“Poof!” Go Cisco Cage Hopes as Regulars “Flunk Out”

ONE MEMBER OF QUINTET IS ELIGIBLE

Cisco high school kissed its basketball hopes for the current season goodbye this week when a review of the final grades of the past semester revealed that four regulars and several substitutes on the team are ineligible for participation in interscholastic league competition during the second semester.

By failing to make sufficient grades to entitle them to even probationary eligibility, the undefeated Lobo basketball team, which already had a long leg on the Oil Belt title for the second year, was reduced to one regular and a number of substitutes who have not seen any action at all this year.

Clemo Ray is the remaining regular. In marked contrast to the records of the other boys, Ray ranks among the honor students of the school. Old man ineligibility has a mighty slight chance of ruling him out of any scholastic score.

Disappointment at the failure of the boys to make the grades was particularly keen at the school and among the fans who saw in the team that won five of its games without a defeat, a quintet that was certain to go far, perhaps even exceeding the record of the 1928 team which took third place in the state tournament.

Coach Jefferies said yesterday afternoon that the team would probably attempt to finish the current season with its one regular and its fledgling substitutes. “We owe it to the Oil Belt League to do the best we can,” he said, “even if it means, as it will, taking some unholy beatings.”

Loss in expected gate receipts is another factor that caused the disappointment for the athletic department needs the money.

“Les Ineligibles.” “We owe the other members of the league return games,” said Mr. Cluck. “We have not definitely determined what shall be done, but it is likely our coaches will offer to play these games with the reserves. In case the other schools wish to accept forfeitures instead of playing we will pay them half the gate receipts taken in at their games here. Under the rules of the league we play on a home and home basis the home team keeping all the receipts.”

Among those declared ineligible are Captain Preston, of the basketball team; “Chuck” Van Horn, stellar basketball center and captain of the Lobos football team of 1931; Hightower, forward; Purvis, guard— all of whom are regulars on the cage squad; Harman McCall, captain, elect of the 1932 football squad and substitute guard; Joe Little, alternate forward.

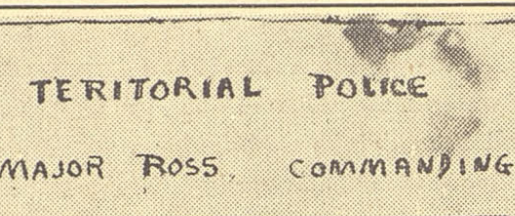

The team has played one game each with five members of the league, e. g., Abilene, Breckenridge, Eastland, Ellisville and Ranger, winning all of them. A game with Albany last week had been postponed at the request of Albany.

The Oil Belt League is an organization separate from the Interscholastic League but the same rules apply in its operation as in the interscholastic league. The Oil Belt league was organized to lend interest to the practice season prior to the district tournament in the spring when the interscholastic league winner is determined. Winners in each county are determined on a round robin schedule basis just as the Oil Belt League schedule is played.

Arriving here he suffered an attack of influenza and is confined in his room at the Laguna hotel while recuperating from the illness.

This is a picture of the fake warrant which is alleged to have lured Joseph Kahahawai, young Hawaiian, to his death in Honolulu. The warrant was reported to have been shown to him by persons who induced him to go to an automobile in front of the Hawaiian capital's Judiciary building — the last time his friends saw him alive.

COMM'N TO INVESTIGATE CITY POWER PLANT PROPOSITIONS

The city commission yesterday afternoon authorized Mayor J. T. Berry to name a committee to investigate Diesel engine power plants installed in other Texas cities to provide current for pumping city water and lighting the streets after hearing a proposition from John Russell, representing the Fairbanks-Morse people.

Mr. Russell asked that the commission take step and after investigation to indicate whether or not it would “look favorably” on the proposition. In case the commission is favorably inclined he proposes to bring engineers here to make definite figures on the project without obligating the city, he said.

Mr. Russell first appeared before the commission two weeks ago by invitation, and was asked to confer with the city engineer with regard to the project and appear later.

Mayor Berry named a Water Commission consisting of George Fite and Commissioners Clement and Elliott as the committee to be accompanied by City Engineer Reagan. Others of the commission, however, were told to go if they desired.

Estimate Presented. Estimates presented by Mr. Russell for the installation of the power plant called for an investment of $36,000 in engines and equipment for providing power for pumping the city water and operating the sewage disposal plant.

He said that his company would guarantee that the plant would produce 10 kilowatts for every gallon of fuel oil consumed. At the rate of $1.25 a barrel for fuel oil, this would make the cost of current to the city three and one-half mills per kilowatt including lubrication costs, he said. Fuel oil is selling at around 30 cents a barrel on the present market, it was stated.

He presented two propositions, the first to provide current for pumping water only, as stated above. The second contemplated taking over the street lighting system in connection with the water pumping system. The cost of installing a white way system for the city operation would be $21,000 additional, making a total cost of $57,000 for installing a plant to provide power for pumping the city water, operating the sewage disposal system and lighting the

PUBLICATION OF AUDIT OF CITY ORDERED

The audit of the books of the city of Cisco, completed some time ago by Ernst and Ernst will be published. The city commission yesterday afternoon awarded contracts for its publication to the Cisco Daily News whose bid was the lowest of three submitted. Fifteen hundred copies of the audit will be printed by the Daily News and will be distributed to Cisco citizens and other interested persons desiring a copy. Copies will be placed at the city hall where they may be secured by those wishing them. The audit will be ready for distribution within two or three weeks.

Out of 15 nominations submitted by the board of directors of the chamber of commerce five new commissioners were elected. E. P. Crawford, P. P. Shepard, F. D. Wright, W. W. Wallace and W. K. Johnston. The first three are retiring members who have been returned. Mr. Wallace and Mr. Johnston are former members of the board. The election was made unanimous on motion of Comm'r Burnett seconded by Comm'r Elliott.

The commission, which had previously directed all center lights of the business district, white way system turned off in the interest of economy, accepted yesterday afternoon a proposition from the West Texas Utilities company to substitute 250-watt lamps for all 400-watt lamps in the system and turn all lights of the system on at a saving of $75 per month. There had been some criticism of the action of the commission in ordering center lights off and the body felt that the proposition presented by the power company would meet this criticism while effecting a needed saving in city expenditures.

The commission directed that the city zoo, recently taken from chamber of commerce charge and placed under city control, be attached to the department of Commissioner Elliott.

Loose Stock. The commission instructed T. H. McGras-on, city garbage disposal contractor, to rigidly enforce city ordinances against loose stock in the city limits by impounding such stock. He was instructed to allow five days before beginning to take up such stock so that the public may have plenty of notification of the city's intention with respect to these loose animals.

“Cruising” in the alleys of the city by unauthorized persons who collect garbage in the residential districts without knowledge of the residents was the subject of commission action looking toward elimination of this condition. It was pointed out that the garbage containers in alleys at a figure determined largely by the value of the wet garbage to the collector and that the intrusion of unauthorized persons demoralizes the orderly collection of the waste. Comm'r Elliott was instructed to investigate the condition and take proper action in respect to it.

The commission recessed after hearing a proposition by John Russell, representing the Fairbanks-Morse company, for the installation of a Diesel engine power plant to provide power for pumping Cisco water.

“Get your man, anyway,” was the order to the mounted police.

FUNERAL FOR J. E. CHESLEY AT 3:30 TODAY

Funeral services for John E. Chesley, pioneer citizen of this section and veteran cattleman whose later years were interested largely in the management of his large real estate holdings in Cisco and elsewhere, will be held this afternoon from the family residence, at 609 West Eighth street where he died yesterday morning at 11:30.

Services will be conducted by the Rev. Stuart A. Pearce, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. Burial will be in Oakwood cemetery, with the Green Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Mr. Chesley, who came to this section of Texas in 1884, locating in southwestern Stephens county on land from which the Indians had been removed only a year earlier, died after a prolonged illness that forced him to take his bed last October. Until his illness he had been active in looking after his interests and had never actually retired, although he sold all of his fine herd of Hereford cattle in 1920 when he moved his residence permanently to Cisco. Prior to that time he had maintained the family home on the ranch, which covered sections of both Eastland and Stephens counties, but had brought his family to Cisco at various times for the purpose of placing his children near the educational facilities here.

He was a native of New Hampshire, and was born at New Durham, in that state, March 7, 1851. After educating himself there, he moved at 19 years of age, to Boston where he lived 11 years before moving to Hamilton county, Texas in 1880, and to Stephens county in 1884. There he built a modest herd into one of the finest Hereford herds in this part of the state.

He was first married to Miss Fannie M. Sampson, of New Durham, N. H., who was the mother of the five children who survive him. After her death in 1908 he was married to Miss Emma L. Erewster, of Wolfboro, N. H., who survives him.

The five children are: John I. Chesley, Lubbock; Mrs. C. J. O'Connor, Breckenridge; Mrs. Carrie Tipton, Mrs. Fannie Pulley and Mrs. Bernie McCrea, all of Cisco. Active pulp bearers will be: Alex Spears, Vance Littleton, E. J. Poe, R. L. Fossler, T. C. Williams, J. G. Rouse, Edgar Butts, E. P. Crawford.

Honorary pulp bearers will be: J. J. Butts, D. K. Scott, J. C. Horton, C. H. Fee, J. T. Berry, Connie Davis, Lee Owen, Charles Brown, Joe Clements, R. L. Poe, C. D. Phillips, O. W. Shepard, Zed Erwin, Dr. F. E. Clark, Dr. E. L. Graham, E. B. Gude, Alex Ward, R. F. Weddington, Victor B. Gilbert, Hugh White, J. A. Wilson, John Stamps, L. B. Norvell, Joe Kilbourn, T. J. Dean, Fred Shockley, Aaron Mayhew, Will St. John, Dr. W. P. Lee, K. H. Pittard, John F. Patterson, T. F. O'Brian, O. G. Lawson, A. C. Murrell, all of Cisco; John Hart, J. E. Lewis, Eastland; John Garner, L. M. Dyke, Dallas; R. P. Rice, A. P. Shockley, Hamilton; W. K. Richard, S. Bush and J. P. Parkhill, Breckenridge.

Supr. R. N. Cluck announced this morning that “out of respect for Mr. Chesley and in appreciation for what he has done for the school” the last period of the school schedule would be dismissed this afternoon to give all who wish an opportunity to attend the funeral services. The schools normally dismiss at 3:30 each afternoon which is the hour set for the funeral today.

3 MILLIONS INVOLVED IN C. AND R. SALE

HOUSTON, Jan. 26. — Sale of 1,400 acres of their east Texas acreage to the Atlantic Oil Producing company for $3,000,000 was announced today by J. H. Reynolds, of the Cranfill-Reynolds company.

At the price involved, the acreage brought slightly more than $2,100 an acre. The Atlantic's purchase is one of the largest transactions to take place in east Texas acreage.

“The deal was completed in Dallas Monday night,” Reynolds said. “It was a straight sale involving $3,000,000.”

Completion of the deal came after a conference between Tom E. Cranfill, of Dallas, Reynolds and Atlantic officials. Negotiations for the sale have been under way for some time.

FORMERLY HAD OFFICES HERE

The firm of Cranfill and Reynolds was formally located in Cisco with offices in the Cisco Banking company building. Large interests acquired in southeast and east Texas later prompted the company to move its offices to Houston.

The company has large holdings in this section of the state. Friends of Mr. Reynolds were inclined to believe that the east Texas transaction would result in Mr. Reynolds returning his home in Cisco. Mr. Reynolds owns a residence here.

CYR INVADES CAPITAL TO PRESS CLAIM

BATON ROUGE, La., Jan. 26. — Dr. Paul M. Cyr, claimant to the governorship of Louisiana, invaded the capital today, presumably in a move to wrest the office from Alvin O. King, who occupies the executive mansion behind armed guards.

Cyr arrived at noon and registered at the Heidelberg hotel, the same at which King makes his home when he is not at the governor's office in the mansion.

It was the first time Cyr had come in open defiance of guardsmen during the three months he has battled for the governorship. He was accompanied by his attorneys.

TARIFF ON OIL AND BUS TAX ARE ADVANCE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26. — A tariff on oil imports and federal taxation of motor buses were advocated before the house ways and means committee today as sources of additional government income.

The proposed motor bus tax was opposed vigorously by Ivan Owen, of Minneapolis, representing the National Association of Motor Bus Operators. The oil tariff was urged by representatives of the domestic independent oil industry, headed by Wirt Franklin of Oklahoma City.

New Outbreak Arouses Hawaii

HONOLULU, Jan. 26. — Angry citizens charged that Hawaii's reform movement was a “political smokescreen” today after a new outbreak of trouble in Honolulu was climaxed by a near riot between white residents and natives.

A fight involving a woman, during which a prominent stock broker assertedly was beaten by a navy lieutenant and the latter's brother, led to the uprising of Hawaiians, police claim.

THE ANTI-TRUST SUITS.

"Are Texas laws too drastic?" inquires Peter Molyneux' Texas Weekly in connection with Att.-Gen. Allred's suit against seventeen oil companies and associations for alleged violation of the Texas anti-trust laws in having adhered to the Federal Trade commission's code of practices for distributors of oil products. The periodical declines to condemn Mr. Allred for his action but takes the position that there is probably something not quite right with the state's anti-trust laws although implying that perhaps Mr. Allred's is a bit too zealous in the interest of a political record as a "trust-buster."

Texas, the Weekly points out, has approximately five per cent of the nation's population, a little more than five per cent of its automobiles, over six per cent of its highways, and consumes 5-6 per cent of the gasoline used in motor vehicles in the United States. This means that 94.4 per cent of the nation's gasoline consumption is in the other 47 states of the union. On the other hand Texas produces 24 per cent of the petroleum produced in the United States, so that more than four-fifths of the petroleum produced in Texas is marketed in the other states.

"And the laws of those states, apparently, permit these Texas products to be sold under the rules provided in the Federal Trade commission's code, with no suspicion being raised that this is in any way inimicable to the interests of the consumers of those products in those 47 states," declares the Weekly.

"It is more than likely," continues the Weekly, "that at least a part of the answer is to be found in the character of the Texas laws."

The reader is reminded that the laws under which the oil companies are being prosecuted apply to corporations of all kinds, to industries and every character of business with the sole exception of agriculture. If the state laws are more drastic than those of other states, the Weekly asserts, they cannot be said to encourage industrial development, which is certainly needed with the borders of the state. It suggests that chambers of commerce and business leaders, in the immediate future, inaugurate a move to bring a study of our anti-trust laws and other laws affecting business and industry with the purpose of determining to what extent and in what ways they are hurtful to the best interests of the people.

"The time has come for plain speaking and decisive acting," declares the Weekly. "The economic leaders of the state and of every community in the state, big and little, should get on the job."

"Texas Opinion," a new Texas editorial digest takes this view of the situation:

"If any of the provisions of the Texas anti-trust laws actually have been violated by the oil industry, Mr. Allred's oath of office requires him to take action. He may enjoin further violations, particularly if these violations were committed in innocence, or he may tear our principal industry limb from limb and throw the pieces to the wolves of perdition. Under the law both courses are open to him. Either course will discharge his duty, either course should satisfy his conscience; and if he discovers he erred upon the side of severity, he will win friends by admitting his mistake and, in accordance therewith, amending his petition."

AMERICAN LEGION PROMOTES SAFETY.

The American Legion, with its 11,000 posts throughout the country, is aiding in the welfare activities of the nation. It has made safety one of its major activities; not National Safety, but individual safety in the home, in the school and particularly on the highways and streets of our land. Recent estimates show that 100,000 persons were killed in the United States by all accidents in 1931, of which approximately 35,000 were victims of the automobile.

This new Legion activity has received the warm endorsement of all agencies devoted to accident prevention and safety education. Substantial evidence of this is supplied by the fact that the National Bureau of Casualty and Safety Underwriters in New York, in furtherance of its conservation campaign, has furnished the Legion with a comprehensive text book and guide. Under the title of "Community Safety Activities for American Legion Posts," the Bureau has not only outlined what the Legion might do in attacking the serious problem, but suggests how it may be done.

Every phase of the subject is clearly and definitely covered in this attractive pamphlet of 38 pages, which is now going to every post in the United States. The situation in industry, the home, the school and the street are all explained with suggestions for programs looking to improvement. Principal emphasis is laid on street and highway accidents. Legionnaires are advised to get back of constructive legislation of all kinds, to cooperate with the authorities and other civic associations in working out indefinite, scientific traffic enforcement, to back the schools in safety education and to labor for improved conditions in homes. The Legion has undertaken a great work and its efforts will make life a little safer for us all.

OTHER OPINIONS

TWENTY-FOUR ALREADY.
There are, according to the United Press no less than twenty-four avowed candidates for the three places as congress-man-at-large that Texas is to elect this year. How many more will throw their hats (or bonnets) into the ring before election day we may only conjecture.

"Not Responsible for Hats, Coats, Umbrellas, etc."

sure. In Missouri where all of her thirteen congressmen are to be elected at-large more than 100 patriots have announced they are ready to sacrifice themselves on their country's altar for the pitiful sum of $10,000 a year. Of course there are some other perquisites besides the salary. Some member of the family can be made secretary at $5,000 per year and several nephews and cousins can be provided for with good berths. According to the budget committee each congressman costs on an average $35,000 a year. The disbursing of this large sum is in the hands of the congressman.

It is no wonder, therefore, that there are patriots ready to serve. Among the candidates already spoken of we see the names of three of the gentler sex: Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, Miss Phoebe K. Karner and Mrs. Martin Dies Teal. Also the "wood and water toter" is reported as ready to file along with Ceylone Darks, George Furl and numerous others.

Our election law does not provide how the Democratic party shall select these candidates as it was presumed the legislature would redistrict the state. One crowd of candidates want the nomination to go to the three aspirants polling the largest number of votes in the first primary, while others want a run-off primary of the two highest for each place. It is up to the Democratic executive committee to make the decision as to which method shall prevail. With three or four dozen candidates in the field if the three highest in the first primary are declared the nominees, we are almost certain to have congressmen that the majority of the voters will not want. We fail to see why these offices should not be in the same category as those of other state offices and have run-off primaries. Even then we may have to decide between candidates not to our liking. It is understood ex-Governor Ferguson favors the plan of the three highest in the first primary receiving the nomination. It is not difficult to believe this to be true. — Marshall News.

Did You Ever Stop to Think?

C. G. Roseberry, editor of the Shawnee (Oklahoma) News, says: "That in a recent survey by a certain newspaper to determine the features which had the greatest reader interest, it was found that advertising ranked near the top. People are evidently interested in supply as many of their wants as possible with the least outlay of money. To do so they read advertisements religiously.

The most important thing business can do to hasten good times is to go forward with a full head of steam into an advertising campaign that will be extensive enough to inspire confidence. Hoarded money and timid money must find its way into the channel of business and a sufficient volume of advertising will turn the trick. Money, the product of brain and

Trick Rackets Net Billions

CHICAGO, Jan. 26. — "Business rackets" that have cost the public approximately a billion dollars in 1931 will be the chief problem facing the National Association of Direct Selling companies convention here Jan. 29.

H. J. Bligh, Chicago publisher, and a past-president of the organization, says that a nation-wide survey shows "promoters of trick business schemes, classified as rackets, gleaned a billion dollar harvest last year from the small fry."

Prize contests were one means of obtaining mailing lists, he pointed out, and fees for entry in these contests and for sales samples were one means of getting money. Home-work plans, employment schemes and other promotional officers drew his criticism.

"The unemployed and other persons hard pressed for money, who could ill afford to lose even small sums, were among the majority of victims," said Bligh. "The business racket promoter invariably bases his appeal on the willingness of the needy to 'try anything to earn a little money.' Usually he seeks small individual sums, but goes after a great volume of returns."

Evidence gathered by a survey will be submitted to the Federal Trade Commission and Post Office Department, according to Bligh, who placed Chicago's contribution to these rackets at about $15,000,000 in 1931.

41 MILES without Water...

Conoco Germ Processed Oil Saves Motor

When Walter H. Freed reached Pueblo, Colorado, after a 41-mile drive from Colorado Springs, his car was so hot it had to be put into gear before it would stop!

He had plenty of Conoco Germ Processed Oil in the car. No steam was coming from the radiator, so he did not suspect the cooling system.

But a garage man found not a drop of water in the radiator! The 41 miles had been driven without water in the radiator—only the oil to keep the motor from burning up.

Conoco Germ Processed Oil withstood this ordeal! Inspection of the motor revealed no damage done.

Convincing evidence of Germ Processed Oil's stability, of its sure protection under the most trying conditions! Proof that Conoco Germ Processed Oil offers you the safest lubrication for your car.

The oil that protects motors through such ordeals will lubricate your car better in every-day driving. For peace of mind, for economy and long motor life, change now to Conoco Germ Processed Oil at the sign of the Conoco Red Triangle.

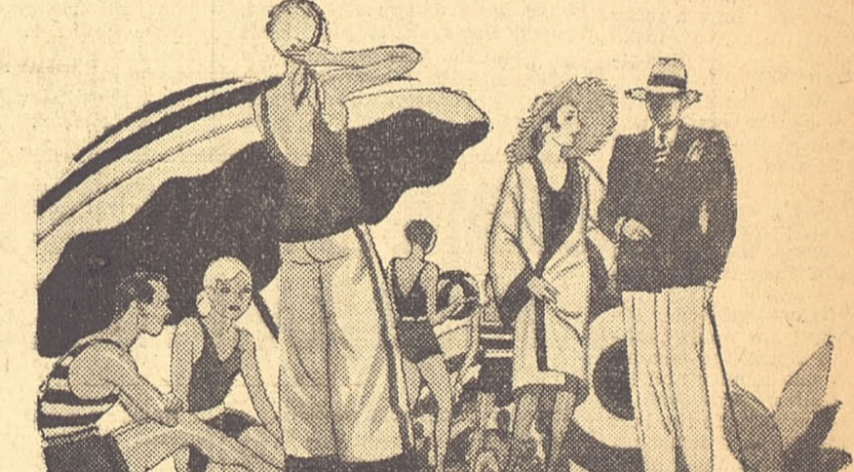

We neither encourage "dry radiator" experiments nor guarantee success under all conditions. But unsolicited letters from motorists, now in our files, testify to this and hundreds of other unusual tests of Conoco Germ Processed Oil—runs of ten to over fifty miles with the crankcase empty.

THREE KINDS OF LOVE

by KAY CLEAVER STRAHAN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Ann and Cecily Fenwick have four years supported themselves. Mary-Frances, their younger sister, and their grandparents, known as "Kos" and "Grand." Because of this financial responsibility, Ann, who is 28, is unable to marry Phil Eeroyd, young lawyer to whom she has been engaged for eight years. Cecily, 22, loves Barry McKel, an engineer, but when he proposes she refuses to name their wedding date for the same reason.

Mary-Frances, 15, and still in school, believes herself in love with Earl De Armount, vaudeville actor whom she has met without the knowledge of her sisters. He urges her to leave home and become his stage partner.

Ann and Phil quarrel when she hears Letty King, who works in Phil's office building, address him with endearments. Ann tries to forget Earl by going about with Kenneth Smith, rich and attentive.

Mary-Frances agrees to go away with De Armount. The same day Cecily quarrels with her grandfather and drives away with Barry in his car.

Kenneth Smith asks Ann to marry him and she refuses.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XLII

The front hall, when Ann came into it, was chill and dim and dusty as usual, and poked through a hole on the hall rack was the note Ann had fearfully expected. Her only thought, as she reached for it, was that it had been odd of Cecily to leave it there where either Grand or Rosalie might have found it first. Instead of pinning it to the wall as prescribed by convention, she had read the "Dear, dear girl," and through the first lines before she realized that the note was not from Cecily. She had to go back and begin it over again.

"Dear dear girls: Mrs. Carmichael felt that fresh air would be beneficial for Grand's weakened condition, so she has very kindly taken us for an outing in their car. We are to call for Mr. Carmichael and, according to their delightful plans, to go on and dine with Mrs. Day in that quaint, charming place where they live. Guests are always welcome there if notification is given in advance. As I write, dear Grand declares that he feels almost himself again. However, all things considered, I felt that for more reasons than one, our absence from home, this first evening, would be best for us all. Darlings, do not misunderstand your Rosalie. Our hearts are wide open to our three, as always. Only Grand's physical strength, and his have spirit, is being taken into consideration. And this for you Cecily dear. All day we had hoped and hoped to hear from you. We were disappointed, but—"

About there Ann stopped reading and folded the paper carefully in her fingers and dropped it on the floor and ran, too fast, up the stairs and down the hall to Cecily's room. Cecily was not there, nor had she been there since her hurried departure from it that morning. Ann put the pillows and turned them over and searched the pin cushion before she went to her own room. No note was to be found. She returned to Cecily's room, and hung the limp pajamas on a hook, and made the bed, and (died, aimlessly and told herself over and over that Cecily would have to come home; that she could not go about, anywhere, in her old blue bathrobe and green satin mules.

Frightened suddenly, at the notion that the telephone might ring and she might fail to hear it, she ran downstairs and there became foolishly, all but undeniably lonesome. She had a mind, she had a good mind to run over to the Hill's for half an hour—visit with Mrs.

Hill, see Mary-Frances and ask about the history examination. But suppose Cecily should come home while she was away? She could leave a note. "Cecily, I've run over to see Mrs. Hill." But why should she go to see Mrs. Hill? Cissy might, and fairly, think it odd that Ann should choose today to go paying neighborhood calls.

"People could go into shops and buy clothes—dresses and shoes and stockings and hats—but they couldn't go shopping in bathrobes and slippers. Was Barry the sort who could shop in ladies' wear departments? Who would do so? One could never tell. Cecily would not be so extravagant. Cecily had no money. Barry's money—Cissy surely wouldn't? One never could tell.

"Thinking of money? Not so hot, talking about money. . . I've waded it, Ann, and all yours— That had been a bad dream. Deliberately she had turned it into a dream—a funny, doggy dream. Thinking of money—This was only June. Other girls' lost jobs and found new ones. Advertisements. Twelve years' experience. If Cissy married? If Cissy did not marry? Very-Fancy Educational Fund. Not to be touched, not to be touched. It went like a tune. The finest school in the country for Mary-Frances Switzerland. Pretty dresses—travel—a chance to meet the nicest sort of people. She might telephone to Mary-Frances at Ermitage and ask about the history examination. The girls were probably studying. That wouldn't matter—just for a moment. If Cissy should try to get the home number and find the line busy? She should have stayed in the office. Cissy would try to call her there until 5 o'clock. She looked at her watch. Ten minutes after 5. Cissy could be coming any minute now. She had to come home. She could not go about in her old bathrobe. It might be easier to sit on the porch and wait for her. She could have the door open in order to hear the telephone if it should ring.

So, with the door propped wide Ann sat on the porch and tried to insist to herself that this heavy, enveloping oppression was nervous non-sense, and succeeded in bringing up from the dreadful depths, where such things wait the thought of an accident to Cecily and Barry in his car. Over a bank. Another car coming too fast. An attempted passing at a turn. Such things happened all the time. Every day such things were in the papers. People could . . . in bathrobes. It explained everything.

She got to her feet and began to pace up and down the porch. She might telephone to the hospital. "A young, lovely girl in a blue bathrobe—No. . . Have any accidents been reported? A young, lovely girl in a blue bathrobe?"

No. . . Earl DeArmount, wearing his brown striped suit opened the door of his car, and when Mary-Frances had climbed in he slumped the door shut and said, "You little sweeties you! Crises! I was scared to death you wouldn't show up again."

"I promised I'd come," said Mary-Frances. "Where's my overnight bag?"

"I put it in the back along with mine. Your little bitse bag alongside my big bag. You ain't sorry, are you, baby?"

"Sorry for what?" questioned Mary-Frances.

"That your big bag—mine, I mean, and your little bitse bag are along side by side like two buddies."

"No," said Mary-Frances. "Say, hon, you never told your chum nor anything that we were making Mendel Springs this evening did you?"

"Course I didn't. I told her Blumount, like you said."

"Atta little sweet baby! I hinted around the garage about Blumount, asking the road, and so on—see? And I told my hand-lady that I was making Blumount on account of a business transaction tonight. So, that's, O K—see, if your folks should go making inquiries. But I don't hardly think they will, do you?"

"I don't think so," said Mary-Frances. "They're very philosophical—specially my sisters. I guess they'll just say, 'Well, if she's gone, she's gone,' and that will be all there'll be to it."

"Sure, that's all. And I'm telling you, hon, you'll never regret this day as long as you live—see? It will be a red letter day in your life—see? One big red letter day."

Mary-Frances did not answer that. They went riding along together at 40 miles an hour.

"Say, hon," Earl questioned, "you haven't got any little wrights or anything, have you?"

"No," said Mary-Frances. "What time do you think we'll get to Mendel Springs?"

"Ought to make it around 7 or a little later, barring tire trouble I got to confess the tires aren't so good—but I ain't buying new tires for But's car."

Mary-Frances did not answer that, either. They had gone another mile before she so much as signed.

Earl said, "You'll have to excuse me, hon, for not being able to chat much. Anything over 25 and I give my 'tention to the road ahead. That's my motto. See? Anything over 25 and I give my 'tention to the road ahead. All the traveling I've done I've never had but one slight accident—see? That was the other guy's fault. Give your 'tention to the road ahead and you won't have any troubles—see?"

"Yes," said Mary-Frances. "Do we come to a town before we come to Mendel Springs?"

"Wendel Springs ain't a town hon. It just kind of a big hotel on the order of the Harvey Houses on the Santa Fe. Trains stop there, and the passengers can get off and eat, if they want; or, if it ain't meal time the passengers can get a drink from the miniature springs. What a drink or two of that stuff does for a man's stomach is a miracle. That's what it is—see?—a miracle. That's why we're stopping there tonight. We could make Topnot, easy; but my summeck has gone back on me. 'I know,' said Mary-Frances, 'nothing will fix me up like some of that water. I'm going to fill up on it tonight—see? And damn!' said Earl.

A fire had blown out. Repairing it took a long time, as such things go, because it needed to be patched. The two big tires, covered and sticking away out at the back, were carried, he explained for appearances only. They were in worse condition than those now in use on the car.

"Good thing," he said, when at last they were off again, "that we weren't doing more than 45 back there or we might have had trouble when that thing busted."

"I was thinking," said Mary-Frances, "that if we should come to Mendel Springs it might be a good plan to stop and have dinner there. Sort of break our trip, you know?"

"New hon. Bum steer. Most of the stuff they serve in these one-horse damps would make the noise sick. Mendel Springs for us. And you'll thank me for it when you see what they set in front of you for one dollar, and served as swell as a dining car. Like a fellow, said, last time we was there, she didn't see how they did it for a dollar."

Russia Found To Be Sexless

BERKLEY, Cal., Jan. 26.—"Russia is sexless."

"The Soviets, despite their lax laws of marriage and divorce, are more moral than Americans, with their morbid, abnormal interest in sex."

That's the answer of Joan London Malamuth, daughter of Jack London, to the charges of immorality hurled against modern Russia.

Mrs. Malamuth saw the Soviet experiment in marriage, women in industry, and the five-year plan at work. She lived in Moscow several months. There she and her husband, Prof. Charles Malamuth, patched up their shattered romance. Dropping a divorce action they have come back to their home here.

"Monogamy is not doomed in Russia," she said.

"Easy divorce is not breaking up the home nor is it leading to promiscuity. Marriage is little affected by the fact that getting a divorce is a mere formality of a few minutes."

"The average Russian is just as faithful as ever to his marriage vows. He takes one wife for life, equally as seriously as does the American with stricter divorce laws. The families rear children and are for the most part decidedly permanent."

The much-discussed charges of an American engineer's wife that Russia has degenerated into rank immorality were branded ridiculous by Mrs. Malamuth.

EVERY WOMAN faces this question

"How do I look to other people?" If you have a lovely skin, attractive eyes, and plenty of enthusiasm, you need not worry.

So many women, though, risk their beauty by neglect of constipation. It often causes loss of pep, sallow skins, dull eyes, pimples.

Yet constipation can be overcome by eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. This cereal provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and Vitamin B which tones the intestinal tract. ALL-BRAN also supplies iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Special cooking processes make it finer, more palatable. It is not habit-forming.

Surely this is safer than abusing the system with pills and drugs—so often habit-forming.

Two tablespoonfuls daily will correct most types of constipation. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Speaking of the Weather--

by CHARLES TALMAN of the U.S. Weather Bureau

Maps, Charts, Bulletins, Reports all figure in Weather Bureau work. Many are vital to farmers and economists.

Every week the U. S. Weather Bureau issues an illuminating sheet called the "Weekly Weather and Crop Bulletin." This is published chiefly for agricultural interests, but it contains much of general value.

There is a summary of the week's weather, with a statement of outstanding abnormalities, particularly of temperature and rainfall over appreciable areas.

The temperature map is a peculiar one. Shaded portions indicate regions warmer than normal, and unshaded regions cooler than normal.

In the preparation of this bulletin the officials in charge at designated central weather bureau stations in each state collect information weekly from many special and cooperative meteorological observers.

In addition there is published a local weather and crop summary at each state center containing information in more detail as to conditions prevailing in the respective states.

Novel Golf Course Promised by Expert

DALLAS, Jan. 26.—Something different in the way of golf course construction in this part of the country is the promise of Perry D. Maxwell, nationally known links expert, who is laying out the 36-hole Walnut Hill County club course here.

Walnut Hill, which is to be a moderately priced club designed strictly for golfing purposes without extensive social activities, will have 36 green sown in the Bermuda now in common use in this section.

Maxwell is a staunch advocate of Bent grass, conceded to be the finest putting surface known, but he is skeptical about spring planting and wants to have the Walnut Hill course ready for play next June.

Each nine holes of the new course will begin and end at the clubhouse. An added feature will be a 600-yard practice ground which will have a putting green on each end.

CAMOUFLAGED BOOZE
HARTFORD, Conn., Jan. 26.—Bootleggers operating in this section have developed camouflage to a fine art, recent seizures have convinced police. Not content with coloring ordinary alcohol and plastering the bottles with realistic labels and stamps, the bootleggers are now putting their product up in elaborately moulded bottles, encased in painted tin cans, to imitate a J. O. Barnhill, and O. M. Hunter brand "just off the boat."

JANUARY IS 'INVOICE TIME' FOR BUSINESS

The month of January each year is usually "invoice time" with practically every business establishment said Miss Lucile Self, secretary of the Retail Merchants' association.

"This means that every yard of goods, every spool of thread every package of needles, every pair of shoes, and hose, every article of men's apparel, dresses, hats, and accessories in the dry goods stores every ounce of medicine, every bottle of hair tonic, every item of personal utility in the drug stores; every can of vegetables or fruit, every pound of sugar and salt, coffee, every sack of grain and bale of hay, every pound of coal, every bushel of potatoes, and every article of food in grocery and feed stores, as well as every commodity of every kind in use and sold throughout the various business establishments of our community must be counted, weighed, listed, and figured up on a cost-plus basis to enable the merchant and businessman to know where he is at in the beginning of a new year."

"In connection with this 'invoice time' for commodities there is always taken an 'invoice' of 'accounts and bills receivable'; and this listing and analysis of this listing is far more important to every businessman than is the actual stock of merchandise on hand.

"Why? Because these are the 'intangible assets' from which he must get the 'fuel' to keep his business on a firm foundation.

"This 'fuel' is what 'you and I' furnish as a part of 'Invoice Time' in our community. Just what does our ledger page on the books of our creditors show this first of another new year?

"Have we been so handling our credit courtesies in the past that our merchant need have no hesitancy in saying of us: 'I wish all our accounts were like that one?' Or have we been negligent in paying our accounts contracted so that the merchant cannot feel he can depend upon getting his money when we said we would pay it?"

"Have we bought more things on credit during the past year than our income justified? If we have—then of course we cannot pay promptly. None of us can make a dollar pay more than 100 cents worth of accounts. It just naturally won't stretch that way.

"If we have found ourselves deeper in debt than we thought, have we gone to our creditor and offered to give him a note, or other evidence that we desired to do our dead level best? If not, why not 'do it now' so that this January 'invoice time' will show our page in better condition than with a long past due account on it.

"January is also 'invoice time' with your Credit Bureau in your community. What the ledger page of your creditor shows will likewise show on your master card in the Credit Bureau files.

"Why not make an extra effort to pay that account—or if you find you cannot pay it in full, pay a part of it, and make arrangements that are satisfactory to your creditor so that kind of report can be made by your creditor to the Credit Bureau at 'invoice time'.

"Buy thoughtfully, so you can pay promptly.

"You make your credit rating—the Credit Bureau keeps the record."

Equitable Tax Program Sought

FORT WORTH, Jan. 25.—A tax program that will seek to place the burden of taxation on the back of the man most able to bear it, will be discussed here during the convention of the State Tax Payers' association of Texas opening Jan. 27.

Farmers and business men who are interested in tax adjustment on a more equitable basis are expected to attend the meeting.

M. J. Jones, of Dallas, is president of the organization.

Reduction of taxes, just compensation for every office holder, and other public employees, just rendition of property so that taxes may be equitably distributed, defeat of all bond issues for the present provision of public schools, indorsement of income taxation, return of school taxes as per public enrollment in attendance for free terms of schools in district, court reform, economy in government by doing away with duplication in departments, bureaus and commissions and abolition of the fee system, will be the high points of discussion.
