French Vote Against Penalties For Italy

GIVE UP HOPE FOR PEACEFUL CONFLICT END

PARIS, Aug. 28. — The French cabinet, in a three-hour session today, was understood to have approved a firm French stand at Geneva against international penalties against Italy. The cabinet has abandoned hope of seeing the settled without war but was increasingly optimistic on the chances of localizing, avoiding a breakdown of the League of Nations, and of France's policy on the continent. Paris is hopeful that the tension between Italy and Britain would be settled as a result of the Italian decision to present Italy's case to the council meeting Wednesday. Success of the League machinery depended, however, on an agreement by Italy to suspend military action pending a league decision. If Italy refuses the situation is hopeless.

EDEN TO AVOID PARIS DELEGATION

LONDON, Aug. 28. — Anthony Eden, Great Britain's chief delegate to the League of Nations council meeting, intends to go to Geneva Monday without stopping in Paris to see Premier Pierre Laval, it was said on reliable authority today. In Paris it was announced that three former Premiers, all of whom have served as foreign ministers, will head France's delegation. They are Laval, Edouard Herriot, and Joseph Paul Boncour. The Paris announcement and the revelation of the British-French divergence constituted by Eden's plan to avoid Paris showed the gravity of the Italian-Ethiopian crisis. Statesmen of Europe began a brief week of consultation on which the peace of the continent and perhaps other countries, depends.

Piles of Fish Bait On Streets Today As Crickets Swept Up

A lot of good fish bait was going to waste this morning as thousands of crickets were being swept up in the business district of trampled underfoot on the sidewalks. At the Laguna hotel a hose was being used to wash the insects from the sides of the buildings and off the walks, while piles of them lay under street lights and in corners of buildings. There was an occasional chirp of one of the crickets that had found refuge where brooms, water, and footwear could not reach it. No one seemed to know just exactly where the insects came from, but everyone was willing for them to go back

CISCO GIRL, VISITING STATE REFORM SCHOOL, FINDS PLACE MORE LIKE COLLEGE THAN PRISON; ESCAPE IS ATTEMPTED DURING HER VISIT

By BROOXIE CHUNN During my recent visit in Gatesville, a party of people, including myself, went through the juvenile school for boys. The school is situated on a hill three miles south of Gatesville. At a distance at night anyone would think it to be a main part of town because it is so well lighted and very pretty. The lawns are well kept and pretty shrubby grows around it. We were met at the entrance to the main office by a small boy 13 years of age. He was called a trustee, that is, one who because of good behavior becomes an office helper. We were taken to the office of the manager who gave us a warm welcome. The boy was instructed to

MINSTREL IS DISCUSSED AT LION MEETING

The Lions minstrel, to be given at the high school auditorium Thursday evening, Sept. 12, was the main subject of discussion at the noonday luncheon of the club today. Lion J. A. Bearman, general chairman, of the plans for the event, made his report and called upon each special chairman for a report of his activities. It was brought out that plans have in their distribution, a matter will have charge of preparation of the program, will have an unusual array of talent to select from. This is one of a series of activities of the Lions in preparation for the Lions convention to be held in Cisco next year. Some four or five hundred delegates are expected and the club is planning to not disappoint them in their expectations of being entertained in an outstanding manner, commensurate with the known hospitality of Cisco. A fund of some $400 will be necessary to carry out the program as outlined by the club, but in raising this money by entertainment and otherwise, the club is determined that it shall not be a donation in any sense of the word. It was suggested that 4,000 programs be printed in order that greater scope of territory be covered in their distribution, in matter which would give the merchants more for their advertising money and should draw a greater attendance. The newspapers are asked to emphasize the fact that the program will be outstanding in character, containing an array of artists who gave their time and talent to help make this a big success. Another feature of the program today was a Lions' contest, at which H. L. Dyer won first prize and W. J. Leach won second. Mrs. Elizabeth Wood, pianist for the club, was back at the piano, after an extended absence. Miss Martha West of Memphis, Tenn., who is the guest of Mrs. Wood, visited the club luncheon today.

TRAINING FOR TEACHERS OF NURSERY TOLD

Word has been received here of the progress of the training school in Denton where five Cisco nursery teachers are in school this summer. The Nursery School Teachers of Cisco are receiving very profitable and special instruction in the North Texas State Teachers college in Denton. The best instructors from various states have been secured for these courses. The nursery group have been very fortunate in having not only the best instructors but have two well equipped nurseries now in session, from which they can observe. The nursery at N. T. S. T. is well equipped and Miss Sallie B. Moore, instructor of the State Nursery School of Arkansas, director. The C. I. A. nursery is counted one of the best in the state and each student has been required to do seven hours of observation work. The teachers attending school at Denton feel fortunate as to entertainment it was said. The college boasts the best activity park in the state. It provides free movies, swimming, dancing, skating, croquet, ping-pong, volley ball, softball, golf, boxing and wrestling. There is an hour assembly each day, in which the following men have lectured: Dr. J. R. Yarbrough, professor of psychology of S. M. U.; H. Teeman, head of vocational education, at the University of Colorado; J. Isorre, head of employment bureau of service of Illinois; H. C. Mann, secretary of the state, Austin; and many others. The teachers will be home in September to begin their duties with renewed vigor, for a better nursery school in Cisco.

NANCE TAKES FIRST GAME IN CITY PLAYOFF

Hiram Brandon did an iron-man stunt Tuesday when he won his second game in two days and put the Nance club into the lead in the playoff for the city softball championship. Nance took the lead last night by defeating Garner's champions of the first half season, to the tune of 16 to 6. It was the first game of the series. The second game will be played tomorrow night and the third, if necessary, next Monday night. All games are scheduled for 8 o'clock. Bivins started on the mound for Garner, but was relieved by Wilson who finished the game. Tonight Trust LeRoque's Ranting Reporters will take on Curley Whitaker and his Prune Peddlers in the business men's game. Revival Is Moved To Eighth Street

The Bethel Missionary Baptist revival has moved from 305 East Eighth Street to E avenue and West Eighth street, it was announced this morning. Reason for the move was said to be because the space was too small to accommodate the crowds attending the meeting. Rev. George Pemberton will speak tonight on "God Breaking Up the Devil's Drinking Party."

City Grants $100 For Wood Project

The city commission, in its regular session last night, granted $100 for an FERA wood project, provided the project can be approved. Discussion of tax matters occupied the rest of the time of the meeting. There was no discussion of the settling basin project, pending completion of plans by engineers.

DEAN LAW IN EFFECT GIVEN AS A REASON

AUSTIN, Aug. 28. — A special session of the Texas legislature to enact liquor laws was definitely announced by Governor James Allred today to convene September 16. "I'm making up my mind on September 16, I have not only talked to members of the legislature but particularly with Lieutenant Governor Walter Woodul, Speaker Coke Stevenson, and Republican Emmett Morse, leader of the repeal movement. All three of them agreed with me that it would be best to call the session on September 16," Allred said. He said the proclamation calling the legislature will probably be issued during the day. It will submit liquor legislation as the first topic. What other topics are to be submitted Allred has not yet decided.

Want More Time In announcing the date, the governor said most legislators with whom he has communicated want a little time to prepare and study legislation before the session convenes. He said one of the reasons he decided to delay until September 16 was the assurance was the Dean prohibitory law will remain in effect in counties previously dry, even after the official canvass and declaration of passage of the repeal amendment to the state constitution. "The attorney general has held, correctly and clearly, that the Dean law not only is still in effect in dry territory but that it will continue in effect in dry territory even after the canvass," Allred said. Delay in calling the session, he said, therefore would not permit sale of liquor, pending news legislation. Possible sale, unregulated and untaxed, in wet local option territory he did not consider would offset the ill effects of hurriedly passed legislation.

RAIDS USELESS SAYS ALBERT JOHNSON AUSTIN, Aug. 28. — Liquor dealers may continue their wares without fear of raids from Texas rangers except in cases of flagrant violations of the Dean law, Albert Johnson, chairman of the public safety commission said today. Johnson said he considered it useless to arrest liquor sellers in view of the outcome of the vote on repeal. RANGERS TO TAKE NAMES OF LIQUOR DEALERS AUSTIN, Aug. 28. — Texas rangers raid against hard liquor dispensers, scheduled to start today in Houston, will be without the sanction of Governor James Allred. Rangers were to be asked to take names of violators selling hard liquor before the official vote canvass next month. It was indicated such violators might be denied permits when the liquor control bill is adopted.

The U. S.-Russian Crisis

The United States and Soviet Russia today were at the parting of the ways. America, through Ambassador Bullitt, had delivered a note to the Soviet, protesting against activities of the Communist International.

In a note the United States had reminded the Soviet that recognition by this nation came after a promise to President Roosevelt by Commissar Litvinov that Russia would not attempt to meddle with the government here by sponsoring communistic movements.

The Soviet replied to the note by saying that it had never and could not be responsible for the activities of the Communist International, and therefore rejected the protest.

That is stating the case definitely by each side. Now the question is, what will the United States do about it? There are several possibilities.

First of all, this country might break off all friendly relations with the Soviet. That could mean a number of things, among them a war with Russia or a new alignment of international friendships. Other countries have made such a formal break, among them Great Britain, China, and Mexico.

The United States might maintain the embassy at Moscow but recall the ambassador on an extended vacation in this country, which would be a little more polite way of doing the same thing.

It might discontinue cordial relations and limit the U. S.-Russian diplomacy to bare formalities.

Finally, it might send another protest, giving specific instances as a basis for its protest and bringing more pressure to bear. That would be, in effect, to say in this international checker game, "Your move."

The Ethiopian Conflict

The United Press yesterday reported that thousands of natives of the Somali coast, part of ancient Ethiopia, had deserted the Italian colonial armies and were swarming across the border, pledging themselves to fight and die for their Emperor, Haile Selassie I of Ethiopia.

That must have been disconcerting to Signor Mussolini back in Italy, preparing a speech for Friday or Saturday that "will likely make world history." Il Duce is expected to outline more definitely his plans and policies in East Africa.

The crossing of the border by the Somalis to fight for Ethiopia must have pleased the emperor, who is in need of fighting men equipped with machine guns as the deserters are said to be.

But that crossing of the border meant more than just a wholesale desertion. It meant that the Africans are ready to fight for Africa. Ethiopia, one of the oldest kingdoms in all the world—some say that the Ethiopians civilized the Egyptians—has a peculiar citizenship law that makes any Ethiopian, regardless of whether he lives in Ethiopia proper, French, British, or Italian Somaliland, Eritrea, or under any other national flag, subject to his emperor. The most peculiar

Behind the Scenes in Washington

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last of a special series of stories telling just how lobbying works.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—The Washington telephone directory shows that there's a lobby here for nearly everybody, beginning with the automobile and ending—after you wade through 10 columns listing "associations"—with the Zionists.

There are lobbies for the deaf, for pedestrians, for trees, for birth control, for calf tanners, for Indians, for enemies of chain stores, for mayors, for vegetarians and for preservation of wild flowers. And for nearly all industries.

OUTSTANDING among farmers' lobbyists are Chester Gray of the American Farm Bureau Federation, Fred Breckman of the National Grange, E. E. Kennedy of the Farmers' Union, C. E. Moser of the American Cotton Co-operative Association, Robin Hood of the Co-operative Council, William Thatcher of the Farmers' National Grain Corporation, and Charles Holman of the National Co-operative Milk Producers' Federation.

Successes of the veterans' lobby, headed by American Legion's Col. John Thomas Taylor, are proverbial.

The veterans' lobby, in which the United Spanish War Veterans are also important, has now succeeded in wiping out the expected $460,000,000 in economies on veteran payments which Roosevelt drove through Congress in the spring of 1933.

ED McGRADY, who went with the New Deal as NRA official, assistant secretary for labor and strike mediator, built up a reputation during years as the A. F. of L.'s chief lobbyist. His successor is S. P. Meadows.

In addition to the A. F. of L., the railroad unions, federal employees, the American Newspaper Guild and the postal employees all maintain effective lobbies here.

The most effective lobbyist for peace here is Miss Dorothy Detzer of the Women's International League. The big Navy and American Legion lobbyists, with whom she frequently crosses swords, call her a "dangerous woman." Her lobbying was chiefly responsible for the sensational Senate Munitions investigation under Senator Nye, and she is a frequent visitor in important offices of the State Department.

AGAINST the labor lobby—and often against the veterans and the farmers—are pitted the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, the National Association of Manufacturers and the American Liberty League.

The Chamber, as do the other groups, goes on the theory that the government should take its instructions from business—which is one reason why it's now at hot odds with the White House.

Three or four years ago, one would have had to give the Anti-Saloon League and the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals a great deal of space, not to mention the W. C. T. U. Repeal wrecked their power here, however.

The women's lobbies include the National League of Women Voters—usually supporting progressive legislation, the National Woman's Party—which feels its old women's suffrage fight won't be won until its constitutional amendment to give women full equal legal rights with men is adopted, and the Women's Joint Congressional Committee, representing 21 women's organizations and fighting for such things as the maternity act, child labor laws and pure food and drug legislation.

About the best thing that can be said for the great game of lobbying is that anybody can play.

THE END

thing about it is that just now this law is working and the Italian colonists are flocking to Ethiopia and taking their expensive Italian equipment with them.

The Ethiopians want to fight, if they have to. They realize that they will be bested in a battle of diplomacy, especially if the matter is left up to the great nations, all of whom are more or less interested from a selfish point of view. They are willing to come out in the open in physical combat where they can see the enemy and be seen by him.

Meanwhile France is looking about for a definition of the conflict taking place in Ethiopia, to avoid having to go to war to uphold the Kellogg-Briand treaty. If it is termed a "war"—outlawed by the treaty—something will have to be done about it, whereas if it is merely a "colonial enterprise," as Italy says, that is the business of Italy and Ethiopia.

YOUTH SCORNS JUDGE WHOSE ORDER SAVED HIM FROM LIFE AS CRIPPLE

By WILLIAM C. KERR, United Press Staff Correspondent

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 28.—Some months ago John Hoffman, Jr., stood before Judge Theodore Rosen in Municipal Court, Crutches supported him, and he faced the life of being a cripple.

Beside him, grim and tightlipped, stood his father, adamant in his belief that "God will cure" the son and that no doctor ever should touch him.

Judge Rosen tried to reason and argue the father—to no avail. Not even the repeated charges of the Society to Protect Children from Cruelty moved the elder Hoffman.

The judge became impatient. He ordered John removed to the Philadelphia General Hospital. There Dr. Royal Moore performed a delicate operation.

Weeks followed, and finally the boy returned to his home with a brace on his leg, but the crutches no longer were needed. The day he came out of the hospital John was brought before Judge Rosen.

He looked up with a shy smile, and said:

"Thank you, judge. Thank you for all you've done for me."

The father was asked what he thought. He hung his head and muttered that he "guessed I don't think anything about it."

John eventually discarded the brace. He could play baseball and other sports. He continued to go to an orthopedic specialist for treatment. The leg grew stronger.

But here is the sequel to the story.

John has returned to the belief of his father. Hale and hearty once more, he has come to resent what Judge Rosen and Dr. Moore did for him.

He walked into the Faith Tabernacle with his parents and six brothers and sisters. There was no trace of a limp. He was cured. But—

"It was all against the will of God," John said.

And as for Judge Rosen, John says:

"He is no friend of mine!"

One Factory Weaves Most Cheesecloth

MONROE, Wis., Aug. 28.—Ninety percent of America's cheesecloth used in the manufacture of cheese is woven on an old loom, owned by two Swiss brothers, in the attic of a two-story building here.

The factory, which has grown to such proportions that it now employs five persons and has retail outlets in six states, first was established in 1929 in the basement of a garage by Joe Donny.

Coming to the United States in 1927, Donny worked for two years in a cheese factory near here, notice that most of the equipment was foreign made, heard the owners complain of the high prices they had to pay for it and decided to start a factory.

After four years of difficult progress, Donny wrote his brother, Melchior, a graduate of the college of Turaine, Italy, and then manager of a European hotel, to come and assist him. Before coming, Melchior studied the art of weaving cheesecloth.

More than a year ago they purchased a second hand loom. Last summer, the two brothers had more orders than they could possibly fill, chiefly because their products were one-third as cheap as the foreign made articles and were superior in quality.

Oakland's Laws Cut Deaths in Traffic

OAKLAND, Cal., Aug. 28.—Oakland, city of 300,000 population, claims the best traffic record of any city of its size in the United States. During an entire month there was not one automobile death on its streets.

The safety record is the result of a crusade begun in 1923 by the Eastbay Safety Council, which has resulted in complete unanimity of law enforcing organizations and civic groups in the desire to halt the traffic death toll.

Police Chief Bodie A. Wallman credits the record to these activities:

1. Cooperation of individual policemen in carrying out orders that all "beat men," whether in traffic or not, issue tags to violators. The traffic force is moved from point to point as accident records require.
2. Strong support of the courts. In 1933, court fines averaged $2,500 a month; so far in 1935 the average has been $9,400.
3. A varied and continuous safety education program, including traffic schools for minors, where youthful violators are "sentenced" to learn the law and their own responsibility.
4. "Unofficial" citations by a corps of employment relief workers stationed at busy points to watch violators. Run-of-the-mill violators are sent caution letters; others are brought to court for lectures.

"Nobody has a tag 'squared,'" To date in 1935, there have been 25 deaths. Last year, for the same period there were 35.

"Regardless of how offending drivers may feel about it, the records prove there can be lives saved by intelligent planning and rigid law enforcement," commented J. C. McPherson, president of the safety council. "Whatever embarrassment or inconvenience the program may have caused the results more than justify the effort."

PROOF EXISTS OF ETHIOPIAN SLAVE TRADING

By FREDERICK KUH
United Press Staff Correspondent
LONDON, Aug. 28. — Even those sympathetic to Ethiopia in the Italo-Ethiopian conflict have been startled by revelations of slave raids in that country.

Critics admit that Emperor Haile Selassie, an enlightened monarch, has earnestly set out to suppress slavery and has made some progress. And yet it is said that the province of Maji has been reduced in population from 30,000 to 4,000 within a generation, while raiding across the frontier into British territory has become common.

Experts have computed that only 10 per cent of the victims in a raided village ever reach the slave market. Old people are left behind in the ruins. Many of the rest succumb to hunger and thirst.

Sudan Settlement Raided
Raids into British territory have recalled the Anuk tribe's assault on the Beir settlement in British Sudan in March, 1932. This incident resulted in a settlement, after long diplomatic negotiations, obliging the governor of Ulu Baboor to pay 15 head of cattle (full-grown) for every man killed and for every woman and child not returned to the Sudan.

It was stipulated that this was a bargain-price, however, and that "blood money" henceforth would be 20 head of cattle for every dead tribesman or kidnaped woman victimized in Ethiopian slave raiding. Previous to this episode it had been customary to assess the loss of a human life at 1,000 Maria Theresa thalers. But on this occasion, despite British insistence, the Ethiopian delegation refused to pay cash for killed tribesmen or kidnaped women.

Yankee Bargaining Used
How the settlement of this conflict entailed Oriental bargaining was revealed in a report from E. N. Arskine, British consul for western Ethiopia, who informed his superiors, "The governor of Wallaga province accepts full responsibility for the killing of 12 British subjects and the governor of the Upper Nile province accepts full responsibility for the killing of two Anuk Ethiopian subjects, so that these two being subtracted from the 12 former, there remains a balance of Wallaga province for 10 Sudan lives."

It was finally agreed that the Wallaga governor should pay the Upper Nile governor 2,000 Maria Theresa thalers in compensation for the deaths, but that 540 thalers would be deducted on account of the participation of certain Pokumu Anuks, so that a balance of 1,460 was finally fixed as the indemnity.

Adopted Children Lose Own Identity

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 28. — A "conservative" estimate that 150 Pennsylvania children are "lost" and will never know their parents, are due to "carelessness" of officials, appears in the report of a state-wide CWA investigation of poor board administration, just announced.

Identities of these children of indigent parents, placed in foster homes, were lost in "slipshod" files of poor boards in a dozen counties, and names of the families with which they were placed were not kept, the report states.

HOOKS AND SLIDES

CLEVELAND—Directors of the Cleveland Baseball Company seek a playing manager for 1936. They could do worse than try Anthony Michael Lazerri, of the New York Yankees.

Lazerri has all the qualifications of a capable field marshal, aspires to the post, and Col. Jacob Ruppert, having signed Joe McCarthy for three more campaigns, hardly would stand in the Italian's way.

Bucky Harris convinced Clark Griffith that a scrappy playing manager was the thing by taking the Washington club to its first pennants in 1924 and 1925. Harris' return to Washington this season as a bench boss might have been mandatory in the $250,000 deal that switched Joe Cronin's activities from the Capital to Boston.

Anyway, there now is talk of Griffith returning to the player-manager plan next spring, with Buddy Myer the nominee.

Myer and Lazerri would be welcome additions to the ranks of pilots. They are the aggressive type like Mickey Cochrane, Frankie Frisch, Joe Cronin, Jimmy Dykes, and Jimmy Wilson.

Cochrane and Dykes Furnish Additional Proof

BILL TERRY and Cronin did a great deal toward reviving the player-manager principle in 1932 when they lashed the New York Giants and Senators into the world series in their first year in command. Outwardly, Terry does not appear to be as aggressive as the other playing managers, but he is a splendid executive and sets a fine example for his athletes in the field.

While neither the Giants nor the Senators repeated, the world series managers of last fall were players nevertheless—Frisch, of the St. Louis Cardinals, and Cochrane, of the Detroit Tigers.

The standings columns of the two major leagues reveal why the Cleveland directors would like to uncover a Cochrane, Frisch, Terry, Cronin, or a Dykes. Six of the eight first division clubs are managed by active players, and the heads of the other two, Charley Grimm, of the Chicago Cubs, and Pie Traynor, of the Pittsburgh Pirates, gave up performing regularly only this season.

Playing Manager Has Advantages

THE manager in the thick of the battle has numerous advantages over the pilot who is confined to the dugout and coacher's box. He combines action with words. He sets the example, makes the pace, and is the inspiration of the team.

Teams reflect the individual characteristics of the playing manager. The Tigers, led by the dynamic Cochrane, carry chips on their shoulders. The outfits that charge next hardest in the American League are Boston and Chicago, directed by Cronin and Dykes, who never give up.

The Cardinals are the most aggressive set of players in the game, which is chiefly to the credit of the ultra-aggressive Frisch. Lazerri and Myer might fail as managers. Star players frequently do. Managing a major league club is not a soft assignment. Lazerri and Myer were schooled under highly intelligent baseball men in the late Miller Huggins and Griffith, however, and one thing is certain. They'd never be fired for not trying.

CHINA UNITY GETS IMPETUS BY RAIL LINK

SHANGHAI, Aug. 28. — Linking of north and south China by rail-road, for the first time in history, will be an accomplished fact within a year when the Canton-Hankow Railway is finally completed.

The road, victim of political intrigue and financial mishap for more than 40 years, has progressed with uncertainty as funds have been made available but until now, despite its name, it has reached neither Canton nor Hankow.

Definite assurance has been given that the line will be completed and a long dream of aid to China's unity appears to be coming true.

Importance Rated Highly
What the completion of the road will mean to China only a long-time resident of the country can understand. Today it takes at least 15 days to travel from Canton to Hankow, necessitated by a long and round-about route which includes Shanghai. When the line is finished the trip will require about 32 hours.

It will serve as a means of close contact between north and south China, heretofore separated by differences of language, economic system, and culture. It will give access to the rich interior of Hunan province, and will afford a trunk line to be linked with highway and branch railway connections to Kwangsi and Kweichow provinces and even to remote Szechuan, lately over-run by Communist-bandit hordes.

Spur To Trade Seen
China is handicapped by the difficulty of getting products out of even comparatively accessible districts. The new rail line is expected to obviate that handicap to a great extent.

Engineering difficulties in building the roadbed are among the greatest in the world, experts have said. Countless excavations and fills have been made in mountainous terrain. Hundreds of bridges, tunnels and cuts have been completed. At the end of the year, when travelers make the trip in modern railway coaches, they will be able to realize that the completion of the project means a significant and important step forward in China's process of modernization and reconstruction.

Road Dates Back to 1896
The road dates back to 1896-1898, when an American syndicate granted a loan of $20,000,000 for the proposed route. The Canton-Samsui branch, a mere 30 miles, was opened in 1904, and action stopped.

It was not until 1915 that the line was extended to Shaochow, only 20 miles farther north of Canton. Two years elapsed before additional mileage was constructed. But in 1917 work started on the northern end of the line, from Wuchang, across the Yangtze river from Hankow. After additional loans had been obtained, the Wuchang-Changsha section, about 230 miles, was opened.

Middle Section Unfinished
In the meantime further work went on in the south, making a total of about 130 miles extending north of Canton. Thus two sections of the line were completed, but the middle section, approximately 175 miles, remained unfinished, and for 13 years no efforts were made to advance the project.

In 1929, however, the Ministry of Railways negotiated with the Belgian Boxer Indemnity Fund and the Sino-British Boxer fund and obtained financial grants which permitted the completion, in September, 1933, of the Shaochow-Lo-chang section, about 35 miles, leaving 240 miles from Chuhow to Lo-chang to be finished.

MICHIGAN TO TAX CONVICTS FOR EXPENSES

By NEIL WEBER
United Press Staff Correspondent

LANSING, Mich., August 28 — Michigan's convicted criminals will have to pay for their room and board while they are in prison, under a new law which Auditor-General John J. O'Hara is preparing to enforce.

The Delano Act, passed by the recent Legislature, provides that inmates, if financially able, must pay to the state the cost of keeping them in prison.

Under the act, the state may seek to reimburse itself for the cost of either old or new inmates. It provides specifically that proceedings "may be begun at any time after admittance" to penal institutions, and collections may be made over the entire period of confinement.

Property Liable To Levy
Whenever a person is admitted to a prison, the Attorney-General may file in the sentencing court a claim against the new inmate's estate, the law provides. Upon court order the estate or property becomes liable to levy. Collections may be enforced in the usual way through foreclosure proceedings, but properties must not be sold at foreclosure until after 60 days have lapsed after a final court decree.

"Why shouldn't a prisoner who has money pay for his keep?" O'Hara asked. "For 12 years Michigan has levied against the estates of insane persons committed to state hospitals, but not against sane criminals. We collect money from about five per cent of the mental patients," he continued. "Just how much we will collect from prison inmates is problematical."

By a 1923 statute applying to the insane, the state in the last year has collected $207,392 in cash and about $100,000 in securities and real estate, O'Hara said. In state hospitals for mental patients there are about 15,200 inmates and state penal institutions have about 8,000.

Financial Data Required
Provisions of the Delano Act require all prison wardens and local law enforcement officials to furnish on request "all information available on the financial responsibility of said prisoner." Information blanks are being drawn in O'Hara's office, and will be distributed soon.

O'Hara or county prosecutors are empowered to ask for a guardian for the inmate. The law states:

"If it shall appear that such person or prisoner has an estate which ought to be subjected to the claim of the state... the court shall make an order requiring the guardian or any other such person or corporation so possessed of the estate belonging to said prisoner to appropriate and apply such estate... toward reimbursing the state for expenses incurred by it on behalf of such prisoner."

"The law recognizes that inmates with smaller estates may have families or other dependents," O'Hara said. "It states that 'regard is to be had to claims of persons having a moral or legal right of maintenance out of such estate.'"

Discretion To Be Used
"We will be careful not to levy upon an estate if it would force an inmate's family to seek welfare assistance. Such a situation would not benefit the state," he added.

O'Hara pointed out that the Balfe McDonald type of inmate obviously will come under the new law. Young McDonald, serving a life sentence for the slaying of his wealthy mother in Flint, will receive about $250,000 from her estate when he is 21, according to O'Hara.

Before becoming Auditor-General, O'Hara was prominent as a prosecutor. The collections possible against insane persons but not against sane criminals attracted his attention. He advocated passage of the law to remedy this condition, which was introduced in the House by Representative F. Delano, Republican, of Kalamazoo.

term of two years, mostly for robbery, but of course there are other crimes committed. The boys sleep under lights all night, but frequently one breaks out of the school. When this happens, a whistle that sounds a lot like a fire whistle, but a louder, is blown. Some boys broke out while I was there, but they didn't get away. The officials put the bloodhounds on their trail and caught them soon after they left.

The matron also told me that a few of the boys were sent there because their parents did not want the responsibility of them.

I noticed that most of the boys were not very intelligent looking and commented on it. She said that since the CCC camps were organized very few intelligent boys were sent there.

A few of the boys do not want to get out.

My uncle, one of the party, asked the Mexican cook when he was to "get out." He answered that he didn't know and didn't want out, because he was well fed and didn't need many clothes. He also stated that he was treated well when he behaved himself and couldn't complain. He said, "I'm branded as a criminal and couldn't get a job when I do get out, so why should I want to be free?"

There were 850 boys in state, 300 white boys, 300 Mexicans and 250 negroes. These boys have several things for recreation. They have a picture show at the school and go to the show two nights a week. They play baseball when they are not working. There were three different games the day I was there.

There is chapel in the school several times a week—I don't know how many. I noticed that in several rooms there was a picture of Christ and under it "He Died For You." The place had more the appearance of a college than of a prison.

FOG MAKER IS IN DEMAND AT MOVIE STUDIO

By ALAN McELWAIN
United Press Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, August 28 — He lives in a fog — and gets well paid for it. And the more befogged Paul B. Widliska gets — the more money his outlook — the more money he makes.

For Widliska is "fog expert" for Samuel Francisco fog can make San Francisco fog or London fog — and make them look distinct.

"I have been making fog for years," said Widliska. "I make every kind of fog there is and often feel disappointed in nature when I am out driving some evening and a real fog comes up. Confidentially, I think I could do much better if they gave me half a chance." The fog-maker, a native of Budapest, Hungary, came to the United States in 1914 and arrived in Hollywood almost at once as a cabinet-maker. He drifted into fog-making because one day the fog they were making on the set made his throat ache.

"They used to use smoke and also a combination of ammonia gases," he explained. "It was very hard on the noses and throats, so I decided to work out a nice-smelling fog."

"We now use ordinary mineral oil such as you buy in your drug store for stomach troubles. We spray this oil on the set under high pressure an dby heating the vapor so it pours cut, regulate the height to which the fog will rise.

"For a low-lying London fog, I keep the oil temperature low and the haze rises just above the ground. For a dismal San Francisco fog, I heat it up, and haze covers the entire set. We can control the height to within a few feet."

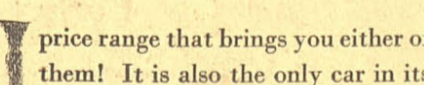

His fog almost killed Widliska once. He came on the set of Douglas Fairbanks' "The Thief of Bagdad" early with a fog mixture of ammonia hydrochloric acid gas that was too strong. Doug, arriving an hour before others, found Widliska lying unconscious and almost dead beneath his apparatus.

SISTER MARY'S RECIPES

BY MARY E. DAGUE
NEA Service Staff Writer

I THINK I count pickling season among the best days of the year. Here is one time when you don't have to worry about food values and such, but only the good taste they'll give to foods all winter.

Relishes not only stimulate jaded appetites, but add zest to many salad dressings. Sandwiches and sandwich fillings are improved by the judicious use of pungent pickles of almost any sort.

Cucumber rings make an attractive garnish and I have used them to make open sandwiches, putting a piping of cream cheese around a thin slice of pickle on a small round of buttered whole wheat bread.

Cucumber Rings

Eight of ten six-inch cucumbers, 1 ounce stick cinnamon, 1 ounce whole cloves, 1 ounce whole allspice, 1 ounce celery seeds, 3 pounds brown sugar, 3 pints cider vinegar, 1-2 teaspoon powdered alum.

Make a strong brine, using 1 cup salt to 4 cups boiling water. Wash and wipe cucumbers and let stand in brine three days. Drain from brine and let stand in clear water for three days. Drain and simmer in weak vinegar to which alum has been added for two hours. Drain from vinegar solution and let cool. Throw the vinegar away.

When cool, cut in slices about one-half inch thick and pack in a deep crock. Combine spices, sugar and vinegar and bring to the boiling point. Pour boiling hot over cucumbers in crock and let stand twenty-four hours. Drain off vinegar, scald and pour again over cucumbers adding another cup of brown sugar to the syrup.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Chilled sweet cider, cereal, cream, coddled eggs, toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON: Corn and tomato chowder, toasted crackers, stuffed celery, deep dish plum pie, milk, tea.

DINNER: Fresh ham steak with baked bananas, spinach with Hollandaise sauce, watermelon pickles, cabbage and green pepper salad, snow pudding, milk, coffee.

Do this for three successive mornings adding sugar as you like. On the fourth morning pack cucumbers in sterilized jars and pour boiling hot vinegar syrup over to completely fill jar. Seal and store in a dark cool place.

Small Sweet Pickles

One peck small cucumbers, 1-2 pounds barrel salt, 1 tablespoon powdered alum, 1 gallon vinegar, 1-4 pound mixed pickling spices, 1 pound granulated sugar.

Wash pickles and put in a deep crock. Sprinkle with salt, cover with water, weight to keep pickles in brine and let stand six weeks. Drain from brine and rinse in clear water. Return to clean crock, add alum and cover with warm water. Let stand over night. The next morning drain and wipe dry. Make a syrup of vinegar, sugar and spices and pour over cucumbers. Let stand one week. Drain off about 1 quart vinegar and add 1 pound of sugar. Bring to boiling point and pour over cucumbers. Each week add 1 pound of sugar until you get them as sweet as you want them. Then put in jars, cover with hot vinegar and seal.

Inventor Acclaimed After Prison Term

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C., Aug. 28—David Marshall Williams, who 14 years ago was a convicted slayer, has been restored to full citizenship and is performing an important service for the federal government.

In 1921 he pleaded guilty to second degree murder charges in the death of a deputy sheriff. An excellent prisoner, he was paroled a few years later, and granted a pardon in 1929.

Williams had studied firearms since boyhood. Shortly after receiving a pardon, he invented an "improved machine gun, details of which have been guarded closely by the government. Williams is supervising experimental manufacture of the gun for use by the army.

THE common bath sponge is only the skeleton of a sea animal. In the living creature, the porous interior and exterior are made up of a gelatinous substance, somewhat resembling the white of an egg. When prepared for commercial use, this substance is removed, as is also a fibrous material which further supports the skeleton of the living animal.

Welding

... the best way to make a perfect union of two pieces of metal is by welding them together.

... and the best way to get a more pleasing flavor and a better taste in a cigarette is by welding together the different types of tobacco...

That is just what we do in making CHESTERFIELD Cigarettes—the three types of mild ripe home-grown tobaccos, that is tobaccos grown in this country, are welded together. Then they are welded with aromatic Turkish. When these tobaccos are welded together you get a combined flavor which is entirely different from any one type of tobacco.

It is this welding of the right amounts of the right kind of tobaccos that makes CHESTERFIELD a milder and better-tasting cigarette.
