HOUSE PASSES RELIEF BOND MEASURE

Farm Relief-Inflation Bill Is Signed by Roosevelt

DEBT-RIDDEN FARMERS MAY RECEIVE AID

WASHINGTON, May 12.— President Roosevelt today signed the currency inflation-farm relief bill giving him sweeping powers over the nation's currency and empowering the administration to raise farm commodity prices.

The act extends relief not only to farm borrowers but to mortgage creditors as well," the president said.

Holders of farm mortgages will have the privilege of exchanging them for federal land bank bonds, the interest payment upon which are to be guaranteed by the treasury of the United States.

"Farmers, whose mortgages are to be exchanged, will reap the benefit of lower interest rates and more liberal terms of payment.

"It is to the interest of all the people of the United States that the benefits of this act should be extended to all who are in need of them and that none shall be deprived of them through ignorance.

"I urge upon mortgage creditors," President Roosevelt said, "to abstain from bringing foreclosure proceedings and making any effort to dispossess farmers who are in debt to them.

"This is in line with public duty and private interest."

The president's signature to the bill brought to enactment a measure which was one of the key parts of the administration's emergency program.

$200,000,000 FOR DIRECT LOANS.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Chairman Morgenthau, of the farm board, today hailed the agricultural credit section of the new farm relief law as the beginning of an attack on farm debt oppression.

The act provides $200,000,000 of R. F. C. funds for direct loans to farmers to begin Monday.

These loans will be made through agents in the offices of the 12 federal land banks. Farmers may borrow up to $5,000 to pay debts, provide working capital or redeem foreclosed property.

Texas farmers are directed to apply to A. P. Graves, of Houston, regional agent.

STOLEN CAR IS RECOVERED AFTER CHASE

A Chevrolet 1926 model sedan, owned by R. L. Rains and stolen from before the Nazarene church last night, was recovered at Carbon early this morning after an exciting chase by Mr. Rains, his brother, Floyd, the Rev. Luther Pryor, and W. T. Horn.

The four men trailed the car to Carbon where they searched for some time and then started for Eastland. As they drove from the city a car approached with one headlight burning. Convinced that it was the stolen machine, the four men gave chase. The driver of the stolen machine ran into a ditch and two men leaped out and fled.

A couple was discovered in the rear seat of the car. They explained they had been picked up by the two men in possession of the car and were en route to Coleman.

The car was not damaged. The gasoline tank, almost empty when it was stolen, was found to be full of fuel.

RELIEF WORK MAJOR WTCC ACHIEVEMENT

BIG SPRING, May 12.— President Wilbur C. Hawk in his annual report to members of the West Texas chamber of commerce in convention here today, paid tribute to "the never-say-die spirit which prevails in west Texas."

Most important of the chamber's achievements during the year, he said, were three.

1. Obtaining and distributing among west Texas cities and counties R. F. C. funds.
2. Promulgation of a program for reducing public expenditures.
3. Beautification work in west Texas cities.

Of the relief activities of the chamber Hawk said, "This work resulted in 132 west Texas counties receiving and distributing approximately $2,500,000 during the period from November 1 to April 1.

"We adopted the slogan 'millions for relief but not one cent for overhead' and the record shows that less than one per cent of the relief money went for overhead in west Texas, and that 99 per cent went for relief."

The chamber is at work on a fourth project, an attempt to obtain for west Texas its share of government loans for self-liquidating public works. A public works and self-liquidating loan bureau has been created to this end.

Expressing pride in the fact that the chamber has a balance of $24,000 with which to carry out its work during the remainder of the year, Hawk announced that 51 new cities have become affiliated with the chamber, bringing the total to 168.

SCHOOL EXHIBITS ARE REMARKABLE FOR QUALITY OF WORK SHOWN TO BE DONE BY CISCO STUDENTS

A complete visual cross-section of public school life and activity in Cisco is presented today in the building formerly occupied by the Statham pharmacy. Representative work of every grade and department in the schools is grouped sectionally. The exhibit, open to the public, will remain there through Saturday.

Included with the exhibits is information pertaining to enrollment and the character of instruction done in the schools.

The south wall of the building and a section of the center racks are occupied with exhibits of work done in the grades. Examples of each are consolidated so that the visitors, progressing from first to seventh, may perceive quite clearly the progressive steps in the student life of the pupil. In these displays are striking examples of youthful handiwork, including modeling, drawing, writing, poster making and so forth.

In the third grade division one sees the model of a modern cottage, constructed of bricks made and baked by the students. A two-story dwelling has the front wall cut away so that the interior arrangement and furnishings are visible.

Subject Groups

In the higher grades and in the high school section the exhibits are grouped by subjects. What is being done in reading, English, geography, health, writing, arithmetic, civics, history and all the gamut of scholastic subjects is effectively presented in these groups. In fact every phase of school activity is visually represented in the handiwork of the students.

Illustrated maps feature the history and geography sections. In the bookkeeping and typing departments are exhibits of letter writing, transcription of shorthand, bulk typing and so forth.

In a niche reserved to the economic department one sees garments from house dresses to evening apparel as made by the students. Cisco stores could well afford to display some of this material. There is a booth devoted to distilleries.

In the chemistry division one sees blue prints made by the students and inspects some of the equipment used in the study of the elements and their relations.

The library display is remarkable both for the excellence of its exhibits and the comprehensive range of subjects covered, from standard literature to themes of modern every day interest. Book-lovers' maps of America and the British Isles, minutely drawn by students are among the attractions to be seen here.

Drawings Excellent

Drawings in the biological and general science division impress the visitor with the thoroughness with which these subjects are treated.

The Latin section is another in which striking illustrations of student work may be seen. Themes related to the subject are shown. Student interest is emphasized by map drawings of the Roman empire and Gaul in the time of Caesar which would grace a learned text upon such subjects.

The Spanish section is likewise marked. Besides maps, students papers and other written material, modelings of typical Mexican and Spanish buildings, including a Moorish mosque cut from soap, are seen. Hand decorated posters and

SENATE MUST VOTE AGAIN ON PROPOSAL

AUSTIN, May 12.—The house of the Texas legislature today voted for submission of a $20,000,000 unemployment relief bond issue. The vote was 114 to 32. The resolution to submit the bonds to popular vote on August 26 has been amended in minor particulars from the form in which it passed the senate. It must therefore, go back to the senate for concurrence before the action becomes final.

The house amendments to the senate's resolution are, first, a provision that the bonds must be sold for not less than par value and accrued interest without the payment of any commission for the sale; second, a declaration that the legislature shall provide for payment of the interest on the bonds and their redemption from a source other than a tax on real estate.

The amended resolution went back to the senate early this afternoon with the hope that final action can be completed today.

If the bond issue is submitted assurance has been given the legisla-ture that federal funds will again be available to carry on relief work Monday.

Last night mayors of several Texas cities told the legislators that withdrawal of federal aid has resulted in such a depletion of funds that relief work could not be carried on after this week.

The resolution twice failed of passage by the necessary two-thirds majority yesterday. It gained 96 affirmative votes on the first try and dropped to 88 affirmative votes on the second. A vote of 100 in the house is necessary to submit a constitutional amendment.

This program is likewise free.

SHIPMENTS OF VEGETABLES UP DURING APRIL

AUSTIN, May 12.—Total shipments of fruits and vegetables from Texas during the month of April amounted to 5,400 cars, an increase of 28 per cent over the total for the preceding month, according to daily reports from the United States Department of Agriculture compiled by the University of Texas bureau of business research. Last year in April, 6,472 cars were loaded.

Although onion loading got a good start during April, the total of 1,827 cars shipped is, with only one exception, the smallest for April since the Bureau's records started in 1927. Last year in April, 2,296 cars were shipped. This year, a number of carloads were sent to New York and other seaboard points by boat.

Mixed vegetables accounted for 1,111 of the carloads shipped, a total which compared favorably, in view of the price and crop situations, with the 1,280 carloads shipped in April last year. Only 296 cars of spinach were loaded as against 510 in April last year, and cabbage shipments of only 231 cars during the month were very short as compared with loadings of 832 cars in April, 1932.

The first tomatoes, cucumbers, and green corn of the season were shipped during April, 182 cars of tomatoes, 100 cars of cucumbers, and 27 cars of green corn having been loaded. Last year, shipments in carload lots of these vegetables did not begin until May. The first carload of cantaloupes for the year was shipped during April. Potato loadings for April totaled 872 cars and exceeded those for April a year ago by 102 cars. Strawberries amounting to 30 carloads were shipped during April, a gain of 7 cars over the total for April, 1932. Shipments of carrots, beets, greens, and sweet potatoes were all smaller than for the month of April last year.

Prices improved considerably during April. The index of fruit and vegetable prices prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture having increased from 60 in March to 66 in April; last year in April this index stood at 78. This index is based on the average for 1909-1914 as equal to 100.

REVIVAL WILL CLOSE SUNDAY AT M. E. CHURCH

"I can remove heaven from the Bible just as easily as you can remove hell," Evangelist John M. Neal conducting a revival at the First Methodist church, told his congregation last night.

"Everywhere that heaven is mentioned in the Bible hell is also mentioned. It makes no difference what you think about it. God said there is a hell and there is. What right have you to take it out of the Good Book?"

Tomorrow, said the evangelist, is the devil's word. "No person with his reasoning faculties right but intends to be saved. The trouble is they plan to be saved 'tomorrow.' The devil is perfectly satisfied if he can get you to say 'tomorrow, tomorrow.' You're tomorrow may be to late. Today is the day of salvation.

The final week-day service of the revival will take place this evening at 8 o'clock. The concluding sermons will be preached Sunday morning at 11 o'clock and Sunday evening at 8.

Excellent crowds have attended the services so far held. The meeting is open to the public and a general invitation is extended.

HOUSE PASSES REFORM BILL.

The lower house of the Texas legislature has enacted the Graves-Woodruff administration code bill, reorganizing the entire set-up of the state government and cutting the number of boards and bureaus from 139 to 19. The bill, sweeping in its reform details, is the product of a comprehensive survey and exhaustive study of duplications and excessive costs made by a joint legislative committee appointed two years ago. It proposes for Texas a uniform set-up of administration with 24 other states. If enacted by the senate the measure would become effective September 1, 1935, at the beginning of the state's fiscal year after the next governor takes office.

Authors of the measure accepted two modifying amendments. One would leave changes affecting higher education restricted to the substitution of one board for the entire educational system, instead of the present state board and 54 agents for the university and minor institutions of education supported by the tax-payers of the state.

Sen. Grady Woodruff, co-author of the bill, will champion its passage in the senate and hopes to see it sent to the governor at the earliest possible date. The broad claim is made by Rep. Harry N. Graves, chairman of the committee which made the survey and framed the bill, that it will result in a saving of $3,000,000 to $7,000,000 a year. The house is to be congratulated for its action. The senate should do likewise. The far-reaching economies of this reform would compensate in a large measure that the legislature has so far ground out.

TEXANS ON THE RISE.

Col. Jesse H. Jones, Houston capitalist, is the new head of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, succeeding Atlee Pomerane, of Ohio. Col. Jones has been a member of the corporation since it was created during the Hoover administration. His name is a household word in Texas and he has a reputation as a financier and man of affairs that is more than national. He was a Tennessean by birth and he came to Texas before he attained his majority. He started at the bottom of the ladder and he went to the top. He is a glutton for work. He has many achievements to his credit. In the national councils of democracy he has been a power, and he was responsible for the national convention of the party coming to Texas in 1928.

Another Texan is being pushed into the national picture. He is Ralph W. Morrison, of San Antonio, ranchman and financier. Morrison is said to be slated as a delegate to the world economic conference in London. He was a heavy contributor to the Roosevelt-Garner campaign fund.

Morrison is said to have been interested in power development in Texas for the past 15 years. He came to Texas from St. Louis in 1914 and has constructed many power stations in the valley section of the state. He owns a large ranch near Spofford and has been active in horse and cattle raising for many years. He was the unanimous choice of the Texas organization for secretary of commerce in the cabinet of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

INDUSTRIAL CONTROL.

The chamber of commerce of the United States has aligned itself solidly behind the proposal for government supervised production and competition control of industry. Semi-officially Washington says that President Roosevelt has not determined whether he will recommend any such legislation at this session. He is watching every angle of the economic picture. All the signs point to the beginning of a new era in big business. There is much talk of "industrial self control." What is it? Is it government supervision or is it absolute government domination of the industries of the republic? Is big business getting too big for individual or corporation control? If so, how far should the government step in to preserve and protect the public interests which it affects? Those are dominant questions.

Dictator Mussolini, too shrewd for the character of government he is setting up in Italy, emphasizes a salient in the new field of socio-political thought:

"How is it possible," he asks, respecting a huge concern, "to think that its fortunes or misfortunes are the personal affair of the manager of that house, or of the shareholders of that industry? No, it now interests the whole of the nation, and the political, judicial and moral expression of the nation cannot be a stranger to it."

Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE

One of the most remarkable instances of craftsmanship seen in Cisco is displayed in the window of the Dean Drug company. It is an exact replica, in miniature, of the coach used by Napoleon when he was emperor of France. In every detail, from mechanism to decoration, the model is faithful to the original. Even the springs upon which the coach is swung are made of leaves, just as the actual springs. There is so much of minute detail built into the tiny coach that a volume would be required to list it.

Mark Reed, Cisco Eagle Scout and a member of Troop No. 4 was the craftsman. He spent more than 800 hours of exacting work in the construction of the model which will be entered in the Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild annual contest closing July 1. Mark will compete for one of six master prizes, each of which is a four-year university scholarship valued at $5,000. Four of the six are offered in the United States and two in Canada. In addition a number of special prizes, consisting of payments in gold, will be made.

The coach must be seen to be appreciated. If its exterior is remarkable for detail and ingenuity in the reproduction of this detail, and for the excellence of its decoration with gilt paint and brass ornaments, the interior is equally striking for its upholstery. The seats, covered with gleaming satiny material, are removable. Every appurtenance which added to the luxury and royal character of Napoleon's magnificent coach are reproduced.

Upon each corner of the top sits a gilded eagle. The arms of France are reproduced in the decorations. So accurate is it that the springs are even equipped with screws for tightening or relieving the tension. Mark constructed the coach from directions furnished by the Guild. These directions fill a large book. It takes merely a glance through this mass of detailed instructions to realize what infinite patience and care Mark brought to his job.

A youngster with the "stickability" and determination to perfect so ex-

Bright, Fresher After Taking Black-Draught

"Seven years ago, I was troubled with constipation," writes Mrs. L. E. Williams, of Jackson, Miss. "My mother told me she thought it would help me to take Black-Draught. She had used it herself and it had helped her. I found it relieved me of this troublesome complaint. I suffered from sick headache and biliousness which made me feel dull and lifeless. I felt bright and fresh after I took Theodor's Black-Draught. It is a splendid medicine for constipation. I take it dry, at night, followed by a generous glass of water."

The over-practical person may question the utility of the achievement. But I daresay that Mark never did anything that gave him better training.

SOVIET GIVING TURKEY AID IN REFORMATION

ISANBUL, May 12 — While the government is keeping a sharp eye on any threatened spread of communism in Turkey, a cordial cooperation with Moscow is enjoyed.

The Soviet authorities are taking the initiative by finding interests in Turkey for their artists, their linguists, and their economists. They send athletic teams, film directors, and factory experts to join in the life of what they like to characterize as a "social revolution" parallel to their own.

In two other important intellectual fields, Moscow is collaborating with Ankara—two fields especially close to Kemal Jasha's program of reforming and recreating Turkey. One is the work of revising Turkish history to accord with recent researches; the other is the task of reconstructing the Turkish vocabulary and syntax in the direction of pure Turkish.

Two distinguished Soviet scientists have placed their tremendous historical and linguistic lore at Ankara's disposal in these tasks.

The rewriting of Turkish history is calculated to push back the account of Turkish origins several thousands of years—even to the period before the Hittite Empire which flourished in Anatolia from about 500 to 300 B. C.

So much for the cultural side of Turco-Soviet co-operation. In the economic domain, the Russian machinery credit to Turkey (amounting to $8,000,000), which was arranged last year, steadily is taking shape. A Turkish committee has lately gone to Moscow to select the machinery for three new textile factories, construction of which will commence this year. The committee also will arrange for a number of technical experts.

Battlefields Yield Bodies of Missing

PARIS, May 12 — Although meadows and flourishing fields cover most of no-man's land, that historic strip from the English Channel to Switzerland relinquishes constant reminders of the world war.

Under the direction of the war ministry, a small army of men work constantly in the regions where the most sanguinary battles were waged, charged with finding and identifying, if possible, the remains of thousands of soldiers still recorded as "missing," 15 years after the Armistice.

A typical report of the searchers' efforts is that for March, dealing with the department of Fuz-de-Calais, where the Germans concentrated their fire late in 1914. It reads: Found: French, 28 identifiable, 42 unidentifiable.

German, 39 identifiable, 165 unidentifiable. Total: 274.

The total recorded as "missing" among the French war dead is about 237,000. Each month as the lists are made public they are scanned by relatives who hope to bring the remains to a family cemetery.

"It's probably some farmer's dooryard," Monnie said, despairingly.

THE winking red light disappeared for an instant, reappeared again. Charles was slowing his engine now, its powerful roar muffled so that the sounds of insects, of whirring crickets and croaking tree frogs could be heard.

Monnie realized the car they were trailing had stopped. Before she could speak the man beside her had put on the brakes, was sliding out of the seat.

"You stay here," he said in a reassuring whisper. "I'll do the talking."

Monnie was trembling with nervousness now. She had to grip her teeth together to keep them from chattering. She watched Charles' tail figure striding purposefully away from her. In the car ahead she could just see the outline of two heads. A woman's, she saw. A man's.

She wanted to call out to Charles to come back—to hurry. They must be on their way. It was folly to waste even a few minutes trailing some surly farmer who would, "as no, resent with blows their interest in him. In the blurry mist the headlights made she could see Charles draping himself casually over the fender of the car. She could not hear what he said but presently he came back, looking rather disgusted.

"Some idiot of a drunken yokel," he said disgustedly. "His wife's asleep. I couldn't get anything out of her. What luck! My hunch was a rotten one."

Monnie was sick with disappointment. She hadn't really expected anything of this chance sled. They were searching for a needle in a haystack, she reminded herself. She must keep up her courage.

"Tell you what we'll do," Charles said in a hearty tone. "We'll push on for Waynesboro and inquire at the hotel there. If they're stopping any place tonight it will be there. It's the only decent place for miles around."

"They wouldn't—Kay would n't—" Monnie stammered.

"Kay's going to be all right! Don't you worry about that," the quiet voice told her. The young man beside her started his engine, which purred dutifully, and the car began to slew about on the slippery road. There had been heavy rains the night before. The wheels whirred uselessly for a moment in the mud and the brakes groaned.

"Nasty place!"

THE engine killed, sickeningly. Monnie felt her palms wet and her cheeks hot. This was awful—awful—they were losing precious time.

In the split second of silence after the roar of the motor a girl's clear voice came to them. "I want to go back—oh, I do!" Kay's voice.

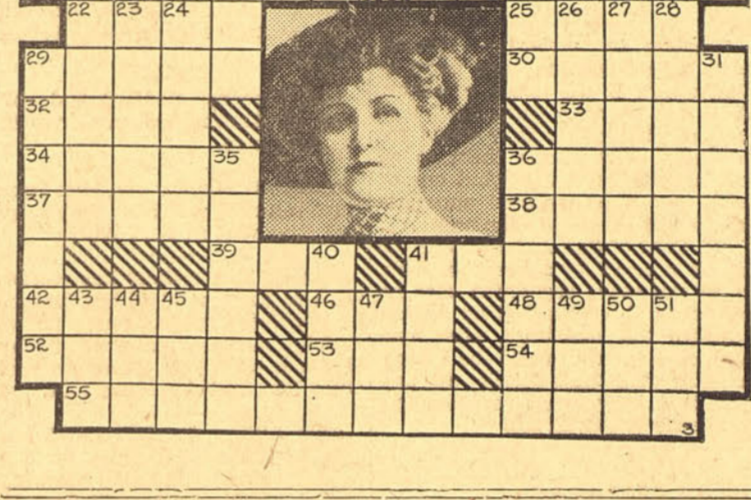

Monnie was out upon that muddy road before she knew what she

Did You Ever Stop to Think?

By EDSON R. WAITE Shawnee, Oklahoma.

That cooperation means success for a city. All cities should look to the future with courage. They must have faith — faith in themselves, their neighbors and their city. If they don't have faith they will be out of tune and the home city will suffer. The future is before you city. What are you going to do about it? Will you wait for somebody to bring prosperity to you or go out with real cooperation and create your own prosperity? With easy-going methods your city won't get far. You have your future before you. The only way you can succeed is to work unselfishly and earnestly to put your city on the map as a city of commercial and industrial importance. Activity and cooperation go hand in hand. All should help to foster and develop a spirit of cooperation. Rightfully directed cooperation is the only way to make a city grow.

"NOW CAN EAT ANY KIND OF FOOD, AND NO CONSTIPATION"

Mr. Durigan Finds Relief in Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Here is his enthusiastic letter: "Am 70 years of age, and for 40 of these years there never was a week but what I had to take a pill or some kind of cathartic. "I took everything, but gained only temporary relief. Until last spring my daughter, who is a nurse in a hospital, brought me some Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

"At the end of the week, I knew I had something that was it, and I kept on taking it. I haven't taken a cathartic since. I can eat meat any time, as often as I like, or any other kind of food, and no constipation." Mr. L. M. Durigan, 6811 Buffalo Ave., Jacksonville, Florida.

Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to help muscle tone. Also iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the intestinal wastes.

How much safer than patent medicines. Two tablespoons daily are usually sufficient. With each meal in serious cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Sold in the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

TEXAS TOPICS

By RAYMOND BROOKS
 AUSTIN, May 12—It probably will not be pulled out at this session but there is tucked away in the desk of one member in the present legislature a resolution proposing a statewide referendum on the question of dividing Texas into two—or more—states.

It is preparedness in case the customary biennial move of West Texas session develops in the final days of this session... John N. Garner several years ago discovered if you had two states you would have four United States senators, or five states you'd have 10 senators. So far, that has been about the only reason advanced for splitting up the state.

One of the safest things imaginable will be to leave the question to voters of the state; and you can't submit it to those merely of a section of Texas.

Since Gov. Ferguson approved the Panhandle gas processing law a few days ago, the gas people report they have put the heads of 118 families to work in the stripping and carbon black plants operated in the field.

Senators, in reviewing revenue bills, have taken the same trend as that shown in the house, of asking those who oppose a particular bill to suggest what others they would recommend, and asking them to go into minute details of what out of each of the complicated appropriations bill he would eliminate.

H. H. Ochs of San Antonio gave as nearly a complete answer as there is, in the suave suggestion that he put across the plate that he rather assumed the legislature, after long and close study, would be most familiar with those details; at any rate that being what the members were sent to Austin for.
