F. D. AND HIS MERGER PLAN.

Pres-Elect Roosevelt, "away down in Georgia," is planning for the unification of the scattered federal agencies dealing with transportation, land and sea and air, under one authority. In other words, he is preparing for his governmental economy drive. It is alleged by a press correspondent that a similar grouping of the federal forces directing radio, telephone and telegraph, into a communication unit, is a part of the plan. Walker D. Hines was called to Warm Springs for a conference. Hines is a man with a history. He is one of the foremost lawyers of America. He was a director-general of the federal railroad administration in war days. He is said to have recommended that the government close the treasury for support of inland waterways. He voiced his opposition to the St. Lawrence waterways project and urged elimination of the recapture clause in the transportation act which limits railroad profits. It is said to be the Rooseveltian idea that the new transportation unit be a Reconstruction Inter-State Commerce commission; it is contemplated to give it executive, semi-judicial and regulatory powers.

Democrats are pledged to a reduction of a billion dollars in the cost of federal government. Party pledges must be redeemed by the democrats or else there will be another political revolt in the election of representatives and senators in 1934. Public servants may not realize it but American voters, regardless of past party affiliations, are forgetting all about bogus party trademarks. They demand action, they demand relief from excessive taxation, they demand that the cost of government shall "be cut to the bone." Mark the rumblings of discontent.

JOBS FOR TEN THOUSAND JOBLESS.

Kansas City has the manager form of municipal government. E. F. McElroy is the manager. He has fed hundreds out of his own pockets during the winter months. He has submitted to his city council plans for projects which will involve the expenditure of $1,000,000. He estimates the plans will provide jobs for 10,000 Kansas City citizens. As far as possible hand labor will be employed in the program. Kansas City, governed by Mgr. McElroy, follows strictly the policy of giving the available jobs only to citizens of the municipality. Now the jobs for 10,000 will be provided under "a ten-year bond improvement program." This is a cheerful little earful and it is passed along the line. It demonstrates the difference between the old and the new. In other years the practical politicians ran Kansas City and dominated its government. Now the methods of city management by a real manager appeal to all the independent minded taxpayers of the second city of Old Missouri.

A RETURN OF THE CODE DUELLO?

In the good old days "gentlemen appealed to the code." In the good old days it was pistols and coffins for two, and a crack shot walked away with the prize. Rep. Lindenham of the Oklahoma legislature has introduced a bill to repeal a statute against dueling. It is most appropriate that Oilton is given as the place of residence of the daring repealer.

THOMPSON THROWS DOWN THE GAUNTLET.

Railroad Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson is over in the East Texas oil diggings "to see that proration of oil production is enforced." Addressing leading citizens of Henderson, he declared that he would remain on the scene until proration ruled and was obeyed by every person and corporation in the East Texas field. He expressed determination to stop rumors of "wholesale production and theft of oil." "We are going to enforce these proration regulations. No individual or corporation is bigger than the people of Texas. I am here with you to remain until the circulation of ugly rumors ceases or have them proved to be without foundation. Help protect your pocketbook and serve your state by lending your assistance. If you do this, we will win and the East Texas oil fields will mean to our people what it should." Railroad Commissioner Thompson won a colonely "over there." In war time he was not a swivel chair battler. He was on the firing line. All of which is a reminder there is no peace except the peace to be found in the graveyard.

Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE

Politics is beginning to get warmed up with the weather. Entrance of another candidate into the race for mayor has complicated a situation that two candidates had considered closed to all but themselves and now the big question is:

"Whose votes is the new candidate going to get?"

Mayor J. T. Berry and Mayor-designing Crigler Paschall put their heads together under the dead vines of the city hall facade yesterday and considered this most question. These two were just squaring off to go at each other hammer and tongs when the afternoon Daily News carried the announcement that Birt Britain, had thrown his No. 7 into the ring and was all ready to set off a few firecrackers of his own.

New the prior contestants must backtrack and set up rearranged fortifications and mud fences. The disadvantages of a triangular race are marked. Where there is but one opponent the candidate can the easier keep him in front, but the entrance of a third party puts him in a dilemma with the possibility always current that while he is attacking in one quarter a hurricane will blow up on his rear.

In other words what was a simple algebraic equation becomes a problem in trigonometry with a lot of sines, co-sines and logarithms to be figured. Man has never gotten along well with triangles, either in wives or politics.

I see by the papers, borrowing Will Rogers approach to a subject, that Marlene Dietrich has created a tempest in a large teacup with her mannish modes. From the amount of printer's ink consumed on this subject one would think that the German actress' innovation gives the lie to sage old Solomon's proverb. Quite to the contrary it justifies the proverb, by demonstrating the fact that all that is new nowadays is simply something old dressed up in new clothes.

The ironical truth of the matter is that Miss Dietrich is only returning to a mode that originated with women. Believe it or not, say the historians, the woman was first to wear the pants. In that ancient day the lord of the house wore dresses. You read in the scriptures where the male, in a pressing emergency, girded up his loins and ran. That is simply a literary way of saying that he shocked the moral element with a leg show.

It is explained that when the woman conceived the idea of trousers the man found himself at a considerable disadvantage in running down a prospective wife and promptly changed modes with her. Any sensible student of human nature will recognize the inconsistency of this explanation. That fact is that the woman, herself, dictated the exchange.

And the same psychological principle will keep Miss Dietrich an exception to the rule.

Until the male of the species degenerates into the dime-sized crab which Arthur Brisbane avows the woman of the future will carry around in her shopping bag, dresses will continue to be the adornment of God's most amazing handiwork.

Freshing economy is going to have more to do with the forthcoming city election than the mere popular demand for a reduction in public expenses. It is resulting in a grave restriction of voting strength. According to report only about 225 citizens paid their poll taxes at the temporary office established here last week in charge of Deputy Tax Collector C. S. Karkalits. Probably no more than that number will pay at the collector's window in Eastland. Thus less than half the voting strength of the city will determine who shall direct the municipal destiny next year.

Speaking of onions there should be plenty of bad breath in Cisco next summer. Crates of the plants are being sold like hot cakes in many stores as the present summery weather arouses a lust for green things and the outdoors. Specs succumbed yesterday. But after two hours of back-bending labor in new ground I fervently prayed that Mr. Johnson would come and get his grass.

plied by the eminent authority of C. R. West.

A wisp of whitish vapor resembling wood smoke, was caught up in miniature tornado high above the residential hill on west Sixth street for several minutes and then withdrew into the oblivion of a perfect sky.

West explained that it was George D. Fee's fever leaving him after he was robbed of $15 by a burglar shortly before Christmas.

If I had West's imagination combined with my discretion how many columns of Specs I could write!

The Presbyterians are setting a horticultural example for the rest of the city. Dr. J. Stewart Pearce, pastor, avows that the church has already set a religious example and having exhausted this field is opening up a new one.

Both the manse and the church are getting new spring modes. Ten pecan trees have been set out at the pastor's home, the lawn filled and terraced and sodded and rose gardens planted. Other botanical improvements have been made. Similarly the lawn of the church is having its face lifted. Unsatisfactory trees on one side have been removed to be replaced with shrubbery. The yard has been terraced and flowers will be planted.

Dr. Pearce confided that he intends to paint the fence at the manse as soon as Mrs. Pearce can find the time.

Polo Star Started On Santone Team

AUSTIN, Jan. 31.—Ceel Smith ranked as second most skillful polo player in the nation, made his start in the game as a member of a San Antonio team known variously as the Austin, or Capitol City Four.

Rube Williams, Texan who has a seven-gold handicap and is almost as good as Smith, was a member of the same team. The group was sponsored by Dudley Miller, former Austin man who thought enough of his home town to call his polo team by its name.

Your Income Tax

No. 2

FORMS FOR MAKING RETURNS

Forms for filing returns of income for 1932 have been sent to persons who filed returns last year. Failure to receive a form, however, does not relieve a taxpayer of his obligation to file his return and pay the tax on time, on or before March 15 if the return is made on the calendar year basis as is the case with most individuals. Lowring of the personal exemption will require many hundreds of thousands of individuals to file returns this year who did not do so in 1932.

Forms may be obtained upon request, written or personal from the offices of collectors of internal revenue and deputy collectors. Persons whose net income for 1932 was derived chiefly from salary or wages and was not in excess of $5,000 should make their returns on Forms 1040A, a single sheet. Persons whose net income was in excess of $5,000, or regardless of amount, was derived from a business, profession, rents or sale of property are required to use a large form, 1040. Failure to use the proper form presents difficulties to both the taxpayer and the Bureau of Internal Revenue. Therefore, it is emphasized that a taxpayer engaged in a business or profession from which he derived a net income of less than $5,000 is required to use the larger form.

The return must be filed with the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the taxpayer has his legal residence or principal place of business on or before midnight of March 15, 1933. The tax may be paid in full at the time of filing the return or in four equal installments due on or before March 15, June 15, September 15, and December 15.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Writer WASHINGTON.—Senator Huey Long's relationship with the progressive group in the Senate is something which has not received adequate attention and will become of increasing interest in succeeding months. The progressives, because of their general tendency to affiliate with Roosevelt, their augmented strength in the next Congress and their sponsorship of various measures which are receiving a favorable hearing in these days of economic stress, may reach a new height of influence. The journalistic habit during the great Huey Long filibuster was to isolate Huey and hold him up to lonely scorn as the infamous fellow who single-handed was holding up the progress of a great nation. Some of the scorn was diverted to Thomas of Oklahoma and Wheeler of Montana, as if they must also be put beyond the pale for associating with the filibuster. THAT picture was inaccurate because the progressives as a group, Republican and Democrat, were giving Huey their moral if not active support. Their emotions were mixed insofar as Huey's tactics were concerned, but they were in general opposition to the branch banking provisions of the Glass bank bill which he so vigorously attacked. And they allowed him to lead the fight without hindrance, most of them admitting privately that he was making a really effective speech. The cream of the progressives—Norris, Borah, Costigan, LaFollette and Cutting—voted against the cloture which would have shut down on Huey. The fact that some

Well, I can't tell you much of anything about what is in Chesterfields

BUT I smoke a good deal, and I noticed that they said that Chesterfield Cigarettes were milder and tasted better; so I smoked a package or two and found it to be true.

I also noticed that the cigarettes were well-filled, seemed to be the right length and the right circumference, and burned uniformly—not up one side and down the other.

I liked the aroma—very pleasing. I liked the appearance of the cigarette—the paper, dead white. The package rather appealed to me.

I don't know exactly what it is, but I just like 'em. It's about the only luxury that I enjoy; so I think it's all right for me to have a good cigarette, and I believe Chesterfield is just about the best.

Sheila searches for work and finally secures a part in a musical show soon to go on tour. DICK STANLEY, rich and socially prominent, asks her to give up this job and marry him but Sheila refuses. Her idea of marriage is a home in some little town far from Broadway. Sheila is friendly with JIM BLAINE, another actor in the company from which she was discharged. When Jim offends Miss Randolph quite unintentionally she asks CRAIG ABBOTT, who is backing the show financially, to discharge Jim. Abbott, tired of Marion's demands and tired of her also, goes to see Jim and through him secures an introduction to Sheila. A few days later Jim calls Sheila and tells her Marion is in the company from which she was discharged. A messenger comes to Sheila's boarding house bringing her a huge basket of red geraniums. "What are you going to do with these flowers?" Ma asked Sheila. "I don't know. Send them to a hospital, maybe. Wear some—"
