Woodward's presence—who would be the candidate, if Mr. Sterling should decide to stay out of the race. . . . They talked about Garner, so Sen. Walter Woodul, Tex. Garner for president chairman affirmed.

Rep. G. Y. Lee at Edens is making the best of the depression, what with a hilarious pen and ink sketch on his re-election campaign cards sketching a victim of the depression at his worst.

Speaking of depression, is it a creation of hope, or is it a fact that during the past 10 days there has been a sudden let up in the constant accumulation of depression evidences? And are we really started back up the hill again?

The most serious blow of the entire period struck near Austin when the $4,000,000 construction of Hamilton Dam power project was interrupted momentarily on account of the Middle West Utilities receivership. Four hundred workmen were thrown out of jobs. The shutdown is indefinite. But that did not create the panicky excitement it would have at other times. . . . There has been an apparent absence of the pessimism talk in the past few days, with numerous bright spots in the picture.

Taxpayers have found out they can get action and relief by organizing. They are talking about cutting down the number of people on public payrolls and in ornamental useless and political government jobs; talking of trimming public salaries into line with private incomes; talking about tossing overboard the unjust share of taxes that have been piled on home and land owners just because they have been organized.

That may be a positive benefit to come out of the depression.

Certainly when we start back whether we have started or must walk still deeper valleys, it will be on a far more sane and reasonable plane. Salaries will be lower, prices will be lower, small economies and plain living will be respectable. We shall be back nearer the fundamentals of life, through the enforced stripping away of frivolties and superfluities. Back nearer the earth, we should be strengthened again by its vital touch, as peoples have been through all the ages, coming out of situations far worse than this to their ultimate benefit.

Think of the pre-war South, defeated in battle, stripped of its property, its men killed and wounded and torn from productive work. On top of that, think of the South brutalized for half a decade by the overreaching greed and cruel rapacity of a crew in congress who used power with the bayonet carried by negroes; to crush down its people. The scars lasted for years, but the South had a people who come back, and all we have now in material development is a monument to their courage and hardhood.

Why grievous of lost inflation 10 per cent salary cuts?
UTHANS LIKE BEER.
SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, May 3.—Uthans like their beer, prohibitive agents believe. Last year, it was discovered, 60,000 cases of m. syrup, sufficient to manufacture 18,000,000 bottles of beer, were shipped into the state.

Political ANNOUNCEMENT

The Cisco Daily News and the American and Roundup are authorized to make the following announcements subject to the democratic primary election July 1932:

For District Judge, 88th Judicial District of Eastland County:
J. D. BARKER
B. W. PATTERSON
FRANK SPARKS

For County Judge
CLYDE L. GARRETT
(Re-Election)

For Sheriff:
VIRGE FOSTER
(Re-Election)
W. M. MILLER
W. A. (KID) HAMMETT

For District Clerk
P. L. CROSSLEY
W. H. (BILL) McDONALD
(Re-election)

For County Clerk
WALTER GRAY
W. C. BEDFORD

Commissioner Precinct No. 4.
L. H. QUALLS
ARCH BINT
BIRT BRITAIN
(Re-election)

The New FORD

We have a new Ford, Four Cylinder, now on display. . . . Will have a new V-type Ford-8 on display this afternoon. . . . Come and see these marvelous cars in our show rooms. . . . ask for a demonstration. . . . Witness their sturdiness and lack of vibration. . . . extra ordinary speed and pickup. . . .

Blease Motor Co., Inc.
Cisco, Texas
Phone 244-245.

Only 15c Per Week

CISCO DAILY NEWS

DELIVERED IN CISCO

Keep in touch with local news in your own town

CALL 80

AND YOUR PAPER WILL START TOMORROW

THE MAN HUNTERS

BY MABEL McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Susan Carey, pretty and 19, is secretary for Ernest Heath, Chicago architect. She lives with her Auntie on the west side. One of her admirers is Ben Lampman, young physician, who asks her to marry and is refused. Jack Waring, a man about town who is divorced, sees her driving one night and sees her. She resolves never to see him again. Ray Flannery, employed in a neighboring office, gives her some advice on popularity. Susan is in love with Bob Dunbar, handsome young millionaire. She is at business school but she knows he is engaged to Denise Ackard, a debutante. Denise asks Susan, Ben and some others to attend dance party. Dunbar appears. He thinks too much and accuses Susan being a flirt. She makes him get in his car and gets out. Ernest Heath happens along and drives her back to the Ackroyds' home. His car, who is jealous, warns him against doing it. Several days later Heath tells Susan his wife intends to sue her for alienation of her affections.

AW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXVII

The solid floor seemed to rock under the girl's feet. For a moment she thought she was going to faint and put a hand out to steady herself. Ernest Heath repeated what had said.

"Do you understand, Miss Carey?" he asked. "My wife is going to sue you for alienation of her affections. But she can't do that!" Susan protested wildly. "I don't know just what it means but it's all wrong," she thought I should tell you," she said doggedly. "This is all disagreeable. It's horrible but it seems nothing I can do." Susan drew her hand over her eyes. "But what have I to do with this?" she inquired bewildered. "I've done her no harm and I-I scarcely know you."

The man shrugged helplessly. "That doesn't seem to matter," he said. "What you and I must do is what we're to do about it." "Do?" But there's nothing I can do," Susan told him, "except to go away." Even that," Heath reminded her, "would not solve matters. The public opinion is against you." She gave a little gasp of horror. She was remembering sudden headlines and pictures she had seen in newspapers. None of them seemed to mean much at the moment but the thought of her name, photograph perhaps, in connection with such an unsavory tale appalled her. Young as she was Susan knew that a girl's innocence or reputation counted for little in affairs of men. "Once branded, she must stay so. Such things were never forgotten."

She would be that girl who was looked up in an alienation suit." It was all hideous! Her whole being quivered at the thought. Suddenly she realized her employer was speaking. She had almost forgotten him, so absorbed was she in her new, terrific problem. He wore a quiet, dogged air of a man who had gone over the ground many times before.

"That she especially trades on is might I devote you to the Ackroyds," he told her. "She was angry and I knew it, but I thought it no importance."

"Surely she can't think," began Susan fiercely, "surely she must know you were only doing me a kindness such as you might have any neighbor!"

"In spite of himself Ernest Heath smiled. She was so earnest in her sincerity. He must make her see, that's just it," he said. "You're not just any neighbor." "You're secretary. That's the rub," Susan flushed. "I see," she murmured. She stared through the big window. "What do you want me to do?" she asked.

Nothing, at present," the man said. "My lawyer is meeting Heath this morning and I hope may come to some sort of agreement. I only wanted you to go in case the trouble broke out."

Susan was very white. "I see," she whispered again. Oh, it was all so absurd and knowing that no particular good. The cloud cleared over her just as it had. She brandished.

"Perhaps if I went to her myself explained just how it happens," she said, grasping at a straw. "Heath shook his head.

"I'm sorry. It would only make matters worse. This," he continued, "is very painful to me as it is to you. I appreciate your position but it seems to be powerless. There's one thing I had thought of. It doesn't mind I should like to ask Waring's advice. He's had a deal of experience. He might be able to suggest some way out of this."

Waring received the news with admirable calm.

"You don't seem surprised," Heath commented dryly.

The younger man shrugged his shoulders with an oblique glance at Susan. "I know jealous women," he said gravely, "and Miss Carey is too pretty to go unnoticed."

Susan refused to meet his eyes. "Perhaps if I talked to Mrs. Heath," Waring suggested, drumming on the desk with his carefully manicured fingers.

Heath said, "My dear fellow! She likes you of course, but I'm afraid you'll not get anywhere!"

"It isn't a divorce she wants, then?" Waring asked.

A caller presented himself in the outer office and Susan, scarcely knowing what she was doing, withdrew.

Heath answered the other's question. "No that's not it," he said slowly. "I think what's happened is that she's got herself into a blind rage at this girl and wants to shame her publicly."

His distaste at this open discussion of affairs so intimate was plain.

"Not that we haven't spoken of divorce before this," he said. "Ruth finds my way of living exceedingly dull in fact, and here he sighed wearily. "I've come myself to the decision that a divorce would be best for both of us. A clean cut." He removed his eyeglasses and polished them nervously.

"If that is the case," Waring said with great deliberation. "I think perhaps I know a way out."

"What do you mean?"

"Trust me," said Waring. "Wait a bit and see what happens."

The hours barely crawled. Susan answered the telephone, wrote letters and went to lunch, all in a sort of daze. Surely this was a bad dream, she would tell herself, from which she would presently awaken. She would not let herself think of Aunt Jessie. How could she make her understand? She longed yet dreaded for five o'clock to come.

Waring stopped at her desk in mid-afternoon.

"Cheer up," he whispered. "It's not as bad as it seems."

But Susan refused to be comforted. Her eyes when she raised them to his were so shadowed and mournful that the man felt a new twinge of pity.

"Has anything been settled?" Susan asked fearfully.

"Not yet."

His tone, she thought, held false cheerfulness as he passed into the private office. Heath looked up.

"Well, sir, I think I have found something which will settle this business once and for all," Waring informed the elder man.

"Let me see it."

"Not just yet," Waring crossed the room and closed the door.

"You won't like this," he warned. "It's rather disagreeable."

"What is it?" snapped his superior. "Out with it."

Waring took a letter from his pocket and held it out.

"Before you read this I want you to know how it came into my possession," he said. "When you were in England last year and Mrs. Heath was touring the south this thing was forwarded to the office. It came in a hotel envelope—one of those Florida places—and it was opened along with the rest of the mail. I don't know quite how it happened. Believe me, it was an accident. The enclosure which had been forwarded to Mrs. Heath was laid on my desk with all the others. I had read fairly through it before I realized what it was."

Heath's eyes were dark with impatience as Waring handed the letter to him. He read it once, hastily and then once again. The slow color stained his face.

Waring went on, "I had a little tin box of my own in the vault," he said. "I didn't know what to do with the thing and so I decided to put it there for safe keeping. Of course I might have destroyed it but it hadn't been mine to read in the first place. I was pretty well cut up about the whole thing, anyway."

Heath squared his shoulders. "You were quite right," he said gruffly. "I appreciate your discretion."

The phone rang and Waring answered it. Cupping his hand over the mouthpiece he said to the other man.

"It's Granger, Mrs. Heath's attorney. Do you want to talk to him?"

Heath picked up the receiver. His mouth was very grim.

"Yes, I've been expecting you," he said. "Is Mrs. Heath with you? Good. Would you mind telling her before you go any further with the papers that I have in my hands a document I think will interest her?"

There was a brief wait during which Waring entertained himself by imagining the exchange of remarks at the other end of the line.

Then Heath said rapidly and clearly. "Tell her it's a letter post-marked 'Nassau' last February and signed 'Ernesto.' He looked across at Waring, the room electric with suspense.

Waring refused to meet his eyes. "Perhaps if I talked to Mrs. Heath," Waring suggested, drumming on the desk with his carefully manicured fingers.

Heath said, "My dear fellow! She likes you of course, but I'm afraid you'll not get anywhere!"

"It isn't a divorce she wants, then?" Waring asked.

A caller presented himself in the outer office and Susan, scarcely knowing what she was doing, withdrew.

Heath answered the other's question. "No that's not it," he said slowly. "I think what's happened is that she's got herself into a blind rage at this girl and wants to shame her publicly."

His distaste at this open discussion of affairs so intimate was plain.

"Not that we haven't spoken of divorce before this," he said. "Ruth finds my way of living exceedingly dull in fact, and here he sighed wearily. "I've come myself to the decision that a divorce would be best for both of us. A clean cut." He removed his eyeglasses and polished them nervously.

"If that is the case," Waring said with great deliberation. "I think perhaps I know a way out."

"What do you mean?"

"Trust me," said Waring. "Wait a bit and see what happens."

The hours barely crawled. Susan answered the telephone, wrote letters and went to lunch, all in a sort of daze. Surely this was a bad dream, she would tell herself, from which she would presently awaken. She would not let herself think of Aunt Jessie. How could she make her understand? She longed yet dreaded for five o'clock to come.

Waring stopped at her desk in mid-afternoon.

"Cheer up," he whispered. "It's not as bad as it seems."

But Susan refused to be comforted. Her eyes when she raised them to his were so shadowed and mournful that the man felt a new twinge of pity.

"Has anything been settled?" Susan asked fearfully.

"Not yet."

His tone, she thought, held false cheerfulness as he passed into the private office. Heath looked up.

"Well, sir, I think I have found something which will settle this business once and for all," Waring informed the elder man.

"Let me see it."

"Not just yet," Waring crossed the room and closed the door.

"You won't like this," he warned. "It's rather disagreeable."

"What is it?" snapped his superior. "Out with it."

Waring took a letter from his pocket and held it out.

"Before you read this I want you to know how it came into my possession," he said. "When you were in England last year and Mrs. Heath was touring the south this thing was forwarded to the office. It came in a hotel envelope—one of those Florida places—and it was opened along with the rest of the mail. I don't know quite how it happened. Believe me, it was an accident. The enclosure which had been forwarded to Mrs. Heath was laid on my desk with all the others. I had read fairly through it before I realized what it was."

Heath's eyes were dark with impatience as Waring handed the letter to him. He read it once, hastily and then once again. The slow color stained his face.

Waring went on, "I had a little tin box of my own in the vault," he said. "I didn't know what to do with the thing and so I decided to put it there for safe keeping. Of course I might have destroyed it but it hadn't been mine to read in the first place. I was pretty well cut up about the whole thing, anyway."

Heath squared his shoulders. "You were quite right," he said gruffly. "I appreciate your discretion."

The phone rang and Waring answered it. Cupping his hand over the mouthpiece he said to the other man.

"It's Granger, Mrs. Heath's attorney. Do you want to talk to him?"

Heath picked up the receiver. His mouth was very grim.

"Yes, I've been expecting you," he said. "Is Mrs. Heath with you? Good. Would you mind telling her before you go any further with the papers that I have in my hands a document I think will interest her?"

There was a brief wait during which Waring entertained himself by imagining the exchange of remarks at the other end of the line.

Then Heath said rapidly and clearly. "Tell her it's a letter post-marked 'Nassau' last February and signed 'Ernesto.' He looked across at Waring, the room electric with suspense.

AW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Waring went on, "I had a little tin box of my own in the vault," he said. "I didn't know what to do with the thing and so I decided to put it there for safe keeping. Of course I might have destroyed it but it hadn't been mine to read in the first place. I was pretty well cut up about the whole thing, anyway."

Heath squared his shoulders. "You were quite right," he said gruffly. "I appreciate your discretion."

The phone rang and Waring answered it. Cupping his hand over the mouthpiece he said to the other man.

"It's Granger, Mrs. Heath's attorney. Do you want to talk to him?"

Heath picked up the receiver. His mouth was very grim.

"Yes, I've been expecting you," he said. "Is Mrs. Heath with you? Good. Would you mind telling her before you go any further with the papers that I have in my hands a document I think will interest her?"

There was a brief wait during which Waring entertained himself by imagining the exchange of remarks at the other end of the line.

Then Heath said rapidly and clearly. "Tell her it's a letter post-marked 'Nassau' last February and signed 'Ernesto.' He looked across at Waring, the room electric with suspense.

Waring went on, "I had a little tin box of my own in the vault," he said. "I didn't know what to do with the thing and so I decided to put it there for safe keeping. Of course I might have destroyed it but it hadn't been mine to read in the first place. I was pretty well cut up about the whole thing, anyway."

Heath squared his shoulders. "You were quite right," he said gruffly. "I appreciate your discretion."

The phone rang and Waring answered it. Cupping his hand over the mouthpiece he said to the other man.

"It's Granger, Mrs. Heath's attorney. Do you want to talk to him?"

Heath picked up the receiver. His mouth was very grim.

"Yes, I've been expecting you," he said. "Is Mrs. Heath with you? Good. Would you mind telling her before you go any further with the papers that I have in my hands a document I think will interest her?"

There was a brief wait during which Waring entertained himself by imagining the exchange of remarks at the other end of the line.

Then Heath said rapidly and clearly. "Tell her it's a letter post-marked 'Nassau' last February and signed 'Ernesto.' He looked across at Waring, the room electric with suspense.

Waring went on, "I had a little tin box of my own in the vault," he said. "I didn't know what to do with the thing and so I decided to put it there for safe keeping. Of course I might have destroyed it but it hadn't been mine to read in the first place. I was pretty well cut up about the whole thing, anyway."

Heath squared his shoulders. "You were quite right," he said gruffly. "I appreciate your discretion."

The phone rang and Waring answered it. Cupping his hand over the mouthpiece he said to the other man.

"It's Granger, Mrs. Heath's attorney. Do you want to talk to him?"

Heath picked up the receiver. His mouth was very grim.

"Yes, I've been expecting you," he said. "Is Mrs. Heath with you? Good. Would you mind telling her before you go any further with the papers that I have in my hands a document I think will interest her?"

There was a brief wait during which Waring entertained himself by imagining the exchange of remarks at the other end of the line.

Then Heath said rapidly and clearly. "Tell her it's a letter post-marked 'Nassau' last February and signed 'Ernesto.' He looked across at Waring, the room electric with suspense.

Waring went on, "I had a little tin box of my own in the vault," he said. "I didn't know what to do with the thing and so I decided to put it there for safe keeping. Of course I might have destroyed it but it hadn't been mine to read in the first place. I was pretty well cut up about the whole thing, anyway."

Heath squared his shoulders. "You were quite right," he said gruffly. "I appreciate your discretion."

The phone rang and Waring answered it. Cupping his hand over the mouthpiece he said to the other man.

"It's Granger, Mrs. Heath's attorney. Do you want to talk to him?"

Heath picked up the receiver. His mouth was very grim.

"Yes, I've been expecting you," he said. "Is Mrs. Heath with you? Good. Would you mind telling her before you go any further with the papers that I have in my hands a document I think will interest her?"

There was a brief wait during which Waring entertained himself by imagining the exchange of remarks at the other end of the line.

Then Heath said rapidly and clearly. "Tell her it's a letter post-marked 'Nassau' last February and signed 'Ernesto.' He looked across at Waring, the room electric with suspense.

Waring went on, "I had a little tin box of my own in the vault," he said. "I didn't know what to do with the thing and so I decided to put it there for safe keeping. Of course I might have destroyed it but it hadn't been mine to read in the first place. I was pretty well cut up about the whole thing, anyway."

Heath squared his shoulders. "You were quite right," he said gruffly. "I appreciate your discretion."

The phone rang and Waring answered it. Cupping his hand over the mouthpiece he said to the other man.

"It's Granger, Mrs. Heath's attorney. Do you want to talk to him?"

Heath picked up the receiver. His mouth was very grim.

"Yes, I've been expecting you," he said. "Is Mrs. Heath with you? Good. Would you mind telling her before you go any further with the papers that I have in my hands a document I think will interest her?"

There was a brief wait during which Waring entertained himself by imagining the exchange of remarks at the other end of the line.

Then Heath said rapidly and clearly. "Tell her it's a letter post-marked 'Nassau' last February and signed 'Ernesto.' He looked across at Waring, the room electric with suspense.

BRUSHING UP SPORTS . . . By Laufer!

GARLAND BRAXTON PITCHED IN 59 GAMES FOR WASHINGTON IN 1927 BUT DID NOT PITCH A FULL GAME

HOW LONG HAS THIS BEEN GOING ON?

HERE I AM DADDY!

FREAK TOTALS!

LOCKNER BROTHERS
G. Miller	189	201	201-594
Lockner	162	204	220-586
Day	187	216	183-586
Nestor	232	175	191-692
Cliffe	235	213	214-662

1009 1009 1009 3027

A THREE GAME SERIES BOWLED IN THE UTICA (N.Y.) CITY LEAGUE

SUGGESTED BY SIAM CLARKE, SPORTS EDITOR, UTICA OBSERVER DISPATCH

AUGUST 9, 1927

VIE WHITE STRODE TO THE FIRST TEE OF THE SIERRA BLANCA GOLF COURSE (TEXAS) FOR HIS FIRST GAME OF GOLF... HIS FIRST DRIVE RAN INTO THE CUP FOR A HOLE-IN-ONE.

OUT OUR WAY

OH, A MAGICIAN, HAH? PULLIN' STUFF OUTA TH' HAT? A HOLE IN TH' HAT AN' A HOLE IN TH' BOX, HUH? PRETTY FOXY GUY HEY, WORRY WART?

NO, NOT SO FOXY - I WAS SAVIN' TH' RABBIT FER LAST, FER TH' BIG SURPRISE, BUT I TOOK SO MUCH OUT THAT IT LEFT HIM TOO MUCH ROOM AN' NOW I CANT KETCH 'IM.

THE CATCH TO IT.

MOM'N POP.

OH, IT'S MR. DITTY, ISN'T IT? COME RIGHT IN! YOU FOUND THE WAY? YOU'RE LIKE ME - YOU HAVE A BUMP OF LOCATION

MRS. NEWFANGLE SO CHARMED TO KNOW YOU!

HERE HE IS, AT LAST - MR. DITTY, THE GREAT POET! THIS IS CHICK, MY HUSBAND, AND MR. WAILES, ONE OF THE BOYS FROM THE OFFICE

CHARMED, I'M SURE!

HOW DO YOU DO, MR. DITTY

HI, MR. DITTY

BRING YOUR THINGS IN HERE, HOMER... I'M GOING TO CALL YOU HOMER. YOU DON'T MIND, DO YOU?

NO, NO. THAT'S QUITE ALL RIGHT

DA YOU MEAN TO SAY THAT AGUSTA FELL FOR THAT !!

WELL, YOU AREN'T GOING TO LET AN EGG LIKE THAT SCRAMBLE YOUR TIME, ARE YOU?

....CLASSIFIED ADS....

Quick Reference, Inexpensive Ads That Are a "Clearing House" for Your Needs.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING RATES AND REGULATIONS

All CLASSIFIED advertising is payable in advance, but copy MAY be telephoned to the Cisco Daily News office and paid for as soon as collector calls.

RATES: Two cents per word for one time; four cents per word for three times; eight cents per word for six times.

CLOSING HOUR: Copy received up to 10:00 a. m. will be published the same day.

TELEPHONE 90 and place your copy with understanding that payment will be made at once, collector will call the same day or day following. Copy is received any hour from 8:00 a. m. until 5:00 p. m.

SAVE TIME Get Results

A Daily News Want Ad will scour the field in a few hours for what it would take you days to locate.

Phone

the Classified

- Lost-Found-Strayed ..... 1
- BEAUTIFUL oil permanent waves for only $1. 209 West Eleventh. Miss Johnnie Moore.
- WOULD like to rent bedroom furniture, also need kitchen stove and refrigerator, or will keep your furniture for storage. Phone 695-J.
- Wanted to Buy ..... 3
- WANTED-To trade for land or small place near Cisco. If you have something address Box X, News.
- Miscellaneous for Sale ..... 25
- FOR SALE - Nearly new refrigerator for $6.50. Apply Daily News.
- Housekeeping Rooms ..... 31
- LIGHT housekeeping rooms. Phone 183.
- FOR SALE - One small refrigerator $3. Apply at Daily News.
- FOR SALE - Used refrigerator for $4. Apply Daily News.
- Houses for Rent ..... 32
- FOR RENT - Furnished and unfurnished residences. Phone 305.
- AUTOMOBILE LOANS
- W MONEY TO LOAN on automobiles. C. E. MADDOCKS & CO., Ranger.

Train Schedule

RAILROAD TIME TABLE
New train time tables effective 12:01 a. m., June 7.

T. & P.
West Bound.
No. 7	1:45 a. m.
No. 3	12:20 p. m.
No. 1 "Sunshine Special"	4:57 p. m.
East Bound
No. 6	4:13 a. m.
No. 16 "The Texan"	10:20 a. m.
No. 4	4:25 p. m.
C. & N. E.
Leaves Cisco	5:00 a. m.
Arrive Breckenridge	6:30 a. m.
Arrives Throckmorton	9:20 a. m.
Leaves Throckmorton	10:00 a. m.
Arrives Breckenridge	11:50 a. m.
Leaves Breckenridge	12:20 p. m.
Arrive Cisco	1:50 p. m.
SUNDAY
Leave Cisco	5:00 a. m.
Arrive Cisco	10:55 a. m.
M. K. & T.
North Bound.
No. 35 Ar.	12:20 p. m.; Lv. 1:05 p. m.
South Bound.
No. 36	8:40 a. m.

LEADER SEES WAR.

DES MOINES, May 3.—Margaret Fifield, girl Scout executive, regards another war as "inevitable," she said at a Girl Scout Regional Conference here. Every European nation, she said, suffers from economic distress that can "point only to war."

Announcements

- American Legion Meets at Legion Hut First and Third Monday in each month 8 p. m. Visiting Legionaires and Ex-Service Men welcome. Rex. W. Moore, Post Com W. C. McDaniel, Post Adjt.
- The Rotary club meets every Thursday at Laguna Hotel Private Dining Room at 12:15. Visiting Rotarians always welcome. President H. S. DRUMWRIGHT; secretary J. E. SPENCER.
- Lions club meets every Wednesday at Laguna Hotel Coffee Shop at 12:15. E. O. ELLIOTT president; O. J. TUNNELL, secretary.

Did You Ever Stop to Think?

By EDSON R. WAITE Shawnee, Oklahoma.

Ray P. Stauffer, manager of the Shawnee (Oklahoma) News-Star, says: "Many people in the United States today are at work comparing facts and figures with facts and figures of previous years, trying to foretell the immediate future in business. Many things have been proved and then found to be false. Many prophecies have been made, which have failed to materialize. "There is one fact, however, that has been overlooked by so many of the business men today. That is that there are thousands, yes, hundreds of thousands and millions of people in this United States today whose incomes are the same, or slightly less, than they were at the peak. This mass of consumers has slightly less purchasing power now, as compared with previous years. They are spending their money as they make it. They are buying furniture for the home, clothes for the children, taking their weekend outings, having their children's teeth straightened and what not. In fact, they are not conscious of the so-called 'depression.' It means nothing to them. "Let this large percentage of our population be told the value of purchasing today. Let them be shown merchandise of good quality. Let them go their own way without 'forever' preaching to them the theory that business is very bad and that it will improve next month, next fall, or next year. "The same rule applies today that always has applied and always will. Hard work well done or quality merchandise well bought and well advertised will always bring profits and success."

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS.

BOY! I'M GETTING ON TO TEACHIN' DOGS THINGS, LIKE FRECKLES DOES !!

WELL, OSSIE ALBERT AN' I JUST HAD IT OUT... AN' I LET HIM KNOW WHO WAS BOSS, TOO!

YOU DIDN'T TREAT YOUR DOG CRUELLY, DID YOU?

FOR SALE

OH, NO... I WOULDN'T EVER DO THAT... BUT I CAUGHT HIM EATING UP ONE OF MY SHOES, SO I JUST UP AN' PUNISHED HIM... YSR...

WELL, OF COURSE, IF YOUR DOG DOES SOMETHING NAUGHTY, IT'S ALL RIGHT TO TEACH HIM RIGHT FROM WRONG.

HOW DID YOU PUNISH HIM, JAY?

WHY, I JUST WENT OUT TO HIS DOG HOUSE AN' DRANK UP ALL HIS MILK !!

HOW DID YOU PUNISH HIM, JAY?

WHY, I JUST WENT OUT TO HIS DOG HOUSE AN' DRANK UP ALL HIS MILK !!

HOW DID YOU PUNISH HIM, JAY?

WHY, I JUST WENT OUT TO HIS DOG HOUSE AN' DRANK UP ALL HIS MILK !!

HOW DID YOU PUNISH HIM, JAY?

WHY, I JUST WENT OUT TO HIS DOG HOUSE AN' DRANK UP ALL HIS MILK !!

BARBS

FROM the looks of things, historians in Russia and Japan might as well start looking up arguments on which one started the war.

Russian newspapers say that Japan is looking for war. And, from this viewpoint, they seem to be looking in the right direction.

Theodore Roosevelt acted as referee in the Russo-Japanese war in 1904-5, but this time it looks as if the League of Nations will be the third party in the ring.

The official decision in that bout between the Japanese and Chinese at Shanghai seems to have been "no contest."

If China and Japan ever get in a real fight, the League ought to make Japan use 12-ounce gloves.

RELIABLE PRINTING

no order too small

CISCO DAILY NEWS CISCO AMERICAN and ROUNDUP

Young Lady's Health Improved

THOUSANDS of cases, like described below, have been reported in which better health followed the use of Cardui by women:

"When I was a young girl," writes Mrs. W. H. Gullon, of Milroy, Ind., "I was run-down and in bad health. I was delicate, thin and pale. I was nervous, at times. My mother knew of Cardui and thought it would be a tonic for me to take. I took a few bottles and my health improved. My mother was pleased. I kept on taking Cardui for a while. I have been in good health ever since."

A young lady has been spared suffering because her mother about Cardui.

(To Be Continued)

69 NEW POSTS. KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 3. — Sixty-nine new Veterans of Foreign Wars posts were organized during March, setting a new high record for any previous month, according to an announcement from the organization's general headquarters here.

News want ads brings results.

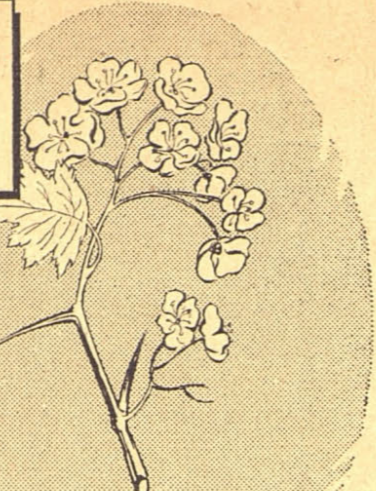

FORMER RED SOX PLAYERS REACH PROS

By BILLY RICKS
Next Sunday the Cisco Red Sox will play a return engagement with the Baird Baseball club. The Cisco club has been strengthened considerably during the past week and other reinforcements are due to come. It is planned to give Cisco one of the strongest amateur clubs in the state. The local club was hurt rather badly this year by the loss of several of their star players among them Gene Alford shortstop who is playing professional ball in the Western League. Cotton Phippen pitcher is with Muskogee in the same league. Charles Bryan, ace righthander of last year's staff is with Pine Bluff in the Cotton States League and Rip Hinson, pitcher is with Fort Arthur in the Cotton States League. Hinson tried out with Beaumont this year and looked good but Manager Del Baker decided he needed more seasoning to make the grade in the Texas League. Bryan went to Pine Bluff at the beginning of training season and from all reports is expected to be a regular. He hurled five innings in a practice game holding the opposition to two hits and collecting a double and a triple in his tow trips to the plate. Red Cockrell, whom Bryan beat 4-3 in the opening game of the season for the Red Sox is also listed as a pitcher on the Pine Bluff roster. All of these boys are due to make good and Manager Ferry is having to look elsewhere to reinforce his club. He hopes to obtain Chuck Abbott, Texas Leaguer who was with Houston in 1928, he shared the catching assignment with Manager Frank Snyder when they won the Dixie Series. He also served as an understudy to Bob O'Farrell on the World's Championship club of the St. Louis Cardinals. He is also in search of a left-handed pitcher and another infielder. Baseball fans in Cisco are promised a summer of high class baseball.

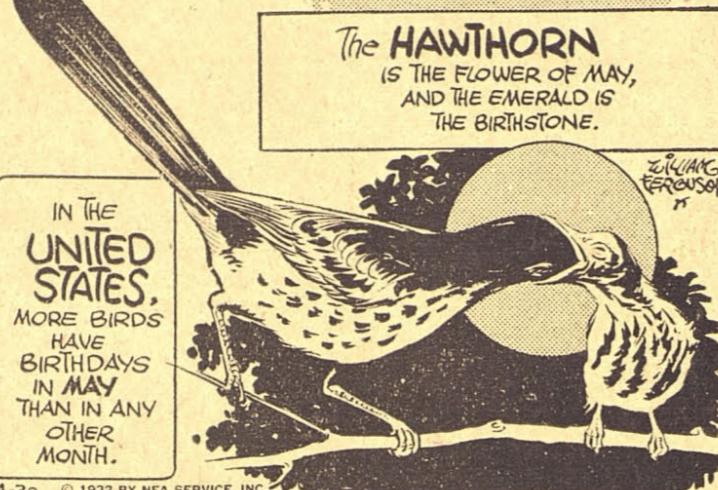

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

Calendar table for May 1932 showing days of the week and dates.

MAY WAS THE THIRD MONTH UNTIL THE ROMANS PLACED JANUARY AND FEBRUARY AT THE BEGINNING OF THE YEAR.

The HAWTHORN IS THE FLOWER OF MAY, AND THE EMERALD IS THE BIRTHSTONE.

IN THE UNITED STATES, MORE BIRDS HAVE BIRTHDAYS IN MAY THAN IN ANY OTHER MONTH.

THE MONTH OF MAY seems to have been named for Maia, Roman goddess of spring. Some scholars, however, hold that May is a shortened form of Majores, and that the month is so called because it was sacred to the older men, as June was sacred to the young men, or "juniores."

About Cisco Today

Society Editor, Miss Marjorie Noell—Phone 80.

- CALENDAR
Wednesdays
The Happy Thimble Sewing club will meet Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock with Mrs. H. A. Crosby, 309 West Sixteenth street.
The J. O. Y. class of the First Baptist Sunday school will have a business and social meeting Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Lee Smith, 1404 L avenue.
Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Reagan and Mayer and Mrs. J. T. Berry are spending this evening in Abilene. They will attend a musical program as the guest of Miss Maybelle McDaniel.
Mrs. P. P. Shepard returned last evening from a short visit in San Antonio.
Miss Irene Glenn of Caddo was the guest of Mrs. E. C. McClelland Sunday.
Leonard Surlis of McCamey is spending his vacation in Cisco.
Mrs. Neal Turner and Miss Mari, an Chambliss were visitors in Fort Worth during the weekend.
Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Green and daughter, Miss Willie B., left today for a visit in Gladewater.
Mrs. C. M. Nichols is visiting relatives in south Texas.
Miss Ardie Smith has returned to her home in Austin after a visit with her sister, Mrs. J. J. Butts.
Mr. and Mrs. Dave Duncan of Corsicana visited relatives here Sunday.
Cleveland Gandy of Breckenridge spent Sunday with Durward McClelland.
Fred Martin of Dallas was a business visitor here today.
George Irvine, Jr., spent the weekend in Fort Worth.
Miss Jourine Armstrong has re-

"The Blacksmith" by Severn, the Drago Junior Ensemble.
Part Three
Selections from Cantata, "Heavenly Light" — Carrie Be Adams.
(A) "Blessed Is The Man."
Voice — "He Shall Feed His Flock." Mrs. Grady Pipkin, with Mrs. W. T. Root at the piano.
(B) "The Harper's Song"
Choir of the Methodist church, Drago Oetette accompaniment.
National anthem: "Star Spangled Banner." Audience, Drago oetette and Drago ensemble.
Postlude, Mrs. F. O. Hunter.
The public is cordially invited to attend this recital.

"42" CLUB MEETS IN MCCLELLAND HOME.
The Ideal Forty-two club met last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. McClelland on West 7th street. Colors of green and white were combined in a color scheme for house decorations, with honey-suckle and peonias adding floral charm to entertaining rooms. The chosen colors were further reflected in the delicious candies served throughout the evening. In the games, H. C. Henderson won high and L. R. Adams won low score for men, Miss Fay Henderson won high and Mrs. B. W. Anderson the low score for women.
Present were Messrs. and Mmes. L. R. Adams, B. W. Anderson, H. C. Henderson, E. C. McClelland, Miss Lois Grantham, Mrs. Jack Barton, of Plainview, Miss Fay Henderson, Dick Bates, C. M. Nichols, and Billie Cooper.

MRS. MCCREA HOSTESS TO BRIDGE CLUB.
Mrs. Yancey McCrea was hostess to the 1929 Contract bridge club yesterday afternoon at her home on West Eighth street. Mrs. J. A. Beaman won high score in the games at the conclusion of which light refreshments were served.
Those present were Mesdames Jack Cabanes, J. A. Beaman, R. L. Ponsler, A. D. Anderson, George P. Fee, E. L. Graham, F. D. Wright, and the hostess.

MRS. BAILEY HOSTESS TO LEGION AUXILIARY
The American Legion Auxiliary met yesterday afternoon in regular session at the home of Mrs. H. G. Bailey, 703 West Fifth street. Arrangements for the poppy sale to be held on May 28 were discussed, and Miss Mayne Estes and Mrs. M. H. French were named captains to conduct the sale. Mrs. Zed Erwin, Miss Letna Estes, and Mrs. H. A. Bible were appointed on a committee to nominate officers for the coming year. Mrs. Crigler Paschall read an article by Kathleen Norris, called "Woman's Place In the History of the Nation."

Refreshments were served during the afternoon to the following: Mesdames Zed Erwin, L. G. McPherson, E. L. Smith, Crigler Paschall, A. D. Estes, C. E. Yates, H. A. Bible, Misses Mayne and Letna Estes.

MRS. BUTTS HOSTESS TO MERRY WIVES CLUB.
Red radiance roses and peonies were effectively used in adding floral charm to entertaining rooms when Mrs. J. J. Butts was hostess to the Merry Wives club at her home on West Sixth street. Twelve rounds of forty-two were enjoyed during the afternoon. Mrs. Butts was assisted by Miss Mary Jane Butts, Mrs. F. D. Wright, and Mrs. Edgar Butts in serving an attractive collation of pickle salad, wafers, watermelon pickles, angel food cake, and ice tea at the conclusion of the games.

CORSAGES OF sweetheart roses were given as plate favors to Mesdames C. H. Fee, W. P. Lee, J. T. Berry, E. P. Crawford, George Fee, C. Owen, W. W. Moore, B. W. Patterson, J. E. Spencer, Alex. Ward, Joe Wilson, Gus Ward, C. C. Jones, L. A. Harrison, J. B. Cate, J. T. Anderson, J. W. Mancill, Wm. Reagan, Chas. Hale, and Miss Ardie Smith of Austin.

WILL UNVEIL MONUMENT TO GEN. TARRANT

By V. V. COPELAND
United Press Staff Correspondent
PORT WORTH, May 3.—Daring battles with Indians and narrow escapes from border outlaws will be recalled when a monument to Gen. E. H. Tarrant, famed soldier, Texas Ranger, lawyer and public official, is unveiled here May 15.
An expensive marble shaft, eight feet high, will replace the tiny bronze military markers which now describe the burial site of the former noted general for whom Tarrant county is named.
The dedication will be under auspices of the Daughters of the War of 1812, in which war Tarrant took part. The ceremony will be in connection with the George Washington Bicentennial celebrations.
On one side of the shaft will be inscribed Tarrant's outstanding achievements, on the other—"This marks his resting place—Tarrant epitmu os his monument."
Strangely, little is known of Tarrant's early life, although he was a front rank figure in pioneer Texas history.

The date and place of his birth are disputed. Some authorities maintain he was born in North Carolina in 1796. Other give Tennessee his birthplace and still others claim he was an Alabamian. So far as is known General Tarrant kept no accounts of his early life, which doubtless will remain unknown.

Joined Jackson.
While still a youth, about 19, he joined frontier forces of the South under Gen. Andrew Jackson and engaged in at least two battles against marauding Indians.
Tarrant was an outstanding figure in the battle of New Orleans in 1815, fought after peace already had been declared in America's second war with England.

Well qualified for frontier life and a natural pioneer, Tarrant came to Texas in 1835. Virtually nothing is known of his life during the 20 years between the Battle of New Orleans and his arrival in Texas.
Once in Texas, he immediately joined the revolutionary Texas forces in their war for independence against Mexico. He remained in the army until the New Republic was declared in 1836.

Leaving the army, he joined the Texas Rangers, law enforcing body equal in fame to the Canadian Royal Northwest Mounted police. Tarrant became commander of the Northwestern Texas frontier region, redundant with hostile Indians and vicious outlaws.

Representative.
In 1838, General Tarrant was elected to represent the Red River district in the congress of the Texas Republic. Although a recognized lawyer, he did not care for politics or law-making and quickly resigned to return to command of the Rangers.
Three years later he led a small body of settlers against a plundering band of Indians. The two forces met in a bloody battle on Village Creek, in what now is Tarrant county.
General Tarrant was victorious, freeing the sector of danger and contributing to breaking the Indian's power in the southwest.
Freed of Indians and safe to crafty out peaceful pursuits, residents organized Tarrant county, which was created legally by a legislative act on December 20, 1849.
As he grew older and less active physically, General Tarrant deserted the saddle for a legislative chair, serving several terms in the state legislature after Texas was admitted to the Union.
He died in 1858 at Old Fort Belknap and was buried in Ellis county. In 1928, 70 years after his death, his body was brought to Fort Worth and reinterred in Pioneers' rest cemetery.
The monument, purchased by contributions from individuals and organizations throughout Texas, will serve as a permanent mark for his grave.

BURGLAR ALARM FAILED
MILFORD, Conn., May 3.—Proprietors of a furniture store here thought they were pretty clever when they wired every door and window inside, and outside the building to a burglar alarm but burglars cut a hole through the wall and kicked down a partition without touching a door or window to loo; the safe.

Sabinal — Large shipments of cattle made from here during recent week.
Haskell — Liberty Service Station across street from S. Ward School opened.

Yoakum — Work progressing city water tank, located near S. Stock Yards in North Yoakum.
Alvin — New $80,000 golf club house nearing completion.

Advertisement for 'Good looks aren't always luck' featuring an illustration of a woman's face.

Advertisement for 'FREE MOTH PROTECTION' by Tullos Bros., featuring an illustration of a moth and a box of Kellogg's All-Bran cereal.

Advertisement for 'GOOD INSURANCE' by E. P. CRAWFORD, Insurance—Real Estate—Loans.

Closing Selected New York Stocks

- American Can 37 3-8.
Am. Pwr. & Light 8 1-2.
Am. Smelt 8 3-8.
Am. Tel. & Tel. 97.
Anaconda 4 1-2.
Avn. Corp. Del. 2 3-4.
Barnsdall 4 1-8.
Beth Steel 12 1-2.
Byers, A. M. 8.
Canada Dry 8.
Case, J. I. 20 1-2.
Chrysler 3 1-2.
Curtiss Wright 1 1-8.
Elec. Auto Lite 12.
Foster Wheel 5.
Fox Film 2 1-8.
Gen. Elec. 13 5-8.
Gillette S. R. 13.
Goodyear 10.
Houston Oil 10 1-8.
Int. Cement 8 1-2.
Int. Harv. 16 1-8.
Johns-Man. 12.
Kroger G. & B. 12.
Liq. Carb. 9.
Mont. Ward 6 3-4.
Nat. Dairy 21 5-8.
Para Public 3 1-8.
Phillips Pet 4.
Pure Oil 4 1-8.
Purify Bak. 6 3-4.
Radio 3 7-8.
Sears Roe. 15 1-4.
Shell Un. Oil 2 3-4.
Socony-Vacuum 8.
South Pac. 11 3-4.
S O N J 22 3-4.
Studebaker 4.
Tex. Corp. 10 1-2.
Texas G. Sul. 17 5-8.
Tex. & P. C. & O. 1 7-8.
Und. Elliot 11 1-2.
U. S. Ind. Alc. 18.
U. S. Steel 27 5-8.
Vanadium 7 1-4.
Westing. Elec. 21 7-8.
Worthington 8.
Curb:
Cities Serv. 3 3-4.
Ford M. Ltd. 3 5-8.
Gulf Oil Pa. 28 5-8.
Humble Oil 37 3-8.
S O Ind. 16.

LIBRARY GETS BOOKS
NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 3.—Yale Law School has just acquired for its library an original edition of Statham's Abridgement, believed to be the first printed English law book. An alumnus of the university who preferred to remain anonymous donated the book, which is priceless.

SWIMMING WON JOB
AUBURN, N. Y., May 3.—It was just a stunt when Frank Beacham, electric company meter reader, swam across each of the Finger Lakes in succession. But it turned out to be practical when he received an appointment as permanent life guard at Fair Haven Beach.

Advertisement for PALACE theater, now playing 'The Daddy of Daddy Long Legs' by Warner Baxter.

Advertisement for 'Charleston Special' by Walton's Studio, featuring a list of musical pieces and performers.

Large advertisement for Lucky Strike cigarettes, featuring an illustration of a man and a woman, and the text 'DO YOU INHALE? Why is this vital question so much avoided by other cigarettes?'