Harriman, Indicted Banker, Found Alive in Long Island

ESCAPE WAS FEARED TO BE SUICIDE MOVE

NEW YORK, May 20.—Joseph W. Harriman, indicted banker who escaped from nurses into the roaring streets of the mid-town business section yesterday, was found alive today at the Old Orchard Inn, Roslyn, L. I., police announced.

He is charged with making false entries in the books of the closed Harriman National bank.

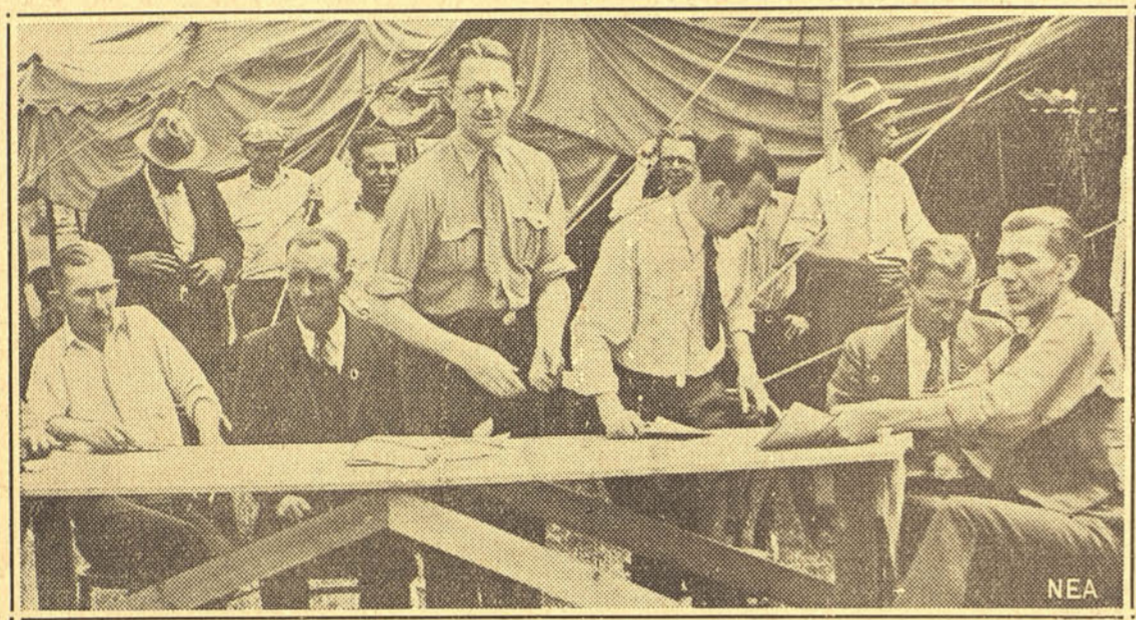

Although evidence had indicated Harriman, 61, and discouraged member of one of America's great financial families, had contemplated suicide, police and federal agents had spread a net to prevent flight.

At first when it was learned five notes intimating suicide had been left behind by Harriman, it was taken for granted he had gone to die. Later federal authorities learned that when he disappeared he went to a barber shop and had his grey hair clipped as actors sometimes do when their roles require wigs.

Harriman's attorneys made the first announcement of his disappearance yesterday and asked the police to broadcast an alarm for him. They had refused to disclose the contents of letters he is supposed to have left in a drawer in his room.

Harriman is scheduled to go before Federal Judge H. W. Goddard next Monday. His case, however, will necessarily be postponed because of the trial of Charles E. Mitchell, former head of the National City bank, accused of income tax fraud will be under way.

Bonus Army Leaders Make Truce at Peace Table

WIRE WALKER THRILLS CROWD WITH DARING

Bunny Dryden, The Great Lafayette of high wire fame, more than made good his promise to Cisconians assembled below yesterday when he walked a wire stretched between the tops of the Garner and the Odd Fellows buildings, carrying Miss Geneva Scott as a passenger.

Miss Scott had never before attempted to cross a high wire on the shoulders of a performer, but summoned the necessary amount of determination and she and Dryden made a perfect trip. Miss Scott is a teacher in the Rising Star school. She was due to make a second crossing late Saturday afternoon, at which time Dryden would walk blindfolded.

True to Dryden's prediction, the stunts that are the easiest draw the greatest amount of applause from the crowd. There was little applause for his one arm handstand and his one arm spin, but a great deal for some of the simpler tricks. Perhaps the stunt that drew the most attention was his balancing on a chair placed on the low wire and his somersaults. The crowd liked his balancing stunt on the edge of the building, in which he stood on his head and moved forward by a series of jumps.

The Great Lafayette, who is only 21 years old, has been training constantly for the last 13 years. "During this time he has toured the United States and Europe with his high wire acts. He has been associated with most of the well known circuses and vaudeville circuits and has been invited to appear at the Chicago World's Fair as one of the originals of Ripley's "Believe It Or Not," oddities.

Dryden works out daily, walking, running, and dancing on the wire, as well as balancing on it in many positions and doing other stunts requiring great mental and muscular coordination. He has been invited to perform at high schools because he trains constantly and does not use either alcohol or tobacco. He has been at his home in Rising Star, recovering from an injured ankle lately.

Dryden is due to go on both the high and the low wires this afternoon at 5 o'clock. He varies his performances so that he may draw the same crowd to different ones.

STOLEN CAR FOUND AFTER GUN BATTLE

A model A Ford sedan, belonging to S. H. Nance, of the Nance Motor company, figured late Friday night in a running gun battle between two Eastland night police and two thieves apprehended in the act of robbing an Eastland filling station.

The car, with two bullet holes in the body, was recovered ditched with one tire flat on the Carbon highway half a mile south of Eastland. It had been stolen from before Mr. Nance's home last Tuesday night. A daughter of Mr. Nance, Miss Merl apprehended the thief in the act of driving away in the car and chased him five blocks in another.

The gun battle took place at Eastland between 10 and 11 o'clock Friday night after a Mexican woman had seen two men carrying automobile casings from the rear of a filling station and reported to officers. Two night patrolmen drove to the scene immediately and discovered the thieves driving away. They gave chase and a lively gun battle ensued as the robbers fled south on Seaman avenue. One bullet from the officers' guns pierced the rear of the car in which the thieves were riding. Another fired by one of the robbers as he leaned through the door, lodged in the side.

The officers abandoned the chase for re-enforcements and returning found the machine ditched and the occupants gone. The rear of the tonneau was filled with 19 casings taken from the service station.

Fatrons and Cisco women in general are invited to interview the representative while she is stationed at the store. She will be able to give valuable advice in connection with the care of hosiery and underwear.

Industry Protests Gas Tax Increase

WASHINGTON, May 20.—The American oil industry today vigorously protested the proposed three-fourths of a cent increase in the federal gasoline tax.

Spokesman F. B. Dow, appearing at hearings before the house ways and means committee, advocated substitution of a general sales tax for revenue needed to finance President Roosevelt's $3,300,000,000 public works program.

House leaders expressed the opinion today the ways and means committee will not approve a general manufacturers sales tax. Speaker Rainey said he believed the group was favorable to increases in the normal income tax rates.

Lindbergh Observes Anniversary Quietly

Lindbergh planned no special observance today of the anniversary.

WHO'LL ENFORCE TEXAS DRY LAWS?—VIEWS IN CONFLICT

(By United Press)

Beer, easily available in most cities of bone-dry Texas, today aroused wet and dry forces of the state to new antagonism.

Meanwhile federal, state and local authorities expressed conflicting views as to the responsibility for enforcing the Texas prohibition law.

Dry forces appealed to President Roosevelt and Sen. Morris Sheppard, co-author of the 18th amendment, in an effort to stem a wet tide manifested by a flood of applications for federal licenses to retail the new 3.2 beer.

Indications from the state capitol were that state rangers would not be employed against sellers of 3.2 beer and that enforcement of the Texas Dean law would be left to local authorities.

Local authorities, however, adopted differing policies. San Antonio anticipated "wide-open" sale of beer when county and city officers said they would not bring and prosecute charges against beer vendors.

Meanwhile reports of open sale of 3.2 beer came from various cities. Wichita Falls reported beer brewed in New Orleans was selling freely for 50 cents a bottle. At El Paso beer brewed at St. Joseph, Mo., was offering strong competition to the Mexican beer sold across the border at Juarez.

Perhaps the most liberal attitude prevailed in Galveston. There the distribution system reached such efficiency that hotel guests could telephone "room service" and have beer sent to their rooms.

Leading the dry forces against the wide-spread sale of beer was Mrs. J. M. Glass, president of the San Antonio chapter of the W. C. T. U.

Both sides today prepared for battle of ballots August 26 when the voters will express their will on legalization of 3.2 per cent beer in Texas and ratification of the federal prohibition repeal amendment.

QUICK ACTION ON OIL BILL URGED BY FDR

WASHINGTON, May 20.—President Roosevelt today requested committees of the house and senate to give immediate attention to legislation affecting control of oil production.

The president transmitted his views to congress in a letter addressed to the vice-president and the speaker of the house.

The administration's oil bill was introduced yesterday.

"As the congress is doubtless aware a serious situation confronts the oil industry," Mr. Roosevelt said. "Because oil taken from the ground is a natural resource which, once used, cannot be replaced, it is of interest to the nation that its production should be under reasonable control for the best interest of the present and the future generation."

EAST TEXAS WELL PRESSURE DECLINES

(By United Press)

Steadily declining bottom-hole pressure in the mammoth east-Texas oil field is bringing employment to thousands of workers reports disclosed today.

The fact that pressure is diminishing was told from two sources.

The current issue of the Oil and Gas Journal predicted that by May 30 hundreds of the 10,000 wells in east Texas will be on the beam.

A Longview report said that pressure has dropped an average of four and a half pounds daily. A survey revealed that nearly 3,000 men have been employed during the past ten days in installing pumping equipment.

JUNIORS ACT AS HOSTS TO SENIOR CLASS

Talks by Supt. R. N. Cluck and Principal H. Brandon of the high school featured the annual junior-senior banquet held on the roof garden of the Laguna hotel Friday evening. John St. John, acting as toastmaster, entertained the group with incidents from the private lives of both faculty and students. Members of the faculty gave impromptu speeches.

The affair, said to be the most successful of its kind held here in recent years, was made distinctive by the pink and green decorations used in the banquet room. Programs were in the form of tiny scrolls tied with streamers in the class colors and when unrolled gave the appearance of diplomas. The commencement idea was also suggested in the guest favors which were dolls dressed in caps and gowns. Two dolls so dressed formed a centerpiece for the table.

The complete program included the invocation by Prin. Brandon, welcome address by John St. John response by Hagen McMahon, senior president, musical numbers by the high school orchestra, solos by Glen Collum, a dance by Katherine Call, talk by Supt. Cluck, vocal solo by Bobby Kilpatrick, and a talk by Prin. Brandon.

There were 125, including faculty members, present. Following the banquet, Mrs. F. D. McMahon, Mrs. W. W. Wallace, and Mrs. W. J. Armstrong entertained for members of the classes with a dance at the Country club.

Miss Alma Wells is sponsor of the junior class and Misses Elizabeth Dial and Juanita Bounds of the seniors. The class presidents are Hagen McMahon of the seniors and Miss Laura Wilson of the juniors.

Observers See National Administration Slap at Ferguson in Adams' Retention

By MERRILL E. COMPTON United Press Staff Correspondent

DALLAS, May 20.—Insistence of the national democratic party to inject its will in Texas affairs has caused many close observers to proclaim the Roosevelt administration is steering away from the Ferguson's.

They made bold after the special-called meeting of the state democratic committee here where national party say-so held sway over local maneuvering to replace Jed C. Adams, Dallas attorney, as member of the national democratic committee.

James A. Farley, national committee chairman, refused to accept Adams' resignation ignoring the pleadings that the newly appointed member of the U. S. Board of Tax Appeals was ineligible because of his quasi-judicial post. He wrote Adams party affairs called for no changes at this time. In effect, said some observers, it was word to the Texas that the national party would not hook arms with James E. Ferguson, party boss of Texas and husband of its chief executive, Miriam A. Ferguson.

Many observers feel Ferguson outsmarted Maury Hughes, the young Dallas attorney, when he beat him in securing pledges of state committeemen to name C. C. McDonald of Wichita Falls, as Adams successor. Hughes, state chairman and recognized as friendly to the Ferguson's, trod on dangerous ground when he ruled the Farley letter was final, that no national committee vacancy existed. He played the middle-of-the-road game however, when he let Ferguson cohorts spew their vengeance on Adams by passing resolutions endorsing the national committeeman and endorsing McDonald as his logical successor.

To briefly sum up the situation: Rebutted Ferguson Farley and the national committee rebuked the Ferguson forces when they refused to accept Adams' resignation in the face of almost certain election of McDonald.

Hughes bowed to the wishes of the national committee when he withdrew as candidate for the national committee post in favor of Vice-President Garner.

Hughes recouped some lost favor when he ruled the resolution attacking Adams, Garner advocates and endorsing McDonald did not constitute election of Adams' successor in event he resigns before expiration of his term in 1936.

National patronage will come apparently by Adams' endorsement, certainly not counseled by the Ferguson forces.

Adams, unfriendly with Hughes, was the winner in another feud.

Editorial opinion following the meeting was frank.

The Mexia Daily News admitted the break between the national party and the Texas democrats when it said: "The last minute withdrawal of his resignation as national committeeman of the democratic party for Texas by Jed C. Adams of Dallas demonstrates quite openly that the national party leadership is not ready to turn over Texas patronage to James E. Ferguson. It also shows that Amos G. Carter, the Fort Worth publisher, still holds some influence in Washington."

Carter Censured Carter was censured by members of the state committee as being instrumental in introducing the candidacy of Garner for national committeeman.

"This is an open break between Jim Farley and Jim Ferguson" added the Mexia News.

The Dallas News interpreted results as "humiliating" to Ferguson, saying he "had to submit to the humiliation of knowing that his influence is unwelcome in the councils of the party nationally  this is not surprising to Texas who have contact outside of the state and who realize the disesteem in which Fergusonism is held beyond the borders of the state."

Quite the contrary was the viewpoint of the Fort Worth Press which termed the whole turn of events as "petty" politics.

"Whether one approves of James E. Ferguson or not, it is certain that such petty politics has not been played in Texas for a long time as Ferguson's friend, C. C. McDonald of Wichita Falls, from becoming democratic national committeeman from Texas."

Continuing, the newspaper said "the decent and sensible thing to do, as politics go, would have been to concede that to the victor belongs the spoils, to have conceded that Mr. Ferguson was temporarily the victor, and to have retired from the field. Not so these anti-Ferguson gentlemen, so long as there was a stab left in their trusty knives."

By FRANK LANGSTON

Pre-convention expectations were more than fulfilled as Legionnaires moved into Cisco for the spring convention of the 17th district of the state Legion Saturday.

Registration was slow at the American Legion headquarters in the Laguna hotel early in the day, most of the delegates arriving after 5 o'clock. Many who, attended were not registered yesterday.

Saturday was devoted for the most part to entertainment features. Comparatively few, however, took advantage of the opportunity for golf and fishing at Lake Cisco.

Among the Legion notables who arrived early were M. J. Benefield, of Brady, district committeeman; Mrs. Benefield, district chairman of the Women's Auxiliary, Mrs. E. H. Roach, of Taylor, state president of the auxiliary; and R. E. Waters, of the veterans' bureau office staff at Dallas.

The meeting proper will be called to order by District Committeeman M. J. Benefield at 2 p. m., at which time W. H. LaRoque will make the address of welcome. After a prayer led by Rev. Harris, of Stamford, Carl B. Nesbit, state commander, will address the group. Following his speech A. C. Williamson, of Sweetwater, will speak on boy scouting, and V. Earl Earp, past state commander, will make an address.

Following short talks by Reed Johnson, Roy A. Webb, Miller Ahnsworth and Van Perkins, the convention will proceed with the business of electing new officers and selecting a convention city.

Auxiliary Meeting The Women's Auxiliary will open with a business session at 2 o'clock in the club dining room of the Laguna hotel. Following a prayer, songs and pledges to the flag, Mrs. Crigger Paschall, of Cisco, unit president, will make the welcome address, to which Mrs. P. C. Maddox, assistant chairman of Winters, will respond. Mrs. J. W. Trapp, professor of education at Daniel Baker college, will speak on child welfare, and Mrs. E. H. Roach, state president, will make an address. The remainder of the meeting will be taken up with routine business and unit awards. Mrs. M. J. Benefield will preside.

Smoker The first get-together of the Legionnaires was the smoker at the Legion but at 6 o'clock Saturday evening, following it there was a musical program in the lobby of the Laguna hotel and a dance on the roof garden.

A feature of yesterday's program was music by the Cisco Lobo band, under the direction of G. W. Collum, and the Lone Star band of Ranger, headed by A. J. Campbell. The Lobo band gave a concert on the street Saturday morning and the Lone Star band played in the Laguna hotel in the afternoon. Later the two joined for a parade and massed concert. Other musical organizations are expected to arrive later. Director Collum of Cisco has charge of the band arrangements for the convention.

Large crowds were in Cisco Saturday for the convention and the trades day program sponsored in connection with it. The city had previously been decorated with bunting in patriotic colors.

FARM MORTGAGES AND HOLDERS.

According to Henry Morgenthau, Jr., federal farm board chairman, insurance companies hold about 23 per cent of the farm mortgage debt of the nation of approximately $8,500,000,000.

Speaking of the new law, it was explained that when a mortgage holder accepts the scale down price, an amount in bonds less than the face of the mortgage taken in exchange, he would not be permitted to take a second mortgage for any part of the debt.

HUGE SAVINGS PREDICTED BY REDDIT.

Sen. Reddit, of Lufkin, said to be a close student of finance, taxation and the economic conditions, has estimated that the state appropriations for the next two years will show a saving of twelve million dollars on the past biennium expenditures.

Sen. Reddit is a member of the finance committee. He based his estimate on the figures of three appropriations bills decided on and the senate figures for the educational appropriations bill.

This is a prediction made by a capitol correspondent: "In all probability a compromise between the house and senate bills will be made, increasing the educational savings."

"It was a maxim of Thomas Jefferson's that a people the least governed are the best governed, and it was one of the tenets of his gospel of democracy that the cost of government should be kept within the income and that low taxation touching all concerned was the best form of taxation.

Mrs. O'Dare said, "I'm glad he brought you. We've been waiting to meet you." She smiled to show she meant it and, in spite of the sinking of her heart, was glad to discover that Bill's girl was, as Kay had described her, "not a bad sort."

"I'll have to be taking Angie back now, mother," he said after an interval, glancing at his watch. "I promised Harnett I'd be back at 6. He's got to drive his wife to the Springs."

He was relieved, she could see, that everything had passed off so smoothly. Poor boy, he had probably dreaded the ordeal! She kissed him, smoothing his roughened fair hair.

SHE went about, straightening cushions, picking up glasses. Kay came in, hair dripping wet from a swim. She had gone with Rissy down to the river.

"Well," Kay challenged her. "They're just gone." Mrs. O'Dare sat down, sighing. "She's really a good little thing, Kay. Only so-so—" she hesitated for a word.

"Of course it does. Silly to pretend it doesn't," said practical Kay. "We're all a little snobbish, really. What I can't understand is why she doesn't bore Bill to tears. He's smart, really. Likes to read and he's always been so ambitious."

ANGIE stared at the curtains, fluttering in the breeze. "We don't exactly know," she said, almost sullenly. "Stan is seeing to things. He's got a lawyer in the city. He'll let me know."

"I see," Mrs. O'Dare considered this. "I think—somehow I have the feeling you'd be better off starting in some new place," she said bravely. "This is such a small place. You know how people are—"
