Pledges of Cooperation Still Pouring Into White House

AID PROMISED BY THOUSANDS OF MESSAGES

WASHINGTON, July 25.—Pledges of allegiance approaching wartime fervor poured in the government today as Americans answered President Roosevelt's call for a united and immediate offensive to conquer the enemy depression.

"It will be done," was the slogan of thousands of messages which streamed to the white house in response to President Roosevelt's appeal to all employers to sign an agreement fixing fair and uniform wages for all and spreading employment by shortening working hours.

The president barely had finished speaking last night before the telegraph wires into Washington were jammed with messages pledging support of big corporations, small business men and consumers.

An official of one telegraph company estimated the number of messages for Mr. Roosevelt would reach 10,000 by early this morning. His company held three times the usual number of employees to handle the stream of responses.

He said he could recall no such response to a presidential appeal since Woodrow Wilson in 1917 summoned the nation to a different kind of war.

Death Penalty to Be Asked for Kidnapers

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 25.—The fate of Walter H. McGee, confessed leader of the gang that kidnaped Mary McElroy, will rest in the hands of 12 men, six of them fathers, and ten of them married.

Upon completion of the jury today the state in its opening statement formally announced the death penalty would be asked for the kidnapers of the girl who is the daughter of City Manager McElroy.

BAKER CHARGES LEASE SYSTEM HAS LOOPHOLE

WASHINGTON, July 25.—Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, charged at the oil code hearing today that under the proposed code for the industry large oil companies would be enabled through the "lease and agency" system to escape the minimum wage and maximum hours provisions.

Baker represented the Pennsylvania Grade Crude Oil association at the hearing, which industrial recovery administration officials hoped may be concluded today so that code proceedings may be speeded up.

Baker asserted the system whereby by big oil companies lease independent stations is being used to "dry up" crude oil outlets. He said an investigation by the Pennsylvania Grade Crude Oil association have been reduced sharply in number since 1911.

ONLY FEDERAL GOV'T CAN END RACKETEERING

Editor's Note: This is the last of a series on the status of racketeering in America today.

By C. C. NICOLET
United Press Staff Correspondent
Copyright, 1933, by the United Press

The power of the United States government, and that power alone, can end the rule of the racketeers over the chief cities of America.

Under the "New Deal" of the Roosevelt administration, this fact has been recognized for the first time. Haphazard income tax prosecutions and occasional federal interference along other lines have made slight progress in the fight to protect American business men or workers from extortionists. The United Press, in its survey of racket conditions, has disclosed a strong preponderance of opinion among responsible officials that federal aid is vital.

Laying Groundwork.

Today the federal government is laying the groundwork for war to the death against the gangs.

The federal attack comes from three directions:

1. The Copeland senate committee on racketeering, whose object is to draft new laws to give greater federal jurisdiction.
2. The department of justice, cooperating with the Copeland committee, and exercising greater activity than heretofore in racket investigations.
3. The national industrial recovery act, which gives industry the right, in its codes of operation, to adopt restrictions which will make racketeering against business or labor a federal offense.

Senator Royal S. Copeland, (Dem., N. Y.), chairman, and his fellow committeemen, Senator Arthur Vandenberg, (Repn., Mich.), and Senator Louis Murphy, (Dem., Iowa), will open hearings, probably in August, which they hope will lead the way to drastic federal laws regulating rackets.

Assembling Evidence.

Col. Franklin S. Hutchinson, special adviser to the committee, already is plunged deep into the task of assembling evidence for the committee. Senators Vandenberg and Murphy, working independently, are collecting data in their own regions.

Colonel Hutchinson is engaged now in a task similar to that of a prosecutor assembling data for a grand jury investigation. When hearings open, he will offer his case—and from the evidence, the committee will have the task of drafting laws to give the government more direct power over racketeers.

The entire staff of the department of justice bureau of investigation is at the disposal of Colonel Hutchinson and the senate committee. In New York alone 80 investigators are available; in the nation as a whole the number runs to nearly 400.

Colonel Hutchinson's job will be

Balbo Leads Air Fleet Homeward

NEW YORK, July 25.—Gen. Italo Balbo, Italy's air minister, today led his fleet of 24 war planes out of New York, homeward bound after the most spectacular mass flight in history.

The first of the planes rose from the waters at 10 a. m. EDT, followed in rapid succession by the remainder of the squadron and headed due north for Shediac, N. B., the first port of call on the return voyage to Italy.

CISCO PARTY RETURNS FROM LENGTHY TRIP

Back from a 5,000-mile automobile jaunt that carried them through 17 states and into one foreign country a Cisco party of six today recalls two weeks of a thoroughly enjoyable outing that, except for one or two days, was blessed with pleasant weather, no mishaps and the good fortune of seeing sights of international magnitude.

The party was composed of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Bearman, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Dyer and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. LaRoque. The six arrived last night on their return from a tour that took them to St. Louis and the convention of Lions International; to Chicago and the Century of Progress exposition; to Detroit, Mich.; thence through the Canadian province of Ontario to Niagara Falls; down the Hudson river with its fairland of wealthy country estates, including Hyde Park, the home of President Roosevelt; to New York city, and then homeward through Washington, D. C., the Shenandoah valley and many other spots of scenic and historical interest.

Among the spectacles permitted the party was the landing of Gen. Italo Balbo's fleet of 24 Italian seaplanes at Chicago. As a coincidence the route of the sight-seers and that of the Italian aerial ambassador of goodwill almost coincided.

"We didn't follow Balbo," Mr. LaRoque explained. "He followed us."

They were at New York when Balbo arrived there and at Washington when the Italian minister of aviation came to pay his respects to the administration.

Mr. LaRoque said that he will write an account of the trip in some detail within the next few days.

WILL ATTEMPT TO CONTACT OIL MAN'S CAPTORS

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 25.—Arthur Feilgson arrived today after a hurried trip from the east to assume the task of contacting the kidnapers of his close friend and business associate, Charles F. Urschel.

The family hoped that Feilgson would be able to make a speedy contact with the kidnap gang that has held the multi-millionaire oil man for 60 hours. No word from the abductors had been received at the time Feilgson arrived here about noon.

Feilgson rushed here from Henderson, North Carolina. All investigation and guard was suspended to give the gangsters opportunity to present a ransom demand.

Barrow Gang IS LINKED WITH K. C. MASSACRE

WICHITA, Kans., July 25.—Department of justice agents at Kansas City today telephoned local authorities that a trio believed to be the Barrow gang passed through Junction City, Kans., apparently headed for Wichita.

DES MOINES, Ia., July 25.—The notorious Barrow brothers gang sought in northwest Iowa today were tentatively linked with the massacre of federal officers and a prisoner at the Kansas City, Mo., union station several weeks ago.

Ballistic tests to ascertain whether guns left behind yesterday at Dexter, Ia., by three retreating members of the Barrow outlaws and confiscated by authorities were those used in the sensational Kansas City shooting were being made today. The weapons included two machine guns.

O. C. Dewey, department of justice agent, announced he believed the Barrow brothers were participants in the massacre.

Meanwhile a heavy guard was thrown along the northern borders of Iowa today in belief that escaping members of the gang who shot their way through a posse yesterday were headed for Minnesota or North Dakota.

THIEVES LOOT BOATHOUSE OF SEVEN MOTORS

Theft, which has been one of the most serious factors with which local sportsmen trying to develop Lake Cisco as a fishing, hunting and boating resort have had to contend, last night assumed wholesale proportions.

Burglars entering the boathouse just behind the Cisco Country club, stole no less than seven outboard motors of varying value and hauled off the loot in a boat belonging to Dr. E. L. Graham.

Bob McCrary, lake patrolman, this morning found the boat dragged up on the shore at a point near where the old Bolan road is submerged. All evidences were, he said, that the thieves had stolen the motors, placed them in the boat and ran to the point where the loot was transferred to a waiting truck.

May Have Had Keys.

The thieves apparently began at the southeast end of the boathouse pillaging such stalls as they could enter until they had a load for their stolen boat. Entrance to the stalls seemed to have been gained either by diving under the lakeward doors or by opening locks on doors from the runways. So easily did they seem to effect entrance that officers and boat owners suspicion they had skeleton keys to some of the locks. Owners of boats in the smaller stalls were the heaviest sufferers, only one or two stalls in the larger house appearing to have been entered.

Among those who lost motors were:

W. J. (Curly) Armstrong, both of whose motors were taken.

S. B. Wright, fish hatchery superintendent, one motor.

J. L. McMurray, one motor.

George Irvine, one motor.

The thieves were first discovered when George Irvine, Jr., going to the lake for an early morning fishing trip, found his father's motor missing.

Sub-Committee Is Framing Bond Plan

A sub-committee of the citizens committee of ten which was named to assist the city commission in attempting to reach a settlement of Cisco's municipal bonded debt question, was in session this afternoon to frame recommendations of the larger group into a definite proposal for the action of the commission.

The sub-committee of three, consisting of Judge D. K. Scott, C. H. Fee, chairman of the committee of ten, and W. H. LaRoque, was named after the larger group meeting three weeks ago approved a proposition in general outline. It was directed to draw up a definite statement of the proposition.

Cisco Census Roll Approved, Wire Says

A telegram received by Supt. R. N. Cluck, of the Cisco public schools, from John Olsen, Austin, state census supervisor, this morning announced that the Cisco Independent School district census roll for 1933-34 has been approved.

The wire was in response to a query by the census superintendent who wanted the information so that he could begin preparation of next year's school budget as required by state department. The county roll has not been officially announced.

The Cisco roll for the ensuing year is more numerous by more than 100 scholars than last year's roll. It numbers 1,406 names as compared to 1,290 for last season. It is significant, Mr. Cluck pointed out, that the number of children actually attending school here last year was considerably in excess of the number on the census roll.

In connection with this statement, the superintendent announced that July 15 is the month for transfers of students from districts in which they have completed courses offered to districts which offer higher courses, as well as for transfers in the lower grades.

He said that all students from out of the Cisco district who come to Cisco high school for the term 1933-34 will be required to obtain transfers, otherwise they must pay tuition for the first two months of the term. The state will pay the remainder of the tuition. By obtaining transfers, however, the student may attend the Cisco school with all tuition charges paid by the state roll which will debit the expense to the district from which the transfer is made.

Those desiring transfers will find transfer blanks available at the school business office on the fourth floor of the Cisco Banking company building, he said.

Economist Interprets President's Note As Shift of Opinion on Currency Issue

AUSTIN, July 25.—From the president's last note to the London economic conference and his subsequent appointment of Professors Warren and Rogers to the so-called "brain trust," it would seem that he has shifted his position somewhat as to a sound currency for the nation, in the opinion of Dr. J. C. Dole, University of Texas economist.

"Instead of a managed currency program, the president has been leaning toward a stabilized dollar as a standard of value," Dr. Dole said in his monthly analysis of the financial situation for the Texas Business Review. "The former plan does not necessarily involve a return to the gold standard; the latter, however, does." To all except a select few, the idea of a stabilized or "rubber" dollar appears to be wholly impracticable. If the plan could be put into operation and the dollar prices of goods and services could be completely stabilized, it would work a radical revolution in the business methods of the country as our business life is largely based upon fluctuating prices.

"The condition of the commercial banking system, with the exception of a sharp decline in deposit balances, has continued to improve throughout the month. Largely as a result of the continued return of currency from circulation, the net decline from July 7 to July 12 amounting to $100,000,000, the free reserve balances of member banks have grown to an estimated $450,000,000. As a result, interest rates in the short term money market continue to rule at exceptionally low levels. Reserve bank open market buying during recent weeks has been negligible in amount and has been more than offset by open market sales and reduction in member bank indebtedness to the reserve system.

"Commercial bank lending has expanded slightly during the month, data on the reporting member banks showing for the period June 7 to July 5 a gain of $19,000,000 in total loans and of $782,000,000 in total investments. Net demand deposits of the reporting banks, however, showed a sharp decline over the same period as a result of putting the Glass-Steagall banking bill into operation. One clause of this bill forbids member banks to pay any interest on demand deposit balances, and, as a result, owners of large checking accounts have been withdrawing these balances and, presumably, investing them in income producing securities. The net decline in reporting bank demand deposits from June 7 to July 5 amounted to $341,000,000.

Figures Encouraging.

The latest figures on banks yet closed following the natural bank holiday are encouraging. Up to May 31, approximately 93 per cent of the total deposits of the federal reserve member banks had been released via treasury license. Of the 6,699 members of the federal reserve system on December 31, 1932, 5,536 had been permitted to reopen up to May 31. Incidentally, the Dallas reserve district had made the best showing in this respect, 536 of the 565 member banks having reopened, thus releasing 99.3 per cent of the total member bank deposits.

Data on the reporting member banks in the eleventh district indicate a material pick up in business activity and a substantial improvement in liquidity. Total debits to individual accounts increased from

320 MILLIONS LOSS CHARGED TO UNFAIRNESS

WASHINGTON, July 25.—Att. Gen. James V. Allred, of Texas, said here today he intended to investigate crude oil discriminations in Texas which he asserted have resulted in loss to the west Texas oil fields of approximately $320,000,000.

Allred said the loss to the west Texas fields was a result of the opening of the east Texas oil field, with price decreases as high as 40 per cent.

He said he intended to propose to Industrial Administrator Hugh Johnson that the oil industry code contain a provision preventing oil price discrimination in Texas and placing oil prices on a parity with the proviso that prices may differ where there is a fair differential in transportation cost.

GRAIN MARKETS RECOVER FROM RECENT SLUMP

CHICAGO, July 25.—Grain prices shook off the heavy burden of forced liquidation which has hung over them since the terrific collapse of last week and climbed higher on the Chicago board of trade today.

Even corn, which hung all day to the minimum price allowed by the board of trade directors showed sparks of life today and advanced 3-4 to 2 1-8 cents above the bottom. Wheat was up 1-4 to 1 5-8 cents a bushel.

REFORMS OFFERED BY TRADE LEADERS

WASHINGTON, July 25.—Grain trade leaders, threatened with government control, today proposed to the agriculture adjustment administration a series of permanent reforms that they will seek to write into the body of trade rules on an effort to prevent future speculative runaways.

The proposals are said to have the approval of the administration. The reforms included:

1. Removal of the present restriction on grain price fluctuations with substitute limits imposed of five cents per bushel for wheat, four cents for corn and three cents for oats.
2. Provisions for future permanent limitations on daily price fluctuations.
3. Limitation of open lines of speculative commitments.
4. Permanent elimination of indemnity trading.

FLOOD THREATS FOLLOW RAIN IN EAST TEXAS

(By United Press)

Floods threatened widespread sections of Texas today and in adjoining Louisiana torrents of rain threatened to wash out highway bridges and railroad trestles. The property damage was conservatively estimated at more than $250,000.

The storm center appeared south-eastward from Shelby county, Texas, about Shreveport and adjoining communities.

The United States weather bureau report said the rainfall at Shreveport for the past 48 hours was 18.08 inches.

Center, county seat of Shelby county, had an unofficial recording of 20 inches of rain in the past 48 hours. Highways were under water and railroad trains had been halted because of undermined trestles in the vicinity.

MONEY TO COUNTY FARMERS.

Contracts signed by Eastland county farmers to plow up a portion of the 1933 cotton crop under the federal government's cotton reduction program will mean outright cash payment of $62,000 to these farmers...

As E. H. Varnell, local vocational instructor and an inspector for the government in the campaign, has pointed out, the government's crop reduction program has much more significance than the mere prospect of cutting down this year's cotton crop.

THE TEST OF THE PROGRAM.

Responses to President Roosevelt's plea for cooperation in his voluntary program for shortening hours and raising wages poured into the white house after the president's dramatic appeal to the nation last night.

Public opinion and conscience are the only weapons that will be used in this campaign to increase the national purchasing power and revive prosperity.

THE TRAVEL CRAZE.

Depression stringencies do not appear to have stifled the migratory urge of the American public this summer. The number of tourists who daily pass through Cisco is comparable with the numbers of more prosperous years.

There is a mode of travel for every personal inclination or purse. And the public seems to be taking advantage of the fact with a gusto.

It does our particular half of the world extremely much good to see how the other half lives. The penalty of too close application to private affairs is a growth of narrowness and prejudices that hamper even our normal everyday relationships.

Gold and Silver Played Part Near End of Cisco Mine History

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third of a series of articles dealing with the early mines about Cisco.

By FRANK LANGSTON

Several franks combined to end the mining hopes at Cisco. The greatest of these was the opening of the coal mines at Strawn and Thurber.

At the same time, the Cisco mines were some distance from town and roads had to be built to haul the coal and supplies. In rainy weather these roads were almost impassable to the wagons of the day.

One last effort was made at coal mining. The Kleiner boys opened a mine on their land a few miles east of the burning coal dump. They did not attempt to make a great commercial enterprise of it but were content to work it themselves and sell the coal for fuel in the town.

The Kleiner mine was for a long time the only one open, but it also has had a great deal of a few years ago a party of high school students visited the mine and followed the winding tunnel back into the hill.

All about the town one may still see the remains of test tunnels going back into the hills. Many of them were never extended more than twenty or thirty feet. Others were started but abandoned when it was found that the vein could be approached better a little farther on.

Not all of the mining about Cisco has been for coal. At various times different persons have stirred the imagination of the population by declaring that they had discovered gold, silver, or diamonds.

There was a man named J. E. Luse, according to a story, who prospected all through the vicinity, strongly believing that some day it would be discovered that the country is rich in mineral resources.

took him very seriously, but he went ahead believing what he chose. He finally had his consolation, if any, however, in proving that he knew more about it than his contemporaries did.

Luse was interested chiefly in the precious metals and claimed to have discovered a gold vein. Whether he actually had something worthwhile or not no one knew, for he took his secret with him when he died.

He got his equipment together as quickly as possible and began work. Things went well for a while and then the ore got scarcer. Finally it played out altogether and he had to abandon the mine.

By GEORGE
Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald, whose editorial articles appear as a regular feature of the Daily News editorial page, pays tribute to Thomas L. Blanton, congressman from the 17th district...

He writes, speaking of the program for a barbecue at Austin attended by Blanton: "Col. Thomas L. Blanton, the fighting congressman of Abilene, will attend the barbecue and reception. Two new counties have been passed on to the Buchanan district...

"Thomas Lynn Blanton is certain to be given a warm reception. He is one of the most remarkable men in the political life of Texas. Age has melted him. During the exciting special session of congress he voted for every administration proposal except the liquor proposal.

"Just before closing day of the special session the cockles of his heart may have been warmed when democratic leaders from Massachusetts and New York and other commonwealths who had been his severe critics on certain occasions publicly thanked the Texan for his splendid services for war veterans... and for his sturdy defense of the constitution and its bill of rights. He has a fixed place in the picture of today and unless the signs are misleading he will be continued in the public service as long as he cares to offer as a candidate for a congressional post."

Well, you've got to hand it to Thomas L. Some don't like him. But some don't like you and me. No fighter ever came out of the ring with the love and affection of all the spectators...

But the fact remains that Blanton knows what he wants and he goes after it without waiting on whatever is in the way. He has spent a long time in the public service and any congressman or other public official who has survived the vicissitudes that have attended his course with the hold that he still maintains on the public is entitled to my and your respect no matter whether we agree with all that he believes or does.

St. Peter Honored During Holy Year

VATICAN CITY, July 25 - Holy Year will be commemorated in a special way in the basilica of St. Peter's by the completion of a mosaic inscription recalling the life and sayings of St. Peter, which was begun in 1867, but never finished.

In 1867, on the occasion of the centenary of St. Peter, the inscription was placed under the cornice of the apse and in part of the cross-shaped aisles. The band of mosaic carrying the inscriptions is nearly seven feet wide and runs around the church for 2,400 feet.

The work will be carried out by the Vatican School of Masonic Work by the end of Holy Year.

BARGAIN BRIDIE by KATHARINE HAVILAND-TAYLOR

BEGIN HERE TODAY
ELINOR STAFFORD falls in love with BARRETT COLVIN. She is 20 and he is 35. LIDA STAFFORD, Elinor's jealous, scheming mother, breaks up the romance by convincing Barrett that Elinor is a heartless girl.

The marriage takes place. Barrett, still believing the lies Lida had told him, finds himself now in love with Elinor than ever. The doctor orders a change of climate for her father and Elinor goes to Aiken with him.

Years before Barrett shielded his half-sister, MARGA RAYBURN, when a youthful comrade ended disastrously. Marcia had a son whom Barrett adopted. He has promised Marcia never to reveal the boy's story.

Barrett makes an unannounced trip to Aiken. He finds BOB TELFARE there and suspects Elinor of carrying on a flirtation with Bob. In an angry scene he tells her that he knows all about her affairs.

"But you'll find I can!" he promised. Why, he asked himself, had he expected the impossible from her? There were no women who did not, in some way, let men down. Marcia had and so had her fiery, sullen mother.

"I haven't anyone now," she said clearly. "You have me so long as there is anything I can do for you," he assured her.

"Darling!" he whispered. "Darling!" A half hour later Miss Hemmingway entered the room after Barrett's "Come!" answered her knock.

started. Elinor, wrapped in blankets, was in his arms. She had been crying. Miss Hemmingway saw with relief. That reaction was normal and reassuring. The girl had seemed too unnaturally contained.

HE stroked her hair with a hand that had grown unsteady, bent his head until his cheek touched her cheek that was hot from tears.

"I was a chance to make you care for me without feeling ashamed."

"What I want most from life now is to take care of you. Nothing else matters to me."

"You sat here—all night?" she asked in a whisper. He closed his eyes. Her hand moving on his arm!

"Remember what I said. It need not bother you," he heard himself assure her, his voice a little roughened.

"I love you," she said hesitatingly. "But I loved you before and it did nothing—but hurt me."

"Yes," she answered. She had drawn away from him. "I do love you," she said, "but give me time, I'm afraid! I'm afraid of love!"

Refreshed by a cold tub, Barrett dressed. He felt a contentment he had not known for weeks. Of course he was deeply sympathetic with Elinor in her suffering but he had the knowledge that throughout the ordeal he had kept his head.

He breakfasted, wandered out of the house and a short half hour later she joined him. She looked worn and spent. He wrapped her in rugs and tucked her into a deck chair on the terrace, her back toward the hushed, gloomy house.

Her hand sought his and rested there. "Mother is coming by plane," he heard her say. Barrett's brows drew close. For some reason beyond his dislike for her he dreaded Lida Stafford's coming.

Did You Ever Stop to Think? By EDSON R. WAITE Shawnee, Oklahoma.

A famous writer once expressed a desire for the gift which would permit us to see ourselves as others see us. Fortunately or unfortunately, as the case may be, such a gift has not been given us.

Some professors seem to think that the machine has become stronger than its creator, while others think the human race has been conquered by its handiwork and that the people, instead of enjoying the work done by their slave, the machine, should endeavor to restrain the production of wealth.

A number of politicians who have dared the pitfalls of guessing at future happenings will emerge with badly bruised reputations as prophets.

Not long ago the people of Spain banished their king and set up a republic. Apparently they are less certain today of the wisdom of that move. Some of them seem to think that a king is not such an expensive figure-head after all.

DUTCH DIVERS SEEK BRITISH TREASURE SHIP

By LAMAR MIDDLETON United Press Staff Correspondent PARIS, July 25.—Fourth-coming efforts by a Dutch syndicate to raise the British flagship "La Luine," entombed 134 years in North Sea shallows off the island of Ter Schelling, have revived French interests in its treasure, reputedly $6,000,000 in gold ingots.

The plan in general provides for the lowering of this cone immediately over or beside the wreck, which has already been located by magnetic means.

ROMANCE

YOU often hear people refer regretfully to the "dear old days of romance"—to the time when the knight-errant roamed the earth to do honor to his lady's eyes.

These folks complain that we are living in an age of realism! An age of realism? Why, this is the most romantic of all ages!

An age where the human voice is hurled across the world without wires; where the temperature of Mars is taken more than thirty millions of miles away; where tons of steel carrying precious human lives ride easily and safely through the air or under the sea!

The advertising columns of this paper are full of this modern romance—stories of things produced by men who have devoted their lives to bringing new comforts, conveniences and pleasures to mankind.

Advertisements tell of these achievements not with the exaggeration of a jongleur, but with calm, simple words of sincerity. Here is a firm that has spent a million dollars to develop a product that makes your baby more comfortable. Here is a company that has labored fifty years to cut a single hour of toil from your day's work. Here is a man who has searched the Seven Seas to produce a new flavor for your dinner.

Romance? This age is full of it! Read the advertisements. They tell you what the magicians of industry are doing for you.

Can't Eat Can't Sleep Can't Work

When your appetite has fled and you're so tired and nervous you can't even work, much less sleep, it's a sign you're rundown. It may be due to overwork, worry or sickness, but whatever it is, your condition calls for a good tonic.

"ASH CANS" WILL RACE

WASHINGTON, O., July 25.—There will be no sleek streamlined, high-powered cars in the feature race of the Fayette County fair here August 18. Instead, the race will be an "ash can derby" in which crazily dressed drivers will operate dilapidated cars for a $50 prize.

Mary Moped When Doug Missed First Dinner With Her to Join the Masons

By ALANSON EDWARDS United Press Staff Correspondent HOLLYWOOD, July 25.—Pickfair the $400,000 mansion where screenland first went high, is for sale.

more. Both made the kind of pictures they always had wanted to make. Mary produced "Annie Rooney," "Daddy Long Legs" and others of the sweet girl type that made her the most famous actress in Hollywood's history.

Inseparable Marriage did not alter the almost childlike devotion of Fairbanks and his film queen bride.

But making movies is only the start, as the lovers soon learned. Once a picture is finished it must be exhibited if it is to return a profit.

Doug joined the Masons in the sixth year of the great romance. The initiation required him to be at the lodge rooms for dinner. Mary moped all day and couldn't touch her food.

In Mary's pictures there was little kissing. They were not that type. Doug, though, was called upon for many a passionate embrace with his various leading women, such as Billy Dove and Marguerite de la Motte.

While Pickfair was abuilding the master and mistress were busy with their professional fortunes. Both had long cherished a desire to form their own producing companies.

There clinging embraces, the "hot ones," always were made on Sundays. That was Mary's free day. The pictures always showed Doug doing his stuff while the leading lady turned her back to the camera.

Charlie Chaplin and Gloria Swanson came in with them and United Artists corporation was organized. Of all the great stars, who have left lucrative contracts to make their own pictures, the United Artists four were among the very, very few who succeeded.

Because the leading lady, in in those scenes, was Mary Pickford.

Possibly this very love of their work, and the heady incense of success, made them succeed all the completed when he arranges his "grand jury" case. There is no opportunity, now, for him and his investigators to produce and leave it to the senate to find the means of making use of that evidence to fight the rackets.

Control Shipments. One of the prime recommendations of the senators will be a law regulating the interstate shipments of fire-arms. This has long been a favorite goal of Senator Copeland.

While the committee evidence is being prepared, the department of justice under Attorney General Hugh S. Cummings already has stepped into the racket situation with both feet. Joseph B. Keenan, of Cleveland, has been made a special assistant attorney general in charge of anti-racketeering activities.

One of the first steps taken after Keenan's appointment was to open an inquiry into the New York dock rackets, with special Assistant Attorney General John H. Amen in charge. Waterfront racketeers are reported to collect $25,000,000 yearly from shippers and dock operators.

The department of justice has been active in investigating the O'Connell kidnaping case in Albany, N. Y., but there its hands are tied by the limitations of federal laws. The United States has real power only when the violation of a kidnaping is taken across a state line. Then the "Lindbergh laws" comes into play.

The best opportunity the government has of assuming a really important position in the racket war, most legal observers believe, comes under the national industrial recovery act. Once an industry adopts a code of conduct approved by the president, any violation of the code becomes a violation of federal law for the period of the national emergency. Some minor industries—for example, the federation of kosher butchers of New York—already have adopted tentative codes with definite anti-racketeering clauses.

Similar clauses in other codes would give the department of justice almost unlimited power to prosecute racketeers, according to legal observers.

Cisco Kid Blasts Out Second KO Win

RANGER, July 25.—Johnny Lindsey, the 19-year old Cisco Kid, established himself firmly as a two-fisted fighter when he battered Jack Philpott of New Mexico to the canvas to stay in the second round of their scheduled six-round fight here last night. Lindsey began blasting away at his opponent as the match opened and scored several knock-downs before his opponent was counted out. At the end of the fight the Kid seemed hardly warmed-up.

The crowd appeared to be surprised at the burst of power Lindsey displayed. He had been considered a good man but was not believed to have dynamite punches such as he used on Philpott. His showing drew a challenge from Woody Windham, Anson battler. This was Lindsey's second knockout in two fights here.

NEGRO YOUTH IS SUSPECT IN PAIR'S SLAYING

PORT WORTH, July 25.—Police today sought an 18-year-old negro youth as a suspect in the slaying of A. S. Michael, 33, of Ft. Worth, and his companion, Miss Geneva Cantrell, 19, of Oklahoma.

Footprints at the scene where the bodies were found yesterday on a Northside street indicated the slayer limped.

Negro acquaintances of the negro sought said the youth limped and that he placed only the heel of his right foot on the ground.

Meanwhile funeral services for Michael were held today at the home of his sister, Mrs. Floyd Ellis, of Cleburne. He will be buried in Rice, Texas.

The negro sought in the slaying owns a .32 calibre pistol, his friends said, the same size pistol that was used in the double murder.
