STERLING CONTEST TRIAL OCTOBER 3

Search for Missing Banker Centers at Wichita, Kan.

NOTE WIFE RECEIVED IS DISCOUNTED

BURLINGTON, Okla., Sept. 23.—The search for H. C. Doherty centered at Wichita, Kan., today as his family and officers expressed a growing conviction the missing Burlington banker was still alive. An anonymous note hinting that the 38-year-old banker had been shot was discounted. Officers said that although two empty pistol cartridges were found in the banker's abandoned automobile they had evidence he had not been slain. Today's investigation centered on two telephone conversations believed placed from Wichita. Doherty disappeared while en route to Dumas, Texas, near Amarillo to collect a $3,000 note. Late yesterday Oklahoma City officers found his abandoned automobile near Newcastle. At the same time Mrs. Doherty received a strange note from an anonymous person who referred to an underground north of Amarillo. Careful search of the Amarillo vicinity failed to reveal clues of the missing man. State bank examiners took charge of Doherty's bank and closed it Tuesday. They reported no shortage although the bank was short of actual cash. Mrs. Doherty said that the family believe the banker is wandering about "and possibly is suffering from a blow on the head inflicted by a hunchback bandit."

Promotional Day At Baptist Church

The Baptist Sunday school Sunday morning will observe Promotional Day with installation of officers and teachers, nearly 90 in number. Rev. E. S. James, pastor of the church, will preach at the morning hour upon "Teaching the Word." His subject in the evening will be "Profit and Loss."

Country Club Party Postponed

The Cisco Country club party, which was to have been tonight, has been postponed until October 7, according to an announcement today. The party was postponed on account of the evangelistic meetings at the Methodist and Christian churches.

CISCO BOXERS WIN BOUTS AT COUNTY FAIR

Three Cisco boys are matched with opponents from other parts of the county on the Eastland County Fair boxing program at Eastland tonight. Two Cisco boxers on last night's program emerged with victories, one by a decision and the other by a knockout. Elmer Van Cleave defeated Johnson by a decision in three rounds and Jim Johnson, Cisco, knocked out Ricks, of Olden, in the second round of a three-round go. It was Johnson's first ring experience. This evening Van Cleave, Jake Smith and Tom Cotton will appear in the ring. Smith will meet a Rising Star lad, Clark, whom he out-pointed in a fight at the Rising Star fair last week. Clark outwitted Smith by 20 pounds. The ring is located behind the Texas State bank building.

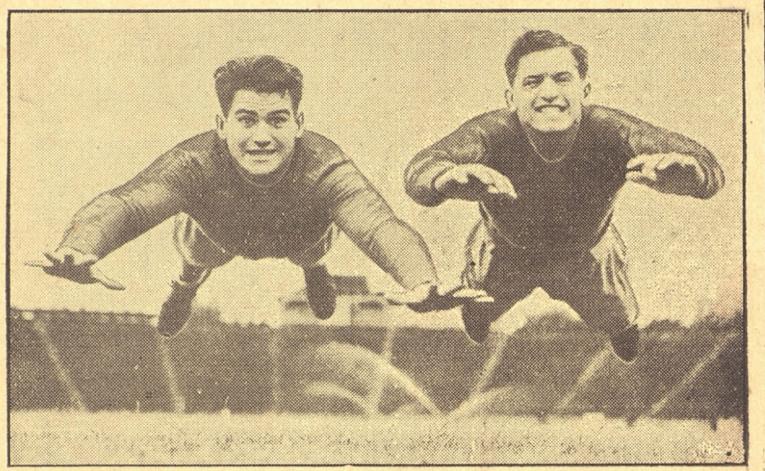

SEARCH STARTED MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 23.

When Joseph Zell, 51, Milwaukee, missed his first meal at home in 20 years, his wife asked police to search for him, fearing he had met with foul play.

MODEL AIRPLANE CONTEST ST. LOUIS, Sept. 23.

A model airplane contest for boys, conducted by a department store here, has drawn more than 500 entries. Howard Ogden, 17, spent more than 400 hours fashioning his plane out of wire and brass sheeting until it is an exact replica in miniature of a tri-motor passenger plane.

UNIVERSITY OIL ROYALTIES ARE $15,560,576

AUSTIN, Sept. 23.—The University of Texas has received $15,560,576.69 during the eleven years since the first oil royalty was received at the State Land Office, according to a statement made from that office recently. This money is turned over to the University permanent fund. The interest from the permanent fund is available for use in the construction of buildings. Oil royalties for the month of August which was reported from the Land Office totaled $102,580.70, an increase as compared to the amounts received during the months of July and June. In June a total of $97,544.97 was reported, while in July the figure was $97,264.97. A recent report from the auditor's office showed that the University had received a total of $18,317,429.12 during the eleven years since oil was discovered on land owned by the University in Reagan county. This amount includes the money received from sources directly connected with the product. It comprises the greatest portion of the University permanent fund.

NEW HUMBLE BUYING POLICY PUT IN EFFECT

HOUSTON, Sept. 23.—The Humble Oil and Refining company late Thursday directed its agents in East Texas to purchase, retroactive to Sept. 16, 60 per cent of the authorized production of its connections in that area, instead of 50 per cent, as previously ordered. Humble said the other 40 per cent was to be accepted for storage. The same instructions were issued as to the Panhandle and North Texas fields. The Humble on Sept. 9 had announced it would buy 50 per cent and offer to store 50 per cent in the three fields. Attorney General James V. Allred obtained, in District Court at Austin, a court order to prevent the company from disconnecting from any of its authorized connections and from buying in any manner other than a ratable manner. Humble officials announced they interpreted that action, from reports from the clerk's office in Austin and prior to the receipt of the actual order, as meaning their announced program was halted by the court. The company then withdrew its offer to store the 50 per cent. Thursday's statement, in discussing that situation, said: "Legal difficulties having been removed, the Humble companies are now free to carry out their policy of purchasing part and storing part of the current allowable production of crude oil in the areas involved in accordance with their notices of Sept. 9, and both companies have accordingly instructed their field representatives." The statement went on to say that for East Texas the companies would "run for storage that portion of the allowable production which had not previously been run up to 7 a. m. Sept. 12, amounting to seven barrels per day per well for the period of Sept. 1 to Sept. 11, inclusive," and for all three fields would "run for storage for the period Sept. 12 to 15, inclusive, that portion of the production, in no event to exceed 50 per cent of the allowable production, which had not previously been run for such period."

DISRUPTS CARD GAME SANTA FE, N. M., Sept. 23.

Patrolman Jimmy Davis is thankful he wasn't sitting where the "dummy" was placed in a recent game of three-handed bridge. Davis and his guests were forced to quit the game temporarily when a bolt of lightning flashed through the window of his home, overturned a chair and temporarily stunned all three participants in the game.

CAUSES RESIGNATION SPRINGDALE, Ark., Sept. 23.

Because the "overhead is so heavy and the compensation so small," Dalton Dotsch resigned as Sheriff of Madison county. He was one of the youngest sheriffs ever elected in Arkansas, and it is the first time an officer in his position has resigned because the job "didn't pay."

COMMITTEE FOR SECOND RODEO NAMED

A committee composed of Joe C. Burnam, chairman, Charles Sandler, L. R. Adams and Ed Huestis will have charge of the second rodeo of the series being presented by Cisco merchants as a part of their trade extension program, General Chairman J. A. Bearman announced today. The first rodeo was presented last Saturday with excellent results by a committee headed by P. L. Ulion. A consensus of opinion among merchants interviewed is that the rodeo should be held on Monday, Bearman said. The prime purpose of the rodeo, it was pointed out, is to attract visitors to Cisco. Those visitors come naturally on Saturdays—and an entertainment held on these days tends to detract from the benefits rather than increase them. Monday is considered a better day for this reason. Bearman also announced a second committee to consider the possibility of putting on a free motion picture show for out-of-town people. This committee, of which E. O. Elliott is chairman, will confer with K. N. Greer, manager of the Palace and Ideal theaters, upon such a program. Other members of the committee are Nick Miller, Truett LaRoque and Barton Philpott.

GAS FLOW OF HART WELL IS INCREASING

Arab Gasoline corporation's well on the Ice Hart farm, six or seven miles north of Cisco, was reported today to be drilling itself in with gas flow increased from 2,000,000 to 5,000,000 feet. Rig on this well burned down a few weeks ago shortly after the bit had touched the Strawn sand at a depth of about 2,000 feet. The rig has been restored and preparations made to drill into the sand when the increased gas flow begins to be noticed. The gas is dry. The well is being rigged to complete as a gas producer. About half a mile north of the Hart well a well on the Walter Ray farm has been producing oil from the Strawn steadily for eight years. Production is small. Arab Gasoline corporation has blocked a large tract about the Hart land under contract to drill at least five wells.

2,636,530 Bales Of Cotton Ginned

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—The census bureau reported today that 2,636,530 running bales of cotton were ginned from the 1932 crop prior to September 16. Ginning in Texas totaled 1,015,803 bales.

Mine Pickets Routed With Tear Gas

TAYLORVILLE, Ill., Sept. 23.—Two hundred women and men pickets fell back into confusion under a tear gas attack today after they had defied orders of national guardsmen who commanded them not to interfere with the reopening of a coal mine near here.

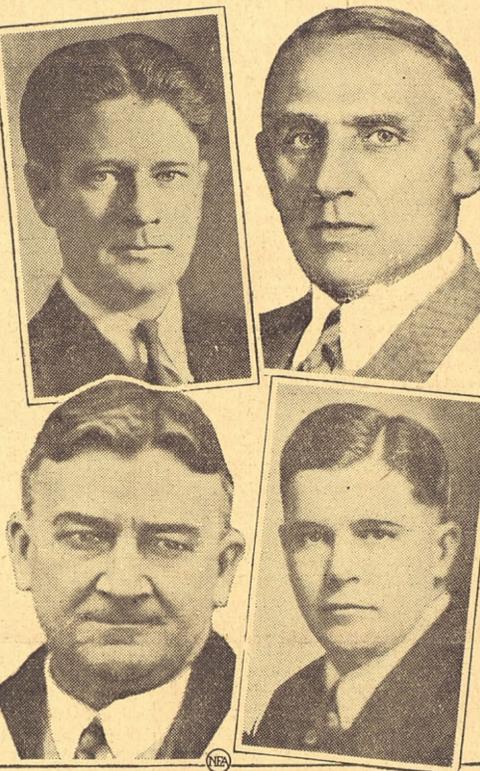

BELL'S AIDE CELEBRATES. BRISTOL, N. H., Sept. 23.

Dr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Watson, of Boston, recently celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary at their summer estate on the Bridgewater Hills. It was Dr. Watson, in June, 1875, who talked over the first telephone line with Alexander Graham Bell. Dr. Watson is 78, three years older than his wife.

GROWERS ROBBED. ST. JOE, Ark., Sept. 23.

Watermelon growers have been robbed so many times in this section recently, while they were on their way home from market, that they are beginning to believe that because "there are no more banks to rob round here," that the bank robbers have turned to other fields.

INTEREST IN REVIVAL HERE IS MANIFEST

The meeting at the First Christian church is progressing nicely in spite of the inclement weather. The evangelist delivered an excellent sermon last night on the subject "Life's Choice." At the conclusion there were two added to the congregation, making five since the beginning of the meeting. Dr. Schurman has a forceful and attractive way in presenting the great issues of life and the challenge of Christian living. Tonight the evangelist will have as his subject, "Divine Man." The pastor, E. L. Miley reports that there is an increasing interest among members and visitors and that numbers have already said that they did not want to miss a single sermon because Dr. Schurman threw new light upon old subjects at every service and gave new value to Christian ideals and Bible knowledge. Mr. Miley will lead a twenty-minute song service preceding the sermon beginning promptly at 7:30.

5 Bandits Rob Bank of $25,000

REDWOOD FALLS, Minn., Sept. 23.—Five machine gun bandits robbed the State Bank of Redwood today of approximately $25,000 and kidnapped two bank employees.

Three Suspects Held in Slaying

AUSTIN, Sept. 23.—Three suspects were held today for investigation in the roadside slaying of Edgar Arledge, Texas University student shot to death while seated in an automobile with a young woman. Sheriff Coley White said the third suspect appeared to be mentally deranged and was believed to be connected with another robbery here.

NEVER LATE TO WORK PINE BLUFF, Ark., Sept. 23.

Ike G. Allen, recently retired telegraph company cashier here, was never late to work during his 44 years on the same job.

NEW CONTEST PETITION IS FILED THURS.

AUSTIN, Sept. 23.—Trial of Gov. E. S. Sterling's contest of the democratic nomination for governor of Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson today was set for October 3. Citations in the suit were made this morning. Defendants will have five days in which to answer the Sterling petition. The voluminous petition, 42 pages long and accompanied by approximately 1,000 pages of exhibits, was filed last night in 126th district court here, replacing a previous contest petition. Approximately 50,000 names of persons who allegedly voted illegally for Mrs. Ferguson were included in the new exhibits. Numerous charges included "flagrant disregard and violation of the law" in east Texas, alleged purposeful miscounting of votes, issuance of spurious poll tax receipts, voting of non-residents and of "tramps" taken from trains.

HOLDS CONVENTION NOMINATION FINAL

HOUSTON, Sept. 23.—Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson is the democratic party's nominee for governor regardless of the August 27th primary, according to an opinion written today by James E. Kilday, attorney who supported Gov. Sterling in both primaries. Kilday's opinion was written at the request of the new secretary of the state democratic executive committee.

CONTINUANCE OF SHOWERS IS PROMISED

FORT WORTH, Sept. 23.—Clouds that shadowed most of Texas today promised a continuance of thunder showers that fell last night from Palestine to west Texas and from Amarillo to Del Rio. Rain in excess of five inches which fell at San Antonio during the past 24 hours stalled automobiles, flooded storm sewers and caused a drop in temperature of 22 degrees. An electrical storm preceded the downpour. Lightning struck the home of Dr. Ferdinand Herff, stunning him and his wife. At Amarillo a norther brought cold drizzles and the temperature this morning was 54 degrees with a maximum of 86 degrees during the past 24 hours. The weather bureau here also reported rain at Abilene, Midland, Clarendon and Uvalde. Heavy rains have washed out railroad tracks and damaged streets at Big Spring. The showers interrupted the west Texas cotton harvest in general.

Home of Theater Man Is Bombed

DALLAS, Sept. 23.—An explosion of nitro-glycerin early today damaged the home of W. E. Paschall, former executive of Paramount Public theaters who recently took over 47 theaters in Texas. The blast shattered windows in his home and in a residence next door. The executive's troubles with theater workers were blamed by police. A theater in Waco was bombed Wednesday night and other theater bombings have been frequent in Texas this year.

AID NEEDY CHILDREN. LOVELAND, Col., Sept. 23.

School youngsters, whose families have felt the pinch of recent times, will be aided by the Rainbow Girls, here, who have undertaken to round up second-hand useful school books, to be allotted to children of needy parents.

WEATHER

West Texas—Mostly cloudy tonight and Saturday, probably showers Rio Grande valley. Warmer north portion Saturday. East Texas—Partly cloudy and cooler in north portion. Unsettled in south portion. Occasional rains in Rio Grande valley and near coast tonight and Saturday.

CHMN. ELY AND THE ROAD BOND LAW.

Chmn. W. R. Ely of the state highway commission has let it be known that the commission necessarily will not be able to do as much work as formerly with $6,000,000 annually of the gasoline tax diverted to pay off county road bonds but gave as his opinion that if the legislature makes no further deduction from the gasoline income "a satisfactory program of construction and maintenance will be observed." He added that the commission sweeping approved the road bond relief statute, that Gov. Sterling deserved full credit for having made good his promise to the people, and he then gave a positive pledge that the highway commissioners will proceed in perfect harmony with the new law.

Furthermore, he predicted that between $20,000,000 and $22,000,000 in highway construction contracts will be let by Jan. 1; that the federal aid law requires the work get under way as rapidly as possible for the added $8,000,000 federal aid is essentially an unemployment relief advance. All this is a reminder that the state receives $7,000,000 in federal aid annually. In the enactment of the federal relief aid the national lawmakers limited a single employe to 30 hours a week five hours daily for six days. It was a wise precaution. Hundreds of unemployed will be carried through the winter under the federal plan.

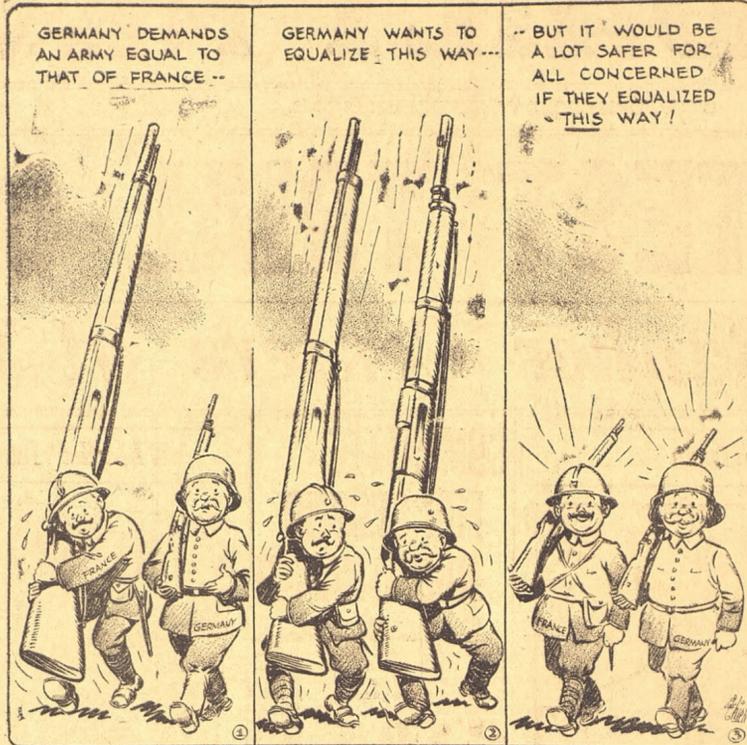

FINISH OF AN ARTIST OF WORLD FAME.

James Stewart Cartiers was found dead in a cheap lodging house in the city of New York. He was only 40. He was an American. He was internationally known. He was not only a painter of world wide fame but a collector of antiques and widely known in the antique circles of America. Well, the crash came. He would not sell his paintings. His marvelous collection of antiques sold for the price of a song. He was bankrupt and penniless. He renounced art. He was disgusted with the world. He drifted to Poverty Flats. He sunk beneath the surface. He died alone. A genius at 40, practically he had no place to rest his head. Well, he was not a fighter. A man of 40 should be able to kick all the barriers aside. He should be able to score a comeback. A fighter never knows when he is whipped. He fights on and on, even with his back to the wall. When he has to die he dies in the last ditch. A nature both temperamental and emotional finds it hard sledding in this vale of tears.

HUNTER AS A PEOPLE'S LOBBYIST.

Col. Tom Hunter, who ran a vigorous third in the July primaries, will represent the cause of the people under the big dome the coming winter. There is a state taxpayers' association which is said to have a large membership. It held an important and largely attended convention in the city of Wichita Falls. Col. Hunter was named as the head of its lobby at the next session of the legislature. He made a most aggressive speech on tax reform on accepting the place. A five year plan of organization, tax reduction and governmental economy was adopted. A committee was established to study tax reform and suggest changes in the state constitution. It was resolved by the association that the special session of the legislature be adjourned immediately without action now on reduction of state employes' salaries or appropriations not of emergency nature. Many changes are suggested in the state constitution. Many important recommendations are made.

The Long and Short of It

First, reduction of the 135 state departments to 25. New York, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina and Georgia have adopted this plan. Reduction of the number of counties to 50, or as small a number as practical, is another reform recommended. More important than all is the reduction in the house of representatives to 62. A reminder that the Taxpayers' association will go up against the real thing in its state department reduction, as well as reducing the number of legislative districts from 150 to 62. Another constitutional change would give the governor a term of four years with provisions for an increased salary and a law that he would not succeed himself in office.

Publicity is the thing, according to the Taxpayers' league. Their leaders call for an educational campaign for taxpayers on the functions of government. It is admitted without argument that an educational campaign is necessary if the recommendations for changes in the constitution and statutory laws are to be brought about by the people. Col. Hunter appears to be in line for another aggressive campaign, with the office of governor as the prize in 1934. He is a most excellent copy maker. He will keep the newspaper tribe busy during the winter and spring months of 1933.

clining to play Cisco are considered to have any claim in equity.

I believe that Cross' remarks grew out of a misconception of the real issues at stake. The schools of the district were not parties to the suit. The defendants are the district and state committees of the Interscholastic league and the judgment of the court did not command any school to play Cisco but simply ordered the league to restore Cisco to an equal standing with other schools in the league. Their privileges to refuse or agree to play Cisco were not interfered with. The sanctity of these privileges remain the same as they were before the case developed and are governed solely by whatever authority they as individuals collectively surrendered to the league. Cross' logic in that respect tends to weaken the authority of the league rather than question the jurisdiction of the court.

What is or is not the court's business is a primary question and takes into consideration both the character and legal status of the litigants as well as the issues at stake. Certainly the court is more qualified to rule upon this question than the litigants.

Cisco high school was not suing to make the rest of the schools in the league play the Lobes but suing to be restored to an equal standing in the league and that is as far as the decision of the court went. And in considering that decision it should be remembered that no privileges or right of equitable treatment applying to any other member of the league are denied Cisco.

Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE

Prexy Anderson, of the Abilene Morning News, regrets to discover that comment upon Judge Geo. L. Davenport's decision in the Cisco case is generally uncomplimentary. He quotes an exception in remarks by Bloddy Cross of San Angelo.

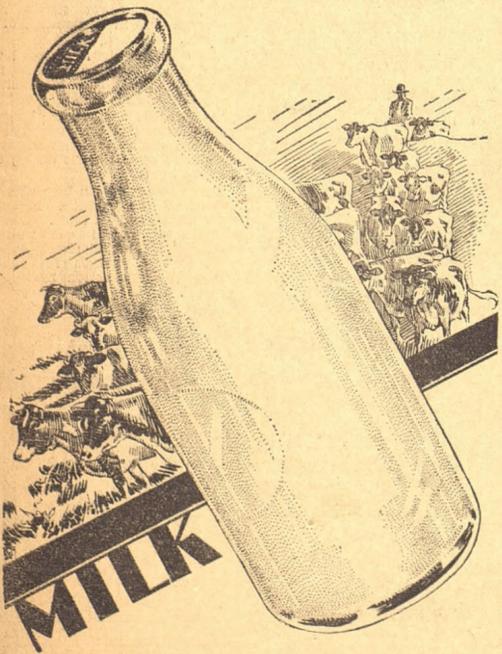

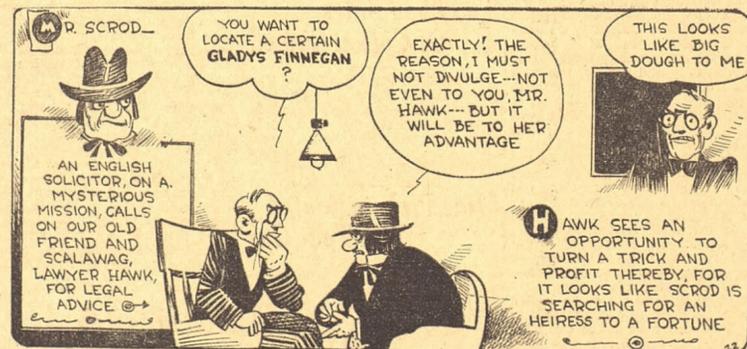

According to the quotation Bloddy, however, fails to see any basis for the opinion in law, although praising it as the only fair and intelligent opinion that could be rendered on the "woefully irregular manner in which the Oil Belt handled the Cisco situation."

"But," he quotes Cross, "we can see it only as an opinion and most certainly not as a command or order based on any law, civil, criminal, unwritten, or imaginary. If Abilene high school, for instance, does not wish to send its football team against the Cisco high school eleven, it certainly would appear that such is Cisco high school's privilege and no business of the 91st district Judge. If all five other teams of the Oil Belt decide they do not wish to play ball with the Cisco team, surely that is their business and not a matter for the district judge to decide."

The latter part of the Cross comment leaves us in a confusion of mind. If the schools of the district through their superintendents or other officials on the district committee are privileged to refuse to play Cisco for reasons of their own without interference there is no reason to regard the action of the district committee in recommending Cisco's suspension as "woefully irregular." From such a standpoint it could be maintained that neither the character of action nor the procedure by which the committee arrived at that action is an issue, since only the interests of the schools de-

CALL of the WEST

BY R. G. MONTGOMERY

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Stan Ball, an agent for cattle interests faces Asper Delo in his office. Asper is accused of killing men sent to check his timbering activities at Three Rivers. Ball announces he is making a personal check. Delo says he will personally see that he does not make the check.

Leaving the office, Stan saves a girl from kidnapers. She proves to be Dona Delo, Asper's daughter. When Stan learns her name he tells her his is Stanley Black and slips away.

Dudley Winters, in love with Dona, agrees to go to Three Rivers and bring Asper back. Dona goes with him and at a little ranch place on the way Dudley puts a plan of marriage to Dona, hoping she will take this plan of getting Asper Delo to return. She agrees but holds back when Stan Ball, on his way to Three Rivers, steps out of the night and kisses her.

At Three Rivers they meet Swergin, Asper's timber boss, and he says he is ready to kill Ball, that Ball shot a ranger.

Dona decides to ride in the hunt for Ball. She catches a bad horse and has to try to ride him to keep up her pride.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VIII

Dona stifled a quiver in her arm as the cowboy slid up to the roan she had roped. His chaps flapped noisily and he was evidently reluctant to obey her. He had shortened the stirrups and knotted the bridles reins but he was still undecided as to whether he should dismount Asper Delo and allow Dona to mount a bad horse.

Dona became impatient. Her nerve was beginning to waver just a little. "Make it snappy!" she ordered.

Her words had the effect she desired. They caused the cowboy to jerk the saddle forward and toss it across the roan's back. Dona knew that after that she would have to go ahead.

The roan submitted to saddling and bridling with a minimum of snorting and swaying. He intended to have his lining when the rider hit the saddle. He did not have to wait long for his opportunity. Without trying the cinch Dona swung into the saddle and jerked the roan's head up.

The big fellow arched his back and shot into the air. Dona jerked off her hat. She knew this big fellow would expect it. Her spurs raked his withers and his training chest as far forward as she could reach. The battle was on, with the roan twisting and shooting into the air and landing stiff legged in a jarring jolting crowd hop. The cowboy stood in open-mouthed admiration and watched. From then on Dona would have him as an abject slave.

Her entire attention had to be given to the big fellow twisting and plunging beneath her. She did not want to pull leather. Her pride made her keep from reaching for the saddle horn but she was desperate. Six jumps, then seven and eight and still the roan was going strong. Suddenly he leaped sideways and sprinted straight for the fence. That was his last trick. Dona pinch down tight with her knees and let him go. Two jumps from the pole barrier he set his feet and slid. Dona felt she must loosen up and sail over his head but she clung desperately with her knees and the wide roll on the saddle saved her. The roan shook himself and came to a full stop.

"Boy!" shouted the corral boss tossing up his hat.

"What a ride!" He strode forward to help her down.

Dona shook her head and waved her hat toward the gate.

The cowboy grinned and flung it back. Dona rode out master and friend of the big roan. She knew he would be coming to the corral fence for sugar lumps within a week and she slapped his lathercovered neck affectionately.

"Pal, we're going to do some riding," she whispered.

The tall cowboy stood beside her after closing the gate. "Anything else, Miss?" His eyes were devouring her slim beauty.

"I want a carbine. A light .33 will do." She smiled into his gray eyes.

He shook his head sadly. "Strictly against orders, Ma'am. Both Delo's and Swergin's," he smiled.

"I'll wait here till you get it for me. And then you might act as my bodyguard."

"This was too much. 'I'll get you mine but you don't need no .33 to ride these woods with Stan Ball hidin' in 'em.' There was a queer look of defiance in his eyes as he finished.

Dona smiled. "All you covenants start up for this man Ball. He's a murderer, isn't he?" she spoke softly.

"Most any of us —" He cut off abruptly and finished. "I'd sure like to take you up on that bodyguard offer, Miss."

Dona tucked the well-oiled carbine he brought into a scabbard under her stirrup flap. A crowd had gathered in front of the office and main building. "I'll be up there," she indicated.

Dona cantered off. She rode up to the gathering almost unnoticed. At once she saw Dudley astride a meek-looking horse. He sat in a very uncomfortable position and his new outfit was wrinkled dusty from his attempt to ride the roan. Swergin was facing the group and talking to them.

"You fellows is to spread out and comb the south slope of Polly Mountain. You know this Ball, the clothes he wears and the black mare he rides. If you jump him, shoot and ask questions afterward. He killed a man and we want him. I'm makin' deputies out of all of you and you get full pay for this hunt."

Asper rode up from the corrals and halted at his daughter's side. He had already heard about her ride from the corral boss who refused to sidestep any responsibility.

"You play around here with a pretty free hand and these fool men let you make saps out of them," he greeted her.

Dona opened her eyes in mock surprise. "Why, your corral boss is a perfect gentleman. He's riding with me."

"He's not riding with you. He's on his way to Blind River where he belongs," Asper grunted. "I'm putting a steady, married man with you."

"You mean you fired him?" Dona was really hurt.

"Sure. He deliberately did as he pleased like any cow hand," Asper produced a fat black cigar and bit the end from it with a crunch.

"Im going to overtake him and have him come back," Dona flashed.

Asper caught the roan's bridle rein. "Not so fast, young lady. He hasn't left yet." There was a twinkle in Asper's eyes.

Dona smiled. "You hadn't better fire any of my admirers."

Dudley had been so engrossed in listening to Swergin that he did not notice Dona until the timber boss had quit talking. When he saw her he poked his mount over to her side by thumping him in the ribs. He recognized the roan and his eyes widened. Then he flushed deeply and his lips pulled tight.

"You look like a real trooper," he greeted her without making any comment on the horse.

Swergin rode up and joined them while the other riders cantered off in different directions. All looked grimly determined and very much in earnest. Swergin's eyes rested on Dona's horse and a glint of anger shone in them. He addressed Asper. "I'll fire that slim leatherneck," he grunted.

"I've taken care of him," Asper grunted.

"He's to be my bodyguard," Dona put in sweetly.

"What about me?" Dudley cut in. "I suppose I'm to be ditched because I have never ridden a mean horse?"

"You are to go with us, Dud," Dona smiled at Dudley.

"There's too much foolishness around here," Swergin growled. "This is a killin' — not a picnic. These two will have to ride down the canyon where they'll be safe."

Asper grinned and puffed a cloud of thick smoke out from under his wide hat. "Them's my orders," he stated evenly.

The way he said it made Swergin flare up. "Some of this lunderfoot crew is going to get nicked with a bullet and I'm not going to be responsible!" His eyes rested boldly upon Dona.

"You're going to boss this hunt," Asper snapped, "and that is all."

Swergin went on, speaking in the same tone. "None of you are to ride up Pass Creek trail. Ball is more than likely hiding up there. I'll take that trail myself. I've given the men orders to lay off it. Anyone who hits that trail is due for a bullet unless they know the country."

Dona turned her horse and rode away. Swergin's manner was a challenge and his bold impudence angered her. She met the tall cowboy riding out of the corral. With a smile she greeted him.

"You haven't told me your name?"

"Denny Malloy," he said and his sun-browned face flushed. "Late of Blind River."

Dona decided he was likable in a rough, homely way. She bent toward him. "Can you show me the trail to Pass Creek?" she asked and watched his eyes closely.

Malloy's face remained unchanged but his eyes caught and held her's for an instant. "Sure can," he said simply.

"Let's go," Dona straightened. "And we better ride down around the corrals as though we were going north into the lower country." (To Be Continued.)

Texas Is About to Have a Birthday

The Texas Declaration of Independence was adopted and signed at Washington-on-the-Brazos on March 2, 1836. It was drafted by a committee composed of George C. Childress, chairman; James Gaines, Bailey Hardeman, Edward Conrad, and Collin McKinney.

Let's Invite the Nation to Our Birthday Party

The birth of Texas as an independent commonwealth was an epoch-making event in American history. The struggle of the Texas colonists for freedom was a heroic one and all Texans are proud of the deeds of their forefathers. But it was also the most glorious page in the history of the expansion of the United States to the Pacific and as much a part of American traditions as Concord and Lexington.

All Americans everywhere should revere the memory of the men who contributed so much to the growth of our common country. And we should invite them to join us in holding a fitting celebration of the one hundredth birthday of Texas.

Texans are asked to authorize such a celebration by voting for the Texas Centennial Constitutional Amendment on November 8. The States of the Union and the countries of the world will be asked to participate. The Texas Centennial can be the greatest event of recent Texas history. A worthy sequel after one hundred years to the illustrious deeds of our Texas forebears.

U. S. WOMAN IS "QUEEN" OF TROPIC ISLAND

NEW YORK, Sept. 23. — An American woman today is virtually the empress of a rich and populous island of the Pacific ocean.

20 YEARS OF ILL HEALTH

Then Mrs. Duke Discovered Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Of her own accord, Mrs. Duke sat down and wrote us a glowing tribute to Kellogg's ALL-BRAN:

"I have been constipated all my life, which has been about 20 years, up until last year when I started eating your ALL-BRAN. Since I have been eating it, people tell me I am looking better, and I am sure that I feel a great deal better."

Constipation is usually caused by lack of two things in the diet: "Bulk" to exercise the intestines; Vitamin B to help give them tone.

Within the body, the "bulk" in ALL-BRAN forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes.

How much more natural it is to enjoy this delicious cereal than to risk taking pills and drugs—so often harmful.

Just eat two tablespoonsful daily—serious cases with every meal—for most types of constipation. ALL-BRAN is not habit-forming. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Sold in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

ferred to Mrs. Ina M. Harper, of San Francisco and New York. It was believed that the island might possess potential wealth, and Mrs. Harper set sail to explore her kingdom.

The island lies on the Mexican west coast. It was found to be covered with dense tropical vegetation. The natives skirted the coast by means of primitive canoes. Mrs. Harper began by having the island scientifically surveyed and explored. It was found that an annual rainfall of 50 inches renders it immensely productive, yielding three annual crops.

Since Palmito del Verde lies off the Mexican coast, it comes under the political supervision of that country. So far as the actual control of it is concerned it is virtually an American colony. First of all, the new "Empress" had constructed some 60 miles of modern roadway. Vast areas of the jungle were cleared and native products set out. The tropical island was planted with cocoa, sugar cane, corn, and other native crops.

Efficient Working Force The island population was organized into efficient working forces. More than 500 native men and women now are regularly engaged in planting and gathering these crops at wages averaging twice the income they had been accustomed to for generations. The waters about the island were found to abound in fish, lobster, crab and tuna fish, and a large office of native fishermen were organized canning factory was built to preserve the fish. Meanwhile, Mrs. Harper personally investigated the native life and worked a revolution in the native villages by introducing modern up-to-date American ideas of sanitation.

Early in the experiment a new home was built for the "Queen," where she might live in comfort and entertain her mainland friends. An ancient stone structure had stood on the island for centuries, but this was discarded. The new building is in the form of a modern bungalow, with all modern conveniences. The modern roadways and automobiles now keep every section of Palmito del Verde in convenient touch with the "palace." Although this island empire seems remote, it lies comparatively near the route followed by steamers sailing between San Francisco and New York. On a recent visit from the west coast, Mrs. Harper was a passenger on the Grace liner Santa Barbara, which swerved from its course, making it possible to see by means of a telescope, the faint line of the palace in the distance.

PARIS STYLES

By MARY KNIGHT United Press Staff Correspondent PARIS, Sept. 23. — Mrs. Couper Gibbs, wife of Judge Couper Gibbs of Jacksonville, Fla., is the type of woman who not only knows what she wants when it comes to this delicate business of buying Paris clothes, but she knows where to go which, in her own words, "is half the battle."

Among the lovely costumes she has selected are three evening gowns, an afternoon ensemble and a sport frock from Mrs. John Harwood Bacon at the Maison Lucie. This house, incidentally, is one of the oldest houses of haute couture, having been founded originally in London by Lady Duff-Gordon, sister of Eleanor Gilin, Captain Moynaux who now has his own business in the Rue Royale, was with Lucie's for twelve years before she established her Paris salon in the mansion of the Duke de Penthièvre. One of the evening gowns is of georgette and lace in a shade of delicious old rose that is one of the smart gradations of the wine colors de rigueur for this season.

ANCIENT SPORT REVIVED COMPIEGNE, France, Sept. 23.— An ancient sport is being revived here, called "pig-hunting." Several small well-greased pigs are thrown into the river and a number of good swimmers follow in their wake. The object of the contest is to catch one of the pigs and bring it safely to shore before it escapes.

SAVE STAMPS CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 23. — A government order went into effect today calling upon all government offices to save used stamps. The Egyptian government learned that an important sum can be salvaged for the national treasury by selling to stamp dealers the obliterated stamps, which ordinarily find their way into waste baskets.
