Mooney and Cox Acquitted in Ft. Worth Federal Court

TWO CHARGED WITH FRAUD IN PROMOTION

Judge Criticises Jurors for Their Decision

FORT WORTH, Jan. 9. — R. D. Mooney and S. E. J. Cox, were found not guilty at 10:30 a. m. They were charged with fraudulently using the mails in the promotion of the oil operators pool. "Gentlemen it is your privilege to bring in this verdict of not guilty, but it is beyond my comprehension how you can do it with the evidence that has been presented," Judge Halstead Ritter told the jury after the verdict had been given. The jurors deliberated until late yesterday evening and resumed deliberations at 9 a. m. Friday. The two men were charged with fraud for using the mails in the promotion of the original developers pool. In the trial Thursday Mooney attempted to take all blame for operation of the company, absolving Cox. Cox, formerly of Houston and Oklahama City, already has served one term in federal prison in connection with the promotions of himself and Dr. Frederick A. Cook.

Thank Jurors. Cox and Mooney jumped up immediately to shake hands with the jurors as they filed out of the box, but were prevented from doing so by the court bailiffs. They then went into the hall where the two with Frank Ogilvie, their attorney, thanked the jurors as they came out. "Never again," was Cox's answer when asked what he would do. "I am going to San Antonio and go to work but not in connection with the oil business. The government has me pegged and I couldn't promote anything any more."

Mrs. Cox joined in the statement that "No sir, I will never let him promote again." Cox served one term in the federal prison in connection with his own promotions in Houston and the Dr. Frederick A. Cook promotion here. Mooney said he would return to Houston and go to work for the oil company there as "stenographer, filling station attendant or truck driver—whatever they want me to be."

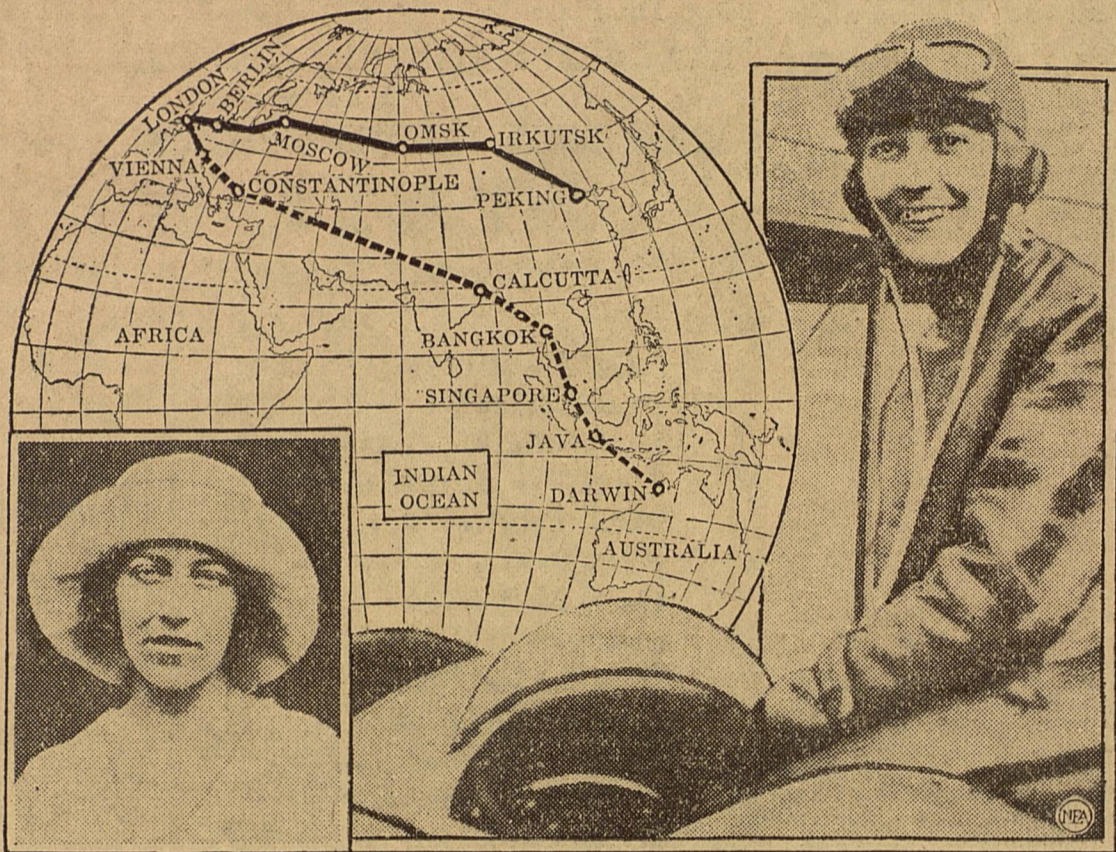

MISS RAMEY IS ACTIVE IN CLUB PROJECTS

Miss Ruth Ramey, county home demonstration agent, has been very actively engaged recently in promoting women's home demonstration clubs in the county. There are at present nine such clubs in the county and plans have been made for the organization of three more, which will bring the total to 12, next week. The new clubs will be at Dothan Reagan and Kokomo. Each club will have at least 10 members, with this being the minimum number, with which a club may be organized. Each of the new clubs, like others that have been organized, will carry on three special demonstrations. There will be the 4-H pantry, living room and wardrobe projects. This month the members are working on the pantry project, which includes the planning and planting of gardens; beef and vegetable canning budgets for the family, which includes a sufficient amount of vegetables to supply the family during the non-vegetable season. All members of the clubs are co-operating with the demonstrators. The pantry demonstrators for the clubs of the county are: Mrs. Lee Burkhead, Rising Star; Mrs. J. D. Foster, Flatwoods; Mrs. L. C. Hazelwood, Carbon, Rt. 1; Mrs. J. R. Lantham, Nimrod; Mrs. E. F. Martin, Gorman, Rt. 2; Mrs. Scott Nobles, Carbon; Mrs. L. C. Owens, Cisco, Rt. 2; Mrs. John Smith, Okra; Mrs. J. E. Stansell, Nimrod; Mrs. J. B. Todd, Gorman; Mrs. M. B. Gray, Carbon, Rt. 2; Miss Della Matthews, Cisco, Box 614. Other special demonstrators will be announced later.

MAY LOSE EYES

DALLAS, Jan. 9. — A small rifle cartridge which exploded when he attempted to force it into the barrel with pliers, may cost Robert Wilson, 15, the sight of one eye, doctors said today.

Britain's "Girl Lindy" Gives up 8,000-Mile Flight

Amy Johnson, Britain's "girl Lindy," who recently stirred the world by a lone flight from London to Australia—nearly 10,000 miles in 19 days—gave up an attempt at another epochal air journey this time from London to Peking, China. Her 8,000-mile route which lies across much of Europe and Asia, including Siberia and the great Gobi desert, is shown above in the heavy black line. She abandoned the flight when her plane crashed up Tuesday at Warsaw. The dotted line shows the route of her previous flight to Australia. Miss Johnson is shown above in her plane and in street attire.

MANY PATRONS ATTRACTED BY 2 SALES HERE

A swarm of customers invaded the John H. Garner's department store today as the January clearance sale of the company opened, and a large force of clerks has been kept busy every moment taking care of the patronage. Henry Drumwright, manager, declared that he is well pleased with the response and the results of the great offering of bargains in standard goods that is being made during the period of the sale. Patrons of the store have been astonished with the exceptional and unexpected values being offered during this sale and are making large purchases in consequence. Leading lines of all varieties of men and women's furnishings are offered by the store at amazing reductions.

SALE OPENS WITH BANG. Miller-Lauderdale's January clearance sale opened this morning with a bang. Nick Miller, manager of the store, declared that the results were "fine." A large crowd visited the store during the day snapping up the bargains in men's furnishings that the store is offering. With a steady run of purchases being made the sale promises to be a big success from every standpoint.

The sale is featured by astonishing reductions on all items of the leading brands of clothing which the store carries, including Society Brand suits, Manhattan shirts, Bradley sweaters, Florsheim shoes, Dobbis hats, Lilley luggage and other brands and goods.

Randolph Problem Occupies Conference

Solution of the financial difficulties of Randolph college, with the possibility of converting the institution into a state school in mind, was the subject of a conference of interested Cisco citizens here last night which was attended by H. C. Glenn, president of the Temple Trust company. The conference took place at 7:30 on the Laguna hotel roof garden, following a dinner at the hotel for Mr. Glenn and a group of Cisco business men at 6 o'clock. Definite plans in connection with the proposed solution are expected to be announced later.

Log Cabin for Legislators

TOPEKA, Kans., Jan. 9.—A resolution that Kansas legislators live in a log house on the capitol grounds, sleep on wooden bunks and cook their own meals in order to keep within their incomes was offered in the house of representatives today by Caldwell Davis of Bour-bon county. The resolution provides for building on the capitol grounds of a log dormitory "in keeping with the fashion of the days when the present rate of legislators' pay was fixed."

"The dormitory," the resolution provides, "should be provided with wooden bunks supplied with fresh clean straw twice weekly and with tallow candles which may be burned until 9 p. m. and equipped with a kitchen wherein domestic science shall be taught to the members so that possibly they can live upon the generous allowance now made to them." Davis said voters repeatedly had declined to raise the legislators' salaries and that his solution was the only way they could live on their present pay.

197 PEOPLE RECEIVE AID FROM ELKS

One hundred and ninety seven people, composing 39 families, have received assistance at the hands of the Cisco Elks lodge since Christmas, it was announced today. During the holidays the lodge distributed 63 boxes of groceries to needy people. Calls for assistance continue to come in and the lodge is making every effort to meet this demand. Demands for clothing are pressing particularly during the uncertain period of winter weather. There is a great need for shoes for children of school age. It is difficult to obtain an adequate supply of these shoes and the lodge is again making an appeal for contributions of used footwear which can be given children in needy families. They may be left at the club or E. E. Jones, at telephone No. 175, notified. Donations of other clothing will be appreciated, of course.

FORT WORTH, Jan. 9. — N. H. Lassiter, former vice president and general attorney of the Rock Island Railway in Texas, has been made vice president and general solicitor.

BOND ISSUE PROPOSED IN ROAD REPORT

AUSTIN, Jan. 9.—A state highway bond issue to provide from $425,000,000 to $475,000,000 to complete the state road system in 10 years is advocated by the state highway commission in its report to the legislature released today. The commissioners propose that the issue not exceed $200,000,000 at any one time. This amount they say will repay counties for money expended on state highways and care for construction. The commission also asks that a state highway building be constructed including testing and research laboratories. Other recommendations are for a state motor driver license law with use of the income to purchase state parks; increase of the state highway patrol by adding 150 men to the present; state paid accident insurance for the department employees; greater restriction on size and weights of vehicles; abolition of grade crossings and a minimum wage of 30 cents an hour for laborers on state work let by contracts. The commissioners say they do not seek to retain direction of the motor patrol under their department. A transfer to the adjutant general's department recently was proposed.

POSSE FINDS NO TRACE OF BANK BANDITS

Creek Bottoms Near Center Scoured by Search Parties

CENTER, Jan. 9.—Armed with shotguns, rifles and pistols, an old-fashioned Shelby county posse lured by $10,000 in rewards and led by Sheriff J. W. Obanion with 25 deputy sheriffs today ranged through Flat Fork creek bottoms in search of the two bandits who robbed the Cotton Belt State bank at Timponso of $3,000 late yesterday. Timponso is 15 miles northeast of here. At noon today no further trace of the bandits had been found. Sections of the posse were covering all parts of Shelby and parts of adjoining counties. The posse searched until 3 a. m. and resumed the trail at dawn near where the stolen automobile in which the robbers fled was discovered four miles from Tenaha last night. Rifle shells and a deposit slip were found in the machine and it was identified as the one in which the bandits departed. The machine had been stolen earlier in Tenaha. Carrying pistols, the two robbers, described as "toughnecks about 27 years old," invaded the bank at 3:55 p. m. yesterday. They forced J. C. Black, cashier; I. D. Evans, assistant cashier; Joe Ramsey, bookkeeper; and Wallace Kristensen, customer; to lie down on the floor.

Opens Vault. Black was ordered to open the vault. He explained that the time clock would not operate until 4 p. m. the bandits then turned their attention to money drawers in the office and again ordered Black to open the vault. It was nearly 4 and the intruders looted the vault when it opened. After taking the money, estimated at $3,000, the bandit pair forced the employee and customer into the vault and ordered them "to remain quiet and give no alarm." Black asked that the outer door of the vault be left open so that the imprisoned men would not have too much difficulty in freeing themselves. This was done. The bandits fled in a sedan out highway 35 toward Tenaha and turned off on a cross road toward Center, and the county seat. The posse was organized here.

SOCIABLE BANDIT GETS $6,000

MOBILE, La., Jan. 9.—A bandit who spent the night with D. E. Wilkins, cashier of the First Trust and Savings bank here, accompanied the bank official to his work this morning and robbed the bank of $6,000. The robber broke into the cashier's home last night and patiently waited until Wilkins and his wife returned from a dinner party. As they entered their home he held them up and spent the next eight hours chatting with them. At 8 a. m. he made sure Mrs. Wilkins was securely bound in the basement and then, with his gun pressed against the cashier's side, accompanied him to his work. The pair arrived at the bank at 9:20 a. m. and were forced to wait 20 minutes until the time lock on the vault released the bank's funds. With his arms filled with loot and a gun in his back, Wilkins was forced ahead of the bandit from the rear door of the bank to the waiting car. The robber kidnaped the banker and drove him 10 miles out of town. Poses quickly were organized and began search for the robber, who apparently was headed west into Nebraska.

Plea For New Sanity Trial Is Continued

Due to the illness of one of the counsel for the defense the hearing on application for rehearing of the Clyde Thompson sanity case in the 88th district court at Eastland, scheduled for this morning at 9 o'clock, was continued until some time next week. Thompson, under conviction carrying a death sentence for the slaying of Lucian Shook at Leary in September 1928, was declared sane by a jury in a sanity trial called off it was announced. Instead there will be a meeting of the executive committee.

Noted Banker Who Predicted Market Crash, Joins Forces of Optimism

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—Paul M. Warburg, international banker, who has witnessed fulfillment of his prediction two years ago that a stock market collapse and consequent business depression would result if stock speculation did not cease, has joined the forces of optimism for America's future. While he did not venture to predict when the depression would end, Warburg at a joint meeting of directors of the various units of the Manhattan company of which he is chairman of the board, declared yesterday that "no sane person doubts that, eventually, it will end, and that a country as unique in resources and opportunities as ours will ultimately get back in its stride. "Comparatively brief periods of underproduction in a country containing over 120,000,000 temperamental enthusiastic customers must bring about a revival of business activity," he asserted.

Touching on the stock and bond market, Warburg said that from his point of view as a banker, "a few years hence the level at which some of our securities sell today will look as incomprehensibly low as the prices paid for the same securities seemed unreasonably high long before the crash occurred in October 1929." The banker placed much of the blame for the present depression on "those ostrich politicians who indulge in the nationalistic illusion that our country can still maintain for itself a position of privileged isolation governed solely by considerations of its own domestic interests."

Demonstration in Beef Canning Here

Miss Ruth Ramey, county home demonstration agent, put on a canning demonstration at the Frank Harrell home, three miles west of Cisco, Thursday. About 20 people, including a number of Cisco women, attended the demonstration.

Only one-half of a beef was canned. This made 24 No. 3 and 32 No. 2 cans of roast, steak, chili, meat loaf, soup stock and cooked meats for salads.

BROTHERS WILL BE ARRAIGNED IMMEDIATELY

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—Leo V. Brothers will be tried immediately on charges of murdering Alfred Lingie, it was said today by state attorneys who held the suspect in seclusion and dared the underworld to make one move to obtain his release on a writ of habeas corpus. "We would like for that to happen," said State's Attorney John A. Swanson when informed that a firm of attorneys who specialize in defending gangsters, was preparing to seek Brothers release on a writ. "Perhaps," he added, "it would give us an idea who is behind Brothers."

Kin of Mr. Kittrell Succumbs Suddenly

W. H. Kittrell was in receipt of a telegram Wednesday notifying him of the death of a cousin, Mrs. H. L. Hayes, who died at her home in Midway at the age of 74 years. Death came suddenly, Mr. Kittrell having received a letter just the past week about the Christmas preparations Mrs. Hayes was making for the homecoming of her children and of her splendid health. The deceased came to Huntsville, Texas, from Alabama with her parents and five brothers when she was only two years old. One brother, P. K. Goree, 86, also of Midway, survives. Mrs. Hayes and her husband visited Mr. Kittrell in Cisco a few months ago.

Athletic Meeting Tonight Cancelled

COUPE STRUCK BY EASTBOUND T. & P. TRAIN

Man and Wife Are Instantly Killed This Afternoon

A middle-aged Ranger couple, Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Davenport, were instantly killed when their coupe was struck by an eastbound Texas and Pacific passenger train No. 2, at a crossing a short distance south of the city limits of Ranger about 2 o'clock this afternoon. The crossing is located just south of what is known as the Prairie crossing, the scene of a similar accident of several months ago. The wreckage of the Chevrolet coupe, in which the couple were riding, was carried more than a quarter of a mile down the track but the bodies were hurled clear and only a short distance from the crossing. The victims of the tragedy were coming to town from Mr. Davenport's farm nearby at the time. Prominent Citizen. Mr. Davenport was a prominent citizen of Ranger and was fire and police commissioner of that city during the days of the oil boom. He was also at that time a prominent merchant owning a large hardware store. For the past few years he had been engaged in farming owning one of the best developed and most modern farms in the section, located only a short distance from the crossing and bordering the municipal airport at Ranger. Mrs. Davenport for about eight years was employed by the Joseph's Dry Goods company of Ranger and at the time was in charge of the ladies ready-to-wear department. She is survived by a son, Ty Catran, traveling salesman of Dallas; a sister, Mrs. Howard of Gordon, Texas, and a brother, E. D. Garner of Bell, California. Mr. Davenport is survived by a sister, Mrs. C. W. Dudley, of Abilene. The bodies were taken to a Ranger undertaking parlor where they were being held pending funeral arrangements.

WOODWARD ASKS PEOPLE TO COOPERATE

J. A. Woodward, who has the contract with the city for the removal and disposition of garbage this week issued a statement urging the people of Cisco to cooperate with him and his force in keeping the city clean. "As far as I know I have completely covered the city but if there is any person whose garbage has been missed they may call rural phone No. 9000 and I will see that their garbage is taken up," said Mr. Woodward. Mr. Woodward said that there are many places where there are no garbage cans. He said that he will do his best to provide suitable containers if the residents at these places will notify him that they desire them. The garbage should be placed in a convenient place, he said, preferably in the alley. The collectors are not required to take up this refuse unless it is placed where easily reached. Many homes have their containers in difficult places and Mr. Woodward asks that they change the locations of the cans to places where they may easily be served. "If the people of Cisco will cooperate with me," he said, "it is my determination to make and keep Cisco the cleanest city in the country."

DAILY BIBLE READING

GUARD THE TONGUE—Keep thy tongue from evil, and thy lips from speaking guile. Depart from evil, and do good; seek peace, and pursue it.—Psalm 34:13, 14.

PRAYER—Help us, Lord, that, not being overcome of evil, we may overcome evil with good.

LOWER CALIFORNIA AS AMERICAN TERRITORY.

Senator Henry Ashurst of Arizona has introduced a resolution asking President Hoover to start negotiations with Mexico for the purchase and annexation of Lower California. Senator Ashurst is a democrat. He contends that while the territory is of no commercial or economic value to Mexico but would be valuable to the United States as a base of supplies or that military and naval operations with comparative ease and secrecy could be established by Uncle Sam among the numerous islands on its Pacific coast.

Senator Ashurst is not a pacifist. He insists that the Mexican republic is both unwilling and unable to police Lower California "and is unable to resist aggressions from or settlements on the peninsula by Oriental powers." Senator Ashurst has started something.

Mexico is not going to surrender Lower California to Uncle Sam. Mexico is not going to sell Lower California to Uncle Sam. "Mexico for the Mexicans" is the patriotic slogan of President Rubio and his followers. Mexican nationals are deserting the United States for Mexico. During the six months ending Dec. 21, 1930, a total of 21,706 Mexican nationals had crossed the border between the two Laredos in the back to Mexico movement. This represents the largest exodus of Mexican nationals in the history of the immigration services of both sides of the Rio Grande. It is predicted by the Laredo Times that the migration of Mexican nationals during January will put the total for the seven months past above the 25,000 mark.

It is said that 60 per cent of the nationals returned to their native land well fixed financially. Almost to a man they stated it was their intention to engage in agricultural pursuits and help develop the national resources of their native land. Ports of America are to be closed. "America for Americans" is the slogan. Why not "Mexico for the Mexicans?"

A REMINDER FOR LAWMAKERS.

States (as well as the federal government) are reminded by the supreme court of the United States that law makers have the right to tax as income profits from the sale of state and federal and municipal bonds. This makes it interesting all around. In another case the supreme court decided a number of federal tax cases, holding in four that waivers given by taxpayers after the statute of limitations had expired, gave the government the right to make additional assessments and enforce payments of taxes. This is the open season for income tax payment. In other words, it is the last quarter of the financial year. Another important decision or rather ruling of the court after the Christmas holiday season is of interest to the many. Federal judges were held to have the authority to reduce sentences, imposed in criminal cases after the offender had started to serve the terms originally imposed on them. If a federal judge has the power why not a state judge?

COST OF BOULDER DAM HIGHWAYS.

Cost of construction of the railroad and highway from Boulder city to the Hoover dam site, upon which bids will be let immediately and work started, was placed at $1,500,000. Bids for the highway which will be ten miles long and cost $500,000 have been opened. Several tunnels will be required for the railroad and the highway. A reminder that all these huge construction projects are to be paid for by American taxpayers. Cost will not come out of the pockets of public servants, political leaders, congressional Napoleons or the vast army of tax eaters. Every 14th American is on the government payroll. Uncle Sam hasn't a penny of his own. All the projects that he launches are financed by the dollars taken from the pockets of his subjects. Uncle Sam is a non-partisan. He is the Great Father of all but his subjects pay the freight.

POWER OF I. C. C. DEFINED BY SUPREME COURT.

The interstate commerce commission has been dealt two body blows by the supreme court of the United States. First the court of last resort set aside a commission order that Florida intrastate freight rates on logs be increased and second ruled a special fund of $3,500,000 created in the reorganization of the Saint Paul railroad was free from the control of the I. C. C. Justice Stone, Brandeis and Holmes dissented from the Saint Paul decision while Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes took no part in its consideration. The railroad had maintained this fund was created to pay the fees of counsel and reorganization managers.

In a case from New Jersey the court sustained the validity of uniform insurance commission in its first five to four decision since Chief Justice Hughes and Justice Owen J. Roberts went upon the bench. They lined up with Justice Holmes. Brandeis and Stone, the three so-called liberals of the court. Another decision is worthy of more than passing note. Illegal methods used by the prohibition authorities in searching the premises of the Gogart corporation on Fifth avenue, New York city, were severely censured and evidence unlawfully obtained was ordered returned.

There is a court of last resort. This court has the last word. It interprets the constitution for the president and the congress and it trims the interstate commerce commission when the highest tribunal in the land deems that a trimming is necessary.

OTHER OPINIONS

SUSPENDED SENTENCES

Under the Texas law, a jury has the right in its discretion, to recommend a suspended sentence for "first offenders." That recommendation is mandatory upon the trial judge.

Students of criminal procedure are convinced that this particular section of the Texas law in large measure is responsible for the prevalence of crime.

There is so much philosophy in the suspended sentence law, that it is obvious no good purpose would be served by eliminating it entirely from the statutes. That administrations of suspended sentence should be placed in the hands of unschooled juries is, however, quite another story.

Frank Williford Jr. of the Harris county district attorney's office, recently compiled statistics for the year 1930 which throw some added light upon this controversial subject.

During the year, there were 30 convictions for murder, the jury assessed one death, two life and 15 prison sentences. Thirteen of the defendants were awarded suspended sentences.

For assault to murder, peculiarly enough, the same leniency was not shown. Of 11 convictions, nine prison sentences were assessed as against but two suspended sentences.

In consequence, so far, at least, as Harris county is concerned, it is less dangerous for the criminal to kill than to attempt to kill.

Seriously, however, it is a sad

Did You Ever Stop to Think?

By EDSON R. WAITE
Shawnee, Oklahoma.

J. Fred Shean, editor of the Uniontown (Pa.) Morning Herald and Evening Genius, says:

"A paragraph remarks, 'Wooing prosperity with slogans is like trying to win a modern girl with poetry.'"

"Apt alliteration's artful aid may originate pretty slogans, but the necessary punch lies in the prosaic routine of every-day co-ordination of a city's human and economic units."

"Firms spend millions in popularizing slogans — but not until they have produced a quality product. Advertising and show windows attract buyers into a store. It is quality and service which hold them to that store."

"Cities are no different. Between cities competition for diversified industry or what not ranks among the country's big businesses. It is team work between individuals, groups of individuals and economic influences intelligently arrived at and intelligently and persistently pursued which is the difference between a city merely with a slogan and a city which translates 'slogans' into 'actionists.'"

J. A. Livingston, publisher of the Russellville (Ark.) Courier-Democrat, says:

"All manner of business these days is conducted largely upon confidence. Confidence is the basis of credit, and few businesses are operated on a strictly cash basis both in the purchase and the sales ends. When confidence is shaken, credit tightens up, and business of all kinds and individuals in all walks suffer."

"No bank, perhaps, no matter if absolutely solvent by the strictest application of regulations and methods ever applied, would be able to pay off in a single day all its depositors. Banks could not make money if operated on a plan that would make this possible. It would require cash on hand equal to its total deposits at all times, and none of the deposits could be invested in bonds, stocks, real estate or other securities, but would have to be kept as a cash surplus. It could not make loans greater than its capital stock, no matter how glibly the security and its interest rates would of necessity be so high that none would borrow."

"The average well-managed, thoroughly sound and solvent bank is about like an individual with a steady, dependable income from wages or otherwise. Perhaps he owns his home, built in a building and loan association and on which only a few more payments are due, and an automobile or furniture or radio bought on the installment plan, on which he is meeting the payments regularly. He is absolutely solvent and under any ordinary circumstances would meet his every obligation. But suppose all his creditors should without warning suddenly demand immediate settlement in full. He could not meet the demand, of course and would go 'broke.' No matter if this property and other assets were worth five thousand dollars and he owed less than five hundred, he could not settle because of the unexpected and unusual demand. And such a man would be in just the position of a bank that is called upon to withstand a 'run' by depositors."

"If you are a loyal citizen of the community and your money is in the bank, leave it there; if it is not, put it there. If you heard it at home, you merely aggravate and help to bring about the very situation that has caused your fear."

commentary upon the course of Texas justice when it may be said that 40.3 per cent of all convicted murderers are immediately turned loose upon society.

If men with murder in their hearts really weigh their chances, their calculations must run in this vein: "If I murder, I have a good chance of avoiding arrest; if I am arrested, I stand a good chance of obtaining an acquittal; if I am convicted, I have a better than a four to ten chance of securing a suspended sentence. All told, I have better than a fifty-fifty break for escaping punishment altogether."

In federal procedure, the jury is purely a fact-finding body. It determines whether or not a man committed this or that crime. Its findings are reported to the trial judge who, out of his experience and training, determines whether and what sentence is best served by a penitentiary or a suspended sentence.

Few jurors are students of sociology, of penology, or even of human character. In fact, jurors are frequently qualified for the very reason that they are ignorant of the defendant's character. That being the case, it is extremely difficult to understand how they determine whether or not a suspended sentence should be assessed.

The trial judge, upon the other hand, in addition to his specialized training, has access to pertinent information frequently denied the jury. He, with the advice and counsel and prodding of defending attorneys, is really in a position to know whether or not the purposes of justice would best be served by the imposition of a suspended sentence.

Texas trial judges, upon the whole, are competent, trained and honest specialists. To them the people of Texas should entrust the duty of determining when, and if, suspended sentences should be imposed.

EVERYMAN'S JOB

It is our earnest desire to say something which bears the earmarks of plain common sense on the subject of unemployment and how to end it. Never has a problem been so bedeviled with silly, loose and irresponsible talk. It has been a perfect boon to those, rather numerous persons who like to issue lengthy statements to the newspapers and who freely blame everybody except themselves for all the ills of modern civilization. Unemployment has stirred to new life many a dying scheme for the reorganization of society. All sorts of socialistic clap-trap which had long ago ceased to attract is being trotted out with a fresh coat of paint and loudly proclaimed as the one sure bet. Those who do not have cures of their own pay no attention to the proffered remedies of others, but demand of high heaven that somebody do something. The panacea brokers, the God-sakers and the sistersmen, as Ed Howe calls them, have been having a tremendous inning. The situation has been made worse and helped by Gloomy Guses talking on the radio, by ill-advised political schemes and by individual emotionalism that has almost reached the proportions of wartime hysteria.

Many people denounce business for not having perfected a plan or formula for the prevention of unemployment, but business insists that if people would buy as usual there would be no need of cutting down on help. But those who lost their jobs, or had their wages reduced, or even suffered heavy losses in their securities are not in the best position to buy. It is a circle in which each person points to the next as the guilty party. Those who can think of nothing else to say, blame the government, but legislative action and executive pronouncement are secondary to what producers and consumers actually do. Unfortunately, producers look to the consumers and consumers look to the producers.

There is no single formula or answer which applies to unemployment. It is not a thing by itself, to be isolated and treated, like pulling a tooth. It is the result of a whole set of conditions and will gradually improve as the ill effects of these conditions wear off. The causes of the depression are complicated, but everyone knows that overproduction of raw materials, overvaluation of securities and overspending all played a part. We are suffering today from the ill effects of several kinds of inflation, and it is a painful process to get back to earth, but there is no other way. Many an inflated corporate promotion had to have the water squeezed out of it and many an excess capacity had to be cut down before a landing place could be reached.

These processes have been under way, and there can be only one result—namely, a return to sound, normal conditions. That return can be hastened, not by any renewal of extravagance, of crazy promotions in the stock market or elsewhere, or of overambitious schemes, but by courage and nerve. A few people cannot turn the business tide, but a comparatively few men and women of wealth or leaders in business can set an example. If they hoard, if they refrain from normal purchases, if they fear to go ahead with soundly conceived business plans—then recovery will be a longer time in coming. Many people lost money in 1929 by childish rashness, but that does not mean that they will lose from now on through sane, if determined, courage. Mr. Hoover has said that economic wounds must be healed by the action of the cells of the economic body. Unemployment will decline, as so many diseases have a way of doing, as the economic body recovers its normal health.

TEXAS TOPICS

By THE POLITICAL ANALYST AUSTIN, Jan. 9.—Gradually, prestige of serving the state is being raised; and Governor-Elect Ross S. Sterling already has shown conspicuous success in attracting outstanding people into the service. His own service as highway chairman was an example. That of Nat. W. Washburn as president of the board of education is unusual and—Mr. Sterling's unusual success in his first appointments, the university regents, in bringing three of the foremost financial and business men to non-salaried state service gives evidence of the high capacity and the constructive work his administration promises. In past years, at times petty politics and the creatures of politics forced into the grind of official business, standing to the task as the tremendous import of the matters in his charge warranted.

Those who were skittish about James V. Allred, because of his spectacular campaign methods and his youth, fearing a bizarre handling of the state's chief legal office, already have been reassured. He settled like a powerful workhorse into the grind of official business, standing to the task as the tremendous import of the matters in his charge warranted.

The senate this year, despite its members' enormous output of bills, likely will follow a precedent and hire an official bill writer at $20 a day.

Theory of having the lawyer on hand to work over bills is to look up the legal questions and weed out some of the unconstitutional provisions before the senate puts in its $1500 a day time on the measures.

Here's one reform State Auditor Moore Lynn doesn't get credit for—the gradual weeding out of smoking in the highway department. Highway Engineer Gibb Gilchrist has promulgated a ruling by which soon smoking will be an outside of hours diversion of his assistants, the practice of smoking at work having proven objectionable to the smokers' co-workers.

The Texas interracial commission has summarized an effective year's work. It has sought to have colleges and universities install courses on race relations; it has sponsored forming negro scout groups; it has secured the formation of committees on interracial affairs in chambers of commerce at Georgetown, Brenham, Huntsville, Lufkin, Conroe, Houston, Madisonville, Navasota, Livingston, Dallas, Denton, Waxahachie, Cold Springs, Palestine, Nacogdoches, the East Texas chamber of commerce, Timpson, Corsicana, Port Arthur, Grapeland, Marlin, Trinity, Jacksonville, Beaumont and the third district federation of women's clubs.

The Texas interracial commission has adopted as its 1931 legislative program the following: Maintenance of the negro orphanage at Gilmer. Funds to build the home for delinquent negro girls, already authorized. Funds for a tubercular hospital for negroes.

GOOD TO TAKE FOR DIZZINESS

Constipation Troubles Relieved By Black-Draught, Says Kentucky Man.

Hopkinsville, Ky.—Hundreds of people in Hopkinsville know Mr. Dale Harris, of 102 South Kentucky Avenue. Mr. Harris knows Theford's Black-Draught, from having taken it for a number of years.

"I often come in from work with a bad feeling in my stomach and head. I have a dizzy feeling in my head and am constipated, so I fix me a dose of Black-Draught immediately to guard off a spell of illness. I have always found Black-Draught to be perfectly satisfactory in every way, and would recommend it to any one as a safe and wonderful medicine when a purgative is needed. It is a good idea to keep a box of Black-Draught in the medicine cabinet so at a moment's notice you may take some when dizzy spells and constipation occur."

Thousands of others have reported that many disagreeable symptoms, due to constipation, have gone away after they had taken Theford's Black-Draught. Costs only 1 cent a dose.

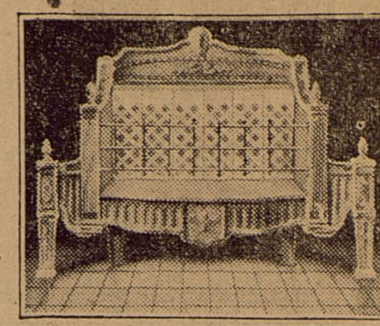

Mr. and Mrs. M. W. McCann, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Laminack returned to their home at Hamby after a few days visit with relatives here. POLITICS SEEN AS THREAT TO ARMS MEETING

By JOSEPH H. BAIRD
 WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The political problems, which have vexed the world since the Versailles treaty remade the map of Europe, must be solved, in part, at least, before the world can abandon its arms, observers here believe.

Regardless of the success of technical experts in working out reduction formulas for use at the proposed world disarmament conference in 1932, these will be futile unless there is a will to peace. Hence diplomatic negotiations of 1931 it is believed, must be directed toward removing causes of suspicion and ill-will.

Broadly viewed, the creation of a lasting peace rests on a three-fold formula: security, disarmament, arbitration. The question which the nations must settle is which of these steps shall be taken first. Without security, say France and some other countries, there can be no disarmament. In other quarters, the reverse of this is quoted; without disarmament there can be no security.

French Thesis
 Some statesmen, agreeing with the French thesis, believe security, and later disarmament, can be achieved by treaties binding the nations to consult in the event of trouble. France sought such an agreement at the London Naval conference. The United States shied at the proposal, holding it implied the use of force by the signatory nations. Administration quarters have indicated this country might enter such an agreement if it were clearly stated the obligation was only to consult, not to fight.

Thus far, no such pact is in sight.

Taking a practical view of the coming conference, observers point to a number of danger points on the European map, the existence of which will impede disarmament.

First, there is the Polish corridor. Under the postwar settlements Poland was given a long strip of territory through Germany in order to reach the sea. This grant cuts off East Prussia from the rest of Germany. It is as though Canada owned a narrow strip from her southern border to the Gulf of Mexico, separating the eastern and western parts of the United States. Germany considers this condition insufferable.

Minority Problem
 The minorities problem in Jugoslavia and Czechoslovakia, new nations carved out of the old Austro-Hungarian empire, is another source of friction.

There is tension between France and Italy. This is caused not only by naval rivalry, but by apparently conflicting aims in North Africa and by Italian resentment over anti-fascist plots hatched in France by ex-patriots.

Finally, there come rumors, yet unconfirmed, of new European combinations which may divide Europe into two armed camps, as did the Triple Alliance and the Triple Entente.

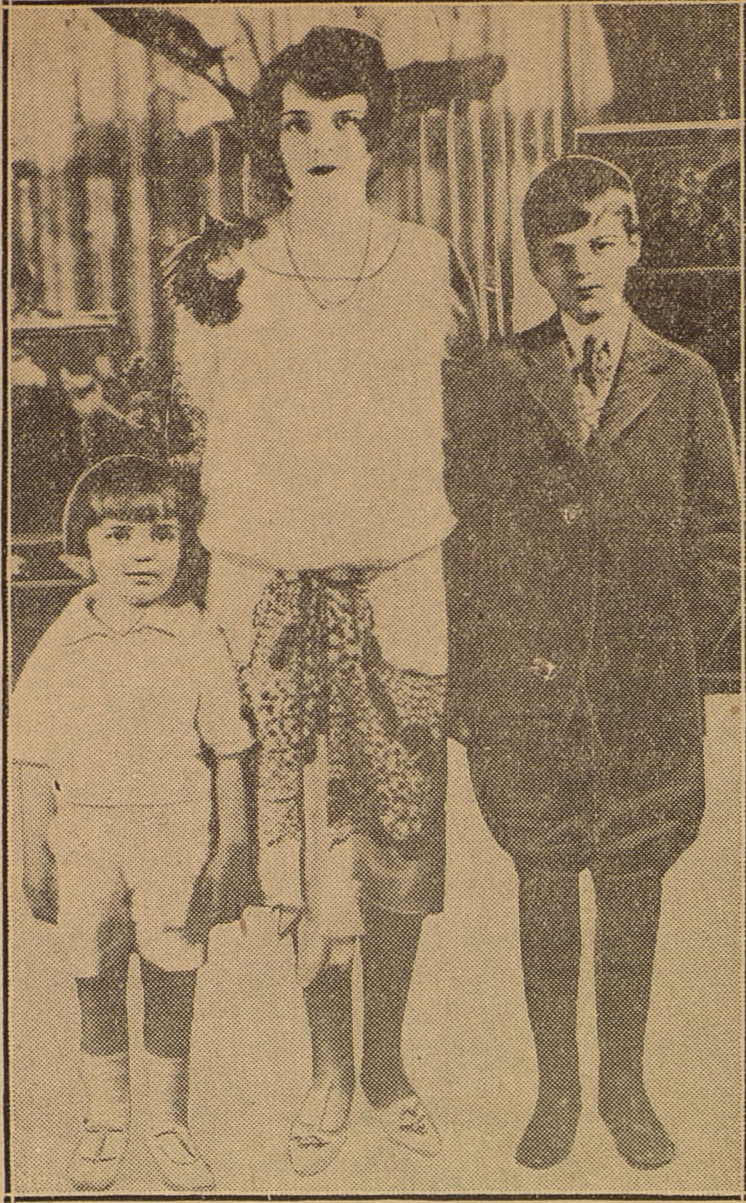

On the brighter side of the picture, American observers see a vast improvement in the attitude of nations toward each other around the council tables at Geneva. They find room for optimism too, in the fact that the three largest naval powers apparently have abandoned competition.

Peters to Have Charge of Office for Direction of State Advertising Plan

AUSTIN, Jan. 9.—The appointment of J. E. T. Peters, former service and research department manager of the West Texas chamber of commerce, as office secretary for the central office to be established in Austin immediately by the All-State Council of Regional Chambers of Commerce was announced this week by Hubert M. Harrison, secretary of the all-state body and general manager of the east Texas chamber of commerce. Mr. Peters will act as office secretary for the industrial development committee, composed of fifteen Texas manufacturers, created by the council to plan and direct a continuous advertising campaign to develop and stimulate increased use of Texas products. He will also act as secretary of any other joint committees that may be formed by the three regional chambers of commerce.

"The central office will coordinate the efforts of the three regional commercial organizations, the east Texas, west Texas and south Texas chambers of commerce, on statewide matters and will act as a clearing house for the collection and dissemination of information on the state as a whole. Following the formation of the all-state council of regional chambers of commerce, composed of the presidents and managers of the regional chambers of commerce of Texas, the three organizations have effectively cooperated on questions of statewide importance, and the establishment of a central office is the next logical step in fostering the new spirit of co-operation between the east Texas, west Texas and south Texas regions," said Mr. Harrison.

No Lobbying.
 "The new office will be under the authority and direction of the all-state council, and will have nothing to do with legislative matters except to provide information to the council on legislation and pending bills. It will not be used for lobbying."

Prior to his connection with the west Texas chamber of commerce, Mr. Peters was engaged in chamber of commerce work in Ranger, Denison and Cisco. He served as president of the Texas Commercial Executives association in 1928. In addition to his practical experience, he has received special training in commercial organization work at Northwestern University and the University of Wisconsin.

The industrial development committee of fifteen, with five members representing each region of the state, is as follows: East Texas, John W. Carpenter of Dallas, chairman; R. M. Kelly, Longview; L. D. Gilbert, Texarkana; B. E. Caldwell, Houston; and W. C. Trout, Lufkin; West Texas W. T. Ladd, Fort Worth, vice-chairman; Price Campbell, Abilene; Ross D. Rogers, Amarillo; Herbert Jones, Post; and A. T. Clifton, Waco; South Texas, Charles R. Tins, Three Rivers, vice-chairman; John Sharry, Mission; E. B. Neiswanger, San Antonio; W. R. McBrine, Sugar Land, and W. A. Mitchell, Houston.

The All-State council, working in co-operation on the movement to develop Texas products, is composed of: Guy A. Blount of Nacogdoches, president of the east Texas chamber of commerce and chairman of the council; Hubert M. Harrison, general manager of the east Texas chamber of commerce and secretary of the council; W. G. Kinsolving of Corpus Christi, president, the south Texas chamber of commerce; Ray Leeman, general manager of the south Texas chamber of commerce; Charles C. PENNSYLVANIA WILL HONOR WILLIAM PENN

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 9.—Dr. R. Tait McKenzie, internationally famous sculptor, will recommend to the Penn Landing commission that the ceremonies commemorating William Penn's landing here be broadened to give it a more international aspect. The ceremonies will be held in 1932.

Dr. McKenzie suggested that large bronze panels with life-size figures be erected in London and Deal, England. He pointed out that London was the birthplace of the founder of Pennsylvania and that the expedition really started from there in 1682.

"I believe that the celebration in 1932 will be a great opportunity for the demonstration of what Pennsylvania owes to the Friends of England," he said. "By placing tablets in London and Deal these English Friends would be permanently reminded of the high esteem with which the Pennsylvania Friends regard them."

McKenzie suggested that either the Society of Friends or the English-Speaking union conduct ceremonies in England on August 30, the anniversary of Penn's sailing, and that the local celebration follow in October when Penn landed.

In addition to the London panel, Dr. McKenzie suggested that a smaller panel be erected at Deal, where other members of Penn's party joined the expedition.

Improvements for Sport Shoppe

Improvements which will make the Sport Shoppe one of the most attractive and well decorated salons are now being made, according to Mrs. Alice Cunningham and Miss Audrey Ann Frazier, proprietors of the establishment, and will be completed within the next two weeks.

A modernistic motif will feature the interior in the way of tapestries, floor coverings and appointments.

A partition at the rear has been removed to give several additional feet of space and a screen built to form a dressing nook that will be painted in modernistic pattern. A large dress case now extends along one side, and according to Mrs. Cunningham, a hat case is planned for the opposite side, and a new full-length mirror to replace the old one. A glass case for lingerie has been moved to the front of the shop and an attractive console table and mirror added.

The renovation of this shop is an indication of the confidence of the owners in the return of prosperity and of their willingness to assist in the improvement campaign.

Gibbons Tells How It Feels to Be Shot

Credit Floyd Gibbons with accomplishing one of the most uncanny reportorial feats on record. Though lying near Chateaufort-Thierry with three bullet wounds in his body—one slug having pierced his right eye and fracturing his skull—the famous war correspondent nevertheless clung to consciousness and mentally recorded his sensations in order to answer accurately the question: "How does it feel to be shot?"

"As a police reporter I had covered scores of shooting cases. I had spoken to victims of shootings. But somehow I never could learn exactly how it felt to be shot," writes Mr. Gibbons in Liberty Magazine this week. "I finally got the answer—but not the way I wanted it. The answer was three German bullets.

"It happened on June 6, 1918, just to the northwest of Chateaufort-Thierry. The lighted end of a cigarette touched me in the fleshy part of my upper left arm. That was all. At the time there was no feeling within my arm, that is, no feeling as to aches or pains. There was nothing to indicate that the bullet, as I learned several days later, had gone through the bicep muscle of the upper arm and had come out on the other side.

"I glanced down at the sleeve of my uniformed coat and could not even see the hole where the bullet had entered. Neither was there any sudden flow of blood. At the time there was no stiffness or discomfort in the arm and I continued to use it to work my way forward.

"Then the second one hit. It nicked the top of my left shoulder. And again came the burning sensation only larger, the bullet hitting as it did in the meaty cap of the shoulder.

"And then the third one struck me. There came a crash. It sounded to me as if someone had dropped a glass bottle into a porcelain bathtub. A barrel of whitewash tipped over and it seemed that everything in the world turned white. That was the sensation. I did not recognize it because I have often heard it said that when one receives a 'blow on the head everything turns black.' "Maybe I am contrarily constructed, but in my case everything became pure white. I remember this distinctly because years of newspaper training had been in but one direction—to sense and remember. So it was that, even without knowing it, my mind was making mental notes on every impression that my senses registered.

"I did not know then, as I know now, that a bullet striking the ground immediately under my left cheek bone had ricocheted upward going completely through the left eye and then crashing out through my forehead, leaving the eyeball and upper eyelid completely halved and the lower eyelid torn away and a compound fracture of the skull.

Recommendations Made by Secretary

AUSTIN, Jan. 9.—The six flags that have floated over Texas, the French embassy, the state capital, signatures to international treaties, the enshrined Texas Declaration of Independence and ordinance of secession, illustrate the annual report of Secretary of State Jane Y. McCallum.

Preservation of old documents by a crepe lining process, triple indexing of documents and use of photostats to save time and cost of copying records are cited as among the improvements in operation of the office.

Recommendations are: That the state blue sky law be amended to prevent its circumvention by sale of "personally owned stock;" that corporation reports be made for fiscal instead of calendar years; that greater protection be given minority stockholders of corporations; that persons and incorporated concerns operating under an assumed name be required to add "unincorporated;" that trust estates be made subject to supervision which they now escape; that a time limit be put on trade marks registered with the department and that there be a revision of its state election laws. Election law changes are not specified as Mrs. McCallum has found the conflicts too numerous, she said.

Minister Denounces "Green Pastures"

DALLAS, Jan. 9.—Declaring that the book "Green Pastures" is one of the "most sacrilegious things ever placed before the public and shamefully caricatures the Lord Almighty, the angels and the patriarchs," Rev. W. M. Groom, pastor of the Ross Avenue Baptist church here, announced that he will devote his evening sermon this week to denouncing the volume.

"The book represents God and the angels often saying 'doggone it'" said the Rev. Groom. "It represents God as taking a fancy to a lady angel, as smoking a 10-cent cigar and performing a miracle to light it; as condoning the murder of Abel, as saying to Noah, 'I don't even mind you cussing the drinking.'"

"It represents a girl as saying to God, 'what's the matter with you, country boy? Pull up your pants!' and the same girl to God, 'ain't you the old time gal-hunter? A gambler glances up to God, and says, 'Hello, liver lips, look a liver lips.'"

The play should be hissed off the stage and the book should be banned from all libraries, says the minister.

Loboes and Eagles Renew Rivalry at 7:30 Tonight

VISITORS ARE HIGH-GEARED ORGANIZATION

Game Called at 7:30 at High School Gymnasium

The Loboes will be led to the slaughter tonight when the Abilene 5 journeymen to this fair city to exact basket ball toll for the defeat handed the Eagle contingent on the gridiron last fall.

The Loboes looked weak in losing two games to small school teams and they are not credited with any great chance against the high-geared Abilene organization tonight.

The Eagles court artists have had things decidedly very bad against Ranger, Ellinsville and other hard-work performers they have opposed this season. Ellinsville, who defeated the Loboes on the Loboes' own court, fell before the Taylor county sharpshooters by about two to one while Ranger succumbed three to one before the same combination.

The probable lineup for the game at 7:30 at the high school gym tonight as announced by Coach Leonard Hill, will be "Chuck" Van Horn at center, Karkalis and Yeager at forwards and Preston and Purvis at guards.

BUT THE QUEENS CAN WIN

While the Cisco Loboes have been neglecting training rules and losing basket ball games the Lobo Queens stepped out last night and showed them up in smart fashion by swamping the Nimrod co-ed brigade to the tune of 53 to 4.

Rozelle Phippen, Queen forward, looked particularly good, displaying something of the form of her brother, "Cotton" brilliant star of past Lobo quints.

As the score indicates the game was Cisco's all the way, Nimrod being unable to get more than a look-in.

The Queens lineup was composed of R. Phippen and Purvis, forwards; Godfrey and Penn, centers; Smith and Stella Phippen, guards.

Interesting Ring Program Planned

CHICAGO, Jan. 9 — Chicago's athletic officials today announced plans for a series of heavyweight bouts which will provide Chicago fans with the most interesting program in the history of the stadium, even if attempts to bring a world championship contest here are unsuccessful.

The program includes bouts featuring King Levinsky, Chicago fighter, Jimmy Slattery, former world light heavyweight champion, mid-weight champion Mickey Walker and Tuffy Griffiths, Iowa heavyweight.

Slattery and Levinsky will meet at the stadium, January 14, and Walker has agreed to terms to meet the winner early in March. Walker's acceptance was conditional on the promise that success against the Slattery-Levinsky winner would result in an attempt to match him with Tuffy Griffiths.

Slattery is willing to meet either Walker or Griffiths, or both, if he defeats Levinsky, but the King is less enthusiastic about meeting Walker—a match which would provide the greatest "natural" of years. Levinsky wants to meet Griffiths first, but if he defeats Slattery probably can be secured for the Walker match.

DALLAS, Jan. 9. — Coach Jimmie St. Clair's Southern Methodist university's cagers were sent through their final rehearsal this afternoon in preparation for the speedy Rice basketballers who play here Saturday night.

NACOGDOCHES, Jan. 9. — Centenary's quintet outplayed the Teachers of Stephen F. Austin 40 to 23 here Thursday night.

Women Save Patients From Fire

BROWNWOOD, Jan. 9. — Patients of the Brownwood hospital today owed their lives to Mrs. Ethel Cronen 30, who assisted by Miss Rose Mabeley last night took them from the building as flames swept three room frame structure with $25,000 loss.

Three of the patients today were in the Medical Arts hospital unhurt and the other two, a mother and a new born baby, were at home, also unharmed by the fire.

Mrs. Cronen discovered the blaze shortly after 9 p. m., aroused nurses carried out the five patients, all in the building at the time, and then dragged out four cylinders of gas from the operating room.

A short circuit in the hospital signal system was blamed for the blaze.

Official of the clinic which operated the hospital, the oldest in Brownwood, today had high praise for Mrs. Cronen. She is a native of Brownwood and studied nursing at Lubbock.

COMPANIES' SIDE OF OIL DISPUTE TOLD

AUSTIN, Jan. 9. — When Frank Pickrell and Haydon Krupp, El Paso storekeepers, decided to take a fling at oil production which no experienced oil people would make, they poured between $11,000,000 and $12,000,000 into the coffers of the University of Texas Clarence Wharton of Houston told a state legislative committee today, presenting the oil companies side of the dispute over the Reagan county oil revenues.

Wharton said that the Texas and Big Lake oil companies, which took over the production, these men discovered, are ready to join with the state in seeking an accounting. Auditors have been at work trying to determine what the "posted price in the mid-continent oil field" has been daily. That is the price at which the oil was to be sold.

The Humble, which is one of the five big companies whose position determine the price has refused access to its record, Wharton said.

Agreed Judgment

Dispute over the university's income from the Reagan county field was settled today by an agreed judgment. Wharton said the oil companies then paid $1,000,000 for peace and agreed also to give the university an eighth of the profits earned by the Reagan county purchasing company. The committee before which the hearing was held is to report to the 42nd legislature, meeting next week, upon whether the state should seek to set aside this judgment.

An audit by the state auditor submitted to the committee, raises the question whether the state is not entitled to a full eighth of the price at which the Reagan County Purchasing company sells to Marland Oil company under a contract for life of the field.

Royalty on Well Price

Under the existing agreed judgment the eighth royalty is paid on the price paid by the Reagan County Purchasing company to the Texas and Big Lake producing companies, the well. The purchasing company sells at 20 cents a barrel more.

Wharton said this marketing arrangement was not one devised to deprive the university of its just royalty but one made to open an outlet for oil, by securing the building of collection lines, storage facilities and major pipe line connection.

Instead of causing a loss to the university, Wharton and Chas. Black of Austin, who appeared with Wharton for the companies, claimed that the university has received $2,000,000 more than it would have received for oil sold on the open market like other west Texas production.

250 Given Food by Red Cross

ENGLAND, Ark., Jan. 9. — With hunched and determined men, hundreds of share-croppers and other drouth-stricken farm people filed through Red Cross headquarters today seeking food for hungry wives and children.

Officials estimated that upwards of 250 persons were given food requisitions and that many or more would be aided today.

The crowd was a motley one. It ranged from mere lads to wrinkled old men. Women and girls mingled with men in line waiting for rations. Undaunted by inability to state their names on the requisition blanks, many solemnly marked a large black "X" on the papers and passed on.

Red Cross officials said that few ask for clothing.

"Food is their first and almost only thought," officials said.

Some go through the line twice, but they are easily detected and punished officials said. Many are glad to get only a small bit of flour, a little coffee and lard.

COMMERCE, Jan. 9. — Basketeers from the Oklahoma State Teachers college at Okla defeated the East Texas Teachers' 43 to 19 here last night. The two teams meet again on the Maplecrest Friday night.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Special investigator Dundee believes that Juanita Selim and Dexter Sprague were both murdered because they were partners in a blackmail scheme, while the police theory is that they were killed to avenge "Swallowtail Sammy" Savelli, whom they are supposed to have betrayed.

Of Dundee's six possible suspects his case is strongest against Flora Miles. He thinks it possible she killed Nita, thinking Nita had told her husband of some scandal involving her, and that Tracey Miles killed Sprague to protect his wife from a charge of murder. He learns that Flora rushed Tracey into marriage, and that he, a "male wallflower," was very flat-terred.

In New York, Dundee finds that the dress in which Nita was cremated and which he thinks is a wedding dress, was bought in January, 1918. At the Forsyte school, where the women involved attended and where Nita was director of the Easter play, he learns that Flora left school and became a chorus girl in 1919, and that the rumor was that she had been living with an actor.

Her parents brought her back, and the story was hushed up. He learns that Serena Hart, Forsyte girl and successful stage star, recommended Nita for the job. She tells him that she met Nita, who was very kind to her, in the season of 1917-18, and that Nita was married and deserted before the show was over.

CHAPTER XLIII

"No, I never met Nita's husband," Serena Hart replied. "As a matter of fact she told me she had married a man named Lee, and did not discuss her marriage with the other girls of the chorus at all. I got the impression that Mr. Selim—Mat, she called him—wanted it kept secret for a while, but I don't know why. . . . This was early in 1918, as I've told you, though I have no way of fixing even the approximate date, and New York was full of soldiers. I remember I jumped to the conclusion that Nita had succumbed to a war romance, but I don't think she said anything to confirm my suspicion."

"When did she tell you of her marriage—that is, when—in relation to the date of the wedding itself?" Dundee asked.

"The very day she was married," Serena Hart matinee. Our dressing tables were side by side, and as she slipped out of her dress—

"This dress?" Dundee asked, and handed her the photograph of dead Nita in the royal blue velvet dress she had kept for 12 years.

"Yes," and Serena Hart shuddered. "Her hair was dressed like that, too, although she had been wearing it in long curls, and had to take it down before she could go on for the opening number. She whispered to me that she had been married that day, that she was terribly happy, very much in love, and that her husband had asked her to dress her hair in the French roll, a favorite hair-dress with him. Between numbers she whispered to me again, telling me that her husband was 'so different,' 'such a lamb'—totally unlike any man she had met on Broadway, poor child. . . . For she was a child still—only 20, but she had been in the show business since she was a motherless, fatherless little drifter of 16. . . ."

"No, she did not tell me how old he was, where he came from, his business, or what he looked like, and I did not inquire. As the days passed—weeks, probably—she became more and more silent and reserved, though once or twice she protested she was still terribly happy. Then came a day when she did not show up for the performance at all. The next night she told me that her husband had left her, after a quarrel, and had not returned. I was sure that she had innocently told me how she had vamped Benny Steinfeld, the big revue producer, you know, into giving her a 'spot' in his summer show, and that her 'Mat' had flown into a rage, accusing her of having been untrue to him. She never mentioned his desertion to me again, but—

"Yes?" Dundee prompted.

"Well," Serena Hart went on, uncomfortably, "I'm afraid I rather forgot poor Nita after 'Teasing Tilly' closed, for my next work was in stock in Des Moines. After a year of stock I got my chance in a legitimate show on Broadway, and one day I met her on the street. Not having much to talk with her about, I asked her if she and her husband were reconciled. She said no, that she had never seen him again. Then, in a burst of confidence, she told me that she had hired a private detective out of her meager earnings to investigate him in his home town, or rather the city that he had told her he came from. The detective had reported that no such person as Mat or Matthew Selim had ever lived there, so far as he could find out. I asked her if she was going to get a divorce, and she said she was not—that being already married was a protection against getting married in haste again. After that, I rather lost sight of Nita, and practically forgot her, our paths being so very divergent."

"And you never saw her again?" Dundee asked, very much disappointed.

"Oh, yes, two or three times—at openings, or on the street, but we never held any significant conversation," Serena Hart answered, reaching for her hat. "Oh, yes! I was about to forget! I had quite a shock in connection with Nita. One afternoon—let's see, that was when I opened 'Hullabaloo,' in which I made my first real success, you know—I bought The New York Evening Star, which devotes considerable space to theatrical doings, to see what sort of review the show had got, and on the first page I saw a picture of Nita, beneath a headline said, 'Famous Model Commits Suicide'—"

"What!" Dundee exclaimed, astounded.

"Oh, it wasn't Nita Leigh," Serena Hart reassured him. "There was a correction the next day. You see, an artist's model named Anita Lee had committed suicide, and as the Star explained in the next day, the similarity of both the first name and the last had caused the error in the photograph. There was a picture of Nita Leigh, with Nita's statement that 'the report of my death has been exaggerated,' and a picture of the real Anita Lee."

"When did the mistake occur?" Dundee asked, in great excitement.

"Let me think," Serena Hart frowned. "Hullabaloo opened in New York, about the first of May, 1922. . . . Just a little more than eight years ago."

Dundee reached for his own hat, in a fever to be gone, but to his surprise the actress stopped him, a faint color in her pale cheeks.

"Since you're from Hamilton, and are investigating the murder, you have undoubtedly met little Penelope Crain?"

"I know her very well. It happens that she is private secretary to the district attorney, under whom I work. . . . Why?"

"I saw her alone in the Easter play at Forsyte four or five years ago," Miss Hart explained, her face turned from the detective as she dusted it with powder, "and I was impressed with her talent. In fact, I advised her father, who had come from Hamilton to witness the performance, as proud parents are likely to do, to let her go on the stage."

"So you met Roger Crain?" Dundee paused to ask.

"Oh, yes. . . . a charming man, with even more personality than his daughter," the actress answered carelessly, so carelessly that Dundee had a sudden hunch.

"Have you seen Mr. Crain recently? He deserted his family and fled Hamilton, in rather unsavory circumstances."

"What do you mean?" Miss

Hart asked sharply.

"Oh, there was nothing actually criminal, I suppose, but he is believed to have withheld some securities which would have helped satisfy his creditors, when bankruptcy was imminent," Dundee explained. "Have you seen him since then—January, that was, I believe?"

"January?" Miss Hart appeared to need time for reflection. "Oh, yes! He was in his card on the first night of my show that opened in January. It was a flop—lasted only five weeks. . . . We chatted of the Forsyte girls who are now in Hamilton, most of whom I went to school with or have met at the Easter plays."

"Do you know where Mr. Crain is now?" Dundee asked. "I have a message for him from Penny, which I should like to reach him."

"Why should I see him again?" Miss Hart shrugged. "And I haven't the least idea where he is living or what he is doing now. . . . Of course, if he should come to see me backstage after 'Temptation' opens—What is the message from Penny?"

"That her mother wants him to come home," Dundee answered. "And I am sure Penny wants him back, too. . . . The mother is one of the sweetest, gentlest, most tragic women I have ever met—and you have seen Penny for yourself. The disgrace has been very hard on them. It would be splendid if Roger Crain would come back and redeem himself."

Half an hour later Bennie Dundee, in the file room of The New York Evening Star, was in possession of the sound volume of the newspaper for the month of May, 1922. Under the caption on the front page of the issue of May 3, which Serena Hart had quoted so accurately, was a picture of a young, laughing Nita Leigh, her curls bobbed short, a rose between her beaming teeth. And in the issue of May 4 appeared two pictures—side by side—exotic, straight-haired, slant-eyed Anita Lee, who had found life so insupportable that she had ended it, and the same photograph of living, vital Nita Leigh.

When he returned the files he asked the girl in charge a question.

"Does this copyright line beneath this picture"—and he pointed to the photograph of Nita which had appeared erroneously—"mean that the picture was syndicated?"

"The girl bent her head to see. "Copyright by Metropolitan Picture Service," she read aloud.

"Yes, that's what it means. When The Evening Star was owned by Mr. Magnus, he formed a separate company which he called the Metropolitan Picture Service, which supplied papers all over the country with a daily picture service, in mat form. But the picture syndicate was discontinued about five years ago when the paper was sold to its present owners."

"Are their files available?" Dundee asked.

"If they are, I don't know anything about it," the girl told him, and turned to another seeker after bound volumes of the paper.

"It doesn't matter," Dundee assured her, and asked for a sheet of blank paper, on which he quickly composed the following telegram addressed to Penny Crain:

PLEASE SEARCH FILES ALL THREE HAMILTON PAPERS WEEK OF MAY FOURTH TO SEVENTEEN NINETEEN TWENTY TWO FOR STORY AND PICTURES ON SUICIDE ANITA LEE ARTIST'S MODEL SAY NOTHING TO ANYONE NOT EVEN SANDERSON IF HE IS BACK STOP WIRE RESULT HOTEL.

In his hotel, while impatiently awaiting an answer from Penny, he passed the time by scanning all the New York papers of Thursday and Friday, on the chance of meeting with significant revelations concerning the private of Dexter Sprague or Juanita Leigh Selim, united in death, by the press, at least. There was much space devoted to the theory involving the two New Yorkers with the murder of the racketeer and gambler, "Swallowtail Sammy" Savelli, but only two pieces of information held Dundee's interest.

The first was a reminder to the public that certain theatrical collums of Sunday, Feb. 9, had carried the rumor of Dexter Sprague's engagement to Dolly Martin, popular 'baby' star of Alhamont Pictures, and that the papers of Tuesday, Feb. 11, had carried Sprague's own denial of the engagement.

"So that is why Nita tried to commit suicide on Feb. 9—and her attempted suicide, with its tragic consequences for Lydia Carr, is probably the reason Dexter Sprague gave up his picture star," Dundee mused. "Did Nita let him persuade her to go into the blackmail business, in order to hold his wandering, mercenary affections?"

The second bit of information which the papers supplied him was obtained by Dundee himself from a new summary of Nita Leigh's last year of life as chorus girl, specialty dancer, 'double' in pictures, and director of the Easter play at Forsyte-on-the-Hudson.

"If Nita got a divorce or even a legal separation from her husband after her talk a year ago with Gladys Earle, she got it in New York, and so secretly that no New York paper has been able to dig it up," Dundee concluded.

"AND YET SHE HAD PROMISED TO MARRY RALPH HAMILTON!"

A bellboy with a telegram interrupted the startling new train of thought which that conclusion had started. The wire was from Penny Crain.

Sub Shoots Hog Quint to Victory

AUSTIN, Jan. 9. — A blonde young man named Jekks from the Ozark mountains of Arkansas heaved three shots from awkward angles of the hardcourt last night to send the University of Arkansas quintet to a 29 to 21 victory over Texas university's basketeers.

The visitors got off to an early start, running up a 10 to 2 lead in the first half. At the start of the second period they slowed down, allowing the Texans to obtain an 18 to 17 lead when Jekks was sent in as a sub forward to start his scoring spree.

A sure-shooting offensive un-equalled throughout the evening by the Texans featured Arkansas' first lap in the race for the southwest conference championship. Holt, towering center for the visiting team, dropped two field goals and three free tosses to take scoring honors. Fomby, Texas center, chalked up six points.

Eleven of the Texans' 21 scores were made on free tosses. Five of Arkansas' 29 were made on free throws, six field goals being tallied in each period.

Dempsey Makes Bow to Dallas Tonight

DALLAS, Jan. 9. — Jack Dempsey, one of the most popular figures in the history of the boxing ring, makes his first formal bow to this city tonight when 6,000 fans pay homage to an idol of sport and witness the O'Dowd-Edwards mat tussle.

Dempsey, veteran of many battles with Jess Willard, Georges Carpentier, Tommy Gibbons, Louis Angel Firpo, Jack Sharkey, et al., will judge the wrestling bout as third man in the ring.

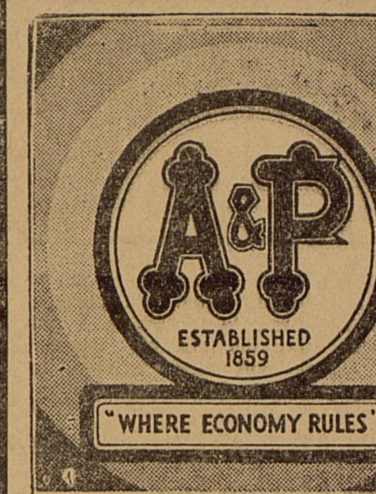

Ticket sales have been more brisk than for any boxing or wrestling program here in the last 15 years, promoters report.

Billy Edwards and Jim O'Dowd meet in a return match following a spirited battle so close that three judges and a referee were unable to reach a decision.

From Dallas, the manassa mauler will jump to Newark, N. J., and thence to New Orleans, La., on his refereeing tour.

BILL WOULD FORCE COTTON ACREAGE CUT

AUSTIN, Jan. 9.—Soil rehabilitation and elimination of plant diseases form the basis for enforced reduction of cotton acreage set out in a cotton reduction bill that has been endorsed by J. E. McDonald, of Waxahachie, state commissioner of agriculture. A number of members of the legislature have volunteered to sponsor it in the session opening next week, Commissioner McDonald said.

As was provided in the bill offered before the last legislature by McDonald, then a member of the house, it provides for creation of a "farm conservation commission." This commission will meet annually, if the law passes, between November 1 and November 6 of each year and determine the maximum percentage of each farm in the state that may be planted to cotton and other crops so as to maintain fertility of the soil and prevent plant disease.

Acreage Reduction
The commission under terms of the proposed bill may not enter any order reducing the amount planted to any crop at less than 10 per cent of the total farm acreage. Provisions are made for posting of the notice of determination in every justice precinct of the state. Excess planting will be punishable by fine.

The acreage limitation is to be computed on the basis of the portion of a farm actually cultivated. Clauses are carried, providing for methods of court appeal from rulings of the farm commission, the burden of proof being put on the protesting farmer to show that the order of limitation is not substantially true finding of the acreage allotment necessary to carry out the purpose of the act. It is proposed the farm commissions shall be distributed geographically in four parts of the state and be practical farmers.

Hoover Anti-Oil Tariff Policy Scored

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 9.—Delegations of western states and mid-continent oil men will go to Washington for the oil relief conference next week resolved to criticize the Hoover administration anti-oil tariff policy.

Secretary of Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur's stand against the tariff has provoked widespread criticism among domestic operators in Oklahoma, Texas, Colorado, Montana and Wyoming.

Mid-continent oil leaders are outspoken in their charges that the administration policy of promoting oil importation is ruining domestic producers and are united in demand for an oil tariff.

The relief conference was called jointly by Governors W. J. Holloway of Oklahoma and Clyde Reed, Kansas. Holloway has been advised by all states excepting California that they would send large delegations to Washington pledged to the common purpose of demanding a tariff and seeking domestic market relief. California was expected to join within a day or two.

Officers Charged With Burglaries

PALESTINE, Jan. 9.—Three Palestine policemen were in the county jail here today charged with nine burglaries, committed over a period of two months.

The officers are: Motorecycle Officers Hesse Morris, Night Policeman Jack Fryer and Tom Turner. They made confessions to County Attorney Tom Pickett, and are being held without bond under nine charges each.

Turner was defeated in the November elections in his race for the sheriff's office.

Stores were entered through windows and with skelton keys cigarets and other goods were taken.

All three of the officers are married. They compose half of the Palestine police force. Arrests were made by officers under Constable Will Gordon.

County Attorney Pickett and District Attorney Ben Greenwood will handle prosecution.

like a discourtesy to Gov. Moody. I think too much of him to do anything that might look like I was encroaching on his prerogatives," was the answer.

One newspaperman had a final fling at him, with a question about interviews recently published by The Austin American of his attitude on political pressure for appointments cooperation with the legislature, and other related subjects.

"Do you know," he came back, "I hardly opened my mouth; but I have been complimented on those interviews... they correctly conveyed my ideas."

Mr. Sterling will not come to Austin to stay before Jan. 19 or 20, according to present plans, he said.

AUTO DRIVERS LICENSE BILLS IN MAKING

A few legislators have reached Austin for the session. As they came, they found bills and legislative programs in the making, particularly two sets of drivers' license bills and extensive highway and automobile legislation.

Leading up to a state American Automobile association convention in Austin Saturday, and meetings of the transportation committees of chambers of commerce and the South Texas Motor League Sunday and Monday, the Central Texas Automobile club started the drivers' license ball rolling. Mark Marshall, state motor transportation director, and L. G. Phares, chief of the motor patrol, were invited before officials of the club.

Ask License for All

Mr. Marshall favored a separate drivers' license regulation for regulated truck and bus drivers. If private car drivers are to be licensed, the regulated chauffeurs and drivers should be exempted from the general law. Chief Phares favored the enforced licensing of every person who drives a car, and increase of the motor patrol from 50 to 200 men.

The state A. A. convention was called by Pres. H. M. Dickmann. It will deal with the proposed drivers' license and public liability laws to be fostered by it. Many local A. A. clubs will be represented.

Friday night the legislative committee of the Central Texas Automobile club will hold a meeting at the Driskill hotel on the same program. Members of this committee are Fred A. Griffith, Mark Marshall, George Walling, D. E. H. Manigault,
